INSTITUTIONS VISITED

Moyamensing Prison

Census: 810

Male 695 Female 74

Warden—Richard Dennison

Moyamensing Prison was built in 1835 as a jail, and was not meant to be a prison. Today it is an outmoded, disgraceful type of construction, dangerous to the health and well-being of the inmates, and the welfare of the Community.

Prisoners are housed in tiny, inadequately ventilated cells, which do not permit them the proper air demanded by health authorities. This condition cannot be improved without breaking down the construction, because the walls are made of large stone blocks, and the cells are very close to each other. Remove one block for each cell and the building would collapse under the strain.

It is difficult to imagine how the prisoners can breathe on a hot day in one of these dungeon-like cells.

Warden Dennison clearly has a very difficult situation here, with the odds against him. The cells are not only tiny, but overcrowded. In the South Block which houses untried cases, untried non-criminal types are often celled with the criminal. Severe mental cases are also housed here.

There are 40 to 50 juveniles, averaging 16 and 17 years of age, and they cannot be properly segregated, due to the lack of space.

The Bullpen, or processing room was meant to accommodate 15 to 20, and daily has as many as 70.

The regular doctor told us he was leaving because of poor facilities and overwork. There is no full-time doctor.

Recommendations

Definitely a new prison is needed. There is no way of improving these old buildings physically, and the obvious dangers ahead from over-crowding call for immediate action to avoid disaster.

Nurses and clerical help are badly needed. The medical help is mostly inmate, and are not adequately trained. There are only 3 social workers, and a need for more guards. The latter is an imperative necessity for security.

There is only 1 painter, 1 plumber, 1 brick mason, 1 electrician and contrary to law, one engineer, when two are required at all time for safety. A steam fitter is needed when the engineer is sick, or overtime requires it. There are no laundry facilities for men. The laundry will accommodate the needs of only 450, thus compelling the men to do their own laundry in these tiny cells.

Holmesburg Prison

Census: 1395

Warden—Fred Krueger

Warden Krueger and Captain James Stott are doing an excellent job here.

Here again you have overcrowded conditions. However, the Grand Jury was gratified to note the trades taught inmates, and the excellent type of professional, paid supervisors. The attempt to place every prisoner in a work suited to his capabilities is commendable, thus affording a real attempt at rehabilitation. The quality of food served looked good, and was a revelation to some of us. The bakery supplies Riverview and the House of Correction.

The prison's affiliation with the School of Correspondence, and the coordination of trades with study by the appointment of two teachers to Holmesburg is also very commendable.

The laundry, bakery, weaving, shoe and carpentry shops, the school building and hospital are well run, and clean. The farm and cannery are an excellent example. It supplies other institutions.

Recommendations

Holmesburg, like all old prisons, is badly in need of new extensions, or an entirely new prison for security reasons. There are only 720 cells, and 1395 prisoners are far too many to be reasonably housed. We particularly emphasize this.

Fifteen more guards are needed. We were told that guards are lacking when some have vacations, shifts and days off.

There is a definite need of more trained medical help.

Exhaust fans are needed in the kitchen.

We feel Warden Krueger and his staff are achieving fine results in spite of the unwholesome and dangerous overcrowding and undermanned force.

Census: 800

Here again, as in Holmesburg, classification according to capabilities for work is apparent throughout the shops, and the quality of food and medical care is good.

In the machine and paint shops we saw articles manufactured, such as cabinets and table tops. In the laundry, we saw women shrinking cloth for use in uniforms. Incidentally, the laundry for Riverview is taken care of here. An opportunity for female inmates to learn a trade is also available.

The new chapel was singularly impressive, and we think it exemplifies rehabilitation more than any other phase of that field.

We wish to express our thanks to Warden Charles Day and Social Service Supervisor Theodore Chapman for their earnest and genuine desire to help their charges. Also, thanks to Superintendent of Matrons Doris Whitney for her excellent work with the female inmates.

Recommendations

Here you have the same lack of personnel as in Holmesburg and Moyamensing. Fifteen more are badly needed. In the social service there are only 3 assistants for 800 inmates.

Re-distribution of prisoners is strongly indicated here.

The young boys work close by with older men. We strongly recommend these boys be sent to other institutions where the program is planned around their age group.

Our attention was drawn to the need for solid doors in each cell with openings, of course. They used to have them, and they were substituted for the open latticed variety. One mentally disturbed inmate can arouse everyone a whole night.

The cement floor in the kitchen is cracked, and detracts from the otherwise sanitary appearance, and the use of garbage cans for cooking, although perfectly clean, are too hard to handle because of the faulty small handles on each side.

Riverview

It was a fine experience for this Grand Jury to learn of the change in this institution, where trained personnel has replaced the untrained of so few years ago. The residents enlightened us as we toured around this excellent institution with keen observations.

Superintendent Raymond J. Groller has a gigantic job to perform and he deserves our compliments for the changed conditions since he has been in office.

Recommendations

Riverview needs 56 more employees, a full time doctor, dentist, chiropodist, and 8 hospital aides. Social workers are in demand. With 987, three more are required, particularly because 172 residents are feebleminded.

We noted the need for many more comfortable chairs, a big item to old folks.

Steam tables are needed in the cafeteria, also donations of books and reading matter.

There is a nice dual chapel, fine hobby shop, and the entertainment and library seem adequate.

The dining area and kitchen facilities are excellent.

Philadelphia General Hospital

The Grand Jurors are grateful to Mr. Rodzenko, the Administrative head of this excellent hospital, for an enlightening and gratifying tour, in the absence of Dr. F. Lloyd Mussells.

Here progress at modernization, such as the new Blockley Building, was a heartening sight, after our dismal tour of Moyamensing. We were delighted to hear that decreasing demands in tuberculosis admissions will free that building for other needed purposes.

The wards, kitchen facilities and food were perfection in cleanliness and quality.

Because of the lack of space, numerous mentally ill must be refused, but this is a problem because of lack of transferral space in our mental institutions. Our municipal hospital and prisons are harrassed because of this problem.

Mr. Rodzenko pointed out the nurse shortage. If nurses' pay were increased, this problem would be solved.

CONCLUSIONS AND SUMMARIZATION

1. Our gratitude to Assistant District Attorney Armand Della Porta for his patience and graciousness in advising us, and conducting these hearings. His obviously dedicated attention to his work, his understanding of human frailty, and his never failing courtesy to witnesses and ourselves, was our keynote in behavior and courtroom conduct. Thanks also to his able, hard-working staff. Similar thanks go to Assistant District Attorney John R. Sutton.

From our observation of the entire District Attorney's Office, we conclude that it is extremely understaffed and overworked. By comparison to D.A.'s Offices in other jurisdiction, both the Attorney's staff and the clerical personnel should be doubled, and this should be done immediately. Salaries of the entire personnel leave a lot to be desired. As they stand now, the office is perennially training new personnel because as soon as a typist or stenographer, for example, is trained she leaves for private employment where her salary is usually double. In spite of all this, we find that Mr. Victor H. Blanc and each and everyone of his assistants are doing an excellent job as the chief law enforcement agency of our great City. We can all be proud of this office.

Our warmest thanks also to Court Officers D. Benjamin Bocchicchio and John Durso. Both were singularly kind and patient at all times in face of the pressure of their work.

2. We were appalled to note the numbers of sex offenders. Their outrageous preying on children, plus the fact that some of their records showed previous arrests on the same charges, compel us to plead with the Courts to pass heavier sentences on these offenders. The State of Maryland goes so far as to have Capital Punishment for rape.

3. The Senate Committee on Juvenile Delinquency has noted with alarm the increase of these youthful offenders since movie censorship has been on the decrease. Our own State has abolished movie censorship, and we feel it has badly erred in judgment. Our neighborhood theatres are showing some flagrantly indecent films, which lead us to plead with City Council to enact legislation to control this situation.

So-called "comic books" when purused carefully, are suggestive and obscene. The definite relationship between this form of literature, indecent films, and Juvenile Delinquency has been definitely established through the painstaking efforts of the Senate Sub-committee. Please take note, City Council, to the added dangers which confront our youth, and do something, namely, enact legislation immediately, and set a good example for other cities.

4. We propose that the campaign against intoxicated drivers be pursued in as relentless a fashion as possible. Here we commend the police on their excellent performance in tracking them down. The senseless loss of life and limb caused by these irresponsible drivers is appalling.

5. The entire police and park guard forces, and particularly the narcotics division and vice squad are to be congratulated for their excellence in law enforcement. We strongly urge that private doctors be permitted to treat dope addicts more extensively. Failure to do so has often driven the addict into the underworld to obtain his needs. England has coped successfully with this narcotics problem, and has far fewer numbers of addicts percentage wise to ours due to the simple fact that more private doctors there treat them.

6. We recommend a raise in pay for all Court Officers in lieu of the lack of overtime pay for the extra hours they work.

We also recommend a raise in pay for firemen, policemen and park guards. These guardians of our peace and property have poor salaries to compensate their strenuous and dangerous work in protection the Community.

7. We visited Court rooms, Jury rooms, Probation offices and other facilities in City Hall and found them to be generally inadequate. This antiquated building is lacking in space, and modern comforts. For example, the Court rooms are unbearably warm, poorly ventilated and where the windows are opened, they are so noisy that it's impossible to hear the witnesses. Court rooms have no facilities for attorneys to talk to witnesses with any degree of privacy. The jury rooms are generally small and dingy. The inadequacies are such that space facilities have to be rented out in other buildings. Air-conditioners, paint jobs, microphones, and a good overhauling are recommended. Most Court rooms throughout the Country are air-conditioned; yet Philadelphia lags behind. A new City Hall is the only answer.

8. We wish to draw attention to another need in this City Hall, namely the serious lack of space for the Probation Department. Here you find probation officers sitting at desks so close to one another that privacy is ruled out. How can witnesses confide their private remarks when they are aware of others probably inadvertently listening? At least twice the amount in square feet is required to do a good job.

Each worker has as many as close to 200 case loads to take care of monthly. How can this amount be taken care of efficiently by one person?

The physical limitations and lack of privacy are bad enough, but include the lack of officers and clerical help, and you cannot possibly expect the Probation Department to function properly. This is one of the most vital departments in criminal rehabilitation. We urge that steps be taken immediately to remedy the situation.

We also found the Psychiatric Department lacking in space. Presentence investigation at the request of the Judges, and often mental examination for homicide cases at the request of the D.A. are held here. A great deal depends on this department; yet, all they have in the way of space are three small rooms to function.

9. We, the members of the August Grand Inquest, realizing the importance and seriousness of our work, trust we have performed it efficiently and conscientiously.

We express our gratitude for the privilege to learn more about our Courts, and to serve the community to the best of our ability. We personnally wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to our Foreman for an important job well done, and our efficient secretary, also Mrs. Florence B. Knapp, Mr. George Kass, Mrs. Margaret Hughes and Mr. Eddie Davis for their important contribution in the preparation of this report.

It has been a privilege to have served in this Grand Jury under the wise guidance of the Honorable John Morgan Davis.

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGES OF THE COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER AND QUARTER SESSIONS OF THE PEACE, FOR THE CITY AND COUNTY OF PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA.

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for the City and County of Philadelphia, September Sessions, 1956, respectfully submit the following report as the result of their term in office.

True, 1207; Ignored, 51; Total, 1258.

Homicides, 8; Narcotics, 24; A & B, Agg. A & B, 168; Robberies, 81; Sex Crimes, 171; Invol. Mans., 16; Burglaries and Larcenies, 184; Deadly Weapons, 68; Drunken Driving, 112; Resisting Arrest, 24; Liquor, 93; Lottery, 148.

INSTITUTIONS VISITED

MOYAMENSING

Census: Male 783

In contrast to physical conditions of the worst sort: overcrowding, dampness, buildings unworthy of repair, are the morale and competency of Warden Dennison and his insufficient staff of ten men. The cleanliness of the prison is remarkable when the overcrowded and understaffed conditions are remembered. The evident excellent maintenance of the institution reflects great credit upon the staff.

How they do it, we do not know; for it was enough to observe Moyamensing, let alone work in it. The crying need is the provision of additional, trained personnel to augment the staff and then a new building to relieve the overcrowded conditions. In the end, this will prove economical of the mighty efforts put forth by the present employees. It will also counteract mistakes possible in the initial interview with a prisoner. The receiving room for incoming prisoners is absolutely inadequate. It is no larger than a small kitchen. Separating and screening of prisoners in this situation are impossible. This condition could conceivably lead to the death of a diabetic or other ill individual, brought here under the misapprehension of intoxication or drug addiction.

It was pointed out to us how the mentally ill and mentally retarded have gradually been removed from the County Prison (except those awaiting completion of "paper work"). This is a magnificent advance.

HOLMESBURG PRISON

Census:	White Male	269
	White Negro	1098
	Total	1367

Warden Fred Krueger and Captain James Stott took us through the medical clinic and ward; printing, baking, weaving, shoe shops, the laundry and school building. There was orderliness in the manner of the prisoners' participation in work details. The equipment in use is first-rate. Much skilled staff work goes into the selection of prisoners for a particular job.

Compliments for the high quality of meals served.

A new penal institution replacing Moyamensing would permit Holmesburg to "come into its own" and operate efficiently. For example, Holmesburg is now forced by lack of accommodations to mix prisoners serving for misdemeanors with those serving for felonies committed.

Census:	White Male	468	Negro Male	236	704
	White Female	42	Negro Female	74	116
		510	Total	310	820

Superintendent of Prisons, Mr. Edward J. Hendrick, talked with us about prison problems. We like his "look to the future" and enlightened approach. We recommend his zeal be backed by City Council in providing more well-trained personnel to carry out all the proper functioning of prisons under his supervision.

We felt the productivity of the prisoners commendable —articles like mattresses made, furniture refinished for institutional use. Especially fine was the work done in cooperation with other city departments—the street barricades constructed and painted for the city traffic department, as an example.

Would exhaust fans be installed here in the kitchen, the paint-peeling condition of the ceiling would be corrected. Attention should be paid to the unsanitary condition of the cracked kitchen floor.

Census	Male	703

On the tour Dr. Fetter led, we saw the new foods administration building which is a lovely, modern sight. It provides a dining-room for staff, students; better facilities for food preparation than the hospital possessed before.

The rehabilitation section needs to be seen to be appreciated. The scenes we saw: a patient trying on artificial limbs; another learning again to speak after a brain injury; a child limbering up on a mat—the same child who was once given up as a fatality.

There is good use of the various clinics here, but Dr. Fetter stated they no sooner make more space for clinic patients that they need still more.

Again, without the provision of more, well-trained personnel, the good points of this huge hospital will be nullified. (Please make salaries commensurate with those other hospitals offer. We need to attract talent to our city's hospital).

RIVERVIEW

Census:	Male	568

No one can visit Riverview without being touched by our aged, indigent population. We feel the residents of Riverview are receiving excellent, loving care. We can imagine a little what a great amount of planning and supervision goes into the work to achieve the cheer and cleanliness observed. 3,000 meals daily is itself a stupendous job. What delicious smells came from the cold storage room—as nice as your grandmother's springhouse.

The new building being dedicated shows how far the city has moved ahead in its concern and planning for the aged.

(We believe volunteer workers could be recruited from civic groups if the matter were publicized).

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

To Assistant District Attorneys Mr. Armand Della Porta and Mr. John R. Sutton, our warmest regards for their great kindness and patience helping us with understanding the law to do our month's work.

We don't know how to thank Court Officers Mr. Michael Januisak and Mr. Ben Bocchicchia for such fine assistance expediting the business of the September 1956 Grand Jury.

Thanks to the House of Correction for a generous midday meal—beef-steak no less.

Thanks to Philadelphia General Hospital for the cafeteria luncheon in the new foods administration building's dining hall.

1. Of all the apparent needs of Moyamensing, Holmes-

burg, House of Correction, Philadelphia General Hospital, Riverview, the first and most urgent is the procurement of additional trained personnel. Please note, we do not say add just more workers to each staff, but hire additional trained, qualified personnel. We wish we could express this so eloquently that urgency would be felt and translated into immediate action. Each staff head of each of the above mentioned institutions expressed the same, primal requisite.

2. Since the Pennsylvania Supreme Court has found our forty-one (41) year old Movie Censorship Statute unconstitutional and since we feel very strongly about the lack of decent selection in the entertainment world—especially movies— we recommend City Council take appropriate measures toward setting up a censorship body which will be constitutional. The close relationship between immoral movies and Juvenile Delinquency has not only been established by a study by a U. S. Senate Sub-committee, but it is our personal experience in our great city.

3. We think that Philadelphia greatly needs a new and functional city hall. (As we write, Mayor Dilworth has proposed new quarters for city offices.) A time comes when present day needs burst through the walls of the past. For example, there are no facilities for attorneys to talk privately with witnesses, great difficulties in acoustics, ventilation, and generally so out-of-date is the building, it cannot perform well its needed functions.

4. After the recent outbreak and attack on a D. A. by a defendent in a court room, we urge added protection provided to safeguard the individuals present.

5. Moyamensing Prison is the weak link in the institutions of this city, and because of its utter inadequacy, seriously interrupts the functioning of the related city institutions. Both Holmesburg Prison and the House of Correction are affected adversely by the situation at Moyamensing. Moyamensing is a security problem, with but ten guards to police a population of more than 700. Moyamensing is physically incapable of any screening of prisoners other than segregation of the more violently disturbed. Recidivists, mentally disturbed prisoners, feeble-minded, juveniles, first offenders, and those charged with misdemeanors and felonies are mingled together in overcrowded cells. With the inadequate accomodations of Moyamensing, nothing else is possible. In this institution any rehabilitory work is impossible. When there are too many offenders to be housed at Moyamensing, they are sent to Holmesburg and the House of Correction. Consequently, unconvicted men are placed with the convicted, and Holmesburg, already crowded, becomes more so.

What is needed, therefore, is a new, modern prison, designed with forethought for the requirements of a growing, metropolitan area. In the meanwhile, we need a House of Detention to take care of the problems we have mentioned above.

In this regard, we heartily congratulate Mr. Harry Shapiro, Secretary of Welfare, for his significant accomplishments so far in alleviating some of the conditions described above. For instance, he has been able to have removed from County Prison in the last couple of months, all the mentally ill, except those who are waiting report of commissions on their sanity. Steps are being taken right now by Mr. Shapiro, together with the Courts and District Attorney, to shorten this waiting period as much as possible. Also, all mentally retarded, except one or two awaiting for execution of proper papers, have been removed. Further, the new reception center at P. G. H. is now prepared to receive all persons including those charged with crime, for the purpose of diagnosis and immediate disposition to one of the three intensive treatment units which are now available for cases in the Philadelphia area. Finally, the recent opening of Wissahickon Hall has helped immensely in relieving the congestion in the psychiatric wards of P. G. H.

6. In the matter of the District Attorney's Office, we concur with the recommendation of the August 1956 Grand Jury. Considerably handicapped is this law enforcement office by inadequate salaries and insufficient help. Clerical salaries allowed are too meager to attract and hold efficient workers. Salary adjustments would ultimately be economical. Satisfied workers would produce stability. Stability would cause cases to move through the office more quickly. This would save money.

7. As laymen, our contacts with our policemen, detectives and all law enforcement agents are slight. Our experience as members of the September Grand Jury has made us see we owe them a debt for their dedication to their work—exposed as they are to more danger than most of us. Particularly commendable and reassuring to us, as average citizens, is the present campaign against drunken driving. (We were most favorably impressed with those members who appeared before us.)

8. It has been brought to our attention that some drivers obtained licenses improperly either by having other qualified drivers to take the test for them, or by obtaining a new license under a fictitious name after their own license had been revoked. We suggest that if photographs and fingerprints were required of each applicant before the issuance of a license, such frauds could not be perpetrated.

Holmesburg—November 14, 1956

Census: White Male	278
Negro Male	1196
Total	1474

Warden Krueger and his staff are doing an excellent job at Holmesburg in spite of the dangerous overcrowding and the lack of sufficient number of employees on the staff.

Insofar as it is possible modern methods of treating prisoners are being used. Attempts to rehabilitate the prisoners are evident because of the effort made to place every man in the work suited to his capabilities. The prison's affiliation with a School of Correspondence and the coordination of trades with study is very commendable. The general morals of the prisoners seemed to be high.

The whole institution is clean and well cared for. The laundry, bakery, weaving, shoe and carpenter shops are excellently run. The hospital is excellent and seems fully adequate for prison needs. If a resident doctor could be added to the staff, this efficiency could be increased.

House of Correction—November 14, 1956

Census:	White	Negro	Total
Male	321	212	533
Female Tried	30	65	95
Untried	5	48	53

Included in the above figures are 15 girls and 111 boys in the Pennypack Division (for juveniles).

Warden Charles Day is doing an excellent job in the House of Correction with the facilities available. He was very willing to talk to the Grand Jury and helped us to see the existence of a number of prison problems.

His ideas for improvements are constructive and should be carried out.

The new Home for the Indigent should be a source of pride to the citizens of Philadelphia. It indicates how far the City has moved ahead in its concern and planning for the Aged. No one can visit the institution without being impressed and touched by the care given the aged and indigent. Superintendent Raymond J. Groller is largely responsible for the warm and happy atmosphere that prevails.

Census: 1422

Philadelphia can be proud of the Philadelphia General Hospital which is under the direction of Dr. Fetters. The new Mills Building is a credit to the City. The physical therapy department, the occupational therapy rooms for the mentally disturbed patients, the training of the handicapped are examples of high caliber efforts at rehabilitation. The cafeteria is new and modern and serves excellent food.

Moyamensing Prison—November 20, 1956

Warden Dennison briefed the jury on procedures. The appalling condition of the prison was evident in the "untried" wing. Cells are small, dark dungeons, reminiscent of the "middle ages." Mental and tubercular inmates are housed in this wing without suitable facilities or qualified personnel to attend the needs of the above. Moyamensing is without a resident physician.

Lack of personnel makes it necessary to utilize the services of inmates in processing new prisoners. This can lead to low morale, unrest, and/or blackmail. Housekeeping is good and the food excellent.

Recommendations for Holmesburg

1. There is great need at Holmesburg for a building program to prevent the over-crowding of cells which now exists.

2. The staff should be increased according to the need. The situation, under present conditions, is dangerous because of the impossibility of giving adequate supervision, especially at night.

3. Salaries should be increased for all employees. The present low salaries (lower than in other cities of comparable size) mitigate against the employment of trained and qualified persons.

4. Prisoners might be helped if they were given the incentive of a small compensation for good work accomplished.

5. Psychiatric service for prisoners should be increased greatly.

Recommendations for House of Correction

1. The need for re-distribution of prisoners is strongly indicated here. Young boys who are first offenders should be sent to some other institution where a program can be planned for this age group. These young prisoners need psychiatric treatment and continued vocational guidance.

2. There should be an increase in the number of guards and matrons.

3. An opportunity for female inmates to learn a trade should be available.

4. An increase in budget for the House of Correction would make it possible for some of the problems to be corrected.

5. There is a desperate need for a new House of Correction.

Recommendations for Riverview

1. There should be a fulltime resident doctor in this institution.

2. The old buildings are still sub-standard and need renovation. An elevator is urgently needed in the old building.

3. An additional new building is needed to reduce overcrowding.

4. A further increase in personnel (maintenance staff and social workers) would make this institution even more efficient than it is now.

Recommendations for Philadelphia General Hospital

1. Increase salaries of nurses to commensurate with salaries in other hospitals! this is imperative!!!

2. Retain budget requested in order to maintain high quality personnel and provide for maintenance of buildings.

3. Set up and maintain a private section so that moneys received could be put in a revolving account and used for research and development. This would be apt to recruit doctors of special abilities.

4. Increase number of doctors in out-patient department.

5. Increase number of personnel in all departments.

6. Continue reconstruction program.

Recommendations for Moyamensing

1. A new prison is desperately needed (in addition to present quarters).

2. Old prison needs to be renovated completely from top to bottom.

3. Additional personnel, guards, and clerical help should be added.

4. Adequate medical facilities should be established, and qualified personnel employed to staff the same.

Philadelphia is a city of tradition. We pride ourselves on setting high standards, but we fail to follow through. For instance, let us compare the employees of the District Attorney's Office with those of Los Angeles, a city of comparable size.

	Los Angeles	Philadelphia
Assistant D. A.'s	87	28
County Detectives and/or Police	77	11
Clerical Staff	108	39

Also, the salaries are equally sub-standard. In order to attract and recruit capable and qualified personnel, salaries should be comparable to Los Angeles. We are indeed fortunate to have personnel of such high caliber in spite of the disadvantages.

We expect citizens to keep the law, yet at the same time legislation under the Act of 1939 has been ignored in relation to the number of Assistants assigned to the District Attorney's Office. The Home Rule Charter is being violated. This states compensation should be charged to the borrowing activity and not against moneys appropriated to the department lending personnel. Yet, police are loaned to the D. A. and illegally compensated. This could bring criticism to an administration that has made more progress since 1952 than has been seen in two decades.

Our courtrooms are a disgrace, with peeling paint and poor ventilation. There is a great lack of proper facilities such as jury rooms and conference rooms. For example, during the vice trials presently being heard, there are curious and morbid individuals flocking to hear them. Witnesses are stared at, Counsel and clients do not have the privacy which is their right. This inadequate situation also applies to juries held overnight, because there are no facilities to accommodate these juries, and it is necessary to house them in nearby hotels. Witnesses held in protective custody are also housed in public accommodations. This has often brought criticism upon our police and District Attorney departments, due to actions of witnesses.

Philadelphia does not need a new City Hall, rather a County and City Court House, where trials can be held and juries and witnesses accommodated.

Recommendations to City Council

The Grand Jury petitions City Council to accept the following proposals that:

1. Good lodging and dining accommodations be provided for juries held overnight be provided in City Hall.

2. Lodging and dining accommodations be provided in City Hall for witnesses held in protective custody, there eliminating adverse publicity.

3. Adequate jury and conference rooms be provided.

4. Air conditioning units in court rooms in City Hall.

5. A County and City Court House be built to hear trials. City Hall could then be used for administrative functions.

6. Salaries should be paid to the District Attorney and Assistant District Attorneys comparable to those paid in Los Angeles. Salaries of other employees in this office should be raised accordingly.

7. Legislation under the Act of 1939 in relation to the number of Assistants in the District Attorney's Office be adhered to immediately.

Serving on the Grand Jury has been an interesting, educational, and illuminating experience for the present members of the Grand Jury. Citizens should welcome the opportunity to serve in order to observe first hand the functioning of the Court system and in order to see the fine efforts made by the police department, and the District Attorney's office, to bring offenders to justice.

We wish to thank Mr. Thomas Shiomos, and Mr.

Jerome Dalka, Assistant D.A.'s, and Mr. John Patrick, legal clerk in D. A.'s Office for their very indispensable help in interpreting the law. Their kindness and courtesy in questioning witnesses was particularly commendable. Their considerate treatment of little children offsets to a large degree any undesirable effect appearing in court might have for them. We are especially grateful to Mr. Ben Bocchichio and Mr. Mike Janusak for their patience and help in expediting the processing of the many cases reviewed.

We would like to add that the Grand Jury feels incapable of submitting an accurate evaluation of the institutions visited. We feel that a group of qualified people should also make investigations so that the best interest of the inmates and the citizens of Philadelphia can be realized.

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGES OF THE COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER OF THE PEACE, FOR THE CITY AND COUNTY OF PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the City and County of Philadelphia, December Sessions 1956, respectfully submit the following report as the result of their term in office.

BILLS OF INDICTMENT

Number of bills found true	1551
Number of bills found ignored ...	47
Total number of bills	1598

Miscellaneous 111	Involuntary Manslaughter 32
Robberies 28	A & B; Agg. A & B 147
Narcotics 66	C.C.D.W., etc. 88
Sex Crimes 98	Burglaries & Larcenies 267
Drunken Driving 223	Liquor 83
Lottery 209	Resisting Arrest 24
Forgery 69	Conspiracy 81
Murder 23

During our service on the December Session of the Grand Jury, we observed a number of things which should be eliminated or minimized. These are:

1. The traffic in narcotics.
2. The manufacture and sale of untaxed liquor and illegal sale of taxed liquor.
3. The volume of play of numbers and to a lesser amount pools and bookmaking.
4. The delay in processing drunken driving cases.
5. The participation of juveniles in various crimes.
6. The frequence of the use of firearms in crimes especially by juveniles.

We realize that it is impossible to legislate these out of existence. Neither do we blame the police department for the situation as it exists. Rather it is through the number of arrests by the police that we become aware of the gravity of the problems.

We feel that the types of crime mentioned above could be lessened considerably if the proper legislation could be passed and enforced. Our rocommendations will be discussed in detail as it is only by and with the weight of public opinion that progress can be made.

1. The traffic in narcotics.

This is a particularly bad problem as it involves the placing of people under the control of a habit forming drug.

This in turn means frequent purchases at from $2.00 to $5.00 a time. Few people can afford this which means they must resort to illegal methods of obtaining extra income. It is also next to impossible to obtain evidence against the heads of the narcotics rings.

It is obvious therefore that the only practical way is to discourage the distribution system as this is the only way the drug can be handled. Too many sellers and possessors of narcotics are let go with fines or light sentences. It should be mandatory that a first offender receive at least a two year sentence, second offender double that, third offender double that of the second offender, and so on.

The sentences above should be considered as the minimum time to be spent in jail before becoming eligible for parole.

2. The manufacture and sale of untaxed liquor and illegal sale of taxed liquor.

This is another violation of the law in which too many are repeat offenders. Too many are only fined repeatedly. As this is not too serious a crime it is recommended that a prison sentence be made mandatory with the second offense and increase in size for each offense thereafter.

3. The volume of play of numbers and to a lesser amount pools and bookmaking.

This violation of the law seems innocent enough but too many of the players are ones who cannot really afford to play. At present many of those caught are fined $25.00 or $50.00 which represents perhaps the profits from a few days take only. It is recommended that jail sentences be mandatory with the second offense and increasing sentences be mandatory with each subsequent conviction.

4. The delay in processing drunken driving cases.

Although cases in which the defendant is committed to jail are handled with reasonable speed, there is often a two or even three month lapse before indictments are brought before the Grand Jury when the defendant is on bail. There is no reason for this delay as the arresting officer and certificate of the inspection by the police surgeon are usually sufficient grounds for finding a true bill or ignoring the indictment.

5. The participation of juveniles in various crimes.

It is with deep concern that we view the growing participation of juveniles in crime. The best place to reverse this trend is in the home. It is therefore recommended that the City of Philadelphia follow the example of other cities and make the parents financially responsible for damages wrought by their minor and juvenile offspring. The use of guns by juveniles is also alarming. It should be a definite crime for a minor to own a gun which can be carried in a concealed manner and also to possess firearms not made by a recognized manufacture. These particular crimes should carry mandatory jail sentences with no suspended sentences allowed.

6. The frequence of the use of firearms in crimes especially by juveniles.

The majority of firearms possessed by the juveniles are home made affairs. The recommendations under (5) above should take care of this.

The firearms act presently in force has several legal loopholes which should be plugged. For the most part these can be checked by adding the following:

a. Make it an equally drastic penalty for carrying a firearm other than a rifle or shotgun (not sawed off) openly instead of concealed without a license or to have in one's possession in a location other than one's residence or place of business one of the aforementioned firearms.

b. A publicity campaign should be instituted to encourage owners to register any short barrelled firearm. As it stands now the best source for a criminal's firearms is by stealing. Too often a record is not kept by the owner of the serial number of his gun. This procedure, not to be confused with licensing, insures the recording of serial numbers of firearms and subject any one possessing a firearm with serial numbers of a gun reported stolen to a charge of possessing stolen goods.

We strongly recommend that a number of dogs be obtained and trained for use by the police department particularly in the areas of the city where there is a high crime rate.

In addition to our prime function of passing on indictments we also toured and inspected five of the institutions and prisons operated by the City of Philadelphia. In general, we were pleased with what we found. The detailed reports on our findings and recommendations follow:

Moyamensing—December 18, 1956

Census—886

Warden Richard W. Dennison and Captain John J. Clark escorted us on our tour of Moyamensing prison. This prison is sadly out of date although the area which was previously used for women is much better than the rest of the prison. Since the prison is not of modern design the staff is inadequate to handle the work and must rely on prisoners for some of the supervisory details. Although every effort is made to segregate the prisoners according to type, the facilities are overtaxed by the number of prisoners. The paint on the warden's office ceiling needs replacing.

Philadelphia General Hospital—December 18, 1956

Census
Male	713
Total	1380

Dr. F. Fetters met us and conducted us on our tour. The food seemed to be of good quality in the cafeteria. The hospital has facilities for serving warm food to the beds but we understand that the carts are frequently not heated so that the food arrives at the beds cold. The paint on the walls in the receiving area is peeling and should be replaced.

Although the hospital is not over-crowded its main problem is a shortages of nurses. This can only be alleviated by increasing the nurses pay at P. G. H. so that it is in line with the wage scale at the neighboring institutions

Every effort is being made to put the operating room floor back to its original conductivity so that there will be no chance for a tragic accident during an operation.

Holmesburg—December 11, 1956

Census
White Male	247
Total	1377

Warden Fred Krueger and Sgt. Samuel Reese took us through the prison. Both men seemed to take a sincere interest in their work and their attitude is reflected throughout the rest of the staff. Security measures taken to prevent trouble between prisoners and escapes from the prison are excellent. The staff on hand is adequate although a few additional personnel would enable Warden Krueger to do a better job in training the prisoners. We feel that the pay schedule of the guards should be made equal to that received by the policemen.

We believe that the floor in the hospital section operating room is not conductive. This should be replaced with a conductive type to prevent any accidental explosions during emergency operations.

The prison itself was kept clean and neat although a few match sticks were noticed in the cracks of the dining room in the hospital section.

A new chapel is needed and we understand that this is included in the budget. An early completion of the project is recommended.

House of Correction—December 11, 1956

Census	White	Negro	Total
male	298	247	545
(tried) female	26	74	100
(untried) female	8	45	53

Included in the above figures are 18 girls and 134 boys in the Pennypack Division (for juveniles).

Warden Charles G. Day, Mr. A. W. Brough, and Parole Officer T. Chapman conducted our tour through the House of Correction. Warden Day expressed Superintendent of Prisons Edward J. Hendrick's regrets over not being able to be present. We enjoyed a good nourishing meal in the cafeteria.

It was gratifying to see that many of the recommendations of previous grand juries are being carried out. For example, the women now have small tables on which they can place their personal belongings. Also, the kitchen, dish washing room and dining room floors are to be replaced in the near future. The kitchen floor, especially, although kept as clean as possible is very worn and unsightly. There is an opportunity for both men and women prisoners to learn trades now. Additional personnel could be used in this phase of the program.

As with Holmesburg the pay of the guards should be brought to the same level as that of the city policemen.

Space is at a premium and additional space will be needed in the future.

Warden Day advised that he would appreciate receiving a copy of the December report so that he could get all of the Grand Jury's recommendations.

Riverview—December 11, 1956

Census
Male	568
Total	978

Superintendent Raymond J. Groller greeted us on our arrival and showed us some of the pictures from the TV show on Riverview when the annex was used for the first time. After the showing of the pictures he took us on a tour of Riverview. Much has been done to make Riverview better and more liveable. The annex is an excellent example of what can be done for our aged who can not be taken care of by their own means and relatives.

Additional personnel are badly needed to take care of those who are unable to adequately care for themselves. Positions for registered nurses and practical nurses although authorized are still unfilled through lack of applicants. Help is needed to maintain a maintenance crew as the House of Correction is unable to handle Riverview's maintenance in addition to its own. For example, in the old section two drain spouts outside the dayroom need repair, chairs in the main bedroom ward need painting. In the annex, cobwebs were observed in the overhead lighting areas in the ladies bathroom in one cottage and tape was still on the chrome work on wall receptacles by the sinks.

A fireplace screen should be provided in the recreation area of the annex so that a wood fire can be enjoyed this winter.

Increased therapy work is desirable and additional personnel will be needed to supervise it as well as funds to obtain materials.

We wish to commend the entire District Attorney's Office for its efficiency. It is an extremely well run office which we, as the citizens of this city, can be proud of. The Indictment Division, with which we have been in close contact, is to be especially commended. We wish to thank, particularly, Assistant District Attorney's Thomas Shiomos and Jerome R. Balka and Legal Clerk John Patrick for their help in interpreting the law. They have been a great aid to this Grand Jury.

We would like to express our sincere gratitude to Mr. Ben Bocchichio and Mr. Mike Janusak.

It has been an honor for us to serve on this Grand Jury. We feel that all citizens of Philadelphia should experience this. We are glad to have had the opportunity to serve since we have seen how well organized our police department is and what a wonderful job they are doing.

We wish to thank our Foreman, Finley R. Porter, Jr., and our Secretary, Pearl Levin, for doing a job that was outstanding.

GRAND JURY REPORT

February, 1957

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGES OF THE COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER AND QUARTER SESSIONS OF THE PEACE FOR THE CITY AND COUNTY OF PHILADELPHIA, PENNSYLVANIA

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for the City and County of Philadelphia, February Sessions, 1957, respectfully submits the following report as the result of its term in office:

TRUE BILLS	1478
IGNORED BILLS	40
TOTAL	1518

On February 14, 1957, the Grand Jury visited the following institutions:

HOLMESBURG PRISON

Fred Krueger, Warden

Census:	235	Male White
	1120	Male Negro
	1355	Total

Warden Krueger and Captain James Stott courteously escorted the Grand Jury on a thorough and explanatory tour of the institution. We were deeply impressed by the absolute cleanliness of the prison. We found the physical plant in excellent condition, clean eating and cooking facilities, good sanitation system, good medical and educational programs, and well-equipped and supervised shops in which the men are being taught useful trade

The reduction of idleness and the program for rehabilitation are greatly limited by two factors: first, the overcrowded condition existing (724 cells, 1355 inmates); and second, the shortage of guards without which such programs are impossible. Additional guards are needed desperately for Holmesburg and Moyamensing, not only for security reasons which in themselves are important, but also to make possible greater efforts toward the rehabilitation of our prison population.

Edward J. Hendrick, Superintendent
Charles G. Day, Warden

		White	Negro	Total
Census:	Male	378	292	670
	Female (Tried)	34	75	107
	Female (Untried)	7	49	56
		419	416	835

(Included in the above figures are 14 girls and 128 boys in Pennypack Division)

Superintendent Hendrick and Warden Day met with the Grand Jury to discuss the existing problems of our prisons and correctional institution namely the shortage of adequate personnel, and the special problems of the House of Correction which our members were able to observe during our tour.

We feel juveniles should be provided with separate housing and segregated as much as possible from adult inmates. Mental deficients pose another great problem due to the length of time before acceptance into state institutions. Untried and tried prisoners should certainly be kept separated but again the problem of insufficient space and staff arises.

Institutions on State level are desperately needed for the training and treatment of mentally disturbed boys and girls and correctional institutions for our delinquent children.

RIVERVIEW

Raymond J. Groller, Superintendent

Census:	Male	572
	Total	972

It is an understatement to say the Grand Jury was very much pleased with the "new look" of Riverview. The treatment, facilities, activities, entertainment offered the guests, the architecture and decor of the new section the outdoor surroundings is certainly a project every Philadelphian can be proud of. In contrasting "old" and "new" Riverview, it can only be hoped that necessary funds will soon be allocated to provide the additional building needed to completely eliminate the old section.

There is a definite need for more personnel, especially nurses to administer and care for the aged at Riverview. Volunteer workers are very much welcomed and this should be brought before the public.

Superintendent Groller is to be highly commended not only for his very capable management, but for the wonderful relationship of friendliness and good-will which exists between himself and the men and women of Riverview.

On February 19, 1957, the Grand Jury visited the following institutions:

MOYAMENSING PRISON

Richard W. Dennison, Warden

Census:	Main Cells	808

Assoc. Warden Bookbinder and Lt. Holmes took charge of the Grand Jury's visit in the absence of Warden Dennison. The staff is to be commended for their efforts toward cleaning up an antiquated prison. The members of the Jury are in accord that the best solution for Moyamensing would be an entirely new prison.

Overcrowding is still a very serious problem even though the Women's Section is now used for men. The lack of sufficient number of guards all over is dangerous and insensible—one must look long and hard to see a guard.

We were also advised that Moyamensing has the grand total of one (1) nurse to administer to over 900 men.

PHILADELPHIA GENERAL HOSPITAL

Dr. Fetters, Medical Director

Census:	Male	739
	Total	1403

Dr. Fetters addressed and escorted the Grand Jury and we feel he should be justly proud of the work being done by the hospital under existing conditions.

The shortage of nurses at P. G. H. is critical, not only due to the national shortage of nursing personnel, but to the low salary scale in effect at P. G. H. Because of the lack of proper nursing staff, beds must be placed close together in the wards, in halls, on sun porches, so patients can be handled easier.

Our tour included the psychiatric and pediatric wards, children's ward and clinics and therapy rooms. The facilities for occupational and physical therapy seemed very good, but the lack of staff again prohibits fullest use being made of them. Volunteer hospital workers are urgently needed and can be well-utilized.

YOUTH STUDY CENTER

Dr. E. Preston Sharp, Executive Director

Our Youth Study Center is extremely well-run, and everything seems to be carried out to improve the character and behavior of our juveniles while waiting for court appearances or commitments to other institutions. It is an excellent example of the very latest in school facilities and craft shops, and we wish to comment very favorably on the ingenious chapel conversion, gym, cafeteria, medical and dental facilities and living quarters.

Dr. Sharp, addressing us and thoroughly acquainting us with the philosophy and aims of the Center, stressed the fact that 30-40% more children could be handled throughout the year, without additional funds, if children were released shortly after their commitment by court to other institutions.

Again we state the need for State institutions for delinquent and defective juveniles.

SUMMARY OF VISITS

It was a great privilege to visit these institutions. We were treated cordially in every case and those in charge and their assistants seem very competent and dedicated to their work.

It is almost impossible to make a satisfactory evaluation of such large institutions in detail as the time alloted was so short. On the whole we found the services apparently adequate and the inmates as well cared for as is possible for maladjusted or ill people.

All of the institutions were clean and orderly. Treatment, food and conditions, in general, were good. Waste was not evident.

Nourishing and pleasing meals were served to us at the House of Correction and the Philadelpiha General Hospital and we wish to extend our hearty thanks.

At each institution, the same plea was heard:

"We need more help as we are operating on only a minimum staff."

In fact, we were given to understand that needed help is a grave necessity.

The proper authorities, no doubt, are aware that these conditions are prevalent as it has been mentioned in previous reports, but again we stress it.

FURTHER COMMENTS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Many cases are being sent to the Grand Jury that, we feel, should be handled by the magistrates. The Grand Jury system should be reviewed with the purpose of finding a more efficient plan since practically all cases are voted to be true bills. The ignored bills in most cases are obvious.

Competent legal minds could possibly come up with a solution that, in the long run, would save many man hours of officials, officers, and witnesses, as well as taxpayers' money.

At the present time, we feel our District Attorney's Office is understaffed due to the tremendous work-load placed upon it, and we recommend that City Council provide the necessary funds for the two additional Assistant District Attorneys authorized under law.

The Grand Jury feels Philadelphia can be justly proud of its police force. They are competent and courteous and at all times pleasant and most helpful.

In the vice cases concerning young girls, we suggest having a woman (from the District Attorney's Office or a policewoman) assigned to accompany them through all the hearings. They could help the girls with their testimony and also help alleviate some of the great embarrassment these girls feel.

We further think that our policemen who have their uniforms ruined while attending to their duties should be reimbursed from the money confiscated from raids.

We wish to thank Mr. Carberry, our foreman, and Miss Ansink, his able secretary, for their efficiency in carrying out their duties.

We also extend our thanks to Mr. Jerome Balka and Mr. Thomas Shiomos for their effective interpretation of the points of law and able questioning of witnesses.

Please extend our acknowledgement of the splendid help received from the staff of the District Attorney's Office and our Court Clerks, Ben Bocchiocco and Michael Janusiak.

Generally, we, the members of the March Grand Jury, were satisfied with the institutions that were visited. Of course, there are many areas in need of improvement. These instances will be cited in our list of recommendations. The officials and guard personnel of the various institutions seemed to be of a very high caliber; and we were thoroughly impressed by the job they were doing in the face of many obstacles, particularly, a lack of adequate personnel.

At Holmesburg Prison, we were conducted on a tour by Warden Fred Krueger and Captain of the Guards James Stott. Both of these officials were very cordial and readily answered all of our questions. The jury was very impressed with the cleanliness of the institution.

In visiting the House of Correction, we were welcomed by the warden, Charles G. Day. In addition, we met Mr. Edward J. Hendrick, Superintendent of County Prison. Through formal and informal conversation with Mr. Hendrick, the jury was convinced of his competence and proper dedication to hold such a position. After the juries' talk with Mr. Hendrick, a tour of the institution was made. The physical plant and other facilities were considered to be adequate, but overcrowding was apparent.

Mr. Raymond J. Groller, Superintendent of Riverview, greeted the Jury upon its arrival at the home for the indignent. In company with members of his staff, Mr. Groller conducted us around the buildings. The jury felt that the old buildings were being maintained remarkably well in spite of their age. We were very much impressed with the new building. It is a real tribute to the foward look adopted by the City of Philadephia in caring for our aged indigents.

Upon arrival at Moyamensing Prison, the Grand Jury was met by Mr. Bookbinder, the acting warden. Of all the institutions visited by the Grand Jury, Moyamensing appeared to be in the worst condition. This was mainly due to the age of the structure as well as an appalling lack of personnel. The Grand Jury felt that improvements in this institution should be affected as soon as practicable.

Doctor Fetter greeted the Grand Jury at the Philadelphia General Hospital. We were taken on an extensive tour of the buildings. The hospital seemed to be well maintained and efficiently administered. Once again a lack of adequate personnel especially trained nurses, was a serious problem. Nevertheless, the Grand Jury unanimously agreed that the hospital staff was doing a commendable job.

The March Grand Jury wishes to thank the two court officers, Michael J. Janusiak and D. Benjamin Bocchicchio, for their assistance and cooperation in aiding us to perform our duties. We also wish to express our gratitude to members of the District Attorney's Office, especially Assistant District Attorneys Balka and Shiomos.

III. Recommendations:

Holmesburg Prison

1. The planned building to house the Chapel, Athletic and indoor recreational facilities at this instituton should be built as soon as possible.

House of Correction

1. Segregation of juveniles and adults should be complete, eliminating the present contact in work shops and dining hall.

a. A separate wing similar to that of the Female Division, or construction of a separate institution is necessary.

b. Further segregation may be effected in the present facilities by having the juvenile boys use the women's dining room.

2. A complete record of the juvenile inmates should accompany their arrival at the institution.

3. More effort should be made to keep the juvenile busy during their stay and at the same time help prepare them for their return to society. In this connection, it is recommended that the services of a military instructor be obtained to provide military training for these boys. The National Guard is suggested as a possible source of instructors for such a program. This should help engrain in these boys some sense of discipline and respect for authority.

4. It is believed that society would be served better if juveniles were released with the advice and consent of the staff of the institutions under whose care these juveniles have been placed.

5. An auditorium or some such facility should be provided for indoor activities in winter and during inclement weather.

6. Larger facilities for religious observance should be provided.

7. The need for more personnel is evident.

Riverview

1. Improvement of the old buildings should continue as quickly as possible.

2. Further attempt to increase the staff is necessary.

Moyamensing

1. Lack of sufficient personnel in the guard force and medical (nurses, etc.) Force is evident. An immediate attempt to improve this situation should be made.

2. The facilities are too limited for the number of inmates. Therefore, we suggest this institution be used exclusively for untried persons and those serving short sentences with the exception, that a labor force of good behavior long termers be housed there to help provide the necessary labor for operation of the kitchens, shops, and maintenance work.

3. Mentally ill, epileptics, etc., should receive better medical care. They should not be detained at this institution for long periods of time.

4. Additional improvements should be made along the following lines:

a. Installation of better facilities for receiving prisoners.

b. Visiting room should be enlarged.

c. The kitchens need better equipment.

d. Exercise and recreational areas should be provided.

Philadelphia General Hospital

1. Additional personnel, especially nurses, are needed.

IV. General Recommendations

1. This Grand Jury is in favor of the general provisions of Bill No. 176 which is now before the state legislature prohibiting wire tapping or the use of wire tapping equipment by anyone except law enforcement officers. We also wish to recommend that wire tapping by law enforcement officers, if legalized, be used with discretion, and that suitable restraints be incorporated in the regulations to prevent its indiscriminate use.

2. In order for the District Attorney's Office to function with maximum efficiency, we recommend the addition of more Assistant District Attorneys.

Sincerely,

March Grand Jury

KARL DAHLEN, FOREMAN
RUSSELL JOSEPH, SECRETARY

II. INSTITUTIONS VISITED

Moyamensing:

1. Very overcrowded.
2. Definite need for new house of correction.
3. Recommend abolishment of tubercular section, and use of Philadelphia General Hospital or Holmesburg Tubercular Wards immediately.
4. No place for juveniles.

Philadelphia General Hospital:

Well kept, clean and well managed.

Holmesburg:

Very satisfactory in all phases.

House of Correction:

Satisfactory.

Riverview:

1. Abolish old section.
2. More funds, in order to add to present new section, which is beautiful.

III. GENERAL RECOMMENDATIONS:

1. Change order of visits, in order to visit at different times of the day.
2. Provide more time for visits to large institutions, especially Philadelphia General Hospital.

It is the opinion of the various administrators of the institutions that they are badly understaffed. From our short visit, that was difficult to determine. On the surface it appears to be so, especially at Moyamensing.

We suggest a further investigation by competent officials.

It has been brought to our attention that court officers are paid the same amount regardless of hours they put in. We feel that they should receive compensation for any overtime, especially when overnight with a locked jury.

Also, we recommend one more court officer for Grand Jury duty, in order to speed up the presentation of cases.

In view of the 92 District Attorney's Assistants in Los Angeles and the 67 in Manhattan, it seems that with 28 District Attorney's Assistants in Philadelphia, we are badly understaffed.

We feel that wire tapping be used for detector purposes only. A means by which direct evidence may be obtained. We feel a court order should be obtained before its use.

We commend Captain Clarence Ferguson and his squad on the recent dope raids. Such continued work should ventually wipe the dope traffic from this city.

We also commend the District Attorney and his men on their drive to remove obscene literature from the public newstands.

We also wish to commend Assistant District Attorney Thomas Shiomos and his staff for doing a fine job.

HOLMESBURG PRISON VISITED MAY 15, 1957
WARDEN FRED KRUEGER, CAPT. STOTT

Census: White Male 245; Negro Male 1065; Total 1310

This institution is in good condition, and well kept, considering the overcrowded conditions (720 cells for 1310 inmates). The rehabilitation program for this prison is very good. It teaches the inmates a trade, enabling them to earn a livelihood after their release. Schooling is also available to the men wishing to further their education.

The kitchens, eating quarters, cells, work shops etc. are clean and well painted. The prisoners do most of the work in repairs and maintenance, also the baking, clothing and shoes used in other institutions. There is spacious recreation facilities available to all the inmates. A new Chapel is planned to be built soon, and which is so badly needed. Warden Krueger, Capt. Stott and their staff are doing an excellent job.

Recommendations

1.The long termers should be sent to the State Prisons.

2. More guards are needed.

3. We need another Penal Institution in this city to relieve the overcrowded conditions.

4. We are forwarding the two letters given us by one of the inmates (Blackburn) to Assistant District Attorney Jerome R. Balka for further investigation, and the June Grand Jury should follow it up.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION—VISITED May 15, 1957

WARDEN CHARLES G. DAY

	White	Negro	Total
Male	387	328	715
Female	24	78	102
Untried ...	7	46	53

Included in the above figures are 15 girls and 140 boys in the Pennypack Division (for juveniles).

We were greeted by Warden Day and Mr. Hendrick, Supt. of Prisons, and briefed on the current activities of this institution. Then we engaged in a delightful lunch in the employees dining-room. Most of the work here is done by the inmates, and at the same time they are gaining restaurant experience.

We were very impressed with the spacious work shops and the modern power equipment used; as well as rehabilitating the men, they are also producing useful items, that other departments of the city are benefiting by. There are trained personnel for most of these projects.

Most of our visiting was in the female division. They have an excellent opportunity of learning a good trade, and also furthering their education. The overall clealiness is excellent and well kept. The hairdressing shop is a good moral for the women. The walls are all clean and well painted. The visiting privileges are twice a week, with cheerful quarters for such. The much needed chapel is in the process of being built shortly.

The hot house seems to be quite a drawing card for the younger boys. They are not only doing a good job under the guidance of a very able man, but also planting and landscaping the grounds both here and at Riverview, making a vast improvement to each place.

Warden Day should be highly complimented along with his staff for the good management and fine work being done in the kitchens, installing the quarry tile. They raised their own funds for this project and are doing the work. There were not enough funds to complete the dining-room fully.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. The juveniles should be in a separate institution.

2. More guards are needed.

3. Overcrowded conditions. We need another Penal Institution in Philadelphia.

4. Funds to complete the balance tiling of the dining-room area.

5. The chef needs some professional help instead of all inmates.

RIVERVIEW

VISITED MAY 15, 1957 SUPT. R. J. GROLLER
ASST. E. STAUFFER

CENSUS: MALE 581. FEMALE 402. TOTAL 983.

Supt. Groller greeted us on our visit to Riverview, also invited us all to their annual picnic to be held on June 5th. His very able assistant took us on a tour of both the old and new buildings. Most of the incompetent residents are housed in the old building, and require considerably more care than the others. Elevators to the second floor are in process and will relieve the overcrowded conditions which now exists in the sleeping quarters of 88 beds with cabinets for each, all in one unit. The dual chapel is also in the old building.

The new building is modern in every respect, and equipped with a barber shop, beauty salon, also excellent equipment and facilities for Physical Therapy and hobby shops. There are six beds with cabinets to each unit, tile showers and individual lockers. A large variety of magazines, reading matter, television sets, special movies and outside entertainment is provided. The dining area is spacious and the meals are well balanced.

The old folks seem to be happy and content.

The grounds are well kept by inmates from the House of Correction.

Mr. Groller and his staff should be complimented on the excellent management and the good work accomplished at Riverview. It is an asset to our city.

Recommendations

1. There is an urgent need for a resident doctor, nurse, practical nurses and attendants.

2. The second floor should provide six bed units, thus eliminating the large dormitory on the first floor.

GENERAL RECOMMENDATIONS

1. We, the members of the May Grand Jury, recommend to legalize gambling. This would release our policemen to other duties, also save the courts a lot of time and expense, and expedite cases of more important matters. We understand a very small majority of these cases are ever convicted and people will gamble regardless, and will continue to do so.

2. We wish to thank the Court Officers, Ben Bocchicchio and Mike Januisak for their fine coperation. They are doing an excellent job. They should without a doubt have an increase in salary, and also be paid for overtime work, and extra compensation for overnite duty with jurors.

3. Recommedations for good police work: Ptlm. Moore, Morrissey and Buchenhorst, in the Accident Investigation Division. Also the police officers on the Narcotic and Vice squads are to be commended.

4. We recommend that the courts appoint a "Sentencing Board." I. E., all persons found guilty through trial, be brought before this board to be sentenced. This would be a fairer way of handling the sentences. Since all persons committing the same type of crime, and under similar circumstances would receive the same sentence. As it is now, the sentencing is up to the Judge He is guided by the law, but much is left to his discretion. Therefore, someone may receive a sentence of 3-5 years and another convicted of the same crime and under the same circumstances, may, under a different Judge, receive 6 months to 1 year. This has been proven to be true.

5. In conclusion, we wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to His Honor Judge Griffiths,

Assistant District Attorney Jerome R. Balka, for his untiring efforts, and the interpretation of the points of law, and able questioning of witnesses. Also to his entire staff for the fine work they are doing and the cooperation they have given us. More Assistant District Attorneys are urgenty needed to continue their fine work.

VISITED MAY 14, 1957

Census: 1420 Patients Cap. 1769

We were met by Dr. Fetter at the Administration Building, who took us on a tour of inspection of several buildings, first distributing maps on same. We were also accompanied by Mr. Kelsner (Supt. of Bldgs.), Mr. Jackson, a County Detective, and Mr. Bocchicchio.

We started on the fifth floor of the Maternity Building and worked our way down. We were pleased to note how well these floors were organized and run. The walls were all painted in cheerful and some vivid colors.

We were very much impressed with the first floor Central Service, which is under the very able, capable supervision of Mr. Ulshafer. The trays are all prepared with instruments and supplies for all the wards, and carts for the operating rooms. It is fully equipped with the finest stainless steal equipment, and operated 24 hours daily.

We made a quick stop at the Catholic Chapel on our way out, which is another fine credit to P. G. H.

Psychopathic Women's Ward was well kept and clean.

Physical Therapy is also under very capable supervision and well conducted.

Mills Building, T. B. Wards are under the capable supervision of Mrs. Scully. We are pleased to note the decrease in T. B. cases.

Rehabilitation for Polio, Cerebral Palsy and other patients have capable personnel and the finest equipment.

This institution is one of the finest we have, and which every Philadelphian should be proud of. It houses diseases of every description, and has most of the finest and latest equipment available and the finest doctors in the world. However, these services are only limited to people with low incomes. We recommend this ruling be revised, so that the so-called middle class be availabe to the same opportunities.

FOOD SERVICE BUILDING

We next visited the Food Servcie Building. We found this building to be modern in every respect, clean and well supervised. This building is situated in the center of the hospital grounds. It is a five story plus penthouse building constructed of brick and limestone with extensive glass window areas along its side walls. The fifth floor houses the library and reading room and a large roof garden. On the fourth floor is a dining-room where we all enjoyed a very appetizing lunch. The third floor consists of a dining-room for employees, doctors and nurses. The second floor houses the kitchens of the finest stainless steel equipment. and has excellent supervision. The kitchens can turn out 13,500 meals daily. The first floor consists of stationery and office supplies and administrative rooms.

Construction on this building started early in 1952 and was completed in the spring of 1954. The architect was Eugene Stopper who died the year the plans were approved. Work was then taken over by the firm of Gilboy, O'Malley and Clauss. The general contractor was McCloskey and Company. Interested in the construction on behalf of the city and supervising was the clerk of the works, the Electrical Burea, and City Architect's Office and the Health Department.

Our examination of this building revealed that there are numerous grave and serious defects in the construction and design of the building. These defects have resulted in deep interior cracks in the wall surrounding two of the picture windows on the fourth and fifth floors, cracks in the corners near the structural glass on the fourth and fifth floors, loose bricks and mortar on the outside of the building, water seepage and leaks in the roof of the building, loose and missing ceiling tiles and marks of water seepage, and an accumulation of stagnant water in the electrical transformer room in the sub-basement. Some of these defects are shown in the pictures which are attached to this report. In order to learn why the building which is only three years old should show such grave defects, we questioned a number of witnesses. We learned that one wall of this building is so defective and the cracks are so bad that the wall is in immediate danger of falling and that to prevent anyone from being injured when the wall does fall, the walking area and the base of the wall have been barricaded and roped off. We further learned that the accumulation of stagnant water in the electrical transformer room is such a serious hazard that anyone entering that room who is not extremely careful may be electrocuted. We have been told by witnesses with engineering backgrounds that the cracks and defects in the walls of this building appear to result from lack of sufficient expansion joints, and that this problem was known to responsible authorities as early as the spring of 1954 and even before the building was completed. We have also been told that the roof of this building is guaranteed by the roofer against leaks

Our questioning of witnesses has revealed that it was obvious that more expansion joints should have been provided for in the plans and design of this building. Prior to the completion of the building, the general contractor notified responsible city authorities that additional expansion joints would be necessary to prevent walls from cracking and falling. The general contractor requested permission to install these joints. The contractor's request was vetoed by responsible city authorities, despite the fact that city engineers and architects agreed that the expansion joints were necessary.

Why didn't the city authorities who accepted the architect's plans and designs insist upon additional expansion joints? Why wasn't the contractor's request to install additional expansion joints approved? Why has nothing been done in the past three years to repair the leaks in the roof of this building? Why has nothing been done to correct the stagnant water problem in the sub-basement, which has existed for the past three years? We have been unable to get the answers to these questions.

Recommendations

On the basis of what we have learned, we feel that there is a strong possibility that the city has been cheated in the construction of this building. We recommend that a special Grand Jury be impaneled to look into the construction of this building to find the answers to these questions.

My Dear Mr. Furman:

On Tuesday, July 17, 1956, the Board of Public Education of the School District of Pittsburgh adopted a resolution expressing its appreciation to the 1955 Session of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania for legislation beneficial to this school district.

It is my privilege to transmit a copy of this resolution to you along with my personal thanks for the many new laws benefiting the public schools of Pittsburgh and the Commonwealth.

Sincerely yours,

EARL A. DIMMICK,
Superintendent of Schools

RESOLUTION

EXPRESSING APPRECIATION OF THE PITTSBURGH BOARD OF PUBLIC EDUCATION TO THE 1955 SESSION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Whereas, The Board of Public Education of the School District of Pittsburgh being in need of additional revenue to operate the Pittsburgh public schools did request the 1955 Session of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to enact measures affording financial relief, and

Whereas, the General Assembly passed and the Governor of the Commonwealth signed House Bill 914 (Act 226) authorizing an increase of 1½ mills in the real estate tax for public school purposes in Pittsburgh thus providing an estimated $1,600,000 in additional revenue each year, House Bill 917 (Act 643) granting subsidy parity per teaching unit with Philadelphia payable during the school year 1955-1956 thus providing an estimated $762,000 in additional State support, and other beneficial items of legislation,

Be it, therefore, resolved, that The Board of Public Education of the School District of Pittsburgh does hereby express its appreciation in behalf of the children, teachers, and other employees in the Pittsburgh public school system to Governor George M. Leader, Lieutenant Governor Roy E. Furman, Speaker of the House of Representatives Hiram G. Andrews, President Pro Tempore of the Senate Harvey M. Taylor, and the members of the General Assembly for their action in providing a measure of financial relief to the school district.

And be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Presidnt Pro Tempore of the Senate, and the members of the General Assembly.

1956 EXTRA SESSION

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF NORTH CAROLINA

H. R. 8 RESOLUTION 4

A joint resolution of condemnation and protest against oppressive usurpation of power by the Supreme Court of the United States, calling upon the several States of the Union and the Congress of the United States to bring to an end this tyrannical usurpation of power.

Whereas, the General Assembly of North Carolina recognizes its allegiance to the Constitution and Government of the United States and is ever mindful of its responsibility to defend the Constitution of the United States against every attempt, foreign or domestic, to undermine the dual structure of this Union or to destroy those fundamental principles embodied in the written Constitution of the United States; and

Whereas, the founders of this great nation, fearful of the tyranny that naturally and always follows the unrestricted concentration of governmental power, secured the passage of the "Bill of Rights," consisting of the first ten amendments to the Constitution; and

Whereas, the Ninth and Tenth Amendments to the Constitution expressly and explicitly limit the Federal Government to specific powers delegated to it by the terms of the compact and reserved to the States and their people all other powers, unless specifically prohibited by it to the States; and

Whereas, the General Assembly of North Carolina is ever mindful of the admonition that "frequent recurrence to fundamental principles is absolutely necessary to preserve the blessings of Liberty"; and

Whereas, the Constitution is a solemn compact between the States, and the Federal Government is the creature born of that compact from sovereign powers inherently residing in the States and their people but delegated solely for the purposes clearly and manifestly set forth in the Constitution; and

Whereas, the methods and procedures for amending the Constitution of the United States are distinctly and plainly stated in Article V of that instrument in these words: "The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress"; and

Whereas, the Constitution of the United States may be validly amended only in the manner prescribed by the Constitution itself, and the United States Supreme Court has never had, does not now have, and should never possess, the power and authority to amend the Constitution; and

Whereas, neither the judicial power granted the United States Supreme Court in Article III of the Federal Constitution nor such appellate jurisdiction as Congress has conferred, or may confer, can constitute that Court the dominant and ultimate authority with the power of determining without regard for the Constitution what is and is not in the best interest of the Nation; and

Whereas, by its decision of May 17, 1954, the Supreme Court of the United States, in seeking to establish itself as the dominant and ultimate policy-setting agency of the Nation, in effect amended the Constitution by interpreting the Fourteenth Amendment in a manner clearly contrary to the well-settled construction of that Amendment; and

Whereas, the State of North Carolina in ratifying the Fourteenth Amendment did not intend to delegate to the Federal Government the power to deny to the States the inherent right to operate racially separate schools; and when the Fourteenth Amendment was ratified, there were thirty-seven States in the Union, and twenty-three of those states had segregated schools and others had no public schools at all; and the Congress which proposed the Fourteenth Amendment established segregated schools in the District of Columbia; and both State and Federal courts, without exception, beginning with a decision of the Massachusetts' Supreme Court in 1848, and subsequently followed by the courts of Connecticut, New York, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania and others, recognized the power of the States to operate a system of separate public schools; and

Whereas, the General Assembly of North Carolina relying upon the United States Supreme Court's own interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment and the numerous and uncontradicted decisions of other Federal and State courts established and developed a segregated public school system; and North Carolina properly assumed that it could rely upon congressional action and earlier court decisions as is demonstrated by the language of the Supreme Court of the United States in Myers v. United States (1927): ". . . when Congress, after full consideration and with the acquiescence and long practice of all branches of the government, has established the construction of the Constitution, it may [not] by its mere subsequent legislation reverse such construction. It is not given power by itself thus to amend the Constitution;" and

Whereas, the General Assembly of North Carolina, mindful that powers assumed by the Supreme Court in one field today will become precedents for further assumption of power in other fields tomorrow and recognizing, as did the founders of this great nation, that tyranny naturally and always follows naked power; and the Supreme Court of the United States has recently denied to the States the right to have laws of their own to deal with subversion or espionage against the nation; and the states have been denied the right to dismiss individuals from their employment who refuse to answer questions concerning their connections with communism by invoking the Fifth Amendment; and the fears of Thomas Jefferson are rapidly becoming realities—"The great object of my fear is the Federal Judiciary. That body, like gravity, ever acting, with noiseless foot, and unalarming advance . . . is engulfing insidiously the special governments into the jaws of that which feeds them"; and

Whereas, there is implicit in these recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court a most grievous and deplorable disrespect for declared and established law; and

Whereas, by reason of this disrespect for declared and established law on the part of the United States Supreme Court, the people's faith and confidence in the judicial ability and temperament and judicial self-restraint of our highest federal judges has been most severely shaken; and

Whereas, the General Assembly of North Carolina recognizes its solemn duty to help alert the Nation to the fact that the Supreme Court of the United States, by interpretations and constructions of the Constitution, encroaches upon the reserved powers of the states; and our failure to discharge the solemn duty to alert our people and the Nation would constitute passive acquiescence in dangerous precedents aimed at undermining our democratic form of government:

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring:

Section 1. That the States have never granted to the United States Supreme Court, or any other court, the power to amend the Federal Constitution, nor does the Federal Government possess any powers not delegated to it by the Constitution of the United States.

Sec. 2. That the grievous and deplorable disrespect for the declared and established law of the land on the part of the United States Supreme Court constitutes a most dangerous and oppressive usurpation of the power of the Congress and the rights of the States and the people, and a grave threat to constitutional government in these United States.

Sec. 3. That the State of North Carolina does condemn and protest the oppressive usurpation of power by the ever be preserved.

Sec. 4. That the State of North Carolina does call upon all States and the Congress of the United States to bring to an end this tyrannical usurpation of power by the United States Supreme Court and to prevent now and in the future other and further encroachment upon the reserved powers of the States and the rights of the people, to the end that constitutional government shall ever be preserved.

Sec. 5. That a copy of this Resolution be sent to the Governor and Legislature of each of the States, to the presiding officers of each of the Houses of the Congress of the United States, to North Carolina's representatives and senators in the Congress, to the President of the United States, and to the several judges of the United States Supreme Court.

Sec. 6. This Resolution shall be in full force and effect from and after its adoption.

In the General Assembly read three times and ratified, this the 27th day of July, 1956.

Proceedings of the Pardons Board Investigating Committee taken at open session thereof held in the Caucus Room of the House of Representatives, State Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pa., at 11:00 a. m. on February 19, 1957, all members of said joint committee of both House and Senate being present, with Chairman Tompkins presiding.

APPEARANCES:

Frank R. Hean, Secretary of the Pardons Board.

Thomas D. McBride, Attorney General

David S. Kohn, Counsel employed by the Committee

James W. Evans, Associate Counsel employed by the Committee

Members of the Committee

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We are here this morning for one purpose only. We don't propose at this time to start any inquiry into the subject of our Committee, but we want to get from the Secretary of the Pardons Board the procedures involved in getting a case before the Pardons Board and what happens after it gets there. This is merely for purpose of information, and not for any inquiry into any particular case. Mr. McBride, you are appearing—

MR. McBRIDE: The Attorney General, on behalf of Mr. Hean of the Pardon Board, the Governor, and any other officials of State Government whom under the law I am charged with the duty of representing.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Attorney General, at this time may we request that after this meeting this morning you meet with the Committee?

MR. McBRIDE: Splendid. I hope that will facilitate the investigation.

FRANK R. HEAN, Secretary of the Pardon Board, having appeared at the request of the Committee, being duly sworn by the Chairman of the Committee, testified as follows:

Q What is your name, please?
A Frank R. Hean.
Q You are a member of the Dauphin County Pardon Board?
A I am a member of the Dauphin County Pardon Board.
Q How long have you been Secretary of the Pardon Board?
A In this administration? Since May 1955.
Q And previously had you been Secretary of the Pardon Board?
A I had been.
Q When was that, and what date?
A In September of 1936 on through about February of 1940.
Q What are your duties in connection with the operation of the Pardon Board?
A In the processing of applications, the proper needs of what the action of the Board requires with respect to any application. Conduct inquiries, contact any parties interested (judges, penitentiaries), and anything else, any information of any agency that might help the Board in coming to a decision.
Q It is your duty, is it not, to retain all the files, the original application and all copies that come into your hands in any particular case?
A It is my duty to retain the original of all such papers.
Q Did you bring with you this morning papers and information—
A I was instructed to bring about seven.
Q Will you kindly pass them around?

(Mr. Hean hands members of the committee various papers)

Q These particular rules of the Pardon Board which you have just distributed—when were they written up?
A I think the date is on the Page 8. You will notice "1951". And then there is attached to it a sheet of paper with two additional amendments in writing.
Q These were adopted by the Pardons Board?
A Yes.
Q When were the applications for commutation adopted by the Pardon Board? If you know?
A I do not know. These were in existence at the time I moved in in May, 1955.
Q Can you tell us under what law or act the Pardon Board is constituted to act?
A It is under Constitutional provision. I believe it is Article 4. Section 9. of the Constitution.
Q How many of those can a man sign for reconsideration?
A We have once a year. That is, a year's interval must elapse between the application and the re-opening of an application.
Q Do you have in your records all applications to the Board of Pardons from January of 1952 to the present date?
A We do.
Q They are available to us?
A They are.
Q These applications are filed—nine copies, I think? Is that correct?
A Yes. Correct. Correct. An original and eight white copies.
Q The filing fee is fifteen dollars?
A That is correct.
Q Must an applicant have an attorney to file?
A No, sir.
Q Are these applications often made out by the prison authorities for a prisoner?
A Personally, I couldn't say so but I have that general impression—there are times when a prisoner gets assistance out of the Penitentiary office.
Q An officer—
A Usually a Parole Officer.
Q It is usually a Parole Officer? This application for commutation states briefly the crime?
A Yes.
Q And all accomplices which the defendant might have had?
A That is correct.
Q It also states the complete record of any crimes in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or elsewhere?
A That is correct?
Q It requires the applicant to tell you where he will reside if he is pardoned?
A On the one page you will see applicant's record and employment.
Q This application also requires the applicant to give the names and addresses of his counsel?

A Yes.
Q And whether the fee has been received?
A That is correct.
Q In addition to the questions answered by the applicant, what other information is solicited before the file becomes complete for the hearing?
A One of the white copies is sent to the Trial Judge. If he is deceased, it will go to the present Judge of the County Court. A copy is also sent to the District Attorney. Also, a copy is sent to the Board of Parole. A copy is sent to the Penitentiary in which he is confined.
Q Will you explain to us, if you know, whether a copy is sent to the Board of Parole?
A They have a staff to investigate. A white one is sent to the parole agency and they make it their job to inquire into the basis of facts. It is sent to us in typewritten form.
Q In other words, the Parole Board has agents and they solicit information in connection with the application?
A That is correct.
Q From whom do they solicit that information?
A Judges, District Attorneys, individuals, victims, and the general feeling of the community they may chance—
Q Is that particular information on file?
A It is sent to us, yes.
Q You have it?
A Oh, yes, indeed.
Q You send to the District Attorney and Judges a copy of that information, and in addition to that, a copy of their comments?
A Yes.
Q A statement of their attitude?
A In many instances we have a reply in connection with their statements.
Q Are there any other papers filed?
A The Penitentiary gives a run-down as to what the man's conduct has been during the Penitentiary years. I presume, an expression of their opinion and general connection with him—whether he would be a good risk.
Q Will you tell us who usually completes those forms for the Penitentiary?
A I cannot tell you. I don't know.
Q Is it the Parole Officer?
A I am guessing when I say that.
Q Now, in addition, isn't it a fact there are usually filed along with the application by the applicant letters from people who are interested in him?
A Yes, that is correct.
Q And a letter stating they will give him a job if he is released?
A In many instances. Not always.
Q Is that a requirement of the Pardon Board—that he have a job before being released?
A No, that is not required. He is not released from the Penitentiary until the Parole Board has checked, and if it was not satisfactory they do not release him.
Q I think that it might be well for you to clarify for us the functions of the Pardon Board and the Parole Board.
A The Pardon Board brings the prisoner to the door of the Penitentiary. We bring him there. And the Parole Board picks him up at the Penitentiary door. In other words, we commute the sentence.
Q And supervise?
A And supervise him for the maximum of his sentence.
Q Does the Parole Board ever take original justice out of the Pardon Board—being connected with it?
A No. sir. I understand they are not permitted under the law.
Q Is there anything else you can think of to complete a file before the matter is set before the Pardon Board?
A I have brought with me what might be of interest, from the time—from the date of the hearing (which we will have one this afternoon)—and that is an analysis sheet prepared by me. That is boiled down —That is the analysis sheet.
Q This is a sheet usually made up?
A By myself.
Q For each member of the Pardon Board?
A For each member of the Pardon Board. That is more of a break-down, a boiling down, which is set before them at the time of the discussion.
Q Previous to the hearing, do you give a writing—a notice—to the applicant of the date, time and place of hearing?
A There is a date published, and that is distributed at least two weeks before the hearing—in a local newspaper—two weeks prior to the hearing—of the person coming before the Board—who was sentenced from that particular county. Not every weekly newspaper publication. In a newspaper of general circulation, together with the man's paper, if there is one such in the locality.
Q How is the Pardon Board made up?
A .....Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of Internal Affairs, and the Secretary of the Commonwealth.
Q They all sit?
A They all sit, unless prevented by some extraordinary event. They attend the meeting, and sit.
Q Are notes of testimony taken at each hearing?
A We have no notes of testimony. If a District Attorney is present from any county, we have a record of what is said before the Pardon Board.
Q You have a stenographer who takes the statements made by the District Attorney in opposing?
A Or recommending.
Q And of the counsel for the applicant?
A That is correct.
Q And any relatives?
A Both cases. That is true.
Q Is that filed for consideration before they make a decision on a particular case?
A Not as a rule.
Q Is that particular testimony transcribed?
A It is transcribed, and we have it on file right now.
Q In cases where it isn't done (You say it is not done as a rule), the members of the Board must of necessity rely on—
A Their recollection is very fresh right after the session. We go into an executive session, and at that time those cases that are easily disposed of are handled, and those held for further study—But their recollection is very, very good.

Q Before they make a decision is there any further study of the case, or do they go into executive session right after the hearing?
A They go into executive session right after every hearing.
Q Are any notes of testimony taken?
Q No.
Q On the decision?
A That is right.
Q There are no minutes of the meeting?
A There is no—Of course, there is a report.
Q Is there a report?
A The report of the general attitude of the Board, the general impression of the Board, any recommendation, any information they feel that the members—
Q Is there any recommendation?
A There is a vote. Oh, yes.
Q That is made at the time?
A At the time the vote is taken.
Q And those that require further consideration—when do they consider those?
A We have cases under consideration on which I am directed to write letters to individuals and organizations. That is what we call "held under advisement."
Q Is there a transcript in those cases in which there is further discussion necessary?
A Not upon fact.
Q A further discussion?
A No. Only I mark them "Held under advisement."
Q Do you consider cases after you obtain the information? Are there records made of the discussions in the matter?
A No, sir. No record.
Q Isn't it a fact that quite often these cases "Held under advisement" have been held at least thirty to sixty days?
A Many times. That is right.
Q Now then, as far as further considering many of these particular cases—do you know what the custom of the Board is for refreshing their recollection on what anyone has said at the original hearing? Or, what the District Attorney said?
A When the notes are transcribed, occasionally they ask to see what one side or the other said, but most always they depend on their recollection.
Q Do they meet together, or decide individually?
A They meet together.
Q Where are those meetings held?
A In the chambers of the Supreme Court room.
Q Open meetings?
A No, sir.
Q Isn't it a fact that many times a counsel files an application, and where a prisoner files an application, he has no no way of knowing what data the institution—such as the Parole Board, Judge or District Attorney—gave the Board of Pardons that they might consider?
A Do I understand whether you mention the prisoner, or the attorney for the prisoner?
Q Either one.
A Either one might be denied.
Q The file is available to the prisoner, on what was said or they did?
A The files are open for inspection, and they have been.
Q Do you mean your files of the Pardon Board are completely open to see what the State's investigation say about it?
A In many instances. Some of it is confidential. Some of it is confidential. Some of it is not.
Q Confidential?
A Some men don't want to be quoted, I presume, because it is marked, "Confidential."
Q Who determines whether it is confidential, or not?
A I don't know. That is a very difficult queston to answer. I don't know the answer, myself. I do not determine.
Q You have a set policy on that?
A No. I have no set policy.
Q Has the Board a set policy upon divulging the contents of a file?
A All I know is that the matters on file are open to the inspection of interested persons.
Q Upon application to whom?
A Well, the attorney for the applicant.
Q I say, upon the application of whom? Who has to make the request for that?
A Say, you are asking this morning about a man named John Brown, and you are contemplating making an application in June, and you want to see what happened to any prior applications; you would come up to the Board and they would show you.
Q I am talking about current applications.
A The current applications wouldn't really be available, because technically they are in the hands of the Board. Say, the February meeting—all that material is in the hands of the Board. If you come up now, you wouldn't be able to see it; but after the session is closed, after the meeting today if you wanted to see it, it would be available.
Q Quite often the complaints you hear about are those situations where the Board relied upon information which wasn't available to the counsel or the applicant, and counsel or applicant has no way of checking its validity.
A I have no proof, mister, on that.
Q Have you received any complaints on the action of the Board?
A I have no complaints. Do you mean—voting?
Q Do you take part in judging?
A No.
Q Do they ever ask you questions?
A Why, certainly.
Q How long before the meetings do members of the Pardon Board receive these complete files?
A They are available about four to five days before the proceedings.
Q These reports are not—
A We have a representative file. We take photostatic copies.
Q Now then, after the applicant, or his counsel, has argued the case, what is the next step taken in that particular case?
A The Board then votes on whether they are recommending a pardon, or refuse, or some recommendation.
Q What happens then if they refuse?
A The results of the Board are sent to the applicant or his attorney, the District Attorney—
Q Penitentiary?
A The Penitentiary.
Q If the application is granted, what happens?

A When the application is granted, a charter or warrant is written up together with the results and sent to the Governor. First, signed by all the members of the Board, and then sent to the Governor for his approval.

Q Does that particular document show the vote of the Pardon Board?

A I have here a sample of it. We distribute among the members of the Board. If you care to look at them. Here is the recommendation for the— And the four members of the Board sign, if they wish.

Q The four members sign on there, and thereon is indicated the manner in which they voted?

A If they vote "No," it would be dissent, and if they voted "No" they wouldn't sign it. You have to have three members sign it.

Q They don't always vote in favor?

A Oh, no.

Q After the Governor gets it, do you know what his procedure is?

A His procedure is to sign on the line which is so indicated. We take it down to the Secretary of the Commonwealth office, and this gold seal of the Commonwealth is printed upon the charter or warrant.

Q You send it with the recommendations and the Board of Pardons file to the Governor's office?

A Yes.

Q Do you know who in the Governor's office considers these files?

A I do not.

Q Do you know whether or not there is any consultation between the Pardon Board members and the Governor before he acts on them?

A That I cannot answer because I do not know. I have never been present.

Q Have you ever been called by the Governor's office in connection with these cases?

A I have not.

Q Will you please inform us what is the function of the Pardon Board?

A The function of the Pardon Board is to recommend— In this State, as you know, the sentences are indeterminate sentences. That is, one to five, and so on. And a man, after being released from the Penitentiary, will request commutation from that Board, the Pardon Board, to consider recommending a shortening of the minimum sentence.

Q That might be three, or four, or a shortening of the original sentence?

A The reasons for that might be set forth. We have given our reasons for it when we submit it to the Governor, at length.

Q You have spoken of commutation of a maximum sentence of less than four years. What is the policy of the penal authorities in regard to a man serving a murder sentence? Does he have to be eligible for parole before receiving a limiting of his maximum?

A A man asking for commutation of his maximum sentence? I know of no policy of the Board with respect to such cases.

Q A man serving a term with a maximum of four— must he then go to the Pardon Board for commutation before he is released?

A At the end of two years, why, if he has conducted himself and has a good parole progress, he is then released.

Q He is released if he has a good parole progress without going before the Pardon Board?

A Yes.

Q Who has jurisdiction?

A The Parole Board, if he has a satisfactory progress.

Q Under the law, a man who has served less than the determinate sentence, if he does not meet with the requirements—

A I so understand that.

Q In other words, the Board of Pardons never releases a man. They only make available to the Parole Board his release?

A That is correct.

Mr. McBRIDE: It would help if I interpolate in these formal matters. I won't do it if you don't want me to, but I think it would help in these formal matters. Let's assume a sentence is for not less than two or more than four years; and then the Board of Parole has no power to release or parole until the expiration of the two-year period, because the Supreme Court has held the Constitution is inclusive of the sentence; but the Board of Pardons has the right after one and a half or two years to cut down by commuting the minimum sentence, at which time it shall be cut down; and then the Board of Parole has the right to consider parole after the end of a year and a half or a year, although they would not have had that right independent of the Board of Pardons; and in case where such a man has served two years of the minimum, he is eligible by the Board of Parole to be released thereafter without intervention of the Board of Pardons in any way whatever, and then would supervise him for the rest of the maximum period. If, after he is under release, he can apply for commutation of the maximum sentence, the only effect of which would be to release him from further parole supervision.

THE CHAIRMAN: I think some of the members are confused.

MR. SCOTT: When the Board of Pardons is commuting that sentence down to two, or something else, do they make it definite?

A That is right. Sometimes they commute it to the date upon which the Governor signs the commutation, sometimes they believe that the application is premature, and for reasons they do or don't say, "This man should not get out now, but we believe from information given by the court below or the District Attorney interested, that April 1st might be a good time," and then they can fix it as April 1st, independent of the Board of Parole.

EXAMINATION (CONTINUED) BY MR. KOHN:

Q Are these before the Board?

A Yes, sir.

Q Will you kindly explain the technical result of that?

A A copy identical to the form you have before you is furnished the Board. A fifteen-dollar fee is solicited. Usually, the person asking for pardon, and he very, very often makes his own plea before the Board for a pardon. That is, he is under sentence, in fact, and served a sentence in the Penitentiary and been out anywhere from two to twenty years, and he feels he would like to have the stain of that removed from him, and he comes before the Board and asks for clemency, and if so approved the Governor may so approve.

Q Have there been such cases?

A I presume it could. I know of no possible person doing it, but I see no reason—

Q Will you kindly give us the legal effect of the pardon?

A Mr. Musmano has just recently written an opinion on that. But, I would say a pardon—It was a dissent.

Q Actually, there have been cases where men have been convicted of perjury and the Board pardoned them?

A No, it wouldn't actually remove the stain or majority opinion.

Q In many cases pardoning of them could, where holding Federal, State or other positions?

A That is the purpose of it, to remove some of the effects of the conviction.

BY MR. YOSKO: The action that was taken by the Pardon Board—is there an accompanying opinion that goes with it?

A Yes, the reasons, as we call it. You will see there a form in which we fill out the reasons why we are coming to the question of commutation of the sentence—whether a minimum or maximum. They are at length.

BY MR. YOSKO: Those opinions or reasons are on file in each case?

A Yes, sir.

BY MR. LOPRESTI: I note from the tops of these forms they were apparently printed in March, 1956?

A That is correct.

BY MR. LOPRESTI: Can you tell us whether or not they are a form used prior to that?

A Why, just a reprint.

BY MR. LOPRESTI: These forms are numbered in sheets?

A That is correct.

BY MR. LOPRESTI: And is there any fee, or are they given free?

A No, two dollars. In other words, the Board can be charged fourteen dollars.

BY MR. LOPRESTI: And that, you say, is in addition to the fee that is lodged—with the fifteen dollars?

A With the fifteen dollars, when that sheet is filed with us. This is audited every sixteen months, and every statement I have given seven sheets (sets) as well to the General Assembly.

BY MR. YOSKO: I am looking at this envelope.

A That is correct.

BY MR. YOSKO: I would like to have some explanation—

A That is under the Act of 1901 where prisoners get light sentences in county jails, and if they behave themselves they are given a minimum or flat sentence. That is the only factor involved under Act of 1901, known as the good behaviour act.

BY MR. YOSKO: I note that is a different form than the other form.

A Yes, sir. That is an envelope and filing reasons why we have the action. There are five copies made up of those reasons. We keep one, the Governor keeps one, two are preserved so that they are filed with the Clerk of the House and the Clerk of the Senate at the opening of the session for the two years prior.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: And others, the counsel and the District Attorney?

A No.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: They are not?

A No, but they are available if they want them—if you people ask for the reasons. They are left out.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: It is not part of your proceedings to send those reasons to the interested parties?

A No, sir. We never do.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: What is the quorum of the Pardon Board?

A Three.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: In a case with counsel, the counsel who represents an applicant before the Board—it appears on that information, does it not?

A That is correct.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: That information would include information as to whom the counsel was on the trial case or appeal of the case?

A It is supposed to. If you will look on the application you will see who represented along the—

BY THE CHAIRMAN: How many days before a hearing is the list closed?

A We close the list on the tenth day of any month. It can be heard two months following.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: In other words—about sixty days?

A Yes, sir.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: What the the periods of meeting? How often?

A Ten months a year. For two months, July and August, the Board doesn't sit.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: How many cases do you average?

A We have been running between seventy and ninety a month.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: How long a time does it take them to hear the applicants, say, on seventy cases?

A Well, it would take a day and a half.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: How many hours would that involve?

A Let's see. Like today, we start at one and probably run to four-thirty or five o'clock; and then tomorrow morning we start at nine-thirty, and I would guess we will use probably down to three-thirty or four o'clock.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: Is there any particular reason why many cases are held thirty to sixty days after they have been argued?

A Held under advisement, so far as the Board is concerned. Oh, yes.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: How many cases are "held under advisement," or what percentage are immediately disposed off?

A You are asking me to guess. I would guess anywhere from three to four percent are "held under advisement" by the Board before they come to any conclusion.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: In your experience, what is the longest period any case was ever held under advisement?

A I would have to go 'way back.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: Say, within the last five years?

A I have only been here since May, 1955. Two months is the best we have a case under advisement.

BY MR. FLEMING: Do I understand that the seventy cases are heard by the members in that two-day period?
A Yes.

BY MR. FLEMING: You only average about eight minutes to a case?
A I think it is about ten. Some are very lengthly, others very short.

BY MR. FLEMING: Is anyone denied to be heard?
A No.

BY MR. FLEMING: So, it takes exactly ten minutes of an hour because of the number of people appearing against the application?
A The extreme suggestion on your part. If the Board wanted to listen to a plea of other persons interested, they have a perfect right to listen.

BY MR. FLEMING: Do they listen? Or, does the Board shut them off?
A If it gets repetitious, they will shut him up. Rarely do they do it. The average attorney is pretty alert minded, therefore, and he has a sense of propriety; and I know of very few cases where they are told to shut up.

BY MR. YOSKO: After the Board is in executive session and arrives at a decision in a case, is that certified to you?
A That is right.

BY MR. YOSKO: And the parties interested?
A Yes, sir.

BY MR. YOSKO: How long a time elapses, as a general rule, between the time a case is heard and the Board arrives at a decision?
A Some of them are very quickly done, and those that are done under advisement or consideration, the Board may hold subsequent meetings to consider them. But, we will say, this afternoon we hear John Brown and he has a very good case, and no Judge or District Attorney disapproves, the Penitentiary shows a good record, and the Board says, "Yes, we will approve." In other words, about three weeks from that time that will be —that recommendation from the Board—duly signed and written up—will be in the hands of the Governor.

BY MR. YOSKO: The same thing would apply on an objection?
A We don't send any objection. That is a dead letter.

BY MR. YOSKO: That time elapses from the time a case is heard and the time—
A Further consideration cases, Senator, are held by the Board the day of a hearing.

BY MR. SCOTT: You mean, the Board will go into executive session after the hearings today and go into most of the cases?
A That is right.

BY MR. YOSKO: Am I right that the jurisdiction of the Pardon Board relates only to sentences of one year?
A The county prison can't commute—

BY MR. YOSKO: A sentence of the County Court?

MR. McBRIDE: I would say, yes, the Pardon Board has legal power under the Constitution that after a sentence—

BY MR. YOSKO: I am talking about commutations.

MR. McBRIDE: If it is a sentence of one year flat, there is no question. He has to get a minimum or maximum, and therefore, their action would be to turn him loose. But the Judge in such a case—anything up to two years, the Judge himself has a right to parole. The Pardon Board has no jurisdiction except on cases of two years and over.

BY MR. YOSKO: In other words, Mr. McBride, has the Pardon Board and the Judge both that power?

MR. McBRIDE: Yes.

BY MR. YOSKO: What would be the result if a death sentence were commuted to life imprisonment, and—
A The Parole Board would have nothing to do with him when he is under sentence of death.

BY MR. YOSKO: In other words, he has not become a subject of the Pardon Board?
A That is right.

BY MR. YOSKO: Is it not a fact that the Governor is required to file a report on his cases?
A I so understand it is.

BY MR. YOSKO: Do you know where that is filed?
A With the Clerk of the House and Senate, at the beginning of each session.

EXAMINATION (CONTINUED) BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, it has been the custom, has it not, for the Pardon Board to allow attorneys to come in the room where they are discussing these cases?
A I have never known of one.
Q The custom, usually, where they are in executive session.
A Yes.
Q How about any other time? In recess— Whether it is an accepted procedure by attorneys and parole officers to come in where the Board of Pardons are recessing?
A You mean, the attorneys and parole officers— I have known them, personally, to go up and say, "How do you do."
Q Do they go up and talk to them?
A I suppose they do. How well the relationship— But, I don't know that— I just know, by no means—
Q You mean, it isn't the generally accepted practice, as one of the members of the Board of Pardons, for them to go up and say, "Hello"?
A I don't know whether it occurs. It might be the accepted practice. Members of the Board, or purely—, or friends.
Q Mr. Hean, as Secretary of the Pardon Board, will you make available to us such information—
A I know I am required under subpoena C.D.T. to furnish such information as you require.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: Will you make available such information as this Committee desires?
A Only upon advice of counsel.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: That is a list of information (handing paper to witness) the Committee would like to have; and we would like to have it before the day is out, that information, so our counsel can proceed.

MR. McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, may I propose this information—it might be late at night, because we start in this afternoon with the Board of Pardons and I don't know when I will have a chance to look over it; but I will look over it and give you a very prompt answer.

BY MR. BELL: I have been sitting here listening to a number of questions and answers about this material the Committee wants furnished. Now, what is the box score?
A It would be made available upon advice of counsel for the Chairman of the Board.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: Will you see that all that information on that list is provided?

MR. McBRIDE: That is right.

EXAMINATION BY MR. McBRIDE:

A Mr. Hean, you talked about certain confidential reports which are not made public, either to counsel or to the applicants. Are they reports from the penal institutions themselves?

A They are from the Parole Board. They are stamped "Confidential."

Q Do you also get that confidential report from the institutions themselves?

A We do.

Q Do you get any report from a Judge, or District Attorney, or any other person as being confidential?

A Well, in the broad sense—correct. There is an expression in there, or a statement from the Judge or District Attorney, suggesting that his report to us be kept confidential; and then, of course, we comply with his request.

Q Before the Board goes into session, do you prepare these summaries for every member of the Board for every case, including a copy of the petition, the summary classification, the results of any psychiatric or psychological tests upon entry into the institution, the records of the man while in the institution, his criminal record before arriving here, the recommendations of the Judge and District Attorney, and any confidential report you have from either the institution or Parole Board, and do you say that you have that before each member of the Board upon the date of the hearing?

A I would suppose they have that before them at the public hearing.

Q Is it true, also, that all cases on each day are decided in executive session on that day, except relatively few? Except where some question has arisen as to whether the Judge, District Attorney, the medical examiner, or some other person, could throw additional light on the particular case?

A They are so decided at every session.

Q And the main reasons given for the type of disposition?

A That is correct.

Q Are there any people who have asked you to treat certain information as confidential and also explained the reasons why they wanted it to be treated as confidential?

A They haven't given me the reasons, except asked me to keep it confidential.

MR. McBRIDE: (To the Committee) I would like to disclose it to you in your executive session and have you say whether you think it should be brought out in public—and we will be satisfied.

BY MR. YOSKO: This confidential information you are talking about—it is the information that is withheld from the attorneys and others looking at the record?

A Generally speaking.

BY MR. YOSKO: Is this confidential information going to be withheld from this Committee?

A I think the Attorney General just made a statement to that effect.

MR. McBRIDE: I think, in any particular case, if the Committee wants to see this confidential information in executive session, you can see it the same way we saw it. I think after you have seen it, the nature of it, I think you will see there is a definite reason—

BY THE CHAIRMAN: We want to make sure if anything is to be withheld from us. Then I think we should know what it is.

A That is right. You should know.

BY THE CHAIRMAN: Will it be available to our counsel at periods when we are not in session?

A If Mr. Kohn would come up to my office and say, "I would like to see the case of John Smith"—

MR. McBRIDE: That would have to be the policy of the Board of Pardons. Of course, you are now asking permission and I will take it up with the Board of Pardons. Any decision that would apply to Mr. Kohn would apply—

BY THE CHAIRMAN: We will file in writing the desires of the Committee in that connection, and then advise you whom we will authorize to look into the files.

MR. McBRIDE: I think the Board of Pardons will be able to completely agree— To agree with this Committee.

EXAMINATION (CONTINUED) BY MR. KOHN:

Q Would you tell the Investigating Committee here why, if decisions are made almost immediately after the executive session of the Board of Pardons, the results are not known to the applicants or persons interested for from thirty to sixty days?

A That is correct. Perhaps not thirty to sixty days; but two weeks must elapse so the reasons will be phrased among the members of the Board.

Q You mean, they must be considered?

A No, the phraseology. And one of the members authorized to rewrite it. Any of the members has a right to approve or disapprove. And we must wait until the Governor— We await his signature.

BY MR. SCOTT: Do you dictate the phraseology, or each member of the Board?

A No, I do it, and send it around to the Board for their approval.

EXAMINATION BY MR. KOHN:

Q Isn't it a fact that sometimes three members of the Board might agree, but the same thing that might make them agree might not be in agreement with the other one—and what constitutes a majority opinion—so—

A That is correct.

Q The petition is final on the tenth of the month, and about sixty days later it will be heard—

A He asks to reconsider—

Q Isn't it a fact that when filed on the tenth of February it would be heard at the March meeting of the Board?

A Filed on the tenth of February it would be heard at the April meeting.

Q At the April meeting?

A Yes, sir.

Q That would be approximately sixty days?

A Approximately sixty days. That was the rule up until 1955, when we found that to get material from the Parole Board and the Penitentiary the thirty days was such a limited time that we could not do the investigating that had to be done, so we extended it.

JAMES WILLIAM EVANS, ESQUIRE, 5 N. Front Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Committee (Assisting Counsel),

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This committee, of which one member is absent this morning, is directed under House Resolution No. 1, Printer's No. 8, of the 1957 Session of the General Assembly, as follows:

"Resolved (The Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint three members of the House and the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint three members of the Senate, who together shall constitute a joint committee, and be authorized and directed to make an immediate investigation of all actions since January 4, 1950 of the Board of Pardons in connection with the pardon, parole, or commutation of sentence of persons convicted of crimes."

Now this committee fully realizes that the scope of our inquiry cannot and is not designated to change any decisions of the Pardons Board.

We further realize that we are not here to crucify anybody, but to try to clarify the procedures and actions of the Pardons Board. If there are any weaknesses in the procedures and the actions which have taken place, we feel that it is our duty to try and point out those weaknesses, and try and pass remedial legislation. If there have been any abuses in connection with the powers of the Pardons Board, we also feel it our duty to point out what those abuses are.

Now the committee, consisting of Senator Scott, Senator Yosko, Representative Lopresti, Representative Bell and myself, are present this morning and under our rules constitute a quorum of the committee; Senator Fleming is absent.

There is appearing, on behalf of the committee, David S. Kohn as Counsel. There is also present with us Attorney General Thomas McBride and I see three members of the—I guess four members of the Pardons Board; Miss Genevieve Blatt, Lieutenant Governor Furman, Secretary of the Commonwealth Finnegan and Attorney General McBride.

With that we will turn the matter over to Counsel Kohn at this time to proceed with the hearing of the day.

Mr. KOHN. Mr. Chairman, I would like to call at this time Mr. Frank Hean, Secretary of the Board of Pardons for further questioning. He has been sworn before.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will re-swear him.

COMMITTEE'S EVIDENCE

FRANK R. HEAN, having been duly sworn was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, in the record you have been previously identified as Secretary of the Board of Pardons, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q I show you a booklet entitled "Rules of the Board of Pardons" and offer this for the record, and ask you whether or not that was adopted by the Board of Pardons as the rules and regulations under which they will operate?

A That is so and you include the amendment, do you not?

Q Yes.

A It is so.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: May we have all exhibits first marked and identified in order that they may be referred to by exhibit number?

MR. KOHN. Will you mark this, please?

(Reporter complied.)

Booklet entitled "Rules of the Board of Pardons," produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 1. PLS 2-27-57

Sheet attached to "Rules of the Board of Pardons," entitled "Board of Pardons Changes," produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 2. PLS 2-27-57

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now referring to Exhibit No. 1, that contains the names of the Members of the Board of Pardons as follows, does it not: Honorable Roy E. Furman, Lieutenant Governor; Honorable James A. Finnegan, Secretary of the Commonwealth; Honorable Herbert B. Cohen, Attorney General; Honorable Genevieve Blatt, Secretary of Internal Affairs; and Frank R. Hean, Secretary. Is that correct?

A That is not correct because Mr. Cohen is no longer Attorney General, and we stamped over Mr. Cohen's name the name of the new Attorney General, Mr. McBride.

Q I ask you whether or not it contains those names?

A It contains those names.

Q And it contains an overprint of the name of Thomas D. McBride in place of Herbert B. Cohen as Attorney General at the present time?

A That is correct.

Q Now those are the rules adopted by that group for the operation of the Pardons Board, are they?

A They are.

Q In functioning, does the Pardons Board follow those rules strictly?

A Not one hundred per cent.

Q Well are there any supplemental rules then in writing?

A There are.

Q Where are they?

A They are attached to Exhibit 1, known as Exhibit 2.

Q There is an Exhibit 2, attached thereto, which is a sheet of paper containing two items that are changing Rule V, Section (b) and Rule VI, Section (b), is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Now those particular additions thereto, are they strictly followed?

A They have been strictly followed, yes.

Q They have been?

A They have been since their adoption.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, will you tell us what the rule was and what change was made? You are talking about a change in the rule. Maybe you know and I do not.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Will you tell us what change Exhibit 2 made in the original rule set forth?

A The original rule provided a thirty day interval approximately between the date of the filing of the application and the date of hearing. The Board amended that rule by extending it approximately sixty days between the date of filing and the date of hearing before the Board in open session, the reason being if you care to hear it—I don't suppose.

The next amendment followed that any petition for a rehearing is a petition filed within the year. Such would be allowed upon the consideration of the Board, provided new facts were set forth in this petition for rehearing that were both substantial and material and not previously presented before the Board.

Q The word in that particular section capitalized is "new," is it not?

A That is correct.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What was the date of the adoption of the amendments, Mr. Hean?

A I have not made—but they were adopted along in 1955, approximately in September of 1955.

Q And effective when?

A And effective immediately, yes sir. They were not to the amendments. As I understand them, they were not too different that any delay had to be made.

Q Wherein do those amendments differ from the rules that were in existence?

A The old rule had only the thirty day interval between date of filing and the date of public hearing. We extended that interval to sixty days in round numbers, and the second modification was that on petitions for rehearing the Board felt that to hear a rehash of the matter that had been previously presented without introduction of new material, substantial and material, it would not be wise. They did not want to hear it so they put that amendment in. It is more or less a re-emphasis of the attitude of the Board and makes it clear.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q In regard to the rule for rehearing, can you tell this committee whether or not that has been strictly followed?

A I would say generally it has been strictly followed.

Q Aren't there numerous cases in the files in which rehearings have been granted either without new facts having been alleged or upon the old applications?

A I could not give you a very categorical answer to that without a review of the file.

Q Do you know of any cases?

A Offhand, no.

Q In the matters where they have deviated from the rules, who has made the determination for such deviation?

A The Board acts on all petitions for rehearings and considers them at Executive Session, and if they decide to allow a rehearing, that is so ordered and I inform all parties interested.

Q Are there ever rehearings on rehearings, if I make my position clear?

A Yes, I understand; right offhand I cannot say. I do not want to say that with an error.

Q You would not say that there were not any in the files?

A I would not like to say that without reference to the file, Mr. Kohn.

Q And as I understood your previous testimony, where a commutation is refused, there has been no official record or a vote thereon kept to show on what basis it was refused or how the vote might have been divided?

A There are no minutes kept of why the Board refused; only the record is refused.

Q In fact, there is no record in the particular files. The only record that is available on that is a card index which you keep in your office.

A That is correct, together with the notes on my calendar.

Q Your calendar is a day book, in effect, showing the decisions made on each particular case.

A That is correct, Mr. Kohn.

Q Together with notations that are on as to any reasons for dissent or approval.

A Usually, rarely do you have the refusal basis; the affirmative action of the Board and a word or two would disclose to me what was the thought of the Board in any affirmative action.

Q And from this word or two which you received and noted on your book, who wrote up the recommendation of the Pardons Board, the phraseology thereof and reasoning thereof?

A I do it probably in ninety-nine per cent of the time.

Q And before the Members sign it, do they approve the phraseology and reasoning thereof?

A Before the Reasons, as I call them, are approved, they are distributed to each Member of the Board for his or her inspection and reading and correction, and many times they are corrected.

Q Once they attach their names thereto, that becomes the final act of the Pardons Board, does it not?

A That is correct.

Q And in attaching their names thereto, they have adopted the reasoning as set forth in the commutation?

A That is correct.

Q And the Reasons thereof?

A And the Reasons, yes.

Q And the phraseology?

A And the phraseology.

Q Now will you tell us whether or not the reasoning set forth in the commutation made by the Board is based solely upon facts which appear either in the notes taken during the hearing or the documents which are contained in the files?

A They are based on both bases; what is heard at the hearing in open session and what is also contained in the folder from our various sources of information on the case.

Q But what I am asking you specifically is whether or not the reasoning and phraseology, and the Reasons given for such commutation, are based solely on record facts and documents?

A When you use the word "phraseology," many times the exact words are not quoted. They are not verbatim but the sense of the report that we may have is incorporated.

Q Well what you are saying is that you incorporate some part of the record as you see fit into the wording of the commutation?

A I think that is a very fair statement.

Q And that phraseology comes from something that is in the record or on the record?

A That is correct, Mr. Kohn.

Q Now I call your attention specifically to Section XII, paragraph (b), of the booklet entitled "Rules of the Board of Pardons," which reads as follows:

"The individual members of the board shall not discuss pending cases except with the trial judge, trial district attorney, president judge, district attorney, assistant district attorney, private prosecuting attorney and members of the boards of trustees or boards of inspectors or wardens or keepers of institutions in which the applicants are or were confined."

Did I read that correctly?

A You did.

Q Are there any exceptions to that rule?

A Well the only exception I would say is that the Board of Parole is included in the matter of reports that we get. We also get them, of course, from prison inspectors, prison wardens, penitentiary staffs and also the Board of Parole.

Q Are there any other persons excepted from that rule?

A They are in addition to it, not excepted.

Q I mean in addition to it. Thank you for your correction.

A We would not—I have no record of anyone other than that group mentioned here, plus the Parole Board.

Q Have you found any cases which have come before the Board in which there was evidence that persons outside of the persons mentioned in paragraph XII, subsection (b), have spoken to members of the Board?

A I have no personal knowledge.

Q Has any member of the Board during the time you have been Secretary to the Board of Pardons disqualified himself from sitting and considering a case?

A Yes, sir.

Q Now just a minute. On the basis that someone outside of those mentioned in XII (b) has talked to him about the case and he did not want to sit on it?

A The only disqualification that I know of—I am going to answer your question. No, I do not know of any. The only disqualification has been when members of the Board, prior to their assignment as Board members, were interested in cases in private practice or for other purposes.

Q For the record I am not talking about Mr. McBride, so we get that straight. I am talking about any other possible cases where Board members had been contacted by individuals not allowed to contact them under Rule XII (b); that they disqualified themselves because someone had talked to them.

A Not to my knowledge.

Q I note by your files that there are many individual letters received in specific cases, and I ask you whether or not the Board ever makes any attempt to verify the accuracy and the reliability of such letters?

A I have no such recollection that they have ever checked the writers of letters on behalf of any applicant that we receive.

Q Would you say, however, that in many instances the Board has referred specifically in its recommendations to having received such letters and basing part of their action on such letters?

A I would say that in Reasons we have, from time to time, stated that citizens of a community have expressed their opinion favorably towards the applicant, not mentioning the number. Sometimes we say a large number or a few; we do that from time to time.

Q In other words, you say hat the Board does rely on letters sent in?

A I did not say rely; I said they referred to it.

Q They referred to it in their Reasons?

A In their Reasons, yes.

Q In your previous testimony, you stated that the parole agent attached to the Parole Board makes preliminary investigations for the Board of Pardons, because the Board of Pardons has no such facility at their command, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q I think you also stated that the Parole Board Agent, assigned to the Pardons Board, specifically contacts the victims or their relatives to find out their attitude on any particular case. Did you say that in your previous testimony?

A I do not recall. If I did, it was inadvertent because I am not positive in every instance they contact the victim or relatives of the victim or the victim himself if he is alive as to his attitude, no.

Q You say now that you do not feel that they do in all cases?

A That is right.

Q Do you know of any cases where they have done it in the last six months?

A Offhand, without reference to the files, I could not give you a specific answer.

Q You cannot give me one case in which the parole agent has contacted the victim?

A I could not give you right at this moment, although it may be in the file.

Q Well now if you stated in the previous testimony that this was a requirement of the Pardons Board to contact the victim or his relatives, how do you explain the failure to do so in some of these cases and the failure of the Pardons Board to require the contacting of the victims or their relatives.

A Well I cannot explain that other than I have no recollection of making the categorical statement that the Parole Board Agents contact the residence or the home or the relatives of the victim. They have done so and we have record of their report.

Q Do you say now that it is an unusual thing for them to contact them or is it a usual thing?

A I would not say without a glance over the reports of the parole agents in many cases to find whether that is the practice or not. They do contact the applicant's family with respect to job and residence and things of that sort.

Q Do you know of any case in which the Pardons Board has held up a case until such time as they could send out an investigator to contact the vicitim or his relatives?

A I have no such recollection.

Q It has never happened in the time that you have been Secretary?

A I do not want to be categorical and I do not want to fail to give you a responsive answer, but I have no such recollection. It may have happened.

Q Now in regard to these rehearings which the Board allows, once a rehearing has been had and denied, does that end the case? What procedure would there have to be for the Board to reconsider that particular case?

A The applicant or his attorney or representative having been refused—

Q On a rehearing.

A On a rehearing having been refused and again comes back for a rehearing during the same year, that again would be based on a petition, informal to be sure, and presented to the Board. If so allowed, it would be heard.

Q Do you know of any cases?

A Offhand I cannot give you one, no sir.

Q Do you know of any cases where a rehearing has been had and refused, and a subsequent rehearing granting without the filing of a new application setting forth the reasons as required in the rules?

A I have no present recollection of it.

Q Would you say there weren't any?

A I would not get into a categorical "yes" or "no" to it.

Q Would you say that there was not a rehearing granted in such a case without even a written vote of the members of the Board?

A I have no such recollection of that being done.

Q You say there were not any?

A I would not say that, no sir.

Q There might have been?

A There might have been a lot of them.

Q Who would then decide that it was proper to violate the rules of the Board?

A The Board, as I understand it, votes. It is an independent constitutional committee and makes its own rules.

Q I think you said that to me the other day.

A You bet and I say it again.

Q I questioned you on the procedure on one particular case, and you told me that the rules had not been followed; that the Board made its own rules as it went along regardless of these.

A Not always; I did not say that under oath. We were discussing a case.

Q You make your statement accurate so I won't misquote you.

A Yes.

Q Well did you say that the Board is an administrative board responsive only—

A No, it is not an administrative board.

Q What did you say?

A I said it is an independent constitutional board.

Q I think that is correct, and in relation to the violation of the rules as set forth, what did you say their authority was?

A They are an independent constitutional board. If they care to do anything, they have the power to do it.

Q Now would the reasons that they would violate the particular rules of the Board be set forth in writing in that case or any of the cases which happened in that respect?

A It may or may not be, Mr. Kohn. That is not a very responsive answer, but I am in that position.

Q What is the policy?

A The general policy of the Board, you mean on rehearings?

Q No, I have another question, Withdraw that please. I have now found your testimony on page five of the original hearing and I quote:

"In other words, the Parole Board has the agents and they solicit information in connection with the application."

That is the question.

"Answer: That is correct.

"Question: And from whom do they solicit that information?

"Answer: Judges, district attorneys, individuals, victims and the general feeling of the community they may chance—" and you were cut off.

Now do you know of any cases in which they have contacted the victims, their relatives or the feeling of the community in regard to any particular case?

A They have, but I cannot give you at this moment a specific case.

Q Well is it so unusual that you would not remember whether or not it has been done regularly?

A It is not done regularly, no.

Q Why not?

A Well I do not know why not.

Q Doesn't the Pardons Board consider the attitude of the victim or their relatives or the feeling of the community in arriving at their decision on these cases?

A Not always, no.

Q Well do they ever?

A Oh yes, they certainly listen to anybody that has any objection.

Q Let's not evade the question. The question that I am asking you is, you are there in the consideration of cases before the Pardons Board, are you not?

A Yes.

Q Whether or not they consider or have attempted to find out the attitude of either the victim, his relatives or the community in general in any case that you know of?

A There have been such cases but I cannot give you a specific name or number or when it was.

Q Are they so far and few between that you cannot remember?

A I would say generally—no, I am not trying to evade it because rarely, rarely has the victim's family or relatives written or presented themselves before the Board at open hearing in objection to the action of the Board or contemplated action.

Q Is it also a fact that the victim or his relatives receive no notice of the possible commutation application before the Board?

A Not individual notice but there is a public notice advertising it.

Q By public noitce, you are talking about advertising?

A That is correct.

Q Isn't it a fact that you do not advertise rehearings?

A As a rule, no; I would say generally no.

Q Who establishes the rule?

A The rehearings are not advertised.

Q Well then it is not as a rule. You mean generally they are not.

A The original application is advertised.

Q Now I have looked through your files and I have yet to find a copy of an advertisement, such as is required by the rules of the Pardons Board, in your files. Where are they filed?

A They are filed right up there and we have copies of them.

Q Well not with files.

A Not with the file of the individual, no.

Q And who picks the papers in which these particular applications for commutation are advertised?

A I get a list from the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Q I am not interested in that.

A You see what I mean, I pick them.

Q Who picks them?

A I do not know who picks them; I get a list.

Q You get a list?

A That is right.

Q Does that list attempt to pick out a newspaper which would give the general public the most information in regard to these or do you pick out country newspapers which might be in the—

A In large metropolitan areas, they are always papers of general circulation, of a good circulation

Q How many times a week do you advertise?

A Once.

Q And how many weeks?

A Once.

Q You know, as matter of fact, it just so happens that I know that you see the Middletown Press, a small country paper in Dauphin County, do you not?

A We also use the Patriot, too.

Q You use the Patriot also?

A Yes.

Q What about the legal paper of the Bar Association?

A That is always sent to, and every county that has a legal journal.

Q Now when the vote of any member of the Pardons Board is recorded in your particular book, are there any reasons recorded with it?

A You mean negative or affirmatives?

Q Yes.

A No reasons, no sir.

Q So then it is up to you to go over the files and find such reasons as will justify the vote of that particular member, is that correct?

A In general that is correct.

Q And you have no lead as to what his reason may be for or against?

A The individual?

Q Yes, the individual.

A No, but I sense the feeling of the Board on any favorable recommendations and try to write my Reasons in conformity thereto. Then they have, each member has the right as I have stated to correct it, and they do from time to time.

Q Now in many cases before the Board there are serious crimes which involve the community generally, such as rape and other offenses which may outrage the feeling of the community. Why hasn't the Pardons Board attempted to find out the feeling of the community in these cases?

A I can only give you one answer. The Board of Pardons has no staff equipped or trained to sense the community. We must depend in many instances on what the parole agent may give us. If he does not give us anything, we have no such information.

Q Well you do have in your files newspaper clippings of particular applicants, do you not?

A Occasionally we have them but as a general rule—

Q Who puts those in the file?

A When I see a case noted in the newspaper, sometimes we clip them and shove them in the file.

Q And those are in the file when the case is considered?

A Sometimes they are and sometimes they are not.

Q And who decides what newspaper clippings shall go in the file?

A I presume I would be the one to do the clipping.

Q And it is possible that you might pick one which favors the applicant or one which favors the community?

A That is a pretty difficult question to answer. I only—

Q You use your discretion as to which particular one goes into the file?

A I use my discretion.

Q On which particular one goes into the file?

A That is right. To answer how I exercise that discretion is difficult to answer.

Q You do not attempt then to make clippings of all the various views on the matter that might have appeared in the newspapers?

A I could not. I only get two papers; the morning Patriot and the Philadelphia morning paper and the rest of the State I never see.

Q Well now considering a case from Chester, you might have clippings in from Chester.

A No, I have not seen a Chester paper in more days than I—

Q What about Erie?

A I never see an Erie paper.

Q Well there are clippings in the Erie file, are there not?

A There may be but I have never seen—

Q Well, who put those in?

A Somebody left the paper there and I clipped it, I presume, but we do not get it.

Q Is there any significance to the fact that the clipping might be very favorable to the applicant?

A No significance, no sir.

Q And have you ever been ordered to take those clippnigs and put them in the file?

A No, never been ordered.

Q But they are in the file and they are considered?

A Some of them.

Q A few?

A Very few, very few clippings.

Q Do you ever make any findings on the basis of information contained in those newspaper clippings?

A Never to my recollection.

Q What is the significance of them in there, what help do they offer?

A They are information.

Q For who?

A For anybody who wants to look at the file; for members of the Board and myself or anyone else that has a desire to inspect that record.

Q How do you know that the information set forth in there is accurate?

A I have no reason. I depend on the newspapers that are not always accurate.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Does the Pardons Board subscribe to all newspapers in Pennsylvania?

A Subscribes to none.

Q Is there a clipping bureau in the Pardons Board?

A None, whatsoever, and may I add in answer that the clippings are coming from the Patriot or the Philadelphia Inquirer or the Philadelphia Bulletin that some of us may have bought and noticed the story and clipped it.

Q But the Pardons Board is not subscribing to them?

A Not to one newspaper.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now previous to the action of the Board of Pardons on a case, does the Governor's office receive any of the files?

A Will you clarify that? Do you mean when we have finished signing the Reasons?

Q No, before the Pardons Board has considered a case, does the Governor's office get any of the files or copies of the case and the records?

A No.

Q And you state that immediately after the hearings on these cases, the Pardons Board goes into executive session and decides the cases, most of the cases, immediately while they are fresh in their minds?

A That is correct.

Q And then you take the cases and set up the phraseology and the reasons, and they are signed officially, is that correct?

A After correction by the Board and then they are signed officially.

Q And then a complete copy of the file goes to the Governor's office, together with the recommendation of the Pardons Board?

A That is correct.

Q And when does the Governor receive those? Does he receive all of them at one time or does he receive one at a time?

A All at one time.

Q All at one time.

A There may be exceptions to that occasionally, but generally they get them all at one time.

Q And do you know how much time elapses between the time you give them to the Governor's office and the time the Governor acts on them?

A I have a record upstairs of the interval between delivery of the recommendations to the Governor and the time we receive them back from the Governor with his signature but, offhand, oh, I will just make a wild stab in the dark and give you approximately—

Q Well some cases are acted on specially, are they not?

A Particularly there is one in my mind I have that will be acted very promptly.

Q It was acted on or has been?

A It has been, yes.

Q Then you say that in these cases a complete file goes to the Governor's office?

A That is correct.

Q Now do these files contain the numerous technical appeals and decisions and testimony taken before the different courts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and United States?

A In murder cases they do, in capital cases.

Q They contain a complete record?

A They contain the record as delivered to us on appellate work, yes.

Q And that is available then to the Governor for study and determination?

A I presume it would be available to him.

Q Well I am asking you whether it accompanies the record.

A It accompanies the record.

Q Then it is a fact that he has it available for study if he so desires?

A I agree with you he does have, sure.

Q Does the Pardons Board take note of any extraneous facts outside of those I have already asked you, and I am going to ask again?

Does the Pardons Board take note of any extraneous facts outside of newspaper articles, which you have mentioned, and the testimony in the file and the documents and letters that are officially in that file, in arriving at their decision?

A I have no recollection of them ever picking out something that was not part of the record or heard at the public hearing, and base their decision on that extraneous matter. I have no such recollection.

Q How many cases do you hear in a session ordinarily?

A It runs right now about seventy-five to ninety cases a meeting.

Q And that is a two day meeting?

A We are now running a day and a half.

Q A day and a half?

A Yes.

Q How many hours do you work at a session?

A Well most fresh in my memory is the one held on February 19 and 20, and we started in at 1:30 and wound up at 6:00 o'clock for the hearings and then held executive session for awhile to 7:00 o'clock. The next day was a full day. We started in at about 9:20 and quit about 5:15 or 5:20, and then held executive session for about two hours. It was 8:00 o'clock when I left the room.

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Kohn, didn't we review some of this? It is repetitious again unless you are driving at something specific. The questions were asked at the last hearing from the same witness.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You may state whether or not the Board of Pardons has any policy in regard to how long a person, sentenced to life imprisonment, has to serve before his application will be considered?

A I have no—we have no policy that I know of.

Q Do you know of any case in which the Board, in commuting the sentence, has enunciated such policy?

A I have no recollection.

Q Do you know if the Board of Pardons or any member thereof has consulted the Governor in regard to the pending application before the Board has acted favorably or unfavorably on any particular application?

A I have never been informed by any member of the Board that they consulted the Governor prior to forwarding the recommendation.

SENATOR YOSKO: Just excuse me a moment. I would like to ask some questions along this line.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Assuming a man was found guilty or pled guilty today, and was sentenced today and then spent, say, two weeks in jail; lets assume they were sentenced to two years in jail and they spent two weeks in jail, and then filed an application for commutation of the sentence by the Pardon Board. Is there any rule that the Board follows on whether or not it would entertain that application?

A No, if I were sentenced to the Dauphin County Prison or the Eastern State Penitentiary for, we will say, a minimum of two years to four, two to four, and two weeks after I was admitted my attorney would present an application to the Board for a commutation of sentence, that application would be in order.

Q Does the Board have a right to entertain or object to an application that is filed in the first instance or must they hear the application?

A I have never—to answer your question, I know of no rule that they haven't the power to refuse, but I have never known them exercising it if the application is in order. They have the right, the applicant has the right, the prisoner has the right to apply for a commutation of his sentence before he really sits down and gets warm in the pentitentiary. Of course the Board has the right to refuse, too.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Well, Mr. Hean, in response to Mr. Kohn's question concerning consulting with the Governor, you stated that no one had ever told you that he had consulted with the Governor.

A That is right, no member of the Board.

Q Have you ever heard any member of the Pardons Board state to anyone else in your presence that he or she had consulted with the Governor or words to the effect that the Governor wanted certain results done by the Pardons Board?

A I have never heard them so state.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Is there any rule of the Board or is there any rule of law that you know of which would require the Board, or any of its investigators or the Parole Board to contact the victim or any relatives of the victim?

A There is no much rule.

Q There is no such rule of the Parole Board?

A Or the Board, no sir.

Q Has there, to your knowledge, ever been such a rule?

A Not to my knowledge.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is all.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Hean, specifically what are your duties as Secretary to the Board?

A Were you here at the last meeting? I will be very glad to rehash that.

SENATOR YOSKO: I do not believe that question was asked.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think that was the first question that was asked Mr. Hean.

THE WITNESS: I will be very glad to give them if you want them. Yes, I would be very glad to, briefly if I may.

SENATOR YOSKO: I would like to have them.

THE WITNESS: I am appointed by the Board as Secretary of the Board. I receive all applications, inspect them and have them properly put in shape for advertising, for appearance in the calendar that we issue each month, and set up the folders which each member of the Board gets prior to the date of hearing; also prepare an analysis sheet of everything that is in the folder in a few words; see that the folder is complete and delivered to the members of the Board, together with the whole binder and file for their study prior to the hearing.

Following the hearing, the decisions of the Board, favorable or unfavorable, if they are unfavorable we put them back into the file. If favorable, we write the Reasons, as Mr. Kohn has asked me about here a few moments ago, and forwarded to the Governor's office. When the Governor signs the warrant or chart, he returns it to us. We have photostatic copies made of all matters. Then we keep one set in our file, a set of Reasons and others are deposited with the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Card index kept up-to-date as far as we can; answer correspondence, check on the money that we receive for applications and filing fees. I do not know what I don't do every day; answering innumerable correspondence that comes into the Board on a wide variety of questions.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Are you also custodian of the files?
A What did you say, sir?
Q Custodian of the files?
A And custodian of the files.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q These opinions that you write, Reasons for Commutation of Sentence, are they drafted in the rough for the consideration of the Board?

A They are drafted in the rough and sent to each member of the Board.

Q But the Board does review them and send them back to you?

A That is right, with corrections. Many times I am flattered by not having corrections but then, on the other hand, on innumerable occasions phraseology is changed, an additional paragraph included or taken away and they are rewritten and circulated among the members of the Board.

Q So the final product, the final opinion that is made public and is a matter of record is that of the Board itself?

A That comes from the Board. They all agree and sign their names to it.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hean, I have a question please. Is the Parole Board an independent agency? That is in the sense that it is independent from the Pardons Board?

A Absolutely, sir.

Q And by what authority does the Pardons Board require a parole officer to give reports?

A I cannot give you a specific answer except that between the Pardons Board and the Parole Board there has been this working arrangement.

Q Is there any law which requires the Parole Board to operate with the Pardons Board?

A I have not reviewed the Act of 1939 or 1929, isn't it, and to give you a really honest reply, or rather accurate reply, to your question there may be in that Act a clause or a paragraph saying that the Parole Board upon the request of the Pardons Board should do certain things and make a report thereto. Now that may be in the Act but I am not too alert this morning to answer this question.

Q Has the Parole Board ever set down any rules or any lists of inquiries that they would want the Pardons Board to follow through on?

A The Parole Board has never, to my knowledge, suggested to the Pardons Board.

Q I mean just the reverse, has it?

A The Pardons Board during my administration has never requested a certain form or requirement that the Parole Board should carry out. It is sort of precedent on what has happened in the years gone by.

Q And are you operating the Board at the present time on sort of a precedent rather than on definite rules?

A Not definitely, but we follow what has been going on for the last seventy-five years.

Q Well isn't that the same thing, operating more or less on precedent rather than rules in so far as the Pardons Board is concerned?

A Yes, so far as the Parole and the Pardons Board is concerned.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Hean, do you know of any cases where the Pardons Board or any member of the Pardons Board has gone to the Governor and said, "If we approve this commutation or pardon, will you go along?"

A I have aboslutely no personal knowledge of ever any member telling me that they had gone to the Governor and asked him to do or not to do a certain thing.

Q Do you know of any cases where the Governor or anybody representing the Governor went to the Pardons Board and said if the Pardons Board acts favorably on any one application, the Governor would go along with it?

A I have no personal knowledge of any representative from the Governor's office soliciting any member of the Board saying that they should act pro or con on any application. I have never been present—may I reiterate it—never been present when such a conversation either originating with us or originating with the Governor's office nor have I had any information to that effect.

Q So that to the best of your knowledge, the Pardons Board acts independently without influence from the Governor's office, and the Governor's office acts independently without any influence from the Pardons Board?

A I could say that, yes, a thousand times.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, I believe you stated that you are furnished with a list of newspapers in which advertising must be done or should be done.

A That is correct.

Q Who furnishes you with that?

A I get that from the Secretary of the Commonwealth's office.

Q That is the official publications being put out in the district in which you are interested?

A Yes, each county; each county we have a list of newspapers published in that county, and I get a list of the papers that are in that county or rather they come to me. It may not be all the newspapers. I would not like to say.

Q Then when the selection is made as to what newspaper you advertise the application in, does the Board suggest to you what newspaper you use or is that entirely up to you as secretary?

A Say there are three in a county that have wide general circulation. We take one, two, three; run them alternately each session.

Q But what I am getting at, Mr. Hean, does the Board advise you what newspapers to use or is that entirely your discretion?

A Largely my discretion because I get the list from the Secretary of the Commonwealth's office.

Q Well does the Board advise you on what newspaper?

A I have no recollection of them saying, "Hean, you put exclusively in Venango County in the Venango Express and you must use that paper and not use the"—

Q In any particular case, have they sent any word to you, "Now in this particular case, Mr. Hean, we would like to have you advertise this application in such and such a paper?"

A No, they never told me that.

Q How long before the hearing do you advertise?

A Between two and three weeks prior to the hearing.

Q When the advertising has taken place, are there proofs of publication?

A Proofs of publication are submitted to me. I refer them back to the Comptroller of the Department of Justice and she pays the bill.

Q And what happens to those proofs then?

A The proofs of publication are then held by the comptroller, I understand. We never get them back after they have been sent up to her with my O.K., and she pays the advertising bill and unquestionably keeps that proof of publication that is attached to it, as you know. That is available.

Q Don't you think this should be made a part of the file of a particular case after they have been paid?

A Oh, it could be but it is only proof that it was advertised. It has no bearing on the case whatsoever.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Isn't that proof of publication attached to the requistion and sent to the Auditor General or State Treasurer?

A After it leaves my hands, I am not clear as to the procedure. I send it up to the Comptroller of the Department of Justice with my O.K. on it, that such was authorized by us to be published in "X" newspaper and attached to it is the advertising bill for that advertising.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, you say the proofs of publication are not sent back and made a part of the record?

A No sir.

Q Are there any other papers in the case that go elsewhere and do not find their way back to you?

A I have no such recollection, Mr. Tompkins.

Q Does the Pardons Board have any particular counsel that they hire to represent them on any matter?

A No sir.

Q Do you attend the executive meetings of the Board?

A I do.

Q Does the Governor always act upon the recommendations of the Pardons Board or are there occasions when he will turn down the recommendations?

A During this Administration, I have no recollection of the Governor refusing to approve a recommendation of the Board of Pardons. Now I do not want to be held firmly to that. He may have refused a recommendation but I have no such recollection at this moment. Certainly in the last six months he has not turned any down. Every recommendation that we have made he has approved.

Q Now, Mr. Hean, one more question. I gained the impression that the Pardons Board is empowered to make rules at will, is that correct?

A That is my impression too, sir.

Q Without any prior notice to any of the parties involved, the counsel or anybody else that might be interested, they can make the rules.

A They can make the rules. They are an independent constitutional body and they have made rules which you see here.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Do you know of anybody, Mr. Hean, attorneys, organizations or individuals that suggested a change in the rules that the Pardons Board acted upon or failed to act upon?

A I can truthfully tell you that I have no recollection of any individual, organization or group of individuals recommending certain changes in the Boards rules. That has never come to my attention.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Getting back, Mr. Hean, to the question of advertising, is there a requirement by Act of the Assembly or constitutional requirement that applications be advertised in the newspapers?

A I think the constitutional provisions say "due public notice." Am I quoting correctly?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

THE WITNESS: And we consider an advertisement in a daily paper of general circulation in the county from which the applicant was sentenced as being due public notice.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q And is that covered by a rule of the Board?

A Specifically, I do not know except the general constitutional provision, sir.

Q You do not know whether there is a written rule on advertising?

A Let me see whether there is. Let me inspect it on advertising here, sir, before I—

SENATOR SCOTT: Rule VII (c), it says: "publish in a newspaper of general circulation, in each county where any of the applicants were convicted, a notice stating: the names and aliases of applicants sentenced in the particular county; the crimes for which applicants were convicted; places of confinement and time and place of hearing."

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q That is set forth in the rule.

A Yes sir.

Q Now to your knowledge has that rule been complied within every case?

A It has been.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q That rule does not apply to a rehearing, is that correct?

A No sir, on original applications.

Q On original applications?

A That is right.

Q When there is a rehearing, there is no advertisement?

A That is right. May I make this qualification? We consider original applications one each year. If between the years lapse or interval there is granted a petition for a rehearing, the matter before the Board will be referred to the one previously heard plus the new material of a substantial nature.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, did I understand you to say that you receive no proof of publication of the advertisement?

A Oh yes, but I transmit it to the Comptroller of the Department of Justice; oh yes, we do.

SENATOR YOSKO: May I make a suggestion, Mr. Hean? If you haven't been doing it, Mr. Hean, it might be well to ask the newspapers to send proof of publication in duplicate so that you could retain a copy in your files and send on a copy to the Comptroller of the Department of Justice, which I am assuming is attached to the requisition that is sent over to the Auditor General and State Treasurer.

THE WITNESS: I imagine so.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, you have read this rule on advertising. I did not hear in there anywhere where it was authorized to be published in legal journals. It has to be a newspaper of general circulation.

A That is true enough, the rule here, but we have made it a general practice long before I ever came on the Board that the advertising would appear in a legal journal or reporter in any county wherein such is published.

Q Well how many, how hany people who might be victims or relatives of victims do you think are reading a legal journal?

A I would say none, none, but the district attorneys, the judges, the members of the Bar of that county do read the legal journal and read it very carefully.

Q But what is the purpose of this advertising?

A In compliance with the constitutional provision that due public notice be given.

Q In the case of a rehearing, what notices are given to the parties involved?

A If the rehearing is granted, Mr. Tompkins, notice is sent to the judge, the district attorney and the applicants representatives, whoever it may be.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Your rehearings require specific compliance with Rule VI, Section (b). Who checks the application for a rehearing to see that that rule is complied with and makes the decision to see that it has been complied with?

A Well that would be my work, Mr. Kohn, and if it is not satisfactory I have heard from the members of the Board that I should do it properly and I have been so advised.

Q Well what additional investigation is subsequently made upon rehearing to see whteher or not the particular additional Reasons set forth as required are complied with or whether or not they are true, correct or just what the situation is?

A There is no investigation.

Q None?

A None as to whether or not the allegations set forth in the petition for rehearing are true or not true. We have no such facilities to carry out.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Would you recommend such facilities?

A I would very thoroughly if the General Assembly would grant sufficient funds for such work.

Q Lets' leave the funds out of this. Would you as a matter of good procedure and thorough investigation?

A I would certainly recommend a staff of investigators to be attached to the Board of Pardons, yes sir.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Are the applications under oath in the file?

A They are sworn to, yes sir. Now wait, I did not answer your question correctly. You asked me whether the rehearing petitions are under oath or affidavit, no.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Are the original applications under oath?

A The original application is under oath; that is a notary public takes the application, acknowledgment rather. That is true.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I call your attention specifically to the case of Joseph McSorley, No. A 3176, filed with the Board of Pardons, August 1, 1955, asking for a pardon. Can you tell me whether or not that particular case was considered by the Board as a pardon and what the result thereof was?

A I would have to have my folder from up-stairs down here to answer that question, Mr. Kohn, because during hearing time—

Q That is the folder.

A I know, I mean my own notes during hearing time.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well now just a minute. We want everything connected with that. If it is necessary, we will give you sufficient time to go and get it, including the daily calendar you mentioned about and your own notes. We think all that information should be before this committee.

Will you repeat the question?

Mr. KOHN: Will you read it please, Patty?

(Question read.)

MR. KOHN: May I ask that we take a recess for a few minutes for Mr. Hean to get that, and one of the specific things that I want to point out in relation to that is that where you cull these files and try to find out what happened at a specific time, there is nothing in the file to show what happened at a specific time. It is just a matter of procedure, that is, that I am bringing out.

Mr. Hean showed me the card index file which he keeps separately which does indicate the previous action on applications and rehearings, but I think as a matter of procedure you might take into consideration at a future date that all files be made complete and I would like to have him get his original record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is on the question of where they have been refused.

MR. KOHN: No, no this—that is right, on the question of where they have been refused.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The question you are asking is on the one which has been refused.

MR. KOHN: That is correct, but when it subsequently has been granted and you cannot follow the file without referring to his particular records, his personal records and the card index file.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, in connection with the matters already covered, shouldn't I examine the witness or do you want to do it afterward?

MR. KOHN: I would like to follow through with the witness.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Do you mean then I will cross-examine him as to all these subject matters afterwards, long after the committee has lost the trend of it? I understand they are going into specific cases now.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. McBride, I do not know if it is customary to break into cross-examination until they are finished with the witness.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I would like to make a request from this committee for a ruling as to the extent to which the Attorney General or perhaps other private counsel shall be given the right to cross-examine the witnesses called by this committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I would like to be heard on this, too, sir.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: At this point I want to make it a matter of record—there has been a lot of newspaper publicity in connection with it—but I want to make it a matter of record, communication of February 18, 1957 from this committee to the Attorney General and a communication of February 19, 1957 from the Attorney General to this committee, regarding the issue of misrepresentation in certain cases pending before the Pardons Board. I want to make that a matter of official record at this time. This will be Exhibit No. 3, and at this time the committee reiterates the position it took at that time

> Letter dated February 18, 1957 to Hon. Thomas McBride, Attorney General, from Edwin W Tompkins, Chairman, Pardon Board Investigating Comm., together with attached letter dated February 19, 1957 to Honorable Edwin W. Tompkins from Thomas D. McBride, Attorney General, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 3 PLS 2-27-57

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well the committee did not take any position at that time. The committee asked a question.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The committee is taking that position at this time.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well it is not a reiteration. Now I should like to be heard on this question raised here, as to my right to represent this as the Department of Justice administratively, which is before this committee and in any civilized committee investigation that I have ever heard of, counsel representing the department involved was heard fully and had the full right to cross-examine, the most notable instance being the Army-McCarthy hearings in which counsel for the committee was heard, the committee questioned and then counsel representing the Department of Defense and the particular people cross-examined fully with the same right as did committee counsel. The great invasions that have occurred have been in committees where no such right was allowed.

I claim here, as a matter of right, the cross-examination of every witness whom the committee counsel questions and whom the committee itself questions.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I think it is traditional justice.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We have not raised the issue of whether or not the right to cross-examine or representation of counsel is proper.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The Chairman has not but the Representative has.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We do, however, raise, as a committee, the information contained in this communication which I have placed in the record as Exhibit No. 3 as to a conflict of interest of the counsel who is appearing here on behalf of the Board and the witnesses for the Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, the suggestion that there is a conflict of interest is nothing but pure nonsense.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, so far as the conduct of these hearings is concerned and so far as this witness is concerned, I see no objection to the Attorney General asking questions, because up to this point all of the testimony has dealt with procedure and if the Attorney General has some questions that he would like to ask the Secretary of the Pardons Board that might enlighten us that we might have missed, I do not see anything wrong with it.

SENATOR SCOTT. Well, Mr. Chairman, we already set a precedent at our last meeting by allowing the Attorney General to cross-examine this particular witness, and I see no objection to it. The only question I thought was raised was when you were going to be allowed to do it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I certainly will bow to the committee on that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I for one on the committee, General McBride, feel that we should continue with the witness.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I bow to that completely. I thought this was the end of the procedural questions and that they were going into specific cases, but I think that is entirely a matter for the discretion of the committee and I yield immediately to it.

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, I think Mr. Kohn explained his reasoning that it was procedure for wanting this particular file.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will call a recess for ten minutes and we will resolve these issues in the meantime, and Mr. Hean can go up and get his file.

(After recess.)

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will resume the hearing and proceed with Mr. Kohn.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, will you kindly give us from your original record on the hearing of Joseph McSorley for a pardon the date of the hearing on this application?

A Yes sir.

Q That is number A 3176.

A I have got it here in September of 1955 is what you are referring to.

Q Yes sir.

A That was hearing No. 127 of the September Session of 1955.

Q And that was an application for a pardon, was it not?

A For a pardon.

Q Do your records show that at the time this application was filed and heard, there was pending before the Superior Court of Pennsylvania an appeal on this case?

A Yes sir.

Q And what was the action of the Pardons Board on this application?

A Three refusals, three noes.

Q Were there any ayes?

A No ayes.

Q This application was then refused?

A That is correct.

Q And you so notified all the parties concerned?

A There was a calendar went out so marked and notices went to the district attorney and the representative of these applicants.

Q Was the basis of the application the facts as set forth in the application, plus additional facts brought out at the hearing?

A That is correct.

Q There was no technical basis for the refusal. It was on the merits, is that correct?

A I would so recall but that has been well over a year and a half ago.

Q What do your notes show on that?

A I say I have this. They asked for a pardon and I have, "These men were not then in prison when we heard this in September of 1955."

Q Are you reading from your notes or from memory?

A I am reading from my notes; "Not in prison" I have here.

Q All right, now I show you a part of your official file, letter dated December 21, 1955, written by John W. Fawcett, III, Esquire, of Philadelphia, and ask whether or not you received that letter?

A We received the letter, yes.

Q Is that letter addressed to you?

A Addressed to me.

Q And the letter reads as follows:

"Dear Mr. Hean:

"Yesterday I filed applications for clemency for the above-named individuals on behalf of Robert L. Trescher, Esquire of this office.

"On the previous day, Monday, September 19, Mr. Trescher had a conference with Secretary Cohen."

Does that mean the Attorney General?

A I have no person by the name of Cohen in my office.

Q Is there anyone by the name of Cohen on the Pardons Board?

A There was at that time.

Q Herbert B. Cohen, the Attorney General?

A There was at that time a man by the name of Cohen, Herbert Cohen.

Q What was his capacity, Herbert Cohen, the Attorney General?

A Yes.

Q The letter obviously refers to him, does it not?

A I would so interpret it.

Q You would so interpret it. Well I will continue.

"Conference with Secretary Cohen at which time Mr. Cohen indicated that it might be possible to accelerate the hearing of the application at the January session. We would be very grateful if all possible measures were taken to accomplish this."

Q Was this received by the Board?

A It was received by me anyhow.

Q I direct your specific attention to Rule XII, Section (b), and ask you whether or not if this conference took place between the attorney, as stated wherein he discussed the case with the Attorney General, this was not a violation of Rule XII, Section (b)?

A I cannot answer that question thoroughly. I was not present.

Q I did not ask if you were present or if it took place. I am asking you if in fact it was not a violation of Rule XII, Section (b), of the rules of the Pardon Board?

A In a very narrow way it would be. In a broad way certainly any man asking for a hearing is not influencing the Board.

Q I did not say you were to interpret the Rule or to qualify it or to increase it. I am asking you whether or not, according to the rule of the Board of Pardons, it is prohibited for any attorney or any person interested in any case to directly contact, talk to and make arrangements with any members of the Pardons Board concerning an application?

A This is not a discussion of a pending case. It is a request for a rehearing in which the writer of that letter, according to his statement, had contacted the Attorney General, the then Attorney General, and discussed it with him.

Q You would say then your interpretation would be that if a case had been before the Pardons Board and it had been acted on and a new application for a rehearing was being offered or arranged for, it would not be a violation?

A Not when there was no influence. He just is—

Q I did not say whether there was any influence.

A He just is asking; he is asking whether it would be agreeable with the Board to have a rehearing on this application heard in September of 1955.

Q And to accelerate that application?

A And requesting acceleration of it.

Q Now then is it not a fact that he did file applications, as he said in his letter for clemency, new applications, with this letter or yesterday he said he filed them, is that what the letter says?

A That is what it says.

Q Now let me call your attention to letter dated January 6, 1956 from yourself to John W. Fawcett, Esquire, listing the McSorley, D'Antonio, Dendofer, DiMarco and Ranier cases, and ask you whether or not that is the copy of the letter from you to Mr. Fawcett on Department of Justice stationery?

A Yes, that would be a letter I wrote to Mr. Fawcett.

Q And would you care to follow me in the reading of this letter, and ask you whether or not it is correct as I put it in the record?

"Dear Mr. Fawcett:

"Enclosed is your check in the sum of $75.00, covering filing fee of the applications you gave us in the above cases."

Now I take it that you refer now to the applications he refers to having filed previous to the letter I just read, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q "We have considered these applications as a rehearing and since the Board has granted the rehearing request we have listed them as follows: 46A, 46B, 46C, 46D and 46E in the order set forth above. We will use the application forms and material, under our rehearing rules, that were filed in September.

"To use the new applications you sent us December 19th would mean that they could not be heard until March.

"We are listing these cases for the closing hearings for Wednesday January 18, 1956. We have so notified the district attorney of Delaware County.

"The applications sent us in December can be picked up by you at the Board's office when you come to Harrisburg."

Q Is that a correct reading of that letter?

A Correct.

Q Signed by you, "Frank R. Hean, Secretary."

Actually the new applications in which seventy-five dollars were submitted, fifteen dollars for each application, contained—cross out the word contained—would not have been able to be heard because of your rule that no application can be heard except once within a year's period, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q And upon whose motion or whose request, considering the original letter of Mr. Fawcett's that submitted these applications to you and the seventy-five dollars. were these applications submitted to the Board of Pardons as a rehearing?

A The attorney for the five men filed new applications entirely and sent in seventy-five dollars. We returned the seventy-five dollars.

Q At that time he did not ask for a rehearing, did he?

A That is when he was asking for a rehearing, thinking that he had to file a new application.

Q Who?

A I would say the attorney for these five men, under the impression that he had to file a new application to get a rehearing, prepared five applications, sent them to us together with seventy-five dollars. The Board granted the rehearing.

Q Now just a minute. Before you go any further, from where do you get that information that that is what he intended rather than a new application for commutation, considering that the first application was for a pardon while they were not serving any time yet, and cases were pending before the Superior Court?

A He wanted a rehearing on the matter presented to the Board in September of 1955 and in error sent us five new applications.

Q Here is a complete file, Mr. Hean. Will you show me where there is anything in here before or right after he filed his application showing that what he meant was a rehearing?

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, may I ask a question?

THE WITNESS: Well I don't know what you call this; here it is.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, may I ask you a question? Are you attempting to prove that there was a violation of Rule XII?

MR. KOHN: Am I attempting to prove that?

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes.

MR. KOHN: I am bringing out the facts in connection with Rule XII and the matter of what it constituted will have to be up to you.

SENATOR YOSKO: Now just let me make this one observation here, as I read the rule. I am reading (b), under "Communications," Rule XII, and it says: "The individual members of the board shall not discuss pending cases except with the trial judge" and that sort of thing. I am assuming that this applies to the merits of a case and not to the question of how you can file an application and when you can file it. In other words, it has to do with procedure.

MR. KOHN: I say to you, Senator Yosko, that if this is what Mr. Hean purports it to be it is a violation, because if you are asking for a rehearing on an application that is in effect and you are talking to a member of the Pardons Board, you are in that case asking for something that is pending for a rehearing.

SENATOR YOSKO: Had the application been filed?

MR. KOHN: The application had been filed and refused.

SENATOR YOSKO: And was there another application pending upon which a hearing was scheduled?

MR. KOHN: There was an application pending for a rehearing verbally before the Secretary, before Mr. Cohen, because the counsel had consulted with him about it and asked him to accelerate the hearing on the matter, so he must of necessity have requested that. If you are going to take the version of Mr. Hean and the Pardons Board, this was then to be considered as a rehearing and not a new application.

SENATOR YOSKO: The question is, was the application for a hearing or a rehearing on file and scheduled for a hearing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The testimony is that it was not. Of course, it was not.

SENATOR YOSKO: Then if it was not, this rule would not apply because I interpret this rule, as far as discussing pending cases, I interpret this as applying to the merits of the case and the merits of a case could not be considered until an application was actually filed and scheduled for hearing. Now if this is a procedural matter, certainly this rule does not apply.

MR. KOHN: You say then where the Board or anybody else may reinstitute a case for rehearing, that is not pending until such time as the Board sets a date for a hearing?

SENATOR YOSKO: As far as a violation of this rule is concerned, I do not personally see anything wrong with any individual discussing with a Board member a matter of procedure.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Yosko, supposing when he discusses the matter of procedure with the member of the Board, he argues the merits of the case.

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes, but there is no evidence to that effect. Unless you could submit evidence to the effect that the merits of the case were argued with some member of the Board, then it just doesn't hold water. I am not going to presume that in the discussion between the Attorney General and the individual involved here that in addition to procedural matters, the merits of the case were discussed and I do not think we have a right to presume that.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q This letter dated December 21, 1955, do I understand that this case had been before the Pardons Board in the previous September?

A That is correct.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q And the application was disposed of?

A It was and refused, Senator.

Q And then there was some inquiry made about filing a re-application?

A That is correct and the attorney, answering your question, had the impression that he had to file an entirely new application.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, Mr. Hean. where would he get that? There is nothing in the file showing that, is there?

A I do not know where he got it.

Q Did you talk to him about that?

A Not to my recollection; I may have, but he had the impression that he had to file an entirely new application like these.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Then the inquiries that were made were made on a procedural basis?

A And we returned the fifteen dollars to him, or seventy-five dollars, and notified him when he came to Harrisburg that he could pick up forms that he had filled out.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Well, what I am trying to find out is why in this letter of December 21, 1955, in which it refers to contact with Mr. Cohen, does he state that he filed the applications for a hearing, application for rehearing, and he also tried to find out from Mr. Cohen how he could possibly accelerate it.

Now it indicates that this conversation was had the day before these applications were sent in. Now if that were so, why were the applications sent in instead of application for rehearing?

A That I cannot answer, sir. I do not know.

MR. KOHN: Now what I am trying to get at and I think Mr. Thompkins gets the point—

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q When you did get the application for the rehearing, there was some defect in time element. You sent the money back and the applications, is that right?

A No, we sent back the money and the applications in effect because he had filed a petition for a rehearing, which I hold in my hand here.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What was the date of that?

A That was stamped in our office, December 29, 1955.

SENATOR YOSKO: And what was the date of the letter to Mr. Hean, in which he mentioned Mr. Cohen?

MR. KOHN: December 21.

SENATOR YOSKO: And what is the other date?

MR. KOHN: December 21 and December 29.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: And what was the date of the letter in which he returned the money and the application?

MR. KOHN: That was after he had received the petition for a rehearing, January 6, 1956, and what I am trying to discover, so that you know what I am driving at, is who took it among themselves and what happened There is nothing in the file to call this man's attention to the fact that there had been a mistake in filing an application which was not receivable except within a period of a year from that time. There is nothing in the file to show that he did something other than what he intended to do, and that was file an application for a commutation.

The first application was for a pardon. There is nothing to indicate in here what took place or why the Secretary of the Board of Pardons would consider an application, which was just the same as any other application, as an application for a rehearing.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Kohn, if I were to write to the Department and ask them for some way that I could expediate something or accelerate it, don't you think it would be the duty of the Department to inform me that there is another procedure which you perhaps do not know about and you could accelerate it by using?

MR. KOHN: I do not know. The man talked to the Attorney General and certainly he was qualified to advise him on it. What he did, I do not know.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Let me notify the committee that the gentleman is here present, Mr. Robert L. Trescher, a highly respected member of the Philadelphia Bar. He is here in this room. He can take all the mystery out of it.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I have a great deal of regard and respect for the Attorney General and I will always consider him very highly. I feel that we have a right to run our case and we do not have to call Mr.

Trescher or anybody else. We will simply present our case on the files and if Mr. McBride wants to put him on and make an explanation after we have finished—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am calling this to the attention of the committe so they will know there is a man right in the room that can clear this thing up. Surely the committee wants the full story.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now I direct your specific attention to the petition for a rehearing and ask you, in view of Rule VI, Section (b), what is in that petition for a rehearing that is not contained in the original application on which this particular Board of Pardons granted a rehearing? I am asking if there is anything in that petition for a rehearing which was not contained in the original application.

A The first change in the reply was that he originally asked for a pardon and now he is asking for a commutation. That is the very fundamental difference.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q The question in my mind, is that done by a request for a rehearing or shouldn't that be done by a request for a new application? When you have the original application for a pardon, and then you want to change that after the pardon has been refused and you want to make a request for a commutation, is that in substance a rehearing on the original application?

A In reply to your question, when the Board refused the pardon in September and then came along a request for a rehearing based on the matter of a new plea. A pardon is a plea of absolute innocence and this is a request for a commutation of the sentence.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Could I see it?

THE WITNESS: This is a request for a commutation of sentence.

MR. KOHN: It doesn't say that.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Isn't that in substance an application for something new?

A Yes, it is technically so, to be honest with you.

Q What is the procedure? Has the Board had this problem before it in other instances?

A I could not give you a specific reply to that. I have no doubt they have, but the Board felt that under the circumstances—and they have never disclosed their reasons to me—that it would be proper to have a rehearing on the application heard in September, the material, except that a new factor was introduced, to wit. a commutation rather than a pardon.

Q And when did that new factor come before the Board?

A It came before in the petition for a rehearing and then verbally before the Board of Pardons when it was heard in January.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, wasn't this factor a procedural factor and not a factor relating to the facts or the merits?

A Well, in effect, I could not deny that, no.

Q There is nothing in this application for a rehearing that recites any different facts or merits than what there was?

A Not very many more, except this new factor there.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, is it not a fact that this says specifically: "This application is for either a pardon or a commutation of my sentence. I still assert innocence," which he did in the original application, did he not?

A Yes.

Q And I believe the answer to question fifteen shows that: "I could not possibly have participated in the crime. However, I also assert as new and substantial grounds for clemency: 1. My prior clean record." That was in the original, was it not?

A That was.

Q "2. The sentence was excessive under all the circumstances." That was in the original application, wasn't it?

A I believe so.

Q And "3. My good behavior while confined." That was the only new—

A That and the fact that he had—

Q The fact that he had been in prison.

A That and the request for a commutation rather than a pardon.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Now, Mr. Kohn, there is one more; the fact that the full Board of Pardons had not sat. You will be agreeable to that?

MR. KOHN: That is absolutely correct, the full Board of Pardons.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will try and bring these things out here as we go along.

MR. KOHN: I am glad for that correction; I missed it.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now then who decided that on this particular application, under that rule, a rehearing should be granted on the original application?

A That would be the Board of Pardons.

Q And is there any record of the Board of Pardons having so decided?

A I have not, offhand. Yes, there is a record.

Q And the vote was divided two to two, is that correct, and that is sufficient under your rules to grant a rehearing?

A Two affirmative.

Q Where is that particular rule found?

A I cannot place my finger on it and I do not think you will find the vote required, but it seems to have been what we call a precedent; that if two members were in favor of a hearing, a rehearing, we would consider it.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now didn't you state at the hearing last week, Mr. Hean, that a quorum means two to three?

A A quorum constituted three; three constituted a quorum.

Q And you mean to say that you take action on things with a vote of less than a quorum?

A No, they were all there when this rehearing—I think the signatures on that are four signatures, are there not? Two were in favor and two were opposed.

BY MR. EVANS:

Q Would the court petition the Board on the particular rule? There is a Rule No. V, Section (b), requiring two.

A I see it now.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Mr. Hean, let me ask you this, sir. Is it a normal situation for an attorney to take up with a member of the Board of Pardons procedural matters or is it the normal situation that they take it up with the Secretary of the Board?

A To answer very fairly, it is usually with me.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Will you refer to your original record in this case and tell me who was present and voted on the refusal of the original application of September 1955?

A My original record does not disclose that. Let me just leaf through this a minute. I may have a note here.

Mr. Cohen had to leave the meeting of the Board, sitting—starting with Case 126 and was absent.

Q He was one of those favoring a rehearing in this case without having heard the original application?

A That well may be.

Q Is his signature on there as favoring it?

A I see an initial on there that looks like Mr. Cohen's initials.

Q I call your particular attention to the letter from yourself to members of the Pardons Board, dated December 29, 1955, in which you ask for a vote on the matter of rehearing, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Is this the original, Mr. Hean?

A Yes sir.

Q And in this particular question of whether or not a rehearing should be granted, you discuss the facts and set forth the basic factors upon which a rehearing should be granted or should not be granted in your letter to them, do you not?

A Well, sometimes I do and sometimes I do not. This particular letter I haven't read recently, so I would not know what I said there. You read it to me.

Q Your communication of December 29 to the Board of Pardons is as follows:

"The above 5 applications were heard and refused at the September Session.

"You will recall that these 5 men were involved in Delaware County in the Riot on the site of the old Jail which was being torn down. It was a Union Labor dispute with a Contractor and these men, members of the Union, came down from Philadelphia to do picket duty. Just previous to their arrival there was a riot in which property"—you say "Just previous to their arrival there was a riot in which property was destroyed and persons assaulted.

"The above group allege that they did not participate in the actual rioting. They were arrested on their way back to Philadelphia.

"At the September Hearing, there was pending the Appeal to the Superior Court. Shortly after the Hearing, the Superior Court upheld the decision of the Delaware County Court. These men were sentenced to the Delaware County Jail. Their sentence was $1500 Fine and Two (2) years in jail. They have commenced serving their sentences along in October 1955.

"They are requesting a Pardon or a Commutation.

"They are asking for a special listing for the January Session—18th and 19th—1956."

Now you did not forward with this letter the petition for a rehearing, did you, to the members of the Board?

A I have no recollection of so doing.

Q And you designated this crime as a "union labor dispute," did you not?

A I probably did, yes.

Q Do you know if there was at that time any dispute of any kind between labor and the contractor here?

A All I know is what was stated at the September Session of the Board; that there was a discussion or trouble between the contractor who was tearing down the jail and the union labor. That is all I know.

Q Did you get that out of the notes of testimony or where did you get that?

A Well I got it somewhere.

Q Well do you know where you got it?

A Not offhand, no.

Q Pardon?

A Not offhand.

Q Well would you find it for me over the lunch hour?

A If I can.

Q And where did you get the information that you set forth on this basis for a rehearing that these men had arrived after the riot had taken place?

A All the information I got is what I heard at the meeting.

Q Do you know where you got that information?

A Only what I heard at the meeting in September.

Q So that the Board, in considering whether or not there should be a rehearing, had only your letter before them, is that correct?

A Probably so.

Q That is what you said.

A That is what I said.

Q Now these cases were put at the foot of the list for Wednesday, I think January 18, were they not?

A Well they were put on the January list at least.

Q Well will you just check your records, please, 46A?

A Yes, 46A, B. C. D. and E.

Q They were not on the calendar that was advertised and distributed?

A That is correct.

Q And they were not listed with the Delaware County cases which were listed for a previous time and I think on that same day?

A Oh, you asked me a question; I beg your pardon.

Q I am waiting for your answer as to whether or not they were put at the end of the list for a certain day.

A They were—we had the Delaware County cases starting at No. 41, 42, 43. Then there was a skip. One was continued, Montgomery. Then we put after Montgomery, the Delaware cases of 46A, B, C, D and E.

Q You heard the Montgomery cases in between the regular scheduled Delaware cases? That was at the end of the day after everybody had gone.

A Oh, I would not know. I have no recollection of that.

Q I show you copy of a letter dated January 13, 1956, addressed to you by J. Harold Hughes, Assistant District Attorney, and ask you whether you ever received that letter?

A I have; according to my book here on January 18 was listed every case up to and including 47, but not including 47. This is my list here, that that day of the 18th—now pardon me for not answering your question, Dave.

Q What I asked you is whether or not you received that letter from the Assistant District Attorney, J. Harold Hughes of Delaware County?

A I did.

Q Where is that letter? I cannot find it in the files.

A I do not know where it is if it is not in the file.

Q Where would you keep it? It has not been in the files.

A Well if it is not in the file, then I do not know where it is. It may have been lost.

Q Did you acknowledge receipt of it?

A I acknowledged such a letter.

Q Did you answer that letter?

A I have no recollection.

Q In that letter Mr. Hughes asked you to list these cases, which were specially set by the Board, with his other cases of Delaware County?

A That is right.

Q Did you do so?

A With the one case interfering; that is the Montgomery County, the Montgomery County case that came in between the Delaware cases.

Q Who decides whether or not you should comply with a request of a district attorney who wants his cases listed with his other cases?

A I decide all that.

Q You decide it. You made no answer to that letter?

A I have no recollection. I may have but I have no recollection.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Kohn, may we see that letter?

MR. KOHN: Yes.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hean, was the Assistant District Attorney of Delaware County present at the time?

A There was a representative by the name of Hughes from the District Attorney's office.

Q And he was present at the hearing?

A He was there present.

Q And the only question was whether they were heard five, ten or fifteen minutes later?

A That is right.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q This is nothing more than a request for a convenience.

A That is right and he was given—we started with case No. 41. We had—41, 42, 43 were Delaware cases. Then there was the interruption of two cases or three from Montgomery, and then we picked up the five cases we have under discussion here.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q All in the same day?

A All in the same day; probably not more than twenty minutes difference between one and the other.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q In your correspondence with the District Attorney of Delaware County, I show you letter dated January 6, 1956, I think that is. Is that the official letter you wrote to the District Attorney of Delaware County in regard to these cases?

A Yes.

Q In this letter you also characterized this matter as a Delaware County labor dispute?

A Yes.

Q Did the Board and you consider this matter as a labor dispute or as a matter of criminal offense, a riot and destruction of property?

A I do not know what the Board considered it; place it on me. I considered it a labor dispute.

Q And did you take part in the discussions of the determination of this case?

A No sir, do you mean whether I voted? No, I have no vote.

Q Did you discuss the matter with the Board outside of the particular letter you sent them characterizing the crime? Did you discuss the matter with them in regard to the facts that characterize this crime as a labor dispute?

A I have no such recollection of discussing with any member of the Board.

Q Did you have any discussion or did you hear any discussion between the Board in their executive session characterizing this as anything other than a crime?

A I would say that after hearing the September cases, in which the whole factor of this labor business was involved, that there may have been in the executive session somebody say that this is nothing but a labor dispute between union and non-union forces in the demolition of the Media County or Delaware County jail.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q That did not appear in the record any place that came before the Board, did it?

A I did not get that, Mr. Tompkins.

Q These men were convicted of certain crimes, conspiracy and rioting.

A Yes they were, of rioting I believe was the—

Q Whether it is a labor dispute or whether it arises from some other cause, certainly the consideration should be of the offense with which they are charged, not something else, shouldn't it?

A Well I will leave that question to the Board members. I am not here to decide that, sir. It is a labor dispute. You may call it anything else.

SENATOR YOSKO: But regardless of what Mr. Hean had to say, a hearing was to follow and the Board members were sitting and they heard the arguments of both sides for the petition and against the petition, so that I cannot see that anything Mr. Hean would say in the letter would have any influence on the final decision of the Board. Now what we ought to do is call the Board and find out from the Board why they arrived at a decision.

MR. KOHN: Senator Yosko, I am going to put into the record the Board's reasons.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well it is still the Board. What has it got to do with Mr. Hean? I think Mr. Hean did testify that he prepares the preliminary report for the Board and it is circulated amongst the members, and they amend the final opinion with Reasons as they see them and I think he testified here that the final product that is handed down and placed on file is the sole action of the Board and not the action of the Secretary. We have that in the record now.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let us proceed with this witness and see what Mr. Kohn has.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now I ask you whether or not there is a letter from Harry R. Halloran, dated January 16, 1956, in the files of this case?

A Yes sir.

Q And Mr. Halloran addresses this to Roy E. Furman, Chairman, Pardons Board, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Mr. Halloran characterizes himself as Chairman of the Labor Committee of the Contractors Association of Philadelphia and Eastern Pennsylvania, and former Chairman of the Joint Committee of the Employer Associations, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q And he asked for favorable consideration from the Board, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q And was this letter considered in the deliberations of the Board?

A Was it in the file? What was the date of the letter? I have no doubt it was; I have no present recollection of it.

Q Now I show you a copy of the commutation statement of the Board of Pardons in this particular case, and ask you if that is the copy in your files?

A It was in the folder, was it Mr. Kohn? Well, yes, that is the copy in the file.

Q Or would that be a copy of the original that was sent to the Governor?

A That is a copy of the original that was sent to the Governor.

Q And I ask whether or not, under part of the Reasons given on this recommendation, it reads as follows for the reasoning—by the way, who made up that phraseology in the reasoning?

A My recollection is that I wrote this in draft. There were some corrections made and I cannot tell you who did them or who did not, and as a result of it this is the copy which was signed by the four members of the Board.

Q And it was approved as hereon set forth, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q I ask you whether or not, giving the Reasons for the commutation, it does not read as follows:

"At the time of the trial the feeling of the citizens of Delaware County was such that the Court and Jury were undoubtedly influenced by the attitude of the general public. As this applicant and his accomplices were the only persons arrested they bore the burden of the resentment of the community despite their vigorous denial of any implication in the riot."

I ask you, Mr. Hean, whether you or anybody else in considering this case ever found anything in the record showing that the court and jury of Delaware County were undoubtedly influenced by the general attitude of the general public?

A All I know is what I heard.

Q That is what I asked you previously.

A You asked me whether I found it. I was not present at the riot or at the trials in Delaware County.

Q I understand that but I also understand that in the reasoning given by the Board for granting this commutation, they came to the conclusion that undoubtedly the court and jury in this case had been influenced by the attitude of the general public and what I am asking you specifically is, is there anything in the record that would justify such a conclusion or statement?

A If I had before me—of course, that is the entire file that I have but there were statements made with respect to the—

Q By whom? I ask you wheher you can find anything to that effect anywhere in the file or any of the records which were submitted to you or the Pardons Board in this case?

A Mr. Trescher was—presented it.

MR. KOHN: There is the record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: When you speak of the record, what record is that?

MR. KOHN: That is the record of the statements made by counsel before the Board of Pardons and the complete record and file of the application, letters submitted and all other records which he has testified that go with the Board of Pardons record in the consideration of any case. They are compiled and made a part of the record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But that is the second hearing, is it not?

MR. KOHN: This is the January hearing on the rehearing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That doesn't include the first hearing.

THE WITNESS: I cannot find it in there, Mr. Kohn.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Can you find any statement for me which would say that these five men bore the resentment of the community?

A It was so alleged in one of the hearings. I believe Mr. Trescher so testified, so stated.

Q Do you have copies of it?

A I have not a copy of it here, and I cannot find the copy or tell you where the copy is or why it is not here.

Q It was then upon the allegation of counsel that the Board came to the conclusion that these five men bore the resentment of the community?

A I would so say.

Q And there was no investigation made of the community?

A No investigation of the community.

Q Or any person involved, the victim or any of his relatives?

A Not to my recollection, if I may look at this a minute. No, I cannot find it.

Q You cannot find that anywhere in the record, can you?

A No.

Q Is it not a fact that the District Attorney's office appeared and opposed this particular commutation?

A Yes, sir.

Q Now is it not a fact that the judge also sent in a letter opposing these commutations?

A I believe so.

Q And isn't it a fact that the only other letter in the file beside the one I mentioned is a letter from the Delaware County Prison, stating that these men had good behavior?

A Yes.

Q And isn't it a fact that each and everyone of those letters was identically alike, characterizing each particular individual alike in each instance?

A That is correct.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Are there any newspaper clippings in the file?

A On that, no sir.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q How long had these men served before their time was commuted?

A It was redued to six months from a two year sentence, effective about April 13, 1956.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Mr. Hean, can you tell me whether the decision was made by the Pardons Board on the same day that the hearing was held or was it one of those that was held over for further discussion and consideration?

A No, this—to be sure of answering your question—case here, the same day late in the afternoon, they came to the decision.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: May I see those Reasons under there?

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, as I recall your testimony, you said that the fact that there was evidence back in the community which influenced the jury and so forth was brought out, and you remember hearing that?

A I remember hearing it, yes sir.

Q At which one, the September hearing or—

A At the September hearing.

Q Do you remember whether that was one of the reasons which was alleged for the original pardon?

A Not in the application itself, as I recall.

Q But was it argued by counsel at that time?

A I think it was brought forward. It was not labored you know, but it was brought out.

Q Do you recall hearing such a statement or such a fact being denied by whoever opposed the pardon at that time?

A I do not recall that but the general opposition of the District Attorney would infer that there was no—

Q And the Board did not look into that matter further, is that right?

A No, we did not outside of—

Q As far as investigation is concerned?

A We have no facilities for investigation, sir.

Q Now there is one other thing that I am not clear on, Mr. Hean. At the time that this application was filed as an original application the second time, the Board evidently decided it should be an application and considered it as an application for a rehearing, is that correct, and so decided?

A I have not made myself clear and it is my fault. There was an original application filed in September, heard and refused.

Q That is right.

A Then from the facts brought out here this morning, Mr. Fawcett I think interviewed and talked to the Attorney General as to having a rehearing. He was under the impression that he had to file a brand new application. He so did and sent us seventy-five dollars. All he wanted was a rehearing which requires no fee and is based on the facts as we have collected in the former hearing within the year.

Q And then the Board considered it as an application for a rehearing and sent back the check and sent back the applications for the new application.

A Is that clear?

Q I am clear up to that date. Then you forwarded a letter to the Board giving them information. Was there anything filed or was there anything that you gave to the Board which would indicate that there was new evidence or new matter which should be considered or which would be brought before the Board at the time of the rehearing?

A This petition for a rehearing is attached to that letter.

Q That is what I wasn't clear on.

A I have every reason to believe it was. That is our practice anyhow, with a run-down there as I have it in the letter which Mr. Kohn read to the Board of the background of the case.

Q Was one of the reasons alleged in that petition for a rehearing the fact that back in the local community the jury—

A Not in this petition for a rehearing, no it was not.

Q What were those reasons again? I didn't follow.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Had the Superior Court as yet handed down its decision as yet at the time of your September hearing?

A No, I think that came down along in October, late October of the same year.

Q Well now had these applications been treated as new applications, the earliest that they could have been heard would have been sixty days.

A If they had been brand new applications, it would have been one year from the date. We do not consider applications except on year's interval. Rehearings are heard as often as the Board—

Q This rehearing was adopted then as a method to accelerate consideration of this case, was it not?

A Yes so that the year did not have to elapse.

Q In how many cases do you know of, Mr. Hean, is that practice followed?

A In very many; I would say every Board hearing, every session of the Board has cases we list as rehearing cases that have been heard within the year. That is, a year has not elapsed since the last hearing and we have rehearing cases. There is not a session of the Board goes by that such—

Q Well in those cases, have you run into the same procedural problem as when they filed new applications or have they filed—

A Some times yes, the attorney or representative was laboring under a false impression, not a false but a misapprehension of the problem and we straighten it out by doing it in this manner, an informal letter.

Q I want to get something straightened out in my mind, too. I believe you stated that at one of these hearings—I do not know which, September or January—Attorney General Cohen had to leave the bench and did not return.

A I think that was in September.

Q That was in September. The reason I asked that is that this Reason filed here on your January hearing indicates that Mr. Cohen had signed this commutation.

A That is right.

Q That would indicate that he was present and heard the case?

A He was present, yes sir; that is right.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr Hean, where is the testimony or transcript of argument, or whatever you call it, of the original September hearing?

A I bow my head in shame and tell you it was taken by a man by the name of Kenny, and Mr. Kenny has never transcribed it despite letters and phone calls.

Q Now were the five cases heard separately?

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Who is Mr. Kenny?

A He was an employee of Eugene Moyer, the official reporter I think they call him. We use his services.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q In other words, did you take different notes on five different cases in the September hearing or just one case?

A They grouped the whole five into one.

Q Into one set of arguments?

A Yes, the whole five. The same facts were present and they just had the five together.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q In this other matter, Mr Hean, isn't it a fact that as far as granting of the rehearing is concerned, the Board was evenly divided two to two?

A That is correct.

Q And in the granting of the commutation, the Board went along unanimously?

A That is correct.

Q The Board did not have before it any testimony as to what was taken at the original hearing, because those notes have never been transcribed?

A May I say just half of them were? This fellow Kenny got sick and God knows where they are.

Q Just answer my question. Isn't it a fact that there is no record which the Board could have gone to to find out what was said at that particular hearing?

A That is correct.

Q And in spite of that, the Board found in their findings certain Reasons not on record and which were not available to them and which hark back to the first hearing and were not mentioned at all in the second hearing?

A Was that a question to me or to the Board?

Q I am just asking you if the Board did not make findings based on testimony which was not available to them and which they do not know is correct or not correct, because the testimony or the statements were never transcribed and are not available?

A But the members of the Board still had the faculty of memory. They still possessed that at the time.

Q How many cases would you say they heard between January and September of that year?

A Oh, probably I would say they would hear about 400.

Q Four hundred.

MR. KOHN: I have no further questions.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Do you think it is good practice—this is no criticism of the Board and I admire their mental capacity—but do you think it is a good practice to make final decisions on memory alone?

A They make it very promptly. In ninety-nine out of one hundred cases right after the formal sessions, they go into executive session and their memories of the case are certainly very fresh.

Q But you are saying there that in January they were referring their minds back to September.

A Back to September, that is correct, and my memory was good then and I am not blessed with too good a memory.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Hean, when you sit in executive session after the hearing, do you note if the Board members make notes on what is said at the hearing?

A I think they do, many of them do.

Q And do they refresh their memory from the notes they take?

A They would refresh their memory from that, yes sir.

Q Was that possible in this case?

Q Very possible.

Q In the absence of the transcription of the testimony?

A Very possible; I have never looked at the Board's own book binder similar to this to know what they have in it, but I have every reason to believe they make notes as they go along.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Well, Mr. Hean, let me ask you this, sir. Was the argument of the incitement of the jury raised at the rehearing?

A I do not believe so.

Q In other words, it was raised at the September hearing and evidently was rejected as not being too valid because the Pardons Board at that time refused.

A Three noes.

Q And then it was not brought up at the second hearing in January.

A This record does not disclose it.

Q Because if it was brought up at the second hearing in January, there was nothing said about it and yet that is one of the reasons why the Pardons Board—

A I can only say that their memory, together with what notes they may have made in their binder of the case heard in September, would help them refresh their memory and certainly my statement in the Reasons passed before four members of the Board and if it was in error—I could be in error and frequently am—it certainly would have been corrected.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Then, Senator, in your remarks there, of course, I do not think you make allowance for the fact that September was for a pardon and while you may not have considered it worthy as far as the Pardons Board was concerned in commuting the sentence, dropping it from two years to six months, which allows some penalty to be attached to the individual.

SENATOR SCOTT: What I am bringing out is that it evidently was not even brought before the Board at the January meeting and there is nothing to indicate that the testimony to refresh their memory was brought before them at the September meeting.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: They may have ignored it in September.

SENATOR YOSKO. I know, Senator Scott, isn't that something that the Board members ought to be asked about instead of Mr. Hean? Mr. Hean certainly has no control over their memories and the records that a Board member might keep.

SENATOR SCOTT: I was not questioning him what their memories were. I was questioning him about certain facts.

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes, I understand.

MR. KOHN: Well in answer to Senator Yosko, the only thing that I was pointing out was that this phraseology and reasoning had been approved by each member of the Board and I have to take it as I find it; that is all. Of course, he draws it up and circularizes it.

I have nothing further at this time, Mr. Hean.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Am I in order at this time, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We want to clarify at this time the position of this committee regarding matters which were raised by the Attorney General. The committee has decided that it had no purpose or designs to invoke any gag rules in this investigation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Good.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We do, however, from what we have placed in the record raise the issue of conflict of interest in connection with counsel for the Board. So with that, Mr. Attorney General, you may proceed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I would simply say as to conflict of interest, I see none with the Board's position, and it would be just like the prosecution saying who the defense lawyer would be if it was said to be a conflict here, but in any event I will go ahead then.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We do not want any impressions to get out that we considered the conflict of interest as being nonsense.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I mean no reflection on the committee, but I must say that I think the suggestion that there is a conflict is nonsense, Mr. Chairman.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, rehearings are not something new invented by this Board of Pardons, are they?

A Oh no, they have been going on since the Board ever existed.

Q And Exhibit No. 1, which was the printed copy of the Board of Pardons, I see where certain rules were adopted February 20, 1935 and revised as late as October 1951.

A Correct.

Q Now that provides for rehearings, does it not?

A It does.

Q Now the rule that was embodied in Exhibit No. 2 is a stricter application than before, is it not?

A Very much so.

Q So that this present Board has been cutting down on the reasons which will warrant rehearings?

A Very much so.

Q Now we come to the question of when applications are refused. Does the Board ever record the reasons for a refusal?

A I have never so recorded them in my experience

Q Is there any constitutional, legal or rule requirement that any reasons be stated when an application is refused?

A There is none to my knowledge.

Q Is the requirment of the Constitution only that the reasons shall be publicly stated and filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth only when the application is granted and the recommendation is made to the Governor?

A That is the only requirement and we follow it.

Q Now coming to the question of victims, have you ever known not only this Board, but any prior Board to notify victims of the pendency of applications?

A I have never and I have served, Mr. Attorney General, under sixteen different persons sitting on the Board of Pardons from time to time and never in my experience, going back to 1936, have we ever had any inquiry made among the victims or their relatives.

Q Isn't it looked upon as being the duty of the District Attorney to whom notice has been sent that if the victim's views are sought, he would see to it that the victim is present at the Board of Pardons to register a public protest?

A It frequently happens that relatives of the victim, that is in murder cases particularly, come there through their attorney or some relative of the deceased and express their opposition to any clemency by the Board.

Q Did that just occur this past month?

A Yes indeed.

Q And when the relatives or friends of any victim or a victim himself appears, does the Board hear him or her fully?

A Very much so.

Q Now the question of advertisement has come up. You have testified that no one instructed you as to what particular publication you should use, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Now have you from time to time received solicitations of such subscriptions?

A You mean for advertising?

Q Yes.

A Yes.

Q From newspapers?

A From newspapers.

Q Have you just gotten one recently?

A Yes, I did.

Q Where from?

A Philadelphia Inquirer.

Q Now you say that the preliminary draft which you draw up represents the sense, that you sense the feeling of the Board, but is it not a fact that you being present at the executive session hear the discussions among the members of the Board?

A I do, sir.

Q Do you use that as a guide in drawing your preliminary draft?

A Yes, I draw on the sense of the members of the Board as they may favorably consider an application.

Q Now turning to capital cases, you have indicated that there is fast action in capital cases.

A That is correct.

Q Isn't that necessary by reason of the fact that the execution is usually pending a few days after the Board sits?

A I think that is the basis for the rule that two weeks, instead of the usual thirty days—now sixty days. That is the reason.

Q You put capital cases on the list two weeks after the application is filed?

A That is correct.

Q But then after they are heard, are they particularly disposed of?

A They are the first cases. The Board considers that case number one in executive session and communicates its general idea to the Governor's office and then we subsequently write the Reasons for our position.

Q Now coming back to this question of advertisement which the Chairman raised and indicated the desirabilty of putting the advertisement in each folder, now is each case advertised separately or, as in the case of Philadelphia, does one advertisement cover as many as thirty cases?

A One advertisement will cover the entire list of persons who will be heard at that meeting of the Board who had been sentenced from Philadelphia County. It may be eighteen or it may be fifty.

Q So that when you get your proof of publication if it is eighteen, you do not get eighteen separate proofs which you can file with each application?

A That is correct.

Q You get one proof of publication concerning the whole eighteen men?

A That is correct.

Q So that what you would have to do would be to require, if you were going to put it in the folder, eighteen separate proofs which newspapers do not customarily furnish.

A That is correct.

Q Now you have been asked whether or not there were any recommendations of the Board of Pardons which were not approved by the Governor and you answered as to the present Governor. Do the records of the Board of Pardons disclose recommendations by a past Board subsequent to 1950, the inquiry period we are going through, where the Governor did disapprove a recommendation?

A The records of the Board indicate that the Governor has disapproved the recommendations of the Board and we have such records.

Q Were there any particular notable ones during the year 1954?

A Not during the year—yes, during the year 1954, yes, sir.

Q What was that situation?

A That was the famous Charles Payton case.

Q And what recommendation was made?

A The Board of Pardons recommended a commutation of that sentence and the Governor refused to approve of the recommendation.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now we think that record should be brought in here to speak for itself.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is what I think, too, Mr. Chairman. There are many such—I am delighted at the opportunity afforded me of bringing such records in.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, we go to the case of Mr. McSorley and the others. When this application was first filed, these men were not in jail at all, were they?

A They were not in jail.

Q Now at the September hearing, they were not in jail?

A They were not in jail.

Q They were out on bail pending the decision of the Superior Court?

A That is correct.

Q The contention made by counsel at that case was that these men were absolutely innocent?

A That is correct.

Q And that is why he was asking for a pardon?

A That is correct.

Q And was the counsel who made that contention—will you stand up Mr. Trescher?

(Mr. Trescher arose.)

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Trescher who you now see standing up here.

A I recall his face, yes sir.

Q Now at that hearing before the Board, didn't the Board take the position that as a matter of policy they would not want to consider the application because the men had not yet gone to jail and they did not want to create a precedent?

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I have no objection to Mr. McBride cross-examining, but I do not think that that is a statement of fact. It cannot be corroborated by the record. I think the record is the thing that speaks for itself.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is where you are wrong. The record shows that that is absolutely true. The record shows that it is true. Mr. Finnegan will personally testify to it; so will the members of the Board.

MR. KOHN: I think the record should show that rather than—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: There are two ways of showing it; one is what the Board itself did. He knows what they discussed. The Board is here and they know what they discussed.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: If there was a record made, we think the record should be brought before the committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: So do I but you see, Mr. Tompkins, I have just already explained where there is a refusal, as there was here, no record of reasons for the refusal is made. Now I am asking him whether, despite the fact that there isn't a record, isn't it a fact that the turn down in September was on policy reasons, because that is the thing that Senator Scott was interested in finding out. There was no record made of the reasons but he has personal knowledge of what moved the court to act. Senator Scott I thought was particularly interested in that question.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think it might be well to establish that he was personally present so that he would have knowledge of that. So far, we have not heard that he was present.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Very good, sir. I assume that he has testified that he was present at all executive sessions.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now in any event, Mr. Hean, were you present—

MR. KOHN: I am not objecting to the question or the answer. I am objecting to the manner of eliciting it by putting words in his mouth, and telling him what happened and then asking him and saying, "Isn't that what happened?"

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You have agreed that I am cross-examining him.

Mr. KOHN: It is not cross-examination.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Are we going to be more strict than we are in court, Mr. Chairman?

Mr. KOHN: No, but you are trying to build up through this man a statement of what happened when there is no record and you are asking him if that did not happen. In the first place, it is not proper cross-examination because I did not bring out anything on it, what actually took place or how they voted. There was no record except the results thereof.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The committee is not bound by strict technical rules of evidence because some members of the committee are not lawyers and those who are, are mere legislators anyhow.

SENATOR SCOTT: I have no objection to leading questions by either counsel.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I do believe that your questions have been very leading, Mr. Attorney General.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: They are cross-examination. Leading questions are always asked on cross-examination.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Do you represent Mr. Hean?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I represent the Department of Justice.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: You are cross-examining your client.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: What is the difference? He was called by the committee, but need we argue that?

SENATOR SCOTT: We are interested in one thing only, in bringing out the facts. Now if the facts have to be brought out by leading questions by either Mr. Kohn or by Mr. McBride, I have no objection.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q All right now, Mr. Hean, is it or is it not correct that the refusal of September was based upon the policy reason that the men had not gone to jail, had served no time and in effect the Board was asked to grant them a pardon while the case was pending in the court?

A I think the latter part of your statement is correct; that the Board as a policy, while the case was pending in the appellate court, hesitates to grant any clemency or recommend any clemency while that case is still in the appellate court, which, in this instance, the five cases were before the appellate court of this State.

Q Now at that hearing it had been brought out that Mr. Kohn did not sit. There were only three members of the Board who sat.

A As I recall dimly he had some engagement that compelled him to leave during the afternoon early and he did not sit for those cases and, therefore, of course when we consider them in executive session, he did not vote.

Q Now is there to your knowledge any rule or practice of the Board of Pardons which prevents a member from talking over purely procedural matters of how to get a case on the list and when it will get on the list?

A There is no rule to that effect and secondly I see no objection, and no one else does, to an interested person to discuss a matter with the Board as to procedure.

Q. Now it has been suggested that the hearing was held at the end of the day after everybody had gone.

A It was held at the end of that afternoon; yes sir, it was.

Q Was there due public notice?

A There was no advertising made of the rehearing, but the notice was certainly in the hands of the district attorney and the judge and interested persons.

Q And did you have before you the position of the judge?

A I do not believe we did. I will check with it. Nothing from the judge. We had the Assistant D. A. there.

Q That is Mr. Hughes, who is present in the room here?

A Yes.

Q Now was there a full argument held on this rehearing?

A It was not too long; there was a discussion of it.

Q Was it a public argument?

A It was a public argument.

Q And was there consideration of both contentions given thereafter by the Board?

A There was, in executive session you are referring to?

Q Yes. Now on the issue of whenever rehearings come up before the Board on the question of whether or not they should be granted, has it been the regular policy that you do not have to get a majority to get a rehearing?

A I believe the rule provides two of the four members will agree to a rehearing, it is placed on the list.

Q But to get favorable consideration either on an original hearing or a rehearing it requires not less than three?

A That is for a favorable recommendation.

Q And that is the constitutional provision of Article IV, Section 9?

A That is correct.

Q Was that done in this case?

A That was done in this case.

Q Do you know of anything or has anything been brought to your attention that you consider to be improper in the consideration of this Delaware County case?

A I know of nothing and I will swear that on any stack of Bibles you provide, Mr. Attorney General. There was nothing improper that ever came to my attention either directly or indirectly by inference or innuendo.

Q Is there the slightest doubt or was there the slightest doubt at any of these hearings, particularly the first one, that this was in fact a labor dispute?

A There was no question in the mind of those that listened that afternoon that it was a labor dispute.

Q Whether or not the conduct of particular persons had spilled over into criminal conduct?

A They spilled over into this riot in Media.

Q But was there at any time a contention on the part of these men that they were guilty of riot or did they contend always that they were innocent?

A They contended always absolute innocence.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have no further questions.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Did you say, sir, that a rehearing can be scheduled on the authorization of two members of the Board and it is in the rules?

A That is in the rules.

Q I would like Mr. Hean to point out exactly where it is.

A "For cause shown, the Board, with the approval of two members, may specially list applications for hearing if filed at least three weeks before the regular session at which hearing is desired."

Q Which section is that?

A Five (b).

Q And what is Section V labeled?

A Section V, you want the label, "Original Cases."

Q And what is Section VI labeled?

A That is "Rehearing Cases."

Q And aren't we discussing rehearing cases?

A That is true but we run them together.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q When was the January hearing on this matter?

A You mean the date, 18th and 19th; either the 18th or 19th.

Q I guess it was the 19th.

A The 19th was it?

Q When were these applications for rehearing filed?

A About December 28, somewhere along in there. December 29, James Evans tells me.

MR. EVANS: I believe it is stamped in your office.

THE WITNESS: Then that would be the official stamp then, Jim.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Where is the application, the notes that they have there? The two vote there is what I am looking for.

THE WITNESS: Shall I hand it up to you? You will excuse me.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, how many will appear before the Board and who have gone through trial are there that do not protest their innocence?

A Well I would say that every person, with a few exceptions, is always innocent, naturally.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q This matter of rehearing was especially set by the Board in this case for January 18.

A Yes.

Q Ordinarily filed at this time would have gone over for a month at least.

A That is correct.

Q Do you know what the reasons of the Board were to accelerate this hearing at this particular time, giving the district attorney such short notice?

A I have no information.

Q I think you stated in answering Mr. McBride that the judge was also notified in this case of the rehearing?

A I understand that.

Q Is there anything in your file?

A No, but only as a practice. It is a form letter we send out.

Q There is nothing in the file which states that he was not notified?

A No, that is correct. We send a form letter.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Could I ask one more question? Are you finished?

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q You have among the papers in this particular case a report?

A I do.

Q And I am pointing out to you that report, am I not, dated August 29, 1955?

A That is correct.

Q That is before the September meeting?

A Before the September meeting.

Q I read one sentence from that report: "This incident arose apparently because of a dispute concerning unionism." Is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q And is that an official report?

A That is an official report.

MR. KOHN: Made by an investigator of the Parole Board

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Well, Mr. Hean, I am a little puzzled now on Section V of the Rules of the Board of Pardons. My interpretation of this—and again I am only a Legislator—is that this applies only to specially listed original cases.

A That is true. However, in these rehearing cases in order to get an expression of opinion in writing, as you just noted, we somewhat followed what was done, the setup in the original case; two members would indicate.

Q In other words there is nothing in the printed rules that cover this specific case?

A On rehearing, we have used the rule of thumb as expressed in Rule V where two members would be persuasive in listing it.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Two members specially listing?

A Either specially or rehearing. We have not gotten into the special listing at all. This is rehearing.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Will you show me in paragraph V where it says for rehearing?

A No, you will not find it there.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Any other questions?

MR. KOHN: No, not at this time.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now it is after one o'clock. We are finished with this witness. We have another witness we want to call, but I think everybody would like to have a little lunch, so let us recess until 1:45, at which time we will return. That will give us about forty minutes to have a sandwich and a cup of coffee.

(At 1:05 p. m. the hearing was recessed until 1:45 p. m.)

I hereby certify that the proceedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing on the above cause before the Joint Legislative Committee to Conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and that this copy is a correct transcript of the same.

AFTERNOON SESSION

February 27, 1957

COMMITTEE MEMBERS present were:

Chairman Tompkins
Representative Bell
Representative Lopresti
Senator Yosko

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The hearing will reconvene.

Let the record show that at the beginning of the hearing this afternoon Senator Fleming and Scott are not present and that four members of the Committee sat.

You may proceed, Mr. Kohn.

Mr. KOHN: I will ask Mr. Hughes to please take the stand.

J. HAROLD HUGHES, a witness having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Your name is J. Harold Hughes?

A Yes sir.

Q What position do you have in Delaware County?

A First Assistant District Attorney.

Q How long have you been First Assistant District Attorney in Delaware County?

A On my sixth year.

Q Now will you state whether or not you tried Commonwealth against McSorley et al?

A I did.

Q I ask you whether or not you appeared at the special hearing set for January 18 and 19, 1956 on the Board of Pardons?

A Yes sir, I did.

Q You were there on behalf of the District Attorney's Office of Delaware County?

A Yes sir.

Q What was your position in regard to these cases before the Pardons Board?

A We opposed it as strongly as we were able.

Q Do you know whether the judge who tried the case also opposed the commutation?

A He strongly opposed it.

Q What was the judge's name?

A Judge Toal.

Q When these cases went to hearing before the Pardon Board what time of the day was it?

A It was the last case in the day and my recollection is it started about a quarter of five.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q This is the second hearing?

A Yes, January 18th hearing, I understand.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q How long were these cases heard by the Board?

A My recollection is that they finished about 6:20. My reason for that is that I know I met Mrs. Hughes at the Penn-Harris at twenty minutes to seven. That is my recollection.

Q Did you look at the notes of testimony that were alleged to have been taken at the hearing by yourself and Mr. Fawcett, counsel for the applicant?

A I did.

Q And is this a complete record of what was said by counsel on both sides during that hour and a half?

A It is not.

Q Do you recall one particular question that was asked by a member of the Pardons Board that is not recorded in here?

A Well, there were many, but I do recall particularly the one by Mr. Finnegan where he said how can we substitute our judgment for the local Court and Superior and Supreme Court.

Q Does that appear anywhere in the record of this testimony?

A Not on hastily reading it. I was only reading it to find something about the reason for giving it. I don't find it there.

Q Well, will you look at it and see if you can find any questions by Mr. Finnegan recorded in that?

A Oh, I am sure there isn't. There are only statements by, it says, Mr. Fawcett. But it isn't Mr. Fawcett even, it's Mr. Trescher and myself.

Q Were there many questions asked by all members of the Pardons Board of both yourself and Mr. Trescher?

A I would think they all did.

Q Is that a complete transcription of the arguments made by both sides?

A No sir, I am sure it is not.

Q Did you ask Mr. Hean or any members of the Pardons Board why this was listed for the last case on the list?

A I only wrote the letter which I gave you, asking to put it along with the Delaware County cases. That's all I asked by letter.

Q When these cases were heard, were there any newsmen or anybody in the court room outside yourself and members of the Pardons Board, their staff and you and Mr. Trescher?

A Behind the bar there were only two or three men sitting there in one group. I don't know who they were.

Q These cases were specially listed and specially numbered, were they not?

A Yes, I had asked them to be numbered 46 or 47½, along with Delaware County, but they were put at the end of Montgomery County, I think it was.

Q Is there any allegation or any argument by Mr. Trescher at the time the argument took place on January 18th? Was there any feeling in the community against these defendants at the time they were tried?

A I don't recall any. It wasn't one of the reasons, and if it was said it was only in passing.

Q Was there any time you heard that specifically argued as one of the reasons for commutation?

A No sir.

Q Was there any public reaction against the Board of Pardons for commuting the sentence of these defendants?

A Yes, there certainly was. There were quite some newspaper articles about it, and I think there were quotations from the court in the papers, and from the short circle where I am, it was talked about as being wrong.

MR. McBRIDE: Gentlemen, I raise a point of order. I don't think that this committee is inquiring into the correctness or the incorrectness of the decision or what the community feeling was about it. The committee, as I understand it, is inquiring into the question as to whether there was any improper influence. We have spent a lot of time talking about the merits and demerits of the application. And surely Mr. Hughes' opinion about whether he would have agreed with the Board's order or whether the community did, or whether the judge did, has nothing to do with the question of corruption.

I concede fully corruption is important; political influence is important, but the mere question of whether the Board acted rightly or wrongly is no more in issue than if we were inquiring into whether a court acted rightly or wrongly with respect to the given case.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I agree with the position taken by the Attorney General.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I don't think we should restrict these witnesses.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think a part of our inquiry should be the public reaction to the decisions of the Pardons Board.

SENATOR YOSKO: I don't agree with that because the Resolution does not call for investigation based on the reactions of the public or anybody else.

I want to ask the assistant district attorney a question at this time.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Are you prepared to submit to this committee any evidence of improper influence on the Pardons Board which would influence the action it took?

A I have no knowledge of what caused them to make the findings they did. And that is either from the argument before the body and anything else I may know. I don't know.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, I think that the Pardons Board is a constitutional body given the right to pass on certain questions and I don't think we have any right to enter into the question of judgment and wheher or not they agree with the courts. Certainly if the Pardons Board was expected to agree with the Court and the district attorney there would be no need for it because it could stop right there.

I think we are going beyond the authority and the power of this committee to inquire into the justification or the reasoning for the actions of the Board.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, along that line I could, if I wanted to, go into a long examination on the part of the office of the District Attorney of Delaware County on the reasons why they come up here and recommend a commutation. I have a record of the cases here from February 1955 to February 1956 wherein 22 cases they opposed either a pardon or commutation and in 31 cases they recommended them. They involve robbery, sodomy, voluntary manslaughter, rape, burglary and arson, cases that are more serious than this one. They are felonies.

Now this case, if I am not mistaken, is a misdemeanor.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairmn, I think we should get as many facts in the record as we can handle. We are a fact finding body and if Senator Yosko wants to bring in witnesses as to improper influence in any other cases, he is perfectly free to do so. I don't think we should stop our counsel from examining this witness.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I didn't say that. I am saying that we are going beyond the mandates of the resolution under which we are operating. We are called upon to determine whether there is improper influnce exerted on the Pardons Board in arriving at their decisions; and unless the district attorney is prepared to testify to that effect, I don't think it is proper for us to go into the reasons for their decisions. That speaks for itself. It is right in the order of the Pardons Board. It is a public record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The resolution calls for our investigating all actions of the Pardons Board since January 4, 1950.

SENATOR YOSKO: You have to read further than that.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: What we are called upon to do here now is not to decide actions of the Board of Pardons, but whether or not a community or a particular man agrees with the Pardons Board. And I don't think that is our function.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think that that is a part of this investigation. It becomes our duty to determine whether or not the actions of this Pardons Board are in any way causing any trouble in connection with law enforcement in this state.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I concur.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: And in doing so, questions relating to specific cases and the public reaction thereto I think are germane to this inquiry.

MR. McBRIDE: We want to note, Mr. Chairman, our protests against this committee going into the discretion of the Board of Pardons. Corruption yes; improper influences, yes; but this committee, I respectfully submit, has no more warrant to question the discretion of the Board of Pardons than it can question the discretion of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I don't think the question which was asked has anything to do with the discretion of the Board.

MR. McBRIDE: It is even worse.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think the question goes as to what reaction the public is giving with respect to the actions of the Board.

MR. McBRIDE: If the action of the Board was right, what does it matter how the public reacted? The guarantee of freedom insists that the law be obeyed, particularly where there is public reaction. And you would be the first to stand up for that principle.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. McBride, do you question the right of the Legislature of Pennsylvania to call any executive or any other constitutional board before one of its committees to inquire as to whether what has been done is right in so far as we are the represntatives of the people?

MR. McBRIDE: I question your right, or the Legislature's right to call any executive constitutional official before you for the purpose of deciding whether you think he was right or wrong in the exercise of his discretion.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Do you challenge the right of the Board to call before us any executive official for the purpose of our initiating a constitutional amendment, sir?

MR. McBRIDE: I do not put it that broadly. I say that you have a perfect right to call before you certain executive officials. There are certain others you cannot. But in calling them before you it will just make a shambles of the principle of separation of governmental powers, if you just sit up here and start to review what the Board of Pardons did and then come to the conclusion that you don't agree with it. You couldn't do that with a court, could you? You could no more do it with the Board of Pardons.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Well, sir, I disagree. I say that the members of the Legislature are the representatives of the people; and if the executive department is wrong, we have the duty—provided we have the authority from our parent branch—to inquire and to report back to our parent branch.

MR. McBRIDE: The representatives of the people in each particular instance are set up by the Constitution. In Pardons Board matters the Pardons Board is the representative of the people, too.

The Legislature has its branch; the Judiciary has its branch, and so has the Executive. Constitutional government requires that they must be kept separate and apart and within their own functions.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: And sir, if a constitutional amendment is initiated, it can very properly be initiated from the Legislature of Pennsylvania, am I correct?

SENATOR YOSKO: But you don't have to conduct public hearings or set up a committee or make investigations to initiate a constitutional amendment.

You are a member of the Legislature and so am I, and I could introduce any bill that I see fit to introduce to amend the Constitution or to amend any other law that is on the books of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. If there is no law on the subject, I can introduce bills to put such a law on the books. And it doesn't require this type of proceedings to give me that right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I fully agree with Mr. McBride in connection with the separation of powers in our government. I must disagree with him, however, in connection with the fact that we are not empowered by this committee to inquire into reactions from decisions. That is not questioning reasons for the decision or their discretion, but we do have the right to look into reactions from the actions of the committee to determine whether or not it is affecting law enforcement and whether or not it might go to the abuse of the powers of the Pardons Board.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: The Chairman is not suggesting that we submit to mob rule, is he?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I don't see where that has any suggestion of that at all.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well that's what it amounts to when you ask for public reaction. Sometimes mob rule can be wrong.

SENATOR YOSKO: I am sure, Mr. Chairman, if we are going to do that, we are going to be here a long, long time because I am certain that you can get witnesses up here who will testify one way and somebody else can get witnesses to testify another way. If we are going to sit here and listen to a lot of witnesses, we are going to be here a little time.

I contend we are here to determine whether or not the decisions of the Board of Pardons are based upon improper influence, but we are not here to determine whether their judgment was right or wrong or fair or unfair.

There is nothing we can do here to change the decision of the Board of Pardons.

What counsel is now doing is re-hashing the case, a case which is now a matter of record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We cannot inquire into the subject of our resolution without going into some specified cases which have appeared before the Board of Pardons.

SENATOR YOSKO: I did ask a witness whether or not he had any evidence to present to the committee on improper influence on the Board of Pardons in arriving at its decision and he said no. So the only thing we can do is re-hash the case.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, Mr. Kohn, what do you have to say?

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, this government is made up of the legislative, judicial and executive. We have this morning attempted to show this board and the public that there were certain deviations in the actions of the Board of Pardons that we feel should be brought to the attention of the public. The necessity of the judicial also is concerned with the protection of the people in whose communities it is their duty to enforce the law.

These reactions to the Board of Pardons have not occurred only in this county but in many other counties. And I think that the reaction of the people is a thing that caused this investigation, and I think the matter should be put on the record that it was a reaction of the people all over this state that caused this investigation.

I think we ought to be allowed to put on record the facts that caused this investigation. We are not judging the Pardons Board. Their job has been done. People will judge them; they may be right; they may be wrong. That is not the matter that I intend to go into, but I do feel that where there are deviations such as has been shown here this morning, we ought to be allowed to show the result on law enforcement in that community and on those people and on those judges because that certainly has something to do with the operations of the Pardons Board taking away from the judicial and functions which the people gave to the judicial.

And this is a Board that has been set up and is not an executive board but it is a board that has been set up to consider the actions of those courts and the actions and rights of the defendants. They are tied up so closely that I could hardly see that you can divide them to say that you are not interested in them.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Let me say for the information of the committee that I do not believe that we should ever go to the point in American justice when either the judges, the Board of Pardons or any person having to do with the enforcement of law should be afraid of public reaction in doing his duty.

MR. KOHN: I agree with you.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: It is based on the record itself.

MR. KOHN: That is what I am basing it on.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: And the public reaction to that judgment should not enter into it at any time if we are going to have a constitutional government.

MR. KOHN: Except we are basing this investigation on the reaction of the public as mandated to the people to conduct this investigation.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I don't so understand it.

SENATOR YOSKO: And I don't believe either that there are sufficient serious irregularities or deviations that you brought out or anybody else brought out that would affect the merits of the case or would merit re-hashing the case before this committee.

MR. McBRIDE: May it please the Board, the Chairman and Mr. Kohn indicated that there may be some violations noted here. At most, even giving what we have heard here today its full import, there would be some technical violation of a rule. The Senate and the House has its rules and they can suspend them. The Board of Pardons which makes the written rules can suspend them. They could change them. They could do what they wanted with them.

The question is not really whether what they did was right or wrong but whether what they did was motivated by improper influence or corruption.

Now we have listened all morning and we are listening now—and I suppose we will be treated to Mr. Hughes' views that he doesn't agree with what the Board of Pardons did. That isn't the issue in this case. I really represent to you that the committee would be not only exceeding the powers granted to it by the Legislature but by the Constitution itself. And you would be making an inroad on constitutional separation if you did.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, in the light of what Mr. McBride has said, I merely want to make this observation, that personally I am thoroughly shocked that the Pardons Board can change its rules at will because that doesn't give anybody an opportunity to know what they might do next without any notification or give no one an opportunity to be hear if they so see fit to change the rules to gag and block.

I don't agree with the principle that they should make rules at will and on the spot.

As to the other matters, unfortunately we are an evenly divided committee here this afternoon, and therefore we don't have anybody to break our deadlock on this issue. I have expressed my personal views on it. Mr. Bell has expressed his personal views on it. We believe that we have the right to continue with this inquiry along the line in which it has been initiated, and to inquire into these matters of the reaction to the decision of the Board of Pardons.

In the light of that fact, and in order to get some majority ruling of this committee and not make it appear that we are going to be dictorial here in connection with the conduct of this committee, I will therefore suspend further questioning along this line until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning at which time we will have a sufficient number of board members here that we can get a majority ruling of the Committee on this issue.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, I don't think the position is quite clear. I object to the board doing it, or the committee doing it. However, I wouldn,t vote against your not doing it. I have stated my reasons why I think it is improper, but I say if the two members of the committee want to inquire into it, it is all right with me. I am just merely raising a protest that it is not proper procedure. Now, if you want to do it, I will go along with you, sure.

SENATOR YOSKO: I take the same position. If the Assistant District Attorney has any evidence of improper influence arriving at a decision in this case, I am perfectly willing to let them testify. If he doesn't, I am not interested in hearing a re-hashing of the case and the arguments before the Pardons Board. That is all a matter of record.

I will go along with Mr. Lopresti. If you want to pile up a bill for stenographic services or take testimony that is irrelevant to the issue and is not within the terms of the resolution which created the committee, it is all right with me. You can go ahead.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I personally take offense from Senator Yosko's remarks. I think that the purpose of this committee is to inquire as to the facts so that we can make a report to our respective Houses for the purpose of prospective legislation. And if there is any threat to law enforcement in this Commonwealth, I say the cost of the record is worth finding it out.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: There is a difference between opinions and facts.

SENATOR YOSKO: We had opinions this morning, Mr. Lopresti. There was a question asked by Mr. McBride of Mr. Hean as follows: "Was this due notice," talking about some advertising. And if there was ever an opinion, that was it.

MR. McBRIDE: That's the language of the Constitution.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Now, you are asking him to pass an opinion as to whether or not the people of this county think this court is right or wrong. That's the difference.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I think the members of this committee, including Senator Yosko—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Gentlemen, we will resolve this issue in full committee executive session. I don't propose to continue with any hearings over which we do not have a sufficient number here to give us a majority to proceed with.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: May I conclude my statement: it was not heated, I will guarantee it.

I was going to say that the people on this committee bear the confidence of the respective Houses for their good judgment. If they cannot sift between fact and opinion I am mistaken. I have the opinion of Senator Yosko and Representative Lopresti and the other members of this committee.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI.: Well, we have a basic discussion here as to what the function of the committee is, and I contend that it is not the function of this committee to pass upon the actions of the Board of Pardons, nor is it the function of this committee to determine whether or not a particular action of the Board is popular in the community or not. I think that it is the function of the committee to discover whether or not the Board has acted improperly, has submitted to influence or has done anything which was considered outside the scope of its judicial function or quasi-judicial function.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Bell, I am assuming that the Board of Pardons was set up for the purpose of adjusting any inequities that might have resulted from a court trial which subsequently resulted in a sentence. And if that is not the reason for the Pardons Board, I wish somebody would enlighten me on the purpose for which it functions.

Now, if the Pardons Board felt that in this case, even though the Defendants were found guilty, that the sentence was improper or exorbitant and they wanted to reduce it from two years to six months, I think that's within their jurisdiction. It is within their right. They exercise that right.

Sure, some people will like it and some won't like it, but that's their function. And unless somebody can produce evidence to us, I repeat, that their decision was influenced by improper influence, I don't see why we should re-hash the case. It is not going to do us any good. It is all a matter of record. All we have to do is review the record. The records of the Pardons Board are available to us. We can incorporate anything in our report that we want to—at least that's my understanding.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, if there is anything in the action of the Pardons Board which is tending to break down law enforcement in our Commonwealth, I certainly think we have the right to inquire into that influence.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well, as I said, Mr. Chairman, you are perfectly at liberty to continue as far as I am concerned.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I will not continue until we have a majority rule of this committee on it. I don't propose to put ourselves in the position of taking a dicttorial attitude in this matter or try to oppress any of the witnesses.

For that reason, we will defer further questioning along this line until we have a majority of the committee here to get a majority action. It is unfortunate we are equally divided here this afternoon and we cannot break that tie.

SENATOR YOSKO: Do you have any other questions we can take?

MR. KOHN: My questioning is along these lines, and I think the people of Pennsylvania speak. I don't question that the actions of the Pardons Board might have been fully justified in their own minds, but I do feel that inas much as the people of Pennsylvania want to find out how the Pardons Board has reacted and the reasons they have given, as we brought them out here, and whether or not those reasons are justified and whether or not law enfocement is going to break down. This was an after result as a result of the action of the Board not only in this case but other cases which we intend to bring out. And I think that the only way that the Pardons Board is going to get any rules to follow is whereby they will first ascertain the attitude of the community on which they are releasing these particular defendants is by finding out what the community thinks and why they think that way. And that's the line and gist of this questioning, and it is going to be the line and gist of questioning of Judge Bretherick and Judge Toal tomorrow morning, who have publicly expressed themselves and who have said it was political and it was wrong.

That is your situation. And you might just as well get a clear issue because when I am told to go ahead or to stop, I will know just what to do.

SENATOR YOSKO: Do I understand that if somebody wants to come up here and testify on the other side that the sentence was exorbitant—

Mr. KOHN: I am not talking about the sentence. I am not interested in the sentence. I am interested in the reaction in the community.

SENATOR YOSKO: You are talking about breaking down law enforcement. We can argue about that all day.

MR. KOHN: If you can get someone up here to testify that that was good low enforcement, I would like to hear it.

SENATOR YOSKO: Let me ask you one question. If people come up here and testify that they see no wrong in the decision that was arrived at by the Pardons Board, do I understand that you have no objection to them testifying?

Mr. KOHN: I am talking about the general opinion of the community.

MR. McBRIDE: Listen, the general opinion of the community was whipped up by Mr. Miller and the Philadelphia Inquirier. It was whipped up directly and is being whipped up now during this committee hearing.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: We can't submit to mob rule. That's out. The constitutional government took too long to establish—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We are not submitting to mob rule, but I certainly think we have a right to inquire into these actions.

MR. KOHN: I am not only basing it on that. I don't want to talk too much because after all I am an employee of Mr. Yosko and Mr. Lopresti and I want to do what is right.

SENATOR YOSKO: I find no fault with you. It is your line of questioning, that is all.

MR. KOHN: I know you are not. I am just saying we can show a general breakdown in the Community of law enforcement as a result of the possiblity erroneous decision of this Board and the resentment that it releases on the community with respect to not only these particular individuals who were defendants but other individuals who would do these things along these same lines.

Now if that is relevant in this inqury, then you will have to rule on it.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: If we follow through on your reasoning, we might as well eliminate the Pardons Board because any time they do something that the community doesn't think is right, they are not acting in the proper constitutional—

MR. KOHN: Mr. Lopresti, this isn't one individual instance. I will prove to you many individual instances along this same line.

MR. McBRIDE: Is your statement that you want people to come up here to say they are in favor of law enforcement? The contention was made that these five men were innocent. It was made by the former District Attorney of Delaware County who is now a Federal Judge and it was made by Mr. Trescher before this Board of Pardons. Both of them are available to tell you that they think it was not only in the interests of law enforcement but of justice.

MR. KOHN: The Superior Court didn't say that.

MR. McBRIDE: The Superior Court did not have this question.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a moment. I am not going to have counsel testifying.

MR. McBRIDE: We have to answer questions, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Bring your witnesses in.

SENATOR YOSKO: May I ask just one question of the witness?

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Have there been any riots that resulted in damaged property in Delaware County since these defendants had their sentences commuted?

A Yes sir.

Q What were they?

A There was what is known as the Westinghouse riots.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I am not going to allow any questioning by anybody on this subject until we get a majority opinion of this committee. I am going to rule your question out of order because I want to have the majority of this committee rule on this issue.

We will adjourn the hearing until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

We would like to have the Attorney General come to an executive committee meeting which we will hold right now.

(At 2:23 p. m.,the hearing was adjourned until 10:00 a. m., Thursday, February 28, 1957.

I hereby certify that the proceedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee to Conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and this is a correct transcript of the same.

own personal opinion regarding the actions of the Pardons Board and the reaction thereto.

2. We will permit any recommendations they have to improve the system of the pardons in this Commonwealth.

3. That we will not permit any testimony regarding public opinion generally, unless that public opinion is supported by documentary evidence; and that likewise, witnesses who will be in contradiction to personal opinions which are expressed here will be permitted.

Mr. Kohn—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Are you withdrawing Mr. Hughes temporarily?

MR. KOHN: I am, sir.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We think it is entirely all right.

ARTHUR P. BRETHERICK, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Your name is Arthur P. Bretherick?

A My name is Arthur P. Bretherick.

Q What is your position in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

A I am a Judge in the Court of Common Pleas of Delaware County, Pennsylvania.

Q How long have you been a judge in the Court of Common Pleas?

A I have been a judge in the Court of Common Pleas in Pennsylvania for nearly eight years.

Q Previous to that time were you a practicing attorney?

A I have been connected with law since I was fifteen years of age. I started as an office boy at the age of fifteen. I have been everything you can be in an office. I was associated with the law firm of Francis Brown, Ira Jewel Williams, Alexander Simpson for thirty-seven years. I have been a member of the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania; Register of Wills of Delaware County, and a lot of other things.

Q Mr. Bretherick, on or about March 8, 1956, did you receive a Grand Jury report from the Grand Jury of Delaware County?

A I certainly did.

Q And did not the Grand Jury report concerned mention regard to the Pardons Board?

A There was a mention of the Pardons Board in that particular report, but I do not know what the exact words were.

Q Subsequently, about June 7 of 1956 was there again a report of your Grand Jury of Delaware County?

A There was.

Q And was there a mention of the Pardons Board in there?

A I do not recall. There was, but I do not recall what the words were.

Q And what was the reason for the Grand Jury having something to say about the Pardons Board?

A The reason for the Grand Jury having something to say about the Pardons Board, in the first instance, occurred in March of 1955. I had the Grand Jury during that week and before I charged the Grand Jury I had been furnished with one of our District Attorney's, Assistant District Attorney's—with a report that the Pardons Board had just or the Governor had just commuted the sentence of five hoodlums that had come into our county and destroyed public property not private property; a public building, not a private building and I was incensed and I told the Jury what had happened.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Judge Bretherick, was that 1955 or 1956?

A That was in 1956.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did you make a statement of record to the Grand Jury?

A I made a statement of record to the Grand Jury.

Q May I ask you whether or not this is a certified copy from the records of the Clerk of the Court of your county?

A That is a certified copy of the record from the Clerk of the Court of our County.

Q Did you then address the jury and make these remarks?

A I most certainly did.

MR. KUHN: May we ask permission to read these remarks of Judge Bretherick to enter on the record, and I would like to file this for consideration of the Board?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You may mark it as an exhibit.

MR. KOHN: This is marked Miscellaneous Quarter Sessions Docket at A22, page 302 certified from the record of the County Clerks Office of Delaware County on the twenty-first day of February, 1957.

You dont mind if I stand. I can read better that way.

"Media, Pennsylvania, March 6, 1956. Remarks of Honorable Arthur P. Bretherick, Judge at the time the Delaware County Grand Jury for the March Sessions of 1956 commenced its duties.

"JUDGE BRETHERICK: Before we swear this Grand Jury, there is a comment that I want to make about a case that was tried in our courts in 1955, involving one Joseph McSorley, Joseph D'Antonio, Joseph Dendofer, Pasquale DiMarco and Charles Rainer. They were all convicted in our courts of riot, conspiracy to assault, riot and destroying public property; because they didn't like the way the work was being done and by whom it was being done in the Annex which was built in the back of the Court House, which is public property, these men entered that property and beat up some of the employees there and destroyed property. They were convicted in this court after a fair trial, they took their case all the way up to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. The convictions were sustained. And we now have a Pardons Board which is so tainted and tinctured with politics that after those men have served approximately four months of a two-year sentence their sentence has been commuted by the Pardons Board at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

"Ladies and gentlemen, that case involved something that is sacred to the people of Pennsylvania. That is the preservation of law and order. These men were just a pack of hoodlums who came out here from Philadelphia to enforce whatever rights they thought they had with regard to men either belonging or not belonging to a union, and they invaded public property. And after serving approximately four months of a 24 month sentence, the public authorities have seen fit to commute their sentence; and I want to say to you that is a disgrace to the State of Pennsylvania.

"You are going to perform your duties this week as Grand Jurors. And if you perform your duties as other Grand Jurors have performed those duties, you are going to do it honestly and sincerely, without regard to politics or personalities or anything else. And I am sure you will fulfill that duty.

"In our courts we endeavor to see that every man is given a fair trial, regardless of that person's race, creed, color, standing in life or anything else. But there is not much use of our courts endeavoring to see that men are tried and convicted of crimes if a State Pardons Board is going to turn them loose for political purposes; and I want to say to you that is what was done in this case. You can't do justice on that basis. You can't have respect for the courts or for law and order if that sort of thing takes place, and I want to condemn it as strongly as I know how. If ever there was a travesty, it was the turning loose of these five men who came into this county, a bunch of hoodlums, and took the law into their own hands and destroyed county property. To turn them loose after approximately four months is a disgrace to the State of Pennsylvania; and I hope that your endeavors this week will not be treated in the same way by a Pennsylvania State Board of Pardons as it is now constituted.

"Members of the jury, you may now retire to the Grand Jury Room, select your secretary, and then the District Attorney will be ready to present bills of indictment to you for consideration.

"Before you go, I want to add further to what I said to you with regard to these hoodlums that came out and were convicted in our courts. Some time ago we convicted a Philadelphia racketeer, gambler, one of the leading lights in illegal activities in Philadelpha, a man arrested many, many tmes. Finally we convicted him in Delaware County. This was the first time he had been tried in Delaware County. He was sentenced, he took his case all the way up to the Supreme Court. And after serving eight months of a two-year sentence, that man too had his sentence commuted by the State Board of Pardons. You realize how difficult it is for judges in a situation like that; when an application is filed for a pardon, the State Board of Pardons asks the judge who heard the case to make recommendations. Well, in these cases recommendations were made that these men be retained in jail, that they be incarcerated for the full period of the term of their sentence.

"There is no use at all of Pennsylvania's Judges making recommendations to the Board of Pardons if they are going to turn loose on the public one of the leading racketeers in the Eastern part of the United States of America. When he came into our county, he was convicted. He wasn't convicted in Philadelphia. And then they turn him loose. He is just another Costello, he is another Joe Adonis. And after serving eight months of his sentence, against the protest of Judge Toal who heard the case they turn him loose.

"What a shambles the State Board of Pardons is making of justice in Pennsylvania. Our courts might just as well close their doors if we are going to go to the trouble to convict these men, and they take their appeals all the way up to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and those convictions are sustained, and then they turn them loose to prey on the public again. It is a travesty of the worst kind. I hope, as I said before, that we will have none of that in Delaware County."

I offer that into the evidence.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You followed me, Judge. Is that correct?

A That was correct, except you left the word "again" out at the end.

Q I ask you again then, Judge Bretherick, did you subsequently then again on March 8 address the Grand Jury and make remarks on the record to that Grand Jury?

A Yes, sir, I did.

Q I show you Exhibit 5 and ask you whether that is a certified copy of those remarks to the Grand Jury?

A That is a certified copy of the remarks which I made to the Grand Jury after they had completed their duties.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, just a minute. Let's get the exhibits marked. Will you mark those?

(Reporter complied.)

Statement of record to the Grand Jury of Delaware County by Judge Arthur P. Bretherick, under date of March 8, 1956, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 5. NPK 2-28-57

MR. KOHN: And this is Miscellaneous Quarter Sessions Docket of A22, page 302. I would like to read this to the jury, the Committee.

This is dated Media, Pennsylvania, March 8, 1956. Certified from the record this twenty-first day of February, 1957, by William H. Milliken, Jr., Clerk of Court, Delaware County, which reads as follows:

"JUDGE BRETHERICK: . . .

"I want to share with you your comments with regard to the State Pardons Board. I talked to you about one Michael J. Caserta, who was convicted in our courts and who was pardoned by the State Pardons Board.

"First of all I want to read a letter—and I have received several letters and several telephone calls of commendation—and I want to read a letter that I received from a man named Clarence G. Myers, who is a member of one of the biggest law firms in Philadelphia, in which he says:

" 'Dear Judge Bretherick:

" 'I am so glad you have taken judicial notice of the frightful abuses of the Pardons Board with respect to their discretionary powers. The non-stop parade of habitual felons through our jails and out to prey on the public again is tragic. If this is modern penology, it is high time we returned to old-fashioned common sense.'" End of letter.

"And I want to say with that view I am a hundred per cent in accord.

"But I want to read to you, if you will just give me a minute or two, the record of Michael Caserta, who is a Philadelphia racketeer, who has plied his wares in Delaware County through local numbers writers and bookmakers for a long period of time. We have picked up his bookmakers and his numbers writers on many, many occasions, but we never could get Michael Caserta, for the simple reason that the individuals that we arrested and jailed would not make any statements as to who they were doing business with. But in this Michael Caserta case, one of the men was picked up, and Michael Caserta in this instance failed to keep his promise that the wife and the family were looked after while he was in jail, and because of that the individual talked. And that is the only way that we could ever have gotten Michael J. Caserta. If it hadn't been for that, he would have been plying his wares in Delaware County from his nest in Philadelphia for probably ten years and there is no way by which we could have gotten hold of him.

"This is his record starting back in 1931. Michael Caserta, charge aggravated assault and battery to rob and robbery; adjudged not guilty and discharged.

"11/14/31, charge suspicion of larceny; discharged by Magistrate Campbell.

"12/7/33, charge of murder; discharged by Magistrate Hamberg.

"March 4, 1934, charge, entering to steal and attempted larceny. Pleaded guilty, five years, put on probation. Not a day in jail.

"7/25/1934, charge larceny of money and receiving stolen goods. Nolle prossed, discharged.

"5/11/35, charge suspicious character, three months House of Correction.

"Sometimes they have themselves picked up as suspicious characters and placed in institutions of that kind while investigations are being made of a more serious nature. I don't say that that was the case here, but they do that.

"5/23/35, charge passing counterfeit money, three years, suspended sentence, five years probation. Not a minute in jail.

"9/27/36, charge larceny of wallet, found not guilty, discharged.

"7/28/37, charge suspicious character, discharged.

"11/21/38, charge robbery by holdup at point of gun, violation of Witkin Firearm Act. Not guilty submitted by direction of court.

"6/11/41, charge setting up and maintaining unlawful lottery, discharged by the magistrate.

"9/16/41, charge setting up and maintaining unlawful lottery; adjudged guilty, pay the costs.

"8/4/44, charge setting up and maintaining unlawful lottery; discharged by the magistrate.

"6/13/45, charge reckless driving, resisting arrest, violation of section 1025 of the Motor Vehicle Code. Found not guilty, discharged.

"5/22/46, Philadelphia, charge setting up and maintaining unlawful lottery, pleaded guilty., fine $50.

"Those fellows make $50 every half a day. Paying a $50 fine just didn't mean anything to that individual.

"12/16/46, charge disorderly conduct, discharged.

"10/23/48, charge setting up and maintaining unlawful lottery; discharged by the magistrate.

"3/27/49, charge violation of State Liquor Control Act, breach of peace; adjudged guilty, $300 fine. No time in prison.

"11/9/50, charge setting up and maintaining and aiding and abetting an unlawful lottery. Demurrer to evidence sustained, discharged.

"Every one of these was in Philadelphia.

"236 November Sessions 1953, arrested in Delaware County by Corporal Urella, Pennsylvania State Police, charged with lottery. 3/23/54, found guilty of lottery, motion for new trial. 7/9/54, new trial refused, $500 and costs, six months to 12 months in jail from today. Appeal taken to Superior Court from the sentence of Judge Toal.

"237 November Sessions 1953, indicted for conspiracy. 3/23, found guilty of conspiracy, motion for new trial. Motion refused. 7/14/54, $500 and costs, 11 months to 23 months in Delaware County jail from expiration of sentence on 236 November Sessions 1953. Appeal taken to Superior Court, Judge Toal.

"Date of commitment to jail in Delaware County, 3/25/55.

"Paroled on 2/25/56.

"Between 1931 and 1950, with the long criminal record, this man served no time in jail except three months in the House of Correction. In Delaware County we got him for the first time. And as you see, he received 18 months to 35 months in Broadmeadows Prison Farm. That is the type of individual who was turned loose on the people of Philadelphia, again to ply his nefarious wares.

"Members of the jury, I am happy to have had you join with me in criticism of the State Pardons Board. I hope that what I have said and what you have said will make the State Pardons Board realize that the people of Pennsylvania are shocked at such treatment of these cases by the State Board of Pardons.

"Just realize how discouraging it is to police officials, to district attorneys and to courts, to hear these cases and have sentenced a man with a long criminal record such as that, and then have the Pardons Board turn them loose against the recommendations of the judge who heard every word of the evidence in that case, who knows about the long criminal record of the individual involved, and then have the Pardons Board absolutely ignore the recommendations of the judge.

"You can see how discouraging it is. You can see what it does to the enforcement of law. You can't have law enforced if this State Pardons Board is going to disregard the advice of the judge who hears the evidence. We might just as well stop replying to their letters asking for recommendations if they are going to treat us this way.

"I am not going to make any recommendations to the Pardons Board until they change their ways. When I believe that the Pardons Board as it is now constituted is honestly and sincerely doing its job as a pardon board, when I believe that the State Pardons Board is endeavoring to see that justice is done without permitting politics to determine in each case what the decision shall be, then I will write recommendations to the Pardons Board, either for or against the release of an individual who is before that Board for consideration. I have written letters both ways.

"But if they are going to treat the judges of Pennsylvania in that manner, then we might just as well save the time of our court secretaries, we might just as well save paper, because they probably receive our letters and immediately throw them into the waste paper basket. Because they couldn't have done otherwise—they couldn't have done otherwise, when they ignored the letter which had been written to them by Judge Toal in this Caserta matter. Otherwise they would not have turned this man loose to prey on the public again. And I want to tell you that he is preying on the public again. We almost got him about two weeks ago in the Borough of Yeadon, and we missed him by about one hour. We almost got the gentleman again. Now that is the gentleman who was turned loose by the State Pardons Board.

"RAYMOND R. START, Esquire : (Delaware County District Attorney) And this is the one county out of the entire State where its own representatives go before the Pardons Board and have been there in person. And still it brought no result.

"JUDGE BRETHERICK: That has been the procedure, and that too demonstrates rather clearly that this Caserta thing was just a cut and dried thing. Our District Attorney had a representative there to protest most strongly against the release of this racketeer, but he was released just the same."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Judge Bretherick, you were familiar with McSorley case?

A I was familiar with the McSorley case in so far as it came before me in discussion with Judge Irvin who discussed the matter with the other judges in my presence. I did not have anything to do with the trial of the case or any part of it. That was Judge Irvin now a Judge of the Superior Court, as you know and Judge Toal.

Q And you reviewed that case in regard to the facts sir?

A Pardon?

Q Did you review the case thoroughly in regard to the facts that were presented to the court for consideration?

A We certainly did. We reviewed every phase of that case because of the nature of the crime that was committed, because it was against public authority. It affected public property. It was a crime committed in a public building. If they could have gone to that building, they could have come into our court house and destroyed even the bench on which the judge he himself sits if they could get away with that sort of business.

Q Was a protest made to the Pardons Board about a release of these five defendants?

A I do not know; I cannot tell you. I did not. Judge Irvin may have done so; I do not know.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Judge Bretherick, how far is the prison in question from the courthouse?

A I would say 200 feet. That is two-thirds the length of a football field.

Q Is it attached to the courthouse?

A Not physically attached to the courthouse. It is across the street from the courthouse. It was a courthouse annex which was contiguous to our Juvenile Court. It was right next to the Juvenile Court. At that time we had juveniles in our court.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What are the facts that led up to the riot?

A Will you speak louder please?

Q What are the facts that led up to the riot?

A What do you mean, "what are the facts that led up to the riot"?

Q What happened before the riot started?

A What do you mean, "what happened before the riot started"?

Q We are not familiar with the facts here. There is a case here inciting to riot. I thing that was the charge against McSorley, from what I see here. What were the facts that led up to it?

A These five men came out to our county for the purpose of stopping that job that was being done because they objected, as I understand it, to the fact that these men were nonunion men.

Q You mean there was a demolition of a building?

A There was a demolition of the old jail to be for the purpose of erecting a new annex for our courthouse.

Q And while the demolition was in progress, what happened?

A Demolition had been completed, but the machinery had not been removed. There was certain equipment there; certain property there but, as I understand it, it had not been removed.

Judge Toal can tell you more adequately what the facts are than I, because he was in the case after Judge Irvin was elected to the Superior Court.

Q Is Judge Toal here?

A He certainly is.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I have another question. Did you ever find out what the Pardons Board based their commutation on?

A I would like to know. I don't know of any adequate reason on which they could have based their reasons.

MR. KOHN: Their reasons are as follows:

"At the time of the trial the feeling of the citizens of Delaware County was such that the court and the jury were undoubtedly influenced by the attitude of the general public. As this applicant and his accomplices were the only persons arrested, they bore the burden of the resentment of the community despite their vigorous denial of any implication in the riot."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you feel the Pardons Board action, based on those reasons given, was justifiable or unreasonable?

A That is the most utterly ridiculous, asinine statement that I ever heard. There is no justification for it. It is a fact that that condition did not exist anytime during the trial of those cases.

Q Is there anything in record that such a condition existed?

A Nothing in the record. That was a figment of somebody's imagination.

Q Judge Bretherick, can you give us any enlightenment on the feeling of the law enforcing agencies who might have talked to you with regard to the action of the Board of Pardons in this particular case?

A So far as the law enforcement agencies of Delaware County are concerned this was just another case. They were represented by a man who was a former district attorney of Delaware County and, I think, one of the most capable lawyers in the whole United States of America. He is now Judge of the District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, the United States District Court; a brilliant lawyer, a man in whom we have the greatest respect and have the greatest admiration. That man tried the case and he was permitted to try it fairly.

Q Maybe you did not get my question. Maybe I did not state it clear enough. Who is the attorney you are talking about?

A C. William Kraft, Jr.

Q He tried the case?

A He tried the case and tried it well.

Q What I am getting at is, after the Pardons Board granted this commutation did you get any—did you have any talk with any of the law enforcement officers or agencies in your county, particularly in regard to the effect, if any, this decision of the Pardons Board commutation had on them.

A None at all.

Q Didn't the Chiefs of Police express their opinion to you?

A The Chiefs of Police expressed an opinion to me with regard to my statement that I had made to the Grand Jury.

Q Did you get any statement with regard to your attitude from law enforcement persons or judges?

A I most certainly did. I got a letter from Thomas A Revello, President of Delaware County Chiefs of Police Association in which he said:

"Honorable Arthur P. Bretherick, Judge, Courthouse, Media, Delaware County, Pennsylvania.

"Dear Sir:

"At the regular monthly meeting of the Delaware County Chiefs of Police Association, held at the Murray Stuart Veterans Post, Glenolden, Delaware County, Pennsylvania, last evening March 5, 1956, the matter of the recent actions of the new Pennsylvania Board of Pardons and Parole, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, came to the attention of the entire body of the Association in the course of its regular business.

"This Association has gone on record as fully backing the view point and actions of yourself and the courts of Delaware County, and the Office of the District Attorney of Delaware County, in its approach to the problems and the condemnation of the Pardon Board for its reckless manner of consideration and disposition of cases coming before it.

"This Association thoroughly appreciates your efforts and statements and commends your action in the dangerous trend of allowing convicted criminals to be released after serving a mite of their sentence. The District Attorney's Office and the Courts have continuously backed the efforts of our police departments in securing proper convictions and sentences and we are totally adverse to loose and inconsiderate release of criminals after a proper trial and sentence.

"With the thanks of this organization extended to you, I remain,

"Sincerely yours.

"Thomas A. Revello, President of Delaware County Chief of Police Association."

Q Do you have any objection to giving us that letter for our record?

A Be very happy to. I replied to that letter if you would like to hear that. It is not long.

I replied to that letter on March 24, 1956 in which I said:

"Mr. Thomas A. Revello, President of Delaware County Chiefs of Police Association, municipal Building, Essington, Delaware County, Pennsylvania.

"Dear Chief:

"Thank you very much for your letter of the 16th instant, which I greatly appreciate. If you had read yesterday's Chester Times you will note that I have stated that the members of the Pardon Board shed copious tears for the widows and children of murdered policemen and then proceed to turn loose upon the public the murderers of these men so that they can go out and commit the same crime all over again.

"Our Judges are proud of the cooperation they have received from the Police of Delaware County, and I have not hesitated to so state on many occasions.

"With kindest regards to you and the members of your organization, I am

"Yours sincerely,"

Q Beside the letters from the Chiefs of Police Association did you receive letters from attorneys and others engaged in law enforcement or law practice in connection with your position?

A I have another letter here.

Q What does that letter apply to?

A That has to do with the experience an attorney had before the Board of Pardons—I would like to have that letter back, if I may—both before the present and previous Pardon Board. And I think it is to my mind, a very important indication of what was being done. It was written by a young man that I have known, Charles F. G. Smith, a lawyer, veteran of World War II with a splendid record. He was formerly a neighbor of mine. After he came out of the service I tried to help him. That letter was written to me in which he congratulated me, the same as the Chiefs of Police did, on my efforts to expose the political decisions on the part of the Board of Pardons.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, I submit that so far as that letter refers to comparison between the present Board and the past or contains any facts, I think we ought to have the writer of the letter appear personally to state it rather than by indirection this way.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Judge, that letter as you seem to agree with, deals with political consideration. Do you have any evidence that the Pardons Board acts on political consideration?

A I have evidence in my hand that if it came before me for decision by me as a judge, I would not hesitate for a minute—

Q I asked you judge if you had any evidence that the Pardon Board, this one or any other one acted on political consideration?

A If you are asking me for facts, I did not attend any meetings of the Pardons Board, and I certainly would be testifying to something I do not know of my own knowledge.

Q I ask you, Judge—

A Just a minute please, this is not a inquiry in a court of law. This is an inquiry in which public opinion is involved and the public has a right to know what is going on, and if you are going to insist on strict compliance with the rules of evidence and so forth then you are not going to get very far.

Q I am not talking about rules of evidence. I am asking you to answer one question.

A I have answered it.

Q You did not answer it. Do you have any evidence that this Board or any other Board arrived at any decisions based on political influence?

A I shall have to say to you that I do not, but I want to say this to you, that I am not saying to you that only this Board was governed by political consideration. I think other Boards have been also governed by political consideration.

Q Do you have any evidence of that?

A No, certainly. I—

Q Well then if you do not have any evidence?

A That is my opinion.

Q An opinion which you could not substantiate with evidence?

A I happen to be a member of the public for some unknown reason, and I am expressing my opinion as an individual who happens to be a member of that public.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, I submit we are not entitled to listen to gossip whether it comes from the judge, the public or anybody else. There should be something better than mere gossip.

THE WITNESS: Well, you will have it here if you will let me read it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This witness has, from the record, stated that he was giving his opinion as a member of the public—you did not say the public generally—but he was merely expressing his own views in connection therewith, and we will permit that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If you are going to permit him to say that this was dominated by political influence without the scintilla of evidence, that is unfair.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will let him speak for himself and take the letter for what it is worth.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You got a letter here from some man. That is nothing but hearsay.

SENATOR YOSKO: We will take his statement for what it is worth.

THE WITNESS: Well, I think you are going to find it is worth something too, after I read it if you will let me.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q That is what I want you to do. I have asked you if you have evidence of political influence on this Pardons Board or any other Pardons Board in so far as arriving at decisions. If you have it present it to us. That is what we are here for.

A I told you that it was my personal opinion, and that I have something in my hand on which I based that personal opinion.

Q That is what we want.

A All right, I shall give it to you, if you will let me read it. Is that what you want?

Q That is what I want.

SENATOR SCOTT: There has been an objection raised, Mr. Chairman, by the Attorney General as to the reading of this letter.

SENATOR YOSKO: Do you have evidence of the facts contained—

THE WITNESS: I think the Chairman overruled on that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will permit this letter to be read for what it is worth, and if there are any further objections to it the author of the letter can be called before the Committee to verify it.

THE WITNESS: This letter is addressed to me by Charles F. G. Smith, member of the Bar with offices at 1616 Walnut Street, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania. It is dated March 14, 1956:

"Honorable Arthur P. Bretherick
"Delaware County Courthouse
"Media, Pennsylvania

"Dear Art:

"My heartiest congratulations on your efforts to expose the political decisions on the part of the Board of Pardons.

"It may be interesting to you to know a slightly different angle to this which I am prepared to present with my own case as an illustration. It is a matter of record that prior to this Democratic I had a record of approximately 75% success over a period of almost ten years, during which I presented five or ten cases each year. I have presented seventeen cases to this Board and all of them have been refused.

"It is obvious that all of the cases presented last year could not have been so different from the others and, therefore, some other reason than legitimate causes must be looked for to explain this inconsistency. I present the following points for your consideration:

"Just prior to the Democratic victory I was endorsed by Chester County, as you know, for a state appointment because of services I had rendered the Republican party in my community. In fact Mr. Truscott offered me two Deputy Attorney Generalships; one with the Department of Highways and the other with the Department of Utilities. I had to refuse both of these because they wanted me in Harrisburg full-time and the salary was too low to enable me to support my family.

"It is quite evident that this fact was known to the present Attorney General primarily because Mr. Truscott was doing some legal research on a case that I had presented to the Board and this was in the process when the new administration took over. I am, therefore, quite sure that it was brought to Mr. Cohen's attention before it was turned down.

"Another case was being investigated personally by Mr. Linvengood and he, in front of the new Democratic members of the Board, in a regular session, while he was still sitting, promised me on behalf of the Board that if I would present a new petition including two recent sentences of the applicant that the Board would grant commutation. Names and facts concerning these cases can be produced.

"After several turndowns, including the two mentioned, I wrote a letter to Mr. Finnegan complaining about the partisan handling of cases which had been brought to my attention through various sources which I was able to trace to their sources and verify to some extent. I also called attention to the two cases I have mentioned to you.

"After some time I realized that Mr. Finnegan was ignoring my letter and stopped in to see him personally. He began to rave irrationally about my letter, stating that he had dictated a reply but tore it up. He claimed that he had never, in all his years of political experience, received such a letter. (Although he readily admitted that I put a saving clause in the letter which prevented him from using it as a direct accusation of political activity on the part of the Board.) He concluded this interview abruptly by stating that this would not, however, influence any later decisions of his or of the Board regarding cases that I might present. I told him that I wanted this assurance before I took any more fees from applicants.

"Despite this assurance the Board turned down four more cases. One case in particular I took the trouble to investigate personally for two days in Clearfield, Pennsylvania, to the point where the whole town desires that the applicant be released, including the present and former Judge who tried the case. The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, which was robbed by the applicant, wrote a personal letter to the Board of Pardons requesting the release of the applicant. I checked with every conceivable person, including the Parole Office, Chief of Police, District Attorney and State Police, who could possibly oppose this application and found that no one was against it.

"I can, therefore, conclude only that it is because of the personal prejudice against me, as a member of the Republican party, that the Board has refused this case, as well as so many of the others I have presented.

"These failures have, of course, spread around the two penitentiaries to the point where a large part of my business has been extinguished completely and has caused me to make a last ditch stand to save my practice at the present location. I can, therefore, say, with some conviction, that this administration has conspired against what I considered a very good Pardon Board practice, around which I built more than half of my general practice.

"For the above reasons you can understand why I can support your efforts heartily and am more than willing to offer my services, if I can afford to do so, in furthering this campaign against the Board of Pardons. You may, of course, use any information in this letter anonymously as I am accepting no new Pardon Board cases under the circumstances. I do, however, have three which were contracted for last year which will be presented during or before the June Sessions. After that time I will be willing to come out in the open and carry on this fight in any way that may be deemed necessary.

"Cordially yours,

/s/ "Charlie Smith"

I want to say gentlemen in my long experience in the law, and I have been in the law business since I was fifteen, you do not have a batting average of seventy per cent and suddenly wind up, because there is a new administration, with a batting average of 000. It does happen. Things, human nature and the law of average just do not work that way.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Kohn, the information contained in that letter is rather startling as well as revealing. I think you should contact the writer of that letter and have him brought in to make a further elaboration in connection with the matter he raises therein.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q I just want to ask one question in connection with the letter. Here is a fellow who complains about the Board not taking favorable action on applications, is that right?

A Certainly.

Q And because they did not take favorable action on the applications he says "politics." You come up here and say when they release somebody, you say there is politics because they release them. In one case you say it is politics because they do not release them and in another case you say it is politics because they release them.

A I am just not stupid enough to follow your logic I read this letter to you for the purpose of showing that a man who for ten years had had a substantial practice for the Pardons Board had a batting average of 700, if we want to talk in baseball batting averages, and when the new Pardons Board came in he batted 000. I would not even keep that guy on the bench if he played on my ball team.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Would you say the seventy-five per cent average was politics?

A I said to you a while ago that I am not saying that this Board was anymore animated by politics than any other Board. I have said publicly and I say to every one of you that there have been abuses. I can think back to the Terry case when we had a Republican Pardons Board. In fact, I can think back to the Blackie Zupkosky case or whatever it was, when we had a Republican Pardons Board.

I want to impress on every one of you as strongly as I know how and on the people of Pennsylvania that we ought to rip out the Pardons Board by a constitutional amendment and place on that Pardons Board persons who would not be affected by politics. You cannot mix justice and politics at one and the same time anymore than you can mix religion and politics or oil and water. The system is wrong when you have a Pardons Board which is completely one-sided, whether Republican or Democrat. I am not condemning one more than the other. Politics have been played both ways. Politics have had their influence both ways, but when you have a system that makes possible the release of hardened criminals then with a record extending over twenty-three years—and do not forget that most of the times that the man was released by the magistrate and we lawyers know what happened in many of these cases they were Republican magistrates. I am not approaching this on a partisan angle. It happens to have been mentioned in that particular letter that this man was being punished because he was a Republican. I think the same thing could just as easily have happened had it been a Democrat, but for God's sake, rip out the Pardons Board by a constitutional amendment and put in somebody who will not be influenced or not subject to influence. The Pardons Board should be like Caesar's wife, above suspicion. And if you are going to have respect for law and order in this Country of ours at the time when Lord knows we need it, you better eliminate any influence that might tend to lessen the respect of the American people for our courts, for our judicial system generally and for our system of government. That is—you probably might consider it a speech, but that is the way I feel about it and I feel about it as deeply as I feel about anything in the world.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Judge, in this Caserta case, this fellow has a long record and one of the cases involved a Federal charge. I think he was found guilty as tried before Judge Welsh or was found guilty and pleaded guilty before Judge Welsh.

I think he gave him a fine and a five year sentence.

A Oh yes, and put costs on.

Q Have you—do you think Judge Welsh suspended the sentence because of political considerations?

A I certainly will not pass upon what may be on the mind of another judge, but let me tell you something that in Delaware County every person found guilty of the violation of the gambling laws regardless of who it may be goes to jail, everyone of them. We do not put costs on them. We do not—

Q Some go to jail on longer terms than others?

A Some go to jail on longer terms than others depending upon their record. I sent a fellow who had been tried, who had been arrested and tried in Philadelphia fourteen different times and never spent a minute in jail. He came out to our county and he was in business about three weeks and I gave him eighteen months. I gave another one twenty-three months. I gave Salerno —and it is heresay, I do not have any knowledge of it, he is supposed to be a rival of this fellow Caserta— I gave him eighteen months. We do not put up with these things in Delaware County. Everyone of them goes to jail.

Q Are the other judges in Delaware County as tough as you say you are?

A The judges of Delaware County have agreed amongst ourselves that any man who pleads guilty even at first offense in a gambling case goes to jail for three months. If there are circumstances which make it advisable to reduce that sentence, that sentence will never be reduced unless all four judges concur.

Q Judge, I have the record of gambling cases of Delaware County here. There is one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen pages of and the sentences vary. Some you give a suspended sentence, some get thirty days some of them sixty days, some of them are discharged, some of them are nol-prossed. How do you account for that?

A Just be specific and I will probably be able to account for that.

Q All right, take a look. I will give you the list.

MR. KOHN: May I ask a question, Mr. Yosko?

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes.

MR. KOHN: Is this all the cases or just some of the cases you have picked out? I have not seen this list.

SENATOR YOSKO: These are over a period of years.

MR. KOHN: Are these all the cases over a period of years?

SENATOR YOSKO: Supposedly.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: How far back do they go?

SENATOR YOSKO: Back to 1950.

THE WITNESS: Well I would like you to tell me whether they are all the cases. I can say to you without fear of contradiction, and you can check the records, that every gambler that comes into our courts whether he pleads guilty or is found guilty after a trial, if he pleads guilty the minimum is three months, depending on his record. If he pleads not guilty and is found guilty then he gets a five month sentence and a $500 fine.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Since what date had that policy been enforced?

A That policy has been enforced as a result of an agreement by the judges of our county in order to stamp out gambling. That applies to any person no matter who he might be.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q When was that policy adopted, Judge?

A That policy was adopted, I would say, in 19—— I went on the bench in 1949. I would say that that policy was adopted in 1950 when Judge Irvin was the President Judge of our court.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: May I ask Senator Yosko a question. Are they certified copies of court records?

SENATOR YOSKO: This I got from the Pennsylvania State Police cases and covers a period from January, February, March, 1950 to November 27, 1956.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Well was that certified as correct by the Secretary or Attorney General?

SENATOR YOSKO: No, it was certified by the Deputy Commissioner of the Pennsylvania State Police.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Are all these convictions which are in this report State Police cases or court cases?

SENATOR YOSKO: These are—ninety-nine per cent of these are court cases, and I will turn this over to our counsel. Because we are pressed for time, I will not go into the record of the sentences but at some future date when we hold a hearing, and I am assuming it is going to be on this particular subject, I do want to introduce into the record the sentences that were given in these cases involving gambling, prostitution, bookmaking, lottery, selling stolen goods, conspiracy and that sort of thing to make a comparison between the sentences imposed here and the sentence imposed in the Caserta case.

I am not trying to defend Caserta. Frankly, he got suspended sentences on a number of occasions I believe, and the next time that he committed a crime I think the judge who imposed the sentence should have called him back and put him to jail.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, may I ask a question?

THE WITNESS: Let me answer that please. I have already given you two instances, the two that I tried; a fellow by the name of McCullough from Philadelphia. If it is on that list, you look at it and you will see that he got seventeen months. I have already talked to you about Salerno who was supposed to be a rival of Caserta who was sentenced by me to eighteen months. There is no different treatment to Caserta than any of the others if that is what you are inferring. It just did not exist.

SENATOR YOSKO: I am not talking about you. I am talking about the system of sentencing generally—

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: May I respectfully—

SENATOR YOSKO: In Delaware County.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: May I respectfully make a suggestion to you that you turn that over to the District Attorney and let him check the records. After all, that is not our function, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He is going to turn it over for the general counsel.

THE WITNESS: Mr. Chairman, I would certainly be glad to accept—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: It will be in the hands of our general counsel, Judge.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q In view of this long list of cases on gambling, did you ever—

A That is not a long list. Do not call it a long list. I do not have any long list of gamblers.

Q What is to determine a long list and a short list?

A. You just refer to it as a list. We do not have long lists in Delaware County.

Q. In view of this list which I consider a long list of cases on gambling, did you ever call it to the attention of the Grand Jury in Delaware County?

A. If I can get copies of my charges—I will tell you as I have always told the Grand Jury in Delaware County that Delaware County has a reputation of being the county of good government, it's a clean county and it is going to stay that way, and they are not to let any influences, political or otherwise, in any way influence them into finding a true bill against an individual.

I sentenced the brother of one of our county officials, an elected parole officer, and he got the same sentence as anybody else.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, may I return to this list. May I ask Senator Yosko whether this list was prepared for an attorney by the name of Ginsburg who represented Mr. Caserta?

SENATOR YOSKO: This list was prepared for me as a member of this Committee and the letter is addressed to me.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: May I ask Mr. Chairman. that Senator Yosko inquire of the State Police as to whether the list was originally prepared for Mr. Ginsburg.

SENATOR YOSKO: I do not know if it was prepared for him. I asked for just a list of State Police raids of arrests in Delaware County from 1950 up to the present time, and I do not know whether that list contains cases that might have developed through arrest by local police or the county detectives or by anyone else. I will be glad to ask Mr. Kohn to check the records and supplement this list with lists involving local arrests or arrests on the local level that do not involve the State.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's let that be done and we will take this subject up at a later time after an analysis has been made of this situation.

THE WITNESS: Gentlemen, we would be very happy to have you look into it because we are proud of our record in Delaware County.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, Mr. Kohn, do you have anything further to proceed with in the examination of this witness?

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I would like to know whether you joined in the opinion of the lower courts in the McSorley appeal for a new trial?

A I certainly did. Every opinion in our courts is submitted to all of the other judges for approval or disapproval.

Q Did you join in it also or were you rather consulted in the sentence given to Mr. McSorley and his associates?

A I most certainly did. We discussed the sentence.

Q And was there any basis of fact or facts of the allegation placed by the Pardons Board that the court and jury were undoubtedly influenced by the attitude of the general public in these cases?

A That is another figment of somebody's imagination. There is certainly not. It is ridiculous.

Q Is there any basis for the allegation placed by the Pardons Board on the release of these defendants on the ground that the applicant and his accomplices were the only persons arrested, and as they were the only persons arrested they bore the burden of the resentment of the community despite their vigorous denials

A There is nothing to it. It is ridiculous

Q Do you think that the actions of the Pardons Board in this case had any effect on law enforcement?

A Well, gentlemen, I have expounded at some length upon this particular subject and again I say this was public property. This was a public courthouse and there is no question at all about the effect of what this McSorley—of this Pardons Board action in this case had on the general public. I have got scores of letters in my file.

Q Do you have any suggestions to make to this Committee in regard to the Pardons Board procedures or actions that you would like to place on the record?

A I would. Rip out the Pardons Board; it stinks.

MR. KOHN: I have no further questions.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Judge, among the other things that you either are or have been, are any of them holding office in the Republican Party of Delaware County; party offices?

A I have the proud distinction of having been the Chairman of the Republican Party of Delaware County for a period of six years.

Q Are you so Chairman now?

A Well that is a ridiculous question. I am a judge. Judges do not sit as chairmen.

Q I am just asking you a question. Whether it is ridiculous or not in your opinion, I am not asking. And another thing have you—you say that you believe there is politics in both parties. Do you believe, in your opinion, that politics—

A I did not hear that.

Q Do you believe in your opinion, that politics have entered into the discussions or deliberations on both parties?

A I most certainly do.

Q Have you ever gone to the trouble to make a statement to another Grand Jury during the time the Republican Pardons Board was considering cases?

A In my time there was no case which was as putrid in odor as this Caserta case and the other case.

Q Well, you mentioned a couple of them, that happened in your time which you are willing or can still remember the names.

A I was a practicing lawyer at that time and those things happened maybe twenty years ago. The Blackie Zupkosky case and the Terry case happened probably fifteen years ago. I happened to play golf every Sunday with the brother-in-law of the policeman that was killed and I was interested, and my father was a policeman. That is why I feel so strongly about that situation.

Q Did you express any public indignation at that time that would start to arouse any public opinion against the action of the Board?

A I said to you that I was a practicing lawyer at that time and not a criminal lawyer.

Q I just asked you if you expressed any indignation?

A No, no.

Q All right, that is all.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Judge Bretherick—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a minute. I want to get this thing in order. We will go down the line.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q I have a couple more questions. Judge, I have a newspaper clipping here before me dated February 23. 1957. Is it the Chester Times. I did not have time to go over it very carefully. It involves Francis X. Ballem, and from the reading of this newspaper story do I understand it—I am asking a question now—do I understand it that the judges, with the exception of yourself I believe, granted a stay of execution without going through the Pardons Board for this convicted murderer?

A An application was filed, as I understand it. Judge Toal can tell you that. He was the one who tried the Ballem case. An application was filed for a stay of execution in the Ballem case. Our Assistant District Attorney came back and told us that, in his opinion, and he got that opinion primarily from what the Attorney General said at that hearing that there was going to be a stay of execution. A petition was filed for the appointment of another commission to investigate into the lunacy or the sanity or insanity of Francis X. Ballem because of the law which was passed in 1956 which provided that after a person was convicted he had a right to have a commission determine whether his mental condition had so far deteriorated that he should not now be executed. That petition was presented by his counsel, William Turner, and it was joined in by our Assistant District Attorney. Paul R. Sand.

Q Is it not a fact that just the day before, the Ballem case was argued by Assistant District Attorney Sand before the Pardons Board in front of Mr. McBride?

A I think it was the day before. Now, do not hold me to that please as an answer. I do not know, but I think that it was.

Q Do I understand from these clippings and from this clipping, from this story—I am just asking questions—that the local judges granted a stay of execution and it was not the State Pardons Board?

A Yes

Q And in this—

A Now just a minute please. You asked your question, now let me answer it. The local judges felt, at least three of them did—I did not. The local judges felt that under the law they had absolutely no alternative and they were compelled to stay the execution in order to appoint a commission and further inquire into this man's sanity. They did not do it because they wanted to. They felt that they had no other alternative, and Judge Toal will bear me out on that. He was the man who tried Ballem.

Q And in this article you are quoted as saying that—I will read it.

"Judge Bretherick said about Dr. Roach's testimony"—I guess he is the doctor who made the examination—"'I don't think his testimony is worth a nickle.'"

A I do not think it was worth three cents.

Q Do you think the other three judges acted improperly then to the extent of their actions since you dissented from this action?

A I did not agree with it. So far as I am concerned I think Ballem ought to be put out of the way. He was a vicious murderer and has had his day in court. This crime was committed, I think, in 1953 or 1954, but please do not hold me exactly to the date. He has had his case all the way up to the Supreme Court of the United States. He was given a fair trial. The people of our county thought he was sane. A commission examined him and thought he was sane. And, of course, we expect these various actions to be taken by counsel. They have a responsibility to do everything they can for a man who has been or was either being tried for a murder or has been convicted of a murder. It is their responsibility under the law and the oath which they take as lawyers to do everything that is humanly possible and, personally, I feel that that man would be better if he were out in some cemetery right now. He is entitled to his day in court and he is getting it.

Q Now just one more point I would like to clear up here, Judge. This article quotes you as—maybe we ought to make some changes in the law to deal with cases of this kind. You are quoted here as saying: "At another point he charged that the Legislature ought to have its head examined." What was that?

A That was a misquotation. I said, "That Legislature ought to have its head examined." That had to do with the change of this law. We have got social reformers running in and out of government changing the law with regard to murder cases and they are making it more difficult all the time, and that was the reason I made that remark. The law was changed in 1956 which says that even after a man has been convicted, found sane by a jury, found sane previously by a lunacy commission, had his appeal go to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, to the Supreme Court of the United States, they say that even then you may come back and ask for a lunacy commission to be appointed. Now I will make a recommendation to the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania, which I had the honor of being a Member, eliminate capital punishment. If this is the way they are going to keep making it difficult to convict these criminals, you will render a great service to the judges of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania if you did.

Q Judge, I have another case here—

A I am not in favor of it, understand.

Q Judge, I have another case here and the headlines—here in the Chester Times on September 21, 1956, the headline is—I am going to show you the paper—"Judge Asks for Probe of State Parole Board on Release of Thief"—a Robert Shutters.

A Will you please repeat that.

Q The headline reads, "Judge Asks for Probe of State Parole Board on Release of Thief" and I think it developed that it was not the Parole Board that released this thief; it was the judges back home.

A I have no complaint about the Parole Board. I think generally they are doing a very fine job.

Q Well, in this particular case of Shutters, it was not the Parole Board who released him. It was the judges back home, was it not?

A Pardon?

Q It was the judges back home, was it not; back in Delaware County?

A I do not think so.

Q I recall that was a fact. After the case was investigated the sentence was changed in Media, but you say not by the judges and not by the Parole Board or by the Pardons Board.

A I do not remember that case and I do not remember the facts.

Q We will look into that one a little bit more. I have just got one more question of you, Judge. Have you ever consulted with the District Attorney on recommendation that are made by the District Attorney's office on petitions for pardons or commutation of sentences?

A Yes.

Q And what instructions, if any, did you give them or what advice, if any, did you try to give them?

A I do not give them instructions. We do not instruct the District Attorney what to do, he is an elected official of our county. He investigates with discretion and exercises that discretion. Sometimes he discusses with the judges their feeling on whether persons ought not to be pardoned or pardoned.

Q I have a list of cases here from Delaware County from February, 1955 to February, 1956. They involve all sorts of crimes, and I have a little note here on a number of cases in which on a number of cases they opposed the District Attorney's office. That is, on a number of cases they recommended either a commutation or a pardon.

From my counting, in twenty-two cases they opposed and in thirty-one cases they went along with the petitions. These cases involved a series of crimes, robbery, sodomy, voluntary manslaughter, murder, rape, burglary, arson, and that sort of thing.

Do you think the District Attorney, who is the prosecutor for the county and works in cooperation with the judges, should appear before the Pardons Board and make favorable recommendations to change the sentence of a judge once he imposes it?

A Let me tell you my experience. I am going to give you a roundabout answer.

I wrote to Frank R. Hean, Secretary of the Board of Pardons on March 14, 1956. I wrote to him:

"I have received your letter of March 4th enclosing application for clemency filed by Joseph Lord with your Board. In view of the unpleasant experiences which our Court has had with the Board of Pardons I do not intend to make any recommendations to the Board as it is presently constituted."

I have not lived up to that entirely. On March 23rd, I received a letter from Mr. Hean:

"Dear Judge Bretherick:

"I submitted your letter of March 14, 1956, in which you stated you do not intend to make any recommendations to the Board of Pardons 'as it is presently constituted' to the Attorney General. He referred me to the Act of April 24, 1931, P. L. 71 (71 P. S. Sec. 299A), which states as follows:

"Whenever the Board of Pardons shall request information and advice relative to any application for a pardon or commutation of sentence from the judge who tried and sentenced the applicant, or the district attorney or assistant district attorney who prosecuted him or her, or from the district attorney in office at the date of the application, it shall be the duty of such judge, district attorney or assistant district attorney promptly to comply with such request.

"The Attorney General suggested that I call this provision to your attention and reiterate the Board's request for advice. The judges and district attorneys throughout the State are most helpful to the Board, and it feels that it does not wish to dispense with such valuable assistance in its determination of the many cases heard by it.

"Very truly yours,

"FRANK R. HEAN"

I was going to throw it in the waste paper basket, but I did not. What is the use of writing to a Pardons Board which ignores your letters? It is a waste of time and a waste of effort.

Q Judge, I want to get an opinion from you. I respect your opinion.

What do you think the function of the Pardons Board is? Why do you think it was set up? What do you think its function is?

A I think the Pardons Board—the function of the Pardon Board is to give a man a clean bill of health. A pardon gives an individual a clean bill of health. It lets him start all over again; start afresh. And I say to you that there are many, many cases where that is a most desirable thing to do.

I am not opposed to pardons as pardons. I am opposed to pardons where people are sentenced to twenty-four months for a crime against the public property and then being turned loose again in four months. I am against a pardon for a man who has a long record extending over twenty-three years, who is given two years or eighteen months and has his sentence commuted to eleven months. That is the only thing I am opposed to.

I am not opposed to pardons, for there are a great many, a great many individuals who are now in our jails that, certainly, if they would be pardoned they will go forth and they will sin no more. They are not the type of people that I am railing against. I am railing against people of the type that I have talked about. A man like Darcy that commits one of the most vicious crimes that has ever been committed in the State of Pennsylvania and they commuted his sentence to life imprisonment, and we all know what that means.

Q Judge, what factors do you think a Pardons Board ought to take into consideration in arriving at a decision, regardless of the charge or regardless of the crime.

A I think the Pardons Board ought to take into consideration every possible factor in the man's background; his family associations, his mental condition, whether he is a recidivist, whether he has committed other crimes, whether he is a hardened criminal, or somebody who got into difficulty for the first time, and certainly judges do exactly that.

When we sentence we have before us the record of an individual. We do not sentence every man who is convicted of the crime of burglary, to the same offense, if it is his first offense. If it is a young boy that has never been in trouble before, we certainly give that favorable consideration. If, on the other hand, he has a record extending two or three pages long, and believe you me, we have them, we are not inclined to be as friendly with that individual as we are with the poor young fellow that has never been in trouble before. And I assume that the Pardons Board of the State of Pennsylvania gives consideration to the same factors; I would, if I were a member of that Pardons Board.

Q If a Pardons Board looks into all the factors that you say that should be considered, and they find that during the period the person was sentenced he changed his way of life, and there are other favorable factors appear in his behalf, do you think the Pardons Board is justified in commuting his sentence or granting a pardon?

A I have got a specific answer to one of your questions, if you are referring to Caserta as one of those. Well, let me tell you about Caserto.

Q I am talking generally now.

A Well, let me talk to you about Caserta and his change of life. A month after his sentence was commuted, the wires were tapped at a fence in the Borough of Yeadon. Michael Caserta called to find out whether he could buy two hot suits, stolen suits, and he was to pick those two suits up at 2:00 o'clock. But, because the other individuals were there that they wanted, they were fearful that if they waited for Michael Caserta, they would not get the other individuals. We got the other individuals, and as a result, they pleaded guilty. That is a month after his commutation.

Q Well, now you talked about Caserta, but you did not answer my question as a general proposition on the action the Pardons Board should take after it considered all of the factors that you say ought to be considered in commuting a sentence of granting a pardon?

A I am not going to answer for this Pardons Board. I think when they look themselves in the mirror the day after they did some of those things, they must have been ashamed of themselves when they saw the reaction of the people of Pennsylvania, and the people of Pennsylvania cannot be wrong—I think that is the answer.

Q I just have one more. Judge, sometimes I wonder how judges arrive at their decisions and I just wonder how people click. I have another case here in which you imposed sentence and it is Walter M. Lescoe.

A Walter M. Lescoe?

Q That is right. This is another Chester Times newspaper article, it is dated March 21, 1950.

A That is right. That is shortly after I went on the bench. I am not excusing what I did because it was a short time after I went on the bench, I just mentioned that to you in passing.

Q The fellow was charged with murder and he pled guilty to murder.

A That is right.

Q Of a thirty-four year old Chester Navy veteran; and for murder, you gave him only ten years.

A Yes sir. ten to twenty, I think.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, is this a case that reached the Pardons Board?

A No.

Q I do not think we ought to go into all the cases this witness may have tried. We are concerned only with matters which have reached the Pardons Board.

A I can answer that if you want me to, sir.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What I am trying to do here in my own mind is sort of make a comparison of what people do.

A I can answer that. I am very happy that he has to go back seven years to find something to complain about. I am very happy that he has to go all the way back to find something to complain about. That man was—

Q I am not complaining, sir, I am asking you a question?

A That man was intoxicated; so drunk that he did not really know what he was doing. That is the reason he was given ten to twenty years. That is the sentence for murder in the second degree.

MR. KOHN. That was a second degree case.

THE WITNESS: A second degree.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q They convicted him on second degree?

A He pleaded guilty to murder generally, and I found him guilty of murder in the second degree.

MR. KOHN: That is the maximum on murder in the second degree?

THE WITNESS: That gives me a lot of pleasure when you have to go back that far to find something to put your finger on.

BY SENATOR FLEMING:

Q Judge, in line with trying to do something to better the work of the Pardons Board, do you think when they only take eight to ten minutes on each case upstairs, there should be more time allotted?

In other words, as I understand it, from talking to Mr. Hean, they hear seventy—anywhere from seventy to eighty cases in one and a half days, which, divided into minutes, leaves a maximum of eight to ten minutes on each case.

A Unless they know in advance what they are going to do, they cannot do their job satisfactorily where the lives and fortunes of human beings are involved. They cannot devote so little time to consideration of a case.

Q Well then, may I ask, in line with your thought, there should be some revamping or possibly another type of Pardons Board? Should there be a Pardons Board that sat rather constantly rather than one and a half or two days a month?

A There certainly should be.

Q No other duties except that?

A I would say take it out of politics. I do not care whether it is a Republican Administration or a Democratic Administration.

A Now, believe me, Judge. I am not trying to find fault with the present Pardons Board at all. What I am trying to say is that—I am not trying to minimize either —I am not trying to put words in your mouth but, do you feel that because of all the other duties that they have, that possibly society would be better served if we had a Board similar to theirs in number possibly, but whose sole duty would be to hear pleas for pardons?

A No question about it. No question about it.

SENATOR FLEMING: Thank you, sir.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Chairman, to clear the record, there was a question asked of Judge Bretherick with respect to his political activities. I think the question did not bring out a clear answer because it just covered his activity as County Chairman of Delaware County. Judge Bretherick, since you ascended to the bench of Delaware County, have you been engaged in any political activity.

A None whatsoever. I was accused by the Governor of Pennsylvania, who came down into our county and made a political speech to the effect that I had officiated at a political meeting in Chetser, which was an absolute lie. That was within the last—that was, I think either the beginning of this year or last year. I have forgotten when it was. He was just mouthing something that he had heard from somebody else. That was absolutely untrue.

Q To your knowledge, have any of the judges in Delaware County engaged in political activity other than in seeking their own re-election since they have ascended to the bench during the—

A No judge in Delaware County has engaged in any political activity. And I want to say that I am a million per cent Republican, and so far as I am concerned, it has not interfered with the performance of my judicial duties, I can tell you that.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I have just one question I want to ask this witness Judge, Senator Yosko was asking you what factors you thought the Pardons Board should take into consideration in arriving at their conclusions. Do you think that the function of the Pardons Board is to judge the guilt or innocence of any person who comes before them?

A No sir. That is the function of the judiciary of the State of Pennsylvania.

Q And of the jury?

A And of the jury. The jury must—in many cases, of course, it is the function of the judge because there is a plea of nol-pros, but the question of guilt must be always left to Pennsylvania jurors.

Q Then you do not think the Pardons Board should use as any basis at any time in their deliberations or conclusions as to whether or not the party whose case is before them was guilty or innocent?

A I certainly do not. In the law we have what is known as the presumption of regularity and it is a wise presumption of the law and there is a presumption of regularity when a man has been tried before a jury and found guilty.

By MR. KOHN:

Q I would like to ask you one further question, Judge Bretherick. In the commutation of Michael J. Caserta, the Pardons Board held as follows: This is the basis of their action: "However, the Board felt that he has served quite a substantial portion of his sentence for this type of offense and took into consideration the fact that his accomplices, who were equally guilty, received lesser sentences and have been released from the Delaware County Prison."

First, I ask you whether any of his accomplices that you can recall had the type of record that Caserta had.

A None at all.

Q Secondly, I ask you whether it is not a fact—

A We never had a man with the type of record that Caserta had.

Q They based their commutation on the fact that his accomplices received lesser sentences. Is it not a fact that one of his accomplices received eleven months and served eleven months?

A Was that Hall?

Q Yes.

A Took his case to Superior Court, I think.

Q He served his complete eleven months.

A He certainly did. And he was only an underling.

Q That is right.

A He was an errand boy for Caserta.

Q What do you think, where the Pardons Board does as it has in this case and numerous other cases given as justification for their action the fact that the accomplices, who were all lesser lights, only received lesser sentences? What is your opinion?

A That is just as asinine and utterly ridiculous as the statement with regard to the McSorley case.

Q Now, in addition to what you stated about Caserta on the record, is it not a fact that he attempted to bribe some of the Commonwealth witnesses in this case.

A I do not know that. I heard it, of course. I do not know. Judge Toal can tell you about that. I do not know.

Q Is it not also a fact that in addition to the record which was put in by you to the Grand Jury, he was also charged with two Federal offenses in regard to his gambling activities, which are not on that list.

A I understand that that was the fact.

MR. KOHN: That is all.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Judge, in talking about the Pardons Board, you said that you thought it was a legitimate activity on the part of the Pardons Board to give a man a clean start. Do you feel that the Pardons Board activities should be restricted to pardons and not to commutation of sentences?

A I have no answer to that, sir. I have no answer to that.

Q Well, I think at the present moment they are privileged to grant commutations as well as pardons.

A Oh, yes; yes.

Q Do you think that particular function should be dropped from the Pardon Board—commutation of sentences?

A I do not think that either function should be dropped from the Pardons Board provided you have the right sort of a Pardons Board. You do not have it now, and you have not had it for many, many years.

Q Well, you had not mentioned that in your discussion of Mr. Yosko's question. Do you still think it would be a proper function for the Board to commute sentences?

A I most certainly do. I think the Governor commutes the sentence, not the Pardons Board. They make a recommendation in writing—at least three of them make a recommendation in writing to the Governor and he is the one that commutes the sentence. That is my understanding. I may not be right about that.

Q Judge, in view of the act of Assembly you have read here, is it your purpose now to advise the Board and to continue to advise the Board on cases when they request advice?

A Well, I have softened somewhat. I have advised them on one or two occasions. I had a narcotics case, and to my mind that is one of the lowest forms of criminal activity in the whole world, and I gave the individual involved a two year sentence; and within a compartively short time he filed his application, and I wrote to the Pardons Board—I have the letter here in which I said there was very little use my writing to the Pardons Board because it does not mean anything. I said: "I have before me your letter of October 11"—

Q I heard that, Judge; but, I mean—

A You did not hear this.

Q Is it a different one? I am sorry.

A You did not hear this.

Q Pardon me.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What year is that, Judge?

A This is October 16, 1956. The case—

"Mr. Frank R. Hean, Secretary, Board of Pardons, Department of Justice, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Re: Isadore Gorodetsky, #119, September Term 1956."

"Dear Mr. Hean:

"I have before me your letter of October 11th in the above entitled matter. Since this case involved narcotic drugs I do not think that the application has any merit and should be given any consideration. However, after noting the action of your Board in the Darcy case, I suppose my attitude in the matter will receive no consideration whatsoever."

I wrote him that because it was a narcotics case, and I did not feel that the Board ought to give it any consideration, and I do not know whether they did or they did not. I have not heard anything from them.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q I still want my question answered. Is it your purpose now to supply such advice as you can to the Board if they request it?

A I will have to make that decision as each case is presented to me, and in view of the developments. If I feel that it is going to be a waste of time, as it has been, I will not write to the Pardons Board and I am not going to be intimidated by the letter I received from Mr. Hean, apparently at the direction of the Attorney General.

I do not frighten very easily. I have had to struggle on the way up and battle pretty hard, so I will decide each case as it comes before me. I will write in some cases, and in others, I will not.

Q Judge, do you mean to tell this committee that you are going to ignore the law? Do you feel that you have a right to ignore it?

A Oh, now, do not try to put me in a box. I am saying to you that, what is the use—

Q I am asking a simple question. There is an Act of Assembly which you have heard and read to us here this morning which says that you shall do it, it shall be your duty. I am asking you now whether you intend to do it or not?

A I intend in some cases to ignore that law because it will be a futile thing.

Q That is an example—

A It will be a futile thing.

Q That is an example of law enforcement from the court?

A It will be a futile thing. Yes.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Judge, I have just one more question. We are here to make recommendations, after we hear you and, I am certain, a lot of other people. I am going back to recommendations from the district attorneys and judges. It is possible that recommendations by district attorneys could be based on influence back home on the local level. Would you recommend that the Board discontinue receiving recommendations from district attorneys on the granting or not granting of petitions for commutation or parole?

A I would recommend that you give the fullest possible consideration to our district attorneys and to their recommendations and that, when they appear before the Pardons Board, they be given a respectful hearing. Mr. Hughes can probably tell you that that does not always take place. I think that they ought to have the fullest opportunity to present their views. I think their recommendations ought to be given the greatest possible consideration. I think the views of the judges ought to be given the fullest consideration. But, when we find that they are not being given any consideration, again I say it is a waste of time to write letters.

Q And you believe the system of receiving recommendations, pro or con from judges and district attorneys ought to be continued?

A Yes, sir.

Q All right.

A I certainly do. I certainly do.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Judge, do you base your conclusion that the Pardons Board has not given any consideration to your recommendations merely on the fact that they have disagreed with your recommendations or do you have some knowledge that they do not give any consideration to the local judges?

A You would have me climbing inside of the minds of the members of the Pardons Board. I do not know what they did. That is what this investigating body is going to try—

Q I am asking whether you have arrived at that conclusion only based on the reason that they have not agreed with you?

A I certainly—

Q Have you concluded that they have not given it any consideration?

A I do not expect them to agree with me in every case. I am not one of those guys that believes everybody is out of step but me. I base my conclusions on three stinking cases.

Q In other words, in three cases they have not agreed?

A And in many cases they have—

Q In many cases they have not agreed. Then you feel that they are not paying any attention to what the judges or district attorneys are recommending?

A I do not say that at all. I do not say that at all. They may have in some cases. I have agreed with them in some cases. I have made recommendations which they have gone along with. I have written in some cases that I feel that the ends of justice have been served and that an individual ought to be given every possible consideration by the Parole Board and by the Pardons Board.

Q Well then—I understand then that you do not say that they do not give any consideration—

A I cannot tell you whether they do or they do not.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This hearing will take a recess until 1:15 p. m.

(At 12:45 p. m. the hearing was recessed until 1:15 p. m.)

AFTERNOON SESSION 2-28-57

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You may proceed.

A. P. BRETHERICK, Recalled on

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Judge, as I understand it, you have indicated that you do not believe the question of innocence is open for consideration by the Board of Pardons once a judicial power has thoroughly explored the case.

A I know of no better way in the world to determine a person's innocence than by having a jury pass upon it. And in that case it should never be given any consideration by a Pardons Board.

Q Let me read you a statement here in one of the court journals. "Counsel constantly attempts to argue the mertis of a case which the jury has already decided. The Board of Pardons, as a rule, does not go behind the verdict of the jury in the absence of after-discovered evidence.

"There are, however, in my opinion, exceptions to this and to almost every general rule. Anything which will entitled the prisoner to clemency, anything which will demonstrate that he was not guilty of the crime or will raise a reasonable doubt as to his guilt, in my opinion, is admissible and pertinent."

Do you agree with that statement?

A I most certainly do not.

Q You do not. Now you have indicated that the Legislature, for passing the statute, ought to have its head examined. Do you think that the writer of that statement ought to have his head examined?

A The writer of what statement?

Q The statement I have just read to you.

A I think that is his opinion. He has a right to his opinion the same as I have a right to mine.

Q But you most thoroughly disagree with him?

A I disagree with him.

Q Well that opinion, for your information, was written by John C. Bell, then Lieutenant Governor and Chairman of the Board of Pardons and now a Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

A I still disagree with him.

Q You, however, do not complain, do you, if the Board of Pardons does agree with it?

A That is entirely up to the Board of Pardons.

Q You would not say that Justice Bell's statement was politically inspired?

A I am not going to comment on the statement by Judge Bell as to whether it was or was not. I do not suppose it was, but I do not know.

Q Now, when you came to charge the jury in March 1955, you said that these five men, one of whom was McSorley—and we have referred to that as the McSorley case—you said that they were hoodlums. Is that based upon their criminal records?

A Yes.

Q Was it?

A Yes.

Q What were their criminal records?

A You mean their prior criminal records?

Q Yes.

A I knew nothing about their prior criminal record.

Q You did not try the case, did you?

A I say I knew nothing about their prior criminal record. I knew about this case.

Q Did you? Did you try it?

A No, but—

Q Were you in the courtroom when it was tried?

A No.

Q Did you hear any of the evidence?

A No, I think I testified previously that that case was thoroughly discussed by Judge Irvin with the other three judges both as to the sentence and the opinion that was written in the case.

Q Mr. Hughes testified that that case was tried by Judge Toal. Was that wrong?

A Which case was that?

Q The case of the five men on the riot charge.

A That case was tried by Judge Irvin, and as the result of an opinion by the Supreme Court was sent back to Judge Toal. There was a petition filed with the Supreme Court for a re-trial, as I understand it. Now please do not hold this against me because of after-discovered evidence. Judge Toal heard that phase of it because at that time Judge Irvin was then on the Superior Court Bench.

Q Now, in your charge to the Grand Jury, you spoke of the Board of Pardons as being tainted and tinctured with politics. Did you base that upon any facts in your possession?

A No more than the Board of Pardons could base its action in these two cases on facts which they did not have before them. They based their decisions in those two cases upon facts having to do with public opinion, and so forth, in the locality which were absolutely unjustified. There was nothing in the record.

Q Were you present at the Board of Pardons hearings and do you know what arguments were made on behalf of these men to the Board of Pardons?

A Certainly not.

Q You have spoken of a highly respected member of the Bar of Delaware County having represented these men. That was present Judge Kraft?

A Yes.

Q All of us share that same high respect. Did Judge Kraft contend in the trial of these cases that these men were actually innocent?

A I think he did.

Q You respect him, nevertheless, because he made that contention?

A I most certainly do.

Q Did Judge Kraft contend in the Appellate Court that these men were entirely innocent?

A I do not know, but I am sure that he did. The Appellate Court did not agree with him.

Q Well, did the Appellate Court have before it the question of innocence? Is it not a fact that all that the Appellate Court had before it was the question of the sufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict?

A That is probably—

Q That is a different question from whether or not the men are actually innocent, isn't it?

A Yes.

Q Now no judicial power, except perhaps on the rare case of a writ of error coram nobis goes into the question of actual innocence, does it not?

A That is right.

Q So that in cases where despite what on the record constitutes a fair trial, the only avenue open in Pennsylvania for a decision on the question of actual innocence is the Board of Pardons. On the question of actual innocence?

A The issue of actual innocence? I do not think that that issue is before the Board of Pardons.

Q You do not? Then you would say—

A The issue before the Board of Pardons is this: This man has been found guilty by a jury in this particular case which went all the way up to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. They apparently agreed that what the jury did was right. I do not think the Pardons Board has a right to pass upon the question of innocence. The Pardons Board's function is to determine whether that man paid his debt to society.

Q Then, let me ask you this question, Judge. Since a judicial power does not determine guilt versus innocence, but only the question of whether the evidence was sufficient to sustain the verdict, then you would say there is no power in Pennsylvania that can set free a man who is actually innocent and who has been properly convicted on good evidence before a jury?

A No, I do not say that at all.

Q What power can do it?

A I say that there is the right of appeal to the Appellate Court and the Appellate Court has the right if it feels that a man has not been properly convicted to send him back for another trial, as they have done in the Turner case, I think five times. The Appellate Court was apparently satisfied that some error was committed or that the man should not have been, because of the record before them, convicted. They sent that back.

Q Yes, Judge, but that is not the question I asked. Let us assume a record in which no legal error has crept. A record in which, so far as the law is concerned, no inadmissible evidence has been offered or received and the man has been convicted and there are no trial errors. You agree, do you not, the question on appeal to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania is not open to assert I am actually innocent, even though convicted in accordance with the forms of law?

A No, I do not. I think they have a right to assert that I am actually innocent even though I was convicted in a court of law.

Q Do you know any case in which the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in the absence of an error of law, has ever granted a new trial on the ground of innocence?

A I do not think I do, no.

Q Do you know of any instance in which any Appellate Court in Pennsylvania has ever granted a new trial on the plea of innocence absent trial error?

A I do not know of any.

Q But you say they have that power?

A I think they have that power.

Q Where do they get it?

A I think it is the inherent power of the court as an Appellate Court. They have the inherent power as an Appellate Court.

Q Inherent in what?

A What do you mean, "inherent in what?"

Q You say inherent. What do you mean inherent?

A Inherent power of courts generally.

Q Well, courts are created by law.

A Yes.

Q You mean it is even inherent in them by reason of something other than law?

A No, no.

Q Where do they get this power?

A I say they have that power generally. There are a lot of things that are not in the statute law. The courts have inherent common law powers. A great many powers.

Q Now, do you know any court which has ever exercised such a so-called common law power?

A I do not know either way.

Q The fact that, if it be a fact, that no court has ever exercised such a power would indicate that it did not have that power of common law?

A I would think so. Yes sir.

Q Now, did the Grand Jury respond to your charge by itself complaining about the Board of Pardons?

A To my charge?

Q Yes, to your charge?

A I had nothing to do with the Grand Jury until they came in and made their report. From the time the Grand Jury was charged and sent on their way to do their work, I had absolutely nothing to do with the Grand Jury until they came back with their report.

Q Right. But you charged the Grand Jury condemning the Board of Pardons before they started to deliberate, did you not?

A Yes.

Q Yes. Now then did they come back with a report agreeing with you?

A Let's see. Maybe I can tell you what—I do not remember exactly what they said.

Q I am not interested in the particular language and I do not want to hold you down. Generally, they agreed with you?

A Yes.

Q Usually Grand Juries do agree with the charge, do they not?

A Sometimes, yes; sometimes, no; most of the times they certainly do.

Q Now, you charged them to look for political purposes. Did they report that they had found any?

A Certainly not.

Q Did you send your charge or the Grand Jury's report to the Board of Pardons or to the Governor of Pennsylvania?

A No.

Q To whom did you send it? The newspapers?

A The newspapers were there. They were there when I charged the Jury and they were there when the Grand Jury came in. They are always there. They have a right to be there.

Q You said, I am sure inadvertently, that this man Caserta got seventeen months to thirty-five months. That is one month short of the maximum?

A That is right.

Q Now, he was charged with the crime of conspiracy?

A Yes.

Q And of lottery?

A Yes.

Q That is, a conspiracy to commit a lottery?

A Yes.

Q And the actual commission of the lottery itself?

A Yes.

Q So that he got the limit on the commission of the lottery and he got one month less than the limit in addition on the charge of conspiracy?

A I think he was given six to twelve months on the one, and eleven to twenty-three months on the other.

Q That is right. Two years is the limit, you agree, for conspiracy, is it not?

A Yes.

Q But the conspiracy was itself a part of the lottery, was it not?

A Yes. It is a separate crime.

Q But they were added together, the agreement to enter into a lottery and the consequent getting into the lottery were made consecutive sentences?

A Yes, by Judge Toal, who I am sure can give you reasons for it. We were dealing not with an ordinary criminal.

Q Judge, I am no more challenging Judge Toal's right to exercise his judicial functions that I am claiming here the right of the Board of Pardons to exercise its functions. I am not going to challenge judicial discretion. My purpose here is to defend the Board of Pardons' discretion.

A If I may say something here; as a member of that Board of Pardons, I think that you as the Attorney General of Pennsylvania ought to disqualify yourself, the same as every self-respecting judge in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would disqualify himself in a case in which he had an interest, and you have an interest.

Q Now, since you have raised that question, I should like you to attempt to justify it. Do you consider that in my capacity appearing at this investigation, I am acting in a judicial capacity?

A No sir.

Q I am acting as an advocate, am I not?

A Yes sir.

Q Are advocates disqualified because of an interest?

A No sir.

Q What is it that would disqualify me, in your opinion?

A Because you are a member of the Board of Pardons, which has a quasi-judicial function.

Q If I were a member sitting on the Board of Pardons, hearing a case, I would be the first to agree with you that I should disqualify myself where I am exercising what you have been pleased to call that quasi-judicial function. But here, am I deciding cases? Am I doing anything else except what a lawyer does? Do you think a lawyer is disqualified from representing a defendant because he believes that defendant to be innocent?

A No sir.

Q Do you believe the prosecutor is disqualified from prosecuting because he believed the defendant to be guilty?

A No sir.

Q Well then, in what respect am I, sitting here as a lawyer representing the Board of Pardons, in any way disqualified since I am making no judicial or quasi-judicial findings whatever?

A As a matter of conscience, I can give you no other answer.

Q Well, where do you get that sense of conscience? Because mine is quite equal to your own, and I do not feel it.

A You and I disagree. That is perfectly all right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let us not get into personalities.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, who got into them? Do you think I am going to sit here idly and accept this kind of a bitter personal attack?

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, the question of the situation which is being discussed here was raised. The committee resolved it.

It may not have been to your satisfaction, Judge, but at least you abided by the decision of the committee and I think we certainly should get away from any further discussion of it.

THE WITNESS: I will apologize to the committee for again bringing it into the case.

SENATOR SCOTT: I do not think it should have been brought in at this time, and as far as I am concerned—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Here is a deliberate slur upon me. You do not want that to happen, do you?

SENATOR YOSKO: May I just make one suggestion. If the witnesses will answer the questions and stick to the answers, we will not get into these difficulties.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. McBride, you have already given your situation and your feelings on the matter to the committee. It is regrettable that the winess did bring it up at this time. I do not see that there is any further use of dragging it on. I am perfectly willing to disregard anything that the witness said on the subject.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have no doubt you are, but I think when such questions are raised and such insults are given, they ought to be answered before the tribunal in which they are given.

SENATOR SCOTT: You have already given your answer to it, sir.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I gave it to you, but Judge Bretherick chose to insult me. His motives remain obscure. I shall drop it there.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, may I request that when the Attorney General desires to testify that he testify as a witness?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, we want to avoid the personalities in this thing. This committee, of its own motion, raised the question of conflict of interest with the Attorney General in connection with certain specified cases, not generally, but in certain specified cases. The attorney General has given his replies. Those hace been made a part of the official record. We will allow the committee's actions and the Attorney General's response thereto to stand at that point and we will rest at that point.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: These cases we are discussing, I think the Committee will agree, I had no participation in at all. The committee raised no question about my participation in these questions.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We only raised it in those matters where you might have represented some client who had appeared before the Pardons Board, even though you did not represent them before the Pardons Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think that the credibility and the bias of witnesses are in issue before this committee, too.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I am sorry the matter has come up, and the Judge has offered his apology, General.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He did not apologize to me, which he should have. He probably will not, but I will not ask him to.

THE WITNESS: But, he will.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right.

THE WITNESS: He will and he does.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right, I accept it.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I do not think the testimony taken along these lines has any bearing on the functions of this committee or is in interest before the committee, and I respectfully suggest that it be expunged from the record totally once and for all.

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, one of the things this committee was fearful of and discussed in executive session was that we would be re-trying cases all over again, and it appears that we have gotten into that phase of it, and I do hope that we can get away from it. The Attorney General did bring up a situation, and that was the powers of the courts and the powers of the Pardons Board in changing guilty to innocent situations. And I think that is very important as far as the committee is concerned.

THE WITNESS: I have answered that by saying I do not think they have the right. They should not have that right.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now you have quoted a letter. It is not a letter but is part of the transcript of your charge. It would appear that the district attorney said that yours is the only county in the state which sends representatives before the Board of Pardons.

A Yes.

Q You do not personally know that that is so, do you?

A No sir, and I doubt very much whether it is so.

Q You said that you did not know on what reason the Board based its action in connection with the McSorley case, but you had also said that it was political. Now I should like to clear that difference up. If you did not know what its reason was, on what do you base the statement that it was political?

A Generally on the whole atmosphere of this particular case.

Q Nothing else?

A Nothing else.

Q Now, you have quoted a letter from a Mr. Smith who indicates that he thought there was political feeling against him on the grounds that he had been so successful before Boards of Pardons where the membership was Republican, and that he had been singularly unsuccessful where the Board had been Democratic?

A Yes.

Q You mentioned also that he had communicated with Secretary Finnegan of the Board of Pardons?

A I read his letter.

Q Yes. Now I show you a letter dated August 11, 1955. Is that from the same Mr. Smith.

A That is the same Mr. Smith. I do not know that is the same letter that he referred to.

Q Well, it is a letter directed to us.

A It is a letter directed to James A. Finnegan.

Q Right. And it is signed Charles F. G. Smith. It appears to be the same signature, does it not?

A Yes.

Q It is on the legal stationery of Mr. Smith?

A Yes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Now, I would like it to be marked and I accept the Chairman's suggestion as to how exhibits we produce should be marked. Shall we mark them Board of Pardons exhibits, or what?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: It might be better, however, in order to separate these, if these are marked as "P. B.", Pardons Board.

Letter dated August 11, 1955, from Charles F. G. Smith to Board of Pardons—produced and marked for identification as Pardons Board Exhibit No. 6. AJS 2/28/57

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q I am going to put the whole letter in evidence Judge.

MR. KOHN: May I raise a question of procedure? I have no objection to the letter going in at the proper time, but Judge Bretherick is on cross examination and I see no contact that Judge Bretherick knows anything about that letter, and it is going to go in on his testimoney. I say again, I have no objection to the letter going in, but I think it ought to go in at the proper time.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I assure the Board that this has to do with the question which Judge Bretherick raised. He relied on a statement by Mr. Smith, indicating that he had been prejudiced by reason of the fact that he was a loyal Republican and this letter indicates quite a different attitude. And I think I'd like to show it to Judge Bretherick and then ask him if he would trust a man who talks out of both sides of his mouth.

MR. KOHN: All right.

(The witness read the letter.)

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q You have read it, Judge?

A Yes sir.

Q No I'd like to read the second sentence.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. McBride, was that letter already read?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, I wish you would read it so that we will know why you asked the question.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The entire letter? I have no objection.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think that as inasmuch as the entire letter that Judge Bretherick had was read into the record for what it was worth, this should be done likewise. We have already directed our counsel to have this man appear before the committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes. I will read the letter.

"Honorable James A. Finnegan,
Secretary of the Commonwealth,
Capitol Building,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

August 11, 1955.

"Dear Secretary:

"You will recall that shortly after you took office, I presented you with an introductory letter from Mayor Clark. I explained to you at the time that I have presented a considerable number of applications for commutation to the Board of Pardons over the past years. It is a matter of record that I had been successful in about seventy-five per cent of the cases which I presented to former boards.

"To date, I have been consistently refused on about thirteen applications presented to your Board. It occurred to me that if the Board had any misconceptions about my partisan sympathies, it would be well to bring Mayor Clark's letter to their attention.

"I do not mean to intimate that your Board can be influenced politically in matters which involve human life and liberty, but I do feel that it is important to remove any misconceptions that might be an influence in a borderline case. I have re-examined the cases I have presented and quite agree that several of them have been difficult cases. However, there are others which would have undoubtedly been granted by former Boards.

"I am particularly puzzled about the case of Ronald S. Keys, 82956, May Sessions, which was originally presented to the Board by me. In the March Sessions, at which time Mr. Livengood advised me during the hearing that if I would present the case again and include two recent sentences imposed by the Dauphin County Court on this man, that favorable consideration would be given to commutation of not only the sentence he is serving, but to the two concurrent sentences which are now detainers from Dauphin County.

"I know that it is not the policy of the Board to give reasons for its refusal, but I do feel that some misunderstanding may have developed in this case, possibly because of the change of membership on the Board. If a rehearing is possible in this case, I would appreciate an indication from you to this effect. Also, I would appreciate an opportunity of making the acquaintance of the other members of the Board personally at the next Sessions, as I have always felt a sense of closeness should exist between an attorney and the Board if the attorney is to successfully convey the results of his investigation and of his personal contact with the prisoner. In this way, the Board can come to rely upon the honesty of the attorney as strongly as they can upon the report of the probation officer investigating the case, which is the most that we can ask.

"One matter that should definitely be looked into in the interest of justice is the case of five pardons which were granted last year to the Shattuck family of Shunk, Sullivan County. These five cases were presented by me in June 1954 and full pardon was granted in December with a definite order by your Board that the fines be remitted to those pardoned. These fines have still not been paid by Bradford County, where these people were legally convicted, even though repeated demand has been made upon them. The fines in question are as follows:

"Charles V. Shattuck	$100.00
Mrs. Ruth Rapley Duffield	100.00
Luther Shattuck	100.00
Ralph Shattuck	75.00

"Does your Board have sufficient power directly, or through the Governor, to compel return of these fines or do you recommend that I file a writ of mandamus against Bradford County to carry out the order of the Governor and your Board?

"The Shattuck family represents the center of the Democratic Party in Sullivan County. I believe, therefore, that not only the interest of justice, but of the party, will be served if something is done about the return of these fines."

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, in the light of that, Judge, writing to you and posing as a man who is deeply sympathetic and loyal to the Republican Party and to Mr. Finnegan, a Democrat, and posing to be interested in the welfare of the Democratic Party, can you really place any reliance upon it?

A The only satisfaction that I can get from that letter is the fact that before the Democratic Pardons Board came into power, he won seventy per cent of his cases, and after the Democratic Pardons Board came into power, he won none of his cases.

Q Now, is that good or bad?

A If he attempts to assume two roles, please do not hold me reliable for that.

Q I am not. Now, let me ask you this: Do you know that he won seventy or seventy-five per cent of his cases?

A No sir.

Q You do not know whether he is telling the truth or not.

A I do not know whether or not be is telling the truth in this letter either.

Q No. He says seventy-five per cent here and he said seventy to you.

A I thought he said seventy. I may be wrong.

Q No, I think you are right. I think he said seventy.

MR. KOHN: Is there an answer to that letter? I think they both ought to go in the record at the same time.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: There was a statement by Mr. Finnegan to him which—

MR. KOHN: Was there an answer to that letter?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Was there a written answer?

MR. FINNEGAN: There was not.

MR. KOHN: All right.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Finnegan will testify in no uncertain terms—

MR. KOHN: All right.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Finnegan will tell it.

MR. KOHN: Now just a minute. There is only one question that I asked you. Was there a written answer to that letter?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No. There was a delightful vocal answer.

MR. KOHN: I am not asking your opinion as to what you think of it, Mr. McBride. I am asking you whether or not there was an answer to that letter.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE. No. We will have Mr. Finnegan testify.

MR. KOHN: Well, suppose he does that instead of the Attorney General.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now Judge, you testified as to the Ballem case, and you said the Legislature ought to have its head examined for passing this Act of 1956. Whether they should or not, that is the law of the Commonwealth?

A Yes.

Q And you said that the District Attorney reported that his attention had been called to that law by me, as Attorney General. That is what he reported?

A That is my recollection, yes, sir.

Q Did you mean to suggest that there was anything wrong about the Attorney General calling the attention of both of the parties to the fact that the law had been amended in 1956?

A No, I was not critical of what the Attorney General did.

Q Now, then a petition was filed asking that the court determine whether he was insane now within the meaning of that statute?

A Whether his condition had so disintegrated—whether his mental condition had so disintegrated that he ought now to be examined by further commission to determine whether he should be electrocuted.

MR. KOHN. I object.

THE WITNESS: I did not criticize the Pardons Board for anything it did in that case.

MR. KOHN: May it please the Committee, I object to the Attorney General questioning along these lines because he was definitely involved in the Ballem case. He heard it last time. He is on the Pardons Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I can get involved in more things. I sat there and heard the Ballem case, and now I cannot ask a question even though you asked it.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Did you ever appear before the Board of Pardons?

MR. KOHN: Just a minute.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I am seriously concerned about whether or not we ought to openly discuss cases which are pending before the Pardons Board.

THE WITNESS: There has been no action by the Pardons Board in this matter.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am not going to discuss that any further, but Mr. Kohn talked about what was pending in Delaware County and the fact that three of his brother Judges voted one way and Judge Bretherick voted the other way.

MR. KOHN: Mr. McBride, I did not ask a question on the Ballem case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You are right on that; the members of the Board did.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I would like to request the Chair to issue a ruling that there will be no discussion on the Ballem case, because it is still in the hands of the Pardons Board and has not been decided.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have no intention to discuss the Ballem case, as it applies to the Board of Pardons.

SENATOR SCOTT: What was your point? What were you attempting to bring out?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: My point with respect to Judge Bretherick is this: He said the law was wrong. He stated that publicly. He stated here that he conceded that the Legislature should have its head examined for passing that law and that he disagreed with his brother judges. I want to ask Judge Bretherick if it is his view that a man, even if he is insane now, after conviction, may legally be executed.

MR. KOHN: Just a minute. I object to that question for the simple fact that the Attorney General appeared before the Capitol Correspondents recently and gave his opinion on how he felt about capitol punishment. It is the duty of the judge to carry out the laws just as much as it is the duty of the district attorney to uphold the law as constituted. I think we can take for granted that a person in Judge Bretherick's position, having been elected by the people of his county, will carry out his duties just as much as the Attorney General says he is going to carry them out here. And I think it is an offense to have to ask the Judge what he thinks about it because it has no significance in regard to our relation to the questioning of the actions of the Pardons Board.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q You are interseted in legislation. You said so. Now the Legislature—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a moment now. I want to find out something. Am I right when I state that only last week the Ballem case was listed on the calendar of the Pardons Board?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Certainly, you are right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Am I right that you, as a member of that Board, raised the issue of this law of 1956 and stated that you felt that a commission should be appointed to determine that issue?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No, you are wrong.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, I stand corrected, then.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I did point out to both counsels what both had apparently overlooked, and the lawyer representing the applicant stated that in any event he was going to petition the Court of Common Pleas of Delaware County for a stay and for a commission. And I pointed out this Act of 1956. Apparently neither of them had heard about it, so I said, here is the Act of 1956. Then the district attorney asked us if we would let him have a medical examination, and we all agreed that certainly he may have one without the slightest question. The next thing we knew, there was a stay granted.

Now, in answer to questions from committee members, Judge Bretherick has stated that he voted against hearing this petition; he voted against even giving the man a chance to prove that he was innocent.

I want to ask Judge Bretherick, is his position that he should be executed according to his testimony even if he is insane.

MR. KOHN: I object to that on the grounds that the case is pending.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, that is the fundamental question.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, that does not bear upon the action of the Pardons Board.

THE WITNESS: Certainly it does not.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Therefore, it should be admissible.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We are not going to go into matters which do not relate to questions before this committee. Furthermore, this case is still pending before the Pardons Board. Since it has been brought out in the open, we will permit the inquiry of this particular case. This committee will not entertain any further questions from either side in connection with any other cases now pending before the Pardons Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well then, I cannot ask Judge Bretherick whether or not he said this man should be in the cemetery. I want to ask him whether or not he thinks he ought to be in a cemetery even if he is insane.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I object to this, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Wait a minute. I said other than the case that has already been brought up. We will finish on this case, but I will have no further cases that are pending before the Pardons Board. I do not think it is fair to the people involved. I do not think it is fair to the Pardons Board that their judgment should be influenced by anything said by this committee or any of the witnesses which appear before it.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, may I add this as an additional reason: This is a murder case, and because of the actions before this committee, this could readily afford another reason for appeal to the United States Supreme Court. I would like to call that to the attention of the participants here.

MR. KOHN: That is what happened in the Lehman case in Blair County.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, I think we are way off base. We are not discussing the actions of the Pardons Board at this particular moment. We are attempting to establish the attitued of Judge Bretherick, who is a witness, of course, as to certain Acts of Assembly as to whether or not he believes they should be in force or not. I think that is the point. We are not discussing the Ballem case at all.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: With respect to the matter that has been touched upon heretofore, we will finish with this one, but we will not discuss matters that have no relation to the Pardons Board hereafter.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q All right. Judge, you have said that Ballem should be in the cemetery. Do you mean that he should be executed even if he is insane and has become insane since his conviction?

A Most certainly not.

Q Now Judge, when you were talking to the Grand Jury you told the Grand Jury that you had no intention of giving advice to the Board of Pardons or answering their communications?

A That is right.

Q Why did you deliberately say to them that you were not going to obey the law?

A Because I was so incensed by the action of the Pardons Board in this case and the Caserta case—

Q Do you think that anger justifies a man violating the law?

A . . . and because, further, I did not think it would do any good because the Pardons Board apparently ignored the letters that had been written to them in this Caserta matter. You will have to ask Judge Toal about that. I do not know what he wrote or what he said.

Q When you got a letter from Mr. Hean, March 23, 1956, that letter referred you to a positive command of the Assembly, did it not?

A It is not a positive command. As I recall it, there is a requirement of the law that the district attorneys, judges, and so forth—

Q Well, let me read it to you and see whether it is not a positive command: "Whenever the Board of Pardons shall request information and advice relative to any application for pardon or commutation of sentence from a judge who tried and sentenced the applicant, or the district attorney or assistant district attorney who prosecuted him or her, or from the district attorney in office at the date of the application, it shall be the duty of such judge, district attorney or assistant district attorney promptly to comply with such request."

Do you deny that that is a positive command?

A Yes.

Q Now, you said in any event, you were not going to live up to whether or not it was a positive command. And you said you would not live up to it until the Board of Pardons was reconsituted?

A Let me say that the letter that goes out from the Department of Justice, the Board of Pardons, usually says this at the end, "An answer to this letter on or before the first day of next month will help the Board in assembling the folder for hearing." And often times we do not get them until two days after or one day before. So it is not possible to answer the question in that time in many cases.

Q You do not get them until one day before the hearing?

A Until the day before, but some days we do not get them until after the hearing. There are not many cases like that.

Q Well, the lateness of your getting it was not the reason you did not answer it, was it?

A No.

Q It was a calculated policy on your part that you would not answer it because you did not think they pay attention to what you recommended?

A That is right.

Q And you think that that is a sufficient excuse for not obeying this law?

A Yes, I do.

Q All right. Now, I want to ask you a few questions about some cases that have come up in which you were the trail judge and did make recommendations. The case of Robert Lee Teal, 73 on the list for February 1955, the charge being murder in the second degree. You opposed that clemency?

A Yes.

Q The district attorney opposed it, and the Board of Pardons, by a vote of four to nothing, refused clemency?

A I assume so. I do not know that.

Q And that was not a political decision, was it?

A No. When was that, 1952?

Q That was on the list for February sessions, 1955. The effective date of the sentence was back in 1950, but the application was heard at the February 1955 sessions of the Board of Pardons.

MR. KOHN: How much did the man serve? I think you ought to tell us that to put it in the record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He was given a sentence of six to twelve—

MR. KOHN: Years?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Six to twelve years, and this was four and a half years after the effective date of the sentence.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, you thought he should not get out and so did the Board?

A That is right.

Q They agreed with you. Now, in the March 1955 sessions, No. 58, John J. Nash—

A What is the name?

Q John J. Nash, N-A-S-H, the charge was attempted rape. You gave him eleven months to three years, the effective date of the sentence being 6/22/54. You notified the Board that you had no objection to the commutation of his maximum sentence. The district attorney notified the Board that you had no objection to the commutation of his sentence, and the Board unanimoustly voted against clemency. Was that a political decision?

A No.

Q In the same session of the Board, Charles Thornton, 61 on the list, was charged with burglary and larceny. You gave him three and a half to ten years and the effective date of the sentence was the 15th of February 1954. You notified the Board that maybe he has seen the light.

A Yes.

Q The district attorney opposed.

A Yes.

Q The Board refused clemency by a vote of four to nothing. Was that a political decision?

A Apparently not.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I think we can go through the voluminous files on this and the same answers will be given by Judge Bretherick on these particular cases. We are not here to judge each particular case on its merits.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, the statement has been made that the Board of Pardons ignored Judge Bretherick's recommendations.

MR. KOHN: In this particular instance, and he gave his reason.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, he said that they consistenly ignored his recommendations. Now that is a very easy statement to make, but maybe the records do not back it up.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, could we have the record show whether this February and January, 1955 Board was the same which existed in January 1956?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: What?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Who were the members of the Board in January 1955?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The members of the Board were Mr. Furman, Mr. Finnegan, Miss Blatt and Mr. Cohen.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Are you sure? Wasn't Mr. Livengood a member of the Board in 1955?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Livengood? Livengood was still on. That is right.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Therefore, Mr. Chairman, I object to this as being immaterial. It was not the same Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, what does it matter which Board it is?

MR. KOHN: He has already said that. Both Boards were wrong.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I know but he had said that they constantly disregarded his recommendations, and these cases will show that sometimes they did and sometimes they did not.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I have Judge Toal here, and I understand that you want to close at 2:30.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, may I ask this? You have here before you a record of cases exclusively applying to Delaware County?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: And the positions which the district attorney and the judges took and then the final action of the Board?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: To shorten this matter, why could that not be entered as an exhibit and let the committee go through it and evaluate it?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Maybe it could. But since the statement of Judge Bretherick was made for all to hear, I wanted my countervailing evidence to be made for all to hear. But however, I will put in evidence and we can argue this later.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We know what your position is on that subject.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Sure.

Record of Delaware County Cases, consisting of 5 pages—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as P.B. Exhibit No. 7. AJP 2/28/57

Letter dated August 3, 1956 from R. R. Start, to Board of Pardons—produced, marked for identification and received as evidence P.B. Exhibit No. 8. 2/28/57

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now you mentioned the Gorodetsky case, Judge, in which you took the position that this being a dope case there should be no clemency.

A Yes.

Q The district attorney, however, took a somewhat different position, did he not? I will show you his letter.

A Yes, he does. I do not agree with him.

Q But you do not say he was politically inspired because he disagreed with you.

Q Well, it would not be fair to say that the Board of Pardons was politically inspired—

A I do not say that the Board of Pardons was politically inspired by that. I do not in any way say the Board of Pardons was politically inspired.

Q You do not say that they granted any leniency to this dope offender?

A I do not think they did.

Q No. As a matter of fact, your belief and mine concur, and he was turned down.

MR. KOHN: What was the date of that letter?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The date of the letter was September 21, 1956.

MR. KOHN: That was after the March Grand Jury and Judge Bretherick's statements to the Press. Is that right?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, it was when the case came up. You only get letters when cases come up.

MR. KOHN: I understand, but you will admit that the statements of Judge Bretherick as they appeared in the Press were in March and June of 1956, and this was September when he openly criticized the Board. Is that right?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, I see no connection between the two, but I certainly admit that September is later than March.

MR. KOHN: Thank you, sir.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If that is what you want me to admit, I admit it.

MR. KOHN: That is right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, how long are you going to take with Judge Toal?

MR. KOHN: I do not think it should take more than ten minutes. I am not going over the whole field. I am just going into one thing.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let us not repeat what has already been covered by the other witness.

Mr. KOHN: All right.

WILLIAM R. TOAL, a witness, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What is your full name, sir?

A William R. Toal.

Q And what is your official position in the County of Delaware?

A Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Delaware County.

Q How long have you been Judge of the Court of Common Pleas?

A Going on ten years.

Q Are you up for re-election this time?

A That is correct.

Q You have been endorsed by both the Democratic and Republican Parties?

A That is what they say.

Q Judge Toal, you tried the McSorley cases, did you not?

A Yes, I did.

Q And on the first application for pardon on this case, did you receive notification thereof?

A I think I did, yes.

Q And that application was for a pardon, was it not?

A No, I think it was for commutation.

Q It was for commutation? You say "pardon" in your letter. Did you reply to the Board of Pardons' inquiry in regard to this matter?

A Yes, I did.

Q In your reply what did you say to them as to why no consideration should be given to the application at the time it was to be heard?

A Well, I wrote a letter on September 13, 1955. I appear to have in my hand a photostatic copy of that letter addressed to the Board of Pardons. Shall I read it?

Q I do not think you need—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, isn't this a re-hash of the case?

MR. KOHN: Mr. McBride, do you know what I am going to ask him?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No, but if you don't mind, I am speaking to the Chair. Do you?

MR. KOHN: No, I certainly do not. I am sorry.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, if it is a duplication of what we have already had, then, of course, we don't want it again.

THE WITNESS: I do not think this is a duplication.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: If it is not a duplication of what we already had, proceed.

THE WITNESS: Because this letter has not been before the Board.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Before this committee; not the Board of Pardons.

THE WITNESS: Well, the committee.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well.

Will you get that marked up as an exhibit so that we do not get ourselves fouled up along the way in the numbers?

Two-page letter dated September 13, 1955, from Judge Toal to Board of Pardons—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Exhibit No. 9. AJP 2/28/57

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now what I was trying to bring out—and I will say it very plainly—is that your statement to the Board of Pardons was that this application was premature because the case was pending before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

A That is correct.

Q Therefore, no consideration should be given at this time to that until such time as the Supreme Court rules. Is that right?

A That is right.

Q You received notice of the hearing on this particular application?

A I think I did.

Q And you sent the letter?

A That is right.

Q Now, subsequently, when this case was up for a re-hearing, did you ever receive notice thereof?

A No, I did not.

Q So that when the case came up on the merits, you received no notification from the Board of Pardons of the case being listed?

A That is correct.

Q You stated in your letter that I read as of September 13, 1955, "It would appear that to make an application to your Honorable Board for pardons in these cases before any jail sentence or portion thereof has been served, and also before the Supreme Court has had an opportunity to decide on these cases is highly irregular." Is that your position?

A That is right.

Q And you state now that you received no notice of the hearing on the merits of these cases at the time they were scheduled for a hearing?

A I did not, to my recollection.

Q There is nothing in the record. I will certify to that; that you never received such notice.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May I see that Exhibit?

(Exhibit handed to Attorney General McBride,)

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now you have heard testimony here. How do you feel, your Honor, in regard to the functions of the Pardons Board? Do you have any suggestions to offer?

A Well, I listened attentively to Judge Bretherick's testimony in chief and I agree with him that it would be very much better for the public interests if the Pardons Board, as it is now constituted, were abolished by an amendment to the Constitution, and taken entirely out of any possible charge of political graft.

I know that there are other States of the Union—I cannot name them exactly at this time—where the pardoning power is entirely disassociated from politics, with the exception that the Governor, having the absolute right, would have to be on one side or the other, either Republican or Democrat. But it seems to me the set-up in Pennsylvania when an administration changes the entire Pardons Board, with the exception of the holdovers, such as the Auditor General and the Secretary of Internal Affairs which carry over—a kind of lame duck or something—for a certain little while. But the Board changes, and the members have to be of one political persuasion.

I am also inclined to agree with Judge Bretherick that if you look over the past twenty-five years you could find something to complain about on both sides, whether or not it has been a Republican administration. Some of the things that have been done by the Pardons Board if they were looked into, might then be subject to question, at least from the public aspect. Also, when you look at some of the things that were done under a Democratic administration, they also could be looked into. I say entirely from a public aspect because, after all, I feel that a public body like a Pardons Board has to be responsive to some extent to public opinion, to the feelings of the public whom they represent. Now, I think that is about as far as I would like to go at this time.

Q I do not want to repeat anything, but you heard the reasons given by the Board of Pardons for the commutation of the sentences of McSorley and others, and they state that at the time of the trail the feelings of the citizens of Delaware County were such that the court and the jury were undoubtedly influenced by the attitude of the general public. What would you like to say on that?

A Well, in the McSorley case, I did not sit as trail judge. The Supreme Court remitted the case back to Delaware County for the purpose of having a hearing to decide whether or not a new trail should be granted on the ground of after-discovered evidence. I sat in that hearing. We had an extended hearing. Mr. Hughes was the assistant district attorney; Mr. Kraft and his associates were counsel for the defendents. We had a full hearing. The testimony was taken and transcribed and a written opinion was filed by the lower court, written by myself and approved by the other judges. In that hearing, of course, some of the testimony and some of the factual situations that came out in the previous trial had to be considered to see whether or not there was after-discovered evidence, because if it is a reiteration of the testimony that came before the court and jury in the original trial it would not be, as we all have to agree, after-discovered evidence. So that I am somewhat familiar with the original trial, having consulted with Judge Irwin and the other judges, and I am very familiar with the hearing which was conducted by me in the hearing for the after-discovered evidence.

I would say in my judgement that the court was not in the slightest degree influenced by anything, any bias or any feeling of the public in Delaware County. They based the entire case on the original sentence of two years, on the factual situations proven before a court and jury, and there was no influence at all or bias from the public.

Q The point I am getting at, Judge Toal, is that evidently, the Pardons Board found this as a matter of fact?

A Well, there was no fact in that.

Q That is what I would like to ask you.

A Well, as far as I know in that case, from my contact with it, there was no fact which would indicate that the court was in the slightest degree influenced by any adverse public opinion.

Q You could not say as to the jury?

A No, absolutely not.

Q What do you mean? I do not quite follow you? They also say that the jury was influenced. Can you tell us anything about that?

A That the jury was influenced? Well, of course, in this kind of cases, unlike a first degree murder case, the jury would not be locked up over night and, naturally, there might be something in the newspapers of the current trial. Whether or not twelve members of a jury would be influenced if they read something in the papers from day to day, I cannot tell you. That is our trial procedure.

Q Judge, the point I am getting at is that the Pardons Board's findings were made from the records, supposedly?

A There is nothing in the record, either in the lower court or in the findings on the record before the Appellate Court, which would indicate to the slightest degree that the jury was influenced by public opinion.

Q They go on further and give an additional reason. As this applicant and his accomplices were the only persons arrested, they bore the resentment of the community. Is there anything in the record to justify such a finding of fact by the Pardons Board?

A I do not think there is.

MR. KOHN: That is all I have.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Judge Toal, I just want, for the purpose of the record, to bring out certain information based upon one of your statements.

I think the Constitution provides that the Pardons Board consist of four members, they being the Lieutenant Governer, the Secretary of Internal Affairs, and two appointees of the Governor who are Cabinet Officers; the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Attorney General.

Not only this Board but the constitutional provision itself creates a Board that by its very nature could have the color of a political board, could it not?

A That is correct, in my opinion.

Q Because of that you feel that the color should be changed?

A I think it should.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Judge Toal, you will not limit your remarks to just this Pardons Board, will you?

Please give us your remarks over a period of years with your experience as to what you think?

A Well, Mr. Kohn, I have no axe to grind coming up before this committee at all. I am under subpoena. I happened to be the judge who sat in the Caserta case. I wrote letters protesting any commutation for Caserta. I happened to be the judge who sat in the final hearing in the McSorley case. I also wrote letters on that, and in my humble judgment, the letters were ignored. Now I probably made some statements to that effect somewhere, not necessarily to the newspapers, but probably that is the reason I am subpoenaed here. And I have no axe to grind one way or the other.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Senator Fleming, do you have any questions?

BY SENATOR FLEMING:

Q Only this, Judge: You agree, I understand, with

Judge Bretherick, that there definitely should be a change in the make-up of the Pardons Board?

A I certainly whole-heartedly agree with him. I was glad to hear him testify in the manner he did with respect to that because there could be criticism, as I say, over the years when it was constituted from one political party's standpoint just the same as there could be criticism when it was constituted from a Democratic standpoint.

Q Would you agree with him, sir, that they do not have enough time to fully consider the pardons because of these extra duties in their regular jobs?

A Yes. It was just last week I heard a comment at the lunch table when we were sitting there with some lawyers that the Pardons Board gave five to ten minutes consideration for each case in executive session after they heard them, and that the report, as I was informed, was written out by the Secretary and submitted to the Board for their adoption. It certainly struck me as very peculiar.

Let us take a first degree murder case where a defendent is serving a life sentence. Perhaps it took two or three weeks to try that man. Perhaps the case was taken to the Supreme Court and the Supreme Court, refusing a new trial, had to write a detailed written opinion, and that became a matter of record in the law books. Then they come up here to the Pardons Board, and the attorney for the defendent makes an argument for about fifteen minutes. He gives the factual background. He puts his best foot forward for his client. The assistant district attorney or the district attorney likewise gets up and rebuts that for fifteen minutes. And then this group of five persons, upon whom devolves the heavy responsibility of deciding the liberty of a human being, either that he does not get his liberty or does get it, they hear that in that half hour and then they go out with about fifteen or twenty or thirty other cases, and they have to dispose of it in ten minutes. I would say that that is one of the—well, it is unbelievable that that exists in Pennsylvania.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just to correct maybe a wrong impression you have, I think the statement has been made here that the average time which is allotted for the argument of a case before the Board is around ten minutes. I do not believe we have anything in the records as to the length of time that the Board considers these cases after the arguments are had.

THE WITNESS: Well, all right. Let's take that. If the average time is ten minutes, that would mean five minutes on each side. Now that just sounds ridiculous, when considering such grave questions as to the liberty of a human being. and in some instances, even his life.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Judge Toal, last week I timed some hearings before the Board of Pardons. What would your reaction be to a hearing in front of the Board of Pardons that lasted for five minutes, including both sides?

A Well, I think my opinion would be even more drastic than that which I have already stated.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I wish to state for the record that there were hearings which took five minutes last week.

SENATOR FLEMING: Mr. Chairman, I certainly, for the record, want to bring this out. I have no criticism for the present Board of Pardons as such. My question, since I seem to have brought up the time allowed, is for the purpose of trying to find out whether or not jurists agree that ten minutes is enough time to permit it. I am thoroughly in agreement with the fact that they cannot allow them more than ten minutes because they have all their other duties.

THE WITNESS: I understood they had seventy cases recently to decide in one session. Now five human beings cannot do that and give adequate and proper and conscientious treatment to those seventy cases and get away with it and do a proper job of it.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Judge Toal, suppose seventy cases were scattered over a day and a half and no notes are available to the members of the Pardons Board as to what counsel said or what the actual facts were, except what is set forth in the application and accompanying papers which were prepared by the Secretary, do you think they can properly decide immediately after they leave the hearing in the morning, having heard maybe thirty cases, and conscientiously and correctly and sincerely vote on the cases immediately on each one they have heard that morning?

A I think it humanly impossible to do that.

Q That has been done, I might say, not just by this Board but by almost all the Boards that I know of.

A The system is wrong.

BY REPRESENTIVE BELL:

Q I have another question, Judge Toal: Again going back to this riot case with McSorley, DiAntonio, and the others, again I call to your attention one of the findings of the Board of Pardons: "At the time of trial, the feeling of the citizens of Delaware County was such that the Court and jury were undoubtedly influenced by the attitude of the general public." Are you familiar with defense counsel, now Judge Kraft?

A I have known Judge Kraft for thirty-five years.

Q If this were the case, would Judge Kraft have taken proper legal steps for change of venue or otherwise?

A He certainly would have.

Q And is he an ardent advocate—

A Well, he is one of the finest trial lawyers that I have known in my career at the Bar.

Q To your knowledge did Judge Kraft ever claim that there was such a situation going on?

A He never raised the issue to my knowledge.

Q And if there had been, would Judge Kraft have been the type of man who would have raised it?

A Well, looking back on the case, he did everything he could to save his clients from jail, and I think he would have taken the further step of asking for a change of venue if there had been any condition in Delaware County that would suggest to his mind that those defendants could not get a fair trial in that county.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Judge Toal, after a jury has deemed the guilt of an individual, do you feel that a Pardons Board, either as the existing Pardons Board duly constituted or a

Pardons Board of the type that you would like to see put into practice, should have the jurisdiction or the right to change the thought that there was guilt or there was not any guilt?

A I am of this opinion, that as the courts are constituted in Pennsylvania it would certainly be a very rare occasion that the lower court or the Appellate Court would take the opportunity to set aside a case after it has once been adjudiciated by a court and jury on a basis of innocence alone.

There are cases where the Supreme Court may in itself, if the question is raised for lack of evidence on a demurrer of the evidence in the lower court and then is taken up, where that particular question is raised in the court itself by its, might I say, original jurisdiction —or I guess you could go back to Kings Bench?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

THE WITNESS: And they could go back and search that record; and if they came to the consideration that there was not sufficient evidence to justify the verdict of the court and jury, they could set it aside; not set it back for a new trial, but they could set it aside.

I can give you an example of that in the case that happened twenty or twenty-five years ago. It was a case of involuntary manslaughter which happened on West Chester Pike and went to Superior Court. The defendant was convicted; it went up to Superior Court. The Superior Court said there was not sufficient evidence to convict the defendant of involuntary manslaughter, and they discharged him. You remember that case?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The Hyman case?

THE WITNESS: That is correct, the Hyman case. Now the court does have that jurisdiction. They can scan the record and they can say "not sufficient evidence," and they can discharge. There is no doubt about that. The lower court has the inherent right to do that and it may never get to the Appellate Court.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q My question was, sir, should a Pardons Board have the same right?

A I would say that it would be a very poor system of jurisprudence that did not somewhere in its scheme have what is known as mercy. There is a possibility that when a man goes to jail that he rehabilitates himself. After he has spent a sufficient length of time in jail he has grown up, as we say, so that he could take his place in society. I would say that a Pardons Board has the right in certain specific cases—if they are convinced they have a right—to grant mercy to a defendant and release him or commute his minimum sentence; I would say that. That is inherent in sovereignty.

I would say there have been cases in the United States where the Governor artibrarily, we might say, of some state, would commute a sentence and he might be criticized to high heaven. They would kick him out at the next election. Public opinion goes against him and kicks him out. There is an inherent right of sovereign mercy. I guess that is about the best way I could put it. The King can grant a pardon and the Governor of Pennsylvania can grant a pardon, as we all know, on the advice of the Pardons Board. However, what we have had before us today are specific cases. We had the McSorley case, with which Judge Bretherick disagreed wholeheartedly. I disagree wholeheartedly because I do not think that the Pardons Board did a proper action when it released these people who were convicted in open court by a fair trial. They had their day in court. They took it to the higher court; and after they were convicted and sentenced by Judge Irvin to two years, a Pardons Board, on this kind of a statement in the report made up by the secretary, commuted it to six months; not four months, I think it was six months. They took eighteen months away from that sentence.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Judge, we discussed a color of politics that is inherent in the Pardons Board in our constitutional provision. And another matter came out in the testimony yesterday to the effect that the Pardons Board has the power to make and change its rules of procedure at will. Do you think that is a proper power for the Pardons Board to have?

A Well, that is a matter of opinion. If the Legislature tried to put too many strictures and placed them in a straight jacket as to procedure, and if they tried to do that after a constitutional amendment—and it would have to be done by constitutional amendment before you could do anything, as we all know—it will take quite a number of years to do that. It would have to go to the Legislature first and then be passed on by two Legislatures, I think, and then by a vote of the people. If the Legislature saw to it that the thing which started on its way for a constitutional amendment had set up a proper kind of Pardons Board, dis-associated entirely from politics, then it would not hurt to have that Board make its rules of court, might we say, in its procedure.

Q What I am getting at is this: Should the Pardons Board or any other governmental agency have the power to make rules at will? What I am getting at is should we not have a time element after the enunciation of a rule before it becomes effective?

A I believe in government by law and not government by edict or by man. And if the Pardons Board can willy-nilly change its rules over night without notice to the public or to the attorneys who are involved, I would say it is very wrong. There should be a certain set routine written out ahead of time so that everybody could read it and then know what they were doing. That is the point, is it not?

Q The point is whether or not they could change the rules on the spot or whether they would have to be compelled to make a change of rules to make it effective some date thirty, sixty or ninety days from the date of its adoption.

A I think you are right on that, I agree.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q I hope this isn't a repetition: What is your opinion of the functions of a Pardons Board?

A What should be the functions of the Pardons Board?

Q Yes?

A The functions of a Pardons Board should be to hear cases where defendants have been convicted. I mean by conviction pleas of guilty also and sentences to jail for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not at the time of the cases presented before the Pardons Board that particular defendant's sentence should be commuted, or if he has already been released from jail and paid his debt to society, whether or not be should be pardoned. Now in order to do that properly there are so many facets to it that you would write an essay on it.

Q That will be my next question: What factors do you think the Board of Pardons should take into consideration in arriving at a decision as to whether we should commute a sentence to parole the defendant or decline to commute the sentence for the defendant?

A I think that the Pardons Board should be required to read the entire record of the case in the lower court word for word and familiarize himself with it first of all.

I think that having done that they should investigate the prison record and the conduct of the particular individual in the penal institution. Having done that, they should investigate whether or not if he is released into society he can rehabilitate himself in society without harm to society, whether or not he can become privately employed. I could go on and on with all these various things, but it takes into consideration a wide quasi-judicial discretion.

Q All right, Judge, you were not here when the Secretary of the Board testified. He advised this committee of various records that are filed with the Pardons Board in connection with each case. And if my memory serves me correctly, they do not review the testimony that was taken at the trial because in some big cases where they plead guilty there is no testimony.

A Yes, there is, in Delaware County.

Q That probably isn't true in every county. I don't know.

MR. KOHN: Yes, it is.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q But the five or ten minutes that are taken by the attorney I think are devoted to acquainting the Board with the facts in the case. In addition to that, as I understand it, there is a report from the warden of the jail that indicates his behavior and his conduct and that sort of thing. And there is an investigation made, I understand, by the Parole Board and they go into the community.

A I do not think that is done for the Pardons Board. It is done for the Parole Board, is it not?

Q Well, I think it is done here, too. At least we were told it was supposed to be a confidential report.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think, Senator, to straighten you out, the Pardons Board, in its operations, makes the Parole Board an arm to use for investigation purposes.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q But there are a whole set of records that are filed with the Board, which I understand the Board reviews and takes into consideration in arriving at a final decision.

Let us assume in the case of McSorley that all of the reports were favorable, and the Board was satisfied and realized that they committed a wrong, and they served a certain length of time in jail with no previous record, and all the factors favored the applicants. Do you not think it is fair then that they should act favorably on that application?

A I would say in answer to that question that generally you are right. Specifically, in the McSorley case, I cannot agree with the Board because that was an application filed before the Board of Pardons even before the Appellate Court had handed down its decision as to whether or not it was going to affirm a lower court or not. I never got a notice. We have no notice of a hearing on the merits.

Q But aside from the McSorley case generally you would say—

A Generally, I would say that. If I said otherwise, I would be charging every Pardon Board that ever existed with error, and I would not want to do that.

Q All right. There is one thing that we do not have on the record yet so far as these two cases are concerned. The McSorley case, and those that were sentenced with him, five of them, and the other case on gambling—I propose to suggest to the chairman that we again call Mr. Hean and let him spread on the record just what information is on file to determine whether the reports are favorable or unfavorable, so that we can arrive at some conclusions of our own.

Judge, just one more question and then I am finished. You talked about a political board because some of them are elected and some are appointed, and there was a charge made that politics influenced the position of the board in some cases. Do you personally, based on your long experience, long tenure in office as a judge, know of any political considerations or do you know of any political influence that was exerted upon any board at any time which finally influenced the board to arrive at a decision for or against an applicant who came up for commutation or pardon?

A I do not.

SENATOR YOSKO: Thank you.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Judge, did I understand you when you were discussing the Board to say that the Board should be responsive to public opinion?

A No, I did not say that at all and did not mean to say it. If you got that impression you are wrong.

Q I just wondered. I thought I heard it that way and I just wanted to know; isn't it a fact that in the appointment of judges in many particular courts long terms are given and in some cases life terms are given to the judges in order that public opinion should not influence their decisions in particular cases?

A That is right. I agree with that too.

Q Well, would you suggest then, under those circumstances, that a board—

A They could serve for ten years as far as I am concerned.

Q . . . who could serve for a lengthy time, that that would probably be an important addition to our system? A Well, if I had my way the board could be constituted the same way for ten long years.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Judge Toal, you stated you did not get a notice of the hearing on the merits. Do you think as a matter of procedure that it would be a good thing for the Pardons Board investigator to go into the community and get the feeling of the community with regard to a particular case and also with regard to the feelings of the victim? Do you think that is an important part?

A Well, I do. I will shade my answer to the member of the Board to this extent, that a thorough investigation should be made, not just a simple investigation. Each case should stand on its own feet and each case should be just as important as any other case no matter whether it was a misdemeanor or felony. And although it may take longer and although it might cost a little more money, the Board should be given every opportunity and every assistance to make the right decision.

MR. KOHN: That is all.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Have you ever heard of anybody being shut off from any debate or limited in the length of time he took before the Parole Board on a particular case?

A The Parole Board or the Pardons Board?

Q The Pardons Board, I am sorry.

A No, I have not. I just heard that they gave about ten minutes for each case. That is all I heard.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Judge, the rules provide for a half hour in capital cases and fifteen minutes for each side on regular cases.

I suppose when you were assistant district attorney you occasionally would come up before the Board of Pardons?

A Yes, on occasions. I did not do it as a regular thing, but I have been up before the Board of Pardons.

Q Is it not a fact, whether a man takes three or five minutes to present his case, if he does not want to take as long as it requires to present it, he is given that opportunity?

A Perhaps he is. I don't know. I am not familiar with that. I have been away from it for so long that I could not answer that with honesty.

Q Now with respect to the question of rules; the courts make their own rules, do they not?

A They do, and they have the inherent power to do it.

Q Sure. And it is necessary that they have that power.

A Right.

Q It is necessary that the Board of Pardons has the power to make reasonable rules, isn't it?

A I agree with that.

Q Even though it is highly desirable that before they are put into effect any people who practice before them, or the public generally, or the prosecutors, that the judges be aware to make any changes?

A I agree with that.

Q And they should print them and publish them?

A They should print them. They should give public notice of any changes.

Q Now we discussed your views of the Pardons Board, and Senator Scott raised a question that leaves me a little bit in doubt as to whether there was communication. Your feeling, as I understand it, is based on the Hyman case and you could probably base it upon the Wa-nee-nu case in the Supreme Court?

A Well, of course, the Supreme Court was the court that freed Wa-nee-nu.

Q Yes, but they contended and exerted power to assert as a matter of law that where the evidence is insufficient to convict they can discharge the defendant without day?

A That is correct.

Q However, what I would like to ask you about is not such a case, but a case where the evidence on its face is sufficient so that any Appellate Court would be obliged on the record to affirm the conviction and then because of new evidence or—

A Now you said something, "new evidence."

Q All right, new evidence.

A I agree with that wholeheartedly.

Q The man is found to be innocent—you would not want to live in a jurisdiction where there was no public authority powerless to act in such a case?

A No, I would not.

Q But the lower courts do not have the right to grant a new trial, do they, in such cases once the term has expired?

A They do on error coram nobis.

Q That is not a question of law?

A It is a question of fact. And innocence would be on a base of fact.

Q But it would have to be a mistake of fact, would it not?

A That would show that the thing that was proven before the court and jury was incorrect.

Q All right. Now suppose there is a case in which there is no case of new evidence. Would you say that there should be no tribunal in Pennsylvania that could re-assess the evidence except the jury?

A I would say that if there was no—now you say re-assess the evidence.

Q For the purpose of determining—

A I would say that no tribunal constituted of, say, four members like the Pennsylvania Board of Pardons should have the right to re-evaluate the evidence in any criminal case once it has been passed upon by a jury and a judge.

Q Now you are aware of facts, although both you and I agree that the jury system is the greatest system ever invented in the discovery of truth in a courtroom, nevertheless a jury can make mistakes like judges, like boards, like anybody else?

A Unfortunately, we are only human beings; and if a jury makes a mistake, I do not think there is any tribunal that has the inherent power to correct that mistake.

Q Not even the chief executive of a state?

A There would have to be overwhelming evidence, ovrwhelming evidence beyond a reasonable doubt to contradict the evidence that was submitted to the jury before any power should vest in any human being to change that verdict.

Q Now, Judge, that has not, however, been the law of Pennsylvania, has it?

A No, it has not.

Q Now you agree that, as a matter of law, under the Constitutional Article IV, Section 9, the Governor, upon the recommendation of the Board of Pardons, can pardon even before sentence?

A There is no doubt about that; and if he wants to incur the wrath of the public, he can arbitrarily do anything he wants with the case.

Q Now the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania—

A And so can the Board, in recommending it to the Governor.

Q You are familiar with the fact that the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has upheld that power as a matter of right?

A There is no doubt about it.

Q Now when this McSorley case came up before the Board of Pardons in September you wrote the letter of September 13, in which I quote the relevant part:

"It would appear that to make an application to your Honorable Board of Pardons in these cases before any jail sentence, or a portion thereof has been served and also before the Supreme Court has had an opportunity to decide the cases, is highly irregular."

A I still maintain that.

Q Yes? Well, as a matter of fact the Board itself agreed with you, didn't it?

A I don't know whether they did or not. I never received any notice.

Q Well, don't you know that the Board of Pardons in September, when that case came up before it, refused to act upon it on the grounds—

A I never got any notice.

Q Don't you know that it was turned down in September and the Board agreed with you on that pardon?

A Do the records show that?

Q Testimony before this committee shows that.

A I know nothing about that. I never got notice.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q While we are on that point, do you know that there was a re-hearing in January of the following year?

A I do not, no.

Q And at that re-hearing before the Board of Pardons a commutation was granted?

A I know that they granted a commutation from two years to six months, but I never got any notice of it.

Q Did you get notice of the re-hearing?

A No, never.

Q Then you never had an opportunity to state your convictions on the merits of the situation?

A I have already stated my convictions on the merits in that letter, and I had a feeling that that letter was not considered.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Well, when you say you have a feeling—

A I have only a feeling.

Q Because you don't know that it was not considered?

A No, I don't know.

Q As a matter of fact, the mere fact that the Board disagreed with the judge in a given case does not mean that it did not consider his letter. It may be simply that they disagreed because of other information which they had.

A I would have to agree with that. I have no information to show otherwise.

SENATOR SCOTT: General, I did not realize that the Judge had stated his feelings on the merits in that letter. All I have heard from the testimony here today was that he objected because of the time period and the fact that it was still pending before the Appellate Court. I didn't realize that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Senator, the last sentence is this: "Due process of law has been exercised with regard to each of these defendants, and they should be required to serve the jail sentences imposed on them by the court.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now you did not change your mind on that. You have not changed it until today?

A I have not changed my mind up to this minute.

Q The Board has before it upon the re-hearing your statement on the merits to the effect that you were against it?

A That is right. There was a statement of the merits in that letter.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I don't think it has been brought out that there was a statement of the merits in that letter.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Had you gotten a notice, of course, you would have stuck by it?

A I probably would have reiterated what was said in that letter.

Q Now when you say that Judge Kraft, for whom all of us have the same high regard as you have, argued this case, he argued on the grounds that these men were actually innocent, didn't he?

A That is right.

Q And he contended in the Appellate Court that they were innocent?

A I don't know about that. He couldn't have—well, let us see what he did do. Let us see if we have any Appellate Court decisions in the McSorley case.

Q Well, that technical question would not be open there, would it? It would just be the question of innocence?

A No. That is right. Your question confused me somewhat. If he had demurred to the evidence in the lower court, he would go up on the demurrer on the refusal to grant the demurrer technically on the sufficiency of the evidence.

Q Not whether the evidence was true or false?

A That is correct; whether it made out a case.

Q That would not be open before the Appellate Court, would it?

A No.

Q Now before the case, however, went before the Board of Pardons Mr. Kraft was appointed to the United States District Court and is now Judge Kraft.

A That is correct.

Q And associated with him in the trial of that case was Robert Trescher, a lawyer from Philadelphia?

A Yes, I think he sat with him during the trial.

Q Are you familiar with the contention made before the Board of Pardons that these men were actually innocent?

A Well now, Mr. McBride, that is where you and I part company. To get up before the Board of Pardons and make the mere statement that these five men were innocent would not be convincing to anybody unless it was based on a factual situation which was worthy of belief.

Q Now did not both the then Mr. Kraft and Mr. Trescher take the factual position that had these five men been in and among all this demolished debris, and having been caught in an automobile six blocks away, they could not have possibly been as clean from the bottom of their shoes, their clothing; they would have evidenced being out of breath, and so forth. Didn't they argue from that indubitible fact these men had to be innocent?

A Yes, they did along those lines, I think, but I do not think—and I will have to say it respectfully—that it was very convincing.

Q What you mean is it did not convince your Honor?

A It did not convince me.

Q You do not know whether it convinced the Board of Pardons?

A No, I cannot say whether it did or not.

Q But we can say that Mr. Kraft, now Judge Kraft, would not have made that argument unless he thoroughly believed it and he was—

A I would say that like all good advocates, Judge Kraft would do everything he could to keep his clients out of jail, including yourself. You would do the same thing.

Q You do not mean also that Judge Kraft would have made an argument to the court that these men were innocent unless he believes it?

A Oh, no. He does not have to believe in their innocence, and you know that he does not. If his client can say that he is innocent, he can take that for granted, and you know that.

Q Didn't he in fact say he believes they were innocent?

A I do not know about that. I doubt that he did. Bill Kraft would never put himself out on a limb. He represented himself as an advocate.

Q If I say to you now that he told me personally yesterday on the telephone you would accept that statement, would you not?

A I think I would have to.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now again I think the General is trying to testify.

THE WITNESS: Has he been sworn yet?

MR. KOHN: Not yet.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, I tell you what I would like to do in this connection. Having talked with Judge Kraft, he has asked me if I would state to this committee that if the committee directs a communication to him, he will respond to it in any fashion suggested to him by the committee, whether it be a letter, whether it be a personal appearance or whatever the committe wishes. He would like to state his views about this case fully the way he presented them to the lower court and to the Appellate Court. Mr. Trescher is here to state what he argued to the State Board of Pardons. So that you will have both sides of the case.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Am I to understand that Mr. Kraft made that statement to the Board of Pardons?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Kraft did not appear before the Board of Pardons, but Mr. Trescher made the statement to the Board of Pardons.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: But Judge Kraft said it yesterday, and authorized direct quotation of himself, that that not only was his opinion then but is his opinion now. It is just to show that reasonable minds may differ on it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will take your suggestion into consideration in executive session and dispose of it.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I would at this point like to ask the witness one question. In all those cases where a defendant goes to a jury for determination of his guilt or innocence—and in cases where they plead guilty, of course, that is gone by the board when they admit their guilt—but in all those cases which go to a jury trial, doesn't the defendent, as well as his advocate, protest at the jury trial and all the way through in it the innocence of his client?

A That is absolutely right. And if he did not do it he ought to be disbarred. I have a strong opinion on that. I think if you are an advocate, you should be an advocate.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q I have a question concerning a member of the bar, I understand, by the name of Mr. Trescher who in his questioning General McBride stated he was present during the trials in Delaware County and who, this afternoon's testimony indicates, handled this man before the Pardons Board. Are you familiar with this gentleman, Mr. Trescher?

A No, I just met him this morning. I never saw him before in my life.

Q In other words he did not appear in the Delaware County hearings?

A He did not. I was only at one hearing, only in the hearing on the after-discovered evidence. I was not the trial judge.

Q Do you of your own knowledge have any information whether Mr. Trescher ever raised the question of undo influence, or whatever it was, on the judge and jury by the conditions?

A I would be unable to answer that because I was not present at the actual trial on the merits. As I said before, I merely sat as the hearing judge on the hearing in the after-discovered evidence.

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, what I think is important here is what does the Pardons Board have before it in the way of argument by counsel or what the Pardons Board had before it in way of confidential information or evidence which led them to make their decision. Senator Yosko suggested a few minutes ago that the file be put in evidence and I think we ought to do that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think also that that should go into the record.

I would like to stop at this point, but I would like very much, upon the completion of this witness's testimony, to recess this hearing until Monday morning.

I wonder if maybe that record is not something which is in the possession of the Pardons Board that could be furnished to us by them on Monday morning?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Is there anyway the Board can hear Mr. Trescher today? I do not want to prevail too hard but he is a private practicing lawye and he has been here two days?

MR. KOHN. Well, Mr. Hughes wants to be heard, too.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, we will have a couple others. I want to try to accommodate everybody but stil at the same time we cannot accommodate them at the expense of some other matters which we must attend to

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE. I think we are finished with Judge Toal.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Do any members of the committee have any questions of Judge Toal?

(No response.)

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will now recess these hearings until ten-thirty next Monday morning at the same place.

(At 3:10 p. m. the hearings adjourned until ten-thirty Monday, March 4, 1957.)

I hereby certify that the proceedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee to Conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and this is a correct transcript of the same.

COMMITTEE'S WITNESS DIRECT CROSS REDIRECT RECROSS

Frank R. Hean (Recalled)

BEFORE JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE TO CONDUCT AN INVESTIGATION OF THE BOARD OF PARDONS, PURSUANT TO HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 1, PRINTER'S No. 8.

Stenographic report of hearing held in Senate Caucus Room, Main Capital Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, at 10:45 a. m., Monday, March 4, 1957.

PRESENT:

REPRESENTATIVE EDWIN W. TOMPKINS, Chairman.

REPRESENTATIVE CLARENCE D. BELL.

REPRESENTATIVE PHILIP LOPRESTI.

SENATOR ROBERT D. FLEMING.

SENATOR WILLIAM Z. SCOTT.

SENATOR JOSEPH J. YOSKO.
Members of Committee.

APPEARANCES:

THOMAS D. McBRIDE, ESQUIRE, Attorney General, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.
For—Board of Pardons.

DAVID S KOHN, ESQUIRE, 9 N. Front Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.
For—Committee.

JAMES WILLIAM EVANS, ESQUIRE, 5 N. Front Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. For—Committee (Assisting Counsel).

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The hearing will come to order.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, may I make a statement?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You may.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: At the hearing last week Mr. Hughes, an assistant District Attorney from Delaware County, was here and testified to the effect that a transcript taken before the Board of Pardons in January 1956 was incomplete in that it did not contain certain important statements that he said were made by Mr. Finnegan.

Mr. Hughes also said that Judge Toal was the trial judge in that riot case. He also said that there was a riot since in connection with the Westinghouse case.

Now when Mr. Hughes came up to testify, the ground rules as I understood them were that following questions by committee counsel, by each member of the committee, that I would then cross-examine witnesses. When the next day, Thursday, came and Mr. Hughes had not completed his testimony, Judge Bretherick and Judge Toal testified. All of us, of course, considered that to be entirely in order that his testimony be interrupted to yield to two judges from his county but it was understood that he would come back and that he would testify on cross-examination.

Now I have been informed that Mr. Hughes, having testified, will not be back for cross-examination now as we had expected and I submit, Mr. Chairman, that this is a matter of great moment and if that is so it is most unfair because Mr. Hughes testified that at the January hearing the transcript was incomplete; that Mr. Finnegan had made statements at that hearing and the Board was led to believe that in some way the Board or the secretary taking the transcription had not done the duty required by law.

Now the plain fact, Mr. Chairman, is that Mr. Finnegan was not only not at that Board, Mr. Chairman—

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Is this a matter that we have gone into on testimony? What I mean is I would prefer to have Mr. Finnegan testify than the Attorney General state what he would testify.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I want to cross-examine the witness, Mr. Chairman.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: May I ask a question on this, Mr. Chairman? Is Mr. Hughes going to come back to testify?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He will not be here this morning. In the future if the Attorney General feels aggrieved by it, certainly the committee should resolve that issue and give you an appropriate statement, General. You are entitled to it I would say.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, you told me before the committee sat, before you just called the meeting to order, that Mr. Hughes was not coming back.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He is not here today.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, you just said he is not coming back. You did not say today. Now we want to meet this issue head-on and it seems to me I think all the members of the committee would agree that when a man gives testimony, he should not be permitted to go until all have questioned him.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I think there is some misunderstanding here. As Mr. McBride recalls, it was the the objection raised by himself that led to the recess being called on the hearing on Wednesday I believe. Now I would like our counsel, Mr. Kohn, to state whether or not he is through with Mr. Hughes' testimony.

MR. KOHN: I think we will bring Mr. Hughes back as I explained to you before.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do not think that settles it at all but I will have to be content with it because I arose because I understood that Mr. Hughes was not being brought back and certainly in the interest of order, Mr. Hughes would come back here today and we would finish with Delaware County.

The committee knows that Mr. Trescher has been here. The committee knows that Mr. Smith's letter has been offered in evidence before. The committee has said that Mr. Smith would be here. Is Mr. Smith here, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We did not say that Mr. Smith would be here this morning. He had directions that he would be brought in but I did not say when.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Tompkins, was the Assistant District Attorney of Delaware County subpoenaed to come here?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The subpoena was handed to him, yes sir.

SENATOR YOSKO: And has he been released from that subpoena?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: From attendance at today's session.

SENATOR YOSKO: But not for the future?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Oh no, no.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Can we do that in view of the fact that when a man is under subpoena and the other side does not know that he is being released, does not know when he is coming back? It is not usual to do that, I must say.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, we will fix a time for him to come back. If the committee did not specifically tell him to come back today, then it is the committee's fault that he is not here and I would not say that it is Mr. Hughes' fault.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I do not think it is anybody's fault on the committee. I think this committee has its power to decide who they are going to call and when they are going to call.

SENATOR YOSKO: Now, Mr. Bell, the committee did not need to decide who was going to be called and who was not going to be called, so that it might be a good idea since the question was raised that the committee meet and decide who we are going to call and when we are going to call them so that all of us would be able to arrange our time and at the same time give those who are going to be called sufficient notice to be here.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I might say, Mr. Chairman, it was my impression that this morning we were going to devote a few minutes, fifteen or twenty minutes or a half hour to Delaware and finish it up. That was my understanding when I left here on Thursday. We were going to finish Delaware this morning and then go to something else.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well that was the general idea but our Counsel has developed the case in chief in a manner that it is not appropriate to proceed further with Delaware County cases this morning but it will be completed before these hearings are finished, and all matters which have been raised by the Attorney General will be thoroughly covered before the testimony and these hearing are completed.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Tompkins, while on the Delaware County cases I now make a request of the Attorney General to produce and put into evidence the letter of Mayor Clark in regard to the Smith matter which was not presented. I mean the Attorney General presented a letter that Smith wrote to Mr. Finnegan and I think the accompanying letter from Mayor Clark should also accompany that to be put in the record and when we take up those cases I will expect to have those present.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, at this time I have never seen any letter from Mayor Clark. I do not understand that any letter from Mayor Clark accompanied Mr. Smith's letter.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Smith's letter says that he is sending a letter to Mayor Clark accompanying that, introducing him to Mr. Finnegan.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Read it and tell me what part of it says that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: By the way, is that letter available for the record now, General?

MR. KOHN: Yes it is, sir.

I am referring to this letter which says as follows.

(Off the record at the instruction of Mr. Kohn).

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I would like to have that in the record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, that is what I recall that it said also, but you see that letter from Mayor Clark, if it existed, did not accompany this letter of Mr. Smith's. Now I will ask Mr. Finnegan if he has such a letter and if he has such a letter, I shall be delighted to produce it.

MR. KOHN. Thank you, Mr. McBride.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Now, we had a couple photostats made. Shall I hand the original back to the secretary?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Give it to the court reporter there.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Hean, will you take the stand, please?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, before we proceed any further I think Mr. Trescher is here this morning and he has been here for the last two days sitting patiently to discuss Delaware matters, and I think before we get off of them we should give him an opportunity if he wishes to testify before this committee.

He has been here on three different days and is here again this morning.

MR. KOHN: We have not subpoenaed Mr. Trescher and I am not through with the Board's case in chief. I should like to call some other witnesses on that Delaware matter before Mr. Trescher should be allowed to testify. That is the only reason I intend to—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Everybody has known that Mr. Trescher was here. He is an independent practitioner. Why couldn't we hear him? However, if you are not going to do it—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well it might be a matter of convenience to Mr. Trescher but it is not a matter of convenience to our case in chief, and I do not believe that we should break up the processes of our case in chief for the purpose of letting the defendant testify out of order.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do not think we should stop our rules in the middle of the game either and we understood that we were going to finish with Delaware County before we went elsewhere.

Mr. Trescher, I assume you can go; I am very sorry.

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Chairman—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, Senator Scott.

SENATOR SCOTT: Was it your thought to continue with Delaware County this morning?

MR. KOHN. I am sorry if that misunderstanding existed. You see, Senator Scott, the position I find myself in is, of course, we can only have hearings about twice a week, about two to four hours. Most of the people that we are getting in here are, of course, people who are tied up in the courts and that is the reason Mr. Hughes could not be here. He was here and, of course, you know we suspended the hearings on Wednesday afternoon because of a question that came up before the committee. He would be here now and I am very, very sorry that you or anybody else got the idea because I specifically—

SENATOR SCOTT: My own personal opinion is if we are going to do anything on Delaware County this morning, then Mr. Trescher should be allowed to testify but if we are forgetting about Delaware County this morning, then he will just have to take—

MR. KOHN: I will notify both the Board hereafter and Mr. McBride when we are going to continue.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman and Mr. Kohn, it was my understanding when we adjourned here on Thursday that we would continue with the Delaware County cases this morning, complete them to the extent that we could and then go into another case. That was my understanding. I have not read the record but I repeat that was my understanding, and if that is what it was and Mr. Trescher came here this morning with that understanding, then I think we ought to hear him and dismiss him so that he can go back to his law practice instead of hanging around here.

MR. KOHN: I did not ask him to come here. He was not subpoenaed and I say to you now I feel that I have other—

SENATOR YOSKO: When you say he was not asked to come here, you were notified and the committee was notified that he was here and we understood that if there was testimony on the one side of the question, we would hear the other side, too, and that is why Mr. Trescher is here and I think that point was stressed and made clear to us by the Attorney General.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Senator Yosko, we are not trying to deny Mr. Trescher his right to testify but we do say at this point we do not think his testimony is appropriate until other groundwork is laid in connection with his defense statements and it is unfortunate that our limited time to hold hearings and so forth is such that we find ourselves jammed up in these situations at times. Believe me, it was no design of any kind that it took place. It is one of those things that will happen in a legislative investigation that you have been on and I have been on. You know those things will happen and I feel that this committee is charged with looking into the actions of the Pardons Board and that we want to present our case in chief, and then whatever defense shall come in we certainly want to give them an opportunity to be heard. We do not want to deny anybody that opportunity as long as it relates to matters over which our inquiry is directed.

SENATOR YOSKO: Do I understand from you then, Mr. Chairman, that there are other witnesses that will testify in addition to those that we heard involving the Delaware County cases?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: There are, sir.

SENATOR SCOTT: May I suggest, Mr. Chairman, that in the future when we get on a particular case, that we hear everything in connection with that case before we even think about going on with something else?

MR. KOHN: I would like to say something about, Senator Scott, our position on that. I will do anything the committee wants. We have taken a great deal of time to bring witnesses here who are important to the functions of the courts of this Commonwealth. I designate certain days and then we are not finished with them and, of course, I have to plan my work. Of course, if you want a hearing on Monday, I have to plan my work now. Now the District Attorney of Erie County has come down here today and, of course, he has to allocate his work and, of course, I planned this ahead of time. You cannot call up those people and say, "Now you just wait until Wednesday or Thursday," or something like that and this is the reason it happened. With your limited time, I am in a spot but whatever you say I will do but we are going to have that difficulty as we go along.

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes, but, Mr. Kohn, may I suggest that in the future you do not schedule other cases before we complete one that has been started and then we will not run into this difficulty here?

MR. KOHN: That is easy for you to say but if you would try to get these witnesses here from the different points of the Commonwealth and try to set the time and the date for people who are tied up with the courts in our Commonwealth, you would have the same difficulty I do. It is not that I do not want to cooperate with you, it is the fact that I find myself in the situation where the committee only—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well, we will resolve these issues at an executive meeting after the hearing today. I think we should get started because we only have a short time left in which to proceed. I think the issues are properly raised and they will be disposed of.

MR. KOHN: Frank Hean, please.

FRANK R. HEAN, Recalled on
FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, are you familiar with the case of Commonwealth against John J. Martin, Application A3103, June Sessions, 1955?

A I have the record here before me, Mr. Kohn.

Q And Martin was one of the defendants in the bribery case in Erie, was he not?

A That is correct.

Q What was the connection of Schwartz in those cases?

A I can only say from the record that he was one of those indicted and tried.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Who was?

A Mr. Schwartz, Stanley Schwartz.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I am talking about all the bribery cases in Erie, and what was Flatley's connection with the case?

A He was one of those persons indicted in the so-called Erie bribery case.

Q Do you know what Flatley's political connections were?

A I was informed that at the time of his indictment he was mayor of the city of Erie.

Q What does the record show? It shows that he was elected as the Democratic mayor of the city of Erie, does it not?

A I would not say that until I would look at the record.

Q You read his record.

A "At the November election, 1951, I was elected Mayor of the City of Erie." That is what it says here.

Q Do you know as a fact that he was the Democratic nominee and mayor of Erie?

A It has been so reported to me that he was.

Q Now what do you know about Stanley Schwartz who was also involved in those cases? What was his position in regard to whether or not he was a State Committeeman and Campaign Manager for the Democratic Party during the year 1954?

A All I know is what he set forth at that time in his application.

Q Does he set that forth in his application?

A I do not have the application before me. May I look at it?

His application sets forth that:

"During the year 1954 I was acting as a State Committeeman and City Campaign Manager for the Democratic Party,"—shall I continue reading?

Q Yes, go ahead.

A "And in this capacity I was endeavoring to raise funds to carry on the political activities of the Party."

Q Go ahead, finish it.

A "In order to achieve such purpose there was a meeting held between the Mayor of the City of Erie, Thomas W. Flatley, whose political campaign I had managed, Police Inspector Jack Martin, and Henry Soscia, who was the Democratic Party Treasurer, and myself, at which time it was decided to obtain contributions, among others from men engaged in gambling activities."

Q Is that all?

A Oh no, do you want me to read the whole paragraph?

Q Yes.

A "This meeting took place during the early part of 1954 and I began to collect money from John McCarthy, who was the owner of a cigar store located on the corner of 7th and State Streets, and from Arthur Damore, whose place of business is located on East Avenue. The money collected from these individuals was turned over to the Inspector Jack Martin, whom in turn, deducted each month the sum of $250.00, which he gave to Henry Soscia, dividing the balance between himself, the Mayor, and me. I used the amount thus received exclusively for political activities. At no time did I ask the Mayor or Jack Martin to extend any police protection to the men from whom I was collecting money."

Q Now will you read Flatley's application statement?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What was that you read?

MR. KOHN: That is the statement under Question "15. (a) State briefly details of crime" as stated in the application for commutation.

SENATOR SCOTT: Whose commutation?

MR. KOHN: That is Stanley Schwartz.

SENATOR SCOTT: What was the charge there? What was he found guilty of?

MR. KOHN: He was found guilty of bribery.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now will you read the statement of Thomas Flatley, Question 15 in his application for commutation, please?

SENATOR SCOTT: What was he charged with?

MR. KOHN: Charge, bribery.

SENATOR SCOTT: Was he found guilty?

MR. KOHN: Plead guilty, violation of oath of office and I think conspiracy.

SENATOR YOSKO: What is his name?

MR. KOHN. Thomas W. Flatley.

SENATOR SCOTT: Bribery and conspiracy.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Will you read paragraph 15 of his application?

A Reading paragraph 15. (a) from the application of Thomas W. Flatley for clemency:

"At the November election, 1951, I was elected Mayor of the City of Erie. During my entire campaign, Stanley Schwartz, who had been active in politics on East side of Erie, was extremenly active in my campaign. After I took office in January 1952, Stanley Schwartz, continued to help me and advise me on numerous political matters. Shortly after taking office Stanley Schwartz suggested that I could receive some money in addition to my regular salary. I do not recall whether or not the source of this money was mentioned, but I understood that it was to come from the gambling element of the city. I at first refused to have any part in a transaction of this type. However, over a period of time, Stanley Schwartz continued to suggest this matter to me. He stated that everyone who had been in City Hall in the past had done the same thing. He stated there was really nothing wrong with it, and it cost a lot of money to be Mayor.

"I continued to refuse to have any part of this for a period one and one-half years. However, during the early part of 1953 my wife became ill with cancer and was sick for sometime, and finally died on June 19, 1953. The long illness had entailed considerable expense, bills had piled up and of course, I was heart broken over the loss of my wife. I finally gave in to Stanley's suggestion and began to accept some of the money from him. At first it amounted to $100.00 to $150.00 per month. Later it evidently became more organized and some months ran as high as $450.00. I never knew the exact source of these payments, but as I previously stated that I suspected they were coming from the gambling element. I was never asked to do anything for these payments nor refrain from doing anything.

"After about a year, in April of 1954, Jack J. Martin, the Inspector of Police, became a third member to this transaction, which continued up to my arrest on October 16, 1954."

Q Now do you know whether Flatley plead guilty?

A Let me look at the record. This will reveal that.

Q He plead guilty. Now in regard to Stanley Schwartz, he took an appeal to the Superior Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, did he not?

A According to the record here before me it would so appear.

Q Now it is obvious from the two paragraphs that you read that the statement says for what purposes the money was gotten with regard to Schwartz and Flatley. Flatley says he took it for his own money because his wife was sick and Schwartz says he took it for political purposes, is that correct?

A That is the statement I read.

Q Did the Board consider those factors when they gave a commutation, both of them at the same time?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, may I say that from what has been read it seems to me that Mr. Schwartz said that he, Mr. Schwartz, used it for political purposes. Mr. Flatley says he used it for personal purposes. Now I understand that Mr. Kohn's question indicates that there is a disagreement between Mr. Schwartz and Mayor Flatley as to how Mr. Flatley used it.

I do not see that disagreement and I think it ought to be pointed out.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: If the witness knows, I think he should answer the question.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, under those circumstances I would ask that the statement of Mr. Schwartz be read over again because I so understood it that Mr. Schwartz is speaking in so far as he, himself is concerned. He had not used any of it. He did not say that Flatley or anybody else did not use them personally, so there is a conflict between the two as our Counsel has suggested .

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Will the reporter read the question of Counsel again?

(Reporter compiled).

SENATOR YOSKO: What is he trying to prove?

MR. KOHN: That they were inconsistent, the statements, and even though they were inconsistent the Board gave them both pardons but they were not consistent. That is the point.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What we are asking is whether or not the Board took these two persons' statements in consideration at the time of the decision.

A They were not heard together, Mr. Chairman, at the same time.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Kohn and Mr Chairman, my only point is this. Whether or not you are talking about a conflict about what Flatley used his money for, Schwartz was talking about what Schwartz used his money for, and Flatley was talking about what Flatley used his money for.

SENATOR SCOTT: Very frankly, Mr. Chairman, I am confused on this and probably it is my own fault because I was not paying too much attention to the statements, so let him read them over again.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Will you read the Schwartz statement again, please?

Q I have the Schwartz statement here, is that correct?

A I am reading from his application for clemency, paragraph 15—

SENATOR YOSKO: Before you start to read, Mr. Kohn, will you explain to us, at least to me if the others are not interested, what do you propose to prove by these statements? I mean what is the point?

MR. KOHN: The groundwork and consideration by the Board.

SENATOR YOSKO: In granting the commutation?

MR. KOHN. Certainly.

THE WITNESS: Shall I continue?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Proceed.

THE WITNESS: To pick up the thought, I am reading from the application of Stanley M. Schwartz:

"During the year of 1954 I was acting as a State Committeeman and City Campaign Manager for the Democratic Party, and in this capacity I was endeavoring to raise funds to carry on the political activities of the Party. In order to achieve such purpose there was a meeting held between the Mayor of the City of Erie, Thomas W. Flatley, whose political campaign I had managed, Police Inspector Jack Martin and Henry Soscia,"—S-o-s-c-i-a—"who was the Democratic Party Treasurer, and myself, at which time it was decided to obtain contributions, among others, from men engaged in gambling activities. This meeting took place during the early part of 1954 and I began to collect money from Jack McCarthy"—correction—"John McCarthy, who was the owner of a cigar store located on the corner of 7th and State Streets and from Arthur Damore"—D-a-m-o-r-e—"whose place of business was located on East Avenue. the money collected from these individuals was turned over to Inspector Jack Martin, whom in turn, deducted each month the sum of $250.00, which he gave to Henry Soscia, dividing the balance between himself, the Mayor, and me. I used the amount thus received exclusively for political activities. At no time did I ask the Mayor or Jack Martin to extend any police protection to the men from whom I was collecting money."

Now shall I continue the second paragraph?

MR. KOHN: If the Board wants it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You might as well complete it.

THE WITNESS: "On the 16th day of October, 1954, I was arrested, together with the Mayor, Inspector Jack Martin, Henry Soscia, and about thirty-five other men, and charged with various charges of bribery and conspiracy, and I was tried on one specific indictment, a charge of bribery, for giving the sum of $580.00 to the Mayor of the City of Erie on the 15th day of August, 1954, when, as a matter of fact, I did not give any money to the Mayor, but I received money from the share of the collections turned over to Inspector Jack Martin."

That is the paragraph.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, can you tell the committee what session of the Pardons Board that application was heard?

A That was heard in February 1956; at that session, No. 75 on the February list.

Q And was action taken on that application?

A Yes.

Q Was there commutation?

A I will refer to my February of 1956—there was action taken, Mr. Chairman, on Stanley M. Schwartz; a vote of three "yes" commuting his sentence to one year from a year and one-half. The effective date of his sentence—this is when he went to prison—was August 8, 1955.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Was he found guilty or did he plead guilty?

A He plead not guilty and was so found by Erie County.

Q And was he convicted in Erie?

A Yes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Meaning he was found guilty.

MR. KOHN: He then took an appeal to the Superior Court of Pennsylvania.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Just a moment, Mr. Kohn, I want to get a couple of dates straightened out. Now at what session of the Board was the Flatley case heard?

A That was heard at the December meeting of the Board of Pardons of 1955. It was No. 135, September of 1955; No. 135 on the list.

Q And what action was taken on that?

A The Board extended clemency for one year from the effective date of imprisonment. His effective date was January 10, 1955.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q And the sentence was what?

A The sentence was one and one-half to three years.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q And he plead guilty in that case?

A He plead guilty.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q And it was commuted to what?

A It was commuted from one year. It was changed to eleven months, five days, expiring the fifteenth day of December 1955.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q When was that change made?

A I have nothing except the note that it was changed I do not have for my records the precise date when that was done.

Q The original date of consideration, it was commuted to one year, was it not?

A That is correct.

Q And then subsequently, without having the date thereon, you do not know when it was commuted to eleven months and five days?

A I only have the note there, as you observed.

Q Is there any record anywhere as to why and when it was commuted and by what vote?

A I could not give you but my general recollection and impression.

Q Are there any notes at all in the Pardons Board records as to why, and how it was changed to eleven months and five days?

A There are no notes to my knowledge.

Q Now will you please refer to Stanley Schwartz and see if whether the same thing did not happen there?

A I have no record showing that his clemency was changed. He was given clemency of one year; that is he was to serve a minimum sentence of one year, reducing his minimum from a year and one-half to one year.

Q Now I refer back to the cases that were heard at the time of Stanley Schwartz. Isn't it true that the same thing happened in those other cases, that they were reduced from one year to eleven months, five days. I know it happened in some of the other cases.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Martin, Dominic Adiutori, Ray Czulewicz.

THE WITNESS: It was No. 104, June Term, John Martin. I have it one year here.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Is this another case now?

MR. KOHN: This is John Martin. There are three cases in all.

SENATOR SCOTT: Well let's start with John Martin. What was he?

MR. KOHN: He was the police inspector.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's read his application and get the dates that it was before the Board and what action was taken.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I call your attention to the application of John J. Martin—this is No. A-3103, marked June Session of 1955—and ask you to read the paragraph 15 of his application.

A John J. Martin, No. 104, June Term 1955, paragraph 15 (a):

"I had been a member of the Police Department for the City of Erie for approximately 16 years at the time of my arrest on October 16, 1954. I had received my appointment to the Department in 1938. In 1945, I was promoted to the rank of Sergeant, and in 1951 was appointed Inspector of Police.

"On April 19, 1954, I was called to the office of the Mayor of the City of Erie, Thomas Flatley. Present in his office at that time was Stanley Schwartz, a salesman for the Stanley Bros. Furniture Company and a politician particularly influential on the East side of the City of Erie. I was told by Mayor Flatley to see certain persons each month. These persons mentioned were known to me as gamblers. I do not recall the extent of the conversation, but the understanding was that I was to collect money from them and turn it over to the Mayor. Following this conversation, I did as I was directed and the money was equally divided in the Mayors office between the Mayor, Stanley Schwartz and myself. My one-third share was slightly under $500.00 per month.

I continued to do this until my arrest on October 16, 1954.

"Immediately following my arrest I made a full confession comprising 26 typewritten pages. I cooperated fully with the District Attorney's office. I also testified for the Commonwealth at the preliminary hearings, before the Grand Jury and the two trials of Stanley Schwartz. The last of the Schwartz trials, was approximately one month after my sentence."

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Now what was Martin convicted of?
A According to the record, bribery and conspiracy.
Q Did he plead guilty or was there a jury trial?
A He plead guilty.
Q And what was his sentence?
A His sentence was one to two years in the Erie County Jail.
Q And what disposition did the Pardons Board make of his application?

MR. KOHN: May I suggest that you give how many times he applied and what happened each time.

THE WITNESS: John J. Martin applied—according to the record I have—applied for a hearing and was heard in June 1955.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q And what disposition did the Pardons Board make of that application?
A Then as I recall the original thought was no; was reconsidered in October of 1955.
Q When you say the original thought, sir, do you mean there was an actual denial of any commutation of sentence there?
A It was not a continuance. Do not accuse me of being evasive but the consideration of it was neither a refusal flatly or a continuance or a held under advisement. I marked it as for "no." I think you have it there, too.
Q Will this refresh your recollection?
A It was refused in a sense, but the Board has the power to reconsider it, and which they did, and reconsidered it in October 1955, several months later.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Without a new application?
A Without a new application.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q You mean they automatically reconsidered it?
A They automatically reconsidered it, yes.
Q There is procedure for that, is there?
A The Board has the power to make its decisions as they see fit, as I understand. There is no rule.
Q Was there official notification given of the first rejection of it or was it held in the process of delay until the October term?
A Subject to correction, which my files would show, there was a notice sent out to the attorney representing Mr. Martin following the June meeting and that his petition had been refused.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Was there any notice given to the district attorney or the judge?
A The district attorney would get notice likewise but not the judge.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Then you say there is a procedure where the Pardons Board can then re-evaluate the situation without a new application being filed. Is that correct?
A That is within their power, yes sir.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Is that contained within a written rule?
A No, but they have the power, being an independent Constitutional body.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Do they do that very often?
A Not very often.
Q That procedure was not outlined heretofore, was it?
A No, it was not.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now isn't it true that this matter came before the Pardons Board three times according to your records?
A Offhand, but I would have to consult the records. You went through them. I would take your word for it, Dave.
Q There was no original application which was refused.
A That is correct.

SENATOR SCOTT: Was that the June 1955 one?

MR. KOHN: That is right. Then the petition for a rehearing was circulated on October 4, 1955 and unanimously refused.

SENATOR SCOTT: There is another procedure which I do not quite understand. When you say the petition for a rehearing was circulated, who initiated and who circulated that petition?

MR. KOHN: The petition, if I may speak for Mr. Hean, was circulated among the Board of Pardons on a statement stating that a petition for rehearing had been filed.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Is that correct, Mr. Hean?
A That is correct. I just got the memorandum out of the folder which I did not have.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q And that petition for a rehearing was circulated on October 4, 1955 and was unanimously refused, is that correct?
A Not according to this record.
Q What does your record show on that petition for the first rehearing?
A "Petitioner through the attached letter requests a reconsideration of the application heard at the June 1955 Session." This is marked October 25.
Q I am talking about October 4.
A The request for the rehearing was circulated in October 1955 and unanimously refused October 4, 1955.
Q In other words, let's get this thing straight. This, Mr. Hean, is an intercommuncation between yourself and the Pardons Board, dated October 4, but there had been a petition circulated and refused?

A That is right.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Now who initiated that petition?

A You mean the request?

Q Request for something that was circulated among the members of the Board. It has to originate somewhere.

A It originated upon request of Edward H. Carney, Esquire, who represented Mr. Martin.

Q Request to who?

A It was directed to me; that is "Board of Pardons, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Attention: Mr. Frank Hean."

Q Did that petition contain new matter for the consideration of the original application? Where is that application?

A This is the letter. This is the only thing we have.

Q In other words, there was no formal petition filed, was there, a formal petition?

A Letter.

Q There was a letter to you, asking you to take up with the Board—you correct me if I am wrong—asking you to take up with the Board the possibility of the Board rehearing this particular application, is that correct?

A That is correct.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Has it been the practice of the Board to require the filing of new matter by petition or can it be done just by a letter?

A By letter, an informal presentation.

Q And who decides whether it is to be done by petition alleging new matter or just by letter?

A Well the Board has the right but if you will read the letter from Mr. Carney, he cited four reasons why he felt that this petition of Mr. Martin should be reconsidered.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think we ought to hear those four reasons.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, let us hear the letter.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q On this letter of October 6, which is directed to you, Mr. Carney says that he took this matter up with both "you and Lieutenant Governor Furman. As you will recall, at that time I was advised to submit the matter in letter form," is that correct?

A That refreshes my memory, but I would grant that what he said was the truth.

SENATOR YOSKO: Why don't you read the letter that you received from the attorney for Mr. Martin?

MR. KOHN: I would be glad to read it if you would like to have it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We would like to have all these communications.

SENATOR YOSKO: You are talking about a letter but nobody knows what is in it.

MR. KOHN: I will read it, if it is satisfactory.

This is a letter dated October 6, 1955, from Carney and Carney, Attorneys, Masonic Temple, Erie, Pennsylvania

SENATOR SCOTT: Now wait a minute, Mr. Kohn. I have a note here "October 4, 1955."

MR. KOHN. That was the day this memorandum was circulated.

SENATOR SCOTT: The memorandum for the rehearing was circulated on the 4th. I think that is the date.

MR. KOHN: That is the thing I thought you would catch.

This memorandum dated October 25, 1955 states that "A request for rehearing was circulated on October 4, 1955, and unanimously refused."

I would like to find that original circulation of that petition which was refused. I could not find it in the record. Do you have it, Mr. Hean?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well Mr. Kohn, suppose we hear the letters and we will know what went on.

SENATOR YOSKO: Let us get the basis for the circulation of the petition. I mean for the circulation of the petition for reconsideration and that would be containted in the letter that Mr. Hean received from the attorney for the applicant. Let us get that first.

MR. KOHN: The first thing we ought to get is the petition for rehearing, which I cannot find in the record, which refused that petition, because this letter that is dated October 6 and that memorandum is the only thing I could find which was submitted for reconsideration after the original application was refused and that reconsideration was dated October 4.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, if the facts are presented here in their proper sequence and whatever is documented there is read, we will be able to understand the situation. There is too much Mumbo Jumbo here and you just cannot get it.

SENATOR SCOTT: If there was a letter of October 6th, let us hear that letter.

THE WITNESS: I do not have that letter but I have the memorandum that the request was refused on October 14th, we got a letter.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Where is the October 4 stuff, Mr. Hean?

A I do not know where it is.

Q What was that? What was that October 4 stuff?

A That was supposed to be a letter from Mr. Carney requesting a rehearing of the Martin case and it was refused.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Arent' you sure what happened was that Mr. Carney was in here about October 4 and talked to you and the Lieutenant Governor about it, and you immediately circulated a petition for a rehearing and he followed it up with a letter of October 6 which I now have? Isn't that what happened?

A I do not recall that to be a fact.

Q There is nothing in the—

A Could I read this letter which explains why they reconsidered it after turning it down on October 4; they turn around on October 25 and reconsider it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let us not jump all over the lot. Read the October 6 letter then if you have it.

THE WITNESS: All right, this is the October 6 letter:

"Carney and Carney, Erie, October 6, 1955." Directed to the "Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Attention: Frank R. Hean.

"Dear Mr. Hean:

"On September 24, 1955, when I was in Harrisburg, I discussed the matter of the resubmission of the Petition for commutation of John J. Martin, both with you and Lt. Gov. Furman. As you will recall, at that time I was advised to submit the matter in letter form.

"As you know, at the time of his arrest on October 16, 1954 for conspiracy and accepting a bribe, Mr. Martin was Inspector of Police in Erie, Pennsylvania. Immediately following his arrest, Mr. Martin made a complete confession and from that point on cooperated to the fullest extent with the office of the District Attorney of Erie, Pennsylvania. He testified at the preliminary hearings, before the Grand Jury and at the two trials of the Defendant, Stanley Schwartz. Subsequently, Mr. Martin pleaded guilty and was sentenced by President Judge Elmer L. Evans from one to two years in the Erie County Prison. He began that sentence on January 6, 1955. His institutional record has been excellent, as indicated by letter in your file from Jay Sherman, Warden of the prison. In May of 1955, a petition was presented on behalf of John J. Martin to your Honorable Board, and I appeared before the Board on June 24, 1955. The petition for Commutation of Martin's sentence was refused by your Honorable Board early in August.

"In asking for reconsideration of Martin's petition, I am asking the Board to commute the sentence only to the extent that he can be home with his wife and children for Christmas. Mrs. Martin, on June 24, 1955, underwent serious surgery and is now in the process of recuperation. Having her husband home with her and the children would aid considerably in her recovery.

"I am asking the Board to reconsider Mr. Martins' application for the following reasons:

"1. In discussing the matter of Martin's incarceration with President Judge Elmer L. Evans, the sentencing Judge, Judge Evans told me that he would in no way oppose the commutation of Martin's sentence as requested; that he believed from his observation of Martin during his incarceration in the Erie County Prison that Martin had been completely rehabilitated. Further, that he believed John J. Martin since his arrest had done everything within his power to make amends for his crime. Judge Evans advised me that I was at liberty to communicate his view on this matter to the Board, and that if he were contacted by a representative of the Pardon Board he would tell them the same thing.

"2. That a number of the other Defendants in the so called bribery case have had their sentence commuted.

"3. That three Defendants, who were sentenced from 11½ to 23 months to the Erie County Prison were released in July of this year after serving a little more than six months.

"4. That two defendants were only recently sentenced, received a sentence of 4½ months to one year.

"Therefore, Mr. Hean, I am asking that the Board reconsider the Petition of John J. Martin, either on the basis of this letter or if necessary a rehearing. I believe the attitude of the sentencing judge and his appraisal of the rehabilitation of the prisoner entitles him to some consideration. I am asking only that the sentence be commuted so that he can spend Christmas with his family, as his minimum sentence expires January 6, 1956, this would mean commutation of approximately one month.

"Thanking you, I remain

"Edward H. Carney"

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q What is the date of that letter, sir?

A The date of his letter is October 6, 1955.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q When was he actually released from prison?

A The precise date, I do not know. I can give you the date when his sentence was effective.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Let's see that pack of communcations. the whole thing he has in his hand.

A I would like to read the letter from Judge Evans backing up this statement.

Q Are there any communications prior to October 6?

A I have no record of it, Mr. Tompkins.

Q Did you write to Carney?

A Not to my recollection, unless it is in the file. I would have—I would have no recollection of it, Mr. Tompkins.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Is the letter from the judge you just mentioned related to John J. Martin?

A Yes sir.

Q And it is related to that letter from the attorney for reconsideration?

A Yes sir.

Q Well, will you read that?

A "Judges' Chambers

"Sixth Judicial District of Pennsylvania

"Elmer L. Evans, President Judge"

Board of Pardons—he addressed it to the "Board of Parole." It should be Board of Pardons.

"Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

"Harrisburg

"Gentlemen:

"A short time ago Attorney Edward H. Carney spoke to me about my attitude with respect to Police Inspector Jack Martin's application for release prior to the expiration of his minimum sentence on January 8, 1956. Martin was one of the collectors and participants in the bribery operation going on in this city and most culpable in that respect. After fifteen minutes of questioning, however, he admitted his full part and was very instrumental as a witness in clearing up the entire matter. For that reason we extended leniency to the extent of permiting him to serve at Erie County Jail and for a six months shorter period on his minimum sentence.

"He is the only one of those convicted who seems to show any remorse with respect to any phase of the matter except being caught and has behaved well.

"If you contemplated releasing him at the expiration of his minimum period, January 8th, I would see no reason for refusal to allow two weeks further reduction in order that he might be home for Christmas.

"Very truly yours,

"Elmer L. Evans"

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q All right, are there any other letters for or against the commutation of his sentence?

A I would have to look over the file, Senator, to answer that.

MR. KOHN: Here is all of them. That is his original letter, the original letter of the Judge on the May application for June hearing. Do you want that read?

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q What was the date of that last letter that you read?

A October 14, 1955.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What happened as a result of those two letters?

A What did you say, sir?

Q What happened as a result of those two letters?

A It was reconsidered and he was recommended for a commutation before he had spent the complete one year and one-half.

Q Now, Mr. Hean, I want to clear up something in my own mind here and perhaps for the other members of the committee. In the case we had before us the other day, a new application had been filed and you advised the attorney for the applicant that a rehearing should be in order and a formal application for a rehearing was filed. Now do you or do you not require formal applications for rehearings and reconsiderations?

A You mean a formal application? Talking of this, this is what we call a formal application.

Q I was not talking about that application. I am talking about applications for rehearing and reconsideration.

A Applications for a rehearing are informal in the sense it is a letter written by the attorney or the applicant himself, requesting that his application be reheard or reconsidered by the Board.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I mean the McSorley case. Didnt' they file a formal application for a rehearing?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: He sent it back, Mr. Chairman. He sent it back to him, if you recall.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Not for the rehearing, no. He sent the original application back, but not the application for a rehearing.

THE WITNESS: That was an informal petition.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, are you familiar with RULE VI (e) of your own Board which reads under "Rehearing Cases:

"In hearing applications the forms with the exceptions of Questions 1, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, and 23 must be substantial copies of original application."

A That is where they formally put in this sort of a paper.

Q Does this not apply to all rehearings?

A No, sir, the rehearing that you have reference to is if in, we will say, September of 1956 Thomas W. Flatley had filed again, he would use substantially the material as outlined in the Rule.

Q In order words, you have two types of rehearings?

A We have.

Q Who determines into which category an applicant falls?

A The question of determining is the year interval.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is what?

THE WITNESS: The year interval.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q In other words, if you file before the year is out, you get a different treatment than if you follow the Rules?

A That is right, but there is one exception, Mr. Bell. When he files one year after, he automatically is entitled to it without any ruling by the Board. If he files prior to the year before it has elapsed, the Board then must pass on whether or not they will hear it.

Q All right, in this case who ordered that the rehearing rules be waived?

A Well, it was not exactly waived, but they granted a petition for hearing prior to one year.

Q Who is they?

A The Board of Pardons.

Q Who on the Board of Pardons?

A The four members.

Q Now, Mr. Hean, following the refreshing of your memory with this file, earlier do you recall a question asked by our Counsel concerning whether or not all this procedure in this present case, the Martin case, followed a conversation held between Mr. Carney, the attorney, the Lieutenant Governor and yourself? Do you remember that question?

A I remember the question.

Q Now do you, at this time, deny that on October 4 there was such a conversation?

A I have no recollection of attending any conversation with the Lieutenant Governor in the presence of Mr. Carney.

Q But you do not deny that it could have taken place.

A It could have happened.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Will you read to the Board the interdepartmental letter sent by you requesting the Board of Pardons to vote on a rehearing? Give us the date and contents thereof.

A On October 25, 1955 there was circulated among the members of the Board a request for a rehearing in the matter of John J. Martin.

Q All right, let's stop there just a minute. What brought on that request for another rehearing? Is there anything in the files which—

A I have nothing in the files that I recall.

Q In other words, there was not any request for a rehearing?

A There was a request here which I read.

Q That was dated October 6.

A Yes sir.

Q It was refused on October 4 according to your interdepartmental letter.

A Well, it could not have been refused on October 4 when the request was made October 6.

Q Read the memorandum.

A "A request for rehearing was circulated on October 4." That I do not have in the file. Where it got to, I do not know, Mr. Kohn.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Is there anything in the file—I think I asked you this before—to subtsantiate the circulating of that petition of October 4?

A There is nothing in the file, no.

Q I mean a request by anybody that such a—

A There probably was, and it is not in the file. Where it got to, I do not know but it was refused.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q It was refused on October 4 and he in his letter says that he is now herewith submitting a letter for a rehearing as per conversation with you and Lieutenant Governor Furman. That must have taken place before the date of October 6.

A It probably could have.

Q So the Board was considering the petition as to whether or not to grant a rehearing previous to the letter?

A I do not know whether I am misinterpreting my position as a witness to get into a discussion with Mr. Kohn. However, the petition for a rehearing, dated October 25, was backed up by a letter from Mr. Carney and a letter from President Judge Elmer L. Evans, the sentencing judge.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, do I understand that what you are trying to prove here is irregular procedure?

MR. KOHN: I am only trying to prove the facts as they happen, Senator Yosko.

SENATOR YOSKO: I know, but the facts have got to prove something.

MR. KOHN: Well, the facts prove that there was a conversation according to the statements in the file between the attorney for the applicant, Lieutenant Governor Furman and Mr. Hean in which they advised him to file a letter asking for a rehearing.

The facts also show that on October 4, 1955, the Board had considered the application for a rehearing for which there is no basis according to the files, and had refused it. Now that is what the facts show.

THE WITNESS: Then the Board reconsidered it, based on a formal letter from Mr. Carney, backed up by a request from the President Judge, the sentencing judge of Mr. Martin, and then we granted it. I have the note here.

SENATOR YOSKO: What you are trying to prove is that they took some sort of action without an application being filed?

MR. KOHN: I am only putting in the record as to what the record shows. You will have to decide how it came about, because there is no proof as to how that second rehearing came about.

SENATOR YOSKO: Then I go back to what I said before. Are you trying to prove irregularity in procedure?

MR. KOHN: According to Mr. Hean, there is no regularity in procedure, so I cannot prove any regularity or irregularity. He says we can take it up when we want to or any way we want to and that is what we did.

SENATOR YOSKO: What is the point that you are trying to get across?

MR. KOHN: How the rehearing came about and what the results of it were.

THE WITNESS: I think this is how the rehearing came about and I have the documentary evidence. I do not have the refusal of October 4.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well now the question that is in my mind, I do not know whether I am anticipating our Counsel. I think maybe our committee here might be confusing the program of our Counsel. I think maybe we ought to let him proceed to try and develop what he has in mind and then we will ask questions afterward.

MR. KOHN: I would appreciate that because really it does throw you off from what you want to do.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, I would prefer that kind of procedure, too, if you would present the facts in their proper sequence and start with one case and finish it and then go on with the next. There are three cases involved here and as I said before, we are jumping around from one to the other and it makes Mumbo Jumbo testimony here.

MR. KOHN: Maybe you should recognize, Senator Yosko, that these three cases are all intermingled here. They are all conspirators in this thing.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well maybe they are, but you can certainly take each one, treat each one separately.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think, Mr. Chairman, that what has been brought out here is that there are three cases, Flatley and Martin, and now he is concentrating on the Martin one. I think that is perfectly O.K. but now go ahead on the Martin one. Let's bring that out.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Previous to this time had Judge Evans written another letter on the original application in which he recommended Martin?

A I would have to look at the file, Mr. Kohn. Yes, I have a photostatic copy here of a letter which was addressed to the Board by Elmer L. Evans, President Judge of the Sixth District, dated May 27, 1955. That was prior to the hearing in June of 1955. Shall I read the entire letter?

Q Whatever the Board wants. I just asked whether or not the judge recommended commutation for Martin at that time.

A I have a marked phrase here if the Board would care to hear it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Give us the information from it.

THE WITNESS: May I read the third paragraph?

SENATOR YOSKO: Read the whole letter.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Read the whole letter, the date of it, who from and to whom.

THE WITNESS: May 27, 1955 from President Judge Elmer L. Evans.

"Re: John J. Martin and Edward Michalski

"I have before me copies of applications for clemency filed by John J. Martin and Edward Michalski.

"These men were among approximately twenty who last fall either pled guilty or were found guilty of paying and receiving bribery to permit the free and open operation of 'numbers racket.'

"Before sentencing any of these men, the three judges met to consider the extent of each defendant's complicity and his prior record of behavior. Each judge then with this information entered sentence, which, as you will note by examining many of the applications for clemency now before you, varied somewhat. I have no recommendation to make except that if the board recommends commutation in one case it may be constrained to take similar action in others.

"It is true that although John J. Martin received a one-third share in the bribe money known to have been received, he did after his arrest confess and cooperate at the preliminary hearings as well as before the grand jury and the petit jury. He received as a result of this cooperation a sentence of six months to a year less than other receivers of bribes.

"Dr. William D. Loose has written me a letter that Mrs. Martin is under his care for the treatment of a tumor involving the right lung and that surgery to remove this tumor will be used in 'the very near future.'

"Whether or not this recent development should receive consideration, is a question I would prefer to leave with the board."

Signed, "Elmer L. Evans"

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now there were additional letters, were there not, from Doctor Loose, William D. Loose, dated June 11, 1955?

A There was.

Q And letter dated June 10 from Herbert T. Foster?

A Yes.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Who is Herbert T. Foster, please?

MR. KOHN: Doctor William D. Loose was the one that operated on Mrs. Martin.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: No, I asked you, who is Foster?

MR. KOHN: He was the inspector of detectives and former head of the vice squad in Erie. There is a letter from Frank G. Hoetzel, Inspector of Police, dated June 20, 1955.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Are these all in relation to the Martin case, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: Yes, these are all in relation to the Martin case. There was a letter from Ralph Hecht, Fraternal Order of Police, in which he recommends Martin very highly.

There was a letter from the Erie County Tuberculosis Hospital, sent by Doctor R. S. Anderson, to Doctor M. Zeltzer, of Erie, in regard to the condition of Mrs. Mary Martin.

There was also a letter from the warden of the jail, dated June 6, 1955.

In spite of all these letters, there is nothing detrimental in the file on his application of October 4 which was turned down unanimously, is that correct?

THE WITNESS: That is correct.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Isn't it a fact that Martin served more time than any of the other persons whose sentences were commuted?

A We have the dates when he was committed to the Erie County Prison and we have the record of his commutation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He served two days more.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Martin and Schwartz both got out in less time.

A Flatley got out in eleven months, five days.

Q And Martin was a Commonwealth witness in two cases and against all the other defendants?

A The record shows that he was a Commonwealth witness, yes.

Q They held that against him in spite of the fact that everybody else recommended his release?

A That I could not answer.

Q What was the basis for their refusal of the first two applications?

A I have no record of it, Mr. Kohn.

Q Do you have any recollection of it?

A I have no recollection of it.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Nothing on the June refusal?

A No, all I have, as Mr. Kohn has inspected this book, I have four noes. That is the June decision.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q And Martin in this case only got one to two years?

A That is correct.

Q And what did Flatley get?

A One and one-half to three and Schwartz was given one and one-half to three years.

Q And they both served about two or three days less time?

A Approximately.

Q And how many applications of Flatley were turned down, if any?

A Let us see—

SENATOR SCOTT: Are you finished with Martin now, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: Yes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Did you put in the record what the district attorney—

MR. KOHN: I am—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I was just going to ask, I have not heard anything about the district attorney's recommendation in connection with Martin.

MR. KOHN: There might be some additional questions. You can't just—

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: We have had a list here now of about sixteen letters that were written on Martin and the most important one, in my opinion, was from the district attorney. I have not heard that and I want to know if there is such.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think it is well taken. Was there a letter from the district attorney in the Martin case?

MR. KOHN: In the testimony, I can read that if you would like to have it. He was definitely in favor of Martin. I think now that it has been asked, I think I ought to read it. May I read this into the record?

SENATOR SCOTT: There was no communication from the district attorney, only what he said at the hearing?

MR. KOHN: No, he appeared.

SENATOR SCOTT: And this was what hearing?

MR. KOHN: This was the hearing on June 22-23-24 of 1955, before the Board of Pardons, and this was the testimony that was taken. May I read it into the record?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes.

MR. KOHN: "MR. McLAUGHLIN:"—who was the district attorney at that time—"If the Board please, this type of case is one of the things that makes it tough to be district attorney. Jack Martin was a good policeman. I worked with him on many, many cases. He was the type of policeman you could call up in the middle of the night and there was no question about punching the time clock, he would go out of bed and get whatever information you wanted. And when he was arrested, brought into my office, he immediately told us the whole story.

"I think that Mr. Carney has not told you the whole story in that respect. Maybe he didn't know it.

"After Tom Flatley was elected mayor, there was a meeting at the home of Stanley Schwartz, who is a political leader there, and Jack Martin, Tom Flatley, Stanley Schwartz, and a fellow by the name of Henry Sociate,"—S-o-c-i-a-t-e—"sat down and said that they were going to collect so much money from the gamblers who were operating in the City of Erie. At that time Jack Martin told them that they couldn't get away with it. If they did, they would get caught, get into trouble, and that he didn't want any part of the thing.

"He didn't have anything to do with the thing for about a year. When, as Mr. Carney told you, he was called into the mayor's office and told that he was supposed—going to be dealt in on the deal. That Hank Sociate has been collecting the money, but Sociate got into some trouble and they didn't want any more of him, so they told Martin it was his job to go around and see these various gamblers and collect the money.

"There was no question of Jack Martin going to the gambler's and making arrangements, the arrangements were already made. All he had to do was show up once a month and they handed him the money.

"He and Swartz, who collected from some of the other gamblers, then took the money to the mayor's office, laid the money on the mayor's desk where it was divided three ways, where each one would take their portion. It ran about $1500 $1600 a month.

"Jack Martin was a good policeman, and when he was arrested, he again became a good policeman. We had no trouble in securing a confession from him. He testified very readily any time we called upon him to do so.

"I would like to point this out to the Board, that about a week after he had been arrested and after he had signed his confession, he came into my office and said, 'Well, at least I can sleep again. I haven't been able to sleep since this thing started.' And I think he was telling the truth.

"I ask the Board to take into consideration the way he has cooperated with the district attorney, the fact that even though he became a bad policeman when the chips were down, he became a good policeman again.

"MISS BLATT: How many police officers were involved in this?

"MR. McLAUGHLIN: Mr. Martin was Inspector of Police and the other policeman was a man who was up before you, Edward Camilli, partner of Russel Verga. The two of them served on the vice squad. Verga collected money and turned it over to me, Camilli did not know that half of the money was being paid to the district attorney's office. He kept his and spent it.

"MISS BLATT: The other one you mentioned, is he here?

"MR. McLAUGHLIN: He is up before you today.

"MISS BLATT: The one you said initiated the arrangements?

"MR. McLAUGHLIN: That was the mayor, Thomas Flatley. He is not before you. Stanley Schwartz—

"MISS BLATT: The police officer you said—

"MR. McLAUGHLIN: Henry Sociate, who was a political figure. The only two are Edward Camilli and Jack Martin.

"MR. FINNEGAN: What happened to Verga?

"MR. McLAUGHLIN: Verga was working for me. We knew all the time this money was being collected. He was turning the money over to my office all the time. We had a running account. As a matter of fact I could show you day by day just who he talked to and how much money he got from each one and what their conversation was. We have recordings of the conversation.

"MR. COHEN: Now, what reaction do you think would be on the general public and the other police officers if here an inspector of police is helping what apparently was a well organized shakedown racket, and after a minimum of approximately five months you let that man out?

"MR. McLAUGHLIN: Jack Martin was a very popular man. He was very well liked, I think that most people feel that he went wrong and they feel sorry that he did. I don't believe that the people in the City of Erie look upon him as a hardened criminal in any manner.

"There may be some people who would look down their noses at him, there is no doubt about the fact that he was wrong, but nevertheless I am looking at it from the standpoint of what I know about the man myself, and not public opinion.

"I know he was a good police officer and I know he became a good police officer and he was a great deal of help to me after the arrest was made. And I don't believe—it is not—what do you put people in jail for? Punishment, rehabilitation and example to others.

"There is no question of rehabilitation. I don't think Jack Martin will ever get in trouble as long as he lives. He has been punished at least in his own mind sufficiently. The only question is whether it is bad as an example to others to let him go after such a short time. Because there is no question of rehabilitation. He needs no further punishment.

"MR. COHEN: I am thinking of the effect that would have on my local police. They would say, 'he was getting cut into one-third of the take' and the reaction of the local police would be that he got out in five months.

"MR. McLAUGHLIN: Well, I agree with you as far as an example to others, It is not advisable to let him go. But from the other two standpoints, the standpoint of punishment and rehabilitation, there is nothing to be served by keeping him. It is only as an example to others that would be any purpose of keeping him in jail any longer.

"MR. FINNEGAN: Now did Verga get involved with it?

"MR. McLAUGHLIN: He was appointed to the vice squad together with Camilli. Jack Martin was Inspector of Police and was their superior officer. Now there were two separate rings of payoffs here. Verga and Camilli were getting money from the little operators, some of which went to Jack Martin, but a very small part of it. Usually Verga and Camilli split it up between the two of them. Then there was the larger operation, the mayor and Stanley Schwartz, where they were getting money from the big operators. They were geting $300 or $400 a month from some of these operations, while Camilli and Verga were getting only $25 and $50 a month from these small operators.

"So there were two separate rings. Jack Martin was getting paid from the big shots, the guys who were paying $400 or $500 a month, and also a small cut from Verga and Camilli from some of the small operators.

"MR. FINNEGAN: How did Verga get in this business? You say he was working for you?

"MR. McLAUGHLIN: Well, he was a policeman. I could never understand why gamblers chose to pay him, because about four or five years ago one of them tried to bribe him and he made an information against the guy and the fellow was tried and convicted of attempted bribery. So, why they picked him up and thought they would pay him off, I can't figure out.

"MR. FINNEGAN: Did he from the beginning tell you that he was taking this money?"

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, I think Mr. Kohn has read enough of it. I think we can get the import of the communication from the district attorney that he was in favor.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now at that time Martin was turned down, was he not, in June of 1955?

A Yes.

Q And Camilli was granted—look at your record.

A I will have to look at the record.

SENATOR SCOTT: Now, Mr. Kohn, you mentioned the name of Camilli being granted and I do not have anything on my notes about Camilli.

MR. KOHN: That is the policeman on who I just read the records.

SENATOR SCOTT: Was he involved in this thing?

MR. KOHN: He was involved; he was the other policeman.

SENATOR SCOTT: Was he sentenced?

MR. KOHN: He was sentenced.

SENATOR SCOTT: I do not have a thing before me on that name at all, Mr. Kohn.

MR. KOHN. It is only the record that is shown in the testimony referred to by Mr. McLaughlin as being the other policeman. There were two policemen. Martin was the head of the two of them; Camilli and Verga were the other two policemen who were collecting money. Verga was in the employ of the district attorney and worked with—

SENATOR SCOTT: Are you trying to make a comparison that one had his sentence commuted and the other did not?

MR. KOHN. At the same hearing one had his sentence commuted.

SENATOR SCOTT: Then I think we ought to have the background on the other one.

Mr. KOHN: That is what Mr. Yosko objects to.

SENATOR YOSKO: I am not objecting. I am asking you to give us the cases separately and give them to us in their proper sequence.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right, now just a minute. How many cases altogether were involved in the Erie bribery cases which found their way before the Pardons Board?

SENATOR YOSKO: That is it.

MR. KOHN: Eighteen.

SENATOR YOSKO: Eighteen.

MR. KOHN: Eighteen and seventeen commutations, but I am showing the commutations at a different time.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, now I think we ought to know when these eighteen cases reached the Pardons Board, if they all reached at the same time or at different times, and get the breakdown on that. Then as we refer to these several cases, we will have knowledge of what you are speaking about.

MR. KOHN. In order to save time on the record. we have made a compilation of that, Your Honor. I can give them to you if you would like to follow them but I am not going to take all the cases apart.

SENATOR SCOTT: Are all the names of these individuals going to come before us at one time or another?

MR. KOHN: No.

SENATOR SCOTT: Is the name Camilli going—is that going to come before us?

MR. KOHN: Yes, but I wanted to finish with these first; of course, what happened to Martin's case, what happened to Flatley's case, what happened to Schwartz's case, to show there was no basis for the action of the Board and the difference in the situations.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, do you have a copy of this summary here for each one of us?

MR. KOHN: No, we can work one up for you.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, I understood when we had one of our meetings that data that you would prepare, you would prepare in six or seven copies so that each of us would have it before us, so that we would know what we were doing.

MR. KOHN: Now I did not understand you that way. I understood you, Senator Yosko, that the Erie cases would be definitely investigated with the other cases.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well that applies to all cases. Now if we have some of this stuff before us, we will be able to dispose of it more intelligently than if we come in here cold without any background at all, and that is the reason for all of the confusion this morning. You may know but we do not know.

MR. KOHN: Do you want copies of it? Any other persons that you want to have copies, we will be glad to give them to you.

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes, I would like to have copies of it. I would like to know what is before us. I would like to have a little bit of background on it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Exhibits or a list of the cases you are going to hear?

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, if we would even have that. Up until this point I did not know there were eighteen cases involved here. Now there are eighteen and yet we have only concentrated on two or three.

SENATOR FLEMING: Mr. Chairman, Counsel suggests a five minute recess which I think we should grant to get some of these things straightened up.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will have a five minute recess, but we want to come back promptly because we can only stay here until 1:30.

(After recess).

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Proceed, Mr. Kohn.

MR. KOHN. At the request of Senator Yosko, I have given him a list of the cases and I would like to read all the defendants who are involved in the bribary cases who appeared for commutation of sentence before the Board of Pardons. I will read the charges, sentence, date sentenced, date released and time served.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now where was this information obtained?

MR. KOHN: This is from the files of the Pardons Board.

Adiutori,—A-d-i-u-t-o-r-i—six charges of bribery, two charges of conspiracy; sentenced to one and one-half to three years; date sentenced, January 10, 1955; date released, 12/15/55; time commuted, eleven months and five days.

Carl R. Alessi, eight charges of bribery, two of conspiracy; stood trial, got one to two years; date sentenced, 1/6/55; date released, 10/6/55; time served, nine months; commuted.

Edward Camilli,—that is the man that was just referred to as being the other policeman involved—six charges of bribery, four of conspiracy; one to two years; entered a plea; sentenced, 1/6/55; released 10/6/55; commuted to nine months.

Ray Czulewicz,—C-z-u-l-e-w-i-c-z—four charges of bribery, one of conspiracy; had a previous record; got one and one-quarter to two and one-half years; sentenced on 1/6/55; date released, 12/15/55; commuted to eleven months, nine days.

Arthur Damore, six charges of bribery, one of conspiracy; previous record; one to two years; date sentenced, 1/6/55; date released, 10/25/55; commuted to nine months, nineteen days.

Dan DiTullio, five charges bribery, one of conspiracy; got one to two years; sentenced, 1/10/55; date released, 10/10/55; commuted to nine months.

Mike Dominick, five counts of bribery, two of conspiracy; entered plea; got one and one-quarter to two and one-half years; date sentenced, 1/6/55; date released, 4/6/55; he appeared before the Board of Pardons and was refused, to serve his whole sentence.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Kohn, it is 4/6/56, isn't it?

MR. KOHN: You are right.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He served his whole sentence. He is the man who had a criminal record.

MR. KOHN: Yes sir, his whole one year.

Thomas Flatley, four counts of accepting bribery and conspiracy, and one violation of oath of office; got one and one-half to three years on a plea of guilty; date sentenced, 1/6/55; date released, 12/15/55; commuted to eleven months, nine days.

If you will recall, the record shows that the commutation was originally for one year and it was reduced to eleven months, nine days without any other reason in the record. I might state while I am going over these that the District Attorney of Erie County has been very kind to make this up for me and that where you will find there might be five or six charges of bribery, they will not have been convicted on that many; only convicted on the cases which were called and sentenced on cases when called and plead guilty.

Leo Kaminski, six counts of bribery, one and one-quarter to two and one-half years; date sentenced, 1/6/55; date released, 12/6/55; that was commuted to eleven months.

John Koehler,—K-o-e-h-l-e-r—seven counts of bribery two for conspiracy; one and one-half years; date sentenced, 1/6/55; date released, 10/6/55; commuted to nine months.

James LaJohn,—L-a-J-o-h-n—six counts of bribery, one of conspiracy; had a previous criminal record; one to two years; sentenced, 1/6/55; date released, 10/6/55; sentence commuted to nine months.

John Martin, five counts of bribery; received one to two years; date sentenced, 1/6/55; plead guilty; date released, 12/17/55; his sentence was finally commuted to eleven months, eleven days.

James Merlino,—M-e-r-l-i-n-o—five counts of bribery, one of conspiracy; previous record; one to two years; date sentenced, 1/6/55; date released, 10/6/55; commuted to nine months.

Edward Michalski,—M-i-c-h-a-l-s-k-i—five counts of bribery, one of conspiracy; stood trial; received nine months to two years; sentenced, 1/17/55; released, 8/22/55; commuted to seven months, five days.

Joseph Rotunda, three counts of bribery, one of conspiracy; previous record; one to two years; date sentenced, 1/6/55; date released, 10/6/55; commuted to nine months.

James Salamone,—S-a-l-a-m-o-n-e—nine counts of bribery; got one and one-half to three yerrs; date sentenced, 1/6/55; released, 1/6/56; and the sentenced was commuted to one year.

Stanley Schwartz, three counts of bribery, one of conspiracy; received one and one-half to three years; date sentenced, 8/8/55; date released, 8/8/56; commuted to one year.

Those are all the cases.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Are those all the cases involved in the bribery cases?

MR. KOHN: Yes, that is all except one other that Mr. Evans mentioned, Anthony Tonti, who was convicted of bribery on January 6, 1955 and received one to two years; commuted to nine months.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, it is proper to say that there were other defendants who were sentenced but who never came before the Board of Pardons.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: These are cases that reached the Pardons Board.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Of the eighteen that reached the Board of Pardons, were seventeen given commutations?

MR. KOHN: Seventeen given commutations, and one man, Mike Dominick, served his whole sentence. He was up before the Board once and he was refused and did not come back.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now you referred to Stanley Schwartz as having stated in there that he used all the money for political purposes. Did the Board make any check to see whether or not he reported any money collected by him on the political purpose requirements under the Act of Assembly?

A I have no such recollection.

Q Were the facts before the Board that he did not so do?

A I have no such recollection.

Q Were there any facts in the file that showed he did not report it?

A Not that I could find.

Q Did you look at the investigation made by the parole officer?

A We looked at that.

Q Would you say it is not in there?

A I would not say that until my memory was refreshed.

Q You further had with that particular file—and I think copies to all members of the Pardons Board—a brief or an appeal to the Superior Court on Stanley Schwartz, did you not?

A Yes sir

Q And in there was there any place that he said he used this money for political purposes?

A I have no recollection, because I did not read the record.

Q Do you know if the Board read the record?

A I could not answer that. They had it available. If they read it, it would be beyond me, Mr. KOHN.

Q Were you present when the deliberations were had before the Board?

A I was

Q And was it agreed by the Board that Stanley Schwartz was the instigator and head man in this conspiracy?

A I heard no such statement to my recollection.

Q That was not even discussed, was it?

A I would not like to say that because I have no recollection and no notes on it.

Q Did the Board consider certain information that it got from other sources in regard to the status of—

A The comments before the Board, I have it here to refresh my memory. A "Parole Report states Schwartz was the political boss who ran the Mayor. He used his political power to his own advantage." I think that is from the parole report.

Q In stating it on the report it says: "However, he is known as a political boss who wields some influence for his own political gain with no thought of public welfare." Is that what it says?

A That is what the report said from the parole agent that he read there.

Q Now from your recollection as to the action of the Board in that case how did they vote on it, each particular individual?

A You are referring to Stanley Schwartz? We had three "yes" for one year.

Q Three "yes." Who opposed?

A Nobody opposed.

Q Who did not vote?

A I believe Mr. Harner was absent on account of illness. Now let me check on this. There were only three members sitting. I have a record here somewhere, noting that Mr. Harner was absent on account of illness. Yes, the day on which these cases were heard, "February, Harner ill; absent the entire day."

Q How did they vote on Flatley?

A Three "yes," one year; one "no."

Q Who was the "no"?

A Mr. Cohen, Mr. Herbert Cohen.

Q He was the Attorney General at that time?

A Yes sir.

Q In spite of the vote, Governor Leader did commute the sentence, did he not?

A Yes sir.

A Did the Board check the statement of the Parole Officer in regard to the way the facts in the case were as to the statement of the applicant, Stanley Schwartz in the application?

A The application form was before each member of the Board and that parole report which you just raised was before each member of the Board. Whether they read it or not, I do not know.

Q There is a great deal of discrepancy between what he says in his application and what this says, is there not?

A I could not answer that question honestly until I would refresh my memory with respect to what the parole agent said.

Q Did they consider the confidential report by the parole agent?

A They invariabily consider. Whether they did in this particular case, I was not present. What any one of them did—

Q Was Martin's sentence commuted after Schwartz's sentence was commuted or before?

A Let's see, Schwartz came before the Board in February of 1956 and Flatley was first heard in September, and then later on he was left out. He was left out one year from the date of his commitment.

Q And you may state whether or not the district attorney strongly opposed the granting of a commutation in the Schwartz case?

A If I so stated in the Reasons, that is what he did.

Q That is so stated in here, is it not?

A Yes sir.

Q And you so state that: "The trial judge, The Honorable Elmer L. Evans, stated that this applicant should serve as long a time as one of his accomplices, to wit: Thomas W. Flatley." Is that correct? Did you say that?

A Yes, I said that.

Q And did Flatley receive as long a sentence as Schwartz?

A Well now, Flatley served about eleven months, five or six days.

Q Flatley received the same sentence as Schwartz, did he not?

A Yes, Schwartz was given one year and he was left out as I recall in around August or September of 1956.

Q All right now on what did the Board base their conclusion leaving Schwartz, the ringleader, out?

A The general attitude of the President Judge who somewhat felt that those who were equally guilty should serve a similar time.

Q And the Board interpreted the letter of the judge as saying he should be left out?

A Well, I would not like to say that. You are asking me to speak for the Board, and please do not.

Q Weren't you there?

A Yes, but I cannot speak for the Board. What went through their mental processes is beyond my derivation.

Q Everybody opposed it, including the parole officer and the district attorney, except the people who wrote in letters here.

A What ever the records would disclose.

Q And you had quite a numerous file of letters here, did you not?

A It would so appear, yes.

Q And did the Board take into consideration that according to the statement of the parole officer the fact that this man was a political leader, he could obtain hundreds of these letters?

A I heard no such remark as I recall. As far as I know there was no discussion as I recall as to the number of letters of recommendation or urging clemency. They were before the Board; they saw them.

Q Now in regard to Mayor Flatley, there was no opposition, was there, to his release?

A Well, the record would show that we have a rundown. I think you have it there which you read in there. Certainly the district attorney did not oppose it as I recall.

Q Isn't it a fact that Judge Evans told the Board he would withhold comment?

A That I do not recall unless I would see the letter, Mr. Kohn.

Q And there were a great number of letters in that file also?

A I recall that Mayor Flatley had quite a number of letters and petitions signed, if I recall.

Q In that particular file, will you refer to it?

A The Flatley—I have it here, sir.

Q One thing I would like to inquire about is how that feature article in the Erie Times came to be filed in there and whether or not it was considered by the Board?

A I do not think it was considered by the Board, but it struck me funny. In a threat—there was a threat made and then in the story about Tom Flatley—

Q By whom?

A There was a threat made according to the papers at the time it came up.

Q Did you file that copy?

A No, I did not.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q A threat, what about and to whom?

A Said to the Board that somebody was going to do something or other. I cannot quote it.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What it said was that the Board prejudged the case before it came before the meeting of the Board, did it not?

A It was an article written in a newspaper that was opposed to Mayor Flatley and all those connected with him. It would not be sympathetic at all.

Q And this was a very sympathetic article?

A This was a sympathetic—

Q And you stated that the Board did not see the article?

A I have no recollection that they did.

Q Is it not a fact that a copy of that was put into each one's file?

A This one, I do not recall that it was.

Q Why is that filed with the official documents?

A We have newspaper clippings that we file from time to time and as we pick them up, we shove them in the file.

Q How do you explain the fact that you only file the ones that are favorable to the applicant rather than the other ones? What caused you to file this one?

A It is a good question but I have no answer for it.

Q Do you have any newspaper articles in the other files?

A Not to my recollection.

Q Now isn't it a fact that in the report received by the Pardons Board the statement was made that: "The weight of evidence brought out during the trial indicates that the money was not collected for political" purposes in the case of Stanley M. Schwartz?

A You mean was it brought out before the hearing?

Q Was it in the file?

A If the report so stated it.

Q Will you look at it?

A Yes, "The weight of evidence brought out during the trial indicates that the money was not collected for political contributions; it was collected from known gamblers and racket operators and could not be accounted for by political expenses." That is so stated in the confidential report.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Has Mr. Schwartz himself in his own application to the Pardons Board under oath stated that it was used for that purpose?

MR. KOHN: That is right. That is why I left him read paragraph 15 of the application.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q So that there was a great deal of discepancy in the statement of the parole officer and also the statements in the evidence on the trial of this case as set forth in the appeal to the Superior Court; that there was a variance between what he said in his application and the actual facts?

A That is correct; that is, there is a variance between what he said and what the parole officer said.

Q And also what Schwartz said in his testimony before the court which the Board had a copy of?

A There would be that difference, yes.

MR. KOHN: That is all I have at the present time.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, were you present when the Board discussed the Flatley commutation in executive session?

A I was.

Q What reasons did Attorney General Cohen give for disapproving the commutation of Mayor Flatley?

A If I were to answer your question, I would have to more or less guess and I could not give you a very accurate report.

Q I would like you to answer as accurately as your memory can—

A It is my recollection the Attorney General, Mr. Cohen then, was not inclined to be favorable toward persons holding official positions in city, State, county, or whatever elected or official position the man may be appointed or elected to. He was opposed to granting clemency. That is my recollection of his attitude.

Q And what was the attitude of the other three members in opposition to Mr. Cohen?

A Well, their vote would be indicative that they would not be.

Q Sir, I would like you to tell the Board what you recall of their conversation.

A I could not give you that very accurately, Mr. Bell, I am very sorry, except they were not in agreement with Mr. Cohen.

Q Do you recall whether or not there was any conversation as to political effects?

A No, not that I recall. If you are thinking of whether or not it would help one party or aid another party, I have no such recollection that it ever entered into the discussion that these men happened to be Democrats.

Q But you do not recall?

A I do not recall except bare recollection or memory.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: All right.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hean, did you have a letter from the judge in the Schwartz case?

A I believe we did, sir. Let me check before I give you an affirmative answer. The Stanley Schwartz file is before me.

SENATOR SCOTT: He testified to that, I believe.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: No, I do not believe. Mr. Kohn referred to a letter which said that he would make no comment or something.

THE WITNESS: I have a letter here from Judge Elmer L. Evans with respect to Stanley Schwartz.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Yes, and I would like to have that read into the record as to his recommendation, if any.

THE WITNESS: This is dated "December 15, 1955

"Judges' Chambers
"Sixth Judicial District"
From "Elmer L. Evans, President Judge"
Directed to the "Board of Pardons" in regard to Stanley Schwartz.

"Gentlemen:

"I am quite sure your Board is familiar with the overall picture involved in the Erie scandal cases of October, 1954. Many of the mayor's friends insist that Schwartz was the instigator of the whole operation wherein for approximately a year and a half bribery was accepted to permit numbers and other rackets to continue in the City of Erie and also to arrest those not participating in the over-all coverage. Whether Schwartz is the ringleader I do not know. He testified that he used the money for one of the three factions in the Democratic Party and for political purposes only, but he did not file any returns as required by law from a treasurer so acting. No others on the receiving end of these bribes made any such representation, and we know that Soscia, the original collector, and Martin, the subsequent collector, kept their full shares for personal use. A large number of the defendants entered pleas, but Schwartz tried, on one of the bribery collections was convicted and later appealed to the Superior and Supreme Courts. Pending that appeal, he was tried at a subsequent term in connection with another collection, and the second jury likewise convicted him. New trial was asked in the second case, and it was held up pending disposition of the case on appeal. Every technical move was made to thwart justice as we see it, and most certainly in our opinion he should not be released at least until he has served as long as the Mayor, his chief accomplice."

Signed, "Elmer L. Evans."

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Now did he serve as long as the mayor?

A I do not have the precise date. I know Mr. Flatley, the mayor, served eleven months, nine days and Mr. Schwartz served about eleven months, one day.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: One year.

THE WITNESS: Approximately the same time.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q The recommendation of the judge was that he serve at least as long as the mayor?

A As long as the mayor. He served, as I have just been prompted, slightly more, about three weeks more.

MR. KOHN: He went to jail later. He did not serve any more time.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, Dave, one year he served and Mayor Flatley served eleven months, nine days.

SENATOR SCOTT: All right, what did Martin serve?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Martin served eleven months, eleven days; two days more than Flatley.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q I just want to make a brief statement and then ask you a question.

From what I have heard this morning, the facts that were given to us it is sort of a rehash of the whole series of cases. The Pardons Board was set up to pass on applications to either commute or refuse to commute sentences. I do not think we are here to question the judgment of the Pardons Board; whether it was good or whether it was bad is a matter of opinion. We are here to determine whether the judgment of the Pardons Board was influenced by politics or some other improper influence, and I want to ask you now whether you handled all of the applications that were filed with the Pardons Board in this series of cases?

A I did.

Q And from the time they were filed up until the time action was taken, do you know of any improper or political influence that was exerted on the Board that influenced their decision to either grant a commutation or refuse to grant it?

A I know of no such influence of any type.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Could influence have been exerted without you knowing about it?

A That is always possible. However, may I add to my statement that the action of the Board seemed to be in conformity with the thought of the sentencing judge, President Judge Elmer L. Evans, who I do not believe is a member of our political party.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hean, can you prepare for us in each of the cases mentioned, a report indicating in which case the court and the district attorney made recommendations and what those various recommendations were?

A I believe that has been prepared.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I hold it in my hand in penciled notation. The district attorney's comments I have typed here and I can give that to you now.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That was the district attorney's comments before the Pardons Board?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, in the Martin case at least it appears as though there was a reconsideration of an application that had been previously filed and turned down, is that right?

A That would so indicate, Mr. Tompkins.

Q And in how many of the other seventeen cases did that same situation occur?

A I do not recall that. There may have been, but right offhand I do not recall that cases heard, we will say, in June were asked to be reconsidered at subsequent meeting of the Board during that year. I may be wrong on that.

Q What I am getting at is this, was the Martin case among all the eighteen cases that appeared before the Board the only one that was refused on the first application?

A That was refused for other reasons; that was refused on the first application, refused on or about October 4 for a rehearing. Then it was granted on or about the 25th of October for—then it was granted for a rehearing on or along about October 25.

Q Now in the other seventeen cases, were there any reconsiderations or were they all given action on their first application?

A Don't hold me too firm to my reply, Mr. Tompkins, without consulting the records, but my recollection is that they were acted on favorably in many instances and there was no request for a rehearing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mike Dominick was turned down and no rehearing was granted.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Who is that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mike Dominick.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Turned down and no reapplication?

MR. KOHN: I think the question, Mr. Tompkins, that you had was whether or not at the June 1955 session Martin was the only one that was turned down out of the number that was heard.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: No, what I am trying to get at, Mr. Kohn, is this. I am trying to find out whether or not the Martin case was the only case which was given reconsideration.

THE WITNESS: That would show there. I can refresh my memory there on that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Whether there were other cases that were turned down in the original instance than this one that you speak about and then were reconsidered at a later date.

THE WITNESS: I have some facts there that I have gotten together, if I may refresh my memory with them.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Our recollection is that you are correct, Mr. Chairman. That is the only one.

MR. KOHN: No, that is not right. There are others.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I mean in the bribery cases now, not other cases.

MR. KOHN. The LaJohn case was reconsidered, I know.

THE WITNESS: That is No. 1060—1006 rather of June. Joseph Rotunda, Arthur Damore, who is the other one you have in mind?

MR. KOHN: James LaJohn, I know there were several of them.

THE WITNESS: My records here show No. 106-C was James LaJohn and the Board voted "yes" in nine months. That was not a reconsidered case.

MR. KOHN. I think you will find in the record it was.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: These records speak for themselves, Mr. Kohn. We are trying to get the information from the witness.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He is the man who was ill, isn't he?

THE WITNESS: I beg your pardon. He was sentenced on January 6, 1955, Mr. James LaJohn, and then his application was heard in March of 1955—did I say 1956? I meant January 6, 1955 he was sentenced from one to two years. Then on March 24, thereabout, he applied for a hearing and he was refused and then a rehearing was granted and heard in June of 1955, at which time at the rehearing the Board gave him clemency, reducing his minimum sentence from one year to nine months, yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Martin had also filed his original application in March, is that right?

MR. KOHN: You have it there.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now what other cases among the eighteen were refused on their first appearance before the Board?

A I would again have to go through the files here to pick out the ones that had been heard and then refused. I have the LaJohn case before me now.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: As far as I am concerned, that is of some importance to me and I think to the Committee as to what action was taken by the Board on these eighteen cases. I think we ought to have a complete record of the eighteen cases.

If the General has a copy of it there, I think it should be made a part of the record in order to have all that information before us.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will tell you what I would suggest, Mr. Chairman. I have four different types of records. I would like to hand them to you and if either or any of them meet your requirements, then we would like them in the record also.

If there is a separate record that you want me to get made up for you, I will get that made up for you.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will look these over, General, and see what we can do. We will return these to you.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDGE: All right, I will take them and give them to you then.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I believe the letter of Mr. Carney,—isn't that his name—the attorney, indicated that he had spent an hour or an hour and a half with you and Lieutenant Governor Furman on October 4 or somewhere thereabouts. Now what was the import of his extensive visit with you at that time?

A Well may I answer it this way, Mr. Tompkins. It may not be just a "yes" or "no." I do not recall first ever sitting in with Mr. Carney and Lieutenant Governor Furman in a discussion of any of these Erie bribery cases, any one of them.

Q Well did you see Mr. Carney by himself?

A Mr. Carney may have dropped into my office asking as to procedure, which I very gladly gave him with respect to how to handle a petition for a rehearing and I no doubt gave him that information, that he should informally present a petition setting forth reasons why he believed the Board should reconsider their action, and that came to our attention along in the latter part of October. That was my function in my conversation as I recall with Mr. Carney of Erie.

Q Well now, Mr. Hean going back to another phase of your records, are the Reasons for your granting commutations, are they available to the public at reasonable office hours for anybody who requests them?

A They are, they are as has been stated before, Mr. Tompkins. The previous two years—that would be 1955. in fact 1956—are now with the Clerk of the Senate and the Clerk of the House.

Q We appreciate that, Mr. Hean.

A That is public property.

Q From January 1957, however, until January 1959. according to your own statement, you will rehear 2,000 cases.

A Approximately that.

Q And if anybody wants to look at your records in connection with your Reasons for granting a commutation, are they entitled to see them?

A The Reasons, the positive action of the Board, yes. We have nothing to hide in that respect.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, as Counsel for the committee, do you have any witnesses that you are going to produce that will testify that political or other improper influence was used on the Board in arriving at a decision to commute or not commute any of these sentences?

MR. KOHN: I will be very glad to take it up in a committee meeting.

SENATOR YOSKO: I beg your pardon.

MR. KOHN: I will be very glad to take that up in a committee meeting and tell you what I have and do not have.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, could you tell us now? Just answer "yes" or "no."

MR. KOHN: No, I want to discuss the matter with the committee. I do not feel that I should be forced to make a public statement and give away everything that we may have or may not have. I think that is a matter for the committee to decide what I should and what I should not.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I think that our attorney's position is correct and it should be taken up at an executive session.

SENATOR YOSKO: I think so myself. I have no objection to that. I merely asked him a question, and I would like an answer.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: May I give a reason why? If we say who we are going to call and somebody goes to Florida very conveniently, while we have a subpoena for him—

SENATOR YOSKO: I did not propose to ask him for the names of anyone. I just want to know whether we are through now or whether we are to continue the hearing on this particular case.

Mr. KOHN: No, we are not through. I want to question him further on the Carney letter.

SENATOR YOSKO: Are we continuing the hearing on this particular case?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Are we still on the bribery cases?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right, proceed, Mr. Kohn.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I would like to ask you, Mr. Hean, if you can refresh your memory as to why, after the Board acted on and reduced some of these sentences to one year they were subsequently reduced without any official action of the Board, without any consideration of the Board, to eleven months, five days?

A I can only answer like this; that the Board did not assemble and felt that they had to permit the man to get out before Christmas. You notice some of these were in the—

Q Did they take that into consideration when they reduced it to one year flat?

A They probably did not.

Q Was there anything on the record that would justify such action by the Board?

A No, I have no record of it, no sir.

Q That would be arbitrary action on their part. After they met and approved the original commutation, they again revised the date.

A This I will admit, yes.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, in other words, they reduced sentences further without having a formal meeting?

A Oh no, they had a formal meeting. They had a formal meeting.

Q Where and when?

A I cannot give it to you; I do not know where they held it. I have no record of it.

Q Aren't your records normally complete?

A They are complete as far as—

Q Why aren't there records on this?

A We do not keep records of the executive meetings.

Q Do you keep records as to when they took place?

A Only as the meeting would come back, I would have a note.

Q We are dealing with a serious matter here, where you are reducing a man's sentence which is normally done by the Board of Pardons in a formal session.

A That is correct.

Q And here you reduce them; maybe it is only from one year to eleven months, five days but you are reducing a man's sentence and you have no notes on it.

A I have notes. I took notes, oh yes, but they were only for my personal use.

Q Well how about giving them for the Board's use?

A I haven't got them; they are destroyed.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well now, let us understand each other here. By the formal hearing that you are talking about, do you mean the open hearing before the Board in which cases are argued or do you mean the executive session after the hearing?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, what I am rather upset about, we have a printed form of rules to be followed by the Board of Pardons. We have had brought out here twice—and this is the third instance—where they do not follow the rules. It looks like there are two sets of rules; one set of rules for the normal people in Pennsylvania, the other set of rules for those who get special consideration, and I cannot see this situation here.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I am trying to find out what you are talking about when you are talking about formal hearings, whether they are the open public hearings or whether it is the executive session meetings of the Pardons Board.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I think Mr. Bell cannot quite understand that the Board has the right to make its own rules and has the right to suspend its own rules just as the court does, just as the Legislature.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, I disagree with you about the court suspending its rules. No court ever suspended any rules on me when I got to court, I'll tell you.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: The court suspends rules a lot of times.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: But they do it with notice to the adverse party.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: With notice, but not in court.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: They will suspend a rule to allow you to file a paper which under the rules was supposed to have been filed the day before. It is all a question—

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Well I condemn such practice here where they reduce sentences from twelve months to eleven months, five days without notice, without any formality and apparently without any record being taken.

THE WITNESS: I kept a record and—

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Where is the record?

A I would not know. No record—if I use the words "I kept it," I kept a note of what they wanted to do in each case.

Q And you just testified that you destroyed your notes.

A Yes sir.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Well I do not think that is a proper practice.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Mr. Hean, I am interested in one situation. Was the further commutation given after official notice had been given of what the commutation had been—for instance, the original commutation was agreed to by the Board in executive session for the year?

A Yes.

Q Now was there official notice made of that commutation and then was it later reduced to eleven months, five days or did the Board change the situation before official notice was given?

A I wish I could answer you just as you have asked it, very clearly. My recollection is that notice was sent, notice was sent that the sentence would be commuted to one year. When we reduced it from twelve months to eleven months X days, I do not recall sending out any notice to the district attorney of the three week reduction or whatever it may have been.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Hean, were all of the defendants whose sentences were commuted released about the same time and before Christmas?

A Some were and some were not. I do not have the date of actual release from the institution.

Q Was it up to the Pardons Board to release them or was it up to the Parole Board?

A Some were out on probation. The Parole Board would do the work and I do not have a record of the actual date any of these persons walked out of the county prison, the Allegheny County Workhouse or wherever they were.

Q I wish you would get that for us.

A The actual date that they left the institution?

Q Yes.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, suppose they commute a man's sentence, say, as of March 4, 1957, how long is it before that man will get out of jail?

A We bring him—to use a current expression—the Board of Pardons brings him to the jail door. The Board of Parole then picks him up, subject to an approved parole program. If his parole program is satisfactory and submitted prior to March 4, very little time is lost. If, however, he comes up to March 4 and does not have an approved parole program, then he is still confined in the institution until that program is approved by the Parole Board, so the time element—

Q Do you mean to say that the Parole Board, still with all the action of the Pardons Board, can veto the action of the Pardons Board?

A Absolutely.

Q Well that is a grand state of affairs.

A Well that has been going on now since the Legislature in 1941 so set up the Parole Board, Mr. Tompkins, and gave them that power and authority not to release anyone until they had the approval of the Parole Board.

Q Do you think that is proper?

A My personal opinion does not weigh very much.

Q What is the good of a Pardons Board if a Parole Board can take its own time to let those men out of jail without having a program?

A Well that is a fact.

Q Is there no better co-ordination between the Pardons Board and the Parole Board than that?

A They are notified as soon as we send out our notices. The Parole Board gets the notices of the action of the Board of Pardons that we are going to commute the sentence of John Brown on March 4, 1955. That may have gone out in February 1955. If this John Brown does not have a parole program that is suitable as of March 4, 1955, he stays there until he gets one.

Q Then why should the Pardons Board consider the commutation of any sentence until such time as the Parole Board notifies that there is a parole program ready for that person?

A That I cannot answer. That question is a good one which I cannot answer.

Q Don't you think something like that should be done?

A There could be a closer cooperation or coordination. It was at one time that way.

Q What do you think is the affect on that prisoner to have the sentence commuted and then have the Parole Board say he cannot get out?

A If I were that prisoner, I would be awfully uncomfortable.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Hean, that leads me to this question. When the Parole Board commutes a minimum sentence or the Pardons Board lowers a sentence, that is the minimum sentence, isn't it?

A That is correct.

Q What happens to the maximum? Is that reduced in proportion or does that remain?

A No, that is not reduced. That is still maintained.

Q All right, then the Parole Board has jurisdiction over that prisoner until the maximum period expires, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q And it is for that reason that they exercise control over them in spite of the fact that the minimum sentence is lowered?

A That is correct. The Legislature has charged the Parole Board with the duty of supervising and keeping prisoners and persons released from the penitentiary out of trouble, and they think one of the primary—and I agree with them—one of the primary elements is a good parole program, a home, a sponsor and a job.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q That would not apply where there was an outright pardon?

A Not with an outright pardon. With an outright pardon, he walks out as free as you can imagine.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That would not apply to a commutation of the maximum sentence either.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, when there is a petition for a rehearing, can't the Board commute the sentence without a further rehearing once they have denied a rehearing for an application?

A Well, I—you are asking whether after a man has been refused—

Q He has been refused on the original application, and then he has been refused on the rehearing, and there is now a petition for a rehearing, does the Board have a public hearing or can they reconsider it in an executive session?

A The Board has the power to reconsider in executive session any action that it had previously taken.

Q So if they refused this application for a rehearing on October 4—

A Yes.

Q Did they have a rehearing on the Martin case at any time thereafter?

A My recollection is not clear. I do believe they did.

Q I would like to have your notes tell me whether they did or not, because my investigation of it was that they never did anything further than commute his sentence. There was no rehearing on it.

A It was reconsidered on the 25th of October 1955.

Q Where was that hearing held?

A I have no notes here on my sheet that it was a public hearing as you—

Q What is a hearing? If I petition for a rehearing, where do I get it?

A A public hearing is held in the Supreme Court Room

Q Is that what was asked for here by the attorney for Martin? Did he send in a letter asking for a rehearing, sending in new reasons?

A That is Mr. Martin; he submitted a letter.

Q What was done in pursuance of that letter? When was the hearing held, who was present, what was done and how did they vote?

A They considered the letter and they also considered the communication from Judge Evans in which he—

Q When was the hearing? Where was it held? Where was the hearing of any kind?

A I do not recall, Mr. Kohn.

Q When was the executive session at which the rehearing was supposed to be held?

A About the 25th day of October 1955.

Q Where did you have a session that day?

A The sessions of October 25—

Q Twenty-fifth?

A I have not got the calendar in front of me; you have it.

Q Was the attorney for the applicant who was requesting a rehearing notified and was the district attorney notified of the rehearing of October 25?

A I have no such recollection.

Q Is there anything in the file which indicates that he was notified, either one?

A I have no such recollection.

Q In fact, no hearing of any kind as far as the record is concerned?

A In a public hearing, no.

Q There was no executive hearing at which the applicant, who was asking for a rehearing on certain grounds in a letter, could come forth and give his facts or the district attorney either?

A An executive session is not open to attorneys for the applicant or for the district attorney of the Commonwealth.

Q What did you and Mr. Furman advise him as to how he should apply for a rehearing in order to get one?

A It is up to the Board to make their own rules and decisions as they see fit.

Q Make their own rules and decisions?

A That is right, being an independent constitutional body.

Q Now I go back to this Edward Camilli. He was the other policeman involved, was he not?

A I believe so.

Q Now they left him out in nine months, did they not? What was his commutation? Is that correct? The reasons they gave—

A That was commuted from one year to nine months.

Q And the reasons they gave: " 'We know that prior to Camilli being involved in the bribery cases he was an honest and efficient policeman and a law-abiding citizen with an excellent reputation. We feel that he has been a victim of circumstances and that his exposure was a severe punishment to him and his family. We believe that further incarceration is not necessary to rehabilitate him and that if released that he can take his place in society as a law-abiding citizen'."

Now his case was heard at the same time Martin's was heard, was it not, and he deserves the same time as Martin deserves, is that right?

A Yes sir.

Q And they refused Martin, is that right?

A Yes sir.

Q And Martin was the only one that was refused on that whole list that was heard in June?

A That is right.

Q And Camilli was granted in spite of the fact that Martin assisted the Commonwealth, and the district attorney and judge were in favor of his commutation, is that right?

A That is right.

Q What discussion about it did the Board have and what reasons did they give for stating that Camilli deserved consideration because he was an honest cop before that and how did they distinguish, if you remember that case, from the Martin case?

A I have no such recollection of their discussion, Mr. Kohn.

Q You were there?

A I was there.

MR. KOHN: All right.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Is it clear that Camilli was a patrolman and Martin was an inspector for the Commonwealth?

MR. KOHN: That is all.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Being 1:30 and the Senate wanting this room very shortly for a Caucus, the Republican Members of the Senate—if we dare mention political parties here—we will adjourn these hearings or recess these hearings until 9:30 a. m. Wednesday morning.

(At 1:30 p. m. the hearing was adjourned until 9:30 a. m., Wednesday, March 6, 1957.)

I hereby certify that the proceedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing on the above cause before the Joint Legislative Committee to Conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and that this copy is a correct transcript of the same.

Stenographic report of hearing held in Senate Caucus Room, Main Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, at 10:00 a.m., Wednesday, March 6, 1957

Present:

Representative Edwin W. Tompkins, Chairman

Representative Clarence D. Bell

Representative Philip Lopresti

Senator Robert D. Fleming

Senator William Z. Scott

Senator Joseph J. Yosko
Members of Committee.

Appearances:

Thomas D. McBride, Esquire, Attorney General, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. For—Board of Pardons.

David S. Kohn, Esquire, 9 N Front Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. For—Committee.

James William Evans, Esquire, 5 N. Front Street, Harrisburg, Pensylvania. For—Committee (Assisting Counsel).

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This hearing will come to order.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If your committee is in order, Mr. Chairman, may I address you because my clients are concerned about the course of the investigation in the next phase and they have asked me if I would make a statement so that they could guide themselves. It is said by Mr. Miller that the chairman of this committee has made a formal demand upon me that I disqualify myself while a legislative committee investigates the David Darcy death sentence commutation. It is said also that I received that formal demand and that I was asked to quit the Darcy probe. My clients are concerned with that because they are in the middle of preparation for that aspect of the case. First, I want to inform you, Mr. Chairman, I got no such formal demand, and my clients have asked me to advise them what they are to do about it. If this committee has formally taken action that I must quit this probe, they want to know about it at the earliest possible moment so that they can take such legal remedy to protect their rights as exist under law. Now I, therefore, ask the chair to clarify this situation under their rights by making a statement whether or not any formal demand has been made upon me either by the chair or by committee action.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General McBride, I quote from that article as follows, and it is a quote that I made:

"Attorney General Thomas D. McBride, in a newspaper release of March 5 expresses a defense on conflict of interests on representation of the Pardons Board and present representation of that body. In a previous communication between the committee and the Attorney General, the position of each was stated. The present statement of the Attorney General appears to be a defense of himself in the reaction of the press and the public to the position which he has taken. Personally, I shall continue to insist there is a conflict of interests when we review and investigate cases where the Attorney General has appeared as counsel and that I feel he should disqualify himself."

Now that was my statement and there was no formal demand communicated to the Attorney General. The Attorney General did not communicate to myself or to the committee a statement which he released yesterday. We found out in the press, and what the Attorney General does is entirely up to him. We have merely stated our position with regard to conflict of interests.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Then there has been no formal action by the committee and I may so advise my clients?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I so stated in the statement which I released in the press and that is my statement.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The statement quotes you this way—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I just read the statement.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The statement says this, that is, that he made a formal demand.

SENATOR SCOTT: The headline does.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The statement does, Senator. "State Senator Edwin W. Tompkins today made a formal demand that Attorney General Thomas D. McBride disqualify himself," etcetera. Now I take it that the committee states that that is not true. You did not formally demand that I disqualify myself, is that correct?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I did not make any formal request. This committee did not make any formal request. Those were our comments which I made in reference to the release which you did not communicate to me or to any members of this committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It was a press release.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: And my comments were entirely upon the release you made. You have taken your position; we have stated ours. It is now up to the general public to make a determination.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: In any event there is no formal committee action. That is the important thing.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, I do not want to prolong this today but, for the record, to the best of my knowledge, there has been no discussion of your participation in these hearings other than the first one, the first meeting, we had when the letter was presented to you and you answered the letter and we discussed it and it was made a part of the record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Kohn.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Hean, will you take the witness chair, please?

I would like to ask, with your permission, a few more questions of Mr. Hean before I release him for cross-examination.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well.

FRANK R. HEAN, Recalled on
FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, have you checked your files any time in the Fatley case?

A I read over some of the information on the Flatley case.

Q Have you found any documents which were not in the file at the time we asked for it?

A Not in the Flatley case; in the Martin case.

Q You found them in the Martin case?

A Yes.

Q What did you find?

A You were asking me with respect to a refusal dated approximately October 4th, what was the basis for that refusal and papers related to it—

Q Where did you—

A And I leafed through the Martin folder at the time before the Board and could not find it and, therefore, I believe I stated that I had no recollection or had no information on it that would be positive. Following the meeting on Monday afternoon, I reviewed that folder and found such information that prompted the Board, and a letter—a letter that I wrote to the attorney representing Mr. Martin.

Q Where did you find such information?

A In the Martin folder.

Q And which letter do you refer to?

A The letters that were clipped to the October 4th refusal to granting a reconsideration.

Q Would you refer to that letter, please?

A This is the letter, the first sentence of the second paragraph that prompted discusion, Mr.—

Q Is this the memorandum of October 25, 1955?

A Yes.

Q From yourself to the members of the Board?

A In which I mentioned that the October 4th request was refused or words to that effect.

Q Yes, it was circulated on October 4, 1955 and unanimously refused. What did you find in support of that letter?

A I found, following the meeting on Monday, this correspondence dated October 5th, October 4th, and a letter, and a formal request of Mr.—and a letter from Mr. I have a letter in here from McCartney; not McCartney, Carney.

Q What is the date of that letter? What is the date of that letter from Carney?

A Around the—

O Sixth of October, is it?

A Yes.

Q That was in the file. We discussed that. What other letters did you find?

A And then some letters from June, along about June 6th, 11th, and June 6th.

Q Those were all in the file. Well, I'm referring to anything that relates to the October 4th statement that you made in your memorandum to the Board of October 25th.

A I have a letter. I have here, which is dated October 10th.

Q Mr. Hean, I dont' know if you get my point or not.

A No; I don't.

Q Did you find anything relating to a request for a rehearing which you say was refused on October 4th? Did you find anything additional in the file, in that file, in the Martin, in your own notes or any place else?

A I have the reason of the letter which prompted me and that I did not find, why we refused and why there was a request on October—

Q In other words you have nothing on October 4?

A No.

Q Still nothing on October 4?

A Nothing dated prior to October 4th. There is no such letter.

Q Now may I call your attention back to the Flatley case. I ask you now whether you checked your files to find out when, why and where the action was taken to reduce Flatley's sentence from one year to eleven months and nine days? Did you find anything additional:

A I can only answer I did not find anything additional.

Q Now, how—

A Can I answer that? The members of the Board I think, are all present this morning and they have a recollection probably better than I for that question.

Q Does your Board meet to consider such matters as the reduction from the original commutation to a further reduction?

A The Board holds regular executive sessions following each meeting of the Board in open meeting.

Q All right, will you tell us when this executive session which reduced the sentence from one year to eleven months and five days was held and where the minutes of the executive session are?

A I cannot give you the precise date. Number two, the minutes of the meeting, such records are not—That is a general discussion in which the Board would act and give me instructions to so write a reason or recommendation.

Q Now, when was the sentence commuted from one and a half years to one year? What was the date of that?

A That I cannot give you offhand. The members of the Board are here.

Q I asked you what your records show. You keep the records, do you not?

A I keep some of the records.

Q Will you refer to the records and tell me when it was decided by the Board in the meeting right after the hearing to commute that sentence from one and a half to one year?

SENATOR YOSKO: What sentence?

MR. KOHN: The Flatley sentence from one and a half to one year.

THE WITNESS: I have a note there, Mr. Kohn, that was changed to eleven months, five days, to expire December 15, 1955. Originally it was one year, which would make it approximately on or about January 10th, and it was reduced to December 15, 1955.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now you still havent answered my question. What I would like to know specifically is when in the action of the Board they agreed to reduce it from one and a half to one year? What was the date of that action?

A I cannot give it to you. I have no record of it.

Q Well does anybody keep any record of it?

A The members of the Board are here and some of them keep records; yes, sir.

Q Now when you go into executive session right after these hearings, the Flatley case and many others were considered at the same time, were they not?

A Yes.

Q And was the Flatley case decided by the Board immediately after the hearing?

A I would say that my records would indicate that on the day that all of these cases were considered the Flatley case was included.

Q And that was decided right after the hearings on these cases?

A That is correct.

Q Now then, what prompted the Board to further reconsider the Flatley commutation at another session?

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, I don't like to interrupt but I just don't think it's fair to ask Mr. Hean about actions of the Board. Now the Chairman of the Board is back there and I also see three other members, and if it is going to expedite these hearings and to get some intelligent answers to the questionse, I think you ought to call one of the members of the Board and particularly, the Chairman of the Board who is here and perhaps he can clarify anything that you want to develop here.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Yosko, my purpose in this line of questioning at present—

SENATOR YOSKO: What we want are facts. We are not here to befuddle the witness and to try to convey the idea that he does not keep records and that he does not do a lot of other things. If it is anything pertaining to the action of the Board, the Board members are back there and I think we ought to call them.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, my purpose in this line of examination at the present time is that this man is the custodian of the public records that are to be kept by the Pardons Board.

SENATOR YOSKO: I know, but the question you asked was what prompted the Board. After all there isn't anything in the file to show what prompted them. The Board is sitting back there.

MR. KOHN: I asked him when and what prompted the Board; was there anything in the file to show—

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, but the Board is sitting back there. Let's call them and ask them.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think, Mr. Chairman, that we certainly should get around to calling the members of the Board, but I think it is very important that we do know what the records show and the procedure used.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well now, if you say, "What did the record show?" How does he know what prompted the Board? The Board is there and can speak for itself.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The Board is there, it can speak for itself. He is not here to speak for the Board.

SENATOR SCOTT: It is my understanding that Mr. Hean does keep notes and records of the feelings of the various members of the Board on certain things, is that correct?

THE WITNESS: That is correct, Senator.

SENATOR SCOTT: Well I think that is what Mr. Kohn is trying to find out, if the record shows in this particular case whether there is anything that would show what the various members of the Board felt on these commutations in this particular.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, if he wants to ask what the record shows, Senator Scott, that is correct, but when you ask what prompted them and whatever prompted them is not supposed to be a matter of record, why should he answer for the Board?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, if the witness knows what prompted the Board, I think he is competent to testify.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I believe this witness should testify as to what his official record of the Pardons Board discloses and if he has knowledge on information as to what prompted the Board and was present at the time that the deliberations took place and he can testify to it from his own knowledge, then I think he should be entitled to testify. As to what mental processes the Board used otherwise, of course, that is something this witness can't go into, but, certainly, he should give a full disclosure of all the records that he has in his possession which are official records pertaining to this particular case.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think, Mr. Chairman, that the use of the word "prompted" is the thing that has probably thrown us off.

"Prompted," in my estimation, means what were the compelling reasons for the particular member of the Board's decision on it, and I do not think that is exactly what Mr. Kohn has in mind, and you can correct me if I am wrong. Mr. Kohn, it is my understanding that you want to find out if there is anything in the record for the reasoning of any particular member of the Board.

MR. KOHN: Yes, plus what is in the record so that this committee can determine whether or not—

SENATOR SCOTT: Well, let's find out what is in the record.

THE WITNESS: I have a record here showing that when the Board met they gave a one-year commutation of the sentence of Mr. Flatley that had originally been one and one-half years. Then, subsequently, the Board changed that commutation from one year to eleven months, five days expiring December 15, 1955.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q And is there anything in the record to show the reasoning of why that was done?

A No.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Is there anything on the record to show the date that was done?

A I have not a precise date, no.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Who would have such a precise date?

A I do not know. That is an honest question.

Q Well, does anybody keep any records in regards to subsequent action after commutation has been decided upon whether that commutation conditions has been changed?

A There are notes that each member keeps. Those I have never inspected, and they probably could answer that.

Q Don't you attend deliberations of the executive committee?

A Yes, I attend the deliberations of the executive session.

Q Can you tell me how soon after it was changed from one and one-half years to one year that this additional change was promulgated?

A I cannot; I could not give you a precise date.

Q And you stated, I think, on your previous testimony that the district attorney was notified when the sentence was commuted from one and one-half to one year?

A There was—

Q You stated that on the testimony?

A I may have stated. I do not recall.

Q Now was the district attorney or any other person in the case notified that further commutation was being considered?

A I do not believe so. I know I did not write a letter like that.

Q Now—what procedure would be used to further commute the sentence where once it has been decided upon? Who would initiate such measures?

A Who would prompt it? In this instance I think the Board had reason to reduce the sentence. It is a Board of mercy.

Q I did not ask you to explain the functions of the Board. I asked you who would decide that there should be further—

A The Board of Pardons.

Q And did the Governor call the Board of Pardons between the time that they commuted it from one and one-half to one year and the time it was commuted to eleven months, five days, do you know?

A I have no knowledge that the Governor ever called the Board of Pardons into formal session.

Q Do you recall anything about the discussion concerning the commutation, the further commutation, at the time it took place as to who instigated it or why it was being reconsidered?

A No; I do not have any clear-cut recollection.

Q Did outsiders come in and talk to you or to members of the Pardons Board asking for further commutation?

A You are now directing it to the Thomas Flatley case?

Q Yes.

A I have no recollection of ever holding a conversation with Mr. Carney in respect to Thomas W. Flatley.

Q Or anybody else?

A Or anybody else.

Q And, therefore, there is nothing in the record as far as your record, official records, of the Pardons Board is concerned which would indicate why, how or when further commutation of the sentence came about?

A I have nothing further. However, you consult the Flatley file which is before you and I think there is a letter there from Judge Evans, isn't there?

Q Not after the commutation of one year—to one year.

A To one year.

Q Do you recall any letters from Judge Evans after the commutation to one year?

A I knew there was a letter from Judge Evans.

Q You had read that into the record. Is that what you are referring to, dealing with his thoughts on the commutation?

A Yes.

Q I am dealing with the question of what prompted further commutation, if you know or if your records show.

A My records do not show.

Q Mr. Hean, do you know of any consultation that ever took place between the Governor and the members of the Pardons Board before they recommended commutation?

A I never learned of any such conference. Certainly I never attended any in which the Governor talked with the members of the Board either as a group or as an individual.

Q Let me ask you one other question, if you please. The letters received by members of the Pardons Board concerning any particular case, are they put in the file of that case?

A Some are sent to me. They are sent direct to members of the Board. Others are possibly kept by the members that I never see and would not know of.

Q In other words there are letters sent to the different members of the Pardons Board sometimes on different applications which they keep in their own files and do not divulge to you or to the other members of the Board.

A Well, I do not know whether they divulge them or not. I never heard of them but, undoubtedly, the members receive letters.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Just a minute. Do you know or dont you know that people write to individual members of the Board for or against commutation? You can either say yes or no.

A Yes; they do write to members of the Board.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Where are those records taken?

A The individual letters written?

Q Yes, are there any notes?

A If they are not sent to me, then I have no knowledge of them officially.

Q Now, one other question in regard to procedure generally. I have gone through these files and actually, there is no historical or chronological note made of the paper files or the letter file or any other petition for a rehearing or anything else?

A Except the file generally.

Q You put it in the file generally but there is nothing—

A Yes.

Q But nothing more?

A No nothing more.

Q There could be things missing, couldn't there? I am not accusing you. We have been friends for a long time.

A No.

Q But there is no index made of any particular file?

A That is correct.

Q So letters could be put in there and taken out without your knowing it if the file went to anybody to look at it?

A That is entirely possible.

Q I do not want anybody to misunderstand me. I am not saying that that is so. I am checking for matters of procedure. I do not want to impute that there is anything missing or that Mr. Hean took it out.

BY SENATOR BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, on these Erie cases I would like to refresh your memory to our testimony on Monday. Is my recollection correct that you stated that there were no public hearings held upon these petitions to reduce a sentence from twelve months to eleven months, five days or six days?

A I have no such recollection of a public hearing being held. That is you are thinking of a public hearing or before—

Q An open hearing?

A I have no such recollection that there was ever such a public hearing, open hearing, reducing it from one year to, as you say, eleven months, five days or nine days or whatever it might be.

Q Now if there had been a public hearing would your records have shown it?

A There would have been a note in the calendar.

Q Is there such a note in your calendar?

A For the September hearing, there is no such note in the calendar that there was a further hearing.

Q That there was an open hearing?

A That is right.

Q Now, Mr. Hean I show you Purdon's, the Constitution of Pennsylvania, Section 9 of Article 4. Will you read that section? Will you read it out loud, sir?

A We shall have Section 9, Article 4, under the general topic "Executive." "He," that is the Governor, "shall have the power to limit fines and forfeitures, to grant reprieves, commutations of sentences and pardons, except in cases of impeachment, but no pardons shall be granted nor sentence commuted except upon the recommendation in writing of the Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Attorney General and Secretary of Internal Affairs, or any three of them after full hearing, upon due public notice and in open session, and such recommendations with the reasons therefor at length shall be recorded and filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth."

Q Now I draw your attention specifically to the words, "After full hearing, upon due public notice and in open session." Were the Erie commutations granted following a full hearing, upon due public notice and in open session?

A I so understood it to be, that is, a full hearing due public notice and full open session. Yes, sir.

Q When was the open session held?

A They were held on September 14, 15, and September 22, and ones for the Erie cases were held on the 15th day of September, 1955.

Q In other words the public hearing was held in a period of almost one month prior to the time, I said prior to the time that the request for the rehearings was submitted to you?

A That was it.

Q In your opinion that is compliance with the Constitution?

A Yes, sir. However, may I qualify that that we have the advice of Counsel on that matter. That is my personal opinion and not the opinion of the Board.

Q Is it customary to hold the public hearings prior to the filing of the petition for commutation?

A No, no. They always follow the petition. The public hearings follow the filing of the petitions.

Q But in the Erie cases—I do not want to befuddle you; I want you to give a clear answer. But in the Erie cases when there were petitions for a rehearing for commutation from twelve months to eleven months, five days, six days, the public hearing was held before the filing of the petitions.

A Let me put it this way, if I may answer it, Mr. Representative. There was an application for a commutation of the sentence which was heard by the Board in September of 1955.

Q And refused?

A And refused. I thought we granted it on one year after the date of commitment. That would have been approximately January 10. Between then September 15, there was a change in the time from one year upon due consideration of the Board, reducing it from one year, twelve months to eleven months, five days.

Q And when was the public hearing held upon which that was based?

A The public hearing was held on or about the 15th Day of September, 1955.

Q And then on the advice of, did you say your opinion or on the advice of counsel, it is in compliance with the Constitution?

A No; I said it was my opinion.

SENATOR YOSKO: As much as I dislike prolonging the proceedings, I must at this time make a brief statement.

I am a little bit surprised that our counsel has indicated that he has completed his examination of Mr. Hean. I want to make it clear that we did not employ our counsel to act as a prosecutor in these hearings. He was employed to prepare the cases and to present all of the facts fairly and impartially and not just to present those facts that might reflect discredit on someone without also presenting facts that would reflect credit or indicate that the Board acted fairly and impartially. In my opinion, a part of that record should be the recommendations that were made by district attorneys, by judges, by the warden in the jail and by others that either indicated that the petition for commutation or pardon should be granted or refused.

Now here we have eighteen cases involving the Erie so-called scandal. Each one of the eighteen based on facts either pled guilty or were found guilty and they were sentenced by the court. After they were in prison they filed an application for a commutation of the sentences and there are other matters in the record or probably should be in the record to indicate just what impelled the Pardons Board to grant clemency, and in my opinion I think we ought to have that presented to us, as well as the facts that have been presented thus far. I, at this time, will suggest to our counsel so that the members of the Board can be sufficiently informed on any case, that he prepare a form of some kind that would indicate the crime that was committed, brief statements of the facts involved in that crime, the date the defendant was arrested, whether he pled guilty or was found guilty, the attorney that represented him, the sentence that was meted out by the court, whether an appeal was taken, the date the defendant went to jail, the date a petition was subsequently filed for commutation of pardon, the date it was heard by the Pardons Board, the attorney that appeared for the Pardons Board, the decision of the Board, and if it was refused, the date of the petition for a rehearing or for reconsideration, the decision of the Board on that rehearing or reconsideration, and if granted, the date the prisoner was released, the recommendation of the district attorney, the recommendation of the judge, the report of the Warden, the report of the parole officer, and any other information that would be of value to this committee, so that we would have all of those facts before us, each member of the Committee, so that we could be guided by it and so that we could intelligently examine a witness or witnesses if we see fit. If it is done in that fashion it will convey to the public that we are here not to prosecute somebody but that we are here to carry out the functions of a resolution, namely, to determine whether there has been any political influence which, in turn, influenced the decision of the Pardons Board or whether the Pardons Board abused any of the authority granted to it.

I think if we proceed in that fashion we will expedite these cases and be able to arrive at satisfactory conclusions and if necessary make our recommendations in the report, and if those recommendations contain or are such that would require legislation, we can prepare it and submit it before this General Assembly adjourns.

Because all of these facts have not been made a part of the record so far, I will not go into them because I am assuming that Mr. McBride will cross-examine the witness and if he does not bring out some of those things then I reserve the right to question the witness.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I agree with Mr. or Senator Yosko that the functions of this committee is not to prosecute. I think I made a statement in my opening statement when we started these hearings that the purpose of this committee is not to crucify but to clarify, and that if there are facts in the record which have not been brought out and disclosed, if you have knowledge of them, we feel that you as a member of the Committee are justified in bringing them out, if the Attorney General on his cross-examination does not bring out those disclosures.

SENATOR SCOTT: Well, I think in order to clarify, I would like to direct my question to our Counsel. Is there anything in the file of a relevant nature such as was enumerated by Senator Yosko which you have not brought out?

MR. KOHN: Senator Scott, it was my understanding this morning that we were going to bring up the cases that might be of interest to the Board and not every Erie County case.

If Senator Yosko would take the time to look through any of these files, he would find all that information in each file on the application without any trouble.

SENATOR SCOTT: Well, on these particular cases we are concentrating on which are four or five in the Erie County series of cases, I recall very vividly you bringing out the letter from the judge wherein he recommended it and so on.

MR. KOHN: Except in the Flatley case there are fifty or sixty letters which I do not think you want to read. In fact, you asked about the letters where people wrote in and whether those letters were considered.

SENATOR SCOTT: I remember you asking the witness as to a series of letters and as to what the import of those letters was, and I remember him saying that they were all inducive to granting the commutation.

MR. KOHN: Yes, and the rest of the information Senator Yosko seeks is on the face of the application and if he would take the time to look at it he could see it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But it is not in this record. That is the important thing.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Was there filed with this committee the other day a statement that contained substantial portions of the issues as to the offense charged to which those charged pled guilty or were found guilty?

MR. KOHN: Not only have I filed them, but the Attorney General also filed them.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Whether or not they were recommended or refused by a Judge or district attorney, was there not put into the record the other day a summary of that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We have a summary which was not brought out before this committee. I think for the enlightenment of the committee I would like to cross-examine Mr. Hean as to these cases to show whether the Board acted contrary or in favor of, that is, more lenient or less lenient to the recommendations of the district attorney and of the judge—precisely what this committee would like to know.

SENATOR SCOTT: I agree with that but right now I am trying to clarify the atmosphere of all the things that Senator Yosko brought out and I want to know if our own committee attorney has been withholding certain information and has only been presenting the case in a, let us say, favorable light. I think we ought to know that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Nothing has been asked about these things which Senator Yosko talked about.

SENATOR YOSKO: I do not believe anything was asked about the recommendation of the district attorney.

SENATOR SCOTT: That is not true. He did read a letter—

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, may I make a remark here?

There was a letter read into the record, read in at my request. Information was prepared and we have it this morning and members of the committee will also have copies of the various cases before us, but that was also at my request and I would like at this time to point out, too, that the suggestion was made this morning that Mr. Hean read into the record a letter regarding Mayor Flatley's case. That was not true. Mr. Hean read into the record a letter regarding Mr. Martin. Now it had been suggested this morning that he had read a letter regarding Mr. Flatley, which is not true. If I recall correctly, I asked specifically to have the Martin letter read, other than that, we have had nothing presented to us by our counsel. What has been brought in has been brought in by the questioning on the part of our committee.

SENATOR YOSKO: Now, Senator Scott, here is what I am more or less driving at. There are eighteen cases here and I assume that when we—at least the record so shows that what was read into the record that when the Board acted, it acted on the eighteen cases as a whole, so that one of the defendants would not be shown any more favoritism than the other and if the record does not so show, then it is something for us to consider, but there were only three cases picked out here as I see it of the eighteen upon which there was concentration, and I would like to know, too, why only three of the eighteen cases are concentrated on here.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let me ask this question: Counsel has read into the record the other day, information regarding these eighteen cases. Here is a very condensed summary of the eighteen cases involved in the so-called Erie bribery cases. May I ask who prepared this and from what information it was obtained or from what source it was obtained?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If the Chairman's question is directed to me it was prepared by Deputy Attorney General Victor Wright.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: From what source was this information obtained?

MR. VICTOR WRIGHT: Mr. Chairman, it was obtained from two sources, one of which was supplied to me by Mr. Kohn which consisted of an onion-skin copy of the material which I think he read into the record the other day, which simply was the name of the applicant and the charge upon which he had been sentenced, the amount of the sentence, the date of the imprisonment, the date of his release, and the term to which the sentence had been commuted in the cases in which commutation was granted. There was only one, if you will recall, in which the application was refused.

The remaining material, that is, the recommendations, the summary recommendations, of the District Attorney, the summary recommendation of the court, and the column headed 'Remarks,"—rather, let me correct that—the first two that I referred to, the recommendations of the district attorney and the court, I obtained from the files of the cases and from the transcript of the statements made before the Board of Pardons at the times of the hearing. The column entitled "Remarks," which indicates in some way the character of the individual, that is, whether or not he was one to offer a bribe, whether or not he was the leader, otherwise characterizes the individual. The operation included the files of the cases.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We thank you but there is no doubt but that this condensed statement should at the proper place be made a part of the record. Now, as I understand it, these files themselves, although not a part of the transcribed record—they would be a tremendous volume—will be available for Monday for the use of the members of this committee and determination of their findings, and if there is anything in their files that they want to look at, it will be available.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I give my personal assurnace to the committee that will be held available to this committee. I have issued instructions that as to all of these files, even though I want to review them myself in preparation for the hearings, first priority is to be given to the committee counsel and to the committee, and only after you have told me what cases you are going to bring up, then do I consider myself free to use them in my own preparation.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: If we are offering suggestions, Mr. Chairman, I have another question which I would like to direct to—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will—Senator Yosko has raised a question here which will be given due process as we proceed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Can I say, in addition, that the recommendations of the district attorney are always considered to be important. I have asked Mr. McLaughlin, who was the district attorney and who personally appeared before the Board of Pardons at that time to be present, and he is here available to testify.

SENATOR SCOTT: Did he give his recommendation, sir, in writing at the time the Board was considering or did he—?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I gave them personally before the Board of Pardons and a stenographic transcript of those recommendations was made, and that transcript is, in part, the reason that Mr. Wright relied upon in this next to the last column where he says, "D.A. Recommendation." You see Mr. Hean and members of the Board of Pardons takes notes as the district attorney appears, whether he opposes or favors or has no recommendation, and the Board itself makes notes and so does the Secretary, and the stenoghapher takes down exactly what is stated.

MR. KOHN: You remember I read part of the record in the Martin case. Do you want everything put in, what the D.A. said, what the judge said? I will be glad to do it. It is impossible to do what Mr. Yosko asked.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What I am getting at is, that it would be too time-consuming and too costly to have it transcribed as part of the record, all files, but certainly the files should be available to this committee to review when they make their findings in order that we do not miss anything in connecction with the facts that appear in the files themselves.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I can only say I join the committee in this, that if you put only two or three facts in you get a bare skeleton, but if you include the whole course of the proceedings, as has been suggested, you see the whole proceeding right before you, seeing all the facts that the Board of Pardons considered, and then if you put yourself in their position you are in a better way of judging, even though, as I have said before, you would be reviewing their discretion.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General, I think that you will agree with me that just one witness cannot cover the whole field, we have got to develop that with other witnesses as we proceed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well Mr. Hean could cover it or Mr. McLaughlin could cover it because this is a whole series of cases, and they are all relevant one to the other.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, very well we will proceed.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: One thought: I do not know if it will involve too much time if in each case counsel were to state that in this particular case the judge or the district attorney either recommended or refused to recommend or gave a conditional recommendation, just a brief statement.

MR. KOHN: It is all a matter of record. If you want to do that, I will be glad to.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I do not mean to go into each particular.

SENATOR FLEMING: Mr. Chairman, I think that this contains the information that Mr. Yosko asked for and Mr. Wright did an excellent job, and I do not see that we need anything more. I say that this contains all we need.

MR. KOHN: That is right.

SENATOR FLEMING: I do not see where we need any more than this. I am perfectly willing to accept what Mr. Wright has given us and perhaps our counsel can, in the future, prepare something similar to this.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We agree that somebody ought to put it in.

SENATOR YOSKO: Senator Fleming, I expect though, as Mr. McBride pointed out, if the whole sequence is in the record, when we review it, it will be there and we will not have to be jumping from one record to another to find out what recommendations was made to the Board. It will be right on the record and as you read it you would be able to analyze it more intelligently.

SENATOR FLEMING: My only thought, Senator, was that this is so concise, Mr. Wright directed this to someone with a fine mental capacity but I do not know that this is all I need to know how to determine the matters.

SENATOR YOSKO: As a matter of fact, I think we ought to have a summary of that kind prepared for every case that is presented to us here.

MR. KOHN: I agree with you there but—

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I have one other question. I would like to ask one other question.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hean, the action of the Board that we were discussing here that occurred after October 4, was not that actually a reconsideration of the Board's action itself and not of the case?

A Reconsideration of the Board's action in the case.

Q And when the Board reconsidered its own action are they required to give public notice under the Constitution?

A I have no such information of any rule or know of any precedent that the Board—

Q So, actually, in this instance, was not the Board reconsidering its own decision and changing its own decision?

A Absolutely, it was reconsidering its own decision.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is all.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. McBride made a statement that members of the Board took notes at these hearings, is that correct?

A Well, I have been so informed. I have never inspected a book.

Q Well, members of the Board were all up in your office following the hearing of Monday checking over the notes of testimony as they were transcribed and making notes again, were they not?

A They were up in my office.

Q And they were looking at the notes?

A They were looking over the notes of testimony, yes.

Q And making notes themselves?

A I presume they did. I had other things to do. They were there doing something. What they did I cannot testify to. You can ask them. They are here this morning.

Q You do not know whether they were checking their old notes or just making new ones or what they were doing?

A No, I presume they were doing something with their own notes of testimony that you see. What they were doing I do not know.

Q Did not they ask you to get the notes of testimony out for them?

A No sir; they were laying there on the desk.

Q They were laying there on the desk?

A Yes.

Q You do not know whether they were checking the notes of testimony in the Erie cases as read in the testimony?

A No, sir.

Q Nor whether they had their own notes with them or whether they were making new ones?

A No, sir. They were there and they have prefect freedom, of course.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I would like to ask a couple of questions of—

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, where is the reasons in the Flatley case?

A The reason for the commutation?

Q Yes. Mr. Hean, there does not appear on the face of this the date on which the final signature of the member of the Board was obtained and became effective, does it?

MR. KOHN: Not on any of them.

A No, it does not.

Q Does your records in any place disclose the final date upon which the final commutation was finally signed?

A You mean by the members of the Board, Mr. Tompkins?

Q Yes.

A No.

Q After this is signed by the members of the Board, then this together with the files go to the Governor, is that my understanding?

A That is correct.

Q Now, do you know the date of the action of the Governor on the recommendation contained in this?

A Yes, the photostatic—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Is that Flatley?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This is Thomas W. Flatley we are speaking about now. This commutation was signed by the Governor under date of October 4, 1955.

Q Now when the Board made its decision to commute from one and one-half to one year, were there reasons prepared in that?

A I have no such recollections of ever preparing reasons on the one-year commutation.

Q. Was any recommendations ever forwarded to the Governor on the one year commutation?

A I have no such recollection that it ever was.

Q Does your record disclose that this commutation was forwarded to the Governor and recalled from him on the one year commutation.

A You are thinking of the Flatley case?

Q I am thinking of the Flatley case.

A There was no recommendation submitted to the Governor on the Flatley case and returned by the Governor.

Q Then sometime between the hearing of September, 1955 before, according to your records, the Board did make recommendation to reduce it to one and a half?

A Yes, and then reduced it.

Q Then at a subsequent time reconsidered it and reduced it to eleven months, five days?

A Yes.

Q And upon that reason was prepared and transmitted to the Governor?

A That is correct.

Q Could you tell me from your knowledge whether it is a common practice or has it happened in other cases that the Board has made one decision and then later revised it?

A Yes; it is not a regular practice but it has occurred over the years where the Board has, we will say, commuted a sentence to two years and then they revised their consideration and made it either more or less. Yes, sir.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is all I have.

SENATOR SCOTT. Mr. Hean, is there anything in the record or in the files to show that following the first decision of the Board in which they commuted the sentence of Flatley's sentence to one year, is there anything in the records or files in the way of recommendations from the district attorney or the judge showing the feeling of the writers of those letters, if there were such letters that the recommendation of the Board was not lenient enough and it should be commuted further?

A No; there is no such letter. The only thing we had was the expression of the district attorney made in open hearing in which he—not asked for—a more lenient clemency than the Board actually gave. I am now referring to Mr. McLaughlin, at that time District Attorney of Erie County.

Q What I am driving at is this, sir: I am wondering what motivated the Board. But do you have anything in your files—

A Notes, no.

Q In the way of notes or otherwise—

A No.

Q Which would show the reasoning of the Board in further commuting the sentence from a year to eleven months?

A No, sir. What is in the file is the only thing I have.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, I would like to go over and review this pivotal procedure to see if I can help straighten it out. You were asked by the committee counsel whether you had any letter prior to October 4 upon which the Board acted to deny a rehearing. Now I ask you to produce that petition and the envelope in which it came that you had opened here.

A The Flatley case you are referring to Mr. —

Q Yes.

A This is the Flatley folder as handed to me by Mr. Kohn.

Q Now you had a letter together with the petition opened in front of you while Mr. Kohn was questioning you. Where is that?

A You see everything here, and I do not see where it is now.

MR. FINNEGAN: It is in the Martin file.

Q Will you get the Martin file?

A This is the Martin file. Here is a letter of October 25; here is a letter of October 14; a letter of October 5th.

Q Now you are asked about the memorandum indicating that on October 4 there was a decision by the four members of the Board refusing a rehearing in the Martin case? I show you such a letter marked "Received October 4, 1955, Board of Pardons."

MR. KOHN: No, now wait a minute. Let us get this straight.

A This was received by him from the Board, not a letter received by anybody else.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is right. That is exactly what I said.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q It says to all Board members from Frank Hean, and contains, does it not, Mr. Hean, the signatures of all four members indicating their vote on the question of rehearing in the Martin case?

A It does so indicate.

Q And as of October 4, 1955?

A That is correct.

Q Now Mr. Kohn asked you was there anything prior to that upon which the Board acted. I show you an envelope marked "Received September 7, 1955, to the Pennsylvania Board of Pardons, Attention: Pardons Board Secretary"; attached to a petition from a group of friends and neighbors of Mr. Martin. Is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q And that contains a number of signatures?

A Quite a few.

Q Does it contain a request for a further consideration of Martin's case?

A "We ask that this, our petition, be given consideration, at least to the extent that he," that is Martin, "be released to return to his family by the Christmas season."

Q And signed by a number of his friends?

A Oh, by a number.

Q Did it assert any new grounds?

A It asserted no new grounds.

Q Now following that letter of September 7 asserting no new grounds but asking that he be released by Christmas at least, the Board met, then acted on October 4 to decline that rehearing?

A That is correct.

Q Now then, on October 14, 1955, you received a letter from Judge Evans?

A That was so indicated. Indicating we received it on or about that time.

Q That Judge Evans quotes "If you contemplated releasing him at the expiration of his minimum period January 8, I would see no reason for refusal to allow two weeks' further reduction in order that he would be home for Christmas."

SENATOR SCOTT: What was the date of that, sir?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The date is October 14.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now after the Board declined to act on this petition by friends and neighbors asking that he be released by Christmas, Mr. Carney then, did he not, present a petition which did recite new reasons?

A They were new reasons of Judge Evans' change of attitude.

Q Is this always considered by the Board to be a significant and new reason?

A The attitude of the sentencing judge is always considered most significant.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did you say that represented a change in the judge's attitude, the letter of October 14? Did you say that?

A I said it changed, the judge's attitude.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am speaking of the release as to Christmas because what the Board is interested in is the reduction from one year to eleven months and nine days.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now let us get one thing straight, Mr. Hean. Is not it a fact that the Board commutes nothing; the Board has no power of commutation whatever?

A That is correct.

Q All that the Board does is to make a recommendation to the Governor?

A That is their entire function, to recommend.

Q Did the Board ever make a recommendation to the Governor that the sentence be reduced to one year?

A They never made such a recommendation.

Q Did the Governor ever commute the sentence to one year?

A The Board—The Governor never commuted the sentence. He had no such recommendations before him.

Q And no power therefore to commute it to one year?

A No; our Constitution gives him no power.

Q And, therefore, the reconsideration of the Board from one year down to eleven months and nine days was not a new commutation, was it?

A No. Absolutely no.

Q Representative Bell raised the question as to whether there was a public hearing in granting a new commutation which had been first commuted to a year and then another commutation down to eleven months and nine days. Were there two commutations?

A There was only one.

Q And was there a public hearing on the one that was granted?

A Most emphatically so, held in September of 1955.

Q Did it, therefore, represent merely a change as to the effective date on which the recommendation would apply?

A That is correct. It changed it from one year to eleven months and five days.

Q Now at the same time that Mr. Flatley's case was being considered was Mr. Martin's and other cases involved in this eighteen being considered?

A Yes sir.

Q Did the consideration of the one naturally effect the others on the question of whether some or all would get out before Christmas?

A Yes, I had several where we changed from one year to a month or so lesser than originally we talked over.

Q In other words, that men need not serve over Christmas just to stay in jail a couple of extra weeks?

A A couple days, yes.

SENATOR SCOTT: Are you through, Mr. McBride, with the petition that was circulated by friends and neighbors?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

SENATOR SCOTT: May I examine it?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

SENATOR SCOTT: That was the petition which was circulated evidentally before—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Otcober 4th.

SENATOR SCOTT: Before October 4, on which grounds the circulation of the letter was had?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is right, sir.

SENATOR SCOTT: I would like to see that again.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is in the Martin case. There were not any more.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, I call your attention to the fact that the commutation of the Governor is dated the 4th day of October. Now in view of the fact that the commutation of the Governor was not actually granted on the 4th day of October, it is clear that that date is not the date of the Governor's signature, is not it?

A I just do not get your question, Mr. McBride.

Q. Well, let me put it this way in a series of questions. Who makes up the forms?

A We fill in the forms.

Q And do you fill in the date?

A We do not put in the date.

Q Who does?

A After the Governor signs it we are informed as to the actual date of the signature of the Governor.

Q Who typed this, do you know, because this is a decision, and you say this is the only commutation and it is a commutation from one and one-half years to a new minium term of eleven months and five days expiring on December 15, 1955? Who typed that day October 4, 1955, in view of the obvious fact, under your testimony, that that was not the date on which the Governor actually signed it. Are these things made up ahead of time?

A This is all made up ahead of time?

Q Which is ——

A This is a Governor's charter or warrant.

Q Oh, and was this information then as to the expiration date filled in after the ultimate decision of the Board was arrived at, that would be eleven months and five days?

A Yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, are we trying to attack and discredit the commutation which contains the Governor's signature and seal of the Commonwealth?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No. of course not. We are trying to explain that this is made up and the date put on it at the time it is drawn up. You see at this time the question of whether or not it was going to be one year or eleven months and five days was not yet ultimately decided.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Wait a minute. General, are you testifying or what?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am telling you what the testimony is. I am explaining your question. You asked me what I am doing and I am giving you an answer.

SENATOR SCOTT: If that October 4 is an incorrect date then what date did the Governor sign it?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, that is what we will find out by additional evidence because it is quite evident, gentlemen, and, in fairness, it happens to everybody, when these things are made up, and it happens in your office and in mine, the date of the official action is put upon it and then the signatures are put upon it.

MR. KOHN: That date is certified by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, James Finnegan.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, well now is anybody here going to suggest that anything really turns on that question. We are not going to pick at flies, are we?

SENATOR SCOTT: You are going to give us the actual date in question?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will give you the actual date if it is within my power to get it and I will submit it to the Board as to these precise questions as to these matters.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The one thing that I want to clear up in my own mind which is from the statement made by the General here, and I do not understand that anything was brought out by this witness, and that is this: Am I to understand that this commutation was made up and prepared, was in the hands of the Governor and signed by him before the time there had been a final decision to further reduce it from one year to eleven months and five days?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Quite the opposite, sir, quite the opposite. The statement—the testimony of the witness is that the commutation is prepared. Then when the date of release is decided upon, that is inserted before the Governor signs it but after it is decided upon. That is precisely what he testified to.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What do you mean by "release," General?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The date when the man is to be released from jail. This one was made effective December 15, and that would be the date of his release from jail. Now under the testimony it was to be one year as their first consideration had it, and then they reconsidered from the new evidence the idea that instead of getting out on January 6 he ought to get out before Christmas since it made so little difference, and then they decided to let this man out on Christmas, remembering that the District Attorney wanted him to get out even before then.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What I am trying to get at is this, do I understand that the Governor signs these in blank and then the Board fills them out?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Oh no, precisely the opposite. That is just what I got through explaining, that the Board makes up this commutation charter and puts a date on it when they act and then after it is sent to the Governor he may consider it for a week, he may consider it for ten hours, he may consider it for one day, he may consider it for as long as it needs to be considered by him, and then he signs it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Do I understand that this 4th of October is the date on which the Board transmitted this communication to the Governor?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No, sir, you do not understand that because that is not the testimony. The 4th of October date that is put on there is an incorrect date because they considered the question on the 4th of October and did not decide to grant anything as of that date. It was later, the precise date we do not as yet have and will unquestionably come when the Board itself is questioned, because it was not until after October 14, when Judge Evans' letter came in asking in addition to Mr. Carney's letter and in addition to the previous petition asking that the man be let out before Christmas, that they took that action. Now yet the October 4 date that had been originally placed upon it was just left on there, it was not changed.

SENATOR SCOTT: General, let me ask this?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

SENATOR SCOTT: Following your giving us the outline of the procedure, when is the actual recommendation as to commutation of the Board typed on this certificate?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The actual date of the recommendation?

SENATOR SCOTT: I do not mean the actual date but when was it done in the sequence of events?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is done when the Board signs it usually. It should be done when the Board signs it because the Board does not sign this, the Board does not sign this Charter of commutation at all. The Board signs this separate paper, a copy of which you have, which states their reasons. Now if you get that in this particular case, you will probably see a different date on it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: There is no date on it at all.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is the kind of thing you can get directly from a member of the Pardons Board because, obviously, I cannot testify to it; I was not there; but the Lieutenant Governor keeps a record in his own hand writing of the time every argument starts and the time it finished. He keeps rather a meticulous record and he will be a witness who can tell you definitely the answer to all these things.

SENATOR SCOTT: Well, may I point out, General, on this commutation of the Governor's date, October 4, on the statement of what the claim is going to be, it is quite evident that a particular period of time was inserted and then erased, and then the eleven months, five days was inserted instead. There is an erasure there.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That may be. I did not examine it closely.

SENATOR SCOTT: If you would examine it closely to see if it was a correction on the date. (showing a paper to Attorney General McBride)

SENATOR SCOTT: Do you feel that I am correct in assuming that something else was in here before?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It looks that way.

SENATOR SCOTT: I was wondering, in the sequence of events when that would have been.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is the thing that Lieutenant Governor can probably explain to your complete satisfaction. I know I cannot. I cannot be going about obtaining dates on documents.

MR. KOHN: May I ask that the Attorney General request the Governor that we get the original on that. I think that is very evident that one year was in there.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The original of this is in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You may proceed, General.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Hean, you were questioned also about whether letters were received and any record was made of them. Do you have such a thing known as a cardex file?

A I have a cardex file that covers only the applications that the Board has received in the past twenty years, but no file of letters that had been received by the Board on any particular case; no cardex file of that character.

Q That is, there is no particular record to which you could go to now and answer the question, how many letters did you receive for or against a particular application and from whom?

A I can only refer to the file, we'll say a particular file. We will say it was John Brown, and in that folder would be such letters as the Board received, that is, the Board of Pardons. As a Board, and they would be incorporated in that file.

Q That is where you received letters for the Board of Pardons you put them in the file?

A I put them in the file.

Q Where individual members receive Board of Pardons' letters they sometimes transmitted them to you as part of your notes, and, as far as you know sometimes they do not?

A That is correct.

Q But the ones that they do transmit to you, you put in the file?

A Put it in the file.

Q Has anything been removed whatever from any of these files?

A Absolutely not.

FURTHER RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I still do not get it straight. Who make up the reasons for the commutation by the Board?

A For the Board I make them up.

Q And then they, together with the entire file, is sent to the Governor's office?

A That is correct.

Q And then that together with the prior file is sent to the Governor's office?

A That is correct.

Q Now at that time do you make the Governor's warrant up?

A I do.

Q And do you make up and forward to the Governor the reasons for the commutation and the Governor's warrant completely filled out?

A Yes sir, except for his signature. I do not put his signature on.

Q Not the Governor's signature, but you put in the commutation period?

A The expiration date of the new minimum.

Q That is put in before it goes to the Governor?

A That is correct.

Q You would not know of any change?

A In this particular case that warrant was made up following the meeting. One year was put in. Probably, there was an erasure there, and before the whole folder went to the Governor.

Q You did insert the date that the Governor signed it?

A We are informed as of the approximate date that he signed it.

Q The Secretary of the Commonwealth would then attach his seal to it and put the date of the Governor's signature?

A Not always but he does sometimes. Now in this particular instance I cannot state whether he attached that or whether I put it in, that is, our office put in the 4th day of October. That I cannot answer.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have one question about the rehearing procedure.

FURTHER RE-CROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Hean, I show you an exhibit which is attached and marked in its proper consecutive number, 10 P. B.

A six-page memorandum was produced and marked for identification as Pardons Board Exhibit No. 10, March 6, 1957, A.M.O.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Hean, I show you this Pardons Board's Exhibit No. 10 and ask you whether this is a sample of the way in which letters are received from lawyers which ask for rehearings, the Board meets, considers them and states its position?

A The request for rehearings are always—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now wait a minute, just a minute. You say, "Are these samples?"

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, here is a particular one. This one was from Mr. Kohn. Since Mr. Kohn has questioned the procedure by which these procedures are heard and granted—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What Mr. Kohn?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The committee counsel.

MR. KOHN: I have no objection to that whole file going in because I wanted to have a new hearing on it and I supported my reason.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I did not think you would.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Hean, did you get a letter dated June 28, 1955 from Mr. Kohn notifying you that he wanted a rehearing of a case in which the Board had refused the application for commutation dated June 16, 1955?

A Yes; I so received such a letter.

Q And Mr. Kohn stated his reasons?

A He did.

Q Was there any formal petition or answering of all the questions that took place in the original application?

A There was sufficient. The Board—

Q Just answer that question. Was there, in addition to the letter, any formal petition or was it the letter itself?

A It was the letter itself, no formal petition.

Q Now was that letter considered by the Board?

A It was.

Q Did the Board vote upon it?

A The Board voted upon it.

Q Was the vote of the Board two to two?

A Two to two.

Q Was a rehearing granted?

A The rehearing was granted.

Q Is that the typical, normal procedure in such cases?

A That is typical, normal procedure.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Was a rehearing had in open court or in open session?

A It was requested in July. I have not the September list in front of me.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We will accept your statement, Mr. Kohn, if you want to make it.

MR. KOHN: There was a rehearing had in open session.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Certainly.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think the whole folder on that should go along.

MR. KOHN: And, subsequently, application was again filed and refused.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think that is not material. It is a question of procedure.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do no. think that is important, we are not discussing that.

MR. KOHN: I think application concerned is a customary procedure which you follow? Is that right?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That's right, that is correct. I am willing to put the folder in but I do not see any necessity of it. I think it is a question of procedure.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That same procedure has been testified to before.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: And followed by Mr. Kohn.

MR. KOHN: Well, my point I wanted to bring out was whether there were rehearings gran ed upon which there was no public hearing or no hearing held.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is a weak question. There is not the slightest evidence to that effect, that there was a rehearing granted apart from a public one. It was a reconsideration of a public hearing

MR. KOHN: All right, I know it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, that is a big difference.

MR. KOHN: May we see that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You certainly may see it, but that is not what you wanted.

MR. KOHN: I want the Governor's warrant the original

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The Governors charter of commutation of which this is a copy? I was going to ask a question about this, may I?

MR. KOHN: Surely.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Hean, I show you the original of the recommendation that went to the Governor of Pennsylvania. Does that contain the names of all the members of the Board of Pardons?

A It contains the names of all the Board.

Q And showing Mr. Cohen in dissent?

A That is correct.

Q And showing that above recommendations is, "Approved" and signed "George M. Leader"?

A That is correct.

Q Does this go before the charter of commutations is made up?

A We make it up all simultaneously.

Q Now look at this very carefully. The commutation from one and one-half years to eleven months, five days does not that bear evidence right on its face that it had been changed.

A That had been changed. It shows an erasure and one year.

Q Originally it has a "Y". It looked like it had one year?

A It would so appear from the examination of this paper.

Q Was that done before it went to the Governor?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: And is that letter dated at all?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is not dated.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q And your records would not show whether the four members of the Board signed that before the change or after the change? Nothing in your record to show that?

A No, except that the Board had acted for eleven months, five days. That paper went before them for their signature. I presume every member of the Board read it, and if I had one year in there instead of eleven months and five days, it certainly would have been corrected.

Q Let us just get back to your procedure, if I may, Mr. Hean, a minute. You testified that you notified the district attorney of the action of the Board in commuting it to one year. You do not make those notifications until such time as the Board has actually signed that recommendation?

A I do not make the notice until the Governor has actually signed.

Q So that what you are now saying is that when you notified the district attorney that the sentence had been commuted from one and one-half years to one year, the Governor and members of the Board had already signed that recommendation?

A If I made the statement that I notified the District Attorney of Erie County that the Board had commuted the sentence from one and one-half to one year that is quite an error because I had received no information from my office, the Board of Pardons' office, until the Governor had signed the warrant.

Q In other words, if you previously testified, as you have, that the district attorney was notified of the commutation being from one and one-half to one year and did not receive notice when it was changed from one year to eleven months, five days you were evidently in error?

A I was, because if I so testified, but I only testified to the fact that when the Governor has signed a commutation we notify the District Attorney and other interested parties that such a commutation has been granted by the Governor, and that notices only go out—

Q Will you please refer to your files and show me a copy of the letter to the District Attorney notifying of commutation?

A The copy that we sent out is a form copy. I can bring down the form and show you.

Q You do not have a form of this one? You do not have any copies with you?

A We do not put a form in the folder. It is a form letter which is sent out together with a marked calendar showing the action of the Board.

Q Do you have any way of checking when that letter was dated?

A No, I have no copy of it. I have only a form letter.

Q Do you have any way of checking when you send those letters out on all cases that come before you and had been—

A You are now thinking of the Erie cases?

Q The ones heard at the same date.

A Following the signature of the Governor when we receive it back from him.

Q I am asking you, do you have any place that you can refer to in your records that would indicate when you sent those letters out?

A No, I do not.

MR. KOHN: All right, I have nothing further.

SENATOR SCOTT: I have one question.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q I am getting back to the procedure, Mr. Hean, this was a portion of the file which General McBride questioned you about. I wonder if you would take this, sir, and look at the envelope which is stapled thereto. The date that the letter was received by the Board is what?

A September. It looks like seventh—sixth or seventh.

Q And the envelope would indicate that the letter came from who?

A From a man by the name of D. Zimmer of Erie, Pennsylvania.

Q Would you look and see if Mr. D. Zimmer is a signer of that particular petition? I think you will find his name on page two as David Zimmer.

A So far I cannot find it.

Q Over on the next page.

A Next page, David Zimmer 900 East 27th Street, I think, Erie, Pennsylvania.

Q And what does he give as his occupation? Is not that alleged there after the signature of his name?

A He is an insurance salesman.

Q Now the question I have, Mr. Hean, is, is it not a practice for the Board, upon receipt of a petition signed by many persons or a few persons or on receipt of a letter, is it normal practice then for the Board to take up under consideration the rehearing of a particular case?

A If we receive—Let me answer it this way: from an attorney only one letter would be necessary under his own signature.

Q Would that have to be the attorney who was a matter of record?

A Not necessarily.

Q Would it be a formal letter asking for a rehearing, more particularly, an application.

A I would say an informal letter requesting a petition and this letter came from quite a few citizens, maybe twenty or twenty-five of them from the city of Erie.

Q But not through an attorney?

A Not through an attorney, no.

Q And now my question again is, is it normal practice for the Board to reconsider or to rehear an application under situations such as that?

A I would say this: we received a few of them but when we do they are considered by the Board as valid requests from representative people and they are considered by the Board. It is not usual but when it is such a valid instrument like this, then the Board considered it.

Q Now, if there were five signatures on that petition, would that be a valid request?

A Well now, you are asking me for a guess, Senator. I do not know. I would say if he was a bank embezzler and he had the signatures of five bank presidents, I think the Board would consider that, but here is some twenty odd signatures of twenty-five, I would suggest, respectable persons in the City of Erie.

Q How large is the city of Erie, do you know?

A It is nearly a hundred thousand, my recollection.

(A voice: A hundred forty-five thousand, the third largest in the State.)

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Following along the same line, where there is a record the Board has ever refused, that you know of, to consider rehearings or his petitions and then subsequently granted petitions like this one we are referring to?

A I have no present recollection of such instance.

Q Do you have any recollection of any cases where the Board has refused an attorney and then someone else made a request, from an individual, some official, in the first place, and a hearing was granted?

A I have no such recollection. I would say it was not.

Q Did you say there was not?

A I will not say there was not because I am not on the Board.

Q Would that be the practice of the Board to refuse the attorney for the applicant and then subsequently, upon receipt of request, from somebody else, would they grant that rehearing then?

A They have the power to do it but I have no recollection of it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That would be anti-lawyer, would not it?

SENATOR SCOTT: They did not turn down the application here after considering it. I was wondering whether they even considered it under a procedure such as this

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The testimony is they did. The lawyers signed a formal and these other groups.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q My records show that there was a petition away back in June and it was an application with an attorney with a petition that was refused at that time, is that correct?

A You are talking about the Martin case?

Q Yes. I am talking about the same one everybody else is, Martin.

A I think a man by the name of Carney—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The man had been in about five months.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I show you a photostat of a letter dated August, 1955 which was written by you to the District Attorney of Erie County setting forth the cases which had been acted upon by the Board at the previous session? Is that a photostatic copy of this letter?

A I would say it was.

Q And that is on Department of Justice stationery, is it not?

A The Board of Pardons Division, yes, sir.

Q And would not you have in your files a copy of the letter in the Flatley case that is imilar to that?

A Well, if it is not in the file, I would not have it, sir.

Q Did you dictate that letter?

A I do not think that is a dictated letter, no sir, just a form letter.

Q Is that just a form letter?

A Yes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You see it does not have Flatley on it. You are asking if he dictated it in each case. It does not indicate that there is a special letter in the file.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q It is a letter you sent out to each county district attorney in which he informed them what happened. It is a form letter in which you inserted names, but the rest of it is all printed?

A That is right. It is not a dictated letter.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have an announcement from Mr. Finnegan to satisfy the Board on this matter. He informs me that the original of the Governors charter of commutation is sent to the county jail or the place of confinement, whether it is a pentitentiary or otherwise, which authorizes him to release, and that is why Mr. Finnegan does not have the original of this. In charter of bond cases it is sent to the man himself, who is usually already out of jail. Now we would be delighted to commuicate with Mr. Flatley, who was in the Erie county jail, was he?

MR. KOHN: Allegheny.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I shall be delighted to communicate with him asking him to forward, for the court's information, the original of this charter and I will produce it if he forwards it to me.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, General, in view of the testimony of Mr. Hean in connection with this document which is the reason filed by the Board of Pardons and signed by them and the Governor, there were erasures striking out one year and eleven months and inserting eleven months, five days. Would you agree that there was also such an erasure existing in the warrant?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I agree with that without the production of the original. As soon as I looked at it I agreed with Senator Scott that it gives the appearance of eleven months, five days having been squeezed in in approximately the place that it would take for one year. That seems to be so and there is an obvious similar change on this as the testimony shows they had first considered a year and then reconsidered, but not granted two commutations. It would require an intermediate public hearing. That was Representative Bell's question.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. McBride, because of this erasure there that changes the time for which the prisoner was commuted, I think we ought to get on the record testimony from the Board members.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: So do I.

SENATOR YOSKO: So that they actually did make a change, so we would know whether or not somebody tampered with it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: A highly pertinent observation. The members of the Board are here and have been here for every minute and will submit themselves for questioning the instant the committee decides to question them.

SENATOR YOSKO: May I make a suggestion to the Pardons Board: that hereafter if and when they do grant a commutation which indicates a certain period and upon reconsideration it is changed, instead of using the erasure method of making the change, re-type it so that this sort of thing does not enter the controversy.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Senator, that is highly desirable, but may I point out to you just one statement: that if there was anything wrong about it, the easiest thing in the world would have been to retype the whole thing to make it look perfect. The fact that there is an erasure shows that there was nothing wrong about it, except the method you suggested is the better method.

SENATOR YOSKO: Because there is an erasure on it it has given those fellows something to write about.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is the lazy mans way of doing it.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q If those erasures were made, regardless of when they were made, would they have been made under your jurisdiction and suprvision?

A Oh, yes.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Do you know who made the erasures?

A Well, I know that the stenographer then made them at my direction.

Q You are the one who directed those erasures?

A Undoubtedly.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q And did you direct the stenographer to make the erasures at the direction of the Pardons Board?

A Certainly.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, do you have one secretary or more than one?

A I have one stenographer and one clerk. I have two persons in the office.

Q Does one person handle all this work?

A Yes.

Q Does he use two different typewriters?

A We have four broken-down—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Can I make a plug here for our appropriations?

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, Mr. Hean will you tell us were those erasures made before or after the Governor attached his signature to those documents?

A They were made before the Governor signed his name to the recommendations and to the charter.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q I think for the purpose of the record I would like to point out to Mr. Hean that the—do you call that a charter?

A I am used to calling it a charter of pardon. It is a warrant. I believe it is also called a warrant of commutation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is also called a warrant.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: The warrant also shows that the typing was by two different typewriters.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do not doubt that. Now you take care of our appropriations.

THE WITNESS: I would like to have an electric typewriter.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Why, at this point I would like to get the document here verified for the benefit of the members of the committee if Mr. Wright would verify this document.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Victor Wright, Esquire. Do you want to call him?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I would like to call him to verify this document.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Normally, a statement made at a public hearing is accepted. He has no objection at all to testifying under oath and perhaps we should apply the same principle. When Mr. Kohn makes a statement I accept it.

MR. KOHN: I have no objection to them going in the record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You are of counsel here.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right, so is Mr. Wright.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is all right, we will take the gentleman's certification.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He is a Deputy Attorney General and formerly as Assistant District Attorney in Philadelphia and, if I may plug him, also a very capable man.

MR. WRIGHT: Thank you, boss.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well. We will accept the brief statement regarding the record.

MR. KOHN: I would like to call another witness on a short matter.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, we will take one not too long here.

DAMIEN McLAUGHLIN, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now your name is Damien McLaughlin and you are former District Attorney of Erie County?

A That is correct.

Q How long were you district attorney?

A Ten years.

Q You are now Assistant District Attorney, are you not?

A That is correct, sir.

Q Under District Attorney Herbert Johnson?

A That is correct.

Q I want to call your specific attention as to whether or not you received a notice from the Board of Pardons advising you that the sentence of Thomas W. Flatley had been commuted to a period of one year.

A Yes, to my recollection I did receive such a notice.

Q And subsequently thereafter. Did Mr. Carney, the Attorney for Mr. Flatley, come to see you about whether or not you objected to any further reduction of that sentence.

A I am positive that Mr. Carney talked to me about that Mr. Martin.

Q Not Martin. I am talking about Flatley now.

A He talked to me about both of them, about Mr. Martin and Mr Flatley, and I told him I had no objections if they released them before Christmas.

Q Was this after you had received notice that Flatley's sentence was commuted to one year?

A To the best of my recollection, yes.

Q And after that was Flatley left out in eleven months, five days, as far as you know?

A Well, I have no formal knowledge of it.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. McLaughlin, in connection with this list I should like to—

MR. KOHN: No, Mr. McBride, I would object to any question except along this line.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, may it please the Committee, I was informed that we were not going to proceed with strict court procedure. What is is wrong with my attempting to elicit from Mr. McLaughlin this question? What is wrong with whether I ask him did he make certain recommendations and so forth.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, if he is going to become a witness for the defense, then that is one thing, and if you are going to cross-examine him on matters he has testified to.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will accept any view of that highly technical question you choose to take. I am satisfied that Mr. McLaughlin will tell the truth and I am willing to be bound by his testimony just as if he were my own witness.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I will not question the man's integrity.

THE WITNESS: I would prefer to testify now so I do not have to come back to Harrisburg.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, if we deny such privilege to the Attorney General, then the same should be denied to the Committee. If I remember correctly, we read into the record a statement, a rather elegant plea written into the Pardons Board on behalf of Mr. Martin. That plea was made on behalf of Mr. Martin. That plea was made in connection with the hearing held before the Board on I forget what date—the entire remarks of the General were read into the record, and I think that since we have gone that far we certainly should have the right in this committee to ask what recommendations and what arguments were made in respect to the other defendants as they appeared before the Pardons Board.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q I would like at this time to ask whether—What is your name, sir?

A McLaughlin.

Q Appeared before the Pardons Board and also recommended clemency for other defendants?

A In some cases I did, yes.

Q In some cases you did, and did you refuse in certain cases?

A That is correct.

Q And did you argue against their commutation?

A In some cases, yes.

Q Can you tell us which cases you approved and which cases you disapproved or, rather, did not recommend clemency?

A Mr. Wright, may I have a copy of that, please?

MR. KOHN: I think you should finish one question upon which I called him before you get into collateral matters. You talked about collateral matters and now you are in this. I would prefer that the Board examine him on the portion I examined him about.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, perhaps Mr. Kohn will inform the committee and the Attorney General what it was that you brought out by Mr. McLaughlin that you would prefer to exhaust first.

MR. KOHN: I brought out that Mr. McLaughlin received a letter from Mr. Hean showing this commutation of Flatley's was for a period of one year and subsequently Mr. Carney came to him and asked him that in both cases of Martin and Flatley whether or not he would have any objection if the Board made a further commutation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is not a further communtation, Mr. Kohn.

MR. KOHN: Well, a further reduction in the sentence. Now is the Board making any questions?

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What is your recollection Mr. McLaughlin with reference to the time when you had that conversation with Mr. Carney?

A It would be very difficult for me to place that date. Possibly if I could talk to Mr. Carney he would remember it. I would say it would be along in October sometime.

Q Was it prior to the time you received any notice from the Pardons Board regarding their actions in any of these cases?

A As I recall that I had received notice of the action at the time Mr. Carney talked to me that it so happened that both would get out shortly after the holiday season, and Mr. Carney asked did I have any objection if he tried to get them out for the Christmas holidays, and I told him I had no objection.

Q Your recollection then is that you first received a letter stating one year, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q And after you received that letter is when Mr. Carney called you and talked to you?

A That is correct.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Would that letter be in your file back in Erie County?

A There would be no reason for us to keep it. If it was kept it would be only incidentally because after a case has gone that far, the district attorney has nothing to do with it.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Do you recall who signed the letter from the Pardons Board?

A No. I do not. It was a form letter I know.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Finished?

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Do you recall, Mr. McLaughlin, clearly that it was a letter?

A It was a form of some kind, not necessarily in the form of a letter but giving me the information that Flatley's sentence had been commuted to one year.

Q Let me just indulge in a little more precision. You were not informed that it had been commuted, had you? That is. we both recognize that commutation is by the Governor.

A Yes.

Q You had not been informed that the Governor had signed a warrant of commutation, were you?

A No.

Q Merely that the Board of Pardons had so recommended?

A I could not tell you; I cannot rely on my memory to the extent to tell you that.

Q But you had conferences with Mr. Carney and you told him to the effect that if the Board was going to let these men out right after the first of the year you saw no reason why they should not get out before Christmas?

A That is right. That is correct.

Q Now, as to political influence—you were and are a Republican, are not you?

A That is correct.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Now as to the others matters I wanted to go into, the Board had a little consultation among themselves and I do not know what your ruling is, if you did rule as to whether I could ask him about these other cases. Since they were all considered, I think he would agree that he considered them as one affecting the other cases, and the Board did. Now I would like to go into those other cases.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Can't he make a general statement on it?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, it will not take long.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I have no objection. We are here to get as much information as we can and I see no objection.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I see no objection to it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Senator Fleming?

SENATOR FLEMING: Well, Mr. Chairman, I certainly feel that Mr. McLaughlin being summoned here or asked to come here by Mr. McBride was highly irregular. I mean I think you should not have—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Irregular?

SENATOR FLEMING: —asked him if he would come and testify today without clearing it with the Board first, but now since he is here, I certainly think that we should give an opportunity to the General to ask the questions that he wants, so that we do not inconvience Mr. McLAUGHLIN, who has come about 300 miles to be in attendance. I think we should let the gentleman go ahead, and if I may suggest to the chairman that he does not bring in witnesses on us in the future without first clearing it with the committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Senator Fleming. there is no rule of morality, decency or justice or anything else that prevents a man from asking a man to come. I did not subpoena or attempt to subpoena Mr. McLaughlin, and what the Senator Fleming says seems to me to be without precedent. I never heard such a suggestion before, that man cannot ask another man to come here. Certainly—

MR. KOHN: I think he said that in the sequence of witnesses you asked him to come, the sequence should follow upon sequence you agreed upon. I do not think he meant you did not have a right to ask him to come.

BY SENATOR FLEMING:

Q Mr. McLaughlin did you have the impression that you were coming here to testify before this committee today?

A Yes, I was requested to be down here at 9:30 this morning.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is right. Now if the committee following its normal procedure, when we finish up with the Erie County cases it was understood that I was going to be allowed to call witnesses. I did not tell Mr. McLaughlin that he would go at 9:30, but, certainly, if I want to ask anybody to come here I hope you are not suggesting there is anything improper in that, that when my turn comes to call a witness, I cannot call a voluntary witness. He has been called by Mr. Kohn. Why not let him finish whatever light he can throw upon that situation?

SENATOR FLEMING: I suggest that, but I say to you, sir, that this is a legislative investigation committee and we will lay down the rules, sir, on which we will investigate. That, sir, is an right inherent of ours.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If you say that that is an inherent right of this Legislature to tell the Attorney General of Pennsylvania that he cannot voluntarily call a witness to come here, I will say I will violate that rule. Why, I can ask anybody I please to come before this State Legislature.

SENATOR FLEMING: I say you have no right to tell the Legislative committee how they shall operate.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am not trying to.

SENATOR FLEMING: Your remarks are entirely out of order.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: My remarks are not out of order anymore than yours are out of order.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think, Mr. Chairman, that the situation has become involved because Mr. Kohn himself, who is our commmittee counsel, put the witness on the stand, and I think the General realizes that he must wait until this committee and its counsel has presented all of the facts that they desire to present or desire to hear, and then he will have an opportunity at the end of that time in the series of county cases or one particular case that we may have concluded, I am saying that you will then have an opporunity to bring people in.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Precisely—

SENATOR SCOTT: My situation is that as long as our own counsel has put this witness on the stand, I can see no reason and I agree with Senator Fleming, that as long as he is there, and there because this committee has put him there, he should go ahead and allow the General to cross-examine.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: If this Committee were binding itself by strict rules of evidence and court rules, the position of our counsel would be correct. I think the Attorney General would agree with that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do so agree.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: But we are not bound by the strict rules of evidence before this legislative committee, and we have the full powers of a legislative investigating committee granted to us by the General Assembly. We do not propose to violate any rules as we understand and interpret them, in our procedure, but inasmuch will, as our own counsel put him on the stand, although I believe he was called here by the Attorney General, we will let him proceed at this time.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, may I make this one observation? I want in the future, however, to state that if there is a witness who is called that gives us certain limited information which the committee itself is trying to elicit from the witness, I do not think that we should go into a general discussion in connection with matters that our Attorney General may have desired the witness to be called for in the first place.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, may I make an observation? In my opinion, I think the Attorney General or any member of the Pardons Board or even myself or any member of this committee can ask a prospective witness to attend a session, and that is no more than the Attorney General did today, but this whole controversy would not have arose if Mr. Kohn would not have called Mr. McLaughlin to testify. If the Attorney General would try to force us to hear Mr McLaughlin out of sequence, then I would say that there would be ground for objection, but since our own counsel called Mr. McLaughlin and since he is here and since I assume he wants to get back to Erie, I agree with Mr. Fleming and Senator Scott—I agree—that while he is on the stand we ought to finish with him.

MR. KOHN. Mr. McBride, may I ask the witness one question before you get on to something else?

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. McLaughlin, you heard Mr. Hean testify that he never sent these notices of commutation out till such time as they had been recommended by the Board of Pardons and signed by the Governor.

A Yes.

Q Do you know of any instance, because such has been suggested by the Attorney General, that you were notified in advance of the Board's action before they signed the commutation?

A I know of no such instance.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I would like to ask Mr. Hean to get for this committee a copy of the form letter which he has suggested that he sends out to district attorneys regarding action of the Board.

THE WITNESS: Do you want it now or shall I bring it into the afternoon session?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Bring it into the afternoon session. Now I want a copy of the form letter which he claims he uses.

MR. KOHN: Yes, I would like to see it too.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May we also ask that a search be made by Mr. McLaughlin of the files of the District Attorney's office to see if that letter is here. Normally, the letter speaks for itself, and if there is such a letter it should be produced. Well, I know in fairness these gentlemen will be glad to produce it.

MR. KOHN: We will be glad to produce it. We did not know this thing was going to come up this morning.

THE WITNESS: If I have it, I would be glad to produce it. Whether the letter sent to me gave me the exact date of commutation or not I could not swear, but somewhere or other I must have had in my mind the sentence was to expire in June because I do definitely recall my conversation with Mr. Carney about getting him out before Christmas.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q But right at this moment you would not want to say that you did have such a letter, would you? It just came to your attention whether through Mr. Carney or through another statement at this time you are not certain?

A I am not positive about that statement.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Was Mr. Carney the Attorney for the applicant for the commutation?

A Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Did he represent Flatley?

A He represented both Martin and Flatley before the Pardons Board.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Are you positive that you received a letter from the Pardons Board stating that the commutation in the Flatley case, that it would be to one year?

A I received a letter that it had been commuted but I cannot state positively what commutation had been granted. I may have received information that it had been granted from one and a half to one year, from some other source; possibly through the newspapers.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Is that letter in existence?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If we have it, we will produce it, and if they have it, they can produce it.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Attorney General may I suggest that Mr. Hean, who sent the letter out, also check his files.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, now you say he sent the letter out. If he did send such a letter out and if we have any record of it, I state to the Board it will be produced.

MR. KOHN: He said he sent the letter out.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But he did not say he sent a letter out stating it was a year.

MR. KOHN: You just get from him what he sent out. That is all that I am asking.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I promise that I will if it exists, and the District Attorney's office will also produce any such letter if they have it.

MR. KOHN: Certainly it ought to exist.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It ought to exist if such a letter was sent out prior to the eleven months, five days' letter.

SENATOR SCOTT: Well, was there an eleven months, five days' letter?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That I do not know.

SENATOR SCOTT: You mentioned that there was. It was my impression you said that. What are the eleven months, five days' letter and in my opinion there was no such letter.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, then if there was not an eleven months, five days' letter it is hardly likely that there was a one year letter.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You are testifying again.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. McLaughlin stated as of now he is not sure whether he got it through a letter or through other sources or through a newspaper. Both of us must deal fairly with the Board, and if we have such letter, whether it helps us or hurts us in this instance, I promise you on my honor it will be produced. I know that the District Attorney's office will produce it if they have any such letter for whatever light it can give.

SENATOR YOSKO: Is there any further questioning?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, I have. The committee having ruled that I may ask Mr. McLaughlin these questions, I would like to ask him about these cases.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, Mr. McLaughlin, you appeared before the Board after notice, didn't you?

A That is correct.

Q And the case was argued by Mr. Carney on behalf of Mr. Martin.

A That is correct.

Q And what position did you take in respect of Mr. Martin?

A I asked that the Board pay attention to what Mr. Carney had said, what he said was correct, and I also had few additional reasons why I thought he should be granted a commutation.

Q Are you familiar with the recommendation of the judge or the trial judge on the Martin case?

A No; I am not.

Q Consulting that record, have you any reason to believe that that record is incorrect—the notes we have—as to the judge's recommendation after refusal by the Board?

A No, sir; I have no knowledge of that.

Q Now, we have had in evidence the letter of Judge Evans favoring his release prior to Christmas. You certainly, in view of your earlier recommendations, favored that much at least, didn't you?

A I certainly did; yes, sir.

Q Now, in respect of Mr. Flatley, we have a notation that the judge left the matter entirely up to the Board. Is that your own recollection of the matter?

A I have no knowledge of what the judge was recommending in that matter.

Q Now as to your own position as to Mr. Flatley. What was your position?

A I think that my position—I feel now about it as I did that day, if I can remember that I told the Board, I told them how Flatley had been a longtime friend of mine and I thought very highly of him, that as a person I recommended the Board that he be discharged immediately because he certainly had been punished enough in view of having been reduced from such a high station to such a low one, and that I did not think he would ever get in trouble, but the only question involved was the matter of example to others, and, unfortunately, as District Attorney, I could not ask that he be released at that time. I was referring then to the time we appeared before the Board. I think that I did indicate to the Board that I did not have any objection to some commutation of the sentence, but I did not think he had served enough time at the time of the Board's hearing. The record is there. You could see what it is.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Was that in June?

A No; I believe it was in September, was it not?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: September yes, Mr. McLaughlin.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q And was it a fair statement on your position that if clemency were going to be granted to Mr. Flatley that would release him on, let us say, the sixth of January that you would not think it inappropriate that he be released before Christmas?

A That is a fair statement.

Q Now you considered in the recommendations that you made to the Board all these cases together in their interrelationships, didn't you?

A That is correct. I disapproved of the way the courts handled their sentences and I disapproved of the way the Boards handled their commutations insofar as they completely disregarded my statements that people who plead guilty are entitled to more consideration than those who take a chance to stand trial and they are found guilty.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did you make that statement before the Pardons Board, Mr. McLaughlin?

A Did I make that statement?

Q Yes.

A Yes; I did.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q That is, in some instances you felt that both the court and the Pardons Board were keeping these men in longer than you personally thought they should have been kept in?

A That was only two instances in that respect, the one would be Michalski case which we found out after his trial and conviction that he was only a little peanut operator and had only been in business a short time, that he had been gainfully employed for eighteen years at the General Electric. We checked his work records and he had worked every day. This was just a little side line and I thought that he had received too long a sentence from our court and I told the Pardons Board that. The other instance was, I think, in Jack Martins case. Unfortunately, the Board paid no attention to me as far as Jack Martin is concerned.

Q In other words, the Board did not let him out as soon as you would have let him out?

A Yes.

Q Now as to the case of Michalski you recommended that he be released in September?

A That is correct.

Q In September. Well, he was released in seven months and five days, that is, he was released August 22, 1955. He served considerably less than the other men did, including both Martin and Flatley?

A That is correct.

Q And you favored that he receive that consideration, didn't you?

A That is correct.

Q Now, running down a few of the others, with respect to Mr. Adiutori you entered no objection to consideration for him, did you?

A Now, General, this thing of course is in alphabetical order not in chronological order. If you will refer back to the third page, you wil see James Salamone and Dominick Adiutori were partners and bigshot operators, and they had been for a number of years. Adiutori had previously made an application for a reduction of his sentence and he had been granted a commutation to one year, and I did not see any reason for Adiutori serving any longer than Salamone, because they were equally guilty.

Q So that, in respect to Salamone he got one and one-half to three years?

A Yes.

Q Your recommendations is that he should serve one-half of his minimum or nine months?

A That, I believe, is what I said, that he should serve at least half of his minimum.

Q At least half of his sentence?

A Remember, I thought that the June applications in cases like that were a little premature.

Q Yes, and the Board agreed because they made them serve one year?

A That is correct.

Q And in respect of Mr. Adiutori, you made no objection to his being released, did you?

A I believe what I said was that I thought he should receive the same treatment as Salamone.

Q Well he was released in eleven months and five days and Salamone was released in one year. You cannot contend that that was not in substantial accord with your recommendation?

A That was in substantial accord with my ideas, yes.

Q Now Mr. Alessi—in his case he got one to two years and you took the position that at the time of his application you were opposed to it on the ground that he did not plead guilty?

A That is correct.

Q Now, he was not released until nine months?

A He got nine months, the same thing as those who pled guilty. He was reduced to nine months the same as those who plead guilty. As I said before, I am second-guessing the court and the Board. I am of the same opinion now as I was then, there should be some consideration for these men who stood trial; and here is another matter I would like to call your attention to: It was my expectation at the time I appeared before the Board that these men would pay a fine and costs, and these men have never done so and have never been forced to do so.

Q Well, you agreed that when the Board commutes a prison sentence the collection of the fine and costs is a matter for the local authorities?

A It should have been up to the Parole Board in this instance.

Q Parole Board but not the Board of Pardons?

A Not the Board of Pardons. But I want to explain my own thinking. I had in mind that these men were going to have to pay a much greater financial penalty than they did, or I doubt if I would have been as lenient as I was.

Q Your general view at the time of sentencing then was that the sentences to imprisonment should be less and the financial obligation to pay a fine should have been greater.

A And a longer pardon.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He did not say that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But I think he does say it. I am asking him now, do you now say it? Is this correct that you felt that the prison sentences—

MR. KOHN: May I interrupt here?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, I asked leave to put my question and then Mr. Kohn can object.

Q Now my question is this: is this a fair statement of your position at the time of sentencing that the time of imprisonment should not have been as great but the fines should have been more and that superimposed upon both fine and imprisonment there should have been a greater maximum sentence so that they would have been on parole for a longer period of time?

A That was my opinion which was a criticism of our court, which is a risky thing to do, but as an American I can say it and I think the court knows how I feel about it. And I thought the courts did not handle the cases correctly, but they will do so until there is a better method of handling the matter.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did you state that position to the court at the time sentence was imposed?

A I do not recall exactly what I said, what we told the court at the time, whether I made any general statement. I think each case was handled as it came along. As a matter of fact, it did not make any difference what I said, what the defense attorney said, because they all got the same thing anyway.

Q Did you make that expression as your opinion at the time of the application hearing before the Pardons Board?

A I do not recall if I did or not. It has been my opinion all along. Maybe I expressed it before the Pardons Board; I cannot say.

Q I think it is quite important to this committee we do not care about your review of the case. It is your statement to the Pardons Board that may have influenced their decision.

A I do not believe I stated that to the Pardons Board. I may have but I do not believe I did.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We would like to confine these matters to statements which he made to the Pardons Board and not what his present thoughts are, General. I think that is only fair.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, there were stenographic notes taken of both Mr. Carney's presentation and your own.

A That is correct.

Q I have been informed and I now suggest to you that to a degree you did present that to the Board of Pardons as being your own opinion. Do you feel strongly that that suggestion is incorrect?

A I do not understand the question?

Q I suggest to you that you did state the view you are not stating to the Board of Pardons openly. Do you have any recollection, actually, that you did not?

A No, I would have to rely on the records of the Pardons Board.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let us get the records and let the records speak for themselves.

THE WITNESS: I had your records yesterday but I do not recall whether that is in there or not.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: These records will be available to the committee.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We do not want to get this man's view now as to what he thinks it should be, because that is not important to the committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If his views then were the same as they are now and actually what he said will be in the transcript.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I do not want to have his unexpressed opinion, but I want to get his expressed opinion before the Pardons Board, which may have been the basis for imposing their decision.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I agree with that and I am suggesting to him that he did express the same view. Now if the committee will have before it the transcript of precisely what was taken before the Board of Pardons—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, we have to call witnesses.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am trying to do it by some kind of testimony here so that the committee will know.

MR. KOHN: Mr. McBride, there is an objection I would like to make and it is this: What you are asking this witness, as your own witness to testify to is what he said compositely in eighteen cases, and he testified in the beginning that his views on each case were different. In some cases they applied to two cases; in some cases they applied to one. I would respectfully ask the committee to rule in these cases where you are asking the witness to quote himself that you cite for us what case, because otherwise with eighteen defendants having been heard, and Mr. McLaughlin did not represent the Commonwealth in all of those cases, it is going to be difficult for us to find out what his attitude was in any particular case. Otherwise, his testimony is of no value.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am doing precisely that. Mr. Tompkins.

MR. KOHN: What case were you referring to on these fines?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: A general statement made by him which has been applicable to all cases. Now if it was stated generally that is the only way to do it, but I am running through these individual cases to get Mr. McLaughlins statement as to what he told to the Pardons Board.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, may I respectfully suggest that if he is going to take each case, that he take each case of Mr. McLaughlin's, as to what he said on that case, or let the record speak for itself, because it is impossible to go through a record like that and find out what this man said in each particular case. I do not think he could remember it. I have no objection to the Attorney General putting it on, but having him make a general statement applying to eighteen cases is incorrect for the simple reason that Mr. Johnson recommended in some of the cases, and you cannot apply this whole thing generally.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, I do not believe that a composite statement of what a witness says now regarding what has gone on prior is of interest to this committee. What we are interested in is what view he expressed to the committee at the time, what views he expressed to the Pardons Board when these cases were up for hearing, what views, if any, did he express by way of written communication to the Pardons Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I agree with that thoroughly, but he made two different kinds of statements, one generally applicable to the whole situation and one as to each one of the defendants. I have covered the general statements. I just want to go through hurriedly each one of these individual cases, some of which were entirely different. I am going to do precisely what the chairman thinks is proper. I believe I am doing precisely what Mr. Kohn thinks is proper.

MR. KOHN: Pardon me, Mr. McBride. There is another point I would like to make. It is now on the records that all testimony in the September 1955 cases is missing. I want to put that in the record now. Those are the ones I think, Mr. McBride, that were taken and not transcribed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Don't we have the September 1955 cases, Mr. Hean?

MR. HEAN: They should be here somewhere.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That statement was that the records were not then available; they are now available. And I asked Mr. McLaughlin yesterday to refresh his recollection by looking at any of the records that he wanted to look at. Mr. McLaughlin did avail himself of that privilege by looking at the stenographic records and September was among them.

MR. KOHN: Where did they appear from? We asked for them for a previous case and you said they were not transcribed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I did not say anything. Now let us proceed in an orderly fashion and we will give you the explanation of where they were, where we got them and so forth. Now Mr. McLaughlin—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Are all those transcripts of that September meeting now available?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think that they are in this room. Where are they Mr. Hean, September 1955?

MR. HEAN: Here is part of September.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, here is the information involved in this case. They are in this room before the Board of Pardons, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania September 22, 1955, including these cases.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, which particular session of the Pardons Board was it that Mr. Hean told us that these notes were taken but they were never transcribed?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: September, Delaware County Cases. Remember that Mr. Hean said that part of them were transcribed and part, due to the illness or something else of the official reporter, were not transcribed. These were. The chairman is temporarily confusing Delaware County with Erie County cases.

MR. KOHN: I am sorry. I knew that the Erie County cases were not fully transcribed, but I could not understand—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Delaware County.

MR. KOHN: I could not understand why part of them were here and part of them were not.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It was explained that part of them were done and part—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Go on, Go on.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, Mr. McLaughlin, Edward Camilli—you made a favorable recommendation on that?

A Edward Camilli was one of the police officers who was serving on the vice squad who was taking these bribes, and the other, of course, was the honest police officer, Russell Vergo. Camilli is rather a pathetic soul. We felt sorry for him. He did cooperate with us to some extent as far as furnishing evidence against some of these bribe givers, and, consequently, my opinion of him was favorable.

Q And he was released in nine months?

A That is correct.

Q Now Mr. Czulewicz, you were opposed to that at the time it was argued?

A At the time, that is correct.

Q He was not released at the time it was argued?

A No, I do not believe so.

Q But he was released in eleven months and nine days?

A According to this.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, none of these others were released at the time of argument?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Some were released. For instance, the one that I called his attention to was released in seven months and five days, the one he described as a little peanut operator or something like that, Mr. Michalski.

THE WITNESS: That is right. He was released earliest of them—seven months, five days. You will find it on the third page.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The point I was making is that in none of these cases, particularly in the Flatley and Martin cases that we were talking about, they were not released at the time the case was argued, and it was quite sometime afterwards that that Board's action was taken.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is right. Yes, so the Board did not grant immediate release.

THE WITNESS: I think the ones released in nine months or less must have been up in the June hearing and not the September hearing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Precisely.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Some of them were released earlier because they had been heard in June.

A That is right.

Q Mr. McLaughlin was there at the June meeting too?

A Yes.

Q Now how about Arthur Damore?

A I think Arthur Damore was kept in longer because he had a previous criminal record.

MR. KOHN: May I make a correction on that record for your record? The commutation shows that Arthur Damore was reduced from ten months, five days. I also see an erasure on that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Now then, Mr. Kohn, for the benefit of the committee, the time to which the sentence is commuted does not mean the time at which he is released. He is only released after the Parole Board has heard it, and the time of release is what we have put on here from what information you gave us. The date released—

MR. KOHN: I thought Mr. Wright gave the Board information as to what the sentence was commuted to.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You will see, if you will consult your list that the released date is in complete agreement with the date you gave us.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now Arthur Damore was opposed by you for release at the time of argument?

A That is correct.

Q On the ground that he did not plead guilty?

A That is correct. That was one of the strongest criminal cases against anybody, and he still persisted in standing trial and pleading innocent. We not only had recordings, but a movie picture, of him being paid off.

Q I am not suggesting that you felt that the commutations were unjustified. I just want to get on the records what your recommendation was. Now DiTullio you did not oppose?

A The reason I did not oppose DiTullio was his wife was very ill at the time.

Q And he was released nine months earlier than either Martin or Flatley?

A Yes.

Q And he had pleaded guilty?

A Yes.

Q Mike Dominick you were opposed at the time to his release but were not opposed to some ultimate commutation?

A Mike has a long previous criminal record.

Q Yes. Now he was refused?

A That is correct.

Q He was not granted any clemency at all by the Board?

A That is correct.

Q Now Flatley. Leo Kaminski in that one you argued in partial opposition and then stated that you did not oppose and decided ultimately to leave it up to the Board?

A If that is what you have on this record. I do not have any personal recollection.

Q You do not?

A And I did not pay too much attention to that one yesterday and I have not seen this one before.

Q All right. Now he was released in eleven months?

A That is correct.

Q John Koehler you did not oppose?

A That is correct.

Q And he also was released in nine months earlier time than the others?

A That is correct.

Q LaJohn you made a favorable recommendation on? There was some question of severe illness?

A He was in very poor health or I was so informed by his physician.

Q And he also was released earlier than others, in nine months?

A That is correct.

Q John Martin. We have this one, James Merlin; you did not oppose his release, did you?

A No, he was the one who was in very poor health.

Q And he was released earlier than the others, in nine months.

A That is correct.

Q Michalski we covered and you recommended his, and he was released sooner than the others, in seven months, five days?

A That is correct.

Q Now Joseph Rotunda, you did not oppose his release?

A I possibly made a mistake when I said Edward DiTullio's wife was ill. It was Rotunda's. I do not remember about the case.

Q You do not?

A No.

Q So you want the statement you made applicable to Joseph Rotunda rather than Edward DiTullio?

A That is correct.

Q Now, did you oppose Joseph Rotunda for the reason that you have stated?

A Just a minute till I get my sheet. That is right, and in addition he pleaded guilty.

Q And he was released in nine months?

A Yes.

Q Yes, now James Salamone, we covered. Now Stanley Schwartz you opposed at the time of his application. Mr. Schwartz, you remember, was the man who went up to the appellate court and at the time he appealed he had only been in a short period of time, is that right?

A I do not recall that appeal. I believe I was out of office and Mr. Johnson took over.

Q I see. Well Mr. Schwartz was required to serve one full year, was he not?

A I believe that is correct, yes.

Q Now, there were in addition just to fill out the picture—there were additional men who received sentences of eleven and one-half to twenty-three months?

A I believe there were several. And they were men named John McCarthy, Joseph Luciano and Dominick Grignol and our records disclose they served slightly less than seven months, those cases being up for the discretion of the sentencing judge, those men were released?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Were these cases before the Pardons Board, General?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I just want to fill out the picture. It is not really a big point. There were three in addition who did not get the kind of sentences that required Board action, and we just want to show that in passing, and I am not making a point of it, that these men got sentences which left them in the discretion of the judge and they were turned loose in less than seven months in each case, so you balance the kind of leniency shown by the courts to these men as shown by the Board of Pardons, as I said, just to fill out the picture.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: There is one seven months and five days. There are numerous nine-months' cases in here.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That was the Board.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now it is true, is it, McCarthy, Luciano and Grignol and another man named Provenzini—

MR. KOHN: Are these men before the Pardons Board?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No. These men having received sentences which left the date of release on parole subject to the supervision.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q They were released by the court, weren't they?

A That is correct.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a minute, was that information before the Pardons Board?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It would normally be before the Board of Pardons.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, was it before the Pardons Board? Did that have any bearing upon how the Pardons Board acted?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It may not. If it was before them it would be because constantly the Board of Pardons has normally a record. One of the requisites is that you name your accomplice and state how long they got and state whether they are still in jail, and so forth. Now that is one of the things they would consider, I do not state to the Board that the Pardons Board did consider this particular question, but I do state, just to clear the record up as to how many defendants there were and what happened to the other cases, what the sentences were, just this one statement of fact.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General, I have no particular objection to it but if this information was not before the Board and it did not bear upon their consideration of the case at all, I think it is completely foreign to the situation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It may be highly significant that the court acted with greater leniency to these men whom the court had itself sentenced than that by the Pardons Board. If that information was used by the Pardons Board in their deliberations. If not, I would say it is foreign to the inquiry. Well, it might be foreign to the inquiry but it is a comparison of actions of one tribunal and another tribunal. That is all. I wanted to get it on the record. Thank you very much, Mr. McLaughlin.

MR. KOHN: I would like to ask a few questions.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q There is a great deal of testimony given by you about your attitude in these cases in attempting to see why the Board did or did not act. I call your specific attention to the Sol Czulewicz case. In that one you objected, did you not?

A That is correct.

Q And the Board did not pay any attention to your objection?

MR. KOHN: I object to that. You say they did not pay any attention to it. Whether the Board agrees or disagrees does not mean they did not pay any attention to it. They had other recommendations too.

Q They did not follow your reasoning?

A They did not entirely agree. He was not compelled to stay the full time.

Q They reduced it from one year, three months to ten months, twenty days?

A I believe that is correct.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Do you have ten months, twenty days? He was actually—

MR. KOHN: I said what they actually commuted it to That is what the record says.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is always done with the understanding that the Parole Board takes a month or so to decide.

MR. KOHN: It did not take it in the Flatley case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If the purpose is to get a man out for Christmas, they do not let Christmas go by.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You also objected to Arthur Damore, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q And he was given exactly the same commutation as the person you did not object to.

A That is correct.

Q You also objected to the care of Dominick Audiutori who came up after the Salamone case?

A That is right. I think in the Dominick Adiutori case that I suggested to the Board that he should get the same thing as James Salamone got.

Q Which was previously heard and granted?

A That is correct. I saw no reason for him serving more than his partner.

Q Is that the reason for your statement?

A That is the reason for it; yes.

Q You were asked about three other defendants whose names I do not recall. Isn't it a fact that they were let out by Erie County after the Pardons Board had commuted these sentences?

A I do not recall. Some were and some were not. I do not recall.

Q Some of them were after but they did not get sentences that would put them under the Pardons Board but were let out after.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That cannot be correct. Look at this, they were sentenced on the sixth of January.

MR. KOHN: We do not have the records, Mr. Chairman, to produce the dates on which these men were sentenced and to show the precise time, whether it was before or after.

A There were other men who were sentenced later on, and for one reason or other the sentence was deferred. For instance, Art Damore and his partner had a liquor license together, and we tried to arrange it so he could serve his term and get back while his partner went to jail.

Q Could we then have the records?

A I think our County Court records would show that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do not think it is material. If they were released in seven months, it would appear they were released before the Pardons Board's action, which would not be material.

SENATOR SCOTT: The witness has stated that some of them were after.

THE WITNESS: Some of them before and some after, our record indicates.

MR. KOHN: Will the Board accept a letter?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do not see how it is material. If you are injecting something into the record, I will have to cross-examine all over again. You are saying it was after, and the witness does not remember. If it is important to ask about it, it is important to clear it up.

SENATOR FLEMING: I think a letter would be perfectly acceptable.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will accept a letter as to dates of sentences and releases.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, I think it is very material to the issues before us because the only thing I see now that might be before the Pardons Board is that they granted commutations, and if that is going to hold true against the Pardons Board, then it will hold true against the court.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. McLaughlin, do you know of any political or any other improper influence aside from what was testified here today that compelled the Pardons Board to grant the commutations that the record shows were granted?

A I have no personal knowledge of any such thing. As far as that is concerned, a lot of these men's friends came to me and asked me to give them a break, but that is a normal thing for any district attorney to go through, but I could not say there was political pressure. I would say it was personal friendship so far as these cases were concerned.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: And the question was as to pressure on the Board.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Do you know of any?
A Not so far as these cases we talked about.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Well, in any other cases do you know of any?
A Yes.
Q Do you know of any other cases?
A Where there was ever suspicion of political pressure. There is nothing that would be admissible in a court of law. It is based upon a peculiar thing that happened at one time when we were down here and in a conversation with the attorney representing a man making application for a commutation of his sentence. The strange part of it was that he was making application for commutation of his sentence even before he started serving that sentence, and the conversation of the attorney—

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Is this in the presence of the Board?
A No, in conversation I had with his attorney outside in the hall before we went in before the Board. I asked him what the idea was, that I had never heard of such a thing, a man making application before he had his sentence served; and he said, "Well, I do not know exactly what is going on here but there is something funny and I am not so sure that I like it." Shortly thereafter somebody came up and introduced him and called him aside and introduced him to one of the members of the Board. I am not sure which one it was but I think it was Mr. Finnegan. That was the only thing which remains in my mind, where the attorney for the applicant was introduced to a member of the Board prior to hearing. That is the only thing at any time that ever lead me to believe that political—

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Is this an Erie County case?
A It is an Erie County case.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q What was the name of that lawyer?
A John Wolford.
Q What was the name of the case?
A Ben Kaufman.
Q And he applied before the Board before he started to serve his sentence?
A That is correct.
Q What did the Board do about it?
A They refused him. He later made application and was released in January.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you know a man by the name of Morris J. Coughlin, an attorney?
A Morris Coughlin?
Q Yes.
A Yes.
Q What job did he hold?
A Assistant City Solicitor.
Q Is he also Democratic campaign manager?
A Yes.
Q He represented one of the men?
A He represented Ben Kaufman when he made the . . .

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did Ben Kaufman finally go to jail?
A Yes.
Q Was there later action by the Pardons Board on his case?
A Yes, he was later commuted.
Q And did Mr. Wolford represent him at the Pardons Board hearing?
A The first time, before he started serving time, he was represented by Morris Coughlin. The second time is when he appealed.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q What position did you take on that second application?
A I am quite sure I opposed it. As a matter of fact, I do not know whether I was still district attorney. I think Mr. Johnson was in office at the time.
Q Do you know what position Mr. Johnson took?
A I assume that he opposed it too.
Q You do not know?
A Only that he told me.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you know what sentence he received?
A One and a half to three.
Q Do you know how much it was commuted to?
A Mr. Johnson can tell you.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. McLaughlin, in your own long period of service in the district attorney's office, any number of people have been introduced to you that did not influence your conduct?
A That is correct.
Q Many were members of the Legislature and judiciary, and district attorneys are subject to being introduced to people in corridors, are they not?
A That is correct.
Q That does not mean that that influenced their conduct?

A Certainly not, even though people think they had.

Q And sometimes people try to give the impression that they are influencing people just by talking to them, do they not?

A Yes sir, that is correct.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Was Mr. Wolford, Assistant City Solicitor at the time he represented Mr. Kaufman?

A Morris Coughlin was Assistant City Solicitor not Mr. Wolford.

Q Was Coughlin City Solicitor at the time he represented Mr. Kaufman before the Pardons Board?

A He was.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will adjourn for one half hour for lunch.

I hereby certify that the proceedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee to conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and this is a correct transcript of the same.

AFTERNOON SESSION
3-6-57

FRANK R. HEAN, recalled on FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

MR. KOHN: Mr. Hean, Mr. Tompkins would like to ask you a question. Would you please step forward.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, on this Ray Czulewicz case—I guess that is the way you pronounce it—there is this report of the Board of Pardons that shows an erasure on there. Do you know what the original insertion was in there?

A If I may refer to my book.

Q Go right ahead.

A Ray Czulewicz; yes, sir, I have it before me. My original note here was four years and eleven months and then it was reconsidered by the Board and changed to ten months, five days.

Q The original was eleven months even?

A Yes.

Q And it was altered then to—

A Ten months and five days, yes, sir.

Q The warrant of the Governor indicates typed in here ten months, five days and the five is crossed out and a twenty in ink is inserted above it. Do you know who made that insertion?

A No, I do not. My record shows changed to ten months, five days. I do not know who put in the twenty.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Are you finished, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, that is all I wanted to know.

FURTHER RECROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q He actually served eleven months and nine days, didn't he?

A At least he did according to the—yes, it was expired on or about the 15th day of December, 1955.

Q And the recommendation was that he be released on December 15,—

A December 15,1955.

Q And the part of this abstract prepared by Mr. Cohen indicates he was released on December 15th?

A That could well be; yes, sir.

Q I will show it to you.

A That is right, the date of release.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is all, Mr. Hean.

HAROLD J. SULLIVAN, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What is your full name?

A Harold J. Sullivan.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Kohn.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What position do you presently occupy?

A Assistant Secretary of the Senate.

Q About August 7 of 1955, what position did you hold?

A I was executive editor of the—

Q Will you speak a little louder, please.

A Executive editor of the Erie Daily Times, Erie. Pennsylvania.

Q On that particular date, do you recall an article in the Erie Sunday Times that was written by you and is found in the Flatley files?

A Yes, I wrote this article. It carried my by-line.

Q Now, subsequent to that article—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May I see that, please?

MR. KOHN: Oh, surely, Mr. McBride. Should I go ahead, Mr. McBride?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Oh, certainly; go right ahead.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Subsequent to that article did you receive a call from the Mayor of Erie, I think his name is Arthur Gardner?

A I did.

Q And can you recall approximately when that was?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May it please the Board. I think this is hearsay upon any definition, a conversation that took place between two people not before the Board of Pardons, not in which any member of the Board of Pardons was present. Now, such conversation—I know, we are not in a courtroom, but hearsay like that which takes place between two people, and I don't know what its purpose, nevertheless that sort of thing never has been considered proper evidence anywhere.

MR. KOHN: It isn't anymore hearsay than that article that was in the file and was considered by the Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, whatever was considered by the Board and whatever they did with it, the Board will certainly answer, but a conversation between this gentleman and someone else that took place perhaps in Erie at which no member of the Board was present, surely is not evidence before a legislative, judicial or any other tribunal.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We have no knowledge of what the man is going to testify to and if it has relation to the subject of our investigation, we will permit him to proceed.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I think the question was whether or not subsequent to the writing of that article you received a telephone call from the Mayor of Erie, Arthur Gardner?

A I did.

Q Can you place approximately when that call came to you?

A Well, as near as I can recall, it was the morning after an election in 1955.

Q After the Fall election then, was it not?

A Yes.

Q And what did he call you for?

A Well, he said that Governor Leader had called him that morning to congratulate him on the results of the election in Erie County. He said—I was still in bed at the time he called me and he said. "He also asked me what the public reaction would be in Erie if a recommendation by the Pardons Board in behalf of former Mayor Flatley were granted."

Q Didn't you tell me that he said, "What the reaction would be if Flatley were let out of jail?"

A Words to that effect, yes.

Q And what else did he say the Governor wanted to know?

A He wanted to know whether there would be a public outcry or opposition were the ex-mayor released.

Q And did he ask you whether or not your newspaper would write any articles opposing—I am talking about Gardner?

A No, he did not. He did not put it exactly that way. He said he had answered the Governor before calling me and he did say that he had told the Governor he did not think there would be any bad reactions. That was the reason he called me.

Q And do you know whether this was before the commutation or after the commutation?

A Before.

Q Do you know whether it was before it was reduced from one year to eleven months, five days or after?

A I did not follow it. That is close.

Q It could have been in between there?

A Well, it could have; yes sir.

MR. KOHN: You may cross-examine.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q You say you would fix the time after an election in 1955. Do you know how long after that election in 1955 that you received this call, Mr. Sullivan?

A Yes, the morning after.

Q The morning after?

A I gathered from Mr. Gardner's question that the Governor had called primarily to congratulate him, to extend his congratulations on the results and during the course of that conversation he asked that question.

Q That's how you fix that date, I guess?

A Yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is all.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Just a moment, Mr. Sullivan. As early as August 7, you yourself had written this statement to the effect that the people of Erie would not believe that if Mr. Flatley would come out of the prison he would become a racketeer or kill people?

A That is correct.

Q Now, when you say that this conversation which took place after election day, 1955, was before the commutation, you mean before Mr. Flatley's release, do you not?

A Well, I am not familiar with the dates.

Q That's what I thought.

A I do not know it was before Mr. Flatley was released.

Q Before he was released?

A I know it was before Christmas.

Q You know that the conversation was before Christmas?

A I know it was the morning after an election.

Q The conversation was the morning after an election and the release was before Christmas. Whether that was before or after the Board made its recommendations to the Governor, you do not know?

A I could not answer that question.

Q Whether it was before the Governor made his decision as to commutation, you do not know, do you?

A Well, I gathered from the Mayor's remarks that the commutation had not been issued. He was inquiring of the Mayor of Erie what public reaction would be. The Mayor expressed himself and being the editor of a newspaper, he called me.

Q And he expressed the view that the people of Erie would not be horrified if the commutation was granted?

A Well, he asked me that question. I am not sure exactly what I said in reply. I think I agreed with him.

Q You agreed with the Mayor that it would not be ill-received by the people of Erie?

A As it turned out I was correct.

Q Yes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think that is all. Thank you, Mr. Sullivan.

HERBERT J. JOHNSON, JR., having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Your full name?

A Herbert J. Johnson, Jr.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Herbert J. Johnson, Jr. Mr. Kohn.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Are you the District Attorney of Erie County at the present time?

A I am.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Is that J-o-h-n-s-o-n?

A That's right.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q And how long have you been District Attorney?

A Since January, 1956.

Q Previous to that time had you betn connected in any way with the District Attorney's office?

A Yes, I was Assistant District Attorney for a period of eight years.

Q And were you in office or engaged on the District Attorney's staff during the trial of the Flatley case and the others who were involved?

A I was.

Q Did you also help conduct investigations into that set of cases?

A Yes, I did.

Q Are you familiar with the Schwartz case?

A I am.

Q Did you appear before the Board of Pardons opposing that case?

A I did. That case was in the February, 1956 Term after I took office, and I appeared and strenuously opposed commutation in that case.

Q Why?

A Because the evidence indicated throughout that Mr. Schwartz was the ring leader of this entire bribery operation in the City of Erie, and because, as I pointed out to the Board at that time, the sworn statements contained in his application were false and were false on the basis of his own statement as contained in the record of the trial and was false by reason of Flatley's statement which had been before the Board in which Mr. Flatley stated that Schwartz had talked him into taking this money. In his application before the Board, he stated that he had never given any money to the Mayor, whereas it was pointed out in his statement contained in the record, and which I referred theBoard to, he admitted making various payments to the Mayor.

Q Was Schwartz the brains and the ringleader behind all this?

A He was.

Q And what was his political affiliation?

A He was a Democratic State Committeeman. He was the City Campaign Manager for Thomas Flatley when he ran for office. He was Democratic City Manager at other times for the Democratic Party.

Q I notice that in the factual statements given by him he said that he used some of this money in the Mayor's campaign. Was the Mayor running at this particular time that he said he was collecting these funds?

A He was not. He pointed out in his statement to the Board that this meeting he referred to took place in 1954 when he began collecting the money.

Q When did the Mayor get into association with him?

A Actually they started making their collections, according to Mayor Flatley's statement and to Schwartz's statement, in 1953.

Q And when did the Mayor get into taking money?

A It appears it was in 1953.

Q And I think there is something in the record that the Mayor got something a little over $6,000 as his share, is that correct?

A Somewhere between $6,000 and $8,000; never ascertained exactly how much it was.

Q How much did Schwartz get?

A Approximately the same amount.

Q Now, will you state whether or not the judge opposed Schwartz's commutation?

A He did.

Q And Schwartz had been given a year and a half to three years?

A That is correct.

Q And commuted to one year?

A He was commuted to one year flat.

Q How many cases came before this Board of Pardons from Erie County during the past year previous to this?

A During the years 1955 and 1956, from Erie County, Pennsylvania, there were fifty-four; there were a total of fifty-nine cases before the Board, five of which were continued so that actually there were fifty-four petitioners. Those continued ones were then relisted at another hearing so actually there were fifty-four petitioners from Erie County before the Pardons Board during those two years, 1955 and 1956.

Q How many of those were granted?

A Of that total, nineteen were granted.

Q And how many of those were involved in the bribery case?

A There were seventeen. There were two others besides the bribery cases and one of those was the Kaufman case which has been mentioned.

Q And what was the other one?

A The other one was a man by the name of Stewart at the June 1955 Session to which neither the district attorney nor the judge had any objection.

Q Now taking the difference between the ninteen and fifty-four, did the district attorney and judges make various recommendations on the other cases?

A Yes, they did. For example, in this June Session of 1955, there were nineteen cases before the Pardons Board. Of those nineteen, eleven of them were defendants in the bribery cases. Mr. McLaughlin has testified as to what his recommendations were in those. Of those nineteen cases, there were eleven granted. There were eleven bribery cases; there were eleven granted altogether. The Stewart case which I mentioned was one of them. The other ten were bribery defendants that were granted. There was only one bribery defendant refused and that was John Martin the man the district attorney argued for and that the judge had no opposition to.

Q Now, all these cases, regardless of how the district attorney or judge expressed their views, were refused. is that correct?

A That's right. And then, in addition to those, there were two other cases at that same time, the Charles Krysiak and William Niemeyer who were two credit union officials who had committed the technical violation of making loans to themselves while they were officers in the credit union. It was those two which Mr. McLaughlin, as District Attorney, urged their release and that was refused by the Pardons Board at the same session.

Q Well now, Mr. Hean testified that at all times members of the Pardons Board were available to attorneys who were interested in cases. Did you at the time make a request of the Pardons Board offices to see the recommendations of the Pardons Board in any cases?

A On April the 26th, 1956, I was before the Pardons Board on some other cases. After I completed handling those cases I came down to the Pardons Board office At that time, Mr. Hean was not there. He was with the Board up in Session in the Supreme Courtroom. I identified myself to the girl who appeared to be in charge of the office. I, at that time, did not know who she was, but I believe now since that it was Mrs. Cowden, but I am not positive about that. I identified myself as District Attorney of Erie County, Pennsylvania, and requested to see the Thomas W. Flatley and Stanley Schwartz files. I was advised at that time that I could see the copy of the application. I advised the lady at the time that I as district attorney had a copy of the application, that that was furnished to me; that what I was interested in was the reasons the Board gave for recommending commutation in those two cases. I was advised at that time that I would have to get permission of the Board to see those files.

Q From the Pardons Board?

A From the Pardons Board, yes, sir.

Q What effect, if any, has the actions of the Board in the Schwartz and other matters had as far as the law enforcement officers are concerned?

A I feel that in our community it has had a very serious effect, The police feel that there is a matter of moral as far as the police department is concerned. They feel that their work is hampered by this type of action. The community—we had rampant in the community, prior to the election, rumors to the effect that it was a campaign promise that these men would be released. That came to pass because they were released. Now, whether or not—I have no definite evidence that it was because of that promise and I don't mean to infer that I do have, but that rumor was there and it did come to pass.

I think it has had a very serious effect upon the youth of our community. I became particularly interested in youth activities in our community and the youth were commenting on the fact that these men, because of their position, would never serve their full time. That came to pass and the youth has been proven to be right in that respect.

Q In some of these cases, Mr. Johnson, the police did sign petitions for the release of certain particular individuals?

A They did, sir, for certain individuals; yes. I think the one that did the most harm was the release of Stanley Schwartz. It was recognized by everyone, even those who were sympathetic with the Mayor, that Stanley Schwartz was the ringleader and the one that got the Mayor into this situation. I think even the Mayor in his own application to the Pardons Board said the same thing, that he resisted it for some year and a half before he got into this.

Q And he says, according to his application, that he used this money to further the interests of the Democratic Party in Erie County. Is there anything in his testimony which would bear out that statement?

A No there isn't. Now, in his testimony at the trial, yes, he did attempt to show that. He brought in a bag full of tickets for smokers and church affairs and everything of that nature in which he offered to show what he bought with this money. At the time of the original arrest, I took a statement from him as the investigating officer. That statement consisted of eleven pages in which the full situation was gone into. At no time throughout that statement did he say that this was any part of a political operation. At no time did he say that he used the money for political purposes even though at one point I asked him if there was anything more he wished to add to what he had already told me. He still did not bring that out. Also, in addition to that, there was evidence disclosed at the trial that during the same time that this was going on, Stanley Schwartz was collecting for $100 Democratic dinners. He was sending out members of the vice squad to collect for that purpose, but no charge was based on that. The only charges were based on this money that was divided with the Mayor.

Q Mr. McLaughlin said that at the time these charges were brought, many of them were not tried. They were nol-prossed. Is that correct?

A That is right. There were—the operation went on from April until October. During that period of time there were monthly payments made. Now, in the view of the district attorney's office each one of those was a separate violation each month a payment was made.

Consequently, indictments were drawn for those various months.

Now, in the case of Stanley Schwartz, he stood trial and we tried him for the payment in one month. He was convicted on that and took an appeal to the Superior Court of Pennsylvania. While that appeal was pending at the next term of court, he was tried a second time for one of the other charges for one of the other months. He was likewise convicted at that time.

Q You, I think, heard the statement of the parole officer, who investigated this Schwartz matter for the Pardons Board, stating that he was a politician who used his power to collect money for his own use?

A That is correct.

Q Now, what is the attitude generally of the police department and enforcement officials in regard to a man who collects money, public officials who violate a trust, as compared to these other applications that were before the Board that had no significance as far as public trust is concerned?

A Well, this one was particularly bad as far as the police were concerned because this man Schwartz was actually running the police department prior to the time this occurred.

Q The Mayor so said?

A The Mayor so said and Mr. Martin, the Inspector of Police, so testified. Mr. Martin told of one occasion where he had given—before the time that he was brought into this operation of making collections for Schwartz and Flatley, it was being done by a Hank Soscia, the Democratic Treasurer of Erie County. At that time, Mr. Martin had caused an arrest of one of the gamblers in town to be made. He had given the instructions to the police to make the arrest. They had made the arrest, and that night Thomas Flatley called him at his home and told him he wanted to talk to him and he would pick him up. He came to his home, picked him up, and took him to Stanley Schwartzs' home where Stanley Schwartz told him to lay off that type of thing; that he was—well, to read it from the testimony. This is the testimony in the case of Stanley Schwartz where Mr. Martin testifies:

"Q And where did that happen? How did that come about?

"A I was called by Mayor Flatley to meet him at night and go to Mr. Schwartz's house.

"Q And did you go to Mr. Schwartz's house?

"I did, yes.

Q "And what was the conversation after you got there?

A "I got bawled out because somebody had been arrested that day.

Q "Will you explain that more in detail to the jury?

"A We sent a sergeant and two men in plainclothes out this particular day and they happened to arrest somebody that was part of an outfit that had been paying, and I was the one who was at fault for sending them out.

Q "Who did the talking while you were over at Schwartz's house?

"A That was quite some time ago. We all talked, as far as that went.

"By the Court:

"Q Who do you mean 'we all'?

"A The Mayor and Mr. Schwartz and myself.

"By Mr. McLaughlin:

"Q Can you tell us the gist of that conversation? You don't need the exact conversation."

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, not that we are not interested in the facts, but whatever facts you are reading and whatever illegal acts were committed—These people were tried and they were sentenced and they went to jail. What we are here for is not to rehash the facts in the case. We are here to determine if there was any political influence exerted on the Board for the release of these people who were tried for the very facts that you are giving us and were sentenced to jail. I am only suggesting that we stick to that phase of it. We do not want to hear all of the facts in the case. That's a matter of—that's history.

MR. KOHN: This morning you said you wanted all the facts, Mr. Yosko.

SENATOR YOSKO: That's not—I want all the facts, but—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The question of his guilt or innocence is not before this body.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What is the purpose of this line of testimony, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: I want to show that—Mr. McBride said this morning in regard to consideration, giving arbitrary consideration, there is nothing in the record that would recommend any consideration except certain letters which have not been checked, and I am coming to that. I don't want to rehash all this thing. I want to show the effect it had on the community.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Are you trying to show that there is a variance between the testimony that Mr. Schwartz gave at the trial of the case and the affidavit he swore to on his own application for commutation?

MR KOHN: I am trying to show that the Pardons Board had before it all kinds of various information; none of which has anything favorable to Mr. Schwartz, including the parole officer's report, and that their action was arbitrary—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, I don't think—

MR. KOHN: In comparison with Martin whom everybody went for was exactly the opposite.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I don't think we want to retry the case. But, if it has any relation to the inquiry why, then, of course, we will admit it.

THE WITNESS: The point I am making, Mr. Chairman, is that those facts were argued to the Board, these discrepancies, in his application, under oath, at the time he appeared before the Board and the facts as were present to the Board in the form of the record in the case.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Those matters were all called to the attention of the Board at the time that you argued the case?

A They were.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Johnson, I ask you this, whether or not, at the time you argued the case, you notified the Pardons Board that Schwartz was interested in feathering his own nest rather than using this money for political purposes?

A Yes, I did.

Q The judge also opposed this commutation, did he not?

A Yes, I understand he did.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is not strictly accurate, Mr. Kohn.

MR. KOHN: Will you give us what the statement is?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will tell you what he said: "he should serve at least as long as Mayor Flatley."

THE WITNESS: I had seen the letter that was written by the judge, Mr. Kohn, and that is called from it. I think it was a sarcastic remark to the effect that he should serve at least as long as Mr. Flatley who had already been released by the Board.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Where is that full letter? Has that been presented to this committee yet?

MR. KOHN: I don't think it has been offered in evidence and I would like to do so.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Was this letter read by Mr. Hean yesterday?

MR. KOHN: I don't think so, sir. I do not recall it ever being given in evidence and I would like to read it at this time.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: It was read.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We read letters on the Martin and Flatley cases, but I do not recall this letter here.

MR. KOHN: May I read this at this time?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, for our information you can read the letter.

MR. KOHN: January 6, 1956; Judges' Chambers; Sixth Judicial District of Pennsylvania, Erie, Pennsylvania; Elmer L. Evans, President Judge. "Re: Stanley Schwartz.

"Board of Pardons

"Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

"Gentlemen:

"I have before me the copy of application for clemency by Stanley M. Schwartz."—You will have to bear the date in mind of this letter.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What is the date of it?

MR. KOHN: January 6, 1956.

"He was one of the ringleaders in the bribery operation and received one-third of the proceeds with the Mayor and the Police Inspector Martin, At the time of trial he urged the argument that he collected this money for political purposes only, but even though this did not change the fact that he was protecting law violators from arrest through bribery, his testimony as to the disposition of funds did not bear scrutiny. The lists of payments he claimed to have made were prior by several months in most instances to the dates when these moneys were collected. Furthermore, he never reported political contributions and expenditures as required by law. Inspector Martin and the Chief of Police gave testimony to the effect that he controlled the appointments and operation of the police and that the police chief had nothing to do with it because of the setup.

"He states that one of his accomplices was Henry Socia. However, Henry Socia was not convicted of collecting bribes because neither Mayor Flatley nor Schwartz would give testimony to implicate him. The only evidence concerning Socia's activities was Martin's statement that he was called in to collect because Flatley and Schwartz told him Socia had had a fist fight with the police, and they did not consider him a safe person to continue collections. Martin could not give direct testimony other than what these men told him, and it being hearsay, Socia was not tried for bribery. When he was apprehended, he had on his person many number slips and pled guilty to gambling only.

"Generally we would say that being one of the main offenders he should serve at least as long as Mayor Flatley."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Flatley had been let out, had he not?

A He had.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's have this letter numbered so that it can be made a part of the record. Will you number that?

> Letter from Honorable Elmer L. Evans to Board of Pardons under date of January 6, 1956, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 11. NPK 3-6-57.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q That was not a directive to the Board to let him out, was it, considering his whole record?

A I would not so interpret it. With a review, the judge goes into—

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What judge was that?

A Judge Evans.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Judge Elmer Evans. What effect did it have on the law enforcement members of your community where a person acted, a corporal of the police department, and made a shambles out of it and collected from gamblers would be released at the same time as Mayor Flatley?

A It had a very bad effect, especially when you consider alongside of it, and you must consider it, I think, the result of the Schwartz with that of Jack Martin who, after his arrest, had cooperated completely with the district attorney's office; had given a full statement after fifteen minutes of questioning, as I think has been mentioned before. He testified at the preliminary hearings. He testified at the Grand Jury, and testified at both trials of Schwartz. Now, they could not help but draw the comparison that Schwartz served roughly sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of his sentence by the court; whereas Martin, after his cooperation with the authorities, served approximately ninety-five per cent of his sentence, and Flatley served sixty-three per cent of his sentence.

Q And did Schwartz pick up his political activities after he got out?

A That I cannot truthfully say.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We think that is quite immaterial .

MR. KOHN: I ask that that be striken out.

I have nothing further for Mr. Johnson on this phase. I would like to continue on another phase, but if Mr.

McBride or anybody else has any questions on this, I ask that it be done now.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q You mentioned that Mr. Schwartz used the vice squad to sell tickets to $100 dinners. Now, will you tell us what these $100 dinners were?

A It was a dinner, a Democratic dinner that was being sponsored in the summer. I believe it was August or September of 1954. I believe it was here in Harrisburg. It was $100 a plate. The men on the vice squad were given assignments to go out to certain of these gamblers in the community and sell them a given number of tickets. One I happen to remember was James Salimony, a Westfield Jimmy who was assigned four tickets for that function.

Q And were these tickets to the $100 dinner sponsored by the Democrat State Committee?

A It is my understanding that it was; yes. Now, no criminal charge was made as a result of the sale of those tickets.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Is it a crime to sell tickets for a dinner to anybody?

A Senator, I don't thing it is a crime to sell the ticket, but there are circumstances under which it is certainly not good practice. I would not think of sending county detectives out to sell tickets.

Q I am not questioning the practice. Is it a crime to sell tickets?

A May I answer the question, Senator?

Q Well, just answer it yes or no.

A I would not send my county detectives out to sell tickets to any political dinner. I would feel that it was not the ethical thing to do, at least. I don't believe that you could find it a crime on the books, no. That is why I pointed out that no charge was brought here.

Q Did you ever sell tickets for a political dinner?

A Frankly, I have not.

Q You have not?

A No; I have bought many, but I have not sold them.

Q Well, you are not a very good organization Republican if you do not help to sell tickets for your Party's affairs.

SENATOR SCOTT: He buys them. That is the important thing.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q You said there were some rumors in circulation in Erie County prior to some election. What election was that?

A That was the State election of 1954; November, 1954.

Q And the rumors were what?

A That if the Democrats were elected that these men would be released.

Q I see. They were the rumors in the area?

A In the area, yes.

Q Were they pretty widespread?

A Yes, I would say they were.

Q And what was the outcome of the election in Erie County that year?

A Governor Leader carried Erie County.

Q He did. Then are you telling me that the people knew these people were in jail and that they went to the polls to vote for Governor Leader so that he, in turn, could become Governor and release these defendants?

A I am not by any means inferring that, Senator.

Q Well, wouldn't that be it?

A I am saying those rumors were there. I am saying that after Governor Leader took office and a new Pardons Board was in effect, it came to pass.

Q Well, substantially, you are saying that what the people did was went to the polls to elect Governor Leader so that he could release these people.

A I would not be foolish enough to make that statement.

Q Well, I have a right to draw that inference. You were the one that made the statement.

A Senator, the inference is yours, not mine.

Q Shall we assume then that the people went to the polls to elect Governor Leader so he could release these people?

A If you want to make that assumption, you may; I would not.

Q Well, based on the—you said this rumor was widespread. I would assume that is the general public elected Leader so he would commute them, they wanted these people commuted.

A Well, that is your conclusion.

Q That is the only conclusion you can come to.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, I just want to straighten out one point. You say the election of 1954. When were these men arrested and when were they tried?

A They were arrested in October of 1954; October the 16th of 1954. They went on trial at the November term of court.

Q They were not sentenced?

A They were not yet, for the most part, even sentenced when that campaign took place.

Q But that rumor was in existence prior to the time of their sentencing, January 6, 1955.

A It was the general thing that if the Democrats got in they would get out. It wasnt tied down to any specific course of conduct.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q In other words, was that part of the Republican rumor in that campaign?

A I heard—

Q Was that a reason not to elect the Governor?

A I cannot speak for the entire Republican Party. I know it was not a part of the official Republican campaign.

Q Wouldn't that be the more logical conclusion to draw from the facts that you have presented than the ones the Senator has suggested?

A Well, it all depends upon where the rumor circulates.

Q It at least circulated in your circles, however.

A It came to my ears; yes.

SENATOR YOSKO: He said it was general. That would include Democrats and Republicans.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is all right.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Johnson, I am fascinated by this rumor.

The rumor circulated prior to the election of 1954, is that right?

A That is right.

Q That when and if Governor Leader would be elected, he would let these men out, is that right?

A That is right.

Q Now, they were not in, were they?

A No, they were not.

Q They were not tried until 1955?

A No, they were tried in 1954.

Q When were they sentenced?

A Most of them were sentenced in January, 1955.

Q January, 1955?

A That is right.

Q When did they enter their pleas?

A Some of them entered pleas in November; some in December.

Q After election. Did any of them enter their plea before election?

A No, they did not.

Q Now, so that you tell us the rumor circulated before the people of Erie County even knew whether they would be found guilty or pleaded guilty, the Governor was going to let them out?

A That is right.

Q Even before the people knew they were going to go to jail?

A That was partly sparked by the fact that Mr. Dilworth was in Erie a week or two—I believe it was four or five days after these arrests were made, at which time he made a public announcement that the whole thing was just political anyway and that there was no basis for it.

Q Well, were the rumors political?

A What do you men by that, General?

Q Wasn't it as Mr. Lopresti said that that propaganda was used to the effect that if these men went to jail they were going to get leniency?

A You mean propaganda by the Republicans?

Q Yes.

A No, sir.

Q Well now, will you explain to me why a disinterested member of the public, that is, an impartial person, would say that these men are going to be let out even before he knows whether they will go to jail?

A Yes, I think I can explain that. The general feeling was that because of the importance of Stanley Schwartz and Mr. Flatley when this case first broke there was a general feeling among some of the public, particularly among the club group, that they would never even come to trial. That gradually moved back. As they came to trial, that they would not be convicted. Then, as they came in and entered pleas or were convicted, that they would not serve any time. That kept moving on back from that.

Q And that was after the election?

A Yes. The over-all picture there was the rumor that if the Democrats got in they would not serve any time.

Q All right. Now, that rumor turned out not to be true, did it not?

A It did, in part.

Q Well, they all served some time.

A Yes.

Q Now, the question of whether or not they would be brought to trial. You said there was a rumor that they would not be brought to trial, but that was in the control of the district attorney, was it not?

A That is right.

Q And the district attorney was a Republican?

A That is right.

Q So you say the rumor was that a Republican district attorney would not bring these Democrats to trial?

A Yes, sir, but he did.

Q Let me ask you this. You said you went to the Board's office. Mr. Hean was not there?

A No, he was not there.

Q No member of the Board of Pardons was there?

A No, sir.

Q You asked to see not merely the application, but the folder including any confidential information or any—

MR. KOHN: He did not say that.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q What did you ask to see?

A I asked to see the reasons given by the Board for recommending commutation.

Q Didn't you know that those reasons had to be, under the Constitution, on file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth?

A No, sir, I did not.

Q Didn't you ever read the Constitution?

A I have. I also have read the Rules of the Pardons Board in which they said that they are to be kept on file there.

Q Did you ask any member of the Board of Pardons to see the file?

A I did not.

Q Did you ask Mr. Hean?

A I did not.

Q That is your position. Your position now is that because some girl or lady in the office simply said that you could not see these records, that that in some way reflects upon the Board of Pardons itself?

A No. I am merely stating the fact that I was advised that I would have to get permission of the Board to see them.

Q Did you seek to get such permission?

A I did not. They were in session at the time.

Q Did you seek at any time thereafter when they were not in session to get permission?

A I did not.

Q You were never turned down by the Board of Pardons, were you?

A Not by the Board itself; no.

Q And not by Mr. Hean?

A No, sir.

Q Now, you say that the police feel that their work is hampered. Do the police feel that their work is hampered by the release of Inspector Martin and Patrolman Camilli, both of whom were in the police department?

A No, I do not feel that they do. In fact, I think I pointed that out, that they felt that Martin, a man who did cooperate, should have received more favorable consideration than he did.

Q Now, you also mentioned the question of public trust. Mr. Martin was in a position of high public trust, was he not, as the Inspector of a police department?

A He was. He was appointed to that position by Mayor Flatley.

Q Yes; so that Mayor Flatley and Mr. Martin both violated their public trust, did they not?

A They did. I think it is only fair to point this out, though, that Mr. Martin violated it after the Mayor called him into his office and told him to; directed him to go out. The Mayor was the nominal head of the police department. He was the one who told them to go out and make the collections. I do not feel that the fault on him would be nearly as great as it would on Mr. Flatley.

Q Let's assume that it would not.

A And yet he served ninety-five per cent of his sentence and Mr. Flatley sixty-three per cent of his.

Q Well, did he not get leniency from the court itself by getting only one year?

A He did.

Q And, therefore, the fact that he was compelled to stand ninety-five per cent of his sentence was on top of the leniency already granted him?

A That is right. If Mr. Flatley and Mr. Schwartz had testified, the third one of this ring perhaps would have been convicted, too.

Q And if Inspector Martin had testified, Mr. Socia would have been convicted, too.

A Mr. Martin could not have testified to that because he was not a part of the operation at the time. In fact, I think the mistake that Mr. Martin made was in his application pointing out that it was only because of his testimony that Mr. Flatley could be convicted.

Q Now, did you recommend anybody favorably to the Board at any time?

A Have I?

Q Yes

A Since I have been District Attorney?

Q Yes.

A Yes, I have.

Q Among this group?

A Not among this group.

Q Did you recommend against anybody in this group?

A I argued against Stanley Schwartz.

Q How about anyone else?

A Oh, wait, I beg your pardon. I did recommend or I did take this position on Anthony Tonti who came up in September of 1956. I said to the Board at that time that in view of what the Board had already done in these other cases that they should commute his because he was in the same position as the others.

Q Even though, as you say, the youths were perverted by the reasons of the Board of Pardons?

A I see no reason to make fish of one and fowl of the other. This man was one of the small ones. The big ones had been let out.

Q Well, would you say Mr. Schwartz was bigger than the Mayor?

A Yes, I would.

Q You would?

A Or at least as big.

Q Did Mr. Schwartz violate any public trust in addition to the crime he committed?

A He had a quasi-public position.

Q He was a politician, was he not?

A Yes, he was.

Q The Mayor was a duly elected public official?

A That is right.

Q Isn't the distinction that the Mayor at least was as bad off as his guilt was concerned as Mr. Schwartz?

A What do you mean, General, "at least as bad off"?

Q Wasn't the Mayor, at least from a moral point of view, as guilty as Mr. Schwartz?

A Oh, yes, from a moral point of view I think he was more so.

Q More so. And yet, having had the Board recommend his release in eleven months and five days and you having applied the rule that people in the same moral position should be treated in the same way, why shouldn't Mr. Schwartz get out, having served at least the same time as Mr. Flatley?

A Because, in addition to the moral issue involved was the fact that Mr. Schwartz was the instigator of it.

Q Was there anything in your mind in your recommendation against Mr. Schwartz that it was a Democratic politician?

A No, sir.

Q You mean that you look upon Democrats and Republicans with precisely the same eyes?

A Well, I attempt to.

Q Do you succeed?

A Not always.

Q Well, did you succeed in this case?

A I had in this case no Republicans to look upon.

Q Let me ask you this. You do not criticize the court for the last sentence of the court's letter that "he ought to serve at least as long as Mayor Flatley," do you?

A No, I do not. He said, "at least as long."

Q At least as long. Well, Mr. Schwartz did serve longer, did he not?

A Yes, he did. I think he served some fifteen days longer.

Q Well, he served one full year as against eleven months and five days; approximately twenty-five, twenty-six days longer. If you do not criticize the court for saying "he should serve at least as long as Mr. Flatley," do you criticize the Board for agreeing with the court?

A The court did not make the decision that he should stay the same length of time. I think that letter of the court, at least so I interpreted it, would mean—he pointed out first of all, all of the background of Mr. Schwartz and then he said that he should serve just as long. I do not think that is, by any means, a statement by the judge that it should be the same.

Q Mr. Johnson, you and I both know, do we not, that if the court was against his getting any clemency, all the court had to say, "This man should serve his minimum sentence. I am opposed to any clemency."?

A I think, very frankly, this, General. I think by the time the letter came along on Schwartz, the court was of the opinion that the Board was going to do what they wanted to do anyway and it did not make much difference what they recommended.

Q Well then, even being of that opinion he said I think that he should serve as much as Flatley?

A At least as much.

Q At least as much. All right.

Even your strenuous opposition you said you stated at the February Sessions—at the February Sesisons Mr. Schwartz had been in jail only since the previous August, had he not?

A That is right. He went in on August the 8th, 1955.

Q And then application was made on his behalf in February, 1956?

A That is right.

Q Now, your strenuous opposition was cupped in the following language, was it not, from page 228 of the transcript:

"In view of the activities of this man and the position in which he stood in this entire bribery situation in the City of Erie, I am very strenuously opposing any reduction of sentence at this time."

A Well, that was the time I was before the Board.

Q Yes, but couldn't you say, as you very easily could have, "I am opposed to the granting of any clemency."?

A Well, now, General, I think we are looking for those files you mentioned earlier. When I said "at this time," I certainly meant at the time when I was standing before the Board. That was in the form of saying, "I am opposed to any granting of commutation at this time."

Q That was in February, 1956?

A That is right.

Q He was not actually released until the following August, was he?

A The notice of that action was in April. April the 3rd, I received notice that he was commuted.

Q But, not to get out at once; but to get out and he got out August 8, 1956, isn't that right?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. McLaughlin is one of your assistants, is he not?

A Yes, he is.

Q Do you know of anything that he, as one of your assistants in your office, has been called down here by the Attorney General?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: What is the question? I just did not hear it.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I asked you whether Mr. McLaughlin was your assistant?

A He is.

Q Were you notified by the Attorney General that he was calling one of your assistants down here to consult with him in regard to cases which were under your jurisdiction?

A No, I was not. I have no objection to Mr. McLaughlin being here, but I do feel—and I have the utmost regard for you, General, and I recognize the fact that you do have the authority to supersede me, but I do think if you want one of my assistants here, the courteous way would be through me.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Let me say to you that I agree with you at once. When I talked to Mr. McLaughlin, I did not even know that he was an Assistant District Attorney at the time, in our conversation. I did not learn it until later; otherwise, I would have talked to you and done it the way you suggest. It never entered my mind that a former District Attorney would now be an Assistant District Attorney. I had thought when he ceased to be District Attorney that he would be in private practice, but I would have referred to you, Mr. Johnson, exactly as you suggest.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I would like to get something straightened out here now in connection with these reasons filed by the Pardons Board in connection with commutation of pardons. I want to know what the Pardons Board considers a public record to be. I have heretofore, in the hearing we had in Judiciary on a bill with reference to this very issue, been informed that these reasons are a matter of public record. We are all very well aware of the fact that at the beginning of each Session of the General Assembly, the Governor transmits to the General Assembly all actions of the Pardons Board for the previous two years and those records are made a part of the Appendix of the Legislative Journal and, therefore, are an official record open to the general public. Now, in the interim between the time of transmittal, January of 1955 and January of 1957, those reasons are on file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. I want to know here and now, are they public records and are those records available to the public if they make a request to see them?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well.

SENATOR YOSKO: But, Mr. Tompkins, I do believe though, that when a person applies to see a public record, they should not go to some clerk in the office. Many times I go over to the Auditor General's Department and State Treasurer's Department to ask for a public record in the form of an audit report, but I will not go to some employee over there. I will go to the head of the Department. Frankly, if I do not go to the head of the department, the employee that I do contact will suggest that I first go up to the front office. I do not see anything wrong with that procedure.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, if they are public records then a person, particularly the district attorney who has had cases before the Pardons Board, should be entitled to see that record without the necessity of having to go to the members of the Pardons Board. I quite agree with what you are just stating here, but you and I know what that procedure is, perhaps, because we are acquainted with it. But, these people coming in from the State that perhaps are not acquainted with that and they have an idea of a public record being like the files in a prothonotary's office and your recorder of deeds office where they can go in there and ask for it and they bring it out and show it to them.

SENATOR YOSKO: I will agree with you, but if the clerk, some typist or stenographer in the office, and I think we were told this morning that the place is understaffed, if that girl gets instructions not to show certain parts of the files to people without the consent of either Mr. Hean or one of the members of the Board, certainly if I want to see a record and the girl tells me that, I will take time out if I am interested enough to see the Secretary of the Board or a member of the Board just as I do when I go to some department and ask for a record.

MR. KOHN: Do you have any further questions on this case?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: No, I have no other questions.

MR. KOHN. I would like to proceed with this witness on another case.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Johnson, I think Mr. Yosko asked Mr. McLaughlin this morning whether or not he knew of any cases that had any political implications and he mentioned the Ben Kaufman case. Did you try that case?

A I did.

Q And, Ben Kaufman was before this Board from Erie County at No. A3344 September, 1956, was he not?

A When was that?

Q The number of the application is A3344 September, 1956.

A He was first before the Board in November of 1955, I believe, and then he was up again in September of 1956.

Q Well, tell us what he was convicted of.

A He was convicted of two counts; one of receiving stolen goods and the other conspiracy.

Q What was his sentence?

A One and a half to three years.

Q What was his plea?

A He pled not guilty and stood trial

Q Was he convicted?

A He was convicted on both counts

Q Did he appeal to the Superior Court?

A He took an appeal to the Superior Court of Pennsylvania.

Q Was that appeal refused?

A That appeal was refused.

Q Now, will you give us briefly just some of the facts surrounding this case?

A Ben Kaufman has been engaged in the junk business in Erie, Pennsylvania, for a number of years. He has been a suspect at various times of acting as what we refer to in the vernacular as a fence, although they had not been able to prove those specific cases.

Q Had he any previous record?

A No.

Q What were the facts briefly in this case?

A The facts in this case was that Mr. Kaufman went to an employee of the Marks Toy Company in Erie, Pennsylvania, and asked him to get plastics out of the place where he was employed.

Q Raw plastics or made plastics?

A Raw plastics; the new raw plastics. This employee was given—after ascertaining that he was able to get another individual in the plant to work with him he went to Mr. Kaufman and although Mr. Kaufman operated a place of business where he bought scrap materials, he gave him a key to a garage which was located in a private garage on the east side of the City of Erie and instructed him to deliver this plastic there. Subsequently, the men were apprehended removing the plastics from the Marks Toy works; they gave a full statement. In the meantime, they had become fearful of being apprehended and had returned the key to Mr. Kaufman. They, upon being arrested, gave the police the full story. The police went to Mr. Kaufman and asked him for the key to the garage which he denied having any knowledge of. He subsequently did acknowledge that he had the key to the garage and he gave the police the key to the garage where some sweepings of the new plastic was found.

Q There had been a certain amount of plastic sold to a Cleveland firm by Mr. Kaufman?

A That is right.

Q And Mr. Kaufman denied his guilt and he did not take the stand?

A He denied his guilt and did not testify.

Q Neither did he at any time explain to the police where he had gotten the raw plastics which had been sold to the Cleveland firm?

A He gave no explanation of that.

Q Now, this applicant, did you appear against him on October 11, 1955?

A October—

Q When his first application was heard?

A That was November Term, 1955, I believe. Mr. McLaughlin was District Attorney at that time and appeared as he testified this morning. That is when the incident took place that he testified to.

Q Was he opposed to any commutation on the ground that the case was then pending before the Superior Court?

A He was.

Q And, subsequently, you became District Attorney and did you have any opportunity to oppose this application?

A Yes. It came up again in September, 1956, at which time I appeared and opposed it.

Q The first time, who represented the defendant at the trial?

A He was represented at the trial by Attorney John Wolford.

Q And at the time that the original application was heard did Judge Evans oppose any commutation for this defendant?

A It is my understanding that Judge Evans opposed it both times.

Q Both times?

A Originally and the second time.

Q I have a letter that I will put in later. I just want to get the background.

Now, who represented the defendant at the trial did you say?

A Attorney John Wolford.

Q Who represented him on the application the first time it was heard?

A The first time it was heard he was represented likewise by Attorney John Wolford.

Q And at the time it was heard the second time who represented him?

A Attorney Maurice Coughlin.

Q And what is Maurice Coughlin's position in the Democratic Party in the City of Erie?

A He is Assistant City Solicitor under Mayor Gardner and he has been, on several occasions, City Campaign Manager for the Democratic Party.

Q And City Chairman?

A City Chairman, also.

Q Who is Mr. Phelps in Erie?

A He is the Democratic County Chairman.

Q Do you know a man by the name of Jones?

A No, I am not acquainted with a man by the name of Jones.

Q Did you get any notice of the—The first time there was an application it was denied, was it not?

A It was refused, yes.

Q And then there was a rehearing granted, is that correct, in which you appeared and argued the case on the facts?

A That is right.

Q The first time it was argued on the basis that it should not be commuted because it was before the Superior Court, is that correct?

A That is right.

Q And the second time was the application up on the rehearing also denied?

A No, the second time it was granted and the sentence was commuted.

Q Now, did Mr. Coughlin represent the applicant at that time?

A At the time of the rehearing, he did. He filed a petition for rehearing of which I received a copy.

MR. KOHN: You may cross-examine him.

RECROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q How old was this man Kaufman?

A I am afraid I cannot give you the exact age—forty.

Q Forty?

A Forty.

Q Had he lived in the community all his life?

A Most of his life; yes.

Q And had never been arrested before?

A Yes, that is right.

Q And this incident, this conversation, shaking of hands in September, 1955, were you present?

A I was not present.

Q Anything that you know that was because of what Mr. McLaughlin told you?

A That is right.

Q Now, you were present on the second time in 1956?

A That is right.

Q Now, the incident in September involved a shaking of hands with Mr. Finnegan, as I recall it, is that right?

A I think that must have been November. I believe in the November, 1955, Session.

Q I accept that. In the November Term, 1955, someone shook hands with Mr. Finnegan so that if any question of political influence arose then, it would be through Mr. Finnegan, would it not?

MR. KOHN: Now, just a minute. This man does not know anything about that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We are not entitled to know that no political influence—

THE WITNESS: I do not know anything about that situation.

MR. KOHN: He does not know—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: How is he going to answer to what I am leading up to?

In any event, the conversation was with Mr. Finnegan—

MR. KOHN: He does not know about that.

THE WITNESS: All I know is what Mr. McLaughlin testified to.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q I am just refreshing your recollection and the recollection of the committee. In 1956, September, Mr. Finnegan planned the successful commutation?

A I would not say he planned any. I do not believe he was on the Board.

Q Of course, he wasn't. So that in 1955, when this man is said to have spoken to Mr. Finnegan and the Board turned the application down in 1956, when they granted the commutation, Mr. Finnegan wasn't even on the Board?

A I believe that is correct.

Q Now, when did he go to jail?

A I believe he went to jail January 10, 1956; January or February, 1956. This copy I have here is so blurred. It is a carbon copy and difficult to read.

Q Have you got the original affidavit?

A Yes. You see, it had not gone in on the original.

Q It was not in at all on the original?

A That is right.

Q So far as you know, Mr. Johnson or Mr. Kohn, I would like to get on the record when he did go to jail and how much time he had served at the time he was commuted and when he got out?

A I believe February the 9th, General, was the date he started serving his sentence.

Q And when did he get out? When was he released?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Here is the warrant. Wouldn't that show that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I wanted it because this isn't one that we had any notice of; otherwise, I would have been better prepared on this one.

MR. KOHN: Sentenced February 9,—to be computed from February 9, 1956, to one and a half years to three years.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Now, what does your record show as to the date of release? How much did the man actually do? That wouldn't show the actual date of release in here. He did about one year?

MR. KOHN: It was commuted to one year.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Commuted to one year?

MR. KOHN: Yes. Sentenced on January 6th, which would mean that he went to jail about the 9th of January.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q From the minimum sentence of one and a half years in jail this man, with no previous record, was commuted to serve one year, but his maximum period on parole was not disturbed at all?

A No, it was only a commutation of his minimum term from one and a half down to one.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Hean, will you take the stand, please? Will you bring with you the records you have on this case; whatever files you have.

MR. HEAN: You have the records.

MR. KOHN: Whatever files you have when the application was considered.

MR. HEAN: I have February, 1956, January to June, 1955. What did you—

MR. KOHN: Your records for November of 1955.

MR. HEAN: I will have to send upstairs for them.

MR. KOHN: All right, you send up for it and I will get on to the next time it was heard, May 15, 1956.

MR. HEAN: May 15, 1956; that is upstairs.

MR. KOHN: Well, the petition for rehearing is here. Will you send up for those records, please, and we can work with what we have here.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: While Mr. Hean is up for his records, let's declare a five minute recess.

(Whereupon, the hearing was recessed at 3:25 p.m., for five minutes).

(After recess)

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Kohn.

FRANK R. HEAN, Recalled on

BY M. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, will you refer yourself to the case of Ben Kaufman and I ask you whether or not he filed an application at No. A3344 before the Board of Pardons?

A Filed in October—

Q Filed October 11, 1955, is that right?

A That is right, yes.

Q And on that he asked for a commutation of his maximum sentence, did he not?

A The Pardons Board number is A3344.

Q That was an application for commutation of his maximum sentence, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Now, at that time was his case pending before the Superior Court on appeal?

A I have a note in my binder here that applicant has appealed conviction of the Erie County Superior Court.

Q And it was certified to the Supreme Court?

A Certified to United States Supreme Court.

Q Now, at the time this was heard he had not started serving any sentence, is that correct?

A According to my records he had not.

Q And what was the action of the Board on this particular application?

A The Board refused the application.

Q And the application at that time was represented by John M. Wolford—

A John M. Wolford of Erie.

Q Pennsylvania, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q When did he again take action to either get a rehearing or file another application?

A According to my card, he requested a rehearing as of May, 1956—May 14th, somewhere around there.

Q Now, Mr. Hean, would you kindly pick out the request you referred to?

A A man by the name of Maurice J. Coughlin under a letter dated May 11, received by us May 14, of 1956.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: How do you spell that?

MR. KOHN: C-o-u-g-h-l-i-n.

THE WITNESS: Maurice J.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q And he submitted with his request a petition for a rehearing, did he not?

A He did.

Q Now, will you check your records and see what action was taken on that.

A My records would indicate that on or about the 7th of June of 1956, the Board of Pardons refused his request for a rehearing by a vote of three to one.

Q Now, subsequently did you know who Mr. Coughlin was? Had you ever met him before?

A I never met him before. I cannot place him in my mind at present.

Q Subsequently, was there another rehearing on this matter?

A My recollection—

SENATOR YOSKO: An application for rehearing?

MR. KOHN: Yes, an application for rehearing.

THE WITNESS: My records indicate that along about in August of the same year, 1956, there was another request made for rehearing.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Can you tell us by whom that request was made? You said about August what?

A Around August, the last of August. I have here 8/30/56.

Q Well now, previous to that, had the Board received any letters asking for a rehearing from individuals?

A I will have to look at the file first, and then I will—

Q Certainly.

A Received a letter dated June 1st from a gentleman, Rabbi Aaron Decter of Philadelphia who asked the Board to reconsider the case of Ben Kaufman.

Q Did you also receive a letter from another gentleman by the name of Abraham B. Shoulson, Rabbi, dated June 4, 1956?

A We so received a letter from the Rabbi, Rabbi Abraham B. Shoulson—S-h-o-u-l-s-o-n.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Was that before the rehearing was refused in June or after? That is, was it after the rehearing was refused?

MR. KOHN: It was about May 15th, was it not, Frank?

THE WITNESS: June 7th.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: June 7th, I believe they refused the rehearing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Both of these letters would be before June 7th?

MR. KOHN: They came in about the same time, the same day.

THE WITNESS: About the same time. Right before it, a day or so before.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, will you tell us what you replied to both of these letters?

A On the same day I replied to both gentlemen; Rabbi Decter of Philadelphia—

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What is the date of your copy?

A June 7th.

Q June 7th?

A Of 1956. I wrote the gentleman as follows:

"The Board considered very carefully the request for a rehearing of Ben Kaufman and regrets exceedingly that they must refuse such request for the June meeting. The reason is rather obvious. We have nearly 155 cases to be heard in two days, and the Board felt that they have such a tremendous list that it would be impossible for them to give the cases now listed the careful study and consideration that each deserve. They were very reluctant to add to their burden even one more case.

"Regretting exceedingly the refusal, I remain

"Sincerely yours,

"Frank R. Hean"

Q Do you have the other letter also?

A Yes, I have the other letter which Rabbi Shoulson wrote us which I replied to on the same day, the 7th of June.

"Dear Rabbi:

"The Board considered very carefully the request for a rehearing of Ben Kaufman and regrets exceedingly that they must refuse such request for the June meeting. The reason is rather obvious. We have nearly 155 cases to be heard in two days, and the Board felt that they have such a tremendous list that it would be impossible for them to give the cases now listed the careful study and consideration that each deserve. They were very reluctant to add to their burden even one more case.

"Regretting exceedingly the refusal, I remain."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, I show you another letter dated May 29th, addressed to Honorable Roy E. Furman, Lieutenant Governor, Capitol, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, on which the letterhead is "Leader Woodland in Israel" and on which the all Pennsylvania Commission is listed as Honorable Herbert B. Cohen; Advisory Committee, Honorable Roy E. Furman. Other members of the committee, Honorable Genevieve Blatt, Honorable James Finnegan, and Honorable Henry E. Harner. That is correct, is it not, among other names such as Dilworth, Clark, et cetera?

A They have seemed to cover the leaders of the Commonwealth.

Q Will you read that letter for the record?

A You mean the one addessed to Lieutenant Governor Furman?

Q Yes.

A This is a letter dated May 29, 1956, addressed to the Lieutenant Governor:

"Myron Prosser, our Co-Chairman of the Erie Commission, has told me about the very severe hardship case involving Ben Kaufman, of Erie, who has spent the last six months in the Allegheny County jail. He was sentenced to a year and a quarter and has spent almost half that time already.

"In addition to the original hardship, special problems have been created during the past six months. Mrs. Kaufman has had to send her two children to a foster home to be taken care of, and she herself has been working as a secretary for some firm.

"The appeal by Ben Kaufman will be presented to the Pardon Board very shortly, as a matter of fact before July 10th. If you could use your good offices to help in rehabilitating this man and help to extend to him a suspended sentence for the rest of his term so that he can help reunite his family, I believe it will be a good deed. Needless to say, we all believe the most important function of our social and public institutions is to help in the rehabilitation of the offender and help him return to the community. I am convinced that you as one of the great humane leaders of the Commonwealth will concur in this opinion.

"May I hear from you very shortly. With many thanks and my highest esteem, I am

"Sincerely yours,

"Rabbi Aaron Decter
"Coordinator.

"P. S. I would appreciate greatly if I could have the opportunity to meet with you personally to discuss the matter."—and initialed "A. D."

Do you want my reply?

Q Yes, you might read your reply.

A I replied on June 11th to the Rabbi in Philadelphia:

"Dear Rabbi Decter"—No, Roy Furman answered that. He said:

"I have referred your letter of May 29, with reference to the case of Ben Kaufman of Erie, in whom you are interested to Frank Hean, Secretary of the Board of Pardons. I have asked him to make it a part of the record in the case."

That has been done.

Q Do you know the political position held by Myron Prosser?

A I do not.

Q Do you know whether or not he consulted any members of the Pardons Board individually in connection with this case?

A I would not know, Mr. Kohn.

Q Well, how would you be able to write a letter saying that he did?

A Myron Prosser?

Q Yes, sir.

A What did I write to Myron Prosser?

Q No, I did not say you wrote to Myron Prosser. I asked you whether you knew whether Myron Prosser did?

A Oh, I would not know whether he wrote to—

Q Do you know whether Mr. Coughlin contacted any members of the Pardons Board and talked to them individually?

A I would not know; no, sir.

Q Do you know whether Mr. Phelps, the Democratic County Chairman in Erie County, contacted any of the members of the Board and talked to them individually?

A I would not know, Mr. Kohn.

Q Do you know if a Mr. Jones had contacted any members of the Board?

A I do not know.

Q Then I refer you to your letter of August 30, 1956, and ask you to read that into the record.

A This is a letter directed to the members of the Board, dated August 30, 1956, on the Ben Kaufman case from me—

Q To whom?

A To the members of the Board.

"This applicant was convicted of receiving stolen goods and conspiring with two accomplices who obtained from the Louis Marks Toy Company a quantity of plastic material.

"The application was heard by the Board in November, 1955 and refused. A rehearing request was forwarded by Maurice J. Coughlin, Esquire, and the Board, on June 7, 1956, refused to grant the request.

"Another request has been presented to the Board on behalf of this applicant by Mr. Coughlin, Mr. Jones and Mr. Phelps."

Q That is Mr. Coughlin the attorney, it it not?

A Yes.

Q Now, let us stop there a minute. Will you kindly show me where in the record there is any such application of any of those gentlemen that you mentioned

A I do not have it before me.

Q There is the entire folder.

A I have not gone through it, Mr. Kohn.

Q If I tell you that there is no such—

A I take your word for it then.

Q You would? Thank you, Frank. So then there isn't any such application in for a rehearing? If I say so will you take my word?

A I take your word for it.

Q Now, Mr. Hean, where would you have gotten the information that Mr. Coughlin, Mr. Jones and Mr Phelps had contacted the different members of the Board and talked to them about it when you wrote that letter?

A Somebody may have told me so; members of the Board I judge.

Q And you did not know, you say, that Mr. Phelps?

A I do not know Mr. Coughlin or Mr. Phelps. I do know a Mr. Jones.

Q You did not know that Mr. Phelps referred to in there was Mr. Alton Phelps, the Democratic County Chairman of Erie County?

A I never met Mr. Phelps. I know Mr. Jones.

Q You know Mr. Jones?

A Yes.

Q Who is he?

A Harry Jones.

Q And what is his relation to the applicant?

A As far as relationship, none. As far as acquaintanceship, he lives over in Kane, Pennsylvania—

Q Now, I ask you his relationship to the applicant?

A Oh, I do not know what relationship.

Q Did you look at the parole report which lists him as a resident of Kane and being a direct relative of Mr. Kaufman?

A I never knew that Harry Jones was a relative of Ben Kaufman.

Q Now, if it was in there—

A Well, if it was in there it was before the Board

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Is he the Harry Jones who used to be judge?

THE WITNESS: No.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, go on with the letter, if you please.

A "I understand that Mr. Phelps was in the city this week and spoke to various members of the Board on this matter.

"As you know, Mr. Kaufman appealed the sentence of two and a half to five years to the Superior Court, entered to Nos. 248, 249 April Term 1954, and the court upheld the judgment of the Erie County Court.

"The trial judge, the Honorable Elmer L. Evans, stated that he was strongly opposed and likewise district attorney, Damon McLaughlin, Esquire, expressed his opposition at the open hearing.

"The applicant was sentenced on October 11, 1954, but due to the appeal he did not commence his sentence until February 5, 1956.

"A special listing for the September 1956 Session is requested. The suggestion has been made that since no special meeting of the Board will be held prior to the September Session, this request be circulated among the members of the Board. This is an exception to our practice of considering hearings only at Executive Sessions, but under the circumstances this exception to our practice should be permitted.

"Kindly indicate your vote—".

Q Well, Mr. Hean, if there is nothing in the record asking for a rehearing, there must also follow there is nothing in the file asking for a special listing.

A I have a letter here dated August 2nd.

Q I haven't gotten to that letter yet. I am referring to your what-you-call'um here. This is August 31st, right? I am saying there was no rehearing petition, is that right?

A Not a formal rehearing.

Q And your—

A Except this, I have a letter dated August 2nd—

Q From the attorney?

A No, from Harry Jones.

Q Harry Jones.

A Evidently addressed to the Lieutenant Governor who, in turn, asked me to check and see if this case could be listed in September.

Q Now wait, I will get to that, if it is all right with you. You do not have anything in the file in regard to this particular request by Phelps, Coughlin, and Jones.

A I evidently do not because you checked the file.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Unless that letter of August 2nd bears on it.

MR. KOHN: I will get to that.

THE WITNESS: That letter bears on it. I mention Mr. Jones in there.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q But you mention Mr. Coughlin, Mr. Jones and Mr. Phelps in there as having seen the different members of the Board and, therefore, asking for a special hearing and having discussed the case with them.

A Well, who said all that?

Q Didn't you say in here—

A I didn't say all that.

Q Didn't you say in here—Let me point it out to you:

"Another request has been presented to the Board on behalf of this applicant by Mr. Coughlin, Mr. Jones and Mr. Phelps. I understand that Mr. Phelps was in the City"—that is the Democratic County Chairman, is that right?—"this week and spoke to various members of the Board on this matter." Is that right?

A That is what I stated there. I understand that.

Q Now, then, there is a further letter I think, dated August 10, 1956, from Roy Furman to yourself which states as follows: This is to yourself, yes.

"Will you check and see if this case can be listed for September."

A Yes, Sir.

Q Now, you do not know if Mr. Furman made that request on you as a result of his conversation with Mr. Phelps, do you?

A Oh, no. I wouldn't know that.

Q I call your attention to a letter dated August 2, 1956, addressed to Honorable Roy E. Furman, Lieutenant Governor, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, on the letterhead of the Kane Democratic Club, 118 Fraley Street, Kane, Pennsylvania, Harry Rook, Treasurer. This letter reads as follows:

"Dear Roy:

"Some three or four months ago, Attorney Maurice Coughlin of Erie, who replaced John Wolford in behalf of Ben Kaufman filed an application for rehearing. This appeal was denied for the September hearings and was too late for the June hearings.

"Ben is still in the workhouse in Allegheny County. His wife was forced to sell all of their furniture and move in with her father taking the oldest boy; the younger child is in a home and Mrs. Kaufman has secured employment. Their financial situation is very acute since it takes all of her meager earnings to maintain the youngest in a home and to maintain the older lad with her father.

"It is nothing short of candid that the situation is far from wholesome, particularly since Benny is the reluctant and imprisoned individual, victim of a perpetrated hoax and false testimony by the two convicted thieves who were out of jail in a matter of about four weeks. I refer to Orsinni and Colonna; one of which contacted Ben to get rid of pure refuse from the Marx Toy plant.

"Myron Prosser of Erie talked with Herb Cohen for approximately a half an hour two or three weeks ago in this connection and Herb promised to see what could be done to bring up Benny's case in the September hearings. In the name of justice and in furtherance of a project pointed towards Ben's deliverance from economic bondage and the opportunity to relive an honorable and decent life, I appeal to you to see what can be done to get him scheduled.

"With kindest, most personal regards to you, Mary and all, I am

"Sincerely yours,

/s/ "Harry".

That Harry evidently refers to Harry Rook, Treasurer of the Democratic Party in Kane, does it not?

A I don't—

Q It says on it. Is that right?

A Yes, that is right.

Q Now, after the Lieutenant Governor received that letter he sent you this note of August 10 asking you whether it could be specially listed, did he not?

A Yes, he did.

Q And pursuant to that, you wrote this letter that Phelps, Coughlin and Jones had seen various members of the Board and taking exception to the considered practice under the circumstances—I do not know what they were.

A The circumstances are that the Board meet at executive session and considers these requests for—

Q Why was this a special—

A Why because they were on vacation.

Q Well, why was this a special situation and had to get immediate attention? Was it on account of the letters?

A I presume that and also the fact that the Lieutenant Governor asked whether it would be possible to put it on in September and I complied, naturally, with his request whether it could be and I so circulated among the members of the Board this request.

Q Well, then there had been a rehearing which had been refused?

A That is correct.

Q And the rules of the Board are that on other additional rehearings additional new testimony or additional facts should be given for a rehearing?

A That is correct.

Q Now I ask you, Mr. Hean, to point out to the committee what new facts outside of the difficulty of his wife or his children, as I understand it, would justify the action by the Board?

A Well, I would have to study back over the whole case, Mr. Kohn, to find out what the new factors were that were not previously presented that they were going to bring forward in the rehearing request.

Q In other words, if there were any new factors they were in those letters from the Kane Democratic Club Treasurer, is that right?

SENATOR YOSKO: Now: just a minute. Now, wait a minute. The Parole Board has no control over who writes a letter and on what stationery they write a letter. It is the substance of the letter that counts, not the stationery that it is written on. The Parole Board does not tell somebody to write a letter on political stationery or any other kind of stationery. Let's consider the facts that are stated in that letter.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What facts are there, Mr. Hean, that would authorize, outside of letters from these individuals—

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, I heard some facts about selling the furniture because of financial circumstances. I heard—

MR. KOHN: You don't think that is true in every other case?

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, whether it is or whether it isn't—It is not true in every case. We are talking about this case, not every case.

MR. KOHN: All right. I am willing that he tell you what—

SENATOR YOSKO: There is a child that was in somebody else's home because she was not able to support the child. His wife—

MR. KOHN: Mr. Hean can tell you that. That was my question.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, let's be reasonable about this thing.

MR. KOHN: What do you mean "reasonable"?

SENATOR YOSKO: Just what I say.

MR. KOHN: Well, what do you mean?

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, the Board has no control over the things.

MR. KOHN: I didn't say they did.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, all right—

MR. KOHN: I am just asking him to tell us what new reasons there were according to Rule VI.

SENATOR YOSKO: If you want to go into the reasons, go into the reasons, but let's not go into—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right now, one at a time.

SENATOR YOSKO: Democratic stationery and all that sort of thing.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, just a minute. I think that stuff will speak for itself as to what stationery it comes on and so forth, and I think the inquiry as to what new facts prompted the Board to this and circumstances that prompted the Board to do this is proper inquiry.

THE WITNESS: I can only say that the facts presented here so eloquently by Harry, the Board again considered them. They have the privilege of reconsidering any action they may wish to do. What prompted them is distinctly their own decision. I am not familiar with that, their thinking.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Let me see that record a minute. This letter which you circulated to the Board under date of August 30, that is initialed by all four members of the Board with favoring a rehearing.

A That is correct.

Q I think you said the June 7 was a three-one decision.

A That is correct.

Q Who dissented on that one?

A I will tell you in a minute. The dissent was Miss Blatt, Mr. Cohen and Mr. Harner.

Q Mr. Furman was—

A Mr. Furman was in favor of it.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q It was Mr. Furman who wrote the letter to you to see whether it could be put on special?

A That is correct.

Q Now, did Mr. Cohen disqualify himself from sitting on that case because Myron Prosser talked to him for a half an hour about the case?

A I have no record of his not sitting.

Q What does the recommendation show? Mr. Cohen was in favor of the commutation?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Has it been brought out here yet who Myron Prosser is?

MR. KOHN: Nothing except what the letter says that he is co-chairman of some Erie project.

THE WITNESS: I didn't get what you said.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I asked you whether Mr. Cohen disqualified himself from sitting and hearing on that case?

A Not according to the record.

Q And he voted in favor of commutation?

A That is correct.

MR. KOHN: Myro Prosser according to the previous letter here—Myron Prosser is referred to, Mr. Tompkins, by Rabbi Aaron Decter in a letter dated May 29, 1956 on the Leader Woodland In Israel—The first paragraph is as follows:

"Myron Prosser, our Co-Chairman of the Erie Commission."—I don't know what that is.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: For your information, the Erie Commisison is for the Israel bond drive and so forth.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q This letter was in the files that all the members had a copy of, was it not?

A You mean this letter?

Q Yes, the Kane letter.

A Well, at the time this request was distributed to the members of the Board in which they indicated their favoring such a listing, this letter was attached to the—

Q The vote?

A Yes, the vote.

Q On whether a rehearing should be granted?

A Yes, they had an opportunity to read the letter.

Q Do you know any of the members of the Board who requested Mr. Cohen's information as to what was discussed with Myron Prosser?

A That I don't know.

Q Did any of them find out from Mr. Cohen what Mr. Phelps discussed with him?

A That I would not know.

Q Did anybody ask him what Mr. Jones discussed with him?

A Do you mean the members of the Board?

Q Yes.

A Well, the members of the Board are here.

Q I mean, do you know whether—I mean, during the rehearing on this, the reconsideration, did the question come up at all of what they talked about?

A No, sir.

Q These men didn't consult you or the members of the Board in regard to procedure, did they?

A You mean Mr. Coughlin, Mr. Prosser or Mr. Phelps? I have no recollection. There was a Mr. Jones—Harry Jones consulted me on this procedure that I recall speaking to. I have known Harry for many years.

Q Wait now, Mr. Kaufman had an attorney, did he not?

A Yes.

Q A Mr. Coughlin who was familiar with procedure?

A I know he is a very competent gentleman, yes.

Q He filed this petition for rehearing which was refused?

A Thats right.

Q And no other petitions for rehearing outside of these letters were filed?

A Well, we consider it a petition whether it is formally in shape as Mr. Coughlin's, an experienced lawyer would present it.

Q I am asking you whether Mr. Coughlin later filed any petitions for rehearing in writing?

A I have no such record of it here.

Q Well, necessarily it must follow that the action of the Board in allowing or considering a rehearing was based upon either the verbal appearance of Mr. Phelps, Mr. Coughlin or Mr. Jones in conversation they had with him, plus the letter from Kane?

A I received a letter from this Harry, what is his name, Harry Rook—

Q Well, then, it does not matter whether an individual requests—It does not matter who requests it, the Board will consider it?

A Will consider it; yes, sir.

Q And would they then notify the attorney of the date that has been set?

A They could, as we did in that case notified Mr. Coughlin, I believe.

Q Now then, what minutes or facts of the particular meeting in consideration of this rehearing which was granted on what do you have?

A I have none because that was circulated to the various offices of the members of the Board when summer recess was in session.

Q Well, it was specially set for a certain time, was it not?

A For September.

Q And at that time, was it heard in open hearing or was it not?

A In September--I believe it was listed for the September hearing of the Board. That was listed specially and given a number of 122A. Mr. Coughlin was present in behalf of the applicant, Ben Kaufman.

Q And at that time was Mr. Kaufman still protesting his innocence.

A Who, Ben Kaufman?

Q Yes.

A I have my notes here. "Applicant's Description of the Crime: Applicant alleges he was found guilty of the crimes on circumstantial evidence of receiving stolen goods and plactics and pled not guilty of the crime." And then there is a little description of—

Q This is the same sheet, however, that you use in the original hearing, is it not?

A One and the same sheet, yes.

Q Did anybody dissent from granting that commutation?

A You mean at the September hearing?

Q When it was granted, yes.

A Yes

Q Mr. Harner, wasn't it?

A Mr. Harner did.

Q And did District Attorney Johnson oppose it?

A I have McLaughlin opposed on parole report as of October, 1955. I have nothing from Mr. Johnson. However, I believe Mr. Johnson was present.

Q Did the judge oppose it?

A The only report I have is, Judge Evans strongly opposed by letter of October 14, 1955.

Q Now, did the Board consider the parole report; the parole officer's report?

A It was before them.

Q Each had a copy?

A Each member did.

Q Now, when you consider these matters from time to time, do you get a new parole report each time or do you just keep the old one and consider that?

A In this instance, we did not get a new parole report. This was based on the one in October of 1955 which we had, I believe. I don't think there is another one in there, is there, Dave?

Q Now, then the Board then had before it the parole report which stated that the officer investigating for the parole board didn't agree with the facts as set forth in the applicant's statement?

A I would have to look at it. Yes, he stated to the Board that the statements under 15A which is where he alleges conviction by circumstantial evidence are not substantiated by the testimony of the accomplices or the information received by the parole agent from the Erie City police.

Q At no time did he ever admit that he was guilty of this crime?

A Well, I can only take from his statement; I do not know what he personally stated.

Q Do you know as a matter of fact that Attorney Coughlin in his decision for rehearing stated to the Board that the original councel had no right to state to the Board that he was actually guilty? Wasn't that one of the reasons given by Coughlin on his petition for a rehearing?

A Yes, that is right.

Q Coughlin still maintained this man was innocent.

A That is correct.

Q Now, I refer you to the copy of the commutation of the minimum sentence for Ben Kaufman, specifically to the recommendation of the Board: "The Board, however, believes this applicant has been sufficiently punished." Where is there anything in the records from which that could be ascertained?

A I think I stated some days previously that I take notes of the discussion in the executive session and somewhat try to get a consensus of opinion on the thinking of the Board members which I incorporate.

SENATOR YOSKO: Let me see that. You don't, you don't—you have to read the whole thing and not just a part of it.

MR. KOHN: I intend to read the whole thing.

SENATO YOSKO: All right. This is what it says:

"The Board"—and this is all one thought and the conclusion is based on this thought—"The Board believes this applicant has been sufficently punished. The fact that his fellow conspirators, Orsini and Colonna, received only a sentence for from four to eight months in the Erie County Prison and were released after serving two and one-half months persuades the Board that the applicant should have his sentence commuted." That is the whole thought. You only read a part of it. And I am assuming they arrived at that conclusion because of the sentences that were granted, that were meted out to the two conspirators.

MR. KOHN: Is that the assumption of the Board or yours, Senator Yosko?

SENATOR YOSKO: That is their conclusion. That is one of the reasons they give in there.

MR. KOHN: May I go ahead?

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is there anything—in answer to my question, is there anything in this record to justify the Board coming to the conclusion that this man has been sufficiently punished?

A I think the answer which Mr. Yosko has just made to you would be eloquent in reply to your question.

Q That was the reason you wrote that sentence in there, was it?

A There was a discussion I have no doubt at the executive session discussing the sentence he received, the sentence the accomplices received and the whole situation that I made a little note probably like I usually do "sufficiently punished" and on that I complied—

Q Do you have those notes?
A No, I destroy them.
Q And you destroyed this one, too?
A When I wrote that.
Q Now, you state in here that, "The fact—
A They are not records, Mr. Kohn, as a prominent newspaperman said.

Q The fact that his fellow conspirators, Orsini and Colonna, received only a sentence from four months to eight months in the Erie County Prison and released after serving—

SENATOR YOSKO: Now wait a minute, now wait a minute, Mr. Kohn. Is that the final order?

MR. KOHN: Yes, Sir.

SENATOR YOSKO: I think we understood before that that final order is not the product of the Secretary.

MR. KOHN: He said he wrote it.

SENATOR YOSKO: It is the product and the opinion approved by the Board members.

MR. KOHN: That is right.

SENATOR YOSKO: And when you say he inserted it in there we must presume that it is the language and it is the opinion of the Board and not Mr. Hean.

MR. KOHN: I will accept that.

SENATOR YOSKO: If you will examine him and refer to the Board's action that is one thing, but when you talk about Mr. Hean inserting it in the opinion or in that order, I just don't think it is proper.

Q You are the one who promulgated these reasons and they were accepted by the Board?
A I write them subject to their correction and criticism, alteration and review.
Q After they have approved them—
A They have the opportunity to do that.
Q Did they correct this one?
A I have no recollection of that.
Q They approved it?
A They approved that.
Q That was your reasons then?
A Their reasons.
Q And yours? You wrote it?
A Mine and theirs, too.

Q Where did you get the information that they only got four to eight months and were released in two and a half months out of this record?

A Oh, I wouldn't like to say right offhand without—some investigation ought to be around here somewhere.

Q Well, did you get that from the files, Mr. Hean?
A I am just looking.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: From the official testimony, page 91.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Does that show that these accomplices were let into this thing by Kaufman? He made all the arrangements and gave them the key to the garage and everything else?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is another question. Let's answer the other one first. Let's get the answer to the other one first.

THE WITNESS: It is in the record.

SENATOR YOSKO: What does the record say? I don't know what is in there.

THE WITNESS: The record says, "The two thieves"—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now who is speaking; let's first get that.

THE WITNESS: Mr. Wolford said the two thieves received a sentence of from four to eight months in the Erie County jail and Mr. Kaufman was sentenced to serve one and a half to three years as the junk dealer that had received the goods that they had stolen.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you know of any member of the Board who had signed that commutation ever expressing himself as not caring what the accomplices had got but would consider the situation as it applied to the applicant only?
A You mean in the executive session?
Q In the hearings at the executive session?
A Any members of the Board—they must have but which one I would not know.

Q I note quite a few cases in which the reasoning was because the accomplices might have gotten less they were going to cut the sentence down. Is that a policy of the Board?
A No; oh, no.

Q Did any members of the Board ever express themselves against considering what accomplices got and considering the case solely on the merit of the application?

A I wouldn't go so far as to say yes or go so far as to say no. The whole case is considered by the Board in executive session, Mr. Kohn.

Q What I am trying to ascertain is why so many of the commutations of the Board refer to the fact that accomplices might have gotten lesser time and were let out as their reasoning in cases for commutation and in a case where a man was the ringleader or prime mover in a case.

A I could not give you a clear-cut answer to that. I know there is no policy.

Q No policy. Wouldn't you say it was a policy to consider that?
A No, I would not say that. I would say rather that the Board as a Board of mercy considers all facts that would bear upon the problem.

Q Why then is it used so often?

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Hean and the members of the Board are here and anything that is applicable to any conclusions arrived at in connection with the commutation, let's call the Board members.

MR. KOHN: The Board did not write this.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, that is the Board's order.

MR. KOHN: They only approved it and I am asking him why he wrote it.

SENATOR YOSKO: As I just told Mr. Tompkins, Supreme Court Justices have law clerks that write their opinion or help to write them; that when they hand down that opinion it is the opinion of the judge not the person that may have done the research on it and gotten the language together and the same thing applies here. The members of the Board are back here. Why ask the clerk for conclusions that might be arrived at by the Board members?

MR. KOHN: I am asking him his reasons for writing—

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, he does not need any reasons.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q This Secretary, as I understand it, writes these reasons based upon a correlation of the opinions of the Board and I have no doubt he interspersed some of his own opinions based upon the facts in the case from the record in the files and the Board then will approve. These are all written up and submitted to the Board for approval, are they not?

A That is correct.

Q And then the language which meets with their approval then they sign it?

A That is correct.

Q And you correlate the facts pretty well from their discussion and from the records, is that right?

A That is correct.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, I would like to know from our counsel just what is improper about considering the sentence given to accomplices when the crime involved is one which couldn't happen without accomplices? Now, what is wrong with the Board considering them? The crime could not have happened without accomplices.

MR. KOHN: There is not a thing improper about it, Mr. Lopresti. The only thing improper about it is this that the meager facts which appear on the record in regard to accomplices,—When you have a complete record here on this particular applicant and the meager facts that accompany that applicant, to base anything on that is a dangerous proposition without reading the entire record. And besides that, Attorney General Cohen in the minutes of April, 1955, April 21, 1955, made this statement and I am questioning him as to why he approved this thing.

"In the short time I have been on the Board of Pardons, I have tried to disabuse myself from the so-called comparative justice aspect of the situation because it seems as though it does as much harm . . . as it does good. We find individuals who are paroled and on the basis of the parole, the accomplices come in and ask for a parole . . . for circumstances that had nothing to do with the basis of the crime, but for other consideration that had been taken into account by the previous Board."

The only point I am interested in is the aspects of this case and the aspects of what happened to the assumptions by the individuals.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: All right, you will notice in that statement you say circumstances have nothing to do with the crime, but here we are particularly involved with a crime which could not have happened without accomplices.

MR. KOHN: That's right, nor without a fence either.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: It couldn't have happened without the accomplices, could it? He could not have received—

MR. KOHN: This case had accomplices, too.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: He could not have been guilty of receiving stolen goods unless there was an accomplice, and I think it perfectly proper for this Board to consider, along with the other facts, the sentence that the accomplices received.

MR. KOHN: I am not disputing that. I agree with you.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well, you are attempting to make something of it.

MR. KOHN: I am asking him why in so many cases I have read, that that same reasoning is given. Is that a policy of the Board?

SENATOR YOSKO: Let's ask the Board that.

MR. KOHN: Why can't I ask him, he wrote it?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, I think, too, when yo come into a question of accomplices in a matter of this kind, this man could, and I believe the district attorney stated, had been—he surmised he had been operating in this field very generally and it just happened in this particular case where he was tripped up. Now, the whole facts were before the court which they took into consideration at the time of imposing a sentence and that, therefore, he may not have considered only the facts in the particular case. There may have been a lot of other background in this man's operations that the Board based their considerations.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Maybe he never was arrested before but he may have been operating a long time and they were trying to get him, too, and finally they caught him.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is right and the Board should consider those facts, too. I did not say that they shouldn't; they should consider all of them.

MR. KOHN: That is all. You may question him, gentlemen.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Senator Yosko, Senator Scott, Mr. McBride?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes. Now, let's return to this alleged conference between Mr. Prosser and Attorney General Cohen. That is contained in the letter dated what?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I believe that was Mr. Hean's letter to the Board where—

MR. KOHN: No.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Harry Rook's letter.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I would like to move the admission of those letters which were read on the record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's have them marked up. I wish we could follow the practice of marking these before we use them and then we won't have this confusion when we are looking for them.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Do you want to do that now?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's mark them so that we can refer to them as exhibit numbers, please.

MR. KOHN: Here is one letter of August 30, 1956, from Mr. Hean to all the Board members. Will you mark that please?

> Memorandum from Frank R. Hean, Secretary Board of Pardons, to All Board Members under date of August 30, 1956, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee as Committee Exhibit No. 12. NPK 3-6-57.

Mr. KOHN: Here is one from Mr. Harry Rook to Honorable Roy E. Furman. Will you mark that please?

> Letter from Harry Rook, Treasurer, The Kane Democratic Club to Honorable Roy E. Furman under date of August 2, 1956, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 13. NPK 3-6-57

MR. KOHN: Here is a note from Mr. Furman to Mr. Hean, dated August 10, 1956. Mark that, please.

Memorandum from Roy E. Furman, Lieutenant Governor, to Frank R. Hean, Secretary, Board of Pardons, under date of August 10, 1956, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 14. NPK 3-6-57

MR. KOHN: Here is a letter dated May 29, 1956, from Rabbi Aaron Decter, and also an accompanying letter of June 11, 1956, from Mr. Furman to Rabbi Decter. Will you mark that?

Letter from Rabbi Aaron Decter of Philadelphia to Honorable Roy E. Furman, Lieutenant Governor, under date of May 29, 1956, and accompanying reply of Roy E. Furman to Rabbi Aaron Decter under date of June 11, 1956, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 15. NPK 3-6-57

MR. KOHN: Also, another letter dated June 4, 1956, from Rabbi Shoulson—S-h-o-u-l-s-o-n—to Mr. Frank Hean and answer by him dated June 7, 1956. Mark that for the record.

Hean to Rabbi Abraham Shoulson under date of June 7, 1956, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 16. NPK 3-6-57

MR. KOHN: Here is a letter dated June 1, 1956, by Rabbi Aaron Decter to Frank Hean, Secretary of the Pardons Board, and a reply by him dated June 7, 1956. Mark that, please.

Letter from Rabbi Aaron Decter of Philadelphia to Frank Hean, under date of June 1, 1956, and accompanying reply of Frank R. Hean to Rabbi Aaron Decter under date of June 7, 1956, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 17. NPK 3-6-57

MR. KOHN: Here is a letter dated—With the permission of the Committee, I would like to put on record the letter of Judge Elmer L. Evans, dated October 14, 1955, which I don't think has been read. May I read that?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Will you get that number?

Letter from President Judge Elmer L. Evans to the Board of Pardons under date of Ocotber 14, 1955, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 18. NPK 3-6-57

MR. KOHN: Board of Pardons, Re Ben Kaufman, dated October 14, 1955:

"Gentlemen:

"I have a copy of the application of Ben Kauffman for commutation of maximum sentence. In the first place, this application is rather unusual in that there is an attempt to appeal the matter to the Supreme Court of the United States. After conviction here, his sentence was sustained by the Superior and Supreme Courts of Pennsylvania. In paragraph 17 he claims innocence, but I do not conceive that as possible.

"Two young men at a plastic plant were caught and pleaded guilty to removing new plastic from the plant and selling it. They are now serving sentences, and in their statements and at time of trial stated that Ben Kauffman accosted one of them concerning old plastic which he would like to buy. This in itself is unusual because an ordinary plant employee would not have old plastic to sell. Later they contacted him and said new plastic was available, and he gave them directions to a garage and gave them a key. This garage was some distance from his place of business as a junk dealer. When the boys told the officers, they immediately went to Kauffman, who denied having the key but later gave it to them. They went to these premises and found a lot of loose new plastic similar in type to that stolen. The defendant did not take the stand, nor did he offer any defense whatever. Both he and his attorney stated in court that his sentence was reasonable, and I am now inclined to believe it was too light. I oppose very strongly any consideration of his application for clemency.

"Very truly yours,

/s/ "Elmer L. Evans."

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Kohn, do we have in the record or in any of those papers the age of these boys?

MR KOHN: That is the thing I was pointing out, Mr. Bell. There is very meager evidence on the accomplices because that record does not accompany his application. The only thing you can get there, you see, would be the statement of the parole officer of the statement of the applicant in the application.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Is there anything in the parole officer's report on that?

MR. KOHN: On the boys?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's see that once.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: The judge does call them boys, does he not?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: They were not sent to a juvenile institution. They were sent to the workhouse.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: That would make them over eighteen, would it not?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The report does not indicate the age of the boy either or the age of the accomplices.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Who is it that speaks of them as boys?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Judge Evans speaks of them as boys in his letter.

FURTHER RECROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, is there anything in the folder anywhere indicating that Prosser or anybody else talked to any member of the Pardons Board about the merits of the case?

A There is nothing in the record speaking of the merits of the case.

Q Is it true that in the summer when there are no hearings or executive sessions scheduled this method of sending around to the different offices for signature is usually employed?

A That is correct.

Q Is that a time honored method?

A A time honored method.

Q And is it a fact that the letters which refer either to a talk with Mr. Cohen or a talk with Mr. Furman had to do only with the question of when the case could be heard?

A Yes, the letters.

Q I mean the letters.

A I said the letters, the contents of the letters.

MR. KOHN: The letter speaks for itself.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I know, but speaking for itself, that is what it does show. Let's get the letter.

MR. KOHN: I did not say anything, go ahead.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q You were not present during any of these alleged conversations with Mr. Prosser, Lieutenant Governor Furman—

A Not with Mr. Cohen, Lieutenant Governor Furman or anyone else.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Does not this letter of August 2, 1956 referring to the Kane Democratic Club and signed Harry contain these words: I am not going to read the whole thing again.

"I appeal to you to see what can be done to get him scheduled."

A That is what it states.

MR. KOHN: That is not referring to Myron Prosser. You are not reading that right either.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, then—

MR. KOHN: You have to read the whole thing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, then I will read the whole thing. I will read the whole paragraph. You don't think this is referring to Myron Prosser?

MR. KOHN: According to Senator Yosko, you have to read the whole letter.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, it has been suggested that this does not refer to Myron Prosser.

MR. KOHN: I say it does, but the latter part does not refer to Myron Prosser. That is what Rook is saying.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will read the whole paragraph so that there will be no difficulty:

"Myron Prosser of Erie talked with Herb Cohen for approximately a half an hour two or three weeks ago in this connection and Herb promised to see what could be done to bring up Benny's case in the September hearings. In the name of justice and in furtherance of a project pointed towards Ben's deliverance from economic bondage and the opportunity to relive an honorable and decent life, I appeal to you to see what can be done to get him scheduled."

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, I say, is it not a fact, Mr. Hean, that this letter on its facl speaks only of the converation with Mr. Cohen as referring to getting the hearing scheduled in September and the letter to Mr. Furman, this letter I have just read, also refers to getting the case scheduled?

A That is the content of the letter.

Q Do you know directly or indirectly from any source whatever that the merits of this case were discussed by these men with any member of the Board?

A I would not know. I would not know.

Q Did you ever hear that it did?

A I never did.

Q That such a conversation took place as to the merits?

A I never heard that it did.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. McBride, Mr. Kohn, Mr. Cohen volunteered by letter to the Committee that he would come here and testify to any matters that came before the Board while he was a member and we can get that data from him if and when he appears.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He said, in effect, wild horses couldn't keep him away.

I think that is about all, Mr. Hean.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q There is just one question I wanted to ask Mr. Kohn I think you stated during the questioning by Mr. Kohn that Harry Rook had been in your office and you had talked this matter over with him about a half an hour.

A I said Harry Jones.

Q Oh, Harry Jones?

A Yes.

Q Now, who is Harry Jones?

A Harry Jones lives in Kane likewise. I have known him for twenty years and he was evidently interested in this Kaufman case and asked me about what is the usual method of getting rehearings and reconsiderations, the procedure. Whether Mr. Harry Jones was personally acquainted over a period of time with Mr. Kaufman. I would not know, but he did know of him.

Q Did Mr. Harry Jones tell you why he was inquiring of you or who had asked him to inquire of you?

A No, he did not reveal the reason why he saw me when he visited Harrisburg. He only came down on a procedural question.

Q Did you make any suggestion to him that perhaps if the letter were written in it might be a basis for consideration?

A I have no recollection of specifically suggesting a letter, what it should contain and things of that sort. I may have said that a letter requesting a rehearing or a reconsideration is the proper way to bring it to the attention of the Board.

Q Now, do you know whether or not either Jones or Rook are related to Kaufman in any way?

A I do not know. That was news to me when I heard that statement here at the hearing.

FURTHER RECROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Do you frequently get letters from relatives who try to get their relatives out of jail?

A Very often.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We don't know whether they are relatives or not.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No, but, Mr. Chairman, I wondered if anything turned on it. I hope if I were in jail that my relatives would try and get me out.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I am trying to get the motivation why somebody in Kane, a considerable distance away from Erie, should be interesting themselves in a case in Erie.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: They say it is a matter of justice.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, I want to ask just one more question. The Board does consider the time spent as a factor in considering whether to grant rehearings, don't they?

A Oh, yes.

Q Both judge, district attorney, and Pardons Board members sometimes take the position that a petition is premature?

A That is correct.

Q And then upon a subsequent hearing, decide to grant it because a man has spent more time in jail?

A That is correct.

Q This man in this instance spent more time in jail, did he not, from the first time that he was refused until he was ultimately commuted?

A He certainly did.

Q And such matters are considered as being something new in the case, are they not?

A They always are, always are; the time spent in jail.

MR. KOHN: All these facts set forth—

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q I was just going to say this one thing. On this question of protestation of innocence, is it or is it not a fact, Mr. Hean, that the charge of receiving stolen goods, involving as it does not merely the receipt of goods which are in fact stolen, but with knowledge at the time of receiving that they have been stolen? It requires that mental element?

A It requires knowledge that the man accepting the goods knows that it was illegally acquired by the donor.

Q And where a man protests his innocence it is usually on the question of not whether he received but of whether he had that mental element of knowing at the time that it was stolen?

A That is correct.

Q That is the usual factor—

A That is the usual factor in receiving stolen goods, sure.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q That wouldn't be a factor where you ask a guy to go steal them, would it?

A No.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Was this case tried by a jury?

A I believe so. I can tell you in a minute.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The defendant did not add any purjury to whatever else he did. He did not take the stand and try to lie out of it.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q That isn't a factor where a man tells when he says in the statement he gave to the police, where he tells them to go get the stuff. That isn't a factor there is it? It couldn't be.

A He did not tell them to go get it. I understood the accomplices told—

Q Well, do you have a copy of the testimony before the Supreme Court?

A I don't know whether I have a copy of testimony—yes, I have it.

Q Is it not a fact that that was before the Board, was it not?

A Yes. Whether they read it or not, I would not know.

Q Well, I agree with you on that. Isn't it a fact, Mr. Hean, that all of this, all of these factors and reasons set forth in the new trial—I mean, for rehearing which was filed by Mr. Coughlin, Rabbi Shoulson's letter was read, and Rabbi Decter's was all there when they denied the rehearing?

A Yes, those letters were there.

Q Well, the only new thing that you have is the circulation by Mr. Phelps and Mr. Coughlin and Mr. Jones of the members of the Board and the letter from Kane?

A And the additional time, sure.

Q And the additional time. The Board doesn't grant things just because a man serves sufficient time. They have got to have some additional factors, do they not?

A Well, that is one of the factors, not all of them.

Q Do you know of any cases where the Board has of its own volition reconsidered a case that they feel ought to be reheard because a man served more time?

A Right offhand I could not answer that question, but I presume we could find such cases if you went through—

Q Do you know of any?

A Not offhand.

Q And isn't it up to the applicant to bring it to the attention of the Board that there are new reasons?

A Ninety-nine out of 100 it is the applicant or his relatives or friends or attorney.

Q Well, when it was denied on rehearing or the attorney presented this case for rehearing all those other letters were considered; everything was in there except the additional time?

A And that letter which we had recently from Mr. Harry Rook was a letter which asked for a reconsideration or rehearing, whatever term you choose to call it, of facts which had already been passed upon, but urging the Board to reconsider what they did and they said, "Yes, we think we will," and one of the factors would have been that he had served longer time in the Erie County Jail.

Q And they reduced that from one and half to—

A To one.
Q To one?
A Yes, sir.
Q Thirty-three and one-third per cent.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, could you tell me, according to your recollection, did you receive the letter from Harry Rook after the time that Harry Jones was into your office to see you?

A I cannot give you that, my recollection, except my recollection that Harry came in, who I had not seen for a long while, and he was interested in that and we chatted on many, many subjects and probably spent a half an hour with me. At that time, I have a recollection that he brought up the Kaufman case, how could the Board hear it, and I went along with this idea of rehearing and reconsideration.

Q Well, do you recall whether or not it was after that conversation with Harry Jones that you received that letter from Harry Rook?

A I cannot say definitely. I cannot give you a pin point on it, Mr. Chairman.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, this gentleman Harry Jones, has he ever been active in Democrat political circles?

A Yes.

Q What position has he held?

A He was active here in Dauphin County years ago and that is where I come to know him and he has now moved up to Kane and what he is doing up there, offhand I have forgotten. But, he was active here and lived here in Dauphin County back in the late 1930's.

Q Well, was he what you would call small fry or was he a borough leader or—

A No, he was just active in the party and took a deep interest in it.

SENATOR YOSKO: Small fry.

THE WITNESS: They count on election day.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: God, I love the small fry on election day.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General, do you have any further questions of the witness?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: These hearings will now be recessed until Wednesday, March 13, 1956, at 9:30 a.m.

(Whereupon, the hearing was recessed at 4:45 p.m.)

TO CONDUCT AN INVESTIGATION OF THE BOARD OF PARDONS PURSUANT TO HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 1, PRINTER'S No. 8

Stenographic report of hearing held in Senate Caucus Room, Main Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, at 10:00 a.m., Wednesday,

March 13, 1957

PRESENT:

REPRESENTATIVE EDWIN W. TOMPKINS, Chairman.

REPRESENTATIVE CLARENCE D. BELL.

REPRESENTATIVE PHILIP LOPRESTI.

SENATOR WILLIAM Z. SCOTT.

SENATOR JOSEPH J. YOSKO.

SENATOR ROBERT D. FLEMING.
Members of Committee.

APPEARANCES:

THOMAS D. McBRIDE, ESQUIRE, Attorney General, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. For—Board of Pardons.

DAVID S. KOHN, ESQUIRE, 9 N. Front Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. For—Committee.

JAMES WILLIAM EVANS, ESQUIRE, 5 N. Front Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. For—Committee (Assisting Counsel).

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Our time schedule indicated today that certain of our witnesses cannot be present until later in the morning. For that reason, we had another case prepared for presentation to this Committee, pending the arrival of those witnesses. We see that at least the witnesses subpoenaed by this Committee are present here in the room at this time. We understand that their time schedule is such that we can proceed with the order of the Committee as we had planned it, without first calling these witnesses.

This case we propose to call has no relation to any particular county but has relation to some of the matters which this Committee is charged with investigating, and, therefore, when we finish with this we will go back into the Erie cases and complete them so far as the Committee is concerned, and then give the gentleman whatever opportunity he has to present any matters in connection with the Erie cases.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May I ask which case it is? We received no notice. Under our understanding it was arranged that when the Committee or counsel decided to take up a case we would be given notice so that we could prepare whatever information we would have that would be helpful.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: If there is any matter the General would like to put in he will be given an opportunity.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But I understand we will strive, as far as possible, to keep our agreement and understanding that we will get notice so that we can review the files also, and we can add whatever we think is proper and which might help the Committee?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Are the minority members to be kept in the dark as to matters of procedure? It seems last week, the week before, the activities and time table of this Committee were more or less directed by the Bench of Delaware County, by a man who in my opinion is more political than judicial. So we adjourned our Delaware County cases so that particular gentleman can once again take advantage of a grand jury to make a speech?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We have no Delaware County cases this morning, Mr. Lopresti, and these are matters our counsel have developed. I don't know as any of the other members of the Committee—

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I think when a time schedule has been changed for something—this is the second week in a row that the minority members came in Committee expecting one thing and finding out they were doing something else. I think it is only fair to tell us what is going on.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: As a member of the majority side I am as much in the dark as Mr. Lopresti, but I have confidence in the Chairman and counsel.

Secondly, with respect to Mr. Lopresti's remarks on the judges of Delaware County, whether it is political or not is a matter of personal opinion. Insofar as this matter has been brought here, my reaction is that the judges of Delaware County have rendered a great public service because they have come up here without fear, said what they knew to be fact, and made very fine recommendations.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: But the point is, Mr. Chairman, that we are dealing with the District Attorney of Delaware County, and then in the middle of his testimony he was removed to allow the judges to appear, and then he was not called back, and then Delaware County cases were scheduled for some other time in the future; in the meantime that gentleman has made another speech to a grand jury, which in my opinion is very inappropriate for a member of the court to criticize another independent constitutional body before a grand jury which can do nothing more about it. I think it is nothing more than political.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We are not discussing Delaware County cases this morning.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: We are discussing the principle that the minority members should know what this Committee is doing.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I should be entitled to answer Mr. Lopresti. I again say I don't know what case it is that is coming up except what I have read in the newspapers, unless that is somebody that is doing some pretty good guessing. But any judge in this Commonwealth has a right to charge any grand jury with anything that he thinks is offensive to the public welfare, and the actions of Judge Bretherick and his remarks to the grand jury of Delaware County last week are entirely within his right, and even if he were a member of the other Party, a Democrat, I would commend him.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I want to say if the other members of the majority like to continue in the dark, that is their business. I as one member of the minority do not want to continue in the dark and would like to have information.

SENATOR YOSKO: I just want to make a little statement, Mr. Chairman.

It was my understanding that this morning Attorney General McBride would present two or three witnesses to finish up the Erie County cases, and I think we even asked him at the last meeting at an executive session how long it would take, and think you said it would take 15 or 20 minutes. Then we were to go on with another case that I understood was a Bucks County case. Why that procedure has been changed I don't know, but so far as I am concerned, I would like to be informed of the cases that have been selected, and our schedule for hearing, and I will tell you why. There are a lot of inquiries that come to me from all sources and they say, "What is the schedule for tomorrow?" or the next day. I have to keep saying, "I don't know." It makes it look like we are a bunch of dubs here, we don't know what's going on.

I think as a matter of just good practice, that every member of the Committee ought to be told what case has been selected. I have got some cases that I want to suggest for investigation, but I think we ought to be informed as to what cases are selected so that if anybody does ask us any questions, we don't have to act like we are in the dark on the thing. I think it will create better feeling all around.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well. We will keep that in mind. That will necessitate an executive hearing as to which I hope the members will come when they are called.

Very well, Mr. Kohn, proceed.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I would like to finish up one matter here that was injected into these hearings—I am sorry it was.

Attorney General McBride and Mr. Hean brought to the attention of this Board at the last hearing a case in which I was involved, namely, the case of Francis Bowman Kennedy. It is the only case I have ever had before the Pardons Board for commutation in my 24 years of practice. It was turned down three times, and I have no objection to the action of the Board, I wanted to make that clear. I mean, they have discretion—and I am not complaining about it. I am sorry it was injected into the matter.

However, now that it has been injected I would like to make that file complete. I have a letter here from my client dated February 13, 1957, which I think should go into the record. It is addressed to David Kohn, and reads:

"Dear sir:

Would you be so kind to send to me all my papers that you have that would be of any importance to me and also all of papers that I have to have to file for another chance to see if I can get him a liency in sentence. I am going to try Attorney O'Leary. He is a big wheel in the Democratic party here in Blair County. He is the lawyer who had the case when I came to you. I want you to know I ain't doing this because I do not think you wasn't fair with us. It just that to satisfy my mind to see if it is the party or not, which I think it has a lot of bearing. Or would you prefer me to come down to see you in person if you do it will be okay with me for I have not much to do and all day to do it. I think maybe we will try it in September this year if everything goes okay. So again if you will mail all my papers you have or anything that you figure will be okay with me so yours truly,

Bowman F. Kennedy,
Box 112 R. D. 1
East Freedom, Pa."

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, what does that letter purport to convey? What is the reason for reading it?

MR. KOHN: The reason for reading it is that evidently this man fired me because he thought a big wheel in the Democratic party could do him more good than I could.

SENATOR YOSKO: That's just that fellow's conclusion.

MR. KOHN: I am not saying it isn't. I saw no reason to bring the case in in the first place.

SENATOR YOSKO: Is this fellow a prisoner?

MR. KOHN: No; this fellow isn't a prisoner. This is his father. This fellow never had a criminal record.

SENATOR YOSKO: Do you say now that an attorney who happens to hold a Party position, either Democratic or Republican Party, should bar himself from appearing before the Pardons Board on applications for commutation or pardon?

MR. KOHN: I didn't understand you sir.

SENATOR YOSKO: Are you saying that an attorney who happens to have a Party title with either the Democratic or Republican Party should bar himself from appearing before the Pardons Board?

MR. KOHN: No. I would be foolish to say that. I have appeared, and I know a lot of other people—

SENATOR YOSKO: All right. This fellow here came to the conclusion that because his attorney happened to be an officer, if that's what he was, in the Democratic Party, that there is some political skullduggery involved. That's a conclusion that he arrived at.

MR. KOHN: I don't know what conclusion he arrived at. I know this, I didn't bring the case in, it was brought in by the opposition, either to embarrass me or to do something else, and I think the file ought to be complete.

SENATOR YOSKO: If that is supposed to be evidence of political influence, you are down the bottom of the barrell, my friend.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Counsel well knows that the purpose for bringing that case in was to clear up a matter of procedure of which counsel pretended to be ignorant.

MR. KOHN: Why pick on my case?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Because counsel presumed to be ignorant of that procedure when he himself used it.

MR. KOHN: I am not ignorant about it at all, Mr. McBride so knows. I know how to file a petition for re-hearing, and I know how it should be done, and I filed it the way it should be done.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: But in your statement you indicated there was a practice you didn't know anything about.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We can't bring out matters of fact for the consideration of this Committee unless matters of this kind are raised. Identify the letter and put it in the record and let the letter speak for itself.

Letter dated February 13, 1957, addressed to David S. Kohn, signed Bowman F. Kennedy, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 19. VPV 3-13-57

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May I make one non-controversial statement? The question of Mr. Kohn's case before the Pardons Board had nothing to do with its merits. There wasn't the slightest suggestion that Mr. Kohn or anyone else had attempted to use influence. As has been pointed out, it was a question of what was the procedure upon re-hearing, whether they would accept the letter from a lawyer who would state facts; whether they were new or not is a different question. It was pointed out Mr. Kohn was making a point of what he deemed to be violations of the rules, yet had followed the same practice that he was purporting to condemn. Now, that isn't condemning Mr. Kohn. It is presenting a case which shows that he himself had followed that practice.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We'll let the testimony speak for itself, General.

FRANK R. HEAN, previously sworn, recalled:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, I call your attention to Application No. A-1428 in the case of Philip John Mollica, and ask you when that first application was filed.

A It was received by the Board of Pardons on the 23rd day of May, 1955.

Q Previous to that time had there been two other applications, one in May of 1952 and one in November of 1954?

A That would so indicate.

Q And this man was charged with murder, correct?

A Correct.

Q He received a light sentence?

A That's correct.

Q The judge was Vincent Carroll, also Judges Smith and Sloane?

A That's correct.

Q The assistant district attorney of Philadelphia was Vincent P. McDevitt?

A That's right.

Q Thomas J. Minnick was his defense counsel?

A That's correct—when I say that is correct, that's what appears on the application.

Q That's what appears on the application, that's right. In previous two sessions in 1952 and 1954, this application for commutation of sentence was denied; is that right?

A That's right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well now, is there a second application, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: The first application was an application for granting of pardon.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: And that was when?

MR. KOHN: That, sir, was in May Sessions of 1952, and he was sentenced to life imprisonment on April 7, 1952—or rather, March 22, 1944. He applied in 1952 for pardon and that was denied.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is that correct, Mr. Hean?

A That is correct.

Q November Sessions of 1954 he applied for commutation of minimum and maximum, is that correct?

A That's right.

Q Was that denied?

A There is no copy of it here and I would say it was denied.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Who was counsel in the case?

MR. KOHN: Counsel on the case the first time was Melvin Allan Bank and John Pemberton Jordan, Esquires, St. James Hotel, Philadelphia, $500 counsel fee. Second one was John H. Meade, Esq., 2242 Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Building, counsel fee $300.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You have two there, '52 and '54?

MR. KOHN: That's right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Is there a third application?

MR. KOHN: Yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: When was the third application?

MR. KOHN: The third application was filed on May 24 and was listed for September Sessions 1955 and counsel was G. Fred DiBona, Esq., 1302 Finance Building, Philadelphia 2, Pennsylvania.

The facts of the case are as follows—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Is that for commutation?

MR. KOHN: Commutation of maximum and minimum.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Both?

MR. KOHN: That's the way it is listed—no, it just says, "Commute my sentence."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is that right?

A That's correct.

Q That's on the application of 1955, "Commute my sentence"?

A That's right.

Q MR. KOHN: The facts he sets forth in 15(a) of the application are as follows:

> "On January 16, 1944, Joseph Donato, the deceased in the matter, approached the petitioner and two other boys and proposed a holdup of a cigar store at 1726 S. 13th Street, Philadelphia. Donato advised the three that there would be a card game in progress and that he had checked and found that there would be 25 to 35 men in there. After the plan was discussed at length, they went to the home of Jesse DiGuiglielmo, one of the four boys involved, and picked up three revolvers.
> The men proceeded in petitioner's car to the vicinity of 13th St. and Castle Avenue, the intended hold-up scene. The three defendants remained in the car while Joseph Donato went into the cigar store. He returned and said that everything was in order. They then drove around the corner, parked the car, and proceeded on foot to the store. Donato entered first and the others followed him and forced everyone into the rear room for the purpose of getting the money. At that time Mollica (petitioner) Donato (the decedent) and Malino held the persons at bay with their guns while DiGuglielmo began rounding up the money. At some stage in the proceedings, Joseph Donato, for some unknown reason, left the premises. The other three continued the holdup. Within a few moments, Joseph Donato returned and with his revolver pointed at his companions and hollered, 'Drop your guns, or you'll get hurt.' I turned and saw the gun pointed at me, so I fired again. He fell and later died. I surrendered to the police the next day."

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Was he tried and convicted or did he plead?

MR. KOHN: He pled guilty generally.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Could we have when?

MR. KOHN: Yes, sir. Evidently around 3-22-44—date of sentence, 3-22-44.

Now, the investigation of the parole agent is as follows:

"Investigation showed that on 1-16-44 applicant and his accomplices met and conspired to hold up a cigar store at 1726 N. 13th Street, where a card game was in progress in the back room. Donato had cased this establishment and made all the plans and he took the position that guns should be used. The applicant then took them to the home of accomplice DiGuglielmo, where he got three guns. They distributed the guns among themselves and got into the applicant's automobile and proceeded to the scene of the proposed crime. When they arrived at this store, applicant, DiGuglielmo and Maleno put handkedchiefs over their faces, while Donato remained outside as the look-out man. The applicant gave all the commands, acting as the ringleader and ordered the players to rise and to put their cash and jewelry and other things on the table. The applicant had these players covered with a gun. Some of the players did not take this hold up too seriously, whereupon the applicant fired one shot into the ceiling to show he meant business. At that moment Donato, the deceased, came running into the store and as he reached the threshold of the back room of the store the applicant fired two shots and killed his co-conspirator. The rest then ran out of the store with the applicant carrying Donato, who he had to abandon on the highway in order to make good his escape. The applicant then met his two other accomplices at Donato's apartment, which had been prearranged in case they were dispersed. The money obtained, $106.00, was divided four ways, one of the accomplices taking Donato's share with the understanding that he would deliver it to him when he saw him."

The parole agent's version is in conflict with the applicant's.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: This seems to be a re-trial of that case. I must register a protest. I am just talking about the merits of the case. I don't think that is within the scope of this Committee's—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Counsel is trying to give us a background—

MR. KOHN: Senator Yosko asked me to give the facts.

SENATOR YOSKO: I don't see anything wrong in it. If we are going to talk about murder, we can take murder in a lot of ways. I would like to know what the facts are.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We're not going to try the facts.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, all right, if it's just background.

MR. KOHN: No question of what the Board thinks as far as that goes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Okay.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, I show you letters dated May 1, 1955,—

MR. KOHN: First I'll ask that the stenographer identify these letters.

Letter from Judge Vincent A. Carroll to Board of Pardons, dated August 22, 1955, Re: Philip John Mollica D-7667, marked for identification as Committee's Exhibit No. 21. VPV 3-13-57.

Letter from Judge Vincent A. Carroll to Board of Pardons, dated May 1, 1952, re: Philip John Mollica D-7667, marked for identification as Committee's Exhibit No. 20. VPV 3-13-57.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I show you two letters. Identify the one dated August 22, 1955, and tell me who that is from.

A We have a letter here addressed to the Board of Pardons from the Court of Common Pleas No. 2, Philadelphia, signed by Vincent A. Carroll, judge.

Q And we also have another letter here from the same judge dated May 1, 1952, is that correct?

A We have.

MR. KOHN: May I read those letters?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Kohn, would you for the purpose of the record identify the fact that these came from the Pardons Board records?

MR. KOHN: Yes, I think that I did—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Do all these commutations you intend to read come from the files of the Pardons Board records?

MR. KOHN: Everything I will read comes from the files of the Pardons Board records.

I read first the letter of May 1, 1952, from Judge Carroll, which is Exhibit 20:

"May 1, 1952

In re: PHILIP JOHN MOLLICA
#D-7667
Eastern State Penitentiary

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
Department of Justice
Board of Pardons
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Attention: Mr. Joseph Nissley, Secretary.

Gentlemen:

Reference is made to your letter of April 23rd in the above matter.

The inmate's version may or may not be true. The dead person was one of the gang who were perpetrating the robbery of a card game in the back room of a cigar store. The fact that Donato, one of those participating, put a gun in the back of Mollica was not a fact before the Court at the hearing on the plea. It is clear that Donato and the petitioner were leaders of the enterprise. It could very well have been that the dead man was going to double cross his confederates by going in with a gun and taking the money himself, making a pretense of rescuing the victims from the robbers and thereby getting a reward. This technique is not unknown to men of this kind. The factual version which is more credible and the one before the Court is that the decedent was the lookout man, and after a shot had been fired which he undoubtedly heard he came through a narrow corridor, made a noise and the petitioner turned suddenly and, without opportunity to identify him as one of his confederates, fired the fatal shot.

This petitioner was a member of a gang in his own neighborhood and in fact was one of the leaders. He was the only one with a previous record. The circumstances of the case might well have justified capital punishment. The eight years he has served, in view of all the circumstances, and his own record together with his persistence in misrepresenting the actual facts clearly indicate that there is no merit in his petition and that it should be disallowedl.

Very truly yours,

VINCENT A. CARROLL."

I would like now to read to you Exhibit 21 dated August 22, 1955, addressed to the Board of Pardons attention Frank Hean, Secretary:

"Dear Mr. Hean:

Reference is made to your letter of August 17th in the above matter.

In reply thereto will you please refer to my letter of May 1, 1952 which gives my version of the crime and which is still supported by my present recollection. From this it certainly would appear, and I believe it to be the fact, that the applicant's version is not accurate.

In the present application the petitioner presents an entirely new and different point, which is one of law, which in view of the established and recorded facts is entirely without merit, and in any event is not a matter for consideration of the Board of Pardons.

In view of the attitude of the applicant and the fact that he has served only 11 years of a conviction of a first-degree murder, committed in the perpetration of a holdup, it is my judgment that there is little merit in the application.

Very sincerely yours,

VINCENT A. CARROLL."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, tell me whether or not the District Attorney also opposed this petition.

A My notes here on my book here says, "Opposed by the District Attorney."

Q I show you from the records the confidential report dated August 17, 1955, from the parole agent assigned to the Board of Pardons for investigation, and I ask you to read from that record under "Reputation of the Applicant" what the report about him is.

A A man by the name of Mr. H. D. Wynkoop reported to us as follows under the paragraph headed, "Reputation of Applicant."

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Is this a report which came in on the third application?

A Yes, August 15, 1955.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Continue.

A "Previously reported as a violent individual with no concept of human life."

Q Now, I refer you, Mr. Hean, to the last application which was filed in this case and which is No. A-1428—is that correct?

A It is our No. 40, on the September 1955 Sessions.

Q No. 40?

A Yes.

Q It was originally listed as—

A That's the Pardon Board.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q That was last before the Board when?

A In September of 1955.

Q Previous to that one—

A Oh, 1954 and 1952.

MR. KOHN: That's right, November Sessions 1954.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, had Mr. G. Fred DiBona represented this defendant May 12, 1955?

A Well, I got a letter from Mr. DiBona, or the Board did, "Please place the within matter on the June list. Thank you." We were not able to do that.

Q Did you reply to him on May 13?

A We acknowledged receipt of the application.

Q Read the letter dated May 13 from the Board of Pardons, from you yourself to DiBona.

A Acknowledge receipt of application for the above named which was received by us today. You sent us a check in the sum of $20 and we are returning it herewith because the filing fee is only $15. Kindly forward us a check in that amount. This applicant had a hearing in November, 1954, and therefore under the rules of the Board another application cannot be filed until November, 1955, when one year has expired. Kindly advise whether we should hold this application until November, or return it to you."

Q Well now, evidently he sent you a check for $15, you have an envelope here dated May 20, 1955; is that correct?

A That's right.

Q Did you acknowledge that on May 24?

A. "We acknowledge receipt of your check on May 21. As indicated, it will be necessary to list this application for November 2."

Q So the rules of the Pardons Board are that applications cannot be heard except within yearly periods. This man had filed in 1952 and 1954 and he filed again in 1955 and that wasn't to be heard, according to your statement to him, until November of 1955?

A That's my letter to him, yes.

Q And that was the decision that you had made, you received his $15 and credited it to the funds of the Commonwealth?

A That's correct.

Q Now, what do your records show as to why this case was listed for September sessions?

A This is the first I heard about it.

Q Do you have anything in your records to show why the case was listed for September of 1955?

A No—only what you see on here. I have nothing here—

Q I don't see anything on there. Will you tell me for the record whether there is anything in the records there or anywhere else in the Board of Pardons which will show why this case was listed for September of 1955?

A Mr. Kohn, without investigating the records, which is a brand new idea here this morning, I couldn't answer your question.

Q Yes, I think you can. Do you have anything in your records that you have outside of the folder itself, which would show why this case was listed specially—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, how could he when—

MR KOHN: I'm trying to find out whether he made a record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But I think he should be given an opportunity before answering that to look up his records. The answer may be nothing, but if it is a brand new case as he says, how can he answer the question?

MR. KOHN: It's not a new case to him. He handles it.

MR. McBRIDE. But he handles hundreds.

SENATOR SCOTT: Are the records before him?

MR. KOHN: He has his own records. I have the file records. I am trying to establish whether anything is kept on their records on the official files which would show why this case was specially listed.

SENATOR SCOTT: I think the witness is entitled to take time to look at his records.

MR. KOHN: Oh, sure.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you have anything in there?

A On my records that I have jotted down the day of hearing, I have nothing.

Q What date was the hearing?

A No. 40 was September 14 of 1955.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q That was the date of the hearing?

A Yes, sir. It was the first day of the hearing. Let me check accurately—yes, it was the first day of the hearing, September meeting of the Board.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Is there anything in the notes you have before you making reference as to why this case was heard at that time?

A No, not on these notes.

Q Might you have notes someplace else that would indicate that?

A I may have. I have not inspected them. I wouldn't know.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Are there any other records you have in your

BY MR. KOHN:

Q These are letters—

A I have not looked at them, I wouldn't know.

Q What I am asking you is, do you have anything in your files, besides these letters which are in the file, that would indicate why this case was specially listed?

A Without looking over my files I couldn't—

Q What about executive session?

A We have a folder on that.

Q Do you have the folder here?

A I do not. You have it.

Q All right (Mr. Kohn hands folder to witness.) Look at the folder. I think that's the folder you told me yesterday you would not have given me.

A Without permission of my counsel.

Q Yesterday was the first time I saw it.

A That's right, because that's the first time you asked for it.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, that brings us back to the argument we had in the beginning. If everybody is advised of the cases that are coming up, everybody can get prepared.

MR. KOHN: I will take that up in executive session, I think to your satisfaction, Mr. Yosko, we'll leave it go until then. I have a reason that I don't want to discuss here.

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Kohn, you have asked the witness a question that has to do with whether there is anything in the file. My suggestion is you give the witness an opportunity to look in the file and then he can answer whether there is, yes or no.

MR. KOHN: All right.

(Witness looks through file.)

THE WITNESS: No, I can find nothing in the minutes that refers to Mollica.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q So there is nothing in the record that you have that would show why this case was advanced in November, as you first stated to his attorney, to September?

A That is correct.

Q That would indicate there is no consideration of any kind that is on the record—

A No consideration.

Q —by the Board?

A I have only this one statement to make, that between July and September the Board is not in executive session, it is on vacation, and it may well have been—although my recollection is not clear—that it was discussed with one or more members of the Board. But I cannot prove that.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, isn't it a standard procedure for you to submit in writing information to the Board and have them initial whether or not there would be a re-hearing?

A That is the general practice, yes, Mr. Tompkins, although sometimes it wasn't.

Q Was there any such letter circulated among the Board in this case?

A According to these notes, and I have not inspected the file here, I don't know. Mr. Kohn can answer that. Was there such a letter circulated, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: We'll get to that, if I may.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What I am asking now, if such letter is circulated and considered, would that be in your minutes?

A Not necessarily.

Q There is no record made of it?

A Not necessarily, no, sir.

Q Well, is it done sometimes?

A It is sometimes.

Q What record would you have in your official records of reconsiderations and special listings?

A I have the meeting of the Board in June and—

Q They do take action for special listing, do they not?

A Yes.

Q And give reasons?

A And give reasons. Also for reargument, and also for—

Q For re-hearing?

A —rehearing, and reconsideration.

Q You have nothing of that kind in this case?

A Not in these minutes, no, sir.

Q I show you a letter dated June 10, 1955, addressed to the Board of Pardons from William A. Barrett, Congress of the United States, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., addressed to the Board of Pardons. Will you read that letter into the record?

A Letter dated June 10 addressed to the Board of Pardons from William A. Barrett, member of Congress: "Gentlemen: In re: Philip Mollica. In answer to your letter to the effect that the above captioned case could not be listed until November 1955 by reason of the fact that the prior application was heard before the Board in November of 1954, may I request respectfully for special consideration to this application and that the matter be listed for the September 1955 meeting. As your records will indicate, the other two persons involved in the crime which resulted in the above imprisonment of the above named applicant have already been released by the Board. It is because of this fact that we feel special consideration may be accorded the above applicant. Signed, William A. Barrett, Member of Congress."

Q Did you know William A. Barrett was a Democratic Representative in Philadelphia?

A I so know. I don't know the man personnally.

Q Democratic leader of the 36th Ward in Philadelphia?

A I didn't know that.

Q And the fact that he was a member of Congress, did that change your attitude on getting a special listing for application which could not be listed except for one year?

A That question you will have to ask the members of the Board.

Q Well, is there anything in the minutes that would indicate that they took up that question—

A Not in the minutes, no, Mr. Kohn.

Q Nothing in the minutes of any kind?

A Nothing in the minutes that I can find right now. First time I saw it. I have not had an opportunity to search.

Q I call your attention to your answer of June 16 to Mr. Barrett. Read that, please.

A My reply to Mr. Barrett's letter dated June 16, "Dear Sir: It will be necessary to bring to the attention of the Board of Pardons to your request for special listing of this application in the September 1955 session. Before we take this step may we suggest that any special reason in addition to the release of the two accomplices be forwarded to us to be included in the request for the special hearing. As soon as that information is received we will present the request to the Board. Signed, Frank R. Hean."

Q You had the application and you had the man's $15 and he was on record with counsel, was he not?

A That's correct.

Q Did you write to counsel at all about Mr. Barrett's intervention in this matter?

A I wouldn't know until I look at the file.

Q I will have you look at it later and I will come back to that question; I will withdraw the question for now.

I show you letter dated July 7, 1955, from Mr. Barrett to yourself and ask you to read that into the record if you will, please.

A This is addressed to Frank R. Hean, Secretary Board of Pardons, dated July 7, 1955, from William A. Barrett, member of Congress. "Dear Mr. Hean: Thank you very much for your letter of June 16 regarding the case of Philip John Mollica. As you will recall, I requested a special listing of this application in the September 1955 session and you advised by return mail that additional information or reasons would be most helpful in making a determination. I do not believe that the petition in behalf of Mollica was presented in its correct light during the hearings before your Board last November. I think the other two defendants presented the problem in a more convincing fashion. While I do not suggest that Mollica should be released merely because the other two persons have been released, I do feel the reason for the release of the other two should prevail in this instance. In order that the other two people involved receive the commutation which they in fact received, it was necessary that the Board be convinced, as they must have been, that the sentence imposed was entirely too severe in contrast with the crime committed. Counsel intends to argue this point to the Board at the first opportunity. I believe, therefore, that this petition, although a new one, is in reality a re-argument of the prior petition. The Board has on numerous occasions granted re-arguments within a matter of a few months, but in this particular case exactly ten months will have expired from the last argument to the present re-argument. In addition to the above-mentioned facts I am most anxious to obtain the release of Mollica at the earliest possible time because of the health of his mother. At the present time it is doubtful if she will ever fully recover. Because of her age she does not expect to live many more years and would like to have her boy home with her. Mollica has not seen his mother for the past 12 years, and she has been unable to visit him because it is extremely difficult for her to travel. Mrs. Mollica has suffered several severe heart attacks, and these delays are causing her great concern. Therefore, May I request that every consideration be given this matter and the case be scheduled for September 1955 sessions. Thank you, William A. Barrett."

Q I call your attention to letter from yourself to members of the Pardons Board dated July 27, 1955. Will you read that into the record, please? Or maybe I can read it for you?

A All right.

Q This is to All Members of the Board of Pardons, in re: Philip John Mollica, from Mr. Hean, secretary: "United States Representative William A. Barrett has requested a special listing of this application for the September meeting of the Board. I understand that he has written to each member of the Board setting forth his recommendation why he believes this request should be granted. Our records show that the last hearing was in November 1954, and that this applicant has served 11 years 6 months of a life sentence for murder, first degree. In 1954 Judge Carroll was opposed and also Judge Smith was opposed. Kindly indicate your vote below:

Those favoring, four; those opposing, none."

Mr. Hean, I show you Board of Pardons Rule 12, and I ask you to read 12-A into the record.

A Rule 12-A, "All correspondence relating to applications, whether addressed to the Board or to individual members thereof, shall be filed with the Board."

Q Now, you indicate in here, "I understand that Mr. Barrett has written to each member of the Board setting forth his recommendation why he believes this request should be granted." I believe—well, I give you the complete file and ask you whether or not such letters have ever been filed or received by the members of the Board in this case with the secretary of the Board for filing with that file.

A No other letters have been filed except the ones that you see there.

Q None of the members of the Board who received letters from Mr. Barrett have filed them in the file as required by Rule 12-A?

A Probably not, for two reasons. Number one, the letters addressed to the four members of the Board may have been identical to the one I received.

Q You don't know that?

A I don't know.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q You don't know they received it?

A I can't prove they received it.

SENATOR YOSKO: And he didn't say in that letter, either, that the letters were written. He said he just understood, which conveys a doubt.

MR. KOHN: If you will let me find out I will try to find out how he understood it. I don't know.

SENATOR BELL: Can we have that section reread?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You mean of the Rules?

SENATOR BELL: No. Of Mr. Hean's notes.

MR. KOHN: You mean this particular paragraph?

SENATOR BELL: Yes.

MR. KOHN: "United States Representative William A. Barrett has requested a special listing of this application for the September meeting of the Board. I understand that he has written to each member of the Board setting forth his recommendation why he believes this request should be granted."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, you don't know if those were the same letters he sent to you or they had different readings or anything else, do you?

A Someone must have said, "I got a letter from Barrett" and that's why—

Q And that is why you put in that all four received it, each member of the Board?

A Yes, and he had—

Q Did you ever make any request to the Board members to comply with Rule 12-A and make the file complete so that the whole thing could be considered as required by the Board rules that all letters which go to each member of the Board or which go to you have photostatic copies made, including the file that goes to the Governor, so that they may be considered?

A I have no recollection of requesting the Board to file any letters in this case.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Hean, was it just your impression—

A It was my impression.

Q Did you know definitely that Mr. Barrett wrote letters to each member of the Board?

A No, I did not.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Why did you make a statement—

A Probably somebody said, "I got a letter from Barrett along the same lines" and I would imagine he wrote to every member of the Board. Nothing serious about it.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Then the Board voted for granting of a special hearing on this application, did they not?

A They did.

Q Will you read your letter of July 28, 1955, addressed to Mr. Barrett?

A "Dear Sir; This is to advise you that the Board of Pardons has granted the request and is specially listing the application of the above named for hearing at the September 1955 Session. We are today advising the representative, G. Fred DiBona, Esquire."

Q You also wrote a letter, I think, on that same date, July 28, 1955, to Mr. DiBona, telling him of the action of the Board?

A "This is to advise you that the Board of Pardons has granted the request of Honorable William M. Barrett, and is specially listing the application of the above named for hearing at the September 1955 Session. When date has been set you will be advised."

Q You had no communication, then, between May 24 and July 28 with Mr. DiBona, counsel?

A The record would disclose—

Q Look at the record.

A You read every one. It would so indicate between May 24 and July 28, a period of two months, there was no communication in writing between myself and Mr. DiBona.

Q All the communications regarding this case were with Representative Barrett, without knowledge of his attorney as far as you know?

A I don't know that.

Q I mean as far as you know there was nothing communicated to DiBona about Barrett's efforts?

A You are asking me a question I can't answer.

Q I am asking from the record, whether you communicated anything with DiBona about Barrett's intervention in this case.

A No, I did not.

Q I ask you to look at this—

MR. KOHN: Well, first we'll have them identified. Just give this group of letters just read, one exhibit number.

Group of letters hereinabove read were marked for identification as a group, as Committee Exhibit No. 22. VPV 3-13-57.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is that the commutation in the case (handing paper to witness)?

A Yes.

Q And Attorney General Kohn was not present?

A That's right.

MR. KOHN: I would like to read into the record the reasons given by the Board for the commutation. Three voting for it are Roy E. Furman, Lieutenant Governor; James A. Finnegan, Secretary of the Commonwealth, and Genevieve Blatt, Secretary of Internal Affairs, signed by Governor Leader approving the recommendation, in which the Board of Pardons recommended that minimum sentence of Philip Mollica convicted of murder in the first degree in Quarter Sessions Court of Philadelphia on March 22, 1944, be commuted from life imprisonment to 10 years, 7 months, expiring on October 22, 1954. So that the Board, in commuting this sentence—although the hearing was held in September of 1955, had it expire as of November 1954.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is that right?

A That was probably an error. It should have been 1955.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q When did he get out?

A I don't know when.

Q Are the records there to show when he got out?

A No, I don't have the records as to when he was released.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q At least he was still in in September of 1955?

A Yes.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q But your commutation here says he will get out October 22, 1954.

A That's what it says. It probably was corrected.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Would you read the balance of those reasons, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: Yes:

"Our reasons for making this recommendation are as follows: This applicant is thirty-three years of age, and was sentenced for a crime of murder in the first degree, with life imprisonment effective March 27, 1944, Court of Quarter Sessions and Oyer and Terminer, Philadelphia. The applicant plead guilty to the offense. The crime arose when the applicant together with two accomplices raided a card game and in the course of the robbery the applicant shot one of his accomplices. Two of the accomplices of this offense, Joseph Maleno and Jessie DiGuglielmo, were sentenced to life imprisonment, have already received a commutation of their sentence. During applicant's imprisonment, prison authorities report, that he has shown increased stability and maturity and has demonstrated his good "vocational work and has demonstrated his control over his emotions. The District Attorney is not in favor of this commutation. The board believes that this applicant will not become involved in any further criminal activity. His participation in the offense for which he was sentenced was not that of a ring-leader. At present, his mother is very ill and the release of this young man at this time will help considerably in the support of the family. The board, therefore, recommends that the sentence be commuted."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, isn't it a fact as you read that the parole officer reports he was a ringleader and he had a previous criminal record?

A There was probably a statement made he was not a ringleader.

Q By whom?

A I wouldn't say. I took notes as they rolled along.

Q Did you look at the parole authority's report that he was not only a ringleader but he had been engaged in directing this holdup?

A There was also other statements made and we do not have the file.

Q Whose agent—

A If we followed the Parole Board everytime we would not be a Board of Pardons.

Q There is nothing in here about Judge Carroll also being opposed?

A No, sir.

Q There is nothing in here about his prior criminal record, which I would like to have you read for the benefit of the—

A What I have here is that Mollica, 1941, larceny, released—

Q I will give you the parole officer's report—

A Get the Penitentiary; that's more accurate.

Q All right.

A The Penitentiary on his record has—

Q Just read all of it.

A 1941—

Q First, what are you reading from?

A I am reading from the report of the Eastern State Penitentiary that carries a rather complete record of the criminal activities of any prisoner.

Q Read it, please.

A 1941, Philadelphia, larceny of an automobile, released on bail, no disposition of the case.

1941, received at the Montgomery County prison to await disposition on a charge of violation of the Witkin Firearms Act;

February of 1941, sentence suspended and turned over to the Philadelphia authorities;

Then February 18, about a week later, Philadelphia, larceny and receiving stolen goods, 6 months House of Correction. That goes back to that January 1941 case;

1941, released to Norristown authorities, about 7 months afterwards;

In September of 1941, sentenced to two years probation and to pay costs and six months, in the court of Montgomery County; that was under the Witkins Firearm Act.

1942, Chester, burglary, larceny, receiving stolen goods; found not guilty;

1943, Philadelphia, larceny, receiving stolen goods, sentenced from 6 months to 2 years in the Philadelphia County Prison. That was in April, 1943.

In October of 1943, about six months later, he was paroled.

Q Paroled by the State Board?

A By the State Board. His minimum sentence had expired.

In March of 1944 he was arrested on this charge of murder, which is the matter before us.

That's his criminal record. He was serving life imprisonment.

SENATOR BELL: Mr. Kohn, it is my recollection in the parole officer's report there is something about this man being either rehabilitated or couldn't be rehabilitated. Would you repeat that?

MR. KOHN: That was in the prison report.

SENATOR BELL: Repeat it.

CHAIMAN TOMPKINS: We heard earlier about the man having no regard for human life.

THE WITNESS: That was in the Parole Board. The one that he read with respect to his rehabilitation at Eastern State Penitentiary, that Mr. Kohn read a few minutes ago.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The parole officer's findings and the prison recommendations, there is considerable variance.

THE WITNESS: Many times. The parole agent doesn't have the facilities of observing the man in the penitentary, while the prison staff do have and they assay the man fairly accurately. They have a great deal of experience.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hean, how old was the man—

A At the time we had him he was 33.

Q I mean when his first offense was committed what was his age?

A Let's see, I have an application when he was born. He was born September 11, 1922. Then in 1941—he would be about 19 years of age.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q About 23 at the time he committed the murder, wasn't he?

A Yes.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q When were his accomplices released?

A I have a record here; Maleno was commuted in September of 1944—correction; September of 1954. DiGuglielmo was commuted by the Board of Pardons in June of 1954.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What were their sentences?

A Life.

Q They were all life?

A Yes.

MR. KOHN: Neither of them shot anybody.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q There were two different Pardons Boards then that acted on all three cases?

A Yes.

SENATOR SCOTT: What did you say, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: They were accomplices in the holdup. But as to the actual shooting—I mean, the others got pulled into the murder because of the fact that this man lost his head.

SENATOR SCOTT: I see.

REPRESNTATIVE BELL: Would you come to my question? I would like to have a statement as to whether this man was rehabilitated. I think there is one in there that stated he was unsafe to be turned loose.

MR. KOHN: Of course, there is a variation, Mr. Bell, between the Parole Board statement and the psychiatric.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Read first the Parole Board and then the prison board and we can then get that comparison.

Mr. KOHN: This is by the Penitentiary: "This mate received by this institution in 1944"—

SENATOR SCOTT: What is the date of this report?

MR. KOHN: 9-14-55.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Read the parole officer's report first. What is the date of it?

MR. KOHN: August 17, 1955.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What does his report indicate?

MR. KOHN: He says, "Reputation of applicant: previously reported as a violent individual with no concept of human life." He doesn't go into his present because he says he had a parole violation previously, but he has no reason to make any parole plan because he is not to be investigated until commutation is granted.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What does the prison say?

MR. KOHN: "This inmate received in the institution in 1944 and although he is difficult "adjusting when first received; over the last year both attitude and adjustment has been considered quite favorable. Evidence as to stability has been demonstrated by his good vocation reports and improvements have been demonstrated. He has received favorable reports from the block officers in this institution. Constant improvement and attitude in adjustment has been very evident over the last 9 years. This inmate has sent over $1500 to his family and made numerous donations to various charities."

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You may proceed now.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I show you the warrant which was issued I think by you, pursuant to this commutation granted by the Board—

A I didn't issue it.

Q Who makes this up?

A I make it up.

Q What did that commute the sentence to?

A That is signed by the Governor. I commuted the prisoner to minimum sentence 10 years 7 months, expiring October 1954, signed by the Governor on the 4th day of October, 1954.

Q That is attested to by Mr. Finnegan?

A That's right.

Q That is an official record?

A That is the official record of the warrant.

Q Does that show commutation a year before the case was heard?

A That's possible. It was in error.

Q All right. I ask you whether or not the Board has ever expressed a policy in regard to when they would consider, outside of other cases, when they would consider applications for commutation in first degree murder cases? Have they ever expressed a policy?

A I just didn't get the import of your question.

Q Does the Board have a policy, or did this Board have a policy in regard to how soon they would consider commutation of a life sentence?

A No, they have never expressed to me, or generally have they expressed, "We leave a man out in ten years, or 20 years"—

Q They never set a policy?

A No, they never set a policy.

Q I call your attention to the case of William Edward Geiger, No. A-2219, March Sessions 1955, and ask you whether or not this Board consisting of Roy E. Furman, James E. Finnegan and Herbert Cohen had not laid down a policy in the granting of a commutation in that case.

A It isn't a policy. You asked whether they laid down a rule. They probably expressed themselves that generally a man should serve a substantial portion, but it is not a rule.

MR. KOHN: In this case there was a commutation in the case of William Edward Geiger, who I think was convicted in Dauphin County on the charge of murder. He received a life sentence. He was a veteran—as I recall, I checked the file, I knew this case personally—and was in bad shape in the Penitentiary. He was released—

SENATOR YOSKO: What do you mean in bad shape?

MR. KOHN: Physically, epileptic. He was released on condition he would be admitted to the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Coatesville and not to be released from the institution until after notification to the Board of Pardons of their intention to release the applicant and the Board had an opportunity to act. The thing I am getting at is the policy laid down by the Board was set forth in this case and applied to the Mollica case.

"This applicant has only served 8 years, 2 months of life imprisonment. The Board herein waives one of its major rules, in that an applicant for commutation of life sentence must serve a substantial portion of the maximum of a second degree sentence before recommending that sentence be commuted"—the maximum.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q That is set forth as a major rule of the Board, isn't it?

A Well, I wrote it and it is an unfortunate expression, and you can accuse me of the error. Don't accuse the Board.

Q The Board approved it as a major policy.

A They approved it.

Q And they read it?

A No, I wouldn't say they approved it as a major policy at all.

Q It says a major policy.

A I say so and it is an unfortunate expression.

Q Did they approve your wording?

A Yes.

Q Did they accept it as theirs when they approved it?

A No.

Q You mean you write these things, the Board signs them and they don't accept it?

A They may not have read it—

Q It may have been their responsibility to read these reasons.

A Yes, it is their responsibility, but—

SENATOR SCOTT: What date was that?

MR. KOHN: March 1955 session.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: What is the maximum sentence—

MR. KOHN: Twenty years for second degree murder.

THE WITNESS: Ten to 20.

MR. KOHN: Well, he asked about the maximum.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

MR. KOHN: I have no further questions.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, I would like to ask one question. In this case, the Mollica case, it appears that a re-hearing or re-argument was permitted in it short of your rule.

A That's correct.

Q And the Board so treated it as such?

A Yes.

Q Now, this re-hearing was granted as a result of an application that had been filed some time in May, am I correct in that?

A The formal application was filed in May, yes.

Q You returned the filing fee of $20 to Mr. DiBona and he in turn remitted to you the regular fee of $15, did he not?

A That is correct.

Q When you granted a rehearing—or rather, a re-argument in this case, did you return the filing fee to him?

A It wasn't a re-argument; it was a special listing, advancing it by two months, and we considered it as though it had been filed in—to be heard in November, which would have required a $15 fee. By advancing the hearing two months didn't wash out the $15.

Q You certainly have a flexible rule, don't you?

A Common sense.

Q What I am trying to get at is, in one of the Delaware County cases they sent the man the money back and said it's not necessary in this case.

A That's true—

Q I'm wondering why it wasn't sent back in this case.

A When the Board within itself so moves they do not charge an applicant or his representative anything. But here's from the outside source.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q A distinction has been made clear between a rehearing on an application and a special listing?
A That's right.
Q That has been made clear in this hearing?
A I trust so.

Q I think so. Now, is it anything unusual in your opinion for a Congressman to write to many agencies in both Federal and State Governments interceding in behalf of people who are his constituents?
A That is not unusual.
Q It's done pretty regularly?
A I wouldn't know, I am not a Congressman, but I have a suspicion that they are overwhelmed.

Q Have you any recollection of other Congressmen or other officials—
A Yes, other officials have written letters of recommendation. I have no recollection, Mr. Lopresti, of any Congressman writing for a special listing.

Q Do you have a recollection of other public officials writing in behalf of one of their constituents or parents or somebody?
A Very often we do get them from various persons in various branches of the government.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, how many times in the last three months have you received letters from Congressmen with respect to cases in front of the Pardons Board?
A I have no recollection within the last three months.
Q Does that mean you received no letters?
A I have no recollection of receiving any. I may have.
Q How many letters have you received from Congressmen in the last month?
A None to my recollection.

Q Was this letter from Congressman Barrett a normal occurrence in the Board's procedure, or was it abnormal?
A I couldn't answer that clearly, because at the time the letter was received from Mr. Barrett, the Board had been organized only, or constituted approximately 6 or 7 months. What has gone before in the activity of the Board in the past 16 years prior thereto I am not familiar.

Q During your year and a half with the Pardons Board how many times have letters been received from Congressmen with respect to matters like this?
A I have letters—now, that's a little difficult to answer your question. I have had three letters from Congressmen on various petitions before the Board.
Q What is the name of those petitions?
A Offhand I can't give them to you. One sticks in my mind, from the Congressman, in which I failed to address him as "Honorable," and I got a telephone call from his secretary.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Were you chastized for that?
A Well,—

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Do you recall what Congressman it was?
A I wouldn't like to say. You will excuse me.
REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I would like to suggest that the secretary turn over to our counsel the names of the Congressmen, and names of the cases in which he has been contacted. I think that is within the scope of this investigation.

THE WITNESS: Yes, but I can't do it in a few hours. Will you permit me to look over a year and a half to pick out letters from the Congressmen? It will take a little time.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: If we are going for a year and a half let's go over five years to see if there are letters from Congressmen in the files. In five years we can probably find a lot of letters.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q May we include the United States Senators?
A We will include the United States Senators. We have not had many, you know.
Q State Senators?
A No State Senators.
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General?

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Hean, addressing your attention specifically to the distinction between the statement of the prison staff and the statement of the Parole Board, is it or is it not a fact that the Parole Board was concerned with the man's reputation as of the time of the commission of the crime?
A That is what I understand it to be.

Q Now, tell us what the prison staff, what it is, what it is composed of, as you understand it.

A As I understand it, the prison staff, of course headed by the Warden, includes the Division of Work and Activity, the guard, head of the guards, the head of medical and psychiatrics, the head of the disciplinary group—there are about 6 or 7 in that group they call the prison staff, the heads of the various activities—the man in charge of studies and mental activities, that is, lessons and classes. There are about 6 or 7 that comprise the staff, and they appraise whether or not the man has improved, and give an opinion, that is not always conclusive but it indicates the development of the prisoner during his incarceration.

Q Therefore, would it be correct to say that the prison staff tells you what kind of a man he is after he has been in prison, and at the time he is applying for release?

A That is report as of the time of release, or the time of the application rather, as of the time of the application they give us a report as to the type of man he is.

Q Now, in respect of this case, the Court decided that all three defendants were guilty of the same crim nal offense.
A The record will so indicate, Mr. McBride.

Q That it was murder in the first degree and they all received life imprisonment.

A That's correct.

Q Now, one of the things, as I understand it, that was taken into consideration by this Board was the fact that a previous board had commuted the sentence of both of the other men involved in this so-called first degree murder?

A I believe the recommendations so mention.

Q I show you the folder of the previous Board of Pardons, stating their reasons for commuting Joseph Moleno.

A I have that before me.

Q Will you read that?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Was he one of the accomplices, General?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He was one of the accomplices.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Read that.

A This was granted by the Board of June 1955, signed Lloyd N. Wood, G. D. Smith, Attorney General not sitting, William S. Livengood, "This applicant" referring to Joseph Maleno, "is 28 years of age, is now serving a life sentence for what was alleged to have been murder in the first degree. This applicant at the age of 17 years together with two accomplices, was holding up a crap game when the accomplice Donato attempted to hold up gamblers who was shot and killed by his accomplices. This is not a true case of murder in the first degree and at the most the Board is of the opinion that this applicant was guilty of armed robbery. For that he has now served more than his minimum. He has an excellent institutional record and the trial judge has now written the Board and stated that the proper solution would be to commute this applicant's sentence and place him on parole for an extended period. This commutation was sent to the Board in December of 1952, over one and a half years ago. We have been informed the judge has not changed his opinion in this matter. Under all the circumstances, since this applicant was 17 years of age at the time of the crime and has an excellent institutional record, the trial judge is in favor of commutation and since it is not a true first degree case we are of the opinion that this applicant has been sufficiently punished and we are therefore recommending that his life sentence be commuted."

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Did all three of the men plead at the time of the sentence?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will have to look.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What was the commutation?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It was from life to 10 years 4 months.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q I hand you the folder of DiGuglielmo, who was one of the other two men commuted by the former Board, and I ask you to read the reasons stated therein.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This was the other accomplice?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, sir.

A This is Jesse Anthony DiGuglielmo, Jr., who was commuted by the Board September 1954, signed by Wood, Smith, Frank Truscott and William Livensgood, Jr., "This applicant is 28 years of age, he has no prior criminal record. This was a very unusual case and the Board has given this matter necessary study and consideration. This applicant and three accomplices who had been acting as lookouts, entered the room and told his other accomplices to drop their guns. Upon this announcement one of his co-conspirators shot the victim, and in their attempt to escape, carried the victim out of the place where the holdup was occuring, for a period of several blocks. By this time the victim told his co-conspirators to leave him and when he was found by the police he was deceased. On the basis of this the applicant when apprehended pleaded guilty to murder generally and was adjudged guilty of murder in the first degree and given a sentence of life imprisonment. The Board has heard argument before in this matter and recommended that one of the accomplices, Joseph Maleno, be released at the June 1954 Session, which recommendation was concurred in by your Excellency. The Board is of the opinion that the construction of the case as murder in the first degree was a legal error. However, the Board is not going to go into this matter at this time, but merely sets forth in this recommendation that at the most this was murder in the second degree. Since this accomplice has now served over 10 years 9 months of his life sentence we feel that he has served at least a minimum sentence of second degree murder. Therefore, the Board recommends his minimum sentence be commuted."

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What was it commuted to?

A It was commuted to 10 years 9 months, expiring October 28, 1954.

Q How about the third one?

A The third one was this fellow Mollica.

Q What was that commuted to?

A Ten years 7 months, expiring 1954.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The third one actually served 11 years.

THE WITNESS: This fellow Joseph Maleno served 10 years 4 months expiring July 1954.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q You have a third one there.

A I have three, Maleno, Mollica—you have got confused in the two names, Maleno and Mollica. And then DiGuglielmo is the third man.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, of the three, is it a fact that Mollica, the one who was commuted by the present Board, served the longest period of time?

A He served the longest period of time.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What was that?

A A little over 11 years.

Q Exactly what was it?

A I will have to figure it out for you. Eleven years 8 months.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: At least 11 years 8 months, because it was commuted as of November. He went in in March of 1944 and it was commuted as of November, 1955. When he was released would be a month or two thereafter.

SENATOR SCOTT: Is that Mollica you are talking about?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

SENATOR SCOTT: Was it November of 1955?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will be corrected if it wasn't.

THE WITNESS: The warrant said 1954.

SENATOR SCOTT: The warrant said '54, that's what I thought. But it couldn't possibly be '54.

THE WITNESS: Couldn't possibly.

SENATOR SCOTT: But it does say '54?

THE WITNESS: That's right.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Therefore, this man did considerably more time than the other two commuted by the Board?

A That's right.

Q And this Board in passing upon this case had the knowledge that the prior Board had denominated this to be murder in the second degree?

A It is so indicated in their reasons, yes.

Q Now, the minimum for second degree had expired when 10 years was up?

A That is correct.

Q So that if it were in truth and in law a second degree case, this man who was commuted by this Board which is under discussion, had done about at least a year and a half more than the minimum time?

A That is correct.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Just to clarify my thinking, what did Mollica plead?

A They all pled guilty generally to the crime of murder.

Q Generally to the crime of murder?

A Yes. There was no jury trial. Three judges heard it.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q This sentence was determined after a hearing by the court en banc?

A That's right.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q They were found guilty of what?

A First degree, all three found so guilty, and sentenced to life.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We can all agree under the felony murder theory they were all guilty of precisely the same offense, whatever it was. The court said it was first degree; the Board of Pardons in 1954 said it was second degree. The Board of Pardons—

MR. KOHN: I don't agree with that. We won't agree with that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: They did say that—

MR. KOHN: The one case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Two cases.

MR. KOHN: Well, two cases, but they never said it in Mollica's case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No. But in Mollica's case this present Board had before it the fact that they had said it the year before and then they didn't attempt to pass upon the degree.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Do I understand that in the two accomplices' cases that the sentencing judge did not raise any objection to the commutation, but in the Mollica case, the third case, the judge did raise an objection together with the District Attorney?

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Am I correct in that?

A It says here in these reasons, as written, that the judge did not. I have not inspected the record of Maleno or DiGuglielmo. I am accepting what is said in the reasons. You are correct in that assumption, Mr. Tompkins.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have nothing else.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did the other men have as long a prison record as Mollica?

A Without an inspection of the record I could not very well tell you.

Q Look at the record.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: You mean criminal record, Mr. Cohen?

MR. KOHN: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Yes, that's as I understand it.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Let's go into Maleno, who was 17 at the time.

A I have it here. I have before me Joseph A. DiGuglielmo.

Q How old was he?

A At the time of this offense, 17 or 18.

Q DiGuglielmo was 17 at the time of the murder?

A. Yes.

Q And he had a previous record for disorderly conduct and aggravated assault and battery; is that right?

A That's correct.

Q Let's get to the other defendant, I think that's Maleno?

A Yes.

Q He was 17, too, was he not?

A He was born in 1926.

Q So he was 17 years of age, is that right?

A That would make it so.

Q Did he have a record?

A I don't know. I'll look—yes, he did. Prisoner's criminal record was submitted by the police department of Philadelphia. 1943, disorderly conduct and malicious mischief, discharged by Judge Bonniwell.

Q Did Mr. Barrett intervene for either of these people, as far as you know?

A I don't know. I'll have to look through the record.

Q Look through it and see if you can find any letters from Congressman Barrett.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Or from anybody else.

MR. KOHN: Anybody else.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Of a different political faith.

MR. KOHN: I mean in regard to intervention with the Board for special listing or re-hearing. (Witness hands letter to Mr. McBride.)

THE WITNESS: I am conferring for political advice.

MR. KOHN: All right. We might as well get the whole record in it while we're at it.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q That's from an attorney?

A Yes.
Q That man represented him?
A Yes.
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Who represented him?
MR. KOHN: Counsel in the case, John Patrick Walsh.
THE WITNESS: That's the only letter I see in there. This is Maleno.
Now DiGuglielmo—

BY MR. KOHN:

Q There was no re-hearing granted on first application?
A Yes.
Q You stated prison officials make an investigation. That only considers, of course, their conduct in the prison and has nothing to do with the outside affairs or conduct of the individual?
A That is correct.
Q And they don't know what is his outside conduct?
A They would have no factual knowledge.
Q And, of course, it is a known fact that prisoners behave pretty well in prison under constant supervision?
A They generally do.
Q Neither of these 17 year old boys was considered a ringleader?
A That I don't know, only from what I read in the record.
Q For the record, neither one shot anybody?
A No, neither fired a gun.
MR. KOHN: That's all.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, were these two commutations given at the same Session that turned down Mollica's second request?
A Let me get that question. You have a good one there.
Q Mollica was turned down in November, 1954?
A Yes. 1952, and then in 1954—turned down in 1952 and 1954.
Q Now, when were these boys—
MR. KOHN: Anthony DiGuglielmo was given commutation September Sessions 1954, and Mollica was turned down in November, 1954.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: So that they turned him down even after they had granted one of the commutations.
MR. KOHN: That's right. The other one was in June, 1954.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, it is logical to presume that these two boys' cases were fresh before the Pardons Board when they were heard in the Mollica hearing, 1954?
A I wouldn't say that because it is a different Board. Between '54 and '55—
Q I'm talking about the '54 turn down. Mollica turned down November, 1954.
A Oh, '54 Board? I would say it was still fresh in their mind.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Still fresh in their mind when they said the judge was wrong and it was a second degree case?
A Certainly.
MR. KOHN: Let's get that straight. They never said that in the Mollica case, Mr. McBride.
MR. McBRIDE: No, of course.
MR. KOHN: That's your inference, though.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The prior Board said it was second degree.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did the two accomplices file an application in 1952, the same as Mollica did? Anything in the record?
A Nothing in the record to show that Maleno and—
Q First one that filed was in 1954 and the Board commuted in 1954, is that right?
A That's right; the record so shows.
Q Now I am interested very much from another standpoint. I don't know whether the records disclose this information or not, or whether you have any knowledge of it. But what is the educational background of these three boys?
A We have some information on that, if you would care to have it, if you want to spend a moment with it.
The penitentiary does get some information as to the family background and the prior educational equipment of these fellows. Their report says, vocationally, this fellow Mollica that I am talking about, he had six jobs—that is, six jobs prior to admission. Then after admission to the penitentiary, he took up work in the school and got along there.
Q I mean prior to the time of the commission of the offense.
A Prior to the commission of the offense.
Q Does it show the family background and educational—
A We have that here. "Education: Stanford achievement test rating, 4.9 Advanced Form D. Attended parochial school from 1931 to 1937 and attained the 6th grade. Barrett Junior High, 16th and Wharton Streets, Philadelphia, from 1937 to 1938, and completed 7th grade. Had very little interest and was truant. Quit to go to work." That is the background of Mollica.
Q What does it show on the other two boys?
A All right.
Q I don't like to take up the time but I think it is interesting to know what the backgrounds are.
A I have this fellow Joseph Maleno, the penitentiary gives this report on him: "Education: Stanford achievement test rating is 11. Attended St. Rita's parochial school, Broad and Ellsworth Streets, Philadelphia, 1942 to—rather, from 1932 to 1940 and attained 8th grade. Then he went to Southeast Catholic High School at 7th and Christian from 1940 to 1941 and attained the 9th grade. Then he went to the Bok Vocational School at 8th and Mifflin and attained the 10th grade. Liked school, adjusted well, not a truant until his last year. His marks were good and his conduct was good."
And then this boy, Jesse DiGuglielmo: "Education: Stanford test rating, 5.2. Attended St. Thomas School at 18th and Morris Streets from 1931 to 1938, and attained the third grade. Attended school at 17th and Tasker from 1935 to 1940 and attained the 6th grade. Also Brighton School, 17th and Bigler, 1941"—I don't know what this means—"subject was very truant, had little interest. Worked most of the time, adjusted well, marks fair; conduct good."

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Any further questions? We will close this; if the General has additional information to bring in, he may do so.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will close the inquiry into this case at this time and take up the balance of the Erie cases. In the meantime, I declare a 10-minute recess.

(Short Recess)

BURTON RANDOLPH LAUB, having been duly sworn was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Judge, you are a judge of Erie County?

A Yes.

Q How long have you been a judge?

A Eleven years.

Q Are you a member of the Common Pleas Court of Erie?

A Yes, in a way.

Q You have written some books, have you not?

A Yes.

Q And I think you were also a member of Governor Fine's Committee investigating prison riots in Western Penitentiary in Rockview in 1953?

A Yes.

Q I will refer to it as the Flatley case: are you familiar with the facts surrounding those cases?

A In a general way.

Q What effect did the actions of the Board of Pardons have on law enforcement generally in granting commutation to some of the members of the ring known as the bribery cases?

A I can't specifically give any illustrations of bad effects except one, in discussing the matter with Herbert Foster, who was one of the police officers involved, exhibited considerable disgust—

Q Disgust?

A Yes, and felt that there was no use in going after law violators if they were going to be released out of hand. I think that the most serious effect of the unfortunate affair was the effect on the citizenry at large, those that I came in contact with, judging by the comments which I heard.

Q Were there rumors in Erie all around that these men would be left out by the Pardons Board before their sentences expired?

A I didn't hear any such rumors. I did hear it discussed prior to the time that the men were convicted. On numerous occasions I overheard conversation amongst youngsters, young men of college age, who were visitors at my home and I confess I eavesdropped, and in which they felt that if the men were tried, they would not be convicted, if convicted, they would not be sentenced, and if sentenced, they would not serve their full time. And the subsequent conferments of the later things of course had a bad effect on them.

Q Each sentence was meted out in each individual case and the facts were studied by the judges who meted out the sentences?

A Yes, the three of us sat and consulted. I don't think we agreed upon any specific term for each of them, but we discussed general principles and we discussed what factors should be considered in imposing sentence, yes.

Q You would be in a position to know all the factors, it being in your home county—

A Well, I don't say I knew them all. I knew, I think, most of them by either hearsay or personal knowledge.

Q Were they considered seriously before sentence was imposed?

A Very seriously.

Q Were any indictments nol-prossed in these cases?

A That I can't say. I understood there were some nol-prossed. In fact, I know of one, one case that I tried where the man was convicted and I was convinced that the evidence didn't warrant a conviction—I can't remember the man's name. I granted a new trial. I think that was nol-prossed.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Is that one of the so-called bribery cases, Judge?

A Yes.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What is the effect on judges when the Pardons Board reduces sentences and says they feel the defendants served enough time in their opinion. Does it have any effect on the judges?

A It depends largely on the judges. I have talked to a great many judges concerning the problem presented by both parole and commutation and pardon. Many judges resent interference. A good many feel that the commutation is entered without considering facts.

Q Do you think the fact you were a member of the Devers Committee investigating those prison riots—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: A little louder, please.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I think we have stated you were a member of the Devers Committee. During your investigation of the riots in the penitentiary, were any complaints made to you as a result of the actions of the Pardons Board under the Fine Administration or previous to that time?

A There were some. Not too serious. The main complaint of the prisoners was with respect to the Parole Board, and what they call the holding over, past the short term. There were some complaints that the Pardons Board gave applications a light touch. I think the principal complaint of the Pardons Board which we heard at that time came mostly from prison personnel rather than prisoners.

Q Do you have any recommendations in regard to the Pardons Board as presently constituted or as constituted in the past?

A Yes. I have thought about it since I talked to you over the phone the other day. I think this Committee and Legislature can do the present Pardons Board a service. Number one, I think the Constitution provides that the Pardons Board—I don't think it calls it a Pardons Board, but provides that the Pardons Board shall act after a full hearing and after due notice. I think since the Constitution doesn't define what a full hearing and due notice is, I think the Legislature could define that—

(Representative Bell hands book to witness)

—yes, it says, "No pardon shall be granted or sentence commuted except upon the recommendation in writing to the Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Attorney General, Secretary of Internal Affairs, or any three of them, after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session."

Members of the Pardons Board, as I look at it, are rather helpless, as far as on-the-side influences are concerned, even though they may have rules against it. I think they need protection against outside influence. I think if some legislation were enacted describing what a full hearing is, providing for public reading in open session, public open session of all communications to the Board or any members thereof, some litigation upon the activities of those who are employees of the Board, such as the Secretary, preventing interference by him through influence or otherwise, and I think also under another section of the Constitution, I think it is Article 3, Section 9, which says that the offense of corupt solicitation shall be defined by law, I think the Legislature could define corrupt solicitation so as to include anyone attempting to influence the Pardons Board out of doors.

Q Wuld you as a judge allow someone to talk to you in chambers about a case that is coming up before you, a criminal case—I mean outside of an attorney.

A No, sir. And I don't even talk to an attorney unless a member of the District Attorney's staff is present, or if he comes in I tell them to bring one in.

Q Do you think it good practice for this Board, or even prior Board, to have intervention by members outside who are not in the case, in this case for instance where an attorney was on record and was denied hearing before November, then to have someone intervene to you verbally or through writing to speed up the court's action? Do you think that is a good practice? I am not saying that this Board or the other Board did or didn't do it. I am asking you generally if you believe it is good practice.

A My testimony so far meant to apply generally, not to this particular Board.

I don't think it is debatable even that it is good practice. I think it is bad practice. I don't think any member of this Committee—and I would swear that Tom McBride would say the same thing, that it is not a good practice and should be discontinued.

Q Do you think that that sort of thing is the thing that caused rumors around the State that are causing this investigation?

A There is no question about the fact that actions of the Pardons Board have for a number of years been regarded with suspicion. There have been rumors of influence and things of that nature. I have no evidence of it—

Q Would you grant a new trial to somebody, or rehearing on the basis of some Congressman or some individual coming in to see you about it when you already denied it to an attorney?

A Of course not. If I did I should be removed from the bench.

Q What do you think of someone on the outside discussing the case with some member of the Pardons Board previous to the time the case is neither listed or heard, but knowing that it is going to be listed?

A Well, I think it is wrong. I think the rumor is that the practice has prevailed for many years.

Q Do you know Myron Prosser of Erie?

A By reputation.

Q What is his position in Erie?

A At the present moment I think he owns the Erie Coach Company.

Q Is he a registered Republican or Democrat?

A. I couldn't answer that.

Q Taking for granted as is in the evidence at the present time, that Myron Prosser talked to the Pardons Board—to a member of the Pardons Board about the Ben Kauffman case, do you feel such member should disqualify himself from sitting on that case?

A Maybe not disqualify himself but I think he should reveal the fact to the other members of the Board, and I think it should be publicly revealed.

Q Outside of perhaps the confidential information acquired by the Board, from the parole agent assigned to the Board to investigate the case, do you think all the records of the Pardons Board, that is, letters coming in, should be made public?

A I believe that, because public bodies, if they have nothing to hide, should be anxious to have their records under open scrutiny. I do think, however, that there are some matters which should be concealed from the prisoner particularly, confidential communications by persons close to him in the institution.

Q But I mean these letters—like in this case, for instance, naturally, if there were hundreds of letters and petitions sent in, do you think the contents of this file should be open to the public?

A I do.

Q Do you think where the Pardons Board considered editorials cut out of newspapers, and considered them, do you think that should be brought to the attention of the public?

A Yes. But I don't condemn the Board for considering the public editorial because I think public reaction is a matter of vital importance in the matter of treating criminals, both at the time of sentence and time of release.

Q That gets to my next important question. Do you think the Pardons Board should have an investigation made in the community, of the attitude of the community in regard to the release of that particular individual?

A I believe so. I believe the Pardons Board should be apprized of the public reaction to releasing a prisoner. I think it is important from the standpoint of respect for law and order. I think it is important from the standpoint of the protection of society, contemplated releases of prisoners may—I don't know of any instances where it has, but it may bring to light some hitherto unknown information.

Q Isn't it a fact that most of these letters are sent, or naturally requested by the applicant through his attorney?

A I think that is unquestionably true. I wouldn't say all of them. I think some people volunteer sincerely, hoping to aid somebody. But I think most of them are solicited, of course.

Q Do you think they should be investigated to find out whether the facts, if you are going to consider and rely on the facts, whether or not there is anything there that should be investigated?

A Well, my experience with people signing things is that people will sign almost anything. I believe we are all familiar with the reported experiments on that score in various colleges and universities. I remember reading once where a large number of signatures were obtained to a petition asking that everybody who signed it be thrown out of college and they had no difficulty in getting a large number of signatures.

Q Do you think that in a murder case, either first or second degree murder, that the Pardons Board should obtain expressions from the relatives of the deceased and consider those just like they consider the other letters?

A I know there have been instances where relatives of the deceased have actually appeared before the Pardons Board and argued. I know at least one such instance I can cite.

Q Do you think that would have a great significance on the action of the Board if the deceased's relatives were afraid for any reason, that that should also be taken into consideration?

A Yes, I think so. Any matter of commutation or any sort of executive clemency involves a matter of two sides, and I think acting in the capacity of exercising executive clemency, it should be studied from all angles.

Q With regard to consideration of life imprisonment, do you have any thought on the matter of distinguishing as to how soon life imprisonment sentence should be considered? You heard this morning the Board laid down a rule and immediately violated it. Do you have any thought on that matter?

A I don't like policies with respect to treatment of prisoners, because there are always exceptions. There may be circumstances, after-discovered circumstances, or changes in makeup, or changes of view, which may justify releasing the prisoner before the minimum of a second degree, or there may be circumstances under which he should be incarcerated for life—you just can't fix a policy in a situation like that, any more than a judge can fix a policy of sentencing anybody that comes before him charged with a certain crime to a very definite fixed term, which I think is very wrong.

Q Do you think with regard to commutation of death sentences to life sentences—I mean, would commutation of those sentences to life, would that have effect on judiciary or law enforcement agencies generally?

A I can't answer that. My own personal experience includes only one situation, in Commonwealth versus McCausland, where the man got the electric chair and the Pardons Board commuted it to life imprisonment. That particular case was peculiar, unusual, and there was no adverse effect, either on the sentencing judge or on myself, who at that time was District Attorney. But as I say, there is a large sentiment among the judiciary that the Pardons Board acts capriciously and without considering facts, considering things other than facts. Whether that feel is supported by the evidence, I am not in a position to state.

Q Once the courts of this Commonwealth and of the United States ruled on the legal and technical questions involved in any first degree murder where there is a death penalty, do you think the Pardons Board should then take into consideration the possible laws laid down by dissenting judges, or should that be the law of the land, the majority opinion?

A I think, of course—and this is strictly my opinion—the Pardons Board was never established as an appellate court to review the law. That is only by personal opinion, and I don't think it is a function of the Pardons Board to decide whether or not a man who has pleaded guilty and found guilty of first degree murder was guilty only of second degree murder or manslaughter, unless new facts came to light afterwards which would justify making such a decision, and after appeal time, of course, when the matter can't be brought to an appellate court except possibly coram vobis.

Q Once the appellate court rule, and the Supreme Court of the United States rule that a man has been granted a fair trail, do you feel the Pardons Board should use the opinion of a dissenting judge as a reason for commuting the death sentence as laid down by the Court and the jury?

A No, sir, I do not.

Q Do you have any specific recommendations about anything that I have not asked you about?

A You did ask me about the Devers report. I do have one specific recommendation which all the members of the Devers Committee concurred in. You see, we recommended, and the Legislature went along wholeheartedly with our recommendations—we recommended that penal affairs be transferred from the Department of Welfare into the Department of Justice, and one of—that is not the only reason, but one of our beliefs was that with the Attorney General as head of the Department of Justice, and also automatically a member of the Board of Pardons, that something could be done about the gross disparity in sentences which exists throughout the Commonwealth—in fact, throughout the entire United States. One of the causes of prison revolt—and I might say, may be somewhat justified—was the fact that in the same cell for the same crime, and with the same background, would be two men, one serving an enormously large sentence, and his cellmate serving a comparatively minor one, and that engendered great bitterness, great sense of injustice. We felt that the Attorney General could afford a very valuable liaison between the penal correctional departments and the Governor in sort of levelling off these grossly different sentences in appropriate cases.

You see, we considered the Pardons Board along with all the other arms of the penal correctional system of Pennsylvania, and we decided that we ought not to make any recommendations concerning the Pardons Board itself because it was a constitutional body, and we felt if we recommended any constitutional changes it would require more study than time allowed, for one thing, and for another thing we thought that the basic things that we were trying to accomplish might be sidetracked in fighting over something like a constitutional amendment. So we thought the best thing to do would be to make the suggestion, such as we did, to make the best use of the available tools. In this case we thought the Attorney General, sitting on the Pardons Board, that he could in a measure bring about some levelling off of these sentences which are grossly disproportionate.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Do I understand then, Judge, that you have found as a result of your investigations that one of the basic factors that gives rise to prison riots is this disparity between sentences for the same offense?

A That is true, that is one of them. It engendered bitterness. Of course, there are many factors and you can't weigh them, you can't understand what induces them to break prison—bad food, poor prison administration, disparity in sentences, fancied or real gievances with respect to parole—all of those things combine to cause these flare-ups. At that time I think we had thirty of them in the United States, just strung across the country like Japanese lanterns on a wire.

Q Well, now, Judge, the Pardons Board is a constituted Board made up of certain designated individuals, and it has operated in that fashion since 1874. Now, the makeup of the Board is, as you have read, Lieutenant Governor, and the Secretary of Internal Affairs, who are elected officers. Then you have the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Attorney General, who are appointive officers. By their very nature they have a tinge of political appointment as well as service. Do you think the makeup of that Board and the operation of the Board today is antiquated and outmoded, and that perhaps a different personnel should make up the Board?

A As to personnel, I am not sure. Almost any institution in a community having the form of government which we have, cannot be completely divorced from that thought in politics.

I think the basic difficulty with the Pardons Board as now constituted is a complete lack of definition of the aims of the Pardons Board. If a Pardons Board is merely there for the purpose of exercising clemency, such as the type of clemency which Pontius Pilate exercised when he once a year turned somebody loose into the population, that is one thing. But if it is there for the purpose of correcting errors in sentence—and judges make errors all the time—of course, if it is there for that purpose, there should be some definition of purpose and some definition of the manner in which the proposition is to be approached, not merely upon whim, or caprice, or some other consideration which has nothing whatever to do, but—

Q Well now, Judge, I think you sat here this morning and heard something in connection with the ease with which they make the rules, change the rules and develop the regulations. That has been testified to on numerous occasions heretofore. Do you think that the Pardons Board should be flexible to the extent that they have been, or do you think they should adopt rules and adhere strictly to them?

A I don't believe that the Pardons Board should adopt its own rules. I believe the Legislature has the power under the Constitution to specify how the Board shall operate. Just so long as the Legislature steers clear from interfering with the prerogative of the Board and with the prerogative of the Governor and acting upon the Board's recommendation, I think since the Constitution does not define what a full hearing is, I think the Legislature has the full power to do that without infringing on the Constitution or without infringing on the powers of the Board or Governor.

Q Your notion is they should not have this flexibility but there should be some fixed rules of the game?

A I believe so.

Q I believe you also mentioned that you would suggest some remedial legislation to bring certain practices under the corrupt solicitation?

A I believe so. Now, that poses a delicate question. Everybody in the State would not consider himself corrupt in writing a letter to the Pardons Board, for example, asking for clemency for a certain prisoner. It would be an unthinkable proposal to make such conduct in itself a penal offense. However, the thing can be put in reverse. A bridge of conduct of such solicitors could be made, and I think in the reverse the members of the Pardons Board can be made subject to penal sanctions if they permitted themselves to be approached. I think the Legislature would have that prerogative.

Q Well now, Judge, it has also been testified that there are ten meetings of the Pardons Board a year, that at each meting of the Pardons Board they hear between 75 and 100 cases, that the average time—some a little less, some a little more, but the average time for the presentation of a case and argument of it is ten minutes. Now, do you think people as busy as members who constitute the Pardons Board and are in other fields, do you think they should have that number of cases to decide the vital questions before them? Should we have a Board to devote full time to that purpose?

A I think it is important enough the Board should devote full time if there are a large number of cases. Even a study of the files, prior to going on the bench, prior to these ten minute discussions, prior to the actual hearing, even that would not be sufficient for a member to fully apprize himself of the facts, and then go into executive session with the other members of the Board can only result in the light touch that some of the officials complained of.

BY REPRESENEATIVE BELL:

Q Judge Laub, you mentioned the Devers study.

A Yes, sir.

Q It is your feeling that if there is a reconstruction of the composition of the Board, would you recommend that the Attorney General remain on this Board?

A Definitely.

Q Representative Tompkins brought out the fact that we have three other members of the Board, who have numerous duties, they are very busy State officers. In addition to their other duties, I understand they serve on other boards, Senator Yosko and so on. Did you have any other suggestion, with the exception of the Attorney General, to a possible recomposition of the Board?

A I have not given it much thought with respect to reconstituting the Board. I should definitely think the District Attorney should be on that Board. I might state in the past Attorney General and the present Attorney General we have had extremely good men who would give valuable leadership to the other members of the Board before rendering a vote. If, as you say, the members of the Board are so busy that this becomes a sideline, then definitely I should say the new Board should be composed of individuals who are trained in penology, and follow other factors being entered into.

Q I don't know whether you are familiar with the fact that there are printed rules of the Pardons Board.

A. Yes, I have seen them.

Q Now, sir, if these rules are waived, should that be announced in a public hearing?

A I don't think waiver of a rule in a public hearing is of much effect. If a rule is to be waived and the public is to be notified, it should be done before the public hearing, certainly not at the hearing, because by that time anyone who would be interested in the thing would not be present, because not having had notice he wouldn't be there.

Q Would it be your view that there be actual public notice of some type or other that certain rules are waived or going to be waived?

A If they are to be waived, I think so, yes.

Q Tell us why.

A I will tell you why. Suppose prisoner "A" makes an application which is refused. That rule which requires him to wait a certain length of time—

Q One year.

A One year, all right. That rule is to be waived. Individuals relying upon the rule, interested in combating or contributing some knowledge to the Board respecting that particular application would be lulled into a false sense of security, feeling he would not have to make further scrutiny until the end of the year to determine whether or not the applicant will be heard. The first he hears about it is when the application is granted, because the rule has been waived in the past and he has had no notice of it. That is the reason for my answer.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Judge, you suggested public opinion should be considered?

A Yes.

Q Would you as a judge allow public opinion to prejudice your judgment in any particular case?

A Not prejudice, no, but I would consider it, because the effect of a sentence which I imposed upon a prisoner, within legislative limits, is a matter of vital importance to a judge in building respect for the law and courts.

Q But my point is, you wouldn't allow it to prejudice your judgment?

A No, sir, but it would be a factor to be weighed.

Q And if you thought in a particular case that a defendant should be dismissed and public opinion disagreed, you would dismiss that defendant?

A I would.

Q And you think the Pardons Board should act in the same manner?

A I do.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Thank you.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Judge, there are certain types of sentences that are imposed by judges where they obtain jurisdiction over the prisoner, so far as a parole is concerned.

A Yes, I am familiar with that.

Q What is that maximum sentence?

A It is two years.

Q Isn't it true that there are judges that impose sentences and they retain control over the prisoner, where they parole the prisoner before the sentence expires?

A That is true, yes, sir.

Q Do you think then that this Board ought to amend its resolution, to go down to the judge level and determine why judges parole sentences before their time is up?

A If it is pertinent to your inquiry, I think you ought to, certainly. That is part of your job.

Q There is a great deal of that going on, though?

A I don't know whether there is a great deal but some is going on. I do it myself, and I have very good reasons for so doing.

Q It is assumed, too, that the Pardons Board has good reasons for doing what it does?

A It is assumed so, but the rumor is that it isn't.

Q Rumor prevails the other way, too?

A That's right.

Q All right. I am still thinking about law enforcement. Judges also have the right, don't they, to suspend a sentence if they want to?

A That's right.

Q And judges do suspend sentences?

A They do.

Q That sometimes arouses public opinion?

A. It does.

Q Do you think then that the Legislature ought to enact legislation that would prohibit judges from suspending sentences?

A No, sir.

Q You don't?

A I don't, no, sir.

Q You think the judges ought to retain that right?

A I do, and for a very good reason, if I may explain.

Q Even though in many cases they abuse that right, you still think they ought to retain it?

A Whether it is abused or not is beside the point. In an individual case if a judge abuses it, he is of course open to public scrutiny and censure, same as anybody else. But in the case of a judge it is different, entirely different than a Pardons Board. The judge is not only present at the locale and in the community, but he also is thoroughly familiar with the facts. The Pardons Board only gets the facts by hearsay, or by reading a very lengthy record without observing the witnesses. In consequence, the Pardons Board's judgment can't be as good as the sentencing judge—if the sentencing judge is conscientious, and there are of course judges who are not, as you have indicated.

Q From the information that was given to us, the Pardons Board does have all of the information before it that it ought to have when it considers a case.

A Well, I would deny that, sir. Under even a most ideal situation, I don't think the Pardons Board has all the information it ought to have. It probably has all the information available, but it has not had the opportunity to observe the witnesses. It has not had an opportunity to look at the prisoner himself, to talk to the prisoner and to understand some of the factors which motivate him. That, of course, without having the Pardons Board sit in originally at sentence, would be an impossible thing. Perhaps it is true they have all available information, but I don't think they have all the information they ought to have.

Q What other information do you think they ought to have?

A Just as I have described it. Maybe I am inarticulate but I think I described what I thought they ought to have.

Q You think the Pardons Board, from what I gather—if I am wrong you tell me—you think the Pardons Board ought to go into a more extensive hearing and bring in witnesses that appeared at the trial?

A I don't know as I would go that far, no. Why would it be necessary for them to re-try? But I think that a Pardons Board, in examining a case, should take into consideration not only the events as they existed at the time of sentence, but all available information concerning the prisoner afterwards. But factual, and not merely on a letter or on a statement by counsel in open hearing, or statement by somebody, which is after all not evidence. Perhaps it would even be better if the present Pardons Board were to be retained, if the Pardons Board itself had an advisory group to make studies and investigate matters, other than just sending a parole officer around to make a cursory investigation.

Q Well, judge, from some of the records that I examined in the file, I note that the parole officer—to what extent and how thorough he goes through the testimony, I don't know, but they refer to the notes of testimony, and from it they take out the facts and briefly state them in the report, which the Pardons Board takes under consideration, and they get a report from the District Attorney, they get an opinion from the judges, they get a report from jail in which the prisoner is sentenced to, the attorneys appear and argue, and other persons can appear, too, I understand, and either oppose or favor a petition. And it seems to me, just from the information that they have before them, that it is sufficient. I just don't get your logic when you say they don't have enough information.

A I say they don't have all the information they ought to have. I say they probably have all the information which is available to them. But it seems to me that such a vital matter as commutation or pardon is a matter which should have thorough study and scientific study, if possible, something that is based upon a real consideration of all the factors involved and not upon a feeling which is engendered. In answer to what you have said, Senator, anybody who has ever heard two counsel arguing a case before a jury, interpreting the testimony which has recently been given on the stand, would wonder how there can be two logical views based upon the same words of a witness. And yet you do get two completely conflicting views. Now, for a member of the Parole Board, or one of their agents, to read cold words in a record and decide what the facts are from reading those cold words, it is a rather unusual thing to say the least. Wouldn't you say so, Senator?

Q Well, the time element is involved. Do you think the Pardons Board, or somebody on the Pardons Board, should review all of the testimony?

A Oh, certainly.

Q You do?

A Certainly.

Q Are you familiar with functions of Pardons Boards in other states?

A No, sir—although I understand ours is pretty much patterned after some of the others.

Q Judge, getting back to these suspended sentences—and I don't want to be picking on judges, understand—

A Go ahead.

Q —sometimes I think a lot of these criminals finally develop into hardened criminals, because from some records I looked at, you find a whole series of crimes committed and you find down the line, suspended sentence, fine, suspended sentence, fine, which encourages that individual to do something worse each time. It seems to me that maybe we ought to do something about the judges, too,—

A It may be,—

Q —make it mandatory that they—

A It may be so. But before you make any complete conclusion about that, remember this also, that there is a situation of a first offender harshly dealt with by a judge who then becomes embittered and gets a criminal tendency, which he might not have had if he had gotten a suspended sentence in the first place.

Q That is all right if it happens the first time, but some of these records you look at here, there are suspended sentences all the way down the line until they finally commit a crime which is really serious, and then they are finally sentenced, go to jail.

A Of course, I suppose that does happen. And I would not defend a judge who had a record of a man before him of repeated offenses who would then go along with a suspended sentence. I wouldn't defend him. He would have to defend himself.

Q But the human element is involved in both?

A Absolutely.

Q The actions of judges, Pardons Boards, and everybody else.

A Absolutely. Judges are supposed to be inhuman, but I think they are.

Q But just because a judge does suspend a sentence doesn't say that it is necessarily a political influence that does it?

A Necessarily, I would hope that no judge would be politically influenced in imposing a sentence.

Q And if a judge paroles a prisoner after he sentences him, it doesn't say there is necessarily political influence involved?

A Certainly not.

Q By the same token, the same rule should apply to the Pardons Board?

A Certainly.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Of course, judges are also amenable if they make mistakes to a voter?

A To a voter, to appellate court, and to public opinion, which is stronger than anything.

Q The Pardons Board is not?

A No. The Pardons Board is in Harrisburg. We live in the community where we sentence prisoners, and if we make a mistake, we have to face 100,000 people in the street. And I tell you, it isn't fun.

Q Do you think if these cases are listed specially for rehearing, the judge should be notified and everybody who was notified the first time should be notified?

A I think so.

Q Do you think the reasons given by the Pardons Board for commutation of any sentence should be made public, to the public press?

A With the one exception that I mentioned, if the consideration involves information obtained from some confidential source which ought not to be revealed.

Q All right. With regard to—

A However, making it public to the public press, and so forth, even there there may be some limitations imposed. I don't believe in sealing up public records completely.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Judge, I don't think he is talking about the files. I think he is talking about the reasons which they gave. The reasons are something which are filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth—

A Oh, yes.

Q —and they are a matter of public record or should be made a matter of public record?

A That is true.

Q Do you think those reasons which the Pardons Board gives for their actions should be published?

A Absolutely. I think in the protection of the Pardons Board, as well as anybody else, because the Pardons Board is entitled to have its side of the situation made known to the public as well, for the very reason that sometimes their actions are questioned.

Q Now, judge, it has been testified here that the Board only files reasons when they commute, or pardon. No record is put in the file, there is no information kept in connection with a refusal. When they come to a second, third or fourth application, there is nothing to guide a Board on why the previous applications were refused. Do you think that there should be some record in that respect also?

A I believe so, sir.

Q Your Boards are constantly turning over?

A That's right, their tenure is short, relatively short, too short for those who are incumbent and somebody coming behind doesn't know why they acted the other way. It would be most helpful to the new Board to know why.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Wouldn't it be especially hard for those on the new Board, or on any Board, to understand facts and technical questions if the Board were not attorneys?

A Yes, May I add this. Prisoners, violators of the law, don't abdicate all of their rights—maybe most of them. But one of the most disconcerting factors of both parole and commutation, in so far as its effect upn the prisoner is concerned, is when they get a notice, "Your application has been refused because of prior criminal record and other factors," that "and other factors," it just kills the prisoner, because he's at a loss to know why his application was refused, and in fairness to him, maybe he ought to know.

Q Have you heard any expression of futility on the part of judges to sending recommendations to the Pardons Board because they are not considered very much?

A Yes, I have. No longer ago than the last judicial conference in Pittsburgh.

Q Do you know Mr. Coughlin in Erie?

A I know Morris Coughlin.

Q He is Democratic City Chairman?

A I don't know whether he is now. He was.

Q Do you know Mr. Phelps?

A I know of him.

Q County Chairman?

A County Chairman, yes.

Q Do you think if they went to see members of the Pardons Board and had conferences with them in regard to any particular case, that those members of the Pardons Board should disqualify themselves from listening to that particular case?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: There isn't any such evidence.

MR. KOHN: It is in the record. Mr. Hean said so. Do you want me to bring it out?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right, go ahead. I won't take the time to bother.

MR. KOHN: I will take the time if you would like to have it.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q While they are looking up the fact, you mentioned Phelps as County Chairman. He is County Chairman of what?

A Democratic Party, Erie County.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Judge, are you Democratic or Republican?

A You mean my philosophy or registration?

Q Registration.

A Registration.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q What is your philosophy?

A My philosophy is for freedom at the polls.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Would there be any reason why the Republican County Chairman couldn't talk to you if he met you somewhere?

A About what?

Q About anything.

A He frequently talks to me about the weather and things like that.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you think he should talk to you about cases before you?

A He had bettter not try it.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q If he stops you on the street and says, "I see you are going to try Joe Blow tomorrow," do you think that would be improper?

A No, sir, unless he went a little further and tried to follow it up.

Q That's right. It depends on the nature—

A Absolutely.

Q —of the conversation, as to whether a man feels he is being tampered with or not?

A Of course.

Q So actually, to make a true determination of whether a man should disqualify himself, you have to know what the conversation was between the individuals?

A That's right.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Suppose the Republican County Chairman asked you to give special consideration to a man that is going to be tried, what would be your reaction to that?

A Well, a rebuke at the least. But he wouldn't have an opportunity to, because to get into my office he would have to state his business to the common secretary which Judge Evans and I have, who is very meticulous about finding out about people like that, and he would tell him if he had recommendations to make, he would have to make them in open court at the time sentence is imposed.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Supposing he should come to your home and try to intercede for somebody?

A I have never had that unfortunate experience, but if I had I am afraid I might not act like a gentleman.

MR. KOHN: The exhibit I was looking for is already in the evidence. It's in the letter from Hean—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But I don't think there is any evidence they talked about the merits of the case.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: No, nothing like that.

MR. KOHN: That I can agree with.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: My recollection of the letter is that they talked to certain members of the Pardons Board, I don't know who they were now, but there was no disclosure as to what that conversation consisted of.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE. That's right.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did you ever have the County Chairman come to you to talk to you about procedure of trial?

A No, sir. Nor have I had the Democratic Chairman come, too.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did attorneys come to ask you about procedure?

A Sometimes in company with—that is, both sides represented, they do.

Q That is more or less of a pre-trial conference, to get things lined up?

A Yes, that happens frequently.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You don't talk to attorneys in the presence of others who might be interested in the case, like relatives, or county chairmen?

A No, sir.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Judge, you have indicated that the Board of Pardons, being required to dispose of a petition for commutation on a cold record, is not quite as satisfactory as if they had seen the witnesses?

A That is true.

Q But that is true also of our appellate court procedure, isn't it?

A Yes, except that the appellate courts don't as a rule decide facts.

Q Well, they decide legal questions upon which a man will live or die, and they are empowered under the law to grant new trials if they believe the verdict was against the weight of the evidence?

A That is true, but as a rule—and that is only an exceptional case. As a rule, they feel bound by the finder of the facts, which is the jury.

Q But whatever it is they decide, they have nothing before the Supreme or Superior Courts except cold records?

A That's right. No witnesses—except in cases of original jurisdiction.

Q Now, did I understand correctly that you would be in favor of a statute which would compel the Board of Pardons to have the trial record before it?

A No, I didn't say that. I assume that they do have the trial record before it. I assume that. I don't know that would be required by law if they do have it.

Q You wouldn't be in favor of a statute which would compel the members of the Board to read that record?

A Not necessarily.

Q Because there is no statute now which compels each member of the appellate court to read the record.

A That's right. But I think somebody ought to read it.

Q Oh, well, I suppose certainly the opinion writer should, and undoubtedly does. It may be that others do also.

Now, as to the writing of letters, wouldn't you consider that whether a man is a Congressman, a State Senator, a member of the Legislature, or an ordinary citizen, if he chose to write a letter having to do with the liberty of a fellow-citizen, he was within the protection of the Constitution which gives him the right to petition for redress of grievances?

A No, I don't think that constitutional question is involved at all.

You have got another consideration, and that is this question of—well, to use a vulgar expression, "backdooring." I can only cite what has been the practice with most courts that I know. They don't consider letters, even letters brought in by attorneys, because the judges say, "If this man is interested in this man and is willing to face me and answer my questions regarding him, I would be glad to have him. But what he says in a cold letter is of no moment to me and I won't consider it."

Q But judges do constantly receive letters from persons who are interested in the disposition of a matter before the judge on one side or another?

A Well, by constant, if you mean by that regularly, I would say no, from my own experience. But there are such letters sent.

Q Wouldn't you say you received at least fifty a year?

A No.

Q You wouldn't?

A No. I would say possibly five.

Q Five a year?

A Yes.

Q Five a year, in which the writer takes a position one way or the other—

A No. Usually those letters are requests for a private interview to discuss the case. They don't tell what they want to do, they just want a private interview to discuss he case. I would say we get 300 to 500 applicants at our chamber doors for private interviews, which are turned away.

Q Do you get anonymous letters also?

A Only of unpleasant nature. Not with respect to cases we are about to try there.

Q Now, there has been discussed here the question of a reconstitution of the Board of Pardons, and it has been suggested that there could be a different non-political board. In your concept of such a Board, would it be appointed or elected?

A I don't know. As I say, under our system, any public body has some aspect of politics connected with it—and it doesn't necessarily mean in a sinister connotation, either. Now, you happen to be an appointed member. I would have the utmost confidenc in anything you did because I know you personally and I know your history. I might not feel that way about some other appointee. It all depends on who it is.

Q But the situation itself is governed in many instances by the political complex of the appointing power, isn't it, whether it is Republican, Democratic, or what the political philosophy of the appointing power is?

A That is one defect of our system in the United States that you can't escape.

Q You have spoken of many of the reasons that caused men in institutions to become dissatisfied—and I must say I agree wholeheartedly with most of the things you have said—would you add to that list, a lack of hope on the part of men in jail that they can by good conduct be released?

A I never encountered what I would consider a man who lacked hope, and I talked to a good number of them. Even men who were serving life sentences and had little hope, but still that last clinging vestige of hope remained. I have in mind one fellow who was sentenced to life imprisonment, when I was District Attorney, on a crime of passion more or less, but one time I asked him in prison why he didn't apply, and he felt he had made his life in prison and could not cope with the outside and didn't want to get out. But there may be individuals who have lost hope, and when you find a man like that, you find a dead man.

Q Now, you would not be for the abolition of executive clemency, of course, would you?

A No, sir.

Q We recognize, to start off with, that the Governor is the only person who exercises executive clemency?

A Yes.

Q The Board of Pardons is simply a sort of Board which investigates the case for him and makes its recommendations?

A I won't say they investigate the case. I don't know. I thought that's what you were trying to find out here.

Q Yes. You have been asked about other states. You are of course familiar, by reason of general knowledge, that some states don't have any board, committee, commission, or any group which screens the cases for executive clemency and that they go directly to the Governor?

A I understand that.

Q That would be hardly desirable?

A Hardly desirable. I think that situation obtained in Pennsylvania prior to this constitution. Was it under the Constitution 1938? You can tell me better than I—where the Governor actually exercised the appointing power without the intervention of the board.

Q My understanding is that the constituent assembly started in 1794 making recommendations and that we have had a body which made recommendations but that it was not exclusively up to the Governor, even prior to 1874. But I am not sure about that.

You have talked about a levelling off, the fact that men are in jail, let's say one doing a ten year sentence, the other doing a three-year sentence, both for having done almost the same thing under almost the same facts, that that causes a bad situation in jail?

A Unquestionably.

Q When you speak of a levelling off, a Board of Pardons or executive power can't increase a sentence—

A You can't increase; you can only cut down.

Q And for that purpose it is a good thing that prison authorities and inmates can look towards some group, whether it is this Board of Pardons or any other, or whether it were reconstituted, in order to do that levelling off?

A Unquestionably. I am wholeheartedly of that belief.

Q You are familiar, of course, with the English system, to which are appointed to with pride, in which, although there are no degrees of murder, death sentence follows upon conviction of murder generally; are you familiar with the fact that immediately upon the passing of that sentence by the judge, there commences a complete reinvestigation of the case by the Secretary of Home Affairs, which is a lay investigation, not a judicial investigaton, and even prior to the recent discussion about capital punishment in England approximately one-half of the men sentenced to death were actually commuted to life imprisonment.

A I am not familiar with that. It's interesting.

Q That is so, and I will document it for the information of the Committee later.

A. Of course, that doesn't argue that it is correct.

Q Well, it does argue that England has a non-judicial investigation to determine, after all the legal remedies have been complied with, whether this man ultimately should be put to death.

A We have the same thing here, we have a non-judicial investigation here.

Q By the Board of Pardons?

A Board of Pardons. Only it is not automatic here.

SENATOR SCOTT: Is that done only where death sentence is imposed or is that done in all cases?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is not done in all cases.

SENATOR SCOTT: Only where the death sentence is imposed?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: What I am talking about is a compulsory, automatic investigation of the case—even without application of the prisoner.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That investigation starts immediately after the sentence is imposed?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Once the sentence is imposed, the Secretary for Home Affairs starts an immediately investigation of the entire man's life in a non-judicial way, to determine what recommendation he will make to the Sovereign, and it is a fact that even prior to the present fuss over capital punishment, in approximately 50% of all cases where men were sentenced to death, their sentence was commuted by the Sovereign upon such recommendation.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, we do have that lay hearing by the Board of Pardons?

A That's right. Of course, there is a great difference between our system and the English system. If there is any politics in the English system, it is not at the level of the Sovereign, it is at the level of the Home Secretary. Of course, I don't know any of the circumstances, what motivates the Home Secretary in making his recommendations or anything of that nature. I do see one great merit in that, and that is that the complete, exhaustive investigation begins at once rather than a delayed action affair coming along ten or twelve years later. I think there is a great advantage in that.

Q Well, you will agree, of course, that as to death sentences, it comes on prior to the date fixed for execution?

A Yes, of course.

Q And the recommendation is made of record in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth?

A Yes.

Q When you spoke of publicizing, I don't suppose you meant that the Board of Pardons should hand out a press release each month, did you?

A No, sir.

Q Any more than judges hand out press releases of their opinions?

A No sir. What we do, we explain what we do in our opinions, and I think that's what the Pardons Board should do.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Those opinions are filed in the clerk's court and everybody can look at them?

A That's right. And if they are good enough—mine aren't, they look in the D and C reports.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q I have read many of yours in the D & C reports. When you say that there should be a public reading of communications, do you mean that if anybody has written a letter to any member of the Board of Pardons, they should at the hearing read out the fact that they had gotten such a letter?

A Read the contents of the letter if it refers to that particular case.

Q Well now, suppose a man comes up—well, suppose 100 letters come in, should they be read publicly?

A Yes. I think the end would justify the long, tedious delay in reading them, but I think it should be done.

Q Judges do, or at least you have known of judges, haven't you, who have talked to an attorney on one side without his adversary being present about a mere matter of procedure? That is, "When will the case come up? Can we get it on this list?" or "Can we get it on that one?"

A Yes, I will go along with that. Lawyers have called on the phone, for example, and said, "Will you agree to hear the case without a jury? Can we have it on such-and-such a day?"

Q Perfectly civilized practice?

A Certainly. You don't deal at arm's length with Members of the Bar all the time.

Q With respect to the sentence, the judge has before him the man, and he has fresh in mind the circumstances of the offense, and then he decides what he thinks would be a proper sentence in view of all the circumstances?

A That's right.

Q But he recognizes, does he not, that that man who stands before him today may, through the passage of years, become a different, a better or a worse man, that may be he ought to get out earlier, or maybe he ought not to get out at all?

A That's right. A judge's sentence is merely the reflection of the judge's prognosis as to the man's progress in the future, considering all the elements—and there are many, as you know—all of the elements and factors that go into sentence—the public protection, element of punishment, the opportunity to reconsider the question of rehabilitation, and all of those various factors, they are all considered and weighted by a judge in imposing a sentence. But in the final analysis, it is merely the judge's prognosis.

Q Now, when the Board of Pardons acts, let's say 8, 9, 10 years later, it has a statement of the applicant as to what he believed the facts were, he has a check—the Board has a check on those facts through the Parole Board which has combed the notes of testimony. They have the recommendation of the trial judge, of the district attorney, who either personally appears or writes a letter, they have the recommendation of the people in the penitentiary, who have been seeing this man day after day for the last 8 or 10 years. Don't you think that that ought to give them a fair way of judging, particularly if the judge, district attorney, and prison authorities are unanimous on the subject, that that should give fair way to Judge——

A If the authorities are unanimous on the subject, I think it should have great weight. If there is not unanimity, I think it should give the Board cause to pause and hesitate.

Now, when you talk about a man's prison record, you have got to recognize an established fact in penology, and that is that the old and hardened criminal, prison life has become quite familiar to him, he can go along in prison and have a perfect prison record, whereas a new offender in prison for the first time and rebelling against the change of his condition, may have a lousy prison record. Yet the chances of rehabilitation may be better with the younger one than with the old and hardened criminal who is able to evade the infractions of prison rules, and by currying favor and so forth may get good reports that he shouldn't get.

Q The prison authorities themselves know that what you say is so, don't they?

A They know it. And I am sorry to say this, but it has occurred that the prison authorities, by a system of mark-ups and so forth, have deliberately favored prisoners that should not be favored. Prisoners get something on a guard, or the guard has used them for some improper purpose, and the guard is afraid of them, wants to curry favor with the prisoner, he gives them a good mark-up when he is not entitled to it—the system is based upon humanity, and being human it is necessarily imperfect. It has to be. This system is imperfect; any substitute you make for it is going to be imperfect, and all that you can hope to do or the Legislature can hope to do is to cut down the margin of error as much as possible.

Q You are aware of the fact, are you not, Judge, by reason of your long experience, that the rate of recidivism among persons released through commutation is the very lowest rate of any criminals released in any institution in Pennsylvania?

A I say I am not familiar with that as a fact. I would challenge it on the basis of what I have been informed, but without any study. I would challenge it on the basis of J. Edgar Hoover's national report, there is no reason to presume Pennsylvania would be different from the whole national picture.

Q Did J. Edgar Hoover say the rate of recidivism is higher among citizens commuted by Board of Pardons than with respect to persons who have served their minimum terms?

A Hoover's report generally covers persons released on parole. You have the situation here, the Pardons Board commutes and the person is released on parole at the expiration of his minimum. So he is on parole, which is a natural concomitant of his commutation. You also have the individual the Senator commented on who is paroled by judge. But the greatest recidivism is among parolees, I understand it is well over 55% or 60%.

Q Did J. Edgar Hoover say that?

A I believe so.

Q Judge, would you send me a copy of that?

A If I can find it, yes.

Q I meant to make a distinction between parolees——

A I will say this if I may, Tom. Some years ago J. Edgar Hoover made the statement also that every Federal Bureau of Investigation man who was killed in the line of duty was killed by a paroled prisoner.

Q Now, what I want to get is a distinction between a parolee who is a parolee by having served his minimum sentence, and a man who is a parolee by having had his minimum sentence commuted.

A I don't think there is a distinction, because by having his minimum commuted by the Pardons Board it is the same as though he had received that minimum by the sentencing judge. Therefore, he has served his minimum and he is out on parole.

Q But would you say, Judge, there is no distinction in fact—I assert that I am informed by the penitentiary people and by others that the rate of recidivism of all parolees in Pennsylvania is lowest among those whose sentences have been commuted by the Board of Pardons.

A That is an extremely interesting fact. I hope it's true.

Q We intend to develop that—and I am not referring to just this present Board; I am referring to Boards of Pardons.

A I am not familiar with that and it is extremely interesting and I am glad to hear you say it.

Q Now, Judge, in respect of these particular cases that were up in Erie County, you handled some, Judge Rossiter handled some and Judge Evans handled some?

A That's true.

Q I would like to cover the ones that you handled. You handled Ray Cynlewicz?

A That's right.

Q When that case was up before the Pardons Board you made no comment?

A I told the praole agent I opposed.

Q Oh, did you?

A I think I told him in all cases except in the John case, that I was opposed.

Q We have it down here that we had no comment. We will check what the Parole Board record shows. How about Arthur Damore? We have this comment, that you took the position that sentence was justified, but that the matter was up to the Board.

A I very likely said that.

Q Janes Lee John, you left it up to the discretion of the Board?

A Yes, because James Lee John presented a little different picture as I recall it. The man was ill. It was reported to me he was not going to live his term and I didn't see any percentage in opposing him and having him die in prison, I couldn't see any sense to that and I was perfectly willing to let the boy decide that.

Incidentally, in most of these cases I have exhibited willingness to abide by the decision of the Board. I have no illusions about my own infallibility on sentences.

Q Well, you are not complaining about the Board's action in any of these cases where you sentenced them, are you?

A Complaining about it?

Q Yes.

A No, I have not entered any complaint. I do have some reservations as to why the commutations were made, however.

Q Judge, we noted on our record that you had no comment on Ray Cyulewicz, and I have just been handed the confidential report, underneath "Comments of Judge and District Attorney" it says "Judge Burton is on vacation until after 8-31-55."

A Could be.

Q That's why we said, "No comment," not that you failed to tell us but that we didn't have any comment from you.

A That's possible.

Q In connection with James Marlino, we have a record that you took the position that the sentence was justified but that you neither opposed nor recommended. Is that correct?

A Very likely.

Q And as to James Solomon, you took the same position, that the sentence was justified but that you neither opposed nor recommended?

A That is very likely the interpretation on what I said put there by the parole agent. In substance, I would say that would be what I said. Actually, I probably said, "I think the fellow got what he deserved, but if the Pardons Board feels that it is wrong, let them go ahead and change it." Of course, that would be within the prerogative of the Pardons Board anyway.

Mr. Kohn handed me this report—evidently a clipping from the Philadelphia Inquirer of Thursday morning, April 12, 1956, which makes me amend my interpretation on what FBI Director Hoover said. According to this article, he noted that of 18 FBI agents killed in the line of duty, 11 were slain by convicts granted clemency. So I was wrong by 7.

Q Well, I wouldn't challenge it in any event because we are not here to protect those people.

So that to sum it all up, in your experience there is one viewpoint taken by the district attorney and very often a different viewpoint taken by the judge, and very often, both or one, after a number of years, changes his views about the desirability as to the time in which a man should get out?

A I think so. Sometimes it is due to changes of personality. One mellows with age. One forgets the sharp edges of the circumstances which caused him to impose a harsh sentence in the first instance. One becomes more forgiving. One becomes forgetful.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think that's all I have.

DEDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Judge Laub, under Article 4, Section 9, it says he shall have power to remit fines, etc., referring to the Governor. Do you think the Governor should be a rubber stamp for the Board of Pardons?

A No, I believe the Governor should exercise discretion.

Q Do you think an underling should study the files or do you think in all cases it is his responsibility and sole responsibility to study the complete file and arrive at his own conclusion?

A No, I wouldn't go that far. I wouldn't say that a busy Governor of a Commonwealth should necessarily be required to study the entire file. I think he should give it sufficient study to inform himself of the facts. But to rehash the whole thing—except in an unusual case, I would say no.

Q Do you think the Flatley cases were unusual?

A Yes, I think the Flatley cases were unusual.

Q Do you think the Darcy case was unusual?

A I am not familiar with the Darcy case except by hearsay.

Q That is the Bucks County case?

A Yes.

Q Do you think in murder cases he should assume the responsibility, if he is going to exercise the clemency which he is given by the Constitution, to find out all the facts in a first degree murder case where the sentence is capital punishment?

A I think he should acquaint himself with the facts. But I do think that a Governor is justified in relying somewhat upon the statements—

Q I am talking about a particular case—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Why don't you let him finish.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Go ahead.

A I think the Governor would be juestified in relying upon a statement by the Lieutenant Governor or Attorney General, or somebody on the Pardons Board. Yes. I don't think that he would be required to look with suspicion upon a statement made by a member of the Pardons Board. But I do think he ought to acquaint himself with the facts and have an independent judgment. But on factual matters, I think—

Q Well, it is his responsibility. But what I am getting at is, the fact is the Governor can't persist in clemency except when such clemency is recommended by the Board of Pardons.

A I understand that.

Q They may be in error too?

A That's right.

Q When you get a serious case, three people involved, capital punishment, do you think the Governor should exercise the responsibility to find out whether or not the reasons assigned by the Pardons Board are good reasons and whether or not they are in the records—

A Yes.

Q. —that is, that they are based on the record and not on some outside influence, or some outside—

A Yes. I think that is a responsibility of the Governor. I think that the Governor ought to do, as I understand from the newspapers he did in the Flatley case, find out what the public reaction is to it. That is one of the factors to be considered. I think he owes that responsibility to make an independent judgment on the thing. But I don't believe that a busy Governor should be required to go into all the facts of the matter. He should be able to rely on what he was told by a duly constituted officer.

Q Do you think an hour and a half on one of those files where there were 21 appeals would be sufficient for the Governor to make up his mind as to what his decision would be?

A I can't fairly answer that question because I don't know what the file contains.

MR. KOHN: All right.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q I have a further question. In your discussion with the Attorney General, discussing the Erie graft cases, you said you had some reservations as to why the commutations were granted. Will you explain that statement?

A Yes, sir. I have not been living in a vacuum. I have been reading newspapers about this particular matter, and certain facts, if they are facts, have been reported which might lead me to have some reservations as to whether or not these men were released because the Pardons Board sincerely thought they ought to be released. I don't think I need to elaborate on that any further because of what has been produced here, you are well aware of it.

Q I wish you would elaborate on it.

A Well, for example, I have been told these figures—and again I don't like to talk about something that I can't put my finger on. I have been told there have been in the neighborhood of 59 or 60 cases from Erie County within the last 5 or 6 years—

MR. KOHN: Within the last two years.

THE WITNESS: Within the last two years—and the great bulk of those that have been granted commutation were these particular individuals. That is something which in the ordinary course of events doesn't transpire. When you have a serious matter like a Mayor of a great city going into open court and confessing in open court that he has accepted a bribe and betrayed the trust of his constituents—it is just one of those things that—well, it could happen. I don't deny that the Pardons Board could have been motivated by the most proper motives. But I say I now have some reservations about it.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: That is all.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q You don't predicate any of these decision upon what you read in the newspapers?

A No, sir.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Judge, were you in here all morning?

A Yes, sir—half asleep part of the time. I was tired.

Q Did you observe the conduct of this hearing this morning, the proceedings?

A Yes, sir.

Q I just want an opinion from you. Would you consider Mr. McBride's activities here, or his examination of you and the other witnesses, as obstructionism so far as the duties of this Committee are concerned, or would you consider his activities as helping to enlighten the Committee and others with the facts dealing with the activities of the Pardons Board?

A Well, Senator, instead of giving you a direct answer first, may I say something and then give the direct answer?

Q All right.

A I would say from my knowledge of Tom McBride, that there is no consideration which would make Tom do anything dishonest, or dishonorable, or conceal anything. And I would not consider from what I observed here that Tom McBride has obstructed anything. I don't know as he has helped anybody, but I don't think he obstructed anything.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q May I ask you this, Judge. Is this the only hearing you have attended?

A Yes, this is the only hearing I have attended.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Would the Senator care to say whether he thinks I have obstructed somebody at some other hearing?

SENATOR SCOTT: I merely asked the question following through with Senator Yosko's question.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Are you fully acquainted with all the issues that have been raised in connection with the conduct of this investigation?

A Obviously not. I couldn't be. I wasn't here. I have gotten my information second, third, and fourth hand. I just have an impression, and impressions aren't worth much.

Q I want to second your appraisal of General McBride, because I have seen. But there have been issues raised in connection with the General that I don't think constitute part of the question, and we'll leave your answer stand as is.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, could we meet that issue?

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Do you see any conflict of interest in my appearing before this Board of Pardons?

A I think I know what you are referring to. You mean with respect to whether or not you represented these defendants, whether or not you are on the Board now, and so forth?

Q Yes. I represented a man named Darcy in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. I never appeared before the Board of Pardons for him: I am now Attorney General, that is in the Department of Justice, the Board of Pardons is being investigated. Do you consider there is any conflict of interest in my position?

A In all fairness, I can't see it.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Even though the Darcy case is coming before this Committee for review?

A It seems to me, that had Tom McBride appeared before the Pardons Board and had participated in negotiating a commutation, that then there might be a serious question. But merely because he represented the man before the Supreme Court on an appeal—being under oath I have to give you an honest opinion—my honest opinion is I don't see a conflict of interest.

Q Suppose along the way it became necessary to interrogate him in connection with his representation?

A Well, it might in such circumstances develop a conflict of interest. But there are occasions when attorneys have found it necessary to appear as a witness in a case in which they have entered an appearance, and they make application to the court for leave to testify and to continue on, and then it is a discretionary matter with the judge.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q And that is where the attorney calls himself or his side calls him?

A That's right.

Q You can't disqualify a lawyer just by the other side calling him?

A That is true. But of course, I assume that everybody here is interested in getting an answer to what appears to be a problem, for the benefit of the great people of Pennsylvania, without regard to personal feelings. And I assume everybody on this Committee, Tom McBride, and particularly Dave, whom I have known for a good many years as well.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q This Committee is interested in getting a full, complete, honest investigation—

A I am sure you are.

Q And issues are raised because of principles involved, not personalities?

A I have also known you many years favorably and well.

Q That is up to this point, but we don't know what might develop later.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Thank you.

(Witness excused)

ELMER L. EVANS, Judge, having been duly sworn was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You are the President Judge of Erie County?

A Yes.

Q How long have you been on the bench in Erie County?

A A little over 17 years.

Q Did you handle the Ben Kauffman case?

A I did.

Q Are you familiar with the facts?

A I am.

Q Do you know how many times the application for commutation came up before the Board of Pardons?

A No. I know that I wrote a letter expressing some surprise at the first application that went in during appeal, and that is the only letter that I recollect writing on the whole matter. I have a copy of that letter here.

Q That application was refused. Have you received any further notice of the application being reconsidered?

A Not to my knowledge.

Q For rehearing?

A I would say no, for the fact that I have no recollection—

Q All right. Did you oppose the commutation of this defendant?

A Yes, sir.

Q On what basis?

A Well, I considered him more culpable than the fence who took the material, and he was guilty by the admission of his own lawyer. At the time I sentenced him, they said the sentence was very light. And I think the last sentence in my letter was that I strenuously opposed commutation.

Q What do you mean by fence?

A Person who buys stolen goods. He would accost a person and tell him if they had old plastic material. That was unusual to begin with because how would an employee in a plant have it to sell?

Q He approached the boys—

A Yes.

Q One of the basic factors in the commutation was that the boys only received, I think, four months, and you paroled him within two and a half months?

A That's correct.

Q What did he have to say about that as giving a reason for this commutation?

A The only reason I can give is that they were accosted by Kaufman. He took the product. They never saw anything of the product or anything else in connection with it. When they were accosted or apprehended after the material was noted as missing, they confessed the whole thing and made it possible for us to get the men whom we considered the most serious offenders, and these were younger fellows, and we took that into consideration.

Q Do you know there was a rehearing granted on this matter subsequently?

A No, I knew nothing about it after—

Q Did you hear Mr. Phelps interested himself in this case?

A No.

Q Did you know anything about that?

A No.

Q Did you hear the fact that Mr.—

A Oh, I may have heard something since this investigation started.

Q But at that time—

A Oh, no.

Q Would you have opposed it if a rehearing came up?

A Well, I don't know whether I would or not, having registered my full story on it prior to that time.

Q What could you tell me about the Flatley cases. You wrote a letter that Schwartz should receive at least as much consideration as Flatley. What do you mean by that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Did he say that?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No. He should do as much time—

THE WITNESS. No, I said least—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But I don't think you put it in terms of consideration. I just wanted to help out.

THE WITNESS: To serve at least as much time.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Serve at least—not that he should receive as much consideration?

THE WITNESS: No, at least serve—well, anyway, all right. I didn't say receive at least as much consideration.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is what I thought, I didn't think you had. He should have at least as much time.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He should have at least as much time as the other ones?

THE WITNESS: That's right.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q The Board used that as one of the reasons for commuting his sentence. What do you have to say about that?

A Of course, I thought that Mr. Flatley shouldn't have been released in the fist place, because I gave him too little time for a particular reason. And this man Schwartz, who the Chief of Police said ran the Police Department, was equally at fault because he and Flatley, and Martin, split the $1500 over the—

Q Schwartz was the ringleader?

A Yes, but Flatley I though was still equally responsible because he was the public official. After Flatley had been released, then I got this wording about Schwartz, I said he should get at least as much as Flatley, and that is as far as I felt I should go.

Q Schwartz took an appeal, did he not?

A Two of them that I know of.

Q Schwartz put in his application that he used this money for political purposes—I think you made a quote on that in your letter.

A I remember the testimony, he introduced some statements of money expended, but as I looked at them on the bench they were all for dates prior to the time he was collecting this money. I think I quoted in here some information that he had made no return of political funds, and even if he had, it still wouldn't justify him getting the money the way he did.

Q Where you familiar with the case of Martin?

A Yes.

Q Do you know Martin received a commutaion, I think of 19 days, in comparison with Schwartz's—I think it was a little over six months. How did you feel about the fact that you recommended Martin because he assisted the Commonwealth and testified against Schwartz and all the others, and the Board gave him less consideration than they did Flatley and Schwartz. How da you feel about that?

A I couldn't understand it and I can't now.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Did you say they let Schwartz out in 6 months?

MR. KOHN: I didn't say that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Did you say they gave less consideration to Mr. Martin than they did to Schwartz?

MR. KOHN: That I did say.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, Schwartz served a year and Martin served 11 months and 11 days.

MR. KOHN: There was a difference in sentence, 6 months.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Six months difference?

MR. KOHN: That is what I said.

THE WITNESS. We gave Martin 6 months less than Flatley and Schwartz becaue the three were gathering this money and dividing it. There was no evidence that the District Attorney had to implicate Schwartz and Flatley until they apprehended Martin, and they talked to him for about 15 minutes and he said, "I am glad to get rid of the whole thing," and he told the rest of the story, which was followed by Schwartz and Flatley confessing.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you know for a fact Martin's wife was under operation for a cancerous condition at the time—

A All I would know is that his attorney told me that.

Q Actually, there was no opposition of any kind to Martin's release?

A No. As things developed up to that time, I was for it.

Q Previous to Flatley's release, did you know others had been let out by the Pardons Board, a Camilli and some of the others?

A I can't remember exactly. From the record now the information came in that they were released with a letter of August 1. None of those men were men that I handled. Either I was—well, I don't know, except we had left all of it to the Parole Board, and that is all I was interested in.

Q Did the Pardons Board ever notify you that they were considering further commutation of the Flatley sentence from one year to less time than that? Did you ever receive notice of that?

A No sir.

Q Judge Evans, you have heard your associate, Judge Laub?

A Yes, sir.

Q He testified at great length here. I wonder if you have any suggestions to offer so that I won't have to go through long questioning.

A I don't think it is necessary.

Q Do you have any suggestions to give?

A All I would say is, that there doesn't seem to be great disagreement on fundamentals here on the part of anybody, from the questions and answers. I think we all agree that no criminal case should be ultimately and completely closed. Even the writs of coram novis, under old English law, permitted the old cases to be reopened by the trial judge, if necessary. But we also must realize the opening of them and consideration of them must be backed by some judicial judgement, integrity, and experience.

Now I am frank to admit that as a young judge, I made some errors in that respect, and I rather think that any Parole Board coming in as it does every four years with men, many of whom are not judicially trained, may not realize what the present Board does now. Maybe they won't do this again.

So I think we must have a Parole Board with the overall power that a judge does. But I feel it should either be a Board which has the time to devote to these cases, who will eliminate political approach—and we must assume the people believe the political approach is right and have so considered for many years—otherwise they wouldn't get the so-called proper people to come there. The system has that error in it.

Q You are referring to the Parole Board. I assume you meant the Pardons Board?

A I meant the Pardons Board.

Q How do you feel with regards to letters you have written, whether they would receive proper consideration or not; how do you feel about that?

A Well, the Kaufman one particularly indicates they didn't see it or didn't consider it too much.

Q What about the Martin?

A Well, I wrote the letter with all the facts I have given here as my reasons.

Q Do you feel in some cases they have given it the weight it should receive?

A Whether intentional or not, I am not going to say, but it didn't receive too much consideration because the results didn't come out in accordance with my suggestions.

Q Have you talked to other judges about matter of consideration of your communication with the Pardon Board?

A No, I have never talked to any judges about it other than with Judge Laub.

Q Do you think the actions of the Pardons Board in commuting some of these cases which became public property has any effect on law enforcement in your county?

A Well, there was non-satisfactory reaction among the people who were wrought over the situation which developed.

Q Did it have any effect on the police department, these matters?

A We will hear policemen say, "What is the use?"

Q Is Schwartz active now in the Police Department?

A I would say no, from what I know.

MR. KOHN: I have nothing further.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q The man you called a fence, was that Mr. Hoffman?

A Yes.

Q How old was he, do you recall, roughly?

A Thirty-five, approximately, I would say, forty.

Q How old were these two other criminals who were apprehended?

A That is sometime back now, but I would recollect as best I can that they were in their early twenties.

Q Did they have any previous criminal record?

A Also going to my recollection entirely, it is that one of them had some previous experience and the other one did not. And I may be wrong on that.

Q Can you tell us whether or not Kauffman talked these other two young men into this crime?

A That was their testimony. He did not take the stand.

Q Now, Judge, in your testimony you made reference to—I believe your words were to hire the proper people, in dealing with the Pardons Board. Does that deal with attorneys appearing before the Pardons Board?

A No. It just seems to me that this group of men with the great number of cases they have and the present method of approach, gives an overall picture that can't work. It seems to me that if these men are going to give the proper consideration and eliminate politics, and eliminate people who think they can use politics, they must by rules of some kind insulate themselves through trained personnel. Or, if they can't do that, then the Board itself should be of trained personnel—appointed, I would suggest, for a period of time that would make them immune to both Republicans or Democrats, and in that case you wouldn't find so much trouble with these letters. Because if it proved fruitless, it would no longer be followed up.

Q The next question, sir, you made reference to an unsatisfactory reaction following commutation. Will you tell us a little bit more about this?

A Well, it was really a bad situation.

Q What do you mean by that?

A Pretty near every poolroom and cigar store, and outlet of that kind, was peddling numbers. They had certain floors in certain plants. One fellow, Comminsky, was paying tribute for running a speakeasy on Sunday. It had some pretty decent fellows, other than this activity, and it also had some very bad criminals, and you can't eliminate them. They were among themselves not only getting protection, but they were encouraging the rest of some fellows who were in the pool business and not on the inside, or paying too large a percentage. And all of those bad things, all we had was suspicion, and the people knew it, and many of them thought nothing could be done about it. Well, this man, Verga, the policeman, was on the vice squad and he told a former vice squadman, whom Mayor Flatley had hired, that he either had to resign or do a good job. The other said, "I will help you. We'll go to Mr. Johnson." The three of them worked over a period of months, and months, and months, and got the evidence so well prepared that there was 100 per cent conviction—maybe not 100 per cent, I think they allowed one or two off—and the thing cleared up for awhile, and the people felt that a great job had been done. Then, when it was all sort of washed out so quickly,—

Q You mean by that, by the commutations?

A By the shortening of the sentence after we had passed them.

Q And what was the unsatisfactory reaction in the community?

A Well, they thought that they shouldn't have been commuted.

Q Did that have an effect on law enforcement?

A Oh, I wouldn't want to say yes or no. I don't think anybody wants to give up hope. They were just disappointed.

Q Did that have any effect on public respect for law enforcement?

A Yes. The people did say, "What is the use?" in varying degrees, depending upon their intensity of thought.

Q Judge Evans, on the basis of your long experience as a member of the judiciary of Pennsylvania, if I were to tell you that there are printed rules of the Pardons Board which are followed in some cases and waived in other cases, following visits of certain people to possibly the Secretary of the Pardons Board and other people in power, that some persons receive special consideration—do you have that picture, sir?

A Yes.

Q Tell me, sir, is it not a fact that the very backbone of justice is equality of treatment?

A Oh, I think that is true. It has to be.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Thank you, sir.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q You heard Judge Laub testify?

A Yes.

Q I think among his remarks were that he overheard some teen-age boys in his home discussing this particular case, even before it was tried, and they had arrived at the conclusion that they probably wouldn't be convicted, and if they were convicted, they wouldn't go to jail, and if they did go to jail, they would be pardoned or commuted. Now, wasn't that actually something that must have taken place prior to this time to create that kind of impression in Erie?

A I had an experience similar to that on an occasion when they had approximately two bills against a public officer, because there is a feeling sometimes, whether rightly or wrongly, that people who are prominent do not get as much by way of prosecution or sentence as the so-called little fellow.

Q So that uncomplimentary attitude of these young men at the time could reflect upon the court, the jury system, and everything else. In other words, there wasn't much regard for the entire system in the minds of these boys prior to this case and prior to the action of the Board.

A It indicates possibly a lack of faith in humanity and our system, yes.

Q So the criticism didn't arise solely afterwards, there was some before?

A I have heard that thought expressed before with regard to public officials.

Q In other words, it has been general opinion—

A That is one reason why I didn't want this sentence commuted, because it was public officials commuting public officials, and thereby proving that very point.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: All right.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Something was said about hiring the right people. Isn't it general that a person that is in trouble will hire the person they think can help them?

A I didn't mean that, sir. I meant that the Pardons Board should either be able to devote the time to become skilled, or hire people to work for them who will have that knowledge and skill and be immune. I have no fault to find with a person hiring a friend of his as a lawyer and he happens to be of the same political party, or religion, or live on the same street.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q I have one further question. Following the court hearings in Erie County, did the people on the street still continue to have the same opinion as to possible political influence in your courts, getting a man a lower sentence? Am I confused on that?

A Did they think—

Q Well, you made the statement that it was on the street opinion that people, because of their political position, wouldn't get the same harsh treatment as the average criminal.

A That's right.

Q Now, following the convictions in the Erie courts, did you still have that feeling in Erie County as to the type of justice they received in Erie courts?

A The expression I got that it was clearly wrong in the minds of people. But as you know, people's reactions are based on—possibly facts and possibly erroneous facts. But that was the general thought among the people who expressed themselves to me, that conviction of these men was so unusual and so well carried on—not by the judges, understand, but by the District Attorney and these two officers—that it was too bad it was nullified to a great extent by the subsequent action.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Judge, in that respect, you have indicated that very careful and well-planned investigation brought about these arrests. Now, are arrests in offenses of this kind of a very easy nature, getting proof, is it an easy nature?

A It is difficult. This is the case of a man appointed to the vice squad—not too skilled himself, but honest enough went to a skilled man, who also went to a District Attorney, Johnson, in particular, and also Mr. McLaughlin, Johnson having had FBI training. The methods by which they got the conclusive evidence paralleled FBI operation, with the result that when it came before us, the jury just convicted with absolute certainty time after time. And it is a very unusual situation that would permit that discovery.

Q It is not an easy thing to get proof in matters of that kind?

A That's right. It is very difficult.

Q Now, as a result of these commutations, did you hear any expressions among any members of the police force as to any futility, as to why should we go out and work and get the stuff and get stuff like this?

A The only man I talked to was Vergo. He is the fellow on the vice squad and he made the first approach to another officer telling him either he had to do a good job or get off the force, because this payment of money was going on.

Q What was Vergo's reaction?

A Vergo?

Q Yes.

A Well, he knew that he was jeopardizing his life in certain instances—

Q But I mean after commutation.

A —and he felt very badly that all the results of his work had come to so near naught.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General?

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Judge Evans, did you have any additional persons you sentenced who did not apply to the Board of Pardons but who did apply to you for parole?

A I wouldn't recollect them distinctly. But I do know this, that after—we have 23 in that first batch, and we meant to fix the sentence of each of them according to the severity, and with Flately and Schwartz at a year and a half to three we scaled them down from there on. I think 10 were commuted the first time, then Flatley commuted, then the rest came in and we scaled all of those down as we thought in fairness and of necessity. Those were cases where they were postponed and not tried until later.

Q But you mean that these other people were not sentenced until after Mr. Flatley had been commuted?

A Yes, that's right.

Q You said there was a general impression regarding public officers, that public officers, as distinguished from the so-called little fellow, would not be punished or if punished, would get relief?

A That is not an unusual expression of people on the street.

Q I am not quarrelling with you at all, Judge. But I call your attention to this. Mr. Martin, Inspector Martin, was a public officer?

A Yes.

Q And he was given 1 to 2 years?

A Yes.

Q He was sentenced on January 6, 1955, and when he came up for commutation, after having served less than one-half of that sentence, you recommended that he be released, didn't you?

A I wouldn't think that soon.

Q Let me withdraw that—well, let me see. I have here "Considered favorable after refusal by Board."

A I would have to have the record on that.

Q All right, let's get the record. We have here the record of the District Attorney's recommendation that Mr. Martin be released in June.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Here are the two letters (handing letters to witness).

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Do you have a letter which you sent to the Board of Pardons for the June meeting?

A I suspect that is—a letter of May 27 with regard to Martin.

Q And what did Your Honor say?

A "it is true that although John J. Martin received a one-third share in the bribe money known to have been received, he did after his arrest confess and cooperate at the preliminary hearings, as well as before the grand jury and the petit jury. He received as a result of this cooperation a sentence of six months to a year less than the other receivers of bribes. Dr. Lutz has written me a letter that Mrs. Martin is under his care for the treatment of a tumor involving the right lung and that surgery to remove this tumor will be used in the very near future.

Whether or not this recent development should receive consideration is a question I would prefer to leave with the Board."

Q Then we could put it this way, couldn't we, Judge, that after he had served less than half of his time you did not actually oppose Martin's release?

A You heard what I said.

Q But that is correct that you did not oppose it?

A No, I gave the reasons, it was for the Board to determine. The fact that he had cooperated and his wife was going to have a lung cancer operation, would justify them in granting it further—and I made no recommendation according to that letter.

Q Then he was turned down at that June meeting. Then did you not write a letter later recommending that he be given clemency?

A I remember that "He is the only one convicted who seems to show remorse except being caught and has behaved well," and I recommended that he be released.

Q Did you make a recommendation at any time that he be released before Christmas?

A Yes, sir. "If you contemplate releasing him at the expiration of his minimum period, January 8,"—that is when he would have served his entire time—"I would see no reason for refusal to allow two weeks further reduction in order that he might be home for Christmas."

Q Now, that was done by the Board. That is, he was released on the 17th of December, 1955.

A Well, if that was the date that would be three months before his minimum term had been served.

Q Not three months.

A I mean 13 days.

Q It would be a little more but it is not important to argue the mathematics.

A I said 17th?

Q The 17th.

A Twenty days.

Q Twenty days, 21 days. Now, nevertheless, he was a public officer?

A Yes, sir.

Q Now then, in respect—

A And I also said that "Martin was one of the collectors and participants in the bribery operation going on in this city and most culpable in that respect."

Q Now, when Mr. Flatley's case came up before the Board of Pardons, you left it up to the Board, did you not? You did not oppose Mr. Flatley's release, did you?

A No. We put all 23 of them with a maximum of 2 years, or 3. All of those first 23, and said we left that all up to the Board. We didn't want them coming in, one to Judge Rossiter, one to Judge Laub, one to me, bringing the influence we have been talking about. We wanted the Board to have them all to measure the merits of those cases and have the entire picture. So I said. "See the Board." And I was disappointed with the first 10, I will admit.

Q Well, you didn't say to the Board in Mr. Flatley's case, despite the fact he was a public officer, that you thought he ought not to be given clemency?

A I said it was up to the Board, nothing more. I didn't think it was necessary, sir, to say more.

Q Please believe me, Judge, I am not criticizing you.

A Okay.

Q I think you have a perfect right to say whatever you believe.

A Okay, sir.

Q Leo Comminsky, you left it up to the Board, did you not?

A Yes. That is my recollection.

Q Yes. Edward McColsky?

A I am not sure but what I recommended some leniency for him. At least I felt that way because as it developed, we found that he had only been operating a baseball pool for a limited period in a limited way and had regular employment other than that.

Q I have a brief note to the effect that you didn't have a special recommendation but if the Board grants one, it may feel constrained to grant all.

A That's right.

Q Would that be a fair statement of your position?

A I would suspect that as what I said.

Q And then with respect to Mr. Schwartz, I quote part of your letter saying he should serve at least as long as Mayor Flatley?

A That's right.

Q With those statements, you left the matter otherwise up to the Board, and did not specifically oppose any of these cases?

A No, sir

Q Were there not some men who were paroled by the court before the Board of Pardons acted?

A I can't tell you, sir. There were 40 or more of them and I handled part of them and other judges handled part of them. I couldn't answer.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Judge Evans, you refer in your letter of October 14, 1955, to possible commutation of sentence from January 8 to sometime allowing at least two weeks reduction for Christmas. What brought that on? Do you have any recollection of that?

A His attorney, Mr. Carney, told me that he was going to apply for whatever he did apply for, and he asked me what my attitued was. I told him. He said, "Will you write that to the Board?" I said, "Yes."

Q Did you have any such request in the Flatley case to commute that from one year to less time?

A No.

Q Nobody consulted you about that?

A Not to my recollection.

MR. KOHN: All right.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Judge Evans, do you know of any political influence that was exerted on the Board that caused them to grant these commutations in the Erie cases?

A To the Board of Pardons?

Q Yes.

A Oh, I wouldn't know anything about that. There would be no way I could know.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q You wouldn't find fault with the Board if they allowed one man to go home before Christmas if they changed their opinion—

A I think they made a terrible mistake to start with, and possibly from then on they had to be quite lenient. Whether they did it deliberately or politically, you can judge better than I. I thought it was wrong.

Q My question is, you say it would be all right in your opinion if they would let Martin go home before Christmas, and you would find no objection to letting Flatley go before Christmas?

A You see, Martin was held longer than these other men.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q What other men?

A Well, there were 10.

MR. KOHN: Coulter, Lessee, and so on.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Were not Martin and Flatley out at the same time?

A But Martin had six months for reasons of his co-operation.

Q My question is, would you object if they were going to commute it to being before Christmas rather than a couple of days after Christmas?

A No. I have done that many times.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Judge, do I understand it right that Martin had a prior application which had been turned down, and that when he eventually was released, it was on a re-hearing or re-argument—

MR. KOHN: There wasn't any rehearing or re-argument. Just considered in Excecutive Session.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Reconsideration, all right.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did the others take the same course?

MR. KOHN: Are you asking me?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right, if you can answer.

MR. KOHN: As I recall, Sullsovich and Adiatori, they were commuted and re-commuted subsequently to a lesser time. I can find nothing in the record, either in these minutes or in the files, to show why those things were done. They were done on rehearing subsequently.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is not a recommutation. There were not two commutations.

MR. KOHN: Further reduction in commutation, or re-commutation, whatever you want to call it, I see nothing in the record to show when, why, or how, or who instigated it, if that is your question.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I get the inference that Martin was deferred because—

MR. KOHN: In Martin's case there was a hearing on an application in which Judge Evans wrote a letter, the first one he read. Subsequently, another hearing was some place held, I don't know where, there is no record of it, no rehearing, no petition for rehearing, he was merely commuted, that is all I know.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Wasn't there a re-consideration of the Board's action? Didn't we settle that the other day?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What I am trying to get at, this question came up about commuting for Christmas and so forth. What I am trying to find out is whether or not Martin was denied consideration until these other matters came up for Christmas, because he may have been the one that turned State's evidence.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No evidence of that. The fact is, and we have the minutes in the room, but I understand the Board will not be heard today. The minutes shows that Martin was the first one considered for release at Christmas, and the others were not considered—

MR. KOHN: I would like to see the minutes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You will see them.

MR. KOHN: I think we ought to put them in rather than—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: So do I. I am saying they are here and we are going to put them in. But Martin was the first one reconsidered for Christmas, and the following day the others were reconsidered for Christmas also. We'll produce those minutes but I say—

SENATOR SCOTT: It will show that Martin was the first one—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It will show the precise time, meeting and so on.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The District Attorney said the other day he had the feeling Martin ought to be turned down because he wouldn't turn State's evidence. Am I correct?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: There is nothing in the record to show that.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. McBride, there is nothing in the record to show either way, it there?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No. Except the general view we presume it is lawful in the absence of some evidence that it is fradulent.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Any further questions?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have none of Judge Evans.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Thank you very much, Judge.

(Witness excused)

ARTHUR J. GARDNER, having been duly sworn was examined and testified as follows:

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Your occupation, Mr. Gardner?

A Mayor of the City of Erie.

Q Prior to being Mayor of Erie what was your occupation?

A College professor.

Q Mayor Gardner, when did you become mayor?

A I took over in January, immediately after Flately was sentenced. I served the balance of his term, one year.

Q Therefore, were you in a position to know of the comments, pro and con, in the police department or among the public, in respect of the commutation of Mayor Flatley's sentence?

A Yes, sir.

Q What can you say to us that would enlighten the Committee on that subject?

A I heard some people that were against it and some people that were for it. As a matter of fact, I can state that in the City Hall proper, which has approximately 1100 employees, that they circulated a petition requesting that he be released.

Q Some question has been made as to whether police morale was affected by the commutation of Mayor Flatley's sentence. What comment have you on that?

A There was a complete reshuffling of the whole police department as far as supervisory talents were concerned, and I feel that in general there was no reaction—maybe with the exception of a few. The one specific case that was mentioned I believe was Mr. Foster, who was a patrolman at the time when this whole case occurred. He performed a great service for the City and I appointed him as inspector in the police department, I promoted him, put him in charge of the detective division, put him in charge against vice, and he was diligently working at that particular task at the time this happened—that is, when Flateley was discharged.

Q Now, Mr. Mayor, there has been testimony by a Mr. Sullivan that you had a conversation with him right after the elections of 1955, with the Governor of Pennsylvania. It has been testified that you told Mr. Sullivan that the Governor of Pennsylvania, having congratulated you on an election victory, then went on to ask you as to what public sentiment would be if Mayor Flatley were released. First, did you have any such conversation with the Governor of Pennsylvania?

A No, sir.

Q Do you know Mr. Sullivan?

A Yes, sir.

Q How long have you known Mr. Sullivan?

A I don't believe I was acquainted with him prior to my becoming Mayor. I just knew him by name, that was all.

Q Was he a person whom you would call to secure advice as to public sentiment or any other matter in which you were interested?

A No, sir, he is not the type of person that I would confide in, no, sir.

Q Did you have any conversation with Mr. Sullivan in which you stated that the Governor had called you and had asked you what public opinion was, as to the release of Mayor Flatley?

A No, sir.

Q Have you ever had any differences with Mr. Sullivan that might help to explain why he would speak to the contrary of what you are now speaking?

A Yes, sir,—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a minute. Are we trying to impugne Mr. Sullivan's testimony here?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Sure.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Proceed.

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir. Mr. Sullivan was fired from the Erie Daily Times, our local newspaper, of which he was the editor. At the time he was fired he called me to ask for a job. I believe that he was out of work somewhere around 7 or 8 months and during that period he probably called me three or four times a week requesting me to put him on as a worker in my department. I think in one of the conversations he mentioned that he would be willing to start as a laborer because he was about to lose his home and everying else, and he requested that I give him some kind of job, which I did not do.

Q At what college did you teach?

A Gannon College.

Q Is that a boys' college?

A Yes, sir.

Q Have you run into any evidence that the views of Erie officials were corrupted or influenced by the action of the Board of Pardons in the Flatley or other cases?

A No.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you recall receiving any call from Governor Leader after the elections of 1955, with regard to anything?

A I believe he called me to congratulate me on my election, yes.

Q What was the date of that?

A I'm sure I don't know.

Q It was right after the elections, wasn't it?

A That may be so.

Q You did receive a call from Governor Leader?

A Yes, sir.

Q Well, now, Sullivan was quite active about this time, wasn't he? He wrote this article of August 7. You have seen that, haven't you (handing article to witness)?

A Yes, sir.

Q You and he were good friends before that time, that was before he was out of a job?

A I wouldn't say that.

Q Had you had any differences?

A Yes.

Q What were they about?

A Well, specifically, after all he was the editor of the paper and his philosophy and mine did not match and frequently he took attack upon my philosophy.

Q And did his philosophy and yours match in regard to his attitude towards Mayor Flatley? At this time I am talking about now, in August of 1955.

A Did they match?

Q Yes, I mean did you agree with that article?

A Not particularly.

Q You thought Flatley should stay in, didn't you?

A I didn't express myself one way or the other.

Q You didn't?

A No, sir.

Q Did you allow your stationery to be used for someone else to express himself?

A No, sir, I never allowed that.

Q You wouldn't allow such a thing?

A It might have happened without my knowing about it.

Q I'm asking you if you had knowledge of it would you have stopped it if you were not in accord with it?

A Yes.

Q Who was your secretary at that time?

A Robert Hickey.

Q Therefore, then, it would surprise you to have Mr Hickey use your stationery—this is your stationery, isn't it (handing papers to witness)?

A Yes.

Q Is that your stationery?

A It is also his.

Q He uses it and you know about it?

A Yes.

Q A copy of that would be in your files?
A I don't have it in my files, no, sir.
Q Who would have it?
A Probably Mr. Hickey?
Q Did Mr. Hickey work for you?
A He is secretary to the Mayor
Q Does he work for you?
A Yes.
Q Besides the position of professor prior to being Mayor, what other position did you hold?
A City assessor.
REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Are you going to introduce this letter?
MR. KOHN: I don't think it is necessary unless you want me to do so. I just want to find out how it came into the files.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It's not the Mayor's letter, is it?
MR. KOHN: No. It's the secretary's letter on his stationery. I don't think it should go in.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What did you say the date of this phone call was?
A I didn't say.
Q Oh, you didn't say. How soon after the elections would you think it was?
A I'm sure I don't know.
Q Therefore, Mr. Sullivan testified that you had gotten a call from Governor Leader. Where would he have gotten that information?
A I'm sure I don't know.
Q That at least is correct, that part of the statement?
A Yes.
Q What part isn't correct?
A The statement in which he stated that I requested from him an opinion as to whether I talked to the Governor.
Q That was correct, though, wasn't it?
A What's that?
Q That you had talked to the Governor?
A I talked to the Governor, yes. Now, the only thing I know now is what I read in the papers.
Q This is after election?
A That's right
Q When was the election?
A I don't know the exact date. It was in November but I don't know the exact date.
Q First week or second week?
A What is it? Second Tuesday of November? I really don't know.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: First Tuesday after the first Monday.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Would it be before the 14th of November?
A I can't tell you the specific date.
Q It could have been right before the 14th of November, could it?
A It might have.
Q When did the Governor call you previous to that time?
A Previous?
Q Yes, previous to this particular occasion when did he call you before that at any time?
A I couldn't remember that.
Q Has he ever called you since?
A Yes.
Q When?
A Specific dates? I could never tell you.
Q Just approximately. That was only in November, 1955. When did he call you since that time?
A He has called me many times since then.
Q He has called you many times?
A Yes.
Q He never asked you what the opinion of your town would be in regard to releasing Mayor Flatley?
A No, sir.
Q You never discussed the case with him?
A There is one conversation we had concerning it. This might be where the confusion exists.
Q In whose mind?
A I don't know.
Q Yours or Sullivan's?
A Sullivan's.
Q You wouldn't know where he would get any confusion if you never talked to him about it?
A No.
SENATOR YOSKO: Let him make the statement he wants to make.
MR. KOHN: Yes.
THE WITNESS: After Flatley was released I went to Washington, D. C. While I was there, Flatley was placed on a job on the State payroll, working for the Highway Department. When I got back the Governor called me—

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Let's get the date, please. When did you go to Washington?
A It was in February sometime.
Q What year?
A Let's see, if this was in 1955, it must have been 1956.
Q February of 1956?
A Yes.
Q Go ahead. I'm sorry to have interrupted you.
A At that particular time he asked me how that possibility could have happened.
Q Who is that?
A The Governor. I said I'm sure I don't know because I was in Washington, D. C. He says, "Is there any way you can get him off the job? We don't want him working."
Q He asked you to get him off the State payroll?
A That's right.
Q And he also asked you how it could have happened that he got on the State payroll?
A That's right.
Q What did you tell him as to how it happened?
A I didn't know.
Q He asked you to explain to him how the man got on the Governors payroll?
A Yes.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Not the Governor's payroll.
MR. KOHN: State payroll.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q State payroll?

A Yes.

Q What did you tell him as to what you were going to do about getting him off?

A I said I would do what I could about it.

Q What did you do about it?

A I got him a job working at a car agency, selling cars.

Q You got him a job working for a car agency?

A Selling cars.

Q Did you contact Flatley then and ask him to resign from his State job?

A No, sir.

Q How did he get off the State job?

A I called the Highway Department head, his name was Mr. Pope, I told him there's another job available. When Flatley went down for an interview they hired him.

Q How did Flatley get on the payroll?

A He was appointed by Mr. Pope.

Q When?

A The date?

Q The approximate date. This is February. He got out in November sometime. Approximately how long did he work?

A I don't know how long. It must have been sometime the early part of February.

Q Do you have something to do with getting jobs in your county?

A No, sir.

Q Why would the Governor pick you out to worry about the Flatley position?

A I think that would be only natural.

Q You didn't put him on, did you?

A No, sir.

Q Why wouldnt you get after the person who endorsed him to have him put on?

A I don't know about that.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Did you tell Mr. Sullivan about that phone conversation with the Governor?

A Not that I remember.

Q How would he be confused about it then if he didn't know about it from you?

A I don't know. See, it became common knowledge as I understand, in the community that something was done to take Flatley off this job and that perhaps I might have had something to do with it. It became general knowledge, and it might have got back to him, I don't know.

Q But you and Mr. Sullivan never discussed it?

A No, sir.

Q Either in this phone conversation or the one where the Governor called to congratulate you?

A No, sir. I say this, sir, that it might be that he discussed with me the fact that the Governor congratulated me, I dont know about that, but the balance of the conversation I don't believe I ever talked to him on that basis. I would never confide in Mr. Sullivan on that basis.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mayor Gardner, I want this very clear. Do you deny having a conversation with Mr. Sullivan concerning a congratulatory telephone call from Governor Leader wherein Governor Leader went on and asked you the public's reaction to releasing Flatley?

A Yes.

Q You are positive?

A Yes.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, we have a statement by Mayor Gardner, and we have a statement by Mr. Sullivan. Somebody is not telling the truth.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's interrogate further.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did I understand in the course of your testimony that you said that the Governor did ask you what the public reaction might be or would be in Erie should he commute the sentence?

A No, there was no conversation with the Governor on that particular basis, no, sir.

Q At the time that you say right after the election that you talked to Mr. Sullivan over the telephone, did you call him or did he call you?

A I am sure I don't know. How long ago is that? That's 16 months ago, and I'm sure I couldn't tell. I couldn't say.

Q Do you know what hour of the day it was, Mr. Gardner?

A No, sir.

Q Do you know whether it was at your home or at your office?

A It was at the office, I suppose, if there was a phone call.

Q Did the Governor ever get you out of bed early in the morning with a telephone call?

A No, sir.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Do you think it would be an improper question for the Governor to ask you what the public reaction would be in Erie?

A No, I don't think it would be.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Sullivan was still working on the paper in 1955?

A Yes.

Q So there was no reason for animosity between you and him?

A No.

Q So there was nothing wrong in calling the Governor?

A I don't suppose so.

Q Why did you call him—

A I say I don't remember whether Sullivan called me or I called Sullivan. That's 16 months ago.

Q You remember talking to him?

A I dont remember. I get many phone calls during the course of the day.

Q You stated specifically here what the Governor discussed and did not discuss. How can you remember that?

A I think that's important enough that I would remember.

Q You think it is important now. Did you think it important enough then to make a note of it?

A I imagine I would.

Q When did you talk to Sullivan, the day before or after, do you recall?

A No.

Q So you wouldn't recall what the conversation was, you and he talked many times?

A Probably so.
Q Not probably. Is it or isn't it? You are under oath.
A That's right.
Q What do you mean probably so then?
A Probably so.
Q Have you talked to him many times during the time he was editor-in-chief?
A Are you talking about on the average of once a week, once a day?
Q Suppose you tell us.
A I think he probably called me maybe once every two days.
Q For news?
A For news.
Q And you discussed many things with him?
A Primarily news.
Q And you didn't discuss whether or not it would be a good thing to let Flatley out now or wait until later?
A No, sir.
Q Never discussed it?
A No.
Q You never discussed the Flatley case?
A We might have discussed the Flatley case.
Q Do you recall?
A No, sir.
Q But you might have discussed it?
A Might have.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q I am going to come back to this telephone call. You are absolutely sure that you had no conversation with Mr. Sullivan concerning a telephone call from Governor Leader wherein Governor Leader congratulated you on your election and then went on to discuss the Flatley case? You had no conversation with Mr. Sullivan on that telephone call?
A No, sir.
REPRESENTATIVE BELL: There was sworn testimony on March 6 which Mr. Sullivan gave which was in direct opposition to Mr. Gardner's testimony about the telephone call. I would like both parties to be submitted to a lie detection test in the presence of our counsel and Mr. McBride, or whomever Mr. McBride might designate, so that we can determine who is telling the truth.
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We'll take that up in executive session and make a determination.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Gardner, since you testified and you are still under oath, that you did not think it improper for the Governor to ask such a question if he would ask—
A No, I don't.
Q There would be no reason for you to deny it if he did ask the question?
A That's right.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q What job did Flatley have in the Highway Department that you got him out of and got him some other job?
A As a laborer, I believe.
Q Is that one of those things that is handled locally?
A Yes.
Q Was the man you mentioned from the Highway Department the local man?
A Yes, sir.
Q He wasn't here in Harrisburg, was he?
A No, sir.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did you intercede for Mr. Flatley through Mr. Pope to get this job, do you recall?
A No, sir.
Q You had no—
A I had no knowledge of it before it was made.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q As to your relations with Mr. Sullivan, do you know whether or not Mr. Sullivan held it against you that you had gotten him fired from his job?
A The facts of that are that his daughter accused me of that, yes.
Q Accused you of getting him fired?
A Yes.
Q Did you have anything to do with having him lose his job?
A I am not sure about that, sir. I might have.
Q Did you have a conversation with his boss, the editor?
A Yes, sir.
Q What was the nature of that conversation which may have influenced his losing his job?
A First of all, the reason why I talked to the owner of the newspaper was because I had heard after my election that one of the men in my party had paid Mr. Sullivan a sum of money, approximately $600, for the purpose of leaving any unfavorable publicity out of the paper as far as I am concerned—

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What was that?
A —for the purpose of leaving any unfavorable publicity out of the paper as far as I am concerned.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Continue.
A I told that to the owner of the newspaper. He retorted to me that it's peculiar that just several days before a friend of his, with whom he would trust any details of his business, had reported to him that the moneys that were collected from this bribery scandle was also shared by Mr. Sullivan, not so much by moneys, but also in terms of goods.
Q What kind of goods?
A As I understand it, he had some rugs bought for his house.
Q What else?
A A television set.
Q What else?
A An aerial, and some tile for his home.
Q Floor tile?
A Floor tile, yes.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Was this somebody making a statement to this effect?

A Yes.
Q Can you identify that person?
A This is the owner of the newspaper that made the statement to me about the fact that he had heard that his editor had participated in this particular action.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What is that editor's name?
A George Meade.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, all of this testimony is very interesting, but what does it have to do with investigating the Pardons Board?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It has this to do. Mr. Sullivan was a witness, and Mr. Sullivan's credibility is before the Committee, whether he has motives or doesn't.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Was it Mr. Meade who mentioned the rugs, television, or someone else?
A No, sir, somebody else.
Q Mr. Meade did not go into these details?
A Yes.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Who was the somebody else?
A The day after the thing broke in the newspapers about my supposedly having a conversation with the Governor—

BY MR. KOHN:

Q That's within the last week or so?
A Yes—there was a phone call received by my office. The secretary, Mr. Hickey, took the phone call. The phone call was for Mr. Schwartz, who is one of the men in this case. Mr. Schwartz said that he had all this evidence and he wanted to give it over to show that these particular purchases were made and then he did share in the total amount of money collected in this matter.
Q Mr. Schwartz was one of the persons who was convicted of bribery?
A Yes, sir.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q And Mr. Schwartz' statement is that Mr. Sullivan, the witness who testified here, got part of this in conversation for rugs, television, floor tile?

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Why didn't Mr. Schwartz give this information to the district attorney before this?
A I'm sure I don't know, I don't know about that.
Q You know you are making a very serious accusation here, Mr. Mayor?
A Yes, sir.
Q Do you know the consequences of it if it should be followed through?
A Yes.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Have you taken this matter to the district attorney of Erie County?
A No, sir. I just heard about it just the other day.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What day was that?
A It was Sunday—well, wait, it was Monday I heard about the conservation—
Q Give us the date of the conservation with Meade.
A Meade, that was—let's see, I can't remember the exact date.
Q Well now, it's not hard to remember back last week.
A Oh, no, wait a minute. The conversation with Mr. Meade was prior to Mr. Sullivan getting fired.
Q Wait, let's get the date. Sullivan testified last week, right?
A Yes.
Q Last Wednesday?
A Yes.
Q March 6?
A I don't know what the date was.
Q Well, last Wednesday or Thursday, right?
A Right.
Q The conservation you are talking about you had previous to this time?
A Yes.
Q Now, as a result of that conservation did you contact Schwartz?
A No, sir.
Q Then how do you account for the fact that Schwartz came to you while volunteering this information when he didn't know you talked to Meade or anybody else about it?
A What do you—
Q Just answer the question.
A I don't know.
Q He just came to you out of a clear blue sky, he hadn't talked to you?
A No, sir.
Q What connection do you have with Schwartz now?
A None.
Q Schwartz came to you?
A Yes.
Q Why would he come to you?
A I don't know.
Q Are you on good terms with him?
A Wait. He came to my secretary.
Q When?
A On the day that this broke in the paper.
Q He came to your secretary?
A He called my secretary, yes.
Q He wanted to come to you to accuse Sullivan of taking money?
A Yes.
Q Actually, the original accusation was quite some time age that Sullivan was getting a thousand dollars a week while this was going on; didn't you hear that?
A No, sir.
Q Never heard that before?
A No, sir.
Q Never heard—
A Listen, I heard rumors he had gotten something but as to the thousand dollars a week, I cannot say that.
Q Schwartz came to you to tell you about this matter?
A Yes. He went to my secretary.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Did you ever talk to him personally about it?
A Yes.
Q He contacted your secretary first?
A Yes.
Q By phone?
A By phone.
Q Was it—

A I called Harrisburg first and informed them as to the story and asked them what should I do with it. They said, "You bring down whatever evidence is available and we will evaluate it." That was Monday that I was told that. So I told my secretary to get in touch with Mr. Schwartz because I made it a point not to have anything to do with any person that was connected with this particular bribery scandal. I said, "Get the evidence and bring it in." Mr. Schwartz said, "I can't give the evidence without telling the story." Monday evening Mr. Schwartz came to my house and gave me the full story .

Q Any evidence?
A He didn't give me the evidence.

Q And the story was what?

A The story was he had paid Sullivan bills for rugs, television sets, aerial and tile in his home.

Q Did he tell you when he had made those payments?

A No. I believe the bills he has would probably prove that. He didn't tell me what it was but it was during the time this thing was going on.

Q Did he show you how many bills he had?
A No.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did you call the district attorney?
A No.
Q Why not?
A I was coming down next morning.

Q Didn't you want to go to court to find out what was going on?
A Yes.
Q You didn't notify the district attorney?
A No, sir.
Q You were holding that back for this hearing?
A Not particularly—

Q What do you mean not particularly? You didn't did you?

A I came down here at their request and I talked to the Attorney General.

Q Why did you hold it back? That was last Monday.

A Attorney General McBride said, "Bring it down and we'll appraise it."

Q Appraise what?
A The evidence.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Why should you bring it to the district attorney? Why not bring it to Harrisburg?

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q There was only 24 hours difference, wasn't there, Mayor?

A That happened Monday night. I left Tuesday morning on the plane 8:20 to come down here. I was down here ever since.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q This Hickey, how long has he been employed?
A Nine years.
Q Was he Mayor Flatley's secretary?
A Yes.
Q Good friend of Mr. Schwartz?

A Good friend of Mr. Schwartz? I don't know about that.

Q Are you familiar with the testimony that has already been before this Committee, to the effect that Schwartz would go into the Mayor's office and practically run the City for him?

A No, I am not familiar with that.

Q Are you familiar with the close relationship that existed between Mayor Flatley and Mr. Schwartz?

A Yes, sir.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q One other question. You retained Hickey, of course, did you not?
A Yes.

A I think you said that Mr. Meade said that he got this from a trusted informer, is that right?

A Yes.

Q Did you find out later that this trusted informer was Schwartz?

A I don't know anything about that.

Q You don't know who Meade got that from?
A No, sir.

Q When did you have this conversation with Mr. Meade?

A I don't know the exact date but it was just prior to his leaving the newspaper, whenever Mr. Sullivan left the newspaper that's when this happened.

Q That was quite some time ago?

A Yes, I think he was out of work seven or eight months.

Q Well, he was still the editor-in-chief in 1955?
A Yes.

Q And this conversation you are talking about was how long ago?

A I could say more than eight months ago.

Q Was it before November 14?
A I don't remember that.
Q Was it after November 14, 1955?
A It was prior to Mr. Sullivan being fired.

Q Was Mr. Sullivan fired right after you had the conversation with Meade?

A About a week or so afterwards.

Q So during that time at least, and around August and in November, for quite some few months thereafter, you would have a conservation with Mr. Sullivan at least two or three times a week?

A Yes, sir.
Q And you are still good friends?
A Yes.
Q What caused your friendship to cease?
A Restate the first question.

Q I asked you whether or not Mr. Sullivan was still the editor-in-chief in November of 1955.

A He was.

Q He called you between that time and the time he got fired, six months elapsed?

A Yes.

Q He called you two or three times a week to discuss matters with you?

A Yes.

Q In fact, you talked to him right after the election of 1955, when the Governor called you?

A Yes.

Q You were still good friends?

A Yes.

Q And you discussed many matters with him?

A I wouldn't say we were good friends.

Q At least he called you enough times to discuss matters of import to you and the newspaper?

A The point that I want to make, in politics, no matter what you think about a newspaper editor, you don't express yourself.

Q You are then familiar, as a college professor, with political operations, is that right?

A Well, no. My major was not political operations.

Q I don't mean that. I mean you are familiar enough that you don't trust the editor, talk too much?

A That's right.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Mr. Mayor, did you testify earlier that Mr. Sullivan has been calling you since he was fired, asking you to put him on the payroll?

A Yes, sir.

Q Even though he felt that in his mind you were the one that had him fired from the newspaper?

A Yes. Now, I am only attesting to what his daughter reported to my city treasurer, that she accused me of having him fired from the job, and the city treasurer talked to her about it and he reported back to me.

Q Did Mr. Sullivan and you ever have conversations about what was the cause of him being fired?

A No, sir. This is the first anybody knows that I ever talked to Mr. Meade.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Wait a minute, I'm mixed up.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q You are talking about a daughter. Whose daughter?

A Mr. Sullivan's daughter.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q One other question. When you say when this story broke, you mean the story about Mr. Sullivan's appearance in Harrisburg?

A Yes.

Q Did that story contain Mr. Sullivan's name?

A Yes.

Q It contained also the substance of what Mr. Sullivan testified to as to a conversation with you?

A Yes.

Q Was it after that that Mr. Schwartz called your secretary?

A Yes.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You knew Mr. Carney, did you?

A The lawyer, yes. There are two of them.

Q Ed Carney, I think.

A Yes.

Q Did he come to you and talk to you about the fact that Flatley might be released 11 months and a few days instead of one year?

A I don't recall any conversation like that.

Q Did you talk to Ed Carney quite a lot?

A Yes, Ed Carney and I are friends.

Q If Carney went to the District Attorney, Mr. McLaughlin, and said that he had a conversation with Mr. Sullivan, that the Governor had inquired about whether or not Flatley should be let out, do you think that Carney would be telling the truth?

A He would be attesting to what Mr. Sullivan said?

Q That's right.

A I imagine he would, Mr. Sullivan is a reliable man.

Q I was wondering whether Carney talked to you about it because of the fact he went to McLaughlin and said he know about this conversation.

A No, he never talked to me—

Q That still doesn't refresh your recollection?

A He never talked to me about it.

MR. KOHN: All right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Any further questions of this witness?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No further questions.

(Witness excused)

MR. KOHN: Mr. Sullivan requests an opportunity to take the stand.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think Mr. Sullivan should be given an opportunity to take the stand.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Is there any reason why he should go on before my witnesses?

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, because the time schedule was drafted and redrafted to suit my convenience more than anyone else, an agreement was made that we would conclude after hearing the Mayor. I feel that I am in a position that I must abide by that time schedule. The fact that the accusations are made will give Mr. Sullivan an opportunity to answer next week. But I for one must abide by the time schedule we agreed upon.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: In view of the serious nature of the charges, I think the full Committe should be here.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well. We did have the time factor, and we did agree with the General we would conclude today's hearing with the Mayor of Erie. Because the Pardons Board sits in its regular monthly session next Tuesday and Wednesday, there will be no hearings next week. Accordingly, these hearings are recessed until Wednesday, March 27, at 10 o'clock A. M., with an executive meeting at 9:30 that same morning.

MR. SULLIVAN: Mr. Chairman, I am familiar with the way newspapers operate. I have listened to Mr. Gardner's testimony this afternoon. The additional information that I have I think should be in order right now. I didn't expect my testimony last week to be denied. I have additional estimony, and since new matter has come up—

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Sullivan, you will be given an opportunity to testify, there is no question about that.

MR. SULLIVAN: The only thing is, I would like to have a full period to testify.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The Board of Pardons was here, they wanted to testify, too.

SENATOR SCOTT: I am trying to keep the agreement made with the Attorney General. If he wants to waive it, all right. If you want to proceed according to your understanding—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The Board of Pardons wanted the Lieutenant Governor to testify. We all want to testify. I would be the last on earth to stop Mr. Sullivan from testifying, but there is an orderly way we agreed upon, and I think we should stick to it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We are not going to be the trier of the facts in this particular controversy which has arisen, but I do think that Mr. Sullivan should not be harassed nor distrubed in any respect until after such time he is first permitted to appear here and testify in his own defense.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I missed that statement.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He should not be harassed nor disturbed in connection with these charges until such time as he has an opportunity to appear before this Committee and be heard.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I agree with that thoroughly. Let me say another thing before you finally close.

If any member of this Committee feels that there is a question of fundamental fairness to Mr. Sullivan involved, if any single member says so, I waive all rights and agree that he be heard now.

SENATOR SCOTT: I am bound by an agreement with you which I intend to hold.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If you feel Mr. Sullivan should testify now, I willingly and cheerfully waive that agreement.

SENATOR SCOTT: Then I suggest we leave it up to the Committee to decide whether we should hear Mr. Sullivan now. But I do want you to know, General, that I am perfectly willing to be bound by the agreement we made.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do know it and I appreciate it, but I waive anything at all.

MR. SULLIVAN, recalled:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Make your statement.

A Since my testimony of a week ago, I think it was last Wednesday, it has been denied in Erie by Mayor Gardner. I would like to reiterate that everything I said last week, to the best of my knowledge and recollection, is absolutely correct. However, to make certain that I had not made any mistake, I recalled that among those persons whom I had telephoned after talking to Attorney Edward Carney, counsel for Mr. Flatley, I contacted him last Thursday, that was the day after I testified, I reached him in Florida, and he told me this, that he does remember my telling him by telephone that the Governor had called Gardner relative to Flatley. The reason I called Mr. Carney, after talking to Mr. Gardner, was that he had called many times as a newspaper man, relative to whether or not anything had come over our wires in connection with the application for commutation, Flatley's application for commutation.

I might say I also discussed this with members of my family, my wife—my wife recalls that she called Mrs. Flatley's daughter, Mrs. Helen Shimmer, in Erie, and told her also of this telephone discussion which I had had with the Mayor of Erie, relative to the Governor calling Mr. Gardner to inquire into public opinion. I said, and I repeat, that it was on November 8, it was the day after election, a Wednesday, it struck me that getting this information, at least regarding the Governor calling Mr. Gardner to congratulate him, would appear in the newspaper which I edited. An examination of the Erie Daily Times for November 8, first page, will show that an article did appear that the Governor had called Mr. Gardner that morning.

On the Saturday following election, November election, 1955, there appeared in the Erie Daily Times—

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q When is this?

A Erie Daily Times on the Saturday following the November election, I think the election was on November 7 that year—it appeared on the—

Q Talk louder, please.

A On Saturday following the election in November, 1955, there appears in the Times, in the "Around the Town" column, that is the title, in bold print,—and just before I give the quotation I would like to say in my testimony a week ago on Wednesday, I said that Mr. Gardner had told me that the Governor had called him while he was still in bed that particular morning. I would like to give this quotation: "Mayor Gardner was still in bed Wednesday morning when he received a telephone call from Governor George Leader. The Governor had called to offer congratulations on Gardner's election triumph on Tuesday." That was on Saturday following.

To go back to November 8, that would have been a Thursday, I believe—no, a Wednesday—well, wait just a minute until I marshal my date here. I don't have an exact copy, but a story appeared on the front page of the Times on November 8, which said in substance that there were rumors and reports around the City that Flatley was going to be released, that the recommendation of the Pardons Board had been on the Governor's desk then for approximately a month. I think that I made a contact in Harrisburg through one of the news agencies, and therefore added this, "That when contacted, the Governor would make no comment, but might have something to say at his next press conference."

I have offered to obtain affidavits from persons who I know—

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Will you give us copies of those papers that you have read these excerpts from?

A They have them microfilmed. I was told if this Committee wants them, negatives can be taken from them and reprinted and they would be sent here.

Q We would like very much to have them.

A I have offered, as I said, to have affidavits from my family. I have been told that family affidavits aren't too good as evidence, and so far I have not bothered.

I might say that I have known Mr. Flatley for a long time. I knew him as a County Commissioner when I was covering the court house. I knew him naturally as a Mayor. To my family it was good news when Mayor Gardner told me during the course of that conversation that the Governor had called him to find out about public reaction. I assumed then that it wasn't going to be too long.

I seem to have a very faint recollection, too, that during that same conversation Mayor Gardner told me, "I have also called the other people and they are all right." At that time we had two newspapers in Erie. Since then they have more. The other paper was the Dispatcher.

Q Did you lose your job when the newspaper merged?

A Sir?

Q When the newspapers merged, is that when you became unemployed?

A No, I left before that. I left last May. The merger took place in December.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Mr. Sullivan, on the morning that you received this phone call, did you inform any of your associates on the newspaper that the Mayor had received a call from the Governor congratulating him, and also this other thing which you say was part of the conversation? Or did you keep it to yourself?

A No, I didn't keep it to myself. I might be incorrect about this, but since Mr. Meade's name has been mentioned here—

Q I am not interested particularly in the congratulatory part of it.

A No. I believe I called his secretary and told her of the conversation. I frequently did that. The reason I did was because Mr. George Meade had told me prior to Mr. Flatley's release, we had talked about it. Well, he inquired as to Mr. Flatley's status, and there was some conversation concerning it, when Flatley might get out and so on and so forth. I believe I am absolutely correct in saying that Mr. Meade told me, "Let's get him out,"—

Q After this conversation with the Mayor?

A No, with Mr. Meade.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What did Mr. Meade mean by that remark?

A Well, if we can do anything to help him through the papers—that was my interpretation of it—let's do it.

Q You mean get Flatley out?

A Yes.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Scott suggested the possibility of a lie detector. Would you be willing to submit to it?

A Positively, but I don't necessarily believe they are infallible.

Q But you would be willing to take the lie test?

A I would be willing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May I ask him a couple of questions now?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Sullivan, when you say you got this inquiry from Mayor Gardner inquiring what public sentiment would be, that would be good news item?

A Unless he asked me not to use it.

Q You never testified that he asked you not to use it?

A Mr. Gardner, who, incidentally, is a relative of Mr. Flatley—I don't know how close—and myself did talk about that, I know, about Mr. Flatley's being in jail. I am not positive that he asked me not to use it. But as a newspaper man, I would have used it unless I had been requested not to.

Q You didn't use it, did you?

A The following day, I have just testified.

Q The following day you testified that the Governor called him to congratulate him?

A No, the day after the election he called. But the day after that, a story appeared in the Erie Daily Times—

Q That the Governor called to congratulate Mr. Gardner?

A No, I think you are confused. I would like to clear it up for you. There were two notations in the Times. I think I testified that the one is the Saturday after the election, I read that quotation, it was in what we call the "Around the Town" column.

Q Well, did the paper at any time contain a story to the effect that the Governor of Pennsylvania called Mr. Gardner to ascertain public opinion if Flatley was released?

A No.

Q It didn't?

A No. But we did carry a story based on that information, but not saying that the Governor had called. But we did carry the story saying that there were reports that the release of Mr. Flatley had been indicated. That was carried on the front page.

Q If the Governor called Mr. Gardner to ascertain public opinion, you wouldn't consider that to be improper, would you?

A No. That is the reason I can't understand the fuss that has been raised about it. I might say I was an unwilling witness before this Committee. It was not my intention to testify against Mr. Gardner.

Q Let me ask you this. Since you couldn't consider it improper, why didn't you print it when Mr. Gardner told you that the Governor tested public opinion through him?

A I can only give you my opinion on that, that during the conversation, something was said, to say nothing about it.

Q You didn't tell us that before.

A I don't think I was asked the question.

Q Have you got any floor tile in your home?

A Yes.

Q When did you get it?

A We have had it, I would say, about—bathroom tile?

Q Floor tile.

A Yes, bathroom tile. About three years ago, 2 to 3 years ago.

Q Would that be during the time when this money was being illegally collected?

A I don't know.

Q Have you got a television?

A Yes.

Q Have you got a special antenna for long-range television?

A No, sir.

Q Have you got any—

A We had a television antenna, yes, but not—

Q When did you get your television?

A Well, on my birthday, December 23, I guess, 1955.

Q Money was being collected right around that time, wasn't it?

A I wouldn't know, I have no knowledge of money being collected.

Q Now, did you get some rugs right around the same time?

A Mr. McBride, I would like to explain this. We had—

Q Can't you answer a simple question, and then explain?

A What was the question?

Q The question is, did you get any rugs just around that time, too?

A We got no rugs. We got carpeting. I can explain that.

Q Let me ask—

A You said I could explain this.

Q Sure you can.

A I don't think you ought to browbeat me.

Q Go ahead.

A During this particular time, we were having a door in our living room closed and a bookcase built in. We were having a door which would lead to a hall which leads to our bedrooms opened from our dining room—in other words, we were getting a door out and putting in a bookcase. It was sort of an involved job, it took longer than we had expected. We decided that we would like to have wall-to-wall carpeting and have the bathroom tiled—a very cheap tile, incidentally, rubber type. My wife and my daughter went to a place called Stanley Brothers and purchased the carpeting, and went to a place called the Rose Rug Company in Erie, and purchased the tile.

Q Have you finished?

A Yes.

Q Was Mayor Gardner ever in your home?

A I believe not.

Q Any reason he would know that you had tile, or a television, or rugs, particularly the first two, unless somebody told him?

A Well, he might know if it of his own knowledge unless sobebody told him, that's correct.

Q When you same back here, you didn't take the trouble to deny that you got any money from Mr. Schwartz. Did you ever get any money from Mr. Schwartz?

A Absolutely no.

Q Never.

A Never.

Q Not a penny?

A Under any circumstances.

Q Would you take a lie detector test on that, too, would you?

A Yes, sir.

Q Did Schwartz pay for any of these items?

A Not to my knowelge.

Q Who did pay for them?

A After Mr. Schwartz went to prison—well, even before that we had a charge account at Stanley Brothers.

Q Did you pay for the television set?

A Yes, the television set was charged to us, with the exception that a friend paid $100.

Q Who is the friend?

A Mayor Flatley.

Q Who paid for the floor tile?

A We did, to the best of my knowledge. We are still paying as far as I am concerned.

Q To the best of your knowledge? Well, you would know, wouldn't you?

A I didn't get your question.

Q You say to the best of your knowledge, you did, that is, "we did," you said?

A Yes.

Q Pay for the floor tile?

A Yes.

Q How much did these items come to?

A Well, I don't know altogether. I have a bill in my pocket I just got from Stanley Company, which still carries a balance. We have been paying for it ever since.

Q Why didn't Mayor Flatley pay?

A I think it was, it was merely a suggestion, he told me about it afterwards.

Q You mean he paid it unknown to you?

A Yes, he did.

Q Anybody else pay anything unknown to you?

A No, sir.

Q He is the only one?

A Yes.

Q Schwartz didn't directly or indirectly pay a quarter?

A No. In fact, he couldn't have. I have a bill here dated March 7, 1957, which I have just received within the past week—and we still owe a balance of $145.36.

Q To whom?

A Stanley Brothers Furniture Company.

Q Is that Schwartz's company?

A Mr. Schwartz formerly worked for Stanley Brothers.

Q Isn't it his company?

A Oh, no.

Q Has he any interest in it?

A No.

Q Schwartz hasn't?

A No.

Q Did he ever have?

A (No answer)

Q Did he ever have an interest in this company at the time you contracted this bill?

A No, only a salesman.

Q When was the last payment you made?

A I would have to check our accounts, but I think it was just before I came to Harrisburg.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all.

THE WITNESS: I would like to clarify that.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Go ahead.

A I think Dr. Shubert, who is Health Director in Erie, he is part owner.

Q Who are the other owners?
A I am not too sure.
Q Wasn't Schwartz a salesman?
A He was salesman.
Q But you didn't take this matter up with Mr. Schwartz?
A Take what matter up?
Q Anything you purchased from Stanley Brothers.
A My wife did, she went down and—
Q And took it up with Mr. Schwartz?
A Well, he was the salesman who sold my wife and daughter the rugs, the carpeting.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think that is all.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You said, I think, that you wrote this article that you identified that is in the Board's files?
A Yes.
Q Was it after or before that you received $100 payment on account of your bill?
A Let's see. Mr. Flatley was still Mayor of Erie.
Q No, he was in jail at this time—let's get that—
A Well, it was before then.
Q Was he still in jail during that time?
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He said before he went to jail.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Before he went to jail? Was he under indictment?
A No. Mr. Flatley was the Mayor of Erie, and apparently as a gesture, or gift, or whatever it was, he made this $100 payment.
MR. KOHN: That is what I wanted to get.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q While the bribe money was being collected?
A I didn't say that.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Did he make that payment to you or directly to the store?
A I think directly to the store.
Q You don't know?
A He must have.
Q He didn't give it to you?
A No, sir.
Q How did you become aware of the fact that $100 had been paid on it?
A He told me, afterwards.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Was it your editorial policy previous to this time to support the Flatley regime? You had always been with them, had you not?
A Well, not necessarily. Mr. Flatley was a personal friend of mine.
Q Did you support him personally?
A Yes.
Q You stated something about rumor being around that the commutation was lying on the Governor's desk about a month. Did you say that in answer to McBride?
A Yes, I had that information. I think I obtained that by ordering one of the news services which we had in Harrisburg.

MR. KOHN: I would like to read in evidence the notes of the official minutes, Executive Session of October 10, 1955:

"Executive Session to discuss cases from 1 to 12, inclusive, and 132 to 163, inclusive, was held on October 10, 1955, at 12 o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, in the office of the Board of Pardons. Following unanimous action was taken: Case No. 135, Thomas W. Flatley, granted, as of one year. Mr. Cohen voted no."

Could I call your attention to the special Executive Session which was held in the Board of Pardons November 14, 1955. Mr. Furman was the only member absent.

"Cases marked above were considered as well as the following:"—and below there are four cases listed.

Then comes this notation:

"At this time members present agreed to set the expiration date as of December 15, 1955, for the following: No. 132, September Session, Domenic Adiatori; 133, September Session, Ray Sullsovich; 135, Thomas W. Flatley. Change was made on the charters and Mr. Furman was so advised."

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, that is precisely the information, and that is the book I was talking about that we were going to produce in an orderly fashion by calling the members of the Board. I suggest that that is the best way to do it.
MR. KOHN: Mr. McBride, I don't think I have to abide by what you intend to produce.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I know.
MR. KOHN: I think I have a right to prove the date of that particular action and in relation to this particular testimony.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Please don't take me off by feet. I am just saying to the Committee that we agreed to hear this one witness through fairness. I told you this morning and told Mr. Cohen that we were going to produce this, and we were going to have the Board of Pardons explain this in an orderly fashion and back it up with their document.
SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Sullivan has to be heard on reasons that were brought out here this afternoon. We gave him that right to be heard and I don't think there is anything else.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Sullivan, I think you testified you never got money or goods that might have been purchased for you or your home, or otherwise, from Mr. Schwartz; is that right?
A That's correct.
Q Did you get any money or any goods in the form of furnishings or anything else from any of the other 18 defendants, or anybody connected with them?
A No, sir.
Q Did you know when you were with the papers that the rackets were operating?
A I found it out for the first time—oh, I don't mind telling you this. I heard that the District Attorney was working on something important and I called Mr. Johnson, Assistant District Attorney at that time. I called him and asked him if he would stop in my office. He did.

This might have been—oh, maybe a month before the arrest actually took place. He said they were working on something, and after considerable talking he wouldn't say exactly what they were. I had the idea it might have something to do with dope. He said he doubted it. He did say when it was ready, that I would receive the information.

Q Mr. Sullivan, isn't it generally known in the community when rackets are operating?

A Well, I don't play numbers.

Q I didn't ask you whether you played. I asked you whether you knew whether the rackets were operating in the City of Erie.

A I had heard stories that you could buy numbers in Erie, that you could probably buy liquor on Sundays if you knew the right places, that you could place a bet on a horse. But I had no definite knowledge that it was taking place.

Q As a newspaper man, did you ever write a story, or did you ever attempt to find out for your own personal knowledge so that you could write a story, on whether or not rackets were operating in Erie?

A I think that many times during my career I tried to find out about what was going on in Erie, racket-wise, yes. I didn't receive any information on which you could put your finger on it.

Q I am talking about during the period the rackets were operating, where the defendants who were raided subsequently went to jail and are now the subject of Pardons Board hearings. I am talking about that period.

A No.

Q You never wrote any stories about it?

A I was positively shocked when I discovered that the Mayor was about to be arrested.

Q I am not talking about whether the Mayor was connected with it or not. Did you know that the rackets were operating?

A Well, no. I couldn't say that I knew that they were.

Q You live in the City of Erie, though?

A Yes.

Q And you never wrote any stories about their operation?

A I don't think I did. I may have. I am not sure.

SENATOR YOSKO: All right.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Do you know whether Flatley made the payment of $100 on your television set before the time that he spoke of the exposure on the graft charges?

A Yes. Up to that point he was the Mayor of the City of Erie—

Q I mean was that payment made prior to the time of the exposure of the graft cases?

A Yes.

BY SENATOR YORKO:

Q When you were told by Mr. Flatley that he paid the $100, did you ask him why he paid it?

A Just a gesture, I remember him saying it. It could have been a Christmas gift. I got the television set as a birthday gift from my wife and children.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Sullivan, did you have any knowledge or means of suspecting that that money came from the graft money?

A Positively not.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Is it usual for politicians to give editors of newspapers $100 without explaining what they give it to them for?

A Well, he asked for nothing in return. If he had, he wouldn't have received it, I would have refused it. He didn't give me $100. He made a payment.

Q But it advantaged you to the extent of $100?

A Yes.

Q There was no reason for him to do it?

A Perhaps I handled Mr. Flatley's publicity when he ran for Mayor.

Q Did you get paid for that?

A Yes.

Q But was that just out of a clear blue sky when he went to the place and paid $100 on account of your indebtedness?

A Yes, or arranged to have it paid.

Q How did he know you were buying a television, how did he know to go there and pay it?

A The only way I know is that he probably had knowledge through Mr. Schwartz.

Q How did Mr. Schwartz know?

A He worked for Stanley Brothers.

Q Mr. Schwartz told Mr. Flatley that you were buying some material at Stanley Brothers, and that moved Flatley to put up $100 on your account?

A Not that I was buying it. I didn't even know it was bought. My wife had bought it as a surprise birthday gift.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q You testified that you could see nothing wrong about such telephone conversation, if there was one, is that right?

A That's right.

Q What prompted you to appear as a witness to tell this story if there was nothing wrong with it?

A Two or three weeks ago I was talking with District Attorney Johnson and I asked him in a casual way, I said—well, we brought up the subject of the investigation—"Do you think anything will come of it? Do you think you are going to be able to do anything or show anything?" We went on from there, and I repeated to him that the only thing I know about it, I said I don't think it would mean one thing one way or another, is that the Governor did call Mayor Gardner to find out what public opinion would be. Then I was summoned—not summoned, excuse me. I was called to where the Committee room was, and asked about that, and I said I did not want to become involved.

Q Called by whom, sir?

A I think Herb might have told Mr. Kohn. That is why I say I was an unwilling witness.

Q At the time you testified here the other day, were you testifying to something that you thought was wrong and have changed your mind since, or didin't you think it was wrong at that time?

A When I said I didn't want to testify, I was told, "Well, you will probably be served with a subpena." I didn't think anything more about it.

Q As of now then, if there was such a telephone call, you don't think it was wrong—

A You mean by the Governor?

Q Yes.

A. No. I think if I were the Governor, I might have made the same kind of call.

Q So actually, in your opinion, your testimony so far as this Committee is concerned, amounted to nothing other than a newspaper headline, is that right?

A Well, I think I will leave that up to the Committee.

Q I am asking your opinion. Since you say and admit that there is nothing wrong, doesn't it amount to merely a headline because there is nothing wrong with it?

A I don't think—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think the Committee has the testimony. We can evaluate it.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What was your political affiliations when you were with the paper?

A My own personal—

Q Yes.

A Republican.

Q But you did publicity for Flatley?

A Yes.

Q Flatley was a Democrat?

A Yes. I did all kinds of publicity in a professional way.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Let's inquire into that a little more. Did you accept compensation from the Mayor in addition to your salary as editor for the publicity?

A When the Mayor was running, yes.

Q Was that for publicity—

A When he was running for County Commissioner, too.

Q Was that for publicity in the news columns of your papers or paid ads?

A My advice was sought for, and if I recall correctly, I did some speech writing—not only for Mr. Flatley but various other persons.

Q Were you paid anything for your editorial comments in the paper?

A No, sir.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q How much did Flatley pay you for handling his campaign?

A Various sums, I don't recall the total. It wasn't so much per week or anything like that.

Q What would the total amount to approximately during the campaign?

A Well now, during what? A whole year?

Q You run for about 3 months, 4 months.

A Sir?

Q For the period of the campaign, from the time he engaged you until the campaign was over.

A Maybe a couple of hundred dollars, but not in specific amounts.

Q The total would be a couple of hundred dollars?

A Approximately, yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: There being no further questions, we will now recess until March 27, at 10 A.M.

(Hearing adjourned until 10 A.M., March 27, 1957.)

I hereby certify that the proceedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee to conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and this is a correct transcript of the same.

TO CONDUCT AN INVESTIGATION OF THE BOARD OF PARDONS, PURUSANT TO HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 1, PRINTER'S No. 8

Stenographic report of hearing held in Senate Caucus Room, Main Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, at 10:00 a.m., Wednesday, March 27, 1957.

PRESENT:

REPRESENTATIVE EDWIN W. TOMPKINS, Chairman.

REPRESENTATIVE CLARENCE D. BELL.

REPRESENTATIVE PHILIP LOPRESTI.

SENATOR ROBERT D. FLEMING.

SENATOR WILLIAM Z. SCOTT.

SENATOR JOSEPH J. YOSKO.
Members of Committee.

APPEARANCES:

THOMAS D. McBRIDE, ESQUIRE, Attorney General, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Board of Pardons.

VICTOR H. WRIGHT, ESQUIRE, Deputy Attorney General Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Board of Pardons.

DAVID S. KOHN, ESQUIRE, 9 N, Front Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

JAMES WILLIAM EVANS, ESQUIRE, 5 N. Front Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Committee (Assisting Counsel).

JAMES G. ARNOLD, ESQUIRE, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Committee (Assisting Counsel).

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The hour of ten having arrived, this committee will come to order.

At our last hearing we were dwelling upon some Erie County matters and several witnesses who were before this committee. We see no further purpose in deliberating with these witnesses or with matters that do not concern this investigation. However, there were certain issues raised at that time which the committee said it would take under advisement, and I have here a prepared statement in connection with those issues.

On Wednesday, March 13, 1957, a question was directed by the Honorable Clarence D. Bell, a member of this committee, to two witnesses, Arthur J. Gardner and Harold J. Sullivan, whether or not they would submit to lie detector tests in connection with conflicting and diametrically opposed testimony which they gave under oath before the committee. It was stated at that time the committee would take this matter under advisement.

The committee is of the unanimous opinion they have no legal authority to compel any such submission. Should the witnesses care to voluntarily submit to such tests, that is their privilege and they may file any results thereof with this committee.

On page 894 of the testimony, we find

TOMPKINS: Are we trying to impugn Mr. Sullivan's testimony here?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Sure.

On page 914 of the testimony we find.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Sullivan was a witness, and Mr. Sullivan's credibility is before the committee—whether he has motives or doesn't.

Because of the position taken by the Attorney General in this matter, it becomes impossible to certify the question "Was there perjury committed before the committee, and by whom?" to the Department of Justice for impartial consideration. However, to maintain and preserve inviolate the prerogatives and authority of a duly constituted legislative committee and operating as a coordinate branch of the government of the Commonwealth, this record will be certified to the District Attorney of Dauphin County for further attention.

Other matters charging participation in the benefits of bribe money in Erie County, Pennsylvania, will be certified to the District Attorney of that county.

We hereby serve notice this committee will not tolerate witnesses who take lightly their testimony under oath.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, may I say that I join with you in certifying the record to the District Attorney of Dauphin County. I think that that was the more proper place to defer such a question than to the Attorney General in any event.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Of course, we have always felt that the Attorney General's Department serviced the Legislature as well as the Administration.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do not feel it is conflicting but I feel that I could act impartially, but I am delighted that you refer to the district attorney anyway because he usually handles criminal prosecutions and I would probably end up asking him as I have in other matters. I have implicit confidence in him and I think the committee does, too.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now General, you may produce your winesses if you are prepared to proceed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Thank you.

Mr. Furman?

BOARD'S EVIDENCE

MR. ROY E. FURMAN, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Furman, you are the Lieutenant-Governor of the Commonwealth?

A Yes sir.

Q And as such under the Constitution you are the Chairman of the Board of Pardons?

A Yes sir.

Q How long have you been sitting as a Member of the Board of Pardons?

A Our first meeting was February, 1955 at which I was a member.

Q Have you attended every meeting since?

A Yes sir.

Q Do you keep any record as to the time consumed during the open hearings in the Supreme Court chamber in the Capitol Building?

A Yes sir. I have made a practice to mark the time that the hearing started and the time that the hearings closed. I may have missed now and then but generally—

Q As to each application, have you kept a record of the beginning and the end of the hearing on that application?

A That is correct.

Q Are you familiar with the fact that the rules of the Board of Pardons allow fifteen minutes for each side in non-capital cases and thirty minutes for capital cases?

A Yes sir.

Q Now I ask you, Mr. Furman, in any hearing over which you presided, has any person no matter who that person might be, been denied the right to speak?

A No person has ever been denied. Every person who wanted to appear on a case was permitted to appear and had the time which they desired.

Q Was there anybody ever held down to fifteen minutes?

A No.

Q Was any person ever held down to any particular time or did each person have the full right to speak as long as he or she wished?

A Every person has had the right to speak as long as they desired and there have been times when the attorney in the case would have some other person who was not listed and they would ask if we would permit them to come up and speak on the case. And we have never denied that right, either.

Q Did you preside the day the Members of the Legislative Committee visited as guests of the Board of Pardons?

A Yes sir.

Q Was there any extended hearing on that day?

A There was. And we are sorry that the Members of the Board did not stay a little bit longer because we had a case there that was a very important case, and it lasted for a long time. We were sorry that the cases that were presented while they were there were rather short. I think they observed that no one was denied the right to say what he wanted to say at those hearings.

Q How long was that one case?

A I do not have my book here, but I think it was more than and hour. I don't have the book. That was in February. I could tell you exactly what it was.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Was that a capital case, Governor?

A No, it was not a capital case.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Was it the case of Willie Green?

A That was the case.

Q Of Philadephia?

A Yes.

Q That was the case of a man who was contending that he was innocent even though imprisoned for ten or eleven years?

A That is correct.

Q Now Mr. Furman, has the Board of Pardons directed through you as its chairman that there be prepared by Mr. Hean, a comparison of the number of persons released by the Board during the two years of the present term and the two years preceding the present Board.

A Yes, the Board has directed the Secretary to make such a report.

Q Do you have such a report?

A Yes, I have a copy certified to by Frank R. Hean, the Secretary.

Q Is that a comparison during the years 1953 and 1954 as against the period 1955 and 1956?

A That is correct.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I wonder if I might say to the Board that in putting this in it is not at all intended to indicate that the previous Board did anything wrong. To determine that, you would have to inquire into a lot of other things. We are only putting this in for the purpose of comparison to show whether or not this Board was unusually lenient. We do not intend it to be a reflection of the last Board or any other board.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, in that connection may I inquire is this a copy of the same report which the Governor transmits to the General Assembly?

THE WITNESS: I think the report that the Governor transmits to the General Assembly covers each case separately.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is right.

THE WITNESS: The same computation could be made from that report as I have here in my hand.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q This report should correspond to that submitted by the Governor?

A They should be absolutely the same.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Furman, could you tell us generally what the report contains as to the type of cases and actions taken?

A This report includes the years 1953, 1954, 1955 and 1956. It lists by months the number of cases that we heard; the number of applications that we acted favorably upon. It lists them, for instance, murder in the first degree; other cases, capital cases, pardons and "p.v.", whether there was a parole violator; the subsequent history of the person released. Then the last column is the summary.

Q Mr. Furman, referring to that report, will you please inform this committe as to the year 1953 giving the total number of cases heard, the total number granted and the percentage that the total number granted bears to the total number of cases heard?

A In 1953, the total cases heard were 1,083. The total granted was 316. The percentage, 29.18.

Q Now on the list for 1953, that represents a composite total of the month by month and individual statement as to whether they were commutations, capital cases, and so forth for that whole year?

A That is correct.

Q Now will you turn to the year 1954?

A In 1954 the total cases heard were 1,281; the total granted was 451; the percentage was 35.20.

Q Both of those were by the previous Board, weren't they?

A That is correct.

Q Now as to the present Board, commencing with February, 1955?

A In 1955 the total cases heard were 978; the total granted were 205; the percentage was 20.09.

Q Then in 1956?

A In 1956 the total cases heard were 1,067; the total granted were 137; the percentage was 12.55.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Governor Furman, do you have it broken down by months in the year of 1956?

A We have it broken down by months for all four years.

Q May I have it for the month of December, 1956?

A December 1956, there were 100 cases heard and ten were granted.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Ten per cent?

A Yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General, is this going to be marked as an exhibit and submitted for the record?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes sir. I have finished the oral interrogation. I want it to be marked as an exhibit.

Four page document purporting to be a compilation of cases before the Board, January 1953 through December 1956—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Board of Pardons' Exhibit No. 23. AJP 3/27/57.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: May I ask one question at this point, General?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Sure.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Does this compilation take in only those cases on which the Governor acted upon or does it also take in the cases in which the Board recommended and some cases which the Governor may not have acted upon?

A That has not happened in the period of time that I sat on the Board. I will have to ask the Secretary how those were listed.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We understand that during Governor Fine's administration there were several that were recommended by the Board which the Governor refused to follow through on the recommendation of the Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am informed that it does not include the term of Governor Fine and those which he declined to follow the recommendations of the Board.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now Mr. Furman, did you also as Chairman of the Board of Pardons, and at the direction of the Board of Pardons, cause a compilation to be made of the number of re-hearings that were allowed?

A Yes sir.

Q During the comparable period of 1953 and 1955 under the one Board and 1955 and 1956 under the present Board?

A Yes sir.

Q Will you tell us the number of re-hearings allowed during the year 1953?

A In 1953, twenty-one were granted and thirty-one were refused.

Q In 1954?

A In 1954, fifty-eight were granted and fifty-eight were refused.

Q In 1955?

A Twenty-six were granted and sixty-eight were refused.

Q 1956?

A Twelve were granted and twenty-five were refused.

Q Has that been worked out on a percentage basis?

A No, I do not have that on a percentage basis.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did I understand, Governor, that in 1954 they refused all of the applications?

A No. Fifty-eight were granted and fifty-eight were refused.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I see.

MR. KOHN: One hundred sixteen altogether?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now since the 1955 record of re-hearings is an increase over 1956, what is the explanation of that?

A Well, I'll tell you. When this Board first started to sit, there were quite a number of applications coming in for re-hearings, and we decided that we should adopt a rule and enforce the rule a little more strictly. And in the case of a re-hearing there should be some special circumstance, new evidence or something that would warrant another hearing of the case and where it was taking too much time to hear a case one month and in a couple of months have an application for a re-hearing. That is the reason for so many of our refusals. And we have enforced that rule. That is the reason there are fewer granted and more refused.

Q When an application comes before the Board for a re-hearing, how many votes are required to have a re-hearing granted?

A Two votes will grant them a re-hearing.

Q But is it correct that only three will grant the application on its merits?

A Oh sure, there must be three.

Q Have you, as Chairman of the Board of Pardons, and at the direction of the Board of Pardons, had a compilation of the number of times the Board, the present Board, disagreed with recommendations of trial judges?

A Well—

Q I don't know whether you have it there?

A I may have it. Here it is.

Q Is that a list containing the recommendations of judges and district attorneys for 337 pardons and commutations granted by the Pennsylvania Boad of Pardons, February 1, 1955 to December 31, 1956?

A I did not get that number.

Q Three hundred and thirty-seven pardons and commutations. I am reading from the top of the page. It would appear, Mr. Furman, that these are two difierent documents. The one is from January 1953 to December 1954 and the one I read was from February 1, 1955 to December 31, 1956.

A I have copies now.

Q Do you have both of them?

A Yes.

Q I will re-phrase the question that I asked, and ask you now, does the first of those two documents show the recommendations of judges and district attorneys for 767 pardons and commutations granted by the Pennsylvania Board of Pardons from January 1953 to December 1954?

A Yes sir.

Q Using that document, will you inform the committee as to the number of cases in which the judges and district attorneys recommended the same action?

A The number was 143. They either recommended or neither commented or replied.

Q That is the same action as the Board itself took?

A I am not sure that it is the same action that the Board took, but I am sure that the recommendation of the judge and the district attorney was identical.

Q Now, in how many cases among that number was there opposition?

A Thirty-nine cases out of 143.

Q In how many cases was there neither opposition nor objection?

A There were forty-three and that could also include recommendations.

Q In how many were the judges and district attorneys willing to rely on the Board?

A There were twenty-eight that they were willing to rely on the Board, and many times there were qualified answers such as would rely on medical reports.

Q In how many were there no comment or no reply?

A Thirty-three.

Q Now, I should like to have you tell the Board the cases in which the judges and district attorneys themselves disagreed in their recommendations, as to the number of cases in which there was disagreement between them out of a total of 767 cases. In how many did the judge and district attorney disagree?

A Five hundred and ninety-four.

Q Among those 767 in how many was the judge opposed?

A One hundred and fifteen.

Q In how many was the district attorney opposed?

A One hundred and thirty-five.

Q Among those 767 cases in how many did the judge neither oppose nor object?

A One hundred and four.

Q In how many such cases was there a recommendation of the district attorney that was neither opposed or no objection?

A Three hundred and thirty-four.

Q In how many of those cases did the judge say he was willing to rely on the Board?

A Ninety-nine.

Q In how many cases did the district attorney say he was willing to rely on the Board?

A Fifty-eight.

Q In how many cases of those 767 did the Board fail to receive any comment or reply from the judge?

A Two hundred and seventy-six.

Q In how many did they fail to receive a reply from the district attorney?

A Sixty-seven.

Q Now in cases in which more than one judge participated, in how many cases was there a recommendation from judges where there was a plurality of judges?

A Thirty.

Q In how many cases did they receive recommendations from the district attorney in addition to that of the judges?

A Same number.

Q The same number?

A Thirty.

Q That is in those cases where more than one judge sat, the judges and the district attorney alike commented upon all?

A Yes.

Q In how many cases did the judges oppose?

A Eleven.

Q In how many cases did the district attorney oppose?

A Fourteen.

Q In how many cases did the judges render no opposition or objection?

A Fifteen.

Q In how many such cases did the district attorney render no opposition or objection?

A Sixteen.

Q In how many such cases did the judges state their willingness to rely on the Board?

A Seven.

Q In how many such cases did the district attorneys state their willingness to rely on the Board?

A Eight.

Q In how many such cases was there no comment or reply from the judges?

A Twenty-seven.

Q In how many such cases were there no recommendations or replies from the district attorney?

A Twenty-one.

Q Now will you turn to the recommendation of judges and district attorneys covering 337 pardons and commutations granted by the Pennsylvania Board of Pardons from February 1, 1955 to December 31, 1956.

In how many cases were there, of that lot, where the judge and district attorney recommended the same action?

A There were seventy-eight cases.

Q In how many cases did the Board act contrary to the opinion of the judges and district attorneys?

A I do not have that recorded.

Q Don't you have it right there? Isn't it eighteen?

A Yes, eighten were opposed, that's correct. I'm sorry.

Q Eighteen out of 337 cases were granted over the opposition of the judges and the district attorneys?

A Just a minute until I see.

(Discussion off the record.)

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, let's go back to the seventy-eight figure. The seventy-eight figure are the cases in which both the judges and district attorney recomended the same action?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q Seventy-eight?

A That is correct.

Q Now, there were eighteen in which the judge and district attorney opposed the action taken?

A That is correct.

Q Well, that is eighteen out of 337?

A Yes.

Q Now, how many cases were there in which a judge and district attorney were neither opposed or had no objections?

A Forty-four.

Q In how many cases did they express themselves as being willing to rely on the Board?

A Eleven.

Q In how many cases did the Board receive no comment or reply?

A Five.

Q Now, in how many cases out of 337 were there in which the judge disagreed in their recommendations?

A Two hundred and thirty-seven.

Q Now as to the cases where they disagreed in how many cases did the judge oppose?

A Twenty-eight.

Q There were twenty-eight in which the judge opposed. In how many did the district attorney oppose?

A Forty-three.

Q In how many cases did the judge register neither opposition nor objection?

A Forty-five.

Q In how many cases did the district attorney register neither objection nor opposition?

A One hundred and sixty.

Q In how many cases did the judges state that they were willing to rely on the Board?

A Sixty-two.

Q In how many cases did the district attorneys state they were willing to rely on the Board?

A Fourteen.

Q In how many cases was there no recommendation, no comment or no reply from the judge?

A One hundred and two.

Q In how many such cases was there no comment nor reply from the district attorney?

A Twenty.

Q Now the final category in that group, cases in which more than one judge participated. In how many cases were there recommendations where more than one judge participated where you received a recommendation, whatever it was, from the judge and the district attorney?

A Twenty-two.

Q Of those cases, in how many were the judges opposed?

A Seven.

Q In how many such cases was the district attorney opposed?

A Two.

Q In how many such cases were the judges neither opposed nor did they register any objections?

A Nineteen.

Q In how many such cases did the district attorney neither oppose nor offer objection?

A Fourteen.

Q In how many such cases did the judges state their willingness to rely on the Board?

A Nine.

Q In how many such cases did the district attorney state his willingness to rely on the Board?

A Five.

Q In how many cases did the judges make no comment or reply?

A Eight.

Q In how many such cases did the district attorney make no comment or reply?

A Three.

Q Now to go back for just one second where we state that out of the entire list of 337 pardons and commutations granted by this Board, and you having stated that eighteen were granted over the opposition of the judges and district attorney, how many out of that eighteen were cases with qualified opposition?

MR. KOHN: What do you mean by that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I thought the Lieutenant-Governor would explain it, but I will ask him. That is suggestions that prisoners should serve a minimum sentence or that consideration is premature and whether even the objection was later removed.

THE WITNESS: I don't quite get your question, General.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q If you will refer to the footnote, I think it will indicate the answer.

A That is correct: "(1) Including ten cases of qualified opposition—suggestions that prisoners should serve minimum sentence, that consideration is premature. In one case objection was later removed."

Q It would appear that out of the 337 pardons and commutations there was outright an unqualified objection by judges and district attorneys in eight cases.

A That is correct.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Governor, on that last question, you referred to the 337 pardons and commutations granted between February 1, 1955 and December 31, 1956. Do you have similar information in connection with the period January 1953 to December 1954, as to the number of commutations granted over what the General has called qualified opposition?

A In that period those cases in which the judges and district attorney recommended the same action, there were 143 cases and 39 were opposed, including cases of qualified opposition, "suggestions that prisoners should serve minimum sentence, that consideration is premature, and so forth." It doesn't give the number. We have "ten" here.

Q You have no information as to the number which the Board granted over what was considered qualified opposition?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We don't have it on this chart. If the Board would like us to get it, we would be glad to supplement with that information. I myself had not noticed it and I think it might be significant, in fairness to the other Board, that we note in footnote (1) as to the commutations and pardons for 1953 and 1954, that this figure does include cases of qualified opposition. See, none of it is either black or white.

Sometimes they say they are unqualified and sometimes they say, I think you ought to do a couple more months.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I wanted to get the same category for the period of 1953 and 1954 as you have given it to us for 1955 and 1956.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The number of qualified oppositions? I think we will be delighted to give it to you.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, as I understand it, the question here concerns cases in which the Pardon Board recommended commutation or pardon over what was considered qualified opposition.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, that's right. The total number of cases that we have shown you here in opposition was eighteen. Of those eighteen, ten were qualified opposition of various kinds. We have shown that the next preceding thirty-nine cases were cases with opposition and we do not include the number, but I should think that it would not be roughly disproportionate to what we say here respecting the present Board. I don't have the actual figure.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What I am getting at, General, is this: I would like to have submitted to this committee the names of those ten cases in which the Board granted commutation or pardon over the qualified opposition of judges and district attorneys.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Oh, you want the names of the cases?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I want to get the names of those ten cases that were granted by the Board over the opposition of the judges and the district attorney.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right, fine.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Governor, if there is any mistake in these figures, would that mistake have been made by Mr. Hean?

A Yes, there was someone in the office who prepared these.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: What mistake?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I say if there is a mistake; in other words, it is not your mistake?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I would consider it was an omission, certainly not intentional.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q These were not prepared by you, Governor?

A No. No, these were prepared at the direction of the Board, by the staff.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But any additional information that the committe wants, we have a duty to supply it, apart from the fact that we would like to supply it.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Did you sit on the local Erie County cases, Governor?

A Yes, sir.

Q Do you know anything in the handling of those cases by the Board of Pardons that was improper or dictated by political considerations?

A I do not.

Q Were you present at the hearing at which a letter was produced from the folder of the Board of Pardons indicating that Edward A. Carney talked both with you and Frank Hean about the re-submission of the petition for commutation of John J. Martin?

A I was at that hearing and heard the letter read.

Q Now, tell the committee what your recollection is as to the correctness of that aspect of the letter.

A It must be correct because the letter states that Mr. Carney talked with me. One thing I do know is that there was no conference with Mr. Carney, Mr. Hean and myself. I am sure, from hearing the letter read, that Mr. Carney came into my office to ask about re-submitting the case. And I am sure that I told him the procedure and then referred him to the Secretary of the Board to get the proper forms and also to be advised concerning the proper procedure.

Q But it says that he talked with both you and Mr. Hean.

A Well, not—

Q Did he talk with the two of you together?

A No sir; I am sure of that.

Q Was there anything discussed by you with Mr. Carney as to the merits of the case?

A No, only procedure that I recall.

Q Now, did you participate in the hearing on the Erie County cases?

A Yes sir.

Q Are you familiar with the sequence of the applications, the hearings, and how it came about that the recommendation contained changes on it so as to permit these men out for Christmas?

A I think I can give you that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Are those the ones upon which erasures appeared on the face of the document?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, both on the recommendation that was sent to the Governor and the warrant later signed by the Governor.

THE WITNESS: What is the number of those cases?

MR. KOHN: What would you like to have?

THE WITNESS: I think you are asking about the June hearing first.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Yes, starting with the June hearing.

A Flatley's case was not heard at that time.

MR. EVANS: I don't believe we have that in that order, but I can read them off to you, as to what you have in mind, one at a time.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Not all of them, but we want to generalize about them.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What is the number on the Martin case?

MR. EVANS: A-3103 is Martin.

THE WITNESS: We have them according to the number listed on the calendar.

I have Martin here.

MR. EVANS: I can give them to you. Martin is June 1955 Sessions, 104.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What about Flatley?

MR. EVANS: Flatley, 135 September Sessions, 1955.

(Discussion off the record.)

THE WITNESS: The first hearings on those cases from Erie were in June. "Board of Pardons, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, convened on Friday, June 24, 1955, at 9:20 a.m., Daylight Saving Time in the Supreme Court room and the first applications from Erie were heard at that time. They were not acted upon. There was an executive session to discuss cases 99 to 146 which concluded the hearings of that day. It was held on Wednesday, July 6, 1955, at 12:30 p.m., Daylight Saving Time in the office of the Board of Pardons."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q May I ask a question here? Are you reading from the minutes made up by the Secretary?

A Minutes prepared by the Secretary, yes.

MR. KOHN: Thank you.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Governor, do you have a list of all the cases that went before the Board in June, 1955? Are the Erie County cases listed:

A I have most of them here. We may have missed two or three, but I have most of these cases.

MR. KOHN: They were heard at different times. Some were heard later.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I just wondered how many were heard in June, 1955, and those heard subsequently.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q The first were heard in June, were they not?

A They were heard on the 24th day of June. I have twelve of them. I think that is the total number. I don't have my calendar here.

Q Now, go on and tell the committee what occurred at those hearings and at the executive session?

A At those hearings the District Attorney of Erie County appeared and made certain recommendations. I think they all had their attorneys there pleading their cases for them. We heard them on the 24th of June; we acted on them on the 6th of July in executive session, those particular cases.

Q Was there any favorable action on any of those cases taken on July 6?

A Yes.

Q Which ones?

A Alesi was granted commutation after nine months. Koehler unanimously granted after nine months. Alessi was unanimous. Michalski, unanimously granted; Martin was unanimously refused; Salamone was unanimously granted as of one year; Damore unanimously granted after nine months; Rotunda, unanimously granted after nine months; Krysiak unanimously refused; Niemyer, unanimously refused; LaJohn, unanimously granted as of nine mouths; Ditullio, unanimously granted after nine months; Camili, unanimously granted after nine months.

Q Now in connection with those applications of the Erie County cases in June, did anybody directly or indirectly attempt to use any political influence upon you?

A No one ever talked to me about any of the cases either for or against.

Q Have you any knowledge of anyone attempting to talk to any of the other member of the Board of Pardons?

A I have no knowledge nor any indication from any of them that anyone had ever talked either pro or con.

Q Was there anything in the discussion in the executive session or otherwise among the members of the Board that would indicate that any member of the Board was motivated by political influence?

A It was never discussed. I never heard it discussed.

Q Now then, what occurred thereafter? When did the next group of cases come up before the Board?

A The Pardons Board after the June meeting recessed for July and August. The next meeting of the Board of Pardons fell in the month of September.

"The Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania convened on Thursday, September 22, 1955, at 9:28 a.m., Daylight Saving Time, in the Supreme Court room.

"Those present were myself, Mr. Finnegan, Mr. Cohen, and Miss Blatt."

At that time we heard the case of Adiutori, Czulewicz, Dominick, Flatley and Kaminski. I thing those are all the Erie cases.

No action was taken at that time. In executive session we discussed cases from one to twelve, inclusive, and 132 to 163, inclusive, were held October 10, 1955, at 12:00 o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, in the office of the Board of Pardons. At that time action was taken on the other Erie cases.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Will you give us what action was taken?

A Adiutori, granted as of one year; Czulewicz, as of eleven months; Dominick was refused; Flatley, granted as of one year. Mr. Cohen voted "no." Kaminski, granted as of eleven months.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now in consideration of those cases, were you in any way motivated by political influence?

A No sir.

Q Was there any improper influence?

A No sir.

Q Have you any knowledge that any other member of the Board was?

A I have no knowledge.

Q Was it ever discussed?

A Never discussed.

Q Now then, did there come a time when you considered the possible release of some of these men prior to Christmas of 1955; and if so, tell us how it came about.

A There was a special executive session held in the Board of Pardons office November 14, 1955. I was absent that day. The cases considered were the following numbers: 28, 54, 101 and 58, which do not apply to Erie County; but numbers 132, 133 and 135 were Adiutori, Czulewicz and Flatley. At this time the members present agreed to set the expiration date as of December 15, 1955 of the following. The change was made on the charter and Mr. Furman was so advised.

Q Now did the Board receive any communication from Judge Evans with respect to Martin?

A I think it's in the file, and I have everything here with me. There was a recommendation in the file, I am sure.

CHAIRMAN TIMPKINS: Was his letter entered as an exhibit?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: If it is not in the file, then it must be with the exhibits.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: There is a photostat right here.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That will be satisfactory.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now remembering that Martin had been sentenced for one year and that there was a letter received from Judge Evans, which I am now showing you, I ask you to read the pertinent part of that letter if there is any part of it which was considered by the Board in deciding to release Martin prior to Christmas.

MR. KOHN: I think you ought to give the date of that letter, also.

THE WITNESS: Sure. The letter is dated October 14, 1955, addressed to the Board of Parole, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It says:

"If you have contemplated releasing him at the expiration of his minimum period, January 8, I would see no reason for refusing to allow two weeks further reduction in order that he might be home for Christmas." Signed by: Elmer L. Evans, President Judge, Sixth Judicial District.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q That relates to Martin, does it?

A Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now was that consideration granted to Martin?

A Yes.

Q Thereafter, was any further consideration granted to any others on the basis of that?

A Yes, the same.

MR. KOHN: On the basis of what?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: On the basis of the fact that it had been granted to Martin.

THE WITNESS: Yes, to Adiutori, Czulewicz and Flatley.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q When was it granted to Martin?

A As of December 15, I believe.

Q Yes, but when was the action taken?

A When was the action taken?

Q When was the action taken?

A The Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania convened on Tuesday, October 25, 1955, at 9:15 a.m., Eastern Standard Time, in the Supreme Court room.

The Board unaimously voted to reconsider the application of John J. Martin and granted commutation as of Dacember 15, 1955.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What is the date?

A October 25, 1955.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, the letter of Judge Evans was dated October 14?

A Yes.

Q And it was eleven days after the receipt of that letter from Judge Evans that the Board decided to release Martin on a reconsideration?

A That is correct.

Q As of December 15, so he would be out for Christmas. Was that a new commutation?

A Action was taken on October 23, and then by this letter we reconsidered it in executive session and voted to grant him commuatation as of December 15.

Q Now, having done that for Martin, tell me when the Board decided to commute Flatley's sentence?

A At a special executive session on November 14 was when Flatley, Adiutori and Czulewicz were commuted to December 15, 1955.

Q That was about nineteen days after commuting Martin?

A October 25.

Q October 25?

A That is correct.

Q About twenty days after having decided to commute Martin's sentence as of December 15, the same type of consideration to release before Christmas was extended to Flatley and to two others?

A That is correct.

Q In extending that to Mr. Flatley, was there any political considerations whatever?

A None that I know of.

Q Was there any improper influence operating upon any member of the Board of Pardons?

A None that I know of.

Q Governor, are you or were you a member of a committee having to do with Leader Woodland in Israel?

A I was not aware of that until the letter was read here in the hearing room the other day, although I guess I did know at the time I allowed my name to be used on that. I had forgotten until my memory was refreshed.

Q Did you receive a letter dated May 29, 1956, from Rabbi Aaron Decter?

A Yes.

Q Do you know Rabbi Decter?

A I have only met him possibly on a couple of occasions at meetings. I think one occasion was in Philadelphia and I think I met him again in Washington, Pennsylvania. It was a very casual acquaintance.

Q Do you know Myron Prosser?

A No, I think not. I might have met him on some occasion.

Q But is he a friend of yours?

A I would not know him if he walked into this room.

Q Well, this mentions Mr. Prosser and indicates he has told the Rabbi about a hardship involving Ben Kaufman of Erie. Did you receive that letter?

A Yes, I think I did. I have a record here, I think.

Q What did you do with it?

A As I do with all letters of that kind, I send them to the Secretary of the Board and ask that they be made a part of the record.

Q So they will be available if anybody looks up the record?

A Anybody that wants to see them.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What is this now? What will be available?

A The letter that I have received.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Did the Rabbi attempt to use any improper influence on you?

A No sir, only the letter that was written.

Q This letter indicates a desire to have the opportunity to meet with you personally to discuss the matter. Do you recall whether or not there was any personal meeting between you?

A I have no knowledge of any meeting.

You asked a question about Myron Prosser. I am sure that I do not know him, coming from Erie. Positively, I have not met the man.

Q There has been introduced in evidence a letter on the letterhead of The Kane Democratic Club, Kane, Pennsylvania; Harry Rook, Treasurer, addressing you as "Dear Roy." Do you know Harry Rook?

A No.

Q Are you conscious of ever having met him?

A I may have met him but I don't know him.

Q Did you receive a letter such as has been put in the record signed, "Harry"?

A Yes, I think that is Harry Jones. His name is up in the left corner. I do know him.

Q You do know Harry Jones?

A Yes, and this letter was from him and I also made it a part of the record.

Q Did the fact that you received a letter from Harry Jones affect your decision in any improper way?

A No sir.

Q And did that letter follow the usual course of being sent by you to the Scretary for filing?

A Yes sir.

Q Did Mr. Jones ever personally talk over the case with you?

A I can't say. He may have called me on the phone about the case to see if it can be listed and heard. I have no recollection of talking with him personally about it. I may have had a telephone call. I can't swear to it.

Q Now do you know Mr. Alton Phelps of Erie?

A Yes sir.

Q Do you know whether or not, by the way, Harry Jones is a relative of Ben Kaufman?

A I have no way of knowing. I would say no off-hand. I am almost positive of that.

Q Now this letter says: "I understand that Mr. Phelps was in the city this week and spoke to various members of the Board on this matter." Did Mr. Phelps speak to you on that matter?

A If he did, I have no recollection.

Q Did he ever write you a letter?

A No, if he had written me a letter, it should be in the file.

Q Did Mr. Phelps attempt to use any improper influence upon you?

A No sir.

Q Mr. Furman, do you know Congressman William A. Barrett?

A Yes sir.

Q There has been introduced in evidence a letter from Congressman Barrett concerning an applicant named Phillip Mollica. Did you receive such a letter?

A Is there one in the file?

Q There is a letter in the file. My recollection on that, if I am correct, is that it was addressed to the Secretary.

MR. KOHN: That is absolutely correct. In fact, there are two letters; one is addressed to the Board of Pardons and the other is addressed to Mr. Hean.

THE WITNESS: Well, then I have no knowledge of—

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q You did not get any personal letter?

A I have no knowledge of receiving any personal letter.

Q Did you talk with Mr. Barrett personally about this Mollica case?

A I have no recollection of talking to him, although I have seen Congressman Barrett from time to time, but I have no recollection of talking about that case.

Q Do you recall ever having talked to Congressman Barrett about the merits of any case?

A No.

Q Do you have any recollection that the letter of Congressman Barrett was called to your attention prior to the decision of the Mollica case?

A No, I am sure that it was not. But if it was in the file, I saw it and evidently it was there.

Q Mr. Barrett's letter asked for consideration of the matter at the September 1955 meeting instead of the November 1955 meeting, which would be the normal expiration date of one year. Do you have any recollection that because of his official position or his politics or anything else connected with him that the decision to hold it at the September 1955 meeting was a matter that affected the judgment of the Board?

A I would not think that that would affect any judgment of the Board?

Q Do you know of any appeal made by Mr. Barrett to any other member of the Board on the merits of the case?

A I do not.

Q Were merits discussed among the members of the Board?

A Not my knowledge.

Q Mr. Furman, did you at the request of the Board, in acting as Chairman of the Board, request the Secretary to make a list of the cases heard by this present Board that came up from Delaware County?

A Yes sir.

Q Do you have that list with you?

A I think I do.

(Discussion off the record.)

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Could I have the indulgence of the committee to call Mr. Trescher as the next witness since I am presenting my testimony today? He is in town and he is running the University of Pennsylvania Drive of Law School tonight at the Penn-Harris Hotel and he has an awful lot of things to do in Harrisburg getting ready for it. I would just like to call him a little bit out of order.

MR. KOHN: It is all right with me.

(At 11:30 a.m., the hearing adjourned until 1:00 p.m. of the same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION

March 27, 1957

ROY E. FURMAN, Recalled

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Governor, before we leave the Erie County cases, have you called out of the various records the positions taken by the district attorney in those cases in which action was taken either to grant or refuse the application.

A I have here what the district attorney said in those cases. In June on the Alessi case:

"I think he should serve a little more time. I don't mean he could serve the complete minimum but I do not think he has served enough time."

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Are these statements made before the Board or are these letters?

A No, these are statements made before the Board.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Were these culled out from the transcript?

A Yes. It is not a complete statement. That is page 428 of the transcript.

Q Now, just to complete each case as it goes along, that would be at the June session?

A Yes.

Q He took the position that he had not as of June served sufficient time?

A He said: "I think he should serve a little more time."

Q And he was required to serve nine months being released on October 6, 1955, was he not?

A That is correct.

Q So that in that case you were more strict than the district attorney?

A That is correct.

Q What is the next one?

A Michalski. "As a matter of fact I recommend that the Board let him go."

Q Now he was released August 27, 1955, after seven months and five days, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q What is your next one?

A Martin. The only thing I have from the district attorney was just a recommendation.

Q He was not released until December 17, 1955?

A That is correct, December 17.

Q Next?

A Salamone. The district attorney says: "A known gambler; if he serves half of his minimum, I would have no objection to his release."

Q Was he required to serve half of his minimum?

A Yes.

Q He served all of his minimum, didn't he?

A No, Salamone was sentenced to one and one-half to three, and he served one year.

Q One full year?

A That is right.

Q And which was more stringent than the district attorney's position?

A That is right.

Damone, "I don't think he should be released at this time."

Q Was he released at that time?

A No, he was not released until the 25th of October 1955, serving nine months and nineteen days.

The next one is Rotunda. The district attorney says: "I do not oppose. Say I am neutral on the thing."

Q Was he released at that time?

A He was not released at that time. He was released on the 6th of October 1955, serving nine months.

Q In that case the Board was tougher than the attorney's recommendation?

A That is correct.

The next is LaJohn, and I asked him this question. "You are in favor of his (LaJohn's) release?" And McLaughlin answered, "Yes, your Honor."

Q Now LaJohn was not released at that itme, was he?

A No, he was not released until the 6th of October.

Q Serving five months.

A Nine months.

Q In that case also you were tougher than the district attorney?

A That is correct.

DiTullio. The district attorney said, "I am appreciative of the fact that he did plead guilty and saved the county money. He was not a big-shot operator." He was released on the 10th of October, serving nine months.

Q Who's next?

A Camili. Defense counsel, "Will you recommend commutation to McLaughlin?" And this is McLaughlin's reply: "I don't believe this man will ever get in any trouble if released." And Camili was not released then, but was released on the 6th of October 1955.

Now those are the June cases. Then in the hearing in September with respect ot Adiutori, the district attorney said: "I do not believe that this man, Dominic Adiutori, should serve any more time than James Salamone. I think it would be only just that we reduce Adiutori's sentence down to that of his partner." Adiutori, of course, as I testified this morning, was released on the 15th day of December 1955, serving eleven months and five days.

Czulewicz. The district attorney said, "I think he should pay the penalty." Czuelwicz was released on the 15th of December, serving eleven months and five days.

Dominick, that is Mike Dominick. "Now as I say, I do oppose his being released immediately; but if the Board sees fit to commute his sentence before the minimum expires, I will not oppose." And Dominick was sentenced from one and one-quarter to two and one-half years, and he served that period of time, being released on April 6, 1956.

Q Did he have a prior record?

A He had a prior record.

Q So, then in that instance, the Board was tougher than the district attorney?

A That is right.

Q The Board gave him no clemency at all?

A No, there was no clemency granted to that applicant.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q There was only one hearing on it?

A Yes. And Flatley. This is what the district attorney said: "While I believe he should receive some commutation, I do not wish to make any recommendation as to what that commutation should be because I believe the Board is in a more objective position to make that decision than I am?

Then Miss Blatt asked this question, "You do recommend commutation?"

"Mr. McLaughlin: 'Yes, that is correct."

Of course, Flatley was as you all know, released on the 15th day of December 1955, serving eleven months and nine days.

Kaminski. This is the district attorney's statement, "I leave it entirely to the Board to decide just what consideration this applicant is entitled to."

Then Kaminski was sentenced to one and a quarter to two and one-half years, but was released on the 6th day of December 1955, serving eleven months.

Q Does that cover all of them?

A That covers them, I believe.

Q What about Swartz?

A I do not have that one here.

All we have on this sheet is Stanley Swartz. And his case was heard in February 1956, and Mr. Johnson, I think, was the district attorney who was here. He was sentenced one and one-half to three years. He was released on the 8th of August 1956, serving one year. The judge's recommendation: "Should serve at least as long as Flatley."

Q Did he?

A He served a little bit longer. Flatley's was eleven months and a few days.

The district attorney opposed at this time as not serving enough time.

Q At that time?

A That was in February 1956. He said, "Opposed at this time. Has not served enough time." But he was not released until six months later, in August.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, do you have Exhibit No. 7?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What exhibit is that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is the Delaware County cases.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That must be in the exhibit file. I will have it sent down to you.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Very well.

(At this point Chaimman Tompkins temporarily withdrew from the hearing. Senator Scott acted as Chairman.)

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, in the interest of saving time I will be perfectly willing to call for examination by the committee on cross examination, subject to my going into the Delaware County matter when that exhibit is brought to us.

ACTING CHAIRMAN SCOTT: I think that would expedite things.

MR. KOHN: What exhibit is that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is Exhibit No. 7. It shows the Delaware County cases.

MR. KOHN: It is all right with me.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, if you would grant the privilege now, I can put Mr. Trescher on now.

ACTING CHAIRMAN SCOTT: Mr. Tompkins should be down pretty soon. Suppose we have the examination of the witness by the committee, and Mr. Kohn, and then we will put on your witness.

Does any member of the committee, or Mr. Kohn, have anything to ask Governor Furman?

BY SENATOR FLEMING:

Q Nothing about his testimony, but, Governor, if you would care to give your opinion. Do you think that some type of extra help should be afforded to the Pardons Board in the form of an investigation staff or full-time employees? You do not need to give an opinion if you do not care to.

A I will be very glad to. I think that the Pardons Board needs some extra money for additional employees right at the present time and some additional equipment.

Now as to the investigation, that might be worth while, although I think people understand we do get quite a report from the Parole Board. If we went out and did that it seems to me we might be duplicating the same thing that we have at the present time.

While the Pardons Board and the Parole Board to some extent are working in the same field, they are separate entities. They have their work; we have ours. But we do have some connection. They are staffed and do give us a report which is very valuable. I will say this. In my mind—and I think the other members of the Board will say it also—those reports are just as valuable as the recommendations of judges and district attorneys, and we do take them into consideration, all of these factors and that is the way that we make up our minds. Now, there is always room for improvement in everything.

Q But what I meant is, would you have need for several investigators whom you might want to, at times, send out on your own to check certain things? Would that be of any assistance to the Board?

A It could be of assistance. I would not want to see a great big staff. I don't think it is necessary but I think it could be very helpful at times to have someone that we could send out as on call to make an independent investigation. These cases are very well investigated by the Parole Board. They always send us a good report and complete history of the applicant, his family and all of his activities through his life, all the background of his family and himself. It is very complete, but there could be a time when our own investigator might go out and look into certain things that we haven't received otherwise.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Governor Furman, there has been some criticism relative to the brief period in which the cases are argued before the Board, although you did testify on this through examination by Attorney General BcBride.

When you send out letters to attorneys who appear for or against a petition for commutation of pardon, do you specify in that letter or serve notice on anybody that participates in the arguments relative to a limitation of time to present arguments?

A I don't think there is anything specified as to the limiting of time. It is just a general notice to them that their case will be heard. I think that is right. Mr. Hean sends out the letters and he could testify to that exactly. I am positive there is no limit specified. They are given a calendar, and they know the number of their case where they appear.

Now you say that there has been criticism. As long as I have sat on the Board I have never heard any one make a complaint, to me, the attorney for the applicant, or any member of the applicant's family, that they were not given a full and complete hearing. I do not know where that criticism comes from, but there has never been a complaint registered with me about that.

Q Well, it came from some of the members on the Board down here in this committee, and some of the witnesses that appeared here also thought there was very little time consumed in arguing a case. As a matter of fact, we were up there one day and I think there was a remark made that these case was disposed of in five or six minutes.

A We dispose of cases in one minute, sometimes two or three minutes. Perhaps you had left to go to the Senate this morning when I made the statement that after the members of this committee left the other day we had a case that lasted probably an hour, and everybody got a complete and full hearing; everyone had the opportunity of expressing what they had to say. We cannot limit it. We don't cut them off, I will say that. If an attorney gets up there and he can present his case in a minute or two, we give him that time. If he wants to take ten or fifteen minutes, we allow him the time.

Q Well then in any event, if it is a case that is disposed of in one minute or five minutes or ten minutes, whatever it is, it is not because you restrict any one to the length of time that they are allowed to present their arguments?

A We never restrict anybody, either for the applicant or against the applicant.

Q Governor Furman, there are letters sent in by judges and district attorneys and perhaps others indicating that they favor or disapprove the granting of a commutation or a pardon. In those cases where both the judge and the district attorney send in a letter disapproving a commutation or pardon and the Pardons Board acts contrary to those recommendations, what factors do you take into consideration in overruling the objections of the judge and the district attorney?

A Well, in deciding these cases we have a lot of factors, a lot of information that we have submitted to us.

First we have, naturally, the applicant's version of the crime and we have the official version. We have his prior record, if he has any, and the recommendations of the judge and the district Attorney if they see fit to send them in. Many times they don't and so many times they say, "rely on the Board." Personally, I wish that they would make a recommendation one way or the other. It would be valuable to us, but then that is something that the Board cannot control.

Then after that prisoner has been sentenced and he is in the penittnetiary, a complete record is kept of the time he was there. They begin with his conduct record, his work record, education. They submit us a psychological report and a psychiatric report, and then we have the recommendations of the prison staff. Those are the people who are there with them and know these men the best, and they know whether or not they have been rehabilitated.

We have had times when the prison staff will suddenly urge the commutation of a prisoner because they say that he is completely rehabilitated and that they are confident and sure that he can go back into society and be a decent citizen. Then the judge or district attorney may have made a recommendation in contradiction of what they said, so we do take those things into consideration because, after all, the purpose is to rehabilitate the people and perhaps the judge and the district attorney are basing their opinions on years back when the crime was originally committed. But this recommendation is a more up-to-date one.

Another thing that we take into consideration is the sponsor. If the person is released, of course they are on parole, and they must have a sponsor; they must have a parole plan and also a job to go to, or some means of taking care of themselves after their release. Of course, I know you all realize that when we do grant these commutations, we do not lose control of that person because the Board of Parole has them, and the moment they violate, even a technical violation, they are right back into the penitentiary.

Q I know, Governor, but now will you sort of confine your explanation to those cases where commutation is granted and the person is on parole? What rules or factors do you use when commutating a sentence where the original sentence was death?

A Well, those are very long and extensive hearings, and all the facts must enter into the case. You almost have to pick out a specific case to get a specific answer, but in those cases there are all the factors from the time of the commission of the crime up to the time we hear it, and we have to take into consideration many, many factors.

Q Well, what are those factors?

A Well, a—

Q I mean where you commute a death sentence to life imprisonment?

A We ought to get a specific case on that because there are no two parallel.

Q You can use any case you want to use since you have been sitting, where a death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. I don't care which case you take. Do you have one in mind?

A No, I do not have any in mind at the moment, although I can go back to the record and get it because, after all, we heard so many cases. I would be happy to answer, but I would like to go back to the record and get all the facts of a particular case. But the same things are considered, as I said a while ago, about the other commutations we have had. We have recommendations from the judge to consider, recommendations of the district attorney, of the staff, and then the record that they have made while they have been incarcerated.

Q All right, let's take a case where both the judge and the district attorney oppose the commutation from death to life imprisonment.

A And that we would grant it?

Q Yes?

A Then there would be other factors that we would consider which would outweigh their recommendations.

Q But the thing I want to know is, what were those factors?

A Well, I would have to get a specific case because they are all different. If there is any specific case that you want, I would be glad to get my records and give it to you, but just off-hand, I cannot tell you.

Q I wish you would review cases over which you presided where a death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, and I for one would like to know what factors caused you to grant the commutation.

A This committee is going to have, if the newspaper reports are right, one of those before us here, and I will be very happy to testify in that case or any other, but I certainly don't want to just make, without the records before me, any statement regarding them until I have had a chance to go over the record. I certainly will be very happy to do it on any or all of them.

Q Since you have been a member of the Pardons Board, Governor Furman, has political influence in any way, shape or form influenced your action to either grant or not grant a commutation or pardon?

A No sir, that is never considered because those are not facts in the case. We decide them all upon the facts presented, as I just outlined.

I know of no case which has ever been decided from political consideration either pro or con.

Q It has been suggested here, I think, by one of the judges who testified, that some member of the Pardons Board, or perhaps the staff, ought to review the testimony taken during the trial. Do you think that ought to be a part of the procedure?

A In certain cases, yes, particularly the capital cases.

Q Is that being done?

A Oh, yes. I think every member of the Board has gone over the testimony in that type of cases. Now, there are many of the lesser cases where it isn't done.

Q Then you do say that the capital cases—

A Very definitely.

Q Somebody does review the testimony?

A I think every member of the Board goes over them.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Well, was that testimony available to you in a volume?

A Yes, in all those cases it is a part of the record.

Q They are all part of the record?

A Yes.

Q Governor, where are they kept as part of the record.

A Now, I would have to ask the Secretary.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Governor, on this subject of the lifers in capital cases, I gather you mean from the murder cases, which in this report, marked B.P., Exhibit 23, that was submitted this morning, I counted roughly fifty-three, I think it is, which are either lifers or capital cases according to this report. Now, how many hours do you, as a member of the Board, devote to one of those lifer or capital cases?

A Well, the capital cases require much more time than the others. Do you mean aside from the public hearing?

Q I will re-phrase my question, Governor: My point in this line of questioning is solely whether being a member of the Pardons Board takes so much of the time of the responsibile public officials who comprise the Pardons Board that they are squeezed for time. I note that during the past year there were 1,067 cases heard. I just note there are fifty-three lifers and capital cases. I also note, but I won't take the time to enumerate, how many capital cases.

Now one of the purposes of this committee, I would judge, would be to recommend legislation. With that background I have just given, the figures and so forth, do the Lieutenant-Governor's other duties as Lieutenant-Governor permit him to devote sufficient time to his other job as a member of the Pardons Board?

A Well, personally, I feel that I have the time and have devoted sufficient time to all the cases.

Q I don't mean this with a critical approach.

A I understand that.

Q I would like your recommendation, sir, as to whether the Lieutenant-Governor should be, if there is legislation submitted, retained by the Pardons Board.

A Well, that's a matter of opinion for the Legislature to decide, but I feel that with all the duties of this office there is still sufficient time to devote to the Pardons Board matters. Of course, you have to determine in your own mind how much time is needed. Let me say this, that many of those cases of murder in the first degree that come out are turned down, and many of them are submitted by the parole officer from the institution, and he knows when he submits them that they are not good cases, but it has a psychological effect on the fellows in the institution. I would think they were more or less compelled to do this. It does take a lot of time.

Q Then, in summary, in your opinion—and you are the best qualified witness as to the duties of the Lieutenant-Governor—in your opinion, does the Office of Lieutenant-Governor permit the incumbent to have sufficient time to sit as a member of the Pardons Board?

A Yes, I would say that is correct.

(Chairman Tompkins returned to conduct the hearing.)

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think Senator Yosko has another question.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Governor Furman, there has been some testimony on the procedure concerning the writing of opinions where a commutation or a pardon is granted. I wish you would describe to us just what the procedure is from the time you begin to hear a case up to the time the members hand down their opinion to grant a commutation or a pardon.

A Well, of course, I think we all are familiar with public hearings held in the case. Generally, immediately following those public hearings, the Board members go into executive session. That executive session is just the members of the Board and the Secretary. And, as Chairman of the Board, I call the cases and we vote, because you have to. And I think that every member that ever sat on the Board will say that this is correct; if you did not mark your calendar as you went through, you would forget a lot of the details. So ninety percent of the time everybody votes alike. That has been true all the time I sat on the Board. There have been several changes in the Board since I have been on it. If it is a negative vote or a favorable vote, there is very little discussion, where there is a difference of opinion, then we entered into a discussion. The Secretary hears the cases, the same as we do, and he hears our discussion and writes the reasons which the law says. I think the important thing is the vote. When I vote yes or no I am not too concerned about all the reasons. The law says the reasons shall be filed, and the Secretary does write those. He knows how we all voted and records that, and he prepares it. And we make some corrections. We do not revise the whole thing, but essentially what he writes down are the reasons we have discussed for acting on these cases favorably. Then, after that is all prepared, it is submitted to us for our signatures and we sign, of course, those that are granted. We sign where we vote in favor; or if there is a dissent, that is marked. Then we write an opinion of dissent, and from that, that is our recommendation that goes to the Governor.

Q And while you are hearing a case and the case is being argued before you, do you and the other members of the Pardons Board have a note book in which you make notes and keep for a record to refresh your memories, or to be used for any purpose it might serve?

A We have a book like this, with all the facts of the case (referring to a loose-leaf note book.) I make all my notes right on that, including the time we start the hearing and the time we close it, and my opinion of anything that is said that I think is important. I make those notes on there so that I know why I will vote in a certain way.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Is this book or digest prepared for you and given to you before you enter the hearings?

A Yes.

Q And then from that you make your notes on the digest?

A I make my notes and then I always check everything that I read on the case, to know that I have gone over the thing.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q So that when you do go into the executive session after the day's hearings are held, you have notes in your notebook on arguments or statements that might have been presented to the Board?

A Certainly. Anything that is pertinent to the case which I think is important I mark down on here, make a little note of it.

Q Are there any practices or procedures that are now in force that you would care to comment on insofar as recommendations for changes are concerned?

A No, I do not know of any at the present time. I will tell you this; I think and I feel personally that our Board has done a good job. I think all the Boards have done an excellent job in Pennsylvania. Probably it is one of the better States in the Union. I think the records will indicate that is true.

The record, I think, was given in the testimony here one day as to the number of those who had received commutations who have later returned, and it is much lower than those who have served their minimum sentences and gotten out automatically.

Q There are just four members on the Board, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q How many votes does it take to grant a petition?

A Three.

Q It takes three?

A Yes.

Q In the case of a tie, what happens?

A Well, the case is lost. That happens frequently.

Q Do you think there ought to be a fifth member on the Board?

A Not necessarily. I think the system has worked very well. Three is a majority. It would not hurt it or it would not help any.

Q But when the vote is two-two, the doubt is resolved against the petitioner?

A That is right.

SENATOR YOSKO: That is all.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Governor, one of our witnesses at the least session, Judge Laub of Erie, suggested that maybe the Corrupt Solicitation Act should be extended to the Pardons Board. Would you agree with that recommendation?

A Well, possibly that is true. I didn't hear that statement at the time.

Q Well, it was to the effect that he recommended that perhaps the Corrupt Solicitation Act should be extended to the Board.

Now, is there at times any great attempt to contact members of the Board in connection with cases pending or cases which will probably come before the Board? Does the Board find much difficulty with people trying to contact them in connection with such cases?

A Not too much, no. I haven't had too many, although it happens occasionally. Generally it is a member of the family or the attorney in the case who wants some information. As I stated this morning, in the procedure of Carney's hearing, he wanted this case heard, and I sent it to the Secretary.

There is not as much solicitation as the members of the House and Senate get on legislation, I will guarantee you that. But there are always people interested, and, sure, there are letters, telephone calls, and sometimes they come in to see you, too.

Q Well, have you found any difficulty in that respect? Do you think that the extension of the Corrupt Solicitation Act would act as a shield for the Pardons Board against such procedures?

A There is no doubt that it would.

Q Now, General McBride made some remarks in one of our hearings regarding the procedures in England in connection with capital cases, particularly of sending out by the home secretary's office to gather and collect information for the use of the Crown, and then if it comes up at some later date for consideration before their Clemency Board, they have a record that was made when the thing was fresh before them, as well as the current record. Would you consider that to be a good procedure?

A Well, I don't know. I'm not a lawyer; I'm just a layman.

Q Well, as a member of the Pardons Board, do you think that having some file of that kind would be of value to you in capital cases?

A It possibly would.

Q Well, with the testimony of those cases before you, do you think that such a record would be required?

A Well, I don't know as it would be reuired; it might be helpful.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is all I have.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Let me just ask a question. In the cases where it has been suggested that the Board has disagreed or differed with the judge and the district attorney, does that mean that their recommendation has been ignored?

A Oh, no; they are never ignored. Every recommendation, whether it is from the judge or the district attorney or the prison staff, is always considered. And we try to get the proper answer in considering all those various opinions.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all I have.

ROBERT L. TRESCHER, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Trescher, are you a member of the Bar of Philadelphia County and of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and perhaps of the Supreme Court of the United States?

A Not of the Supreme Court of the United States, but I am of the others.

Q And you have been practicing law in Philadelphia for how many years?

A Since 1938.

Q With what firm are you?

A The firm of Montgomery, McCracken, Walker and Rhoades.

Q And did there come a time when you, together with anyone else, represented certain men charged with crime in Delaware County?

A Yes sir. Judge Kraft of Media, and I represented these men through the trial stage and the appellate stage, and then when Mr. Kraft became a judge of the district court, I carried the case on through the Pardons Board.

Q Does your firm usually handle either labor or criminal cases?

A It is a very unusual experience for our firm to handle either labor or criminal cases.

Q Now, were you present when the cases were tried in Delaware County?

A I was.

Q What case was it? How has it been spoken of here?

A Well, it's been referred to here as the McSorley case. Actually, there were five different defendants.

Q And you represent all of them, together with Judge Kraft?

A Yes, Judge Kraft and I together represented all of them.

Q Did he try the case?

A Judge Kraft tried it. I did nothing but sit with him throughout the trial.

Q What was the nature of the defense?

A Well, the nature of the defense was absolute innocence. Do you want me to specify that a little more?

Q No, I think it will be satisfactory if you just indicate that was the contention of the defendant, a contention, however, that was rejected by the jury.

A That's correct.

Q Was an appeal taken to the Appellate Courts of Pennsylvania?

A Yes, sir.

Q To which court?

A There was an appeal taken to the Superior Court and then there was a petition filed for the allowance of an appeal to the Supreme Court which was never acted upon because some additional evedence developed on which we based a motion for a new trial on the grounds of after-discovered evidence in the Delaware County Court. So we asked the Supreme Court to hold in abeyance our petition for the allowance of an appeal in order to process the motion for judgment for a new trial on the grounds of after-discovered evidence. That was denied in the Delaware County Court. That was appealed to the Supreme Court, and then both phases of the case were the subject of a second petition for the allowance of an appeal, which was turned down. So the Supreme Court never actually heard argument on any part of this case.

Q Was there a labor dispute involved in this case?

A There was.

Q Did it have any connection with picketing?

A Yes sir. This case was based upon a charge of riot and conspiracy to commit riot, riotous assault and riotous destruction of property on the site of the old jailhouse in Media. And the disturbance took place at the tail end of a long strike lasting roughly twenty-some weeks, and conducted by the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Q Now while the case was pending on appeal, were the defendants at liberty on a supersedeas bond?

A They were.

Q While they were at liberty, was any application filed before the Board of Pardons?

A Yes sir.

Q By whom?

A I filed that because it was just about at that time that Judge Kraft went on the bench. He and I had worked the thing out together, but at the moment of filing, he had gone on the bench, so, of course, he had to step out of the picture.

Q Had you ever handled a case before the Board of Pardons before?

A To the best of my recollection, I handled one around 1938 or 1939. That was the only other previous experience that I remember.

Q Did you come to Harrisburg to argue the case?

A I did.

Q Was the case disposed of by the Board of Pardons?

A It was, but the petition for pardon was denied.

Q Now, was there any issue raised by any member of the Board at that time that the men were not yet in jail, or that the petition was premature?

A I just got started with my argument when one of the members of the Board raised the question whether, as a matter of policy, the Pardons Board should entertain a petition while the cases were still pending in the courts and before the men had gone to jail. I think it was Mr. Finnegan who raised the question, and various other members of the Board took it up.

Q What contention did you make in respect to the first application for executive clemency?

A Well, are you referring to this matter of policy, or to the merits?

Q No, only the merits.

A Well, this was a five-day trial that took place in Media, and the facts were quite involved. I laid some groundwork in opening the argument by first describing the charges against these men, and told who tried it and described the sentence, which was two years in prison and $1500.00 fine for each. I described the various motions and appeals and then pointed out that these men had never been in jail, and at that time the case was still pending before the courts. I pointed out that that made this a very unusual petition and that the only proper basis for being before the Board at that time was the innocence of the men. I then introduced the men to the Board so that they could see them, and it was about that time that Finnegan broke in on the question of policy. I was prepared with a legal memorandum because, of course, I had anticipated that that point would be raised, and I argued that the Constitution of Pennsylvania gave the Pardons Board the power to grant clemency at any stage in a criminal proceeding, and I referred to the Board the various Supreme Court decisions, holding that it had the power to exercise that right at any time after conviction and even before sentence.

I, of course, argued that it not only had the power, but the duty to do it in a proper case, and that this was a proper case.

Now as to the merits, I pointed out that the occurrence which gave rise to all these indictments was a riot at the old jailhouse in Media, on July 28, 1952, and that came at the tail end of a long strike.

I said that a man named Gleba and his brother were carrying on the demolition of the old jailhouse, despite the strike, and the Commonwealth testimony was that on this hot July afternoon a group of between thirty and sixty men arrived in cars, assembled in front of the jailhouse and then dashed across the floor of the old jailhouse, which at that time was strewn with mortar dust and rubble. They engaged in melees, roughing up one or two men. They destroyed some machinery, then they all rushed back across this jailhouse floor, got in their cars and fled in haste.

I described the Commonwealth's testimony against the men. I told them that Officer Gestler of the Media Police, or perhaps a township policeman, had testified that he pursued this last car and after having pursued it a distance of six blocks, stopped it, and he testified that these five men were in the car. He immediately called for the Chief of Police Laukead, who arrived on the scene a minute later and Mr. Laukead testified that he carefully examined the men for any sign of dust or dirt. I then described the identification or these men. There were various witnesses, Commonwealth witnesses, who had seen this riot, but there were only two who could testify that these five men were in any way involved. Gleba, one of the Glebas, testified that he could identify one of them, and a man named Blocker testified that he could identify three.

Then I went on to describe the defense of the men, which was that early that morning they, together with a large number of other men, had volunteered for picket duty and that they assembled at the International Airport in Philadelphia for assignments. One of the business agents asked for volunteers to picket this old jailhouse in Media, and these men were just among a group of others who volunteered for the work. These five men were singled out to engage in picketing there and were told to meet there at two o'clock. One of them had a car and they agreed that they would ride out together. The business manager who was organizing this particular picket operation said that he would be there with placards at two o'clock and that they were to simply drive out and meet him.

They said that they drove out. They arrived there just a few minutes before two, parked their cars around the corner simply because it was a handy parking place. They got out of their cars. They saw the business manager standing beside his car across from the jailhouse. They walked up to him and he said, well there is no work going on; you might as well go back and report for another assignment. So they got back in their cars and were driving leisurely out of Media when they were picked up and they testified that they knew nothing about the riot.

Q Now you say that the Chief conducted an examination of their persons to determine whether or not there were any signs of rubble or dirt, and so forth. What was the result of his examination?

A The result of his examination was that he simply could find no trace of dust or dirt.

I based my contention before the Pardons Board on two main points and four or five secondary points. And the main contention that I made before the Pardons Board was that the innocence of these men was established by the evidence of incontrovertible physical facts that were part of the record in this case.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did you also give to a jury that same information?

A Yes, that same information.

MR. KOHN: All this stuff was given to a jury.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The jury did not believe it, though, did they?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, but I thought when we heard the other side as to what we wanted to know being argued before the Board of Pardons—. We are now telling you what was argued before the Board.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Is what he is telling now the matters that were argued before the Board of Pardons?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

SENATOR SCOTT: You are telling us the arguments you made before the Board of Pardons?

THE WITNESS: Yes, exactly.

SENATOR SCOTT: And have you concluded all of the things you have told them?

THE WITNESS: No, I have not. I am getting into the chief arguments and I can go over them very quickly.

I placed the greatest reliance upon the absence of any dust or dirt on these men, bearing in mind that all of the Commonwealth's testimony was to the effect that these men were part of a group of thirty to sixty, who, on a very hot July afternoon, crossed this floor that was thickly covered with mortar dust, engaged in a melee and came out and then were picked up after a hot pursuit six blocks away. I contended that when the Chief of Police examined these men and found no evidence of any dust or dirt, that this was incontrovertible physical proof that these men could not have participated in this riot, because the Chief testified that they showed no signs of physical exertion; that he examined their hands, their finger nails; their trousers, their socks, their shoes; he even took off their shoes and rubbed his hands on the bottoms of them, and still he couldn't find any evidence of any dust or dirt on their bodies, on their shoes, or on their clothing. And my main contention was that there was absolutely incontrovertible physical proof that these men could not have participated.

The second main argument was the time element involved. All of the Commonwealth testimony, and there were four or five witnesses on this subject, was that this riot took place between one-thirty and one forty-five and that, at the most, it lasted five minutes. I believe one man said it lasted ten minutes, and they were carefully examined on that point. So that, at the very latest, this riot was over and the men out of there by one fifty-five, and yet all of the police evidence shows that these men had been arrested at two fifteen. The very minimum, therefore, of twenty minutes expired from the very last moment when that riot took place to the moment when these men were supposed to have been arrested after the hot pursuit of just six blocks from the scene of the riot.

I contended that if these men had been in that riot, they would have been more like six miles, or sixteen miles away, if they had twenty minutes in which to drive rapidly, rather than just six blocks away. So that was my second main point.

There are a number of other factors which I argued before the Board; for example, all the evidence was that these men ran in and ran out, and yet one of our defendants, Mr. DiAntonio, proved to the court or proved at the trial that he suffered a war injury which made him incapable of running.

Then I talked about Gleba's self-interest, bearing in mind that there were only two Commonwealth witnesses who identified any of these men. One was Gleba, who identified one, and Blocker, who identified three. I talked about Gleba's self-interest and his own contradictory testimony because when Gleba was shown these men in the clothes that they were wearing at the moment of their arrest, he said that he could not identify any of them. At a later hearing he said he could identify one, but when questioned about his failure to identify them earlier, he said, I wasn't sure then that I could identify them, and I am not sure now. Yet at the trial he identified one without any hesitation.

I also talked about the testimony of Blocker, who was the indispensable witness of the Commonwealth, because in an offense of this kind there must be an identification of at least three of the defendants participating, and that is insisted upon. Blocker was the only one who did it, and I talked about Blocker at length, who is an elderly illiterate junk man who happened to be on the scene. He had done business with Gleba for many years.

Blocker was shown these men, not once, but several times, immediately following their arrest and in the jailhouse, and he said several times, "I cannot identify any of these men." He later had an opportunity to identify them about six days later at a Justice of the Peace hearing, and could not identify any of them. About six more days later, at a Justice of the Peace hearing, he identified two of them. At the trial he tried to identify the same three, but he got mixed up as to one of them, and he wound up by identifying four.

Another point I brought out about Blocker was that roughly a month after the trial was over he was indicted for larceny. He plead guilty.

I also brought out the fact that when Mr. Blocker was testifying to these identifications, of these five men, he was, of course, put under very heavy cross-examination by Mr. Kraft because—well, I suppose I might as well mention this now, both Mr. Kraft and I have always thought that Blocker intentionally perjured his testimony. He was being cross-examined very heavily. And in the course of the testimony an objection was made and the trial judge at one stage characterized Mr. Blocker as a very fair witness doing his best to tell the truth. We asked for the withdrawal of the jury because of that characterization which we regarded as unfair, and which was denied.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Was that Judge Irvin?

A Yes, sir.

Now the next point I made concerned the atmosphere of the trial. Something was said about that in the earlier hearing. I argued this point to the Pardons Board. I made it crystal clear that I was not charging any intentional bias to the judge or to the jury, but that I said this was a serious crime that was committed. This riot, of course, was a very serious matter, and I made no defense of it whatsoever. It was a vicious thing. I pointed out that I thought the court and the members of the jury and the entire community would be less than human if they didn't feel a very hot resentment against what took place there that afternoon. I said that I felt that this very natural resentment against a riot that took place on public propery created an atmosphere we simply couldn't anticipate, and at the trial we could not overcome it. I know Mr. Kraft and I have always felt—and I argued this before the Pardons Board—that these men were not convicted on the basis of facts, but they were convicted largely on the basis of an adverse atmosphere.

Now, one of the points I argued a little earlier than at this point, or when I presented this case orally, concerned the great difficulty which we had in the courts. The difficulty in the courts grew out of the fact that there never is the clear issue of innocence when you are appealing a case, defending a case in the Appellate Courts. When you try to argue innocence, the court will answer you by simply saying, "Well, if there is any evidence to go to the jury, then we will attach irrevocable finality to that jury verdict." And that's what we were up against in the court. They simply attach irrevocable finality to that jury verdict. And when we argued about innocence, the only reply you would get is, "Well, if there was any evidence to go to the jury, that's final." And, of course, the evidence that took this case to the jury on the part of the Commonwealth was that wholly unreliable contradictory testimony of the elderly and illiterate junk man. And the jury believed that, I think, largely because of that highly hostile atmosphere, even as against the evidence based on incontrovertible facts, which we said pointed to the innocence of these men.

So that we simply never had the clear issue of innocence when we were in the courts, and I told the Pardons Board that the only tribunal in this state where you have the opportunity to argue that simple issue of innocence is the Pardons Board. It is only the Board of Pardons that has that power. That was, of course, the first argument.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now then, you received notice that the application had been refused?

A Yes sir.

Q Did the application say that it had been refused on the grounds that the men had not yet been to jail, or that it was refused upon the merits?

A It did not.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you have a copy of it?

A No, but I know that all it said was that the petition was denied or refused.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Refused; that is all they ever say.

SENATOR SCOTT: That is normal procedure when they refuse them? They don't give any reason; is that it?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is right, and the card simply said "Refused," but that's why I am leading up to the next question.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, after receiving notice that it had been refused and not knowing if it was on the merits or on the procedural ground, did there come a time thereafter when the men did go to jail?

A Yes, the men were committed to jail on October 13, 1955.

Q Thereafter, did you question anybody connected with the Board of Pardons or its staff as to the proper procedure to be followed to secure a re-hearing?

A I did. Of course, as soon as these men went to jail there was tremendous pressure from them and their families on us; that is, on me as an attorney, to get those cases before the Pardons Board again. Despite the jury verdict, which was affirmed by the courts, these men certainly never accepted the fact that they were guilty, and they always acted and talked to me like men who were innocent, and, of course, I thought they were innocent. Their wives, their children, their friends, and members of their Union certainly all believed in their innocence. They were eager to have me go before the Pardons Board again just as soon as possible. It was my judgment that they should not go immediately; that they should at least wait a few months.

They were putting on enormous pressure to try to get them out before Christmas because they just could not abide the thought of being away from their wives and children on Christmas. I simply dissuaded them from going too soon, but I did, of course, want to go in time to get them pardoned. I hoped that they might be pardoned in the course of three or four months, or somewhere around there.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Will you answer the question, Mr. Trescher?

A Yes, I will answer it right now.

It was about the middle of December that I decided that I had to go ahead and file something, hoping that they would get out early in the coming year. And I had been put on the horns of a dilemma by reason of having gone before the Pardons Board while the men were still in court, before they went to jail. I always felt that I made a pretty good impression on the Board.

MR. KOHN: Let's get to the questions and answers.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Don't interrupt him. I don't think you ought to—

MR. KOHN: I don't think the committee is interested in what impression he made on the Board or what impression he did not make.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Just a minute. Will you address your remarks to the Chairman instead of interrupting the witness?

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I think we ought to get right down to the questions in fact here instead of Mr. Trescher telling us what impressions he made with the Board of Pardons. It is all in the record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If the Board says that, that is a different thing.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, of course, what Mr. Trescher's own feelings on the matter are of little concern to us, nor do I think to the Pardons Board. As to what he did, however, on behalf of these men is of some importance.

MR. KOHN: I have no objection to that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right, but I do not think it is proper for counsel just to butt in on the witness that way. I think he should address the chair.

MR. KOHN: Mr. McBride, I intend to butt in if he is going to make a speech.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Just address the Chair. That is not asking too much.

MR. KOHN: I will, sir.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Go ahead, Mr. Trescher. The question is, being faced with that difficulty, what did you do about it?

A I did not know whether the case had been turned down on the grounds of policy or on the merits, and I wanted to get back before the Pardons Board reasonably soon. I knew that if it had been turned down on the merits, there was a one-year rule which I faced, because under the rules he cannot go before the Pardons Board short of a year after he had been turned down unless there are new and compelling reasons. On the other hand, had he been turned down as a matter of policy, just because the cases were previously before the courts, I feet that there was no reason why I should not have gone back before the Pardons Board any time I pleased.

I called Mr. Hean to find out whether I had been denied that original pardon on the merits or on a matter of policy, and just where I stood as to my right to go before the Pardons Board again short of the year.

Mr. Hean told me that he did not know the answer to that question and that I should get in touch with the Attorney General, Mr. Cohen, to get his views on it, which I did. I called Mr. Cohen and asked whether I could come down to see him to discuss this procedural question. I also told him that I was trying to leave the following day for a vacation in California and that I would appreciate a chance to see him soon. And he said to come down any time; he would see me some time that day. So I then asked my associate, Mr. Fawcett, to join me in going to Harrisburg, because I wanted him to do anything that had to be done while I was away. I then called the head of the Local in Philadelphia, a Mr. Lavery, and asked him if he had somebody at the Union who could provide transportation to Harrisburg, and he said he would take me down himself. So Mr. Lavery, Mr. Fawcett and I drove down to Harrisburg. We went in to Mr. Cohen's office. We sat around there for an hour or so, and finally Mr. Cohen came in and said, "Come in." Mr. Lavery and I stepped in. I asked Mr. Cohen the question as to where I stood, after explaining my dilemma. He said that he saw no impropriety—

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Who said that?

A Well, Mr. Kohn, I do not know what his exact words were. He said that it would be all right to file a new petition.

Q What is this that he said to you about impropriety?

A I do not know—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He said there was no impropriety, and he was going to continue, before he was so rudely interrupted, by saying there was no impropriety in filing a new petition.

THE WITNESS: Well, I must say that I could not begin to tell you the precise words used by Mr. Cohen, but my general recollection is that he told me there would be no impropriety, or words to that effect, in filing another petition before the Board of Pardons.

I then explained to him that I was very eager to have this case heard as soon as possible, and I asked whether it would be all right to file a petition for an advanced listing. He said that it would be entirely in order to do so; that any such petition would be considered by the Board as a whole, and that I would simply have to abide by the action of the Board.

When I got that answer, I got out as fast as I could, because I did not want to run any risk of his changing his mind. Mr. Fawcett, Mr. Lavery and I went back to Philadelphia, and I don't think I returned to the office that day. I went right to my home, and the next day I went off to California for about two or three weeks.

Mr. Fawcett, in my office (my associate), I told of my meeting with Mr. Cohen. Of course, he was in the ante-room; he did not attend the conference that I had with Mr. Cohen. I told him what I wanted done. He then followed up by filing a new petition, together with a letter addressed to Mr. Hean, I think it was, asking that these cases be given an early listing. Mr. Fawcett tells me that he either had a talk with Mr. Hean on the telephone or a letter from him, I forget which, in which Mr. Hean said that the way to handle this case was not to file this petition; that we might as well save our money. He said, just file an application, a separate application, for a re-hearing on the old petition and that will be taken up by the Board.

And the next thing I knew about it was when I returned from California and Mr. Fawcett told me that these cases were to be argued some time in January, January 18th, and I came down on January 18th and argued them.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q How long did the first argument take?

A Well, as I recall, the first argument took somewhere over an hour; I would say between an hour and an hour and a half.

Q Now, on the first argument, you say Mr. Finnegan was present?

A That is correct.

Q Was Mr. Finnegan present on the second argument?

A He was not.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Were you present?

A I was. I made the second argument.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Were you in the room when Mr. Hughes of Delaware County graphically described Mr. Finnegan's statement that the second argument was in contradiction of the official transcript?

A I was.

Q How long did the second argument take?

A I would estimate some time between an hour and an hour and one-half.

Q Did you at any time during this case talk over the merits of the case with Attorney General Cohen, or attempt in any way to influence him by any improper motives?

A Well, of course, I never attempted to influence him by any motives at all. I did talk over the merits of the case sufficiently to explain to him the dilemma I was in and the procedural problem I had. I had to tell him that I had argued the earlier case on the grounds of innocence, but that the policy question was injected into the argument by the Board. But we did not get into the details of the case at all.

Q Did the filing of the petition for clemency have the full approval of President Judge Kraft?

A It certainly did.

Q Did he authorize you to make a statement for him to this Board?

A Yes, he did. He, in a three-way telephone conversation with you, Judge Kraft and myself—and which he has re-affirmed in one or two conversations since then that I have personally had with him—has authorized me to say that—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a minute. I want to ask you a question here at this point.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Judge Kraft is now a Federal Judge, is he not?

A That is right.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He wants to tell the Board—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We are perfectly willing to take testimony of this kind, but if Judge Kraft is so vitally interested in this, I was wondering whether or not he would care to submit a letter to this committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He will. Do you remember, Mr. Chairman, that I stated that before, and that I told the committee that Judge Kraft said he would submit the letter? He will not volunteer at all because he is a Federal Judge, but he awaits the pleasure of the committee. If the committee will write to Judge Kraft and say that they would welcome any views he wishes to express in this matter, he will be delighted to comply in any way that the committee wishes.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, maybe I am somewhat confused. It sounds as though we are re-trying a Pardons Board case, and I know their objections raised to that earlier. To me the only question is whether, when this pardon was sought, it was done in a proper way or whether it was done in an improper way; not whether the men were innocent or guilty. Now am I wrong or right on that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I certainly think you are right, with one qualification, Mr. Bell, and that is if the arguments that were made were based upon innocence, and the lawyers, one of whom is presently a Federal Judge, believe in that innocence, it tends to be some evidence that the reasons relied upon were proper ones rather than improper ones.

Mr. KOHN: Those are not the reasons they gave in the commutation.

SENATOR SCOTT: Well that was going to be the question I was going to ask. What are the final reasons?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That was asserted in the petition itself.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. McBRIDE, of course I do not think you are taking the position that because an attorney feels that his client is innocent—and I think most attorneys do feel their clients are innocent—that that is any reason for a member of the Board to talk over the merits of the case prior to a meeting of the Pardons Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No, I would not say that at all. The Attorney General did not talk over the merits of this case; he talked over the procedural aspect.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Sir, the testimony that I took down in my own handwriting here was that the witness stated that he talked over the merits of the case with Mr. Cohen.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The merits of the case as they affected the procedural question is what he said, Mr. Bell.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I will rely on the record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Sure, so will I.

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, the question with which we are faced at the moment is whether we are going to let this witness tell what a third person told him to pass on to this committee. That is the dilemma we are faced with, as to whether we are going to receive that or not.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I concede under strict principles of evidence it is hearsay.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We have been rather liberal in admitting this type of information previously. We would like very much to have Judge Kraft submit his statement to the Board in writing, although we would like also to have the Judge before us for cross-examination.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Bell knows Judge Kraft.

SENATOR SCOTT: If Judge Kraft wants this Board to know that he feels the people are innocent—and I presume that is exactly what he is going to tell us—I certainly have no objection to your passing that on to the committee for what it is worth.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q And further, he authorized you, Mr. Trescher, did he not, to say that to the Board, and to say further that if the Board communicated with him he would be glad to place his views of the matter as to any question submitted by the Board to him upon the record in any way that the Board wanted it?

A That is correct, sir.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Trescher, did this statement of Judge Kraft come following a request from either you or General McBride to him?

A Yes. Immediately at the close of either the first or second day of the hearing, Attorney General McBride and I had a three-way telephone converastion with Judge Kraft to discuss his views of this case, and he at that time authorized these statements.

Q Who telephoned whom?

A I telephoned Judge Kraft from Mr. McBride's office.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Very well, proceed.

THE WITNESS: Well, the answer to the last question is that Judge Kraft authorized me to say that he re-affirms his belief in the innocence of the men; that he has always believed that they were convicted on the intentionally perjured testimony of Mr. Blocker; that he believes the absence of duct or dirt on the bodies or the clothing of these men is uncontrovertible proof of their innocence. He believes that the time element also proves their innocence. He believes that the sentence of two years, plus fifteen hundred dollars fine, was excessive under the circumstances; and that viewing the facts in the light even most unfavorable to these men, that a six-months' sentence would have been abundant. And then, he went on to say that he will confirm this in writing, or, if the committee would like to have him testify personally, he would be glad to come at the committee's request.

Q Now, he speaks of perjured testimony. Was the issue of this testimony raised at any time in connection with the application for a new trial, or at the original trial?

A Yes sir. Those questions—the credibility of Blocker was argued before the courts.

Q Was that before or after the veridct?

A Well, it was argued, of course, to the jury. It was argued before the lower court on a motion for a new trial.

Q Well, the question of the credibility of this witness was argued before the jury, then?

A Oh, yes.

Q And the jury believed that the witness was telling the truth?

A That is correct, apparently so.

Q Do you engage in much criminal practice?

A Very little.

Q Have you ever represented a case that went before a jury where you did not believe your client was innocent.

A I have had little or no experience in criminal work, frankly.

Q It might interest you to know that Mr. McBride, in his seventeen years' experience in the District Attorney's office, never had a defendant come before the court who went to a jury that the defendant counsel did not think the defendant innocent and protected his innocence until the end.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is exactly contrary to my own experience. I have represented hundred of men whom I did not put on the stand because I did not want them to commit perjury.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You still believe in the cause of your client?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Certainly I believe that they have the right to put the Commonwealth to proof and no self-respecting lawyer would ever give up such a prerogative. But having them testify falsely when you know they are guilty is a horse of another color. But I do not think I have ever, except on rare occasions—and any self-respecting lawyer that I know of does not go around blathering about his client's innocence where he has doubts about it or where he thinks he is guilty. He will leave the issue to the jury and to the courts to settle.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q All of these reasons, Mr. Trescher, that you gave before the Pardons Board, except one or two of the persons involved, were presented to the jury, weren't they at that time?

A That is correct. May I ask, Senator Scott, you made some comment about my arguing the merits to Mr. Cohen? I only discussed the merits of the case in my conference with Mr. Cohen to the extent of telling him that I had argued to the Pardons Board that these men were innocent, but I did not assign any reasons.

Q The question was raised whether you actually made the statement as to whether you discussed the merits with Mr. Cohen, and I think the records will show that you did discuss the merits with Mr. Cohen. Then you qualified that with what you just said.

A Yes, I want to make that clear.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Lavery was with you when you went in to see Mr. Cohen, was he not?

A That is correct.

Q Was he introduced to Mr. Cohen?

A Well, I assume so. I do not have a distinct recollection of introducing him, but I would say yes.

Q Who is Mr. Lavery?

A Mr. Lavery at that time was acting as the President of the Philadelphia Local of the International Union of Operating Engineers, and I think he is still in that same position.

Q Was that position made known to Mr. Cohen when you paid your visit to him?

A I just do not remember one way or the other. Frankly, I have no independent recollection of Mr. Lavery even being there, because I am quite certain that he did not say anything and nothing was said to him. But he told me that he walked into the room with us and I, of course, assumed that he was introduced to Mr. Cohen.

Q Is that the same Mr. Lavery who is now under indictment in the Tobyhanna case?

A I understand that it is.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Did Mr. Lavery know Mr. Cohen?

A I have no idea.

Q Well, was there any familiarity between Attorney General Cohen and Mr. Lavery?

A No.

Q Do you drive an automobile?

A I do.

Q Is it customary when you come to Harrisburg, such as when talking with the Attorney General, to ask your client to drive you here?

A Well, I frequently will ask the Union to drive me somewhere, particularly when I make the engagement on the spur of the moment, as I did in this case. I would say it is very common for one of the business managers or agents of the Union to drive me here and there. It happens frequently. For example, when I visited the men out in Broadmeadows I would almost always be driven out by one of the members of the Union because there is simply not any public transportation, and I just never take my own car into town.

Q Was the sole reason for your obtaining union transportation to Harrisburg on that date so that you would have transportation?

A That is correct.

Q And it was not for the purpose of taking the Union man in to meet Mr. Cohen?

A No, that was not the purpose at all; it was solely for transportation.

Q Why did you take him in?

A Well, as I said, I have no independent recollection of his even going in, but Mr. Lavery told me that he did step in with us. It was just one of those things that happen on the spur of the moment for no particular reason.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Why didn't Mr. Fawcett go in with you too?

A Well, I asked him that, and he told me that he was in and out doing other business and he is not even sure that he was there when Mr. Lavery and I walked in, but he was there when we walked out, as he tells me that Mr. Lavery was with us.

Q Then Mr. Fawcett did not go in to confer with Mr. Cohen with you and Mr. Lavery?

A No. Mr. Fawcett did not know anything about the case up to that point.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q To your knowledge, was Mr. Lavery engaged in poltics in the City of Philadelphia?

A To the best of my knowledge he is not, but I do not really know Mr. Lavery personally. It is just a lawyer-cient relationship.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q In this case, the Board finally did recommend commutation of the sentence, didn't they?

A That is right.

Q Have you ever seen the reasons that they submitted to the Governor?

A Well, I think there was some reference to them here and in an earlier hearing.

Q I do not recall what those reasons were, and after listening to your argument before the Pardons Board as to why a commutation should be given, I would like to hear what the Board actually decided and the reasons for their decision.

A Well, of course, I have never seen them myself.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q I would like to ask you another question regarding Mr. Lavery. He was the President of the Local?

A Well, he was in charge of the Local. You see, the Local is under the supervision of the International and the actual agent sent in by the International to supervise the Local is Mr. Hunter Wharton from Washington, but I think that he uses Mr. Lavery as his assistant in charge of the Philadelphia picture. Frankly, I do not know what his exact title is, but I know that he has the major responsibility for that Local.

Q On your other trips when you have had Union transportation, was Mr. Lavery your chauffeur?

A He was at times. There were two or three others who would drive me from time to time.

Q Were they always people in similar positions as Mr. Lavery?

A No, I think Mr. Lavery was the top man. The others were business agents as far as I know.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q You might be interested in knowing that the Board was pretty much convinced by the arguments which you made, because one of the reasons that they gave for approving commutation was that at the time of the trial the feelings of the citizens of Delaware County were such that the court and jury were undoubtedly influenced by the attitude of the general public.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did you have a change of venue for these cases?

A No, we did not.

Q From the arguments there that you have given to this committee, do you think that you would have been justified in asking for a change of venue?

A No, because we had no way to anticipating the kind of atmosphere that prevailed, and I want to make it clear that I do not charge the court out there with any intentional bias in this case. I am most emphatic on that point. I do not charge the court or the jury with any intentional bias. I simply say here is a serious crime conducted on public property in the very shadow of the court house, which outraged the whole community, particularly the police, the court and public officials generally. And I simply argued to the Pardons Board that they would all be less than human if they did not feel some outrage about that situation, which in some way we feel was reflected in the verdict.

Q You did have some preconceived feelings, however, that a situation of that kind existed?

A Well, nothing of—

MR. CHAIRMAN: If I may, the gentleman, I think, has to leave at 3:30, and we have not even permitted our own counsel to do any cross-examining. I think that we should let him do so.

(Discussion off the record.)

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Now wait a minute. I have a couple of questions here. Mr. Trescher, I am not going to try to define a politician, but I suppose you know what a politician is. Are you a politician?

A No sir.

Q You already said that Mr. Lavery was not a politician, to the best of your knowledge.

A To the best of my knowledge, he is not, but I do not know Mr. Lavery personally.

Q Is Mr. Fawcett a politician?

A No sir.

Q Before you came to Harrisburg to see Mr. Cohen did you or Mr. Lavery or Mr. Fawcett call any politicians to tell Mr. Cohen that you were on your way up, and to grant you any courtesies or favors?

A No sir.

Q What arguments did you present at the second hearing that you didn't present at the first hearing?

A Well, I pretty much reviewed the same substansive matter that I have heretofore discussed, but at the second hearing, since the men were then in jail, I talked about the excessive sentence. I said that we were shocked by the two year sentence with $1,500 fine; that I felt, particularly in view of the unreliable character of Blocker's testimony, that looking at the facts in the light most unfavorable to these witnesses, a sentence of a few weeks or a couple of months would have been abundant. And I also then talked about the clean record of the men. I would like to emphasize that here, because these men have been characterized in earlier testimony here as being hoodlums. They are not hoodlums and they never were. These men had crystal clear records before this trial. I also talked about their good behavier in jail at the second hearing, and I went into the second hearing with a letter from the warden. I don't recall the exact wording of it. I presented it to the Board and it's probably in the file, but in it he says that they did not require further rehabilitation. And I argued to the Board that that was really an understatement of his views compared to what he had told us orally; that he had always said to us orally that these men were fine boys who were not the kind to be in jail; they were his best boys. And I felt that in interpreting that letter it was clear that he felt there was no purpose whatsoever to be served by their staying there any longer.

Then I wound up by arguing that in the interest of justice, I felt the Pardons Board ought to exercise its power of clemency in this case.

Q When you were engaged to represent these defendants, who was it who engaged you? Was it the defendant himself or Mr. Lavery?

A Well, it wasn't Mr. Lavery. At first it was Mr. Fortman, who is the supervisor in charge of the Local. He happens to look after their interests on behalf of the Union and, of course, I immediately called the men in and told them that they had the right to get their own counsel, or they could do as they pleased by way of the defense of their case, but that the Union was willing to provide them with legal service if they wanted it, and they said they wanted us to take care of them and then we talked about local counsel and they agreed that Mr. Kraft should represent them.

Q How did Mr. Lavery get into it?

A Well, Mr. Lavery eventually came into the picture, as I understand it, he came in some months after that as an assistant to Mr. Wharton, in charge of the Philadelphia Local. You see Mr. Wharton was down in Washington and could not be in Philadelphia all the time.

Q When you decided to ask Mr. Lavery to drive you to Harrisburg and to take him along, did you do that because he was a client or a semi-client, or because you wanted to take him along as a means of using pressure on somebody up here?

A I did not take him along as a means of using pressure upon anyone. I simply called him to find out if there was somebody who could drive me to Harrisburg so that I could get down there in a hurry and get back. I wanted to leave for California the next day and that was an item I wanted to clear up in a hurry before going to California.

I asked him if there was somebody who could drive me to Harrisburg, and he said "I'll do it myself." So he picked me up in ten minutes or a half hour and we drove off.

SENATOR YOSKO: All right, I have nothing more.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Kohn?

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Trescher, I called you last Friday and told you I was sending Mr. Evans down to interrogate you.

A Yes sir.

Q At that time you asked me what we wanted with the Union records, didn't you?

A Yes sir; well, let's hear that again.

Q At that time you started to question me as to what I wanted with the Union records; why I was getting them. Did you or didn't you?

A That I don't recall.

Q Don't you recall mentioning that?

A The Union records—well, if he didn't mention the Union records to me I wouldn't have known you had any.

Q You asked me what I wanted with them, why I was getting a copy of the Union records?

A No, I have no recollection of that.

Q You don't have any recollection of it?

A I have no recollection of any such conversation.

Q Do you deny that you might have said that?

A I say I have no recollection of any such conversation.

Q When did you receive notice from Judge Clary that we were asking for Union records?

A Well, I think some of my partners told me on Wednesday.

Q Wednesday of last week before I called you?

A Well, I don't know whether it was before or after.

Q Well, it was Wednesday of this week?

A No, it was last week.

Q Can't you tell me when it was last week? I called you Friday, didn't I? I called you for an appointment on Friday? I called Judge Clary for an appointment Thursday and told Mr. Evans to be here Friday at eleven o'clock.

A I thought you called me Wednesday but I am not sure. It isn't clear in my mind.

Q Mr. Evans did come down to see you Friday, didn't he?

A Yes.

Q And those records, the Union records, were in the hands of the Court then, weren't they?

A That's right.

Q Mr. Evans asked you on what date did you meet Mr. Cohen, and you told him December 19, 1955. Is that right?

A That's correct.

Q He asked you, did Mr. Cohen have anyone else with him during the discussion. You said, no, Mr. Cohen was alone. Is that right?

A No, I did not say that. I said that I wasn't sure. I said that I had no independent recollection of it.

Q Mr. Evans asked you if you had anyone else with you, and your answer was, John Fawcett was with me but he was not taking part in the conference, is that right?

A That's right.

Q Mr. Evans asked you if there was anyone other than John Fawcett with you. Your answer was, yes, we had a driver from the Union and went in one of the Union cars since we represent the Union frequently, and when we want to go somewhere in order to avoid the necessity or delay in using public transportation, we would call Union Headquarters, and they would send up a car with a driver to take you wherever you want. Is that right?

A Well, not in just those words, but that's substantially right.

Q And he asked you what was the name of the Union driver and your answer was, I don't recall, but it was possibly one of four men—a fellow by the name of Edwards or Gaul or Lavery or another person whose name I can't think of at the moment, but I will find out for you. Did you say that?

A No, I told him that I thought it was Mr. Lavery but I said I would find out. I would talk to Mr. Lavery and Mr. Fawcett to be absolutely sure.

Q You didn't mention Gaul or Edwards?

A I did, I said that from time to time I drove with a Mr. Gaul and a man named Edwards.

Q Did you say they might have driven you?

A I did not.

Q Why did you mention them?

A Because I said to him that there were times when these other men did drive me from place to place.

Q You said Mr. Fawcett, your partner, remained outside while you took Mr. Lavery in, is that right?

A That is right.

Q Now it just so happened Lavery was driving, but it could have been anyone, Gaul or Edwards or anyone else, on this particular case. You didn't request Lavery, did you?

A No, I didn't ask for Mr. Lavery.

Q And he happened to be the Chairman of the Union, didn't he?

A I told you I am not sure of his title.

Q You saw the records. You had the Union records. You represent the Union, don't you?

A I do not personally know—

Q Didn't you see the records of the Union?

A I have not seen the records.

Q Have you ever seen them?
A Never.
Q Did you look at them down in Judge Clary's office?
A I did not.
Q Well then, you found out it uses Lavery, didn't you?
A That's right.
Q And you took Mr. Lavery inside with you and you left Mr. Fawcett outside?
A You say I took Mr. Lavery inside. He came in with us.
Q You didn't object?
A No, I certainly did not.

Q This is the Harry W. Lavery who was under indictment wtih the Tobyhanna Signal Corps in connection with Congressman Green from Philadelphia, isn't it?
A That is correct.
Q And it so happened you took your driver in and left the lawyer outside, your partner, is that right?
A I don't recall. I'm not even sure if Mr. Fawcett was in the waiting room when we walked in. In any event, he did nothing about the case and didn't choose to go in.

Q Didn't you talk to me Monday of this week and tell me that you had wanted to make a correction on what you told Mr. Evans, and that you found out that it was actually Mr. Lavery who drove you, and I told you that it was soon time you found out what the score was, and I already knew that?
A I didn't tell you that I wanted to make a correction; I told Mr. Evans that I would ascertain for certain who drove us, and I told you it was Mr. Lavery.

Q Now why would you take Mr. Lavery, the Chairman of this Union into a conference with Mr. Cohen, the Attorney General?
A Well—
Q Well, what did he have to discuss with Mr. Cohen on procedure?
A Well, Mr. Lavery was the head of the local at that time.
Q Was he interested in procedure or in driving you to Harrisburg?
A He was certainly interested in righting a wrong.
Q He was interested in finding out what could be done?
A He was just as much interested as I was in knowing whether we were going to have to wait a year to reargue these cases.
Q Do you take your clients into the judge's office to find out what he is going to do about things?
A Well, I have not.
Q Well, Mr. Lavery did not send the letters out?
A But I have often had clients with me to see lawyers.
Q There is nothing unusual about that?
A No.
Q There is something unusual about taking a client to see a judge and discussing a case with him, is there not? There is something unethical about it?
A No. In a matter pending before a Court I think it would be rather unusual to take a client before a judge.
Q The Court would not stand for it very long?
A But, of course, he was not one of the men involved.
Q No, but he was involved in paying your fees, was he not?
A Oh, sure.
Q And involved in having an interest in these five men who were in jail. You did not know that Mr. Lavery had a meeting of which he was Chairman on December 19th? You did not see these minutes, did you?
A No.
Q In those minutes it said the Chairman, Mr. Lavery, explained that he was not present at the Board meeting of December 19, 1955, due to his having to appear before the Attorney General of the State at Harrisburg that day with two of the local Union's lawyers to make every last minute effort to try to have the five brother members at Media released from Broadmeadows by Christmas. Evidently, Mr. Lavery in explaining his trip with you knew that you had an appointment with Mr. Cohen, and said he had one himself to discuss this case.
A I didn't know anything about those minutes.
Q You don't know anything about those minutes?
A No.
Q How much were you paid by the Union?
A Well, I can't answer that because I don't draw up the bill. There is another partner in our office who does that.
Q Well, you told Mr. Evans that you were paid.
A I told him we were paid but I don't know what.

Q Why didn't you put it on your application for commutation how much you were paid or who you represented? You didn't tell the Board anything about that. did you?
A The men were not paying us anything.
Q You stated on there, the application, "No fee has been paid or agreed to."
A That is correct.
Q Does that mean between the men or between you and the Union, which?
A Well, no fee had been either paid or agreed to by either the men or the Union.

Q You know the requirements of the Board of Pardons, the rule requiring that you disclose to them who and what you were paid?
A No, I don't know any such rule.
Q Now then, after you talked to Mr. Cohen about this special procedure how to get this case on before a year, you left for California, didn't you?
A That's correct.
Q Then you found out from Mr. Cohen the procedure, did you?
A Well, Mr. Cohen said that it would be entirely all right to file a new application under the circumstances.
Q Did he promise you special consideration for an immediate listing?
A He did not.
Q And then Mr. Fawcett back in December 29th prepared and submitted to the Board five applications enclosing a check for $75, didn't he?
A That is correct. Now as to the date that was done, I don't know.
Q That was about—
A Frankly, I don't know. It is in the records.

Q You take my word for it. That money was returned to you, and you were advised that the applications would be considered as rehearings, is that right?
A Mr. Fawcett, yes.
Q And you say you argued the second case before the Pardons Board?

A I did.

Q Then there was the special listing for January, is that right?

A That is correct.

Q Between the time you had seen Mr. Cohen on December 19 and the time the applications were filed, you had filed nothing in writing for rehearing, had you?

A Repeat that again.

Q I said, between December 19th and the time that Mr. Fawcett filed the applications in writing for a rehearing, there had been nothing done requesting the rehearing except your conference with Mr. Cohen?

A Oh no, there was a letter sent to Mr. Hean as I recall it.

Q At what date?

A I don't remember the date of the letter.

Q Who sent that letter?

A Mr. Fawcett, I think, wrote him a letter saying that we would like to have this listed early. That was the extent of the letter. It really was not a rehearing application. It was simply a letter making a request.

Q When was December 19th?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Do you mean what day of the week, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Probably Friday.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Are you sure it wasn't Saturday that you were up here on the 19th, Saturday morning?

A I don't think so because I know I flew to California the next day, and I would normally start a vacation on Saturday.

Q When you went back, when did you leave for California?

A The following morning.

Q The following morning; and you had been in your office the next morning?

A No, I did not go to my office that morning.

Q Do you know if Mr. Fawcett sent a letter out Saturday morning to the Board, when this was Friday?

A He probably did. You see, he was with me and on the way home I explained to him that he should go ahead in my absence.

Q If you were going to get a special listing and a rehearing, why did you have to file new applications when you found out the procedure?

A Well, all I said to Mr. Cohen was, is it all right to file a new application, and he said, yes. And we started off by filing a new application. The reason for that is this, that we had originally gone in and asked for a pardon only. You see, the men were not in jail, so there was only one thing we could ask for—a pardon. And as soon as possible after the men went to jail, we prepared a new set of papers, this time in the form of a petition.

Q For rehearing, you prepared them?

A Yes, I prepared it originally. I mean the long application. I preparaed that soon after the men went to jail, and I had them signed.

Q That was the original application for a pardon?

A No. I had prepared the original petitions for pardon before they went to jail. Then after they went to jail, I prepared another set of papers asking for either a pardon or a commutation. And when Mr. Fawcett filed those, Mr. Hean said this is wrong.

Q That was after you had the conference with Mr. Cohen?

A Precisely. Then Mr. Hean thought Mr. Cohen was wrong in this procedure and thought all of us were wrong.

Q He sent you to Mr. Cohen to get the procedural advice with Mr. Lavery?

A The first time, yes. But all that, of course, was limited to the point of whether we were barred by the one-year rule simply to clear up the question of whether the first decision was based on policy or on the merits.

Q And the Board on December 21, 1955, two days after you left here, promptly gave you a special listing, did they not?

A I do not know how soon that happened. I heard about it when I came home about two or three weeks later.

Q Well for the record, I would like to read this: It says the executive session was held December 21, 1955. at 3:30 p.m., Room 187, Board Office, to consider the held-over advisement cases. Under that it says, the Board allowed special listing at the next session, January 1956, for the following: McSorley, D'Antonio, Dendofer, DiMarco and Rainier.

Now if you came up here with Mr. Lavery on the 19th, you got pretty prompt action, did you not?

A Well, it was satisfactory action from my point of view.

Q You said to the Board when you argued the case the first time that you did not want to see these men go to jail and that they were not guilty, did you not?

A That is right.

Q The District Attorney also argued this case before the Board?

A That is right.

Q So you do not know anything about Mr. Lavery having an appointment with Mr. Cohen, do you?

A Do you mean other than the time he and I met with Mr. Cohen?

Q Yes. He says here in the Minutes of the Union that he had an appointment with Mr. Cohen; that you and he and Mr. Fawcett had an appointment with Mr. Cohen on December 19th. That is the reason he could not be at the meeting as chairman on December 19th. You did not know anything about that appointment, did you?

A All I know is that I called Mr. Cohen that morning and asked if I could see him, and he said, "yes."

Q That does not answer my question. Did you know Mr. Lavery had an appointment?

A No, I did not know about it.

Q You just happened to hit Lavery when you asked for a chauffeur?

A Well, when you say "so happened," he was the head of the Union, and he was the man I contacted when I wanted anything done in the Local.

Q This strike that you are talking about was an argument between the International Union and the Local? The Local had agreed to the terms and the International would not stand for it. The Local sent out these men to create this bottleneck business, did it not?

A That is not correct.

Q Well, didn't the Local agree to—

A The Local conducted a strike for twenty weeks or more. Toward the tail end of that strike, the terms of settlement were offered by the contractors which were on par with what the members of this Union were getting in other areas. The International negotiated with the Local to try to get it to accept these terms and let the men go back to work, and then it was only at the end of the strike and after this particular riot was all over that the Local and the International got into any kind of a battle.

Q You were asked specifically by a member of the Board of Pardons whether you made any investigation to find out who the real culprits in this Union fracas were who caused this riot, were you not?

A I do not remember that.

Q You were trying to square yourself in this riot, were you not?

A I do not believe I was. I do not recall if I was.

Q The Secretary of Internal Affairs asked if you knew of any efforts either on the part of your clients or those who actually did take part in this riot.

A I am sorry. You said Pardons Board. I thought you were talking about this Board. No, I am mistaken.

Q Mistaken about what?

A Well, who asked that question? I was thinking in terms of whether somebody in this particular Board asked that question.

Q Did you answer, "I suppose anybody would assume that this riot was in some way sponsored by some member of this Union and the operating engineers. The business managers and the people who run the Union find they do not know. It probably was; I do not know. My hunch is that someone in the Union did conduct this riot, certainly it is an irresponsible group?"

A I think there is not much doubt about that. Certainly it is an irresposible group. I think there is not much doubt about that. Certainly all evidence will indicate that somebody in this Union knows.

Q And you did not know that in the Union's minutes of Local 542 dated November 1, 1955, the Union acknowledged that these men were involved and are doing time for the entire Union? Let me read from the record representing the Union, in case you have not seen it, the remarks by Brother Frank Antino, pointing out that the situation of the five brothers was of such vital importance that we should not bicker over it. It is necessary to separate the issues in question. He also pointed out that these men were doing time for everyone in the Local Union. You did not know that, did you?

A Well, I just don't interpret it as you do.

Q I should not think you would. You still think these five men were entirely innocent?

A Absolutely.

Q Whom were they doing time for in the Union, then?

A Well, I do not know.

Q Did they ever tell you—

A I don't know who was in this strike.

Q Did you make any effort to ascertain on behalf of the Pardons Board or the authorities of Delaware County who was in it, or aren't you interested in that?

A My sole interest was in defending these five men.

Q And the intent of getting these five men out and not trying to find out, for the sake of justice, who was really involved?

A I am—

Q You are a lawyer representing the Union here and not these men individually?

A I represent them individually, too.

Q You received no fees from them individually. You were paid by the Union?

A That is correct. The Union authorized me to represent them under those terms.

Q I understand that, but you were not interested at all in seeing justice done here?

A I certainly was interested in getting these men off. That was justice.

Q I can understand that. Now did you do anything else besides being interested in getting them off and trying to find out from the members of the Union or their agents who was liable and produce them and prove your men innocent?

A Well, of course, in the preparation of this case for trial, both Mr Kraft and I made a number of inquiries to try to find out who did engage in this riot, but we never got any information of any value at all.

Q Whom did you attempt to get information from?

A I remember talking to the men themselves, to Mr. Gaul, to a man who was a witness in the case, and to the business agent who got these men together and arranged for them to go out there and picket. I have forgotten his name, but he denied having any knowledge as to who was actually involved.

Q Did you expose to Mr. Cohen who Lavery was when you took him into his chambers?

A Well, I undoubtedly introduced him, but beyond that—

Q Have you ever told Mr. Cohen that you represented the Union and not these men individually and you were being paid by the Union?

A I have no distinct recollection of discussing that one way or the other.

Q I say, you did not discuss it?

A Well, I do not know. I just do not recall.

Q Did you ever disclose to the members of the Board of Pardons that you represented the Union rather than the individuals here?

A Well, frankly, I do not remember. If the question had arisen, I certainly would have disclosed it.

Q You did not feel that was vital?

A No.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Now Mr. Kohn, I think in fairness one point should be cleared up. You put a question to Mr. Trescher about Mr. Lavery being indicted in Tobyhanna along with Congressman Green. You do not mean to imply that he was indicted for having done anything wrong together with Mr. Green, do you? He is simply one of those who was indicted in Tobyhanna. There was a large number of defendants. Mr. Green was indicted in Tobyhanna, but there is no suggestion on your part that the two of them were indicted for having done something wrong together?

MR. KOHN: I made no suggestion, Mr. Attorney General. I stated a fact and he answered the question.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, but won't you, in fairness, say that you did not mean to imply that Mr. Lavery was in any way connected with Mr. Green or Mr. Green connected with Mr. Lavery?

MR. KOHN: In this particular instance?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: In the Tobyhanna indictments?

MR. KOHN: I do not know.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Then you will say that you did not mean to imply that they were indicted together?

MR. KOHN: No. I do not know, Mr. McBride.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q May I follow up on that, Mr. Chairman? You are all familiar with this Tobyhanna indictment, are you not? You have read about it in the newspapers?

A Only what I have read in the newspapers, that is all.

Q From what you have read in the newspapers or from other sources, would you feel qualified to say whether or not Mr. Lavery was on very familiar terms with certain Democratic political leaders in the City of Philadelphia?

A I just do not know a thing about the Tobyhanna affair, and I—from all I have seen of Mr. Lavery, I would doubt very much whether he has any connection with people in politics.

Q Who obtained the appointment with Attorney General Cohen?

A I did. I called him that morning.

Q How long did that conversation take place?

A The telephone conversation?

Q No, when you had your appointment up here?

A Why, I would estimate three to five minutes.

Q You were only with the Attorney General for three to five minutes?

A That is right, sir.

Q Now, does Mr. Fawcett drive an automobile?

A He does.

Q And did you request Mr. Fawcett to drive you to Harrisburg?

A No, I did not. You see, we work in the center of Philadelphia and there are very few people who drive their cars to work.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: That's all.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q May I ask you a question, Mr. Trescher? Can you tell this Committee who advanced the $75 filing fee which was sent up by Mr. Fawcett?

A Our firm would always advance fees and then we would be reimbursed by the Union.

Q And in this particular case, was the $75 reimbursed to you by the Union?

A Well, it was paid by the firm by check initially, and then, of course, we would—well, actually we got that $75 back so that there would never be a charge against the Union for that.

Q Who paid you for representing these men?

A Well, the members of the Union, as I understand it, voluntarily adopted an assessment to create a fund for the defense of these cases. We would bill the Union, but I think the Union in turn obtained the money from the members.

Q You do not know whom the Union got the money from?

A Sir?

Q You do not know whom the Union got the money from?

A No, I have no personal knowledge.

Q As a matter of fact, so far as you know, the Union paid your fee for the representation of these men?

A There is no question about that.

Q These men, then, did not pay you anything individually?

A I am quite sure they did not.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is all.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now when the appointment was made, were you already in your office?

A Yes. I called him from my office.

Q And did you or Mr. Fawcett have your cars in town?

A No.

Q Was the appointment for the same day?

A Oh yes, for early that afternoon.

Q Was it necessary then that you arrange for some transportation?

A That is right. If we had to rely on the railroad, I am not sure that we could have gotten down as quickly. It was just a spur of the moment appointment, and a spur of the moment decision to go down by car.

Q Now one final question: You are a partner in your firm, and is your firm connected with Democratic politics?

A No.

Q As a matter of fact, your firm, although not in politics, are very sound Republicans, aren't they?

A It is predominantly a Republican organization, although we do have a few Democrats.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, Mr. Trescher, you say you spent only between three and five minutes in conversation with Attorney General Cohen, is that right?

A I would say that we were actually with him about that time. We, of course, had to wait a long time in his waiting room.

Q I mean the actual time you spent with him?

A I would estimate between three and five minutes. Frankly, when I got the answer I wanted, I just wanted to get out before he changed his mind.

Q Well now, did it occur to you when you made the appointment that maybe you could have talked to him over the telephone and got the information you wanted instead of coming all the way to Harrisburg just to see him for three minutes?

A That occurred to me, but I do not like to ask serious questions like this one on the telephone because you run the risk of getting a quick answer and then not being able to do much about it. It is always too easy to hang up the phone. So I wanted to see him in person.

Q Mr. Lavery, of course, would not have been with you at that time, would he?

A No, he was not.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is all.

RECROSS EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q There is nothing technical about a procedural question that you could not discuss over the telephone?

A Well, the answer to this question determined whether I would wait a year to file a new application or go up some time short of that; and considering my deep feeling about the innocence of these men, to me it was a terribly serious procedural question and nothing that I wanted to discuss on the telephone.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Hean, you say, advised you to contact Mr. Cohen?

A That is correct.

Q Later Mr. Hean gave you all the information, or your partner all the information, covering the procedure, did he not?

A Yes. He told him what procedure he should follow or to take in order to get this matter before the Board promptly. That is correct.

Q Did Mr. Fawcett follow the procedure suggested by Attorney General Cohen?

A Well he, as I understand it, did file the petition. You see, the conference with Mr. Cohen was really a pretty casual thing. I asked him whether it would be appropriate to file these new petitions. He said, yes. Well, when Mr. Fawcett actually filed these petitions. Mr. Hean got in touch with him and said if what he wanted was a prompt rehearing on these things, these petitions really are not necessary. All we needed to do was to file a petition for a rehearing on the basis of the old petition.

So apparently, Mr. Cohen, Mr. Fawcett and I were all wrong on this question of the actual filing of papers. You see, actually Mr. Fawcett and I were completely inexperienced in Pardons Board matters.

Q The advice you followed, or your partner followed, and which apparently you must have transmitted to him following your conference with the Attorney General turned out to be the wrong procedure, wasn't it?

A That is right. Of course, that was incidentally just an incidental procedural problem so that the main one, the one that brought about the conference was this question of whether we had to wait a year on the theory that it would be turned down on the merits, or whether we could go in at any time on the grounds that we had simply been turned down on the policy question.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Trescher, I am a little confused by this technical language on something that is merely procedural. I have here the Pardons Board regulations, and on page 5, Section VI (a) it reads: "Applications for rehearing will not be heard until twelve months have expired after the hearing of the last application. The Board, however, on its own motion may order a rehearing at an earlier date."

Do you consider having an order for a rehearing a procedural matter?

A Well—

Q Is that not a substantive victory? We are being pretty technical.

A I did not get your question. Maybe I can clarify it by going over again my basic dilemma here. When I argued by first petition, the cases were still in the courts and the men had not gone to jail, and we got into a great debate before the Pardons Board as to whether or not, as a matter of policy, they could even hear a case while the cases were still in the courts. But yet when the decision came down, it simply said "denied."

Now, I never knew whether my petition had been denied on the merits simply because the Board, in other words, thought these men were really guilty or whether it had been denied because the Board thought, as a matter of policy, they should not act favorably on a petition while the case was still before the court. You see, I felt that if I had lost on the merits, I would have to wait a year; and if I had lost on the question of policy, then there was no point in waiting a year because these men were in jail.

Q I will repeat my question and make it more simple. When you received the right to a rehearing, do you deem that a procedural victory or a substantive victory?

A Well, just as a matter of procedure.

Q Aren't you really drawing the line pretty closely?

A Well, it is a matter of when you are heard rather than the merits of the case.

Q Sort of lawyers' talk, too?

A Well, you have to draw a line in answer to your question. And I say it is procedural.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q What else could it be?

A I do not see how it could be anything else.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You cannot explain how you got this special listing even before you filed the application? The Board acted on December 21st and you did not file your application until the 27th or 28th?

A I think the application was filed earlier.

Q Not according to the record.

A Well, I do not know anything about it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, the letter was sent up.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The letter was not in the hands of the Board at the time of the special listing.

THE WITNESS: Well, I just don't know the answer to that.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q All right. You would not know the answer to that at all?

A Well—

Q Do you know the answer or don't you?

A Well, let me look at my notes. No, I just do not know the answer to that.

MR. KOHN: All right.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Trescher, do you know whether your second application had been before the Board and returned by Mr. Hean prior to the granting of the special listing?

A No, I do not know that.

Q You do not know that?

A I think your record will probably show that.

MR. KOHN: May I say the second application was not filed until December 27th. We have them here. That is what that will show.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Now let us get down to this other question so we can clarify it very simply. The reason for your going to Attorney General Cohen was to find out whether the decision of the Board had been based upon a technical question of time or whether it had been handed down on the merits. Is that not correct?

A That is correct.

Q And finally, that is the thing that you wanted to ascertain rather than the procedure?

A Well, I would regard that as a procedural matter.

Q I mean procedural to that extent.

A Yes.

Q And that was the only purpose and the only thing that you and Mr. Cohen talked about?

A Yes. That was the sole purpose, and my greatest concern at the moment because it meant the difference of waiting another year.

Q And that was the question which Mr. Hean could not answer without directing you to some Member of the Board?

A That is correct. He sent me to Mr. Cohen as the chief legal advisor for the Executive Department.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Could you not have written a letter to have some of these procedures clarified, Mr. Trecher?

A Well, I probably could have except that I was about to go off to California. I wanted to clear this up before I went because—I wanted, of course, to have this matter come before the Board as soon as possible because I felt so deeply about the innocence of the men.

Q Well, it had been going on for some time, had it not? Why did you wait until the last day?

A Well, simply because I had a lot of things to do.

Q Couldn't Mr. Fawcett have done it for you?

A Well, he probably could have, but I felt so deeply about this thing and I knew all the facts of it, and I simply did not want to entrust it to him.

Q Is it not a matter of fact that you wanted Lavery, the Union representative, to meet the Attorney General?

A No sir.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Trescher, is it customary in your practice to come to Harrisburg and have a special visit with the Attorney General to ask a procedural question?

A Well, it depends, of course, on the seriousness of the matter. To me this was a very serious matter.

Q Have you ever had, before or since, a similar situation?

A I have only had one other Pardons Board matter in my life time. I think that is probably one of the very few times I called on the Attorney General.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q The Attorney General, you testified, was a very busy man at this time, in December 1955?

A Well, I do not know. I had no idea what his schedule was.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did the Attorney General ask you what you wanted to see him about?

A I told him that Mr. Hean had suggested that I talk with him about an important procedural matter and I told him that I was going to California the next day and that I would like to see him that day, if possible. He said, come on down.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Had you ever met Mr. Cohen previous to that time?

A I think I had met him at an alumni gathering attended by six or seven hundred people. He did not know me from Adam, and I do not think I would have known him had I seen him on the street.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will take a fifteen minute recess.

(Short recess)

AFTER RECESS

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. McBride, you put in the one analysis as an exhibit; however, I don't think the 1953-1955 and the 1955-1956 were marked.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think they should be.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We would like to have the information for the use of the Committee.

I would like to announce at this time our time schedules for the balance of today and tomorrow. We will continue with these hearings until 5:00 o'clock this afternoon and then reconvene at 7:30 this evening. Then we will resume at 9:30 tomorrow morning and run through until 3:30 tomorrow afternoon, with lunch, of course, because I understand the Press have a conference with the Governor. We try to arrange everything we can for the convenience of everybody, but sometimes it can't be done. Will that be satisfactory to everybody?

SENATOR YOSKO: Repeat that, please.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will adjourn at 5:00 o'clock this afternoon, and we will reconvene at 7:30 tonight, and tomorrow we will run from 9:30 until 3:30 in the afternoon.

We have other witnesses which have been summoned for tomorrow and we want to try to clear up our schedule.

ATORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May I ask that the recommendations of the judges and district attorneys we have referred to for the periods January, 1953 until December, 1954 be marked as Board of Pardons Exhibit No. 24. And I ask that the recommendations of the judges and district attorneys for the period February 1, 1955 to December 31, 1956 be marked as Board of Pardons Exhibit No. 25. I also ask that the rehearing schelude attached to the certificate of Frank Hean, from which Governor Furman has testified, be marked as Board of Pardons Exhibit No. 26.

Recommendations of Judges and District Attorneys for January 1953 to December 1954—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Board of Pardons Exhibit No. 24. AJP 3/27/57

Recommendations of Judges and District Attorneys for February 1, 1955 to December 31, 1956—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Board of Pardons Exhibit No. 25. AJP 3/27/57

Rehearing Schedule and Certificate taken thereof by Mr. Hean—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Board of Pardons Exhibit No. 26. AJP 3/27/57

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR ROY E. FURMAN, recalled on DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, Governor, there has been marked Board of Pardons Exhibit No. 7, which I am now handing to you. I ask you did you make an analysis upon that list of cases for the County of Delaware commencing in February 1955 and ending February 1956?

A Yes, I did. I made my own analysis from that.

Q Will you tell us in your analysis what the situation was with respect to the recommendations for clemency, the objections to clemency, and whether the Board on the basis of that record was more or less generous than the recommendations of the judges and district attorneys of Delaware County?

A Well, from all the cases listed in this report, or exhibit, there are 20 cases that both the judge and district attorney favored. We granted ten and we refused ten.

Then there are 15 cases that the judge favored but the district attorney opposed. We granted three and rejected 12

Then there are eight cases that the judge opposed but the district attorney favored. We granted two and refused six.

Then there are 22 cases that the judge and district attorney both opposed; we granted six. The five that were just discussed by the witness preceding me were five of those and one besides that, and we rejected 16.

Q So that was the only one, outside of those five which you have spoken about, which were granted over opposition of both the judge and district attorney?

A That is correct.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. McBride, could we have the name of that sole case for the purpose of the record?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think I remember. The first of those was the Caserta case.

THE WITNESS: That is the Caserta case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: And which case has been mentioned here.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What were those dates?

A Beginning February 1955, and up to and including February 1956. That is at the time we had the chart made.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We have brought that list up to date in another paper which I will have marked as an exhibit, but it has not yet been analyzed, and we may be able to analyze it and submit that analysis to the Board in an hour or two or at the evening session.

I ask that the paper marked "Delaware-March 1956" ending with December, 1956, be marked as Pardons Board Exhibit No. 27. I ask leave temporarily to withdraw it for the purpose of making the analysis.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well.

Three-page Photostat entitled "Delaware-March, 1956"—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Board of Pardons Exhibit No. 27. AJP 3/27/57

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You may inquire of the witness.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I call your attention, Governor, to the rule set forth in your Executive Committee Minutes, paragraph 6 (b), with regard to rehearings. Do you recall that you had a comment therein that this rule should be more strictly enforced and that rehearings should not be granted except on new grounds?

A I said that we had so many requests for rehearings that we decided it would be better for the Board to adhere more strictly to the rules and in asking for rehearings that new or additional evidence be submitted.

Q At that time there were no rules laid down as to whether these new requests or new reasons should be either put forth in petition form or in letter form, is that right?

A You mean prior to the time we passed the rule?

Q Yes.

A I think that those requests probably just came in and asked for a rehearing; a formal request.

Q Well, what I mean is, even after you decided by executive action that the rules should be more strictly enforced, you did not lay down any particular rule as to the form which that application for rehearing could take? It could be by letter or it could be by petition?

A By petition, that's right.

Q Don't you think as a matter of procedure it might be best if the thing were passed upon and that it should be by petition setting forth the new matters rather than by a letter sent to the Board setting forth a lot of irrelevant things?

A Well, we try to determine the best we can. Sometimes when they have listed additional reasons, we have rejected them, I am sure, because we did not think they were valid reasons. But if there is something, I think it is only fair and proper that we should grant a rehearing if something new happens.

Q I am not questioning that. So that you understand, I refer you to your action of October 25, 1955, in which the following statement is made.

A I have it here.

Q It is contained in the minutes: "The Board also unanimously voted to closely follow Rule 6, Section (b), so that no petitions for rehearing will be considered for allowances unless there be new facts, both substantial and material, not previously presented."

And in line with the amendment to Rule 5, Section (b), the December list was closed and the new rule put into effect—well, that is not relevant. That is in regard to bimonthly listings.

Now do you think that you have followed that rule very strictly?

A Rather strictly, I think.

Q May I call to your attention the Mollica case. What exceptions did you make?

A I don't know of any exceptions that we made.

Q Now, you heard me discuss the facts in the Mollica case, which was a murder case?

A No; I think that was last Wednesday morning, and I didn't get here until the afternoon.

Q Well, let me briefly recall to you the facts in the case; not the facts as to the murder, but the facts in regard to procedure:

Mollica had been charged, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in Philadelphia. He had filed an application for commutation. That application had been denied. Subsequently, his attorney, G. Fred DeBona, asked for an early listing. Mr. Hean told him that the matter would not be listed; that he would have to file an application; and it could not be listed for a year, because that was the rule. He then filed an application. Mr. Hean acknowledged the receipt of $20.00 and sent $5.00 back. He said this applicant had a hearing on November 5, 1954, and therefore under the rules of the Board, another application could not be filed until November, 1955, when one year had expired.

Now that was the rule on the filing of applications. Mr. Debona did not know much about procedure on re-hearings, so he made no application for a re-hearing, but Congressman William A. Barrett, from the 46th District of Philadelphia, then wrote the Board of Pardons on June 10, 1955, attention of Mr. Hean. He said: "Gentlemen: In answer to your letter with respect to the above captioned case, it could not be listed until November, 1955, by reason of the fact that the prior application was heard before the Board in November, 1954. May I respectfully request for special consideration of this application, that the matter be listed for the September, 1955 meeting? As your records will indicate, the other two persons involved in the crime which resulted in the imprisonment of the above, have been released by the Board. Because of this fact, we feel a special consideration may be accorded to the above applicant."

Now, what I am asking you specifically, Governor, is whether or not you feel that an attorney who has been already denied a special listing representing the applicant —do you think it should be the Board's procedure to listen to some Congressman who doesn't represent the applicant, and take as a new reason for special consideration the fact that the accomplices might have been released?

A Well, I don't know if that would be any new reason, That was a reason. I think it's the prerogative of the Board to hear the cases. Now, what does the first paragraph say? Doesn't it say that he had some communication? I am not familiar with that.

Q Yes, I am glad you brought that up because that communication I cannot find in the file.

(The letter was handed to the witness.)

SENATOR YOSKO: What is the question?

MR. KOHN: I am asking him whether he thinks it was a proper procedure wherein the attorney is advised by the Secretary of the Board of Pardons that the case cannot be heard for a year because it has been heard the previous year, 1954, and cannot be heard until a subsequent time, and whether or not, when a Congressman writes in, who does not represent the applicant, it merely says because the accomplices have been released, a re-hearing should be granted?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He asked whether or not that was sufficient reason to grant the re-hearing.

MR. KOHN: A new and substantial reason for granting a re-hearing?

(The witness read the correspondence file.)

THE WITNESS: Well, I see by this letter that apparently Congressman Barrett must have represented this man in some way.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I am asking you about the letter of June 10. That was the one that requested the special listing after a listing for his attorney had been denied; is that right?

A I would say that this was denied, because it just says, "please place the within matter on the June list."

Q That was May 12, 1955?

A Yes.

Q Then he files an application and says it has to be a new application, and it must come up within a year; it cannot come up before a year?

A It is listed for November.

Q Now then, Congressman Barrett enters the picture and says he has new reasons for special listing which would be the fact that his accomplices are out.

A No, this other letter does not say that. The new reason is the fact—

Q Wait a minute. You are getting to July 7th. I am talking about June 10, 1955. That's all the correspondence up to this time that we are considering.

A On June 10, the letter from Congressman Barrett—well, on the 16th of June the Secretary of the Board of Pardons, Mr. Hean, replied to that letter and said, "It would be feasible to bring to the attention of the Board of Pardons your request for special listing of this application for the September, 1955 sessions. Before we take this step, may we suggest that any special reason in addition to the release of the accomplices be forwarded to us and be included in the request for special hearing."

Q Now, up until this time, we have an application on file from his attorney, which has been denied any special consideration. Now, you have an application from Congressman Barrett and a reply from Mr. Hean, stating that if he has any special reasons, he will have to give them: right?

A That's right.

Q Now, you don't consider, so far, any special reasons having been given to grant such an application; is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q Now, is it very often that this Board has taken letters from outsiders who are in no way connected with a case officially on record and given special consideration to applications for hearings?

A Well, it appears to me that the Congressman must have had some contact with the attorney and had written —and I don't know whether they are partners, or what they are, but he was advised about any new evidence, so I see nothing particularly wrong in the case.

Q You mean you see nothing wrong when the attorney is denied by the Board, and then the Congressman's request is granted?

A The attorney was denied on the fact that he submitted no additional evidence.

Q And the Congressman wasn't going to appear before the Board, was he?

A I don't know about that; I don't believe he did; I don't recall.

Q Do you recall any other cases in which DeBona and Mollica teamed up?

A Not Mollica.

Q No; DeBona and William A. Barrett, the Congressman, teamed up?

A No sir, I do not.

Q Do you recall the David Long case?

A No sir, I don't.

Q You say that they might be tied up, Barrett and DeBona?

A They might be, I don't know whether they work together legally or not. Barrett is a lawyer, isn't he?

Q Yes.

A I think he is; I am not sure.

Q And they happened to have the same address in Philadelphia, so that DeBona was the attorney, and Barrett was the Congressman writing letters on the same case?

A It could be, because many times that happens.

Q It does?

A Just as the witness who preceded me—

Q Don't you think it would be rather proper for the attorney, if they were both working together, to take all the legal procedure necessary to be followed to get action before the Board; don't you think there is something unusual in the Congressman's using his stationery when there is a man on record—

SENATOR YOSKO: Wait a minute, Mr. Kohn. When you brought that up previously, we said the Board of Pardons has no control over what stationery anybody uses.

MR. KOHN: I am asking if they do or not.

SENATOR YOSKO: Why ask him why he used his stationery?

MR. KOHN: I am asking him if he thinks it is proper.

THE WITNESS: Let me answer. I see nothing improper there, and it would have been refused if there hadn't been some additional evidence.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Then the additional evidence was that Congressman Barrett wrote another letter to the Board of Pardons in 1955, and was that brought to your attention?

A Was it in the file?

Q Yes sir.

A If it was in the file, I saw it.

Q And do you think there is any reason in that, Governor, to justify the granting of special consideration and a special hearing?

A I would say that, "in addition to the above mentioned facts, I am most anxious to obtain the release of Mollica at the earliest possible time, because of the health of his mother."

Q Do you release murderers because of the health of their mothers?

A This was only to be heard. The regular course of events would have been two months.

Q I mean you knew he was in for life, and when you considered the case, you knew that, did you not?

A That's absolutely right.

Q And if he had not been in a sufficient time in your estimation, the fact that his mother might have been aged would have no special consideration, would it?

A No, that's right. Rehabilitation is the consideration.

Q Is there any other special consideration or any other factor in there which would give him the special consideration that Congressman Barrett requests?

A I would say that the reason it was granted was that particular statement that he made about the heart attack, where he refers to Mollica's mother.

Q Do you believe that is why his sentence was commuted?

A Yes.

Q Now, what were the grounds for the commutation, according to your records, as you say you made notes in those records?

A Well, I haven't that case here. I would have to go to my office and get it.

Q You will bring that in for tonight's session?

A Yes. That was heard in September, 1955.

Q Now, do you know Maurice Coughlan, the attorney from Erie.

A I've met him, but I don't know him well.

Q Under what circumstances did you meet him?

A Well, I can't answer that. Whether I met him when I was in Erie, I can't say; it might possibly have been in Harrisburg where I met him casually.

Q Governor, during the time you were on the Board, do you know of any re-hearings that have been granted without some reason appearing in the records, or some petition or letter being in the record for a re-hearing?

A No sir.

Q Now, I call your attention to the Ben Kaufman case. Are you familiar with that case? I think you were here when we discussed that case, or the evidence of the case, am I correct?

A Yes, I think so.

Q Do you recall we brought out that there was nothing on the record asking for a re-hearing or any reason for listing for a further re-hearing at a later date? It was refused on November 5, 1955, and the records show nothing. Can you give us any enlightenment on that?

(Discussion off the record.)

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I don't think you can find anything there this case came about after being listed for May 15, 1956 when the hearing was refused. There was nothing in that file.

Do you agree that the record shows it was heard in 1955 and refused, and then a re-hearing was requested for May 15, 1956, and refused? Is that right?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q Now, I show you a communication from Mr. Hean to the Board members, dated August 30, 1956, wherein a special listing is talked about.

I show you a letter of yours dated August 10, 1956, to Frank Hean, as follows:

"Will you check and see if this case can be listed for September?"

Is that correct?

A Yes.

Q It is?

A That's correct.

Q Now did you do that, Governor, on the basis of these letters that you received from the Kane Democratic Club, Rabbi Deckter, and these other people? Did you consider those requests for a re-hearing?

A Let me look at that letter. (Letter handed to the witness.)

Q Is that what prompted you to make those—

A Very likely, it is.

Q All right.

Now then, I refer you back to a communication of August 30, 1956 from Mr. Hean to the Board members, suggesting a special listing for the September, 1956 sessions on this case, in which he says: "Another request has been presented to the Board on behalf of this applicant by Mr. Coughlan, Mr. Jones and Mr. Phelps. I understand Mr. Phelps was in the city this week and spoke to the various Board members on this matter."

Do you know Mr. Phelps?

A Yes sir.

Q Do you recall his speaking to you about this case?

A No, I don't ever recall his speaking to me about it.

Q You knew Mr. Jones?

A Yes, I knew Mr. Jones.

Q And did he speak to you about this case at any time?

A I think he called me on the phone at one time and said he was interested and would like to get a hearing for the fellow in whom he was interested.

Q And you know Coughlan, you say?

A Just casually.

Q Do you know the position that Mr. Phelps holds?

A Yes sir.

Q What is that position?

A Democratic County Chairman, Erie County.

Q Now then, Mr. Hean states that a special meeting is requested. The suggestion has been made. He does not say by whom, but he states, "since no special meeting of the Board will be held prior to the September sessions, this request will be circulated among the members of the Board."

Do you know who made the request?

A No, I do not.

Q That is a letter you wrote?

A Unless it was the note that I wrote.

Q August 10th, and this was August 30th.

Now, may I read this again: "The suggestion has been made that since no special meeting of the Board will be held prior to the September sessions"—this is dated August 30, 1956, this letter—"this request will be circulated among the members of the Board. This is an exception to our practice of considering hearings only at executive sessions, but under the circumstances, this exception to our practice should be granted."

Do you recall what the reason for this exception to your general practice was in this particular case?

A Well, I will tell you:

We used to—generally, a request for a re-hearing was circulated. It would come to my office; it would go to the other offices, and at one of our meetings we discussed this, and we decided we would rather sit down together. It isn't a hard and fast rule, but we do adhere to that generally. But sometimes when we don't get together, there are requests circulated to each member's office.

Q There was no special meeting for August, and this was a special meeting to consider the Kaufman case?

A I don't think it was any special meeting. I think it was circulated.

Q "This is an exception to our practice," he says. "No meetings will be held prior to the September sessions." That's what Mr. Hean said.

A Then he must have circulated it to each office.

Q Yes, that's correct. He said, "Let's consider this case as an exception to our general practice."

A No, our general practice was, when we had an executive meeting, we told him one time to hold all of these; and when we were all there, we would discuss them all at once. But that is not a hard and fast rule.

Q But why was there an exception in this case, for considering this immediately?

A I haven't any knowledge on that except that we were not holding a meeting and he probably did it because I said, "will you check and see if this case can be listed for September?"

Q Well, do you know if this call from Mr. Phelps had any bearing on it?

A I had no call from Mr. Phelps.

Q Now, the occasions on which Mr. Phelps contacted the different Board members—

A Well, I have no knowledge of that.

Q Did you consider any other re-hearing applications at that time?

A I couldn't answer that.

Q Well, there must have been, if you did not have any meetings in August, there must have been quite a few pending.

A There may have been others that were circulated. I cannot answer that question.

Q Well, now, will you explain to me if you can, Governor, in your minutes, if you have them, of September 25, 1956, page 4, at the bottom of the page, where this notation appears: "The Board considered the request of Ben Kaufman, No. 80, November of 1955, for re-hearing and special listing at this session." Now that's September 25, 1956, because those are the minutes of that meeting—and "on August 30, 1956, unanimously granted same."

How could they consider it on September 26th session and then grant it as of August 30, 1956?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Is that putting something into the minutes that had previously taken place just as the record of an action?

MR. KOHN: I really don't know, Mr. Lopresti.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: When did the Board meet to consider it?

MR. KOHN: September 26, 1956, and they said "we considered it at this session."

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: When was the session?

MR. KOHN: September 25.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: So in order to hear it that session, they would have had to give some advance notice, and they were merely putting into the minutes what they had previously done in August.

MR. KOHN: I wanted to know if the minutes of the August 30 date are those that were specially considered.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: It doesn't say that.

THE WITNESS: No. That it No. 122-A, Ben Kaufman.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Where are your executive minutes of that—"considered application for re-hearing?" There is nothing in the record showing that.

A It is stated here, but as you just stated, it was circulated; they did not consider it, there was no meeting, but the application was circulated.

Q Then it wasn't at this meeting?

A Yes, it was listed on the list, No. 122-A, at September 25.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The granting of the hearing would not be September 25th; it would be the re-hearing itself.

THE WITNESS: We had the re-hearing on September 25.

MR. KOHN: Well, I can't figure it out. All right.

THE WITNESS: It is No. 122-A.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I think you said something on direct examination to the effect that you felt that the facts submitted to you by the Parole Board investigators were very satisfactory, and that they did an excellent job. Are you familiar with the case of Thaddeus John Skalski?

A No sir.

Q The number is A-1160, and it was out of Philadelphia.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: What session was that?

MR. KOHN: I am going to read the facts into the record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What session of the Board of Pardons?

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Governor, do you have that there?

BY CHAIRMAN TOMKINS:

Q When was it filed, the application?

A September, 1955.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q There were two applications filed, were there not, Governor Furman; one being A-1160, on November, 1951, in which the Board commuted his minimum sentence subsequently, charged with armed robbery?

A And subsequently, on September, 1955, there was an application for commutation of his maximum, which was ten years, is that correct?

A That's right.

Q Now, I am particularly interested in the commutation of the maximum, in view of the Pennsylvania Parole Board record on this man. How much information could you find in the file there of the Parole Board which would give you a complete statement for the purposes of the Pardons Board to act upon?

A Well, I see a letter right here from the Secretary of the Pennsylvania Board of Parole, dated October 18, 1955, written to Mr. Hean: "This man is applying for commutation of maximum sentence, and his application will appear before the October session of the Pardons Board. You will find attached a report from Dr. G. I. Giardini, together with our field investigation report, for the Board's information, on the basis of subject's status as a first offender, his adequate adjustment under supervision, and the fact that he has been on parole for three years, the Board would not oppose his appeal for commutation of maximum sentence."

Q Would you read further, where it says, "While the case was up for a hearing, the defendant was arrested in Michigan for carrying concealed deadly weapons?"

A Where is that?

Q I think you will find that statement in there. Now the case was postponed at the request of his attorney, Mr. Maris. On April 27, 1956. Mr. Hean wrote Mr. Maris that the re-hearing would be granted for the June session.

I call to your attention a letter from the Board of Parole to the Board of Pardons, dated April 16, 1956, in which Mr. Des Rochers writes to Mr. Hean that "this man was assessed a fine of $150.00 and $18.00 costs in a Michigan court, on a charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons. The Board of Parole, at its meeting of December, 1955, voted to reinstate him under supervision. This has been done, and the latest reports we have on him indicate that he is adjusting satisfactorily. Therefore, you are advised that the Board of Parole would have no objection to commutation of maximum sentence being granted at this time to relieve the parolee from further supervision."

I think you will find that's correct. Is that right?

A Yes.

Q This commutation of the maximum then was granted by the Board from ten years to six years and six months and ten days, about the 13th day of November, 1956, is that correct?

A Yes.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, what are you trying to prove?

MR. KOHN: I think we can state it very simply, if you want me to take the stand. I am trying to prove that cooperation between the Board of Parole and the Board of Pardons has been terrible; that the Board of Pardons did not have all the facts to rely on in this case that they should have gotten.

SENATOR YOSKO: I don't know how many cases you have reviewed, but there are thousands of cases, I suppose, that are involved, and you pick out one here to refute a statement that the Lieutenant Governor made, that they had sufficient evidence before them.

MR. KOHN: I am not—

SENATOR YOSKO: How many more cases do you have in which there wasn't enough information from the Parole Board for the Pardons Board to act upon? If you can't submit a reasonable number of cases to refute the Governor's statement that they do have a sufficient amount of information before them, then I will say to you that you are scraping the bottom of the barrel to try to embarrass the Lieutenant Governor.

MR. KOHN: I don't know what your purpose is in making that comment, but I think the Lieutenant Governor and the Attorney General and everybody else would be interested in finding out just how much information they are getting.

SENATOR YOSKO: But it is a matter of opinion.

MR. KOHN: It is a matter of record.

SENATOR YOSKO: And with respect to the Lieutenant Governor and the Board, whether or not they have sufficient information before them from the Parole Board—

MR. KOHN: Aren't you interested in finding out whether they have sufficient information?

SENATOR YOSKO: Certainly, I am.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, we did have it appear on the face of it that this man involved was a truck driver carrying money over the road.

MR. KOHN: No, it does not appear in the record that he was carrying any money.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, that's the fact of the case.

MR. KOHN: Not in the record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, and I think you will find it in the record.

MR. KOHN: I am trying to—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a moment.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May I make a statement, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: In connection with the issues raised here, I don't care whether there is one or a hundred cases of this kind brought before us, but with these other cases that we have had before us, we are trying to find out the reasons for the actions in certain cases, and for that reason we are entitled to go through this record and find out now if the Attorney General has information to bear upon the statement he is now going to make. I think we ought to get that from the record and get it into this record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I would be delighted to put it into the record.

THE WITNESS: Let me answer.

(Discussion off the record.)

THE WITNESS: We have two letters, one on October 18, 1955, in which the Parole Board said that they would not oppose his appeal. Then, I see from this other letter that this man was assessed a fine of $150.00 and $18.00 costs in a Michigan court, on a charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons.

Now this is a letter dated April 16, 1956: "The Board of Parole, at its meeting of 12/12/55, voted to reinstate him under supervision. This has been done, and the latest reports we have for him indicate that he is adjusting satisfactorily. Therefore, you are advised that the Board of Parole would have no objection to commutation of maximum sentence being granted at this time to relieve the parolee from further supervision."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is that the report that you got from the Board of Parole?

A Well, there is a more confidential report here.

Q And when this case came up, can you find in the record what Mr. Hean said to the Board: "I feel that the applicant was justified in carrying a weapon, and the investigation of the Board of Parole did not remand him to the prison or penitentiary for a violation. Attached herewith you will find the report of the Board of Parole, clearing him of this offense."

A You mean that is a letter?

Q That was the application for the re-hearing. Harner and Blatt favored and Cohen and Furman opposed.

Now, as a matter of procedure, do you have the Secretary of the Board of Pardons make findings of fact for you, that he feels that the applicant was justified in carrying a deadly weapon?

A I think he has the right to give us any information that he has.

Q Where would he get those facts?

A You will have to ask him.

Q He wouldn't have any independent facts except what he got from the Board of Parole?

A Probably from the Board of Parole.

Q Now if you look at your record there, you will find, the Parole Board record, that this applicant had not been personally interviewed by a parole agent for at least four months prior to the time you considered this application for commutation of the maximum?

A Will you please state that again?

Q Yes. I asked you whether or not you find any indication in your Parole Board report that the applicant had not been interviewed personally by any parole agent for at least four months prior to the time you considered this application for commutation of the maximum?

A Well, no, I would have to go through it, but I know of nothing. They interview them at least monthly, I am sure.

Q I will say this, there is nothing in the record that you have before you—and I don't want to get any wrong impressions across that there is anything at all in this case that the Board of Pardons is charged with—I am just showing you that there isn't enough evidence to give you, for some reason, grounds on which to know the actual facts.

A I want to point out another thing to you.

Q Well—

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q You were going to say something?

THE WITNESS: I would like to say here, in relation to this arrest in Michigan—and it is conclusive evidence to me that the Parole Board immediately recommended his release. It says: "At the time of the arrest," that is in Michigan, "the applicant was on parole and had permission to leave the State, as he was employed as a driver for an automobile carrier company. Upon due explanation of the reason for carrying a weapon he was released."

BY MR. COHEN:

Q Governor Furman, I say to you, if you will look at the report of the cases of the Parole Board, you will find it differs entirely from the record as given to the Board.

A What date is that?

Q You have a copy of the report of the State of Michigan, Bureau of Pardons and Paroles, dated November 29, 1955, submitted to you by the Parole Board?

A I see nothing additional. He was under the Pennsylvania Board of Parole.

Q That's right, but you see when he violated the law in Michigan that they made a record of it.

A Was that a part of that?

Q That is a part of the record of the Parole Board, and it is entirely different from what the Parole Board gave you.

Do you think information of that type, as to the actual facts of the case as submitted by the Parole Board in the State of Michigan would be helpful to you in determining the facts? Now those are ours, and you can look at them if you care to do so. You never saw that, did you?

A I have no recollection of seeing that one, no.

Q Would you be surprised if the Parole Board of the State of Michigan made this investigation and you didn't know anything about it when you decided the case, as follows: "State Police Troopers, in talking with other inmates of the Flat Rock City Jail, after prisoner had been transported to the Monroe County Jail, indicated that prisoner talked about ways of pulling robberies, and said he was a transport driver of new cars, and stated that a good way to pull a robbery was to take one of the cars back on the haulaway and continue his journey; that while police were looking for the getaway car, he would be traveling through on his haulaway. Whether this type of robbery has ever been pulled, or if it was just talked about by the prisoner, is not known. At least it indicates his thinking."

That was when he was picked up in Michigan.

A Let me say this to you, Mr. Kohn: I don't think there is anybody perfect. We are not perfect.

Q I am not criticizing the Board in any case.

A And I think the courts make mistakes.

Q I am not criticizing; I am just attempting to show the facts, without any criticism.

A That can happen.

Q There is quite a bit of information that is relevant to a case that is not submitted to you by the Parole Board; isn't that right?

A I want to say this to you; that I think the Parole Board does an excellent job. Their reports are very fair, very comprehensive, and they give us the facts, and we do consider them an awful lot. If there is an error made here, which can be true, I certainly would not condemn the Parole Board for just one error, because they have thousansd of cases.

Q But where they have a complete file like this, and where the case has been continued for a specific reason, and while the application for a commutation was before you, and where he was picked up on a charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons, don't you think it should be relevant that the Parole Board turn that information over, the full information?

A I think they did. I don't know the facts here, but I know they generally give us very good information from time to time which is valuable to us in our actions.

Q Do you know that Mr. Maris in this case, in the testimony, said to you, to indicate the nature of this young man, that when he was fourteen, his sense of loyalty to his Country caused him to enlist in the Marine Corps, and he was discharged when his age was found out. Then when he reached the proper age, he enlisted in the Army.

That was taken into consideration, was it not?

A Probably.

Q Well now, Mr. Maris did not go further and tell you that he received a dishonorable discharge, and that would kind of counteract that first fact, wouldn't it?

A It should be a matter of record.

Q What I am trying to say, Governor, is that when you listen to counsel and you make notes on the records as to what you think counsel said, plus what you think sometimes you don't know all of the facts?

A We could make a mistake, but I would say generally—

Q I did not mean to imply that—all of us can do that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right. It's after five o'clock. I wonder if this might not be a good place to break for our dinner, and then reconvene at seven-thirty.

Before we recess, however, maybe I can give this to Mr. Hean, so that I may have it before us and so the Governor will have it when I want to ask him some questions in connection with some matters on capital cases.

(Discussion off the record.)

(At 5:10 P. M. the meeting adjourned until 7:30 P. M. of the same date.)

I hereby certify that the procedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee to Conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and this is a correct transcript of the same.

EVENING SESSION

MARCH 27, 1957

COMMITTEE MEMBERS PRESENT:

REPRESENTATIVE EDWIN W. TOMPKINS, Chairman.

REPRESENTATIVE CLARENCE D. BELL.

REPRESENTATIVE PHILIP LOPRESTI.

SENATOR JOSEPH J. YOSKO.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Lieutenant-Governor.

ROY E. FURMAN, Recalled on
CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Governor, you testified that by Board action on October 25, 1955, the Board reconsidered the application of Martin for commutation, is that correct? That is in the Erie cases, October 1955.

A Yes sir, on October 25, 1955 the Board unanimously voted to reconsider the application of John J. Martin, No. 104, June 1955.

Q And what other case did they reconsider at that time? I mean on the Erie County cases.

A I do not believe they reconsidered any other cases.

Q Well what brought about that reconsideration of that particular case at that particular time?

A I think there was a letter involved.

Q You mean the letter of Judge Evans of October 10 that you read?

A I think so, yes.

Q Is that what you mean?

A Yes.

Q I mean, let me know what you mean.

A Yes.

Q Now I have the file here if you would like to see it.

A I think that is what it was, as I recall.

Q Now you did not reconsider Adiutori or Flatley or Czulewicz at that time, did you?

A We considered them in October. We had heard those, we heard those cases in September and at a special Executive Session on November 14, 1955. Well that was when it was changed back from the 15th of December.

Q What I am getting at is in October, after you granted in September Flatley, Adiutori and Czulewicz commutations, then you took up the Martin case and gave that further consideration and gave him his first commutation?

A That is right.

Q And then nothing occurred between then and November 14, at which time you took up Adiutori, Czulewicz and Flatley?

A No meetings, no.

Q There was no reconsideration between those dates of those three persons or anybody else?

A In connection with the Erie cases, no.

Q What is there in the record that caused the Board to reconsider those three cases at that time after they had already made up their mind once?

A Where is the file? Do you have the file?

Q Yes, surely.

A Where is the file on the Martin case?

(Witness handed file in question.)

Well I did not attend the executive meeting on November 14. I am sure that this letter here relative to Martin, the judge saying that he could see no reason for refusal to allow two weeks further reduction in order that he might be home for Christmas, I think that applied to the other three cases.

Q Do you think that the judge meant, when he wrote you a letter in October, that that meant that you should change the commutations in the September cases which you had already commuted to one year, do you think that meant the other three cases?

A No I think that was probably the thinking of the Members.

Q You don't know, do you?

A I was not there at that meeting as the record indicates, but I agreed to it when I was notified. I felt that it was proper.

Q And that particular letter was in the file when you considered the Martin case originally and refused it?

A Which was that?

Q Judge Evans' letter.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That couldn't be September.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q That letter was in the file when you reconsidered the Martin case on October 25 and refused it.

A No.

Q Was it granted then?

A On October 25 was when it was—

Q I am sorry. I got mixed up.

Now will you explain when you were present on October 25 at the executive session which considered the Martin case and you say that that letter was the basis for further consideration for Flatley, Adiutori and Czulewicz, why you did not make the change then on all three of them?

A Well I cannot answer that. On October 25 was when we considered this Martin one. I presume that at the executive session then on November 14 they felt that it was right to treat them all equally.

Q Well what happened in the interim? I mean do you think this call that the Governor allegedly made to Erie might have changed the Board's decision by November 14?

A Well I would say no, positively no that it had no affect.

Q Was there any discussion in your committee on November 14 as to what affect the previous or the prior release from what you had originally agreed on would have on the citizens of Erie?

A Well I was not there November 14 but at every meeting I attended, no, there was no discussion of that.

Q Well you cannot explain any reason when you considered the Martin case why you did not change Flatley's sentence then, commute it further?

A No.

Q Well do you know of any reason at all?

A No.

Q Well do you know of any reason that you would have brought it up specifically on November 14?

A No, I do not know of any reason except that these cases—wait a minute. These cases were sort of a pattern and in giving those nine months, we took into consideration the crime, how long they were sentenced for and tried to treat them all equally. Martin was a policeman, Flatley was also an officer of Erie and I feel that after we had taken this action here, it was felt that they should treat them all alike.

Q Do you think that you are treating a man equally when one receives a sentence of one year and the other receives a sentence of one year and one-half to commute the man who receives a year and one-half first and let the fellow who received the year—

A Well I do not know on what basis the judges might sentence them. I think maybe if I was there or you, we might have given them a little different sentences.

Q You say you wanted to treat them all alike. Now I am asking why you considered treating Martin like Flatley when you actually left Martin out in six months less—I mean you left Flatley out six months sooner and you let Martin ride and refused him until nineteen days before his final—

A I read to you today the recommendations of the district attorney in those cases. Now I think the judges who were here the other day felt, and also the district attorney, that the matter of two or three weeks prior to Christmas would not affect anybody in any way; that these people had been sufficiently punished. I think you heard one of them make the statement the other day that the mayor of Erie, the fact that he had fallen from a high position, public office, was quite a punishment for him and at least the time in there was not doing anybody any good.

Q You understand me, I am not trying to say you did right or wrong and compare your actions as to what you did. You say you treated them all alike and I am trying to find out why you did not treat them all alike at the same session, if you were trying to treat them all alike.

A Well I think we did try to treat them all alike. Martin was a police officer; the others were not police officers and that was one of the reasons that his was not acted upon when the others with that were heard in June.

Q When did you say you had commuted Flatley's sentence, October 10—October 10, page four.

A Yes, that was the executive session of October 10 when the Board met at which I was present. All the Board Members were present and it was Adiutori, Czulewicz and Flately were all—no, Adiutori and Flatley as of one year, Czulewicz as of eleven months.

Q Now then the next meeting was October 25 when you then finally considered Martin, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q And then who initiated and why the reduction of the Flatley and Adiutori sentences further?

A I cannot answer that.

Q You were not present?

A I was not present.

Q Well did you know or was anything discussed with you?

A Certainly, it says afterward, "Change is made on charter and Mr. Furman so advised." I agreed with the action; I thought it was proper.

Q Nobody told you why it was proper or who did it or what?

A No, but I think it was proper at the time of the year.

Q Do you know of any other cases where the same thing had been done by this Pardons Board or any other Pardons Board where they had agreed on a commutation to a certain period of time and then within a month less end that commutation?

A Offhand. I can't give you any but in my opinion there are some.

Q Do you recall any in your experience?

A I can't remember any at the moment.

Q You do not know who or why or what prompted it?

A No.

Q Who kept the records of this executive session?

A Mr. Hean.

Q I refer you to Mr. Hean's testimony before this Board, dated March 6, 1957, Volume IV, page 455; question to Mr. Hean by myself:

"Now you still haven't answered my question. What I would like to know specifically is when in the action of the Board they agreed to reduce it from one and a half to one year? What was the date of that action?

"A I cannot give it to you. I have no record of it.

"Q Well does anybody keep any record of it?

"A The Members of the Board are here and some of them keep records; yes, sir."

Was Hean supposed to keep a record of the minutes of this particular meeting?

A I heard Mr. Hean say that. I think he was confused on the question because it was in the minutes here that I am reading from, and which you have a copy of, and I felt at the time I would have liked to have gotten up and straightened you out on it.

Q But you do not know why he said it at that time?

A No, I think he was confused with that question.

Q Might that have had some bearing on the fact that I had a great deal of trouble getting this for over a week or two weeks from Mr. Hean?

A I did not know that you had any trouble.

Q Do you know whether these records had been prepared after this hearing or before the hearing?

A These records were—this complete record here, while it isn't up-to-date, but what there is here I had in my file.

Q Did you have this record at the time I asked those questions?

A Oh yes, certainly.

Q Isn't it a fact that this record was back as far as three months?

A Mine isn't up-to-date yet.

Q And you recall that I asked Mr. Hean some other questions in regard to what went into this record and he said he destroyed the original notes which he took.

A Penciled notes is the way I understood it, what he did.

Q I call your attention to hearing of March 4, 1957, Volume III, in which I asked about these particular records as I heard they were kept. On page 427, Questioning Mr. Hean:

"BY MR. KOHN:

"Q I would like to ask you, Mr. Hean, if you can refresh your memory as to why, after the Board acted on and reduced some of these sentences to one year, they were subsequently reduced without any official action of the Board, without any consideration of the Board, to eleven months, five days?

"A I can only answer like this; that the Board did not assemble and felt that they had to permit the man to get out before Christmas. You notice some of these were in the—"

And the second question:

"Did they take that into consideration when they reduced it to one year flat?

"A They probably did not.

"Q Was there anything on the record that would justify such action by the Board?

"A No, I have no record of it, no sir.

"Q That would be arbitrary action on their part. After they met and approved the original commutation, they again revised the date.

"A This I will admit, yes.

"BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

"Q Mr. Hean, in other words, they reduced sentences further without having a formal meeting?

"A Oh no, they had a formal meeting. They had a formal meeting.

"Q Where and when?

"A I cannot give it to you; I do not know where they held it. I have no record of it.

"Q Aren't your records normally complete?

"A They are complete as far as—

"Q Why aren't there records on this?

"A We do not keep records of the executive meetings.

"Q Do you keep records as to when they took place?

"A Only as the meeting would come back, I would have a note.

"Q We are dealing with a serious matter here, where you are reducing a man's sentence which is normally done by the Board of Pardons in a formal session.

"A That is correct.

"Q And here you reduce them; may be it is only from one year to eleven months, five days but you are reducing a man's sentence and you have no notes on it."

This is still by Mr. Bell.

"A I have notes. I took notes, oh yes, but they were only for my personal use.

"Q Well how about giving them for the Board's use?

"A I haven't got them they are destroyed."

Now if Mr. Hean did not take any notes or destroyed them, how did all of this get into the record?

A Well long before this investigation was ever thought of, I had this record in my office. I think this was last year when I received this, and here is the record.

Q You wouldn't know why Mr. Hean would have said that?

A He must have been confused on the question.

Q Well, frankly, I was confused when I couldn't get these for over three weeks after I asked for them.

A You should have asked me.

MR. KOHN: That is what Mr. McBride said. No personal affront, Mr. McBride.

Thank you, Mr. Governor.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Does the committee have any questions?

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q If the Board wanted to revise its own decision, would that have to be initiated by anyone or could the Board initiate that change itself?

A I think the Board could initiate that change itself.

Q Without further hearing or without petition?

A Certainly.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Governor, has it so acted in any other cases than these Erie County cases?

A I cannot answer that without going through the record. I have no knowledge of it at the moment. There might have been but I just can't—I would have to check each case to see.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Governor, I got the impression during considerable of the testimony in the early part of this inquiry that the rules of the Board are quite fleible and are almost changeable at will. Do you think that is good practice?

A Well I do not think that they are changeable. They are Board Rules and as the House of Representatives has their rules, they can change them whenever they so desire. I think we have the same power but if we do it, we are going to notify the public or anyone that would be affected by it, and I think all the rule changes that we have ever made have been for better procedure.

Q Well, Governor, Mr. Hean made a flat statement here, as I recall it, to the effect that the Board can change their Rules at will regarding special listing, regarding rehearings, whether they have an application for those purposes or not and I think we had one or two cases that indicated that.

A Well I think they have the power to make their own Rules just as the Legislature has.

Q Well I cannot quite agree with that statement, Governor, because of the fact that the Legislature whereas you are dealing with attorneys, you are dealing with defendants, you are dealing with people who are in jail. Maybe that is one of the reasons why so many attorneys do not know the procedure and they have to contact Members of not only this, but prior Boards to find out how do we do it.

A No, I think you are wrong on that. I think the attorneys—there are not so many attorneys who practice before the Pardons Board and I think it is a little different than court procedure. It is not difficult, it is not difficult to learn, and I have been willing at all times to help anybody, tell them what the procedure was.

Now as far as changing the rules, anything that is in the law, we could not change that but we can change some procedure. In fact on the rehearings, it had always been the practice that at the will of the Board, they could grant a rehearing. We decided on a little different procedure because we were getting too many of them; just the fact that they wanted to keep coming back hoping that their chances would be better the next time and we decided that for a rehearing, if it was legitimate, there should be some new and additional evidence submitted so that we would have a reason for a rehearing. We did not want to stop anybody, to close it over that they did not have a chance to be heard and we tried to hear everybody and give them a full and complete hearing at all times. I think your attorney can testify to that; he appeared before us I think. You weren't shut off?

MR. KOHN: No sir, very nice reception, Governor.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, maybe I am wrong but I think we are failing to distinguish between a change in the rule—talking about a permanent change and in some one case make an exception to a rule. I think that's been the case here from what I have heard. The permanent rule remained unchanged except that after the Board acted, it reconsidered its action in executive session and changed the period of commutation and that would sort of be an exception.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I am not talking about that now.

THE WITNESS: Now Mr. Chairman, let me say this. If we would change our rules and abolish any rehearings, I would say that is wrong but the procedure, I think we are entitled to make our rules to operate as efficiently as it is possible to operate, and I think that is what we have tried to do.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well I agree with you. You should have rules and rules that are stabilized.

THE WITNESS: Then if we tried to change the rules not to have an open public hearing, that would be wrong.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is a Constitutional provision.

THE WITNESS: As far as rules of procedure, how to operate in the best possible manner, I think it is within the power of the Board to determine those rules and when we have made changes, we have tried to advise everybody who would be affected by it.

SENATOR YOSKO: That is if the change is going to be permanent.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Yes, we have had several cases here where they file applications and they were advised to file for reargument or special listing or something of that kind, and I gained the impression from Mr. Hean's testimony that your operations are so flexible that you can just do those things almost at will.

Now excepting in capital cases, don't you think you should have some stablized rules?

A What is that?

Q Except in capital cases, don't you think you ought to have your rules set out as to petitions and rehearings and special listings and so forth, that when they read those rules they will understand and will not have to be contacting the Secretary, Attorney General and other Members of the Board to find out what can we do.

A Well there are always new fellows coming along. I had to learn it; I don't know it all yet but I have tried to learn and I think that will always happen, that the new fellow who comes along will not know our procedure. It is a little bit different than in court and I do not think it is so tough that any person isn't given the right to be heard and their case presented if it warrants it.

Q I agree with you there, Governor. You are to be commended for that but I am wondering if sometimes, if maybe the Rules haven't been relaxed a little bit too much in some cases to permit some of those things.

A Well I do not think so.

Q Except in Capital cases, don't you think there should be—

A I feel that all Members of the Board feel that way.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Governor, do you think as a matter of policy or as a matter of procedure when rehearings are given, especially in cases like the Mollica case, which was a murder case, and there was a special listing, shouldn't it be readvertised?

A Yes, everybody should be notified.

Q It hasn't been done.

A Well I know of no case.

Q Do you know if the Mollica case was advertised?

A I presume that it was.

Q I would like to see it.

A Although I have no information on that.

Q That case was specially listed and couldn't have been advertised. Don't you agree with me that in a murder case where life imprisonment is involved, that should be advertised with all the rest of them?

A I think that in all cases there should be proper advertising.

Q Do you agree with me that many cases are listed specially when there is no particular reason for the hurry and that they could have been taken in their regular order?

A That is possibly true. I can see the point of the applicant. The applicant or the attorney, for some special reason they want it listed.

Q Do you think that is fair generally to other applicants who may not be able to have smart enough attorneys come in and, after all, it is a consideration, is it not, to the defendant and to his counsel? I am not criticizing you for doing it. I think you may be justified in doing it.

A I think the main consideration is a fair and honorable hearing for any of them. We have to have the rules. If we opened them up—

Q Aren't you opening them up when you do just that on special listings?

A I don't think so.

Q You are granting to one fellow and refusing another, and that is the record of your whole executive session.

A We are only granting them under some new evidence. Early when we came in and I think it was the rule of prior Boards that they could decide if they wanted them—I read to you the record this morning of how many were granted and how many refused of the prior Boards and of our Board, and I think that is more or less the discretion of the Board.

MR. KOHN: I am talking about special listing, not just rehearings.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Governor, the rule of the Board on rehearings—I will read it again. You have heard me read it before.

"Applications for rehearing will not be heard until twelve months have expired after the hearing of the last application. The Board, however, on its own motion may order a rehearing at an earlier time."

Is that not an open invitation for people to endeavor to bring political pressure upon Members of the Board?

A It could be and that is one of the reasons that we changed the rule, saying that the rehearings would be granted upon new evidence, and we have been turning them down unless they did present new evidence.

Q And did the new rule apply to the matter involving these Erie County cases when the sentences were reduced from twelve months to eleven months and five or six days?

A That was a reconsideration. There was no rehearing on that. They had been acted upon.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do not think that had been adopted at that time.

MR. KOHN: Oh yes, September 25 they were adopted.

THE WITNESS: The Board had acted originally and then before it went to the Governor.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Then may I have a definition of the difference between reconsideration and rehearing?

A Well reconsideration is the Board reconsidering the decision they made. In the first instance we could have said December 15 and there would have been no argument like this but if we would have refused it, then the applicant or his attorney would have asked for a rehearing but this was a reconsideration of our decision.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Might not that procedure be some of the cause maybe for unrest among others who are imprisoned, that they hear about one fellow getting up before the Board and getting reconsideration and getting out and I have been turned down and why can't I be reconsidered, and things of that kind?

A Well maybe it is but then the courts are just as much in error as we are because we do have a recommendation from the judge of Erie County court saying that he could see no reason why we should not give them an additional two weeks or three weeks or whatever it might be.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Sir, maybe I am a little tired after a long day and

I know you are, too, but do you have a reconsideration of a sentence upon petition of the applicant or is that on motion of the Board?

A The Martin case, which was recommended I think by the district attorney and the judge and we did reconsider it. It was not a rehearing and that was brought out the other day and we were not going against the wishes of either the judge or the district attorney, so there was no reason to advertise that. We were reconsidering that case which we had held up and had not acted upon finally?

Q In that case was the reconsideration on the basis of new facts that were brought to the attention of the Board?

A Well new facts; it was the letter of Judge Evans.

Q Wasn't that a rehearing?

A No, they had not applied for a rehearing.

Q In other words, a rehearing is a public hearing?

A That is right. It is the same as the original hearing, open, as you attended up at our hearing in February.

Q And a reconsideration is actually the executive session?

A We were reconsidering our decision on that.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Well, Governor, tell me. We had quite a record here today of the various positions which the judges and the district attorneys have taken on particular cases that have come before the Board. Did you ever get the feeling at times that maybe the judges and district attorneys were passing the buck to the Pardons Board?

A Very many times they do it and I wish they would make a definite recommendation. So many of those letters come in they say "rely on the Board," and I think the law does state that they shall make a recommendation, the judge who tried the case or the president judge or the district attorney or the assistant district attorney, and I think that by all means they should always make a recommendation rather than to pass the buck to us and say, "You do it."

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Generally, do you have any other questions?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, to complete the Delaware County cases.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, Governor, have you analyzed the number of cases on Board of Pardons Exhibit 27 to show how many cases from Delaware County were considered by the Board from March 1956 to and including December of 1956 to round out the period under investigation?

A Yes, this is the exhibit that we had this afternoon. I testified as to from February 1955 to Febraury 1956 inclusive, and that brings it up to the first of January 1957.

Q Now how many cases were considered?

A In this period there were thirty-five cases.

Q How many were granted?

A Four of them.

Q Four out of thirty-five. Now among the four that were granted by the Board, how many did the judge favor?

A The judge favored one.

Q How many did the district attorney favor?

A Two.

Q How many did the judge oppose?

A Two.

Q How many did the district attorney offer no comment?

A Two.

Q How many did the judge offer no comment?

A One.

Q Now out of the entire matter, we have heretofore considered the four cases that were actually granted. Now let us turn to a consideration of the total number of cases considered by the Board. Now the Board granted only four and turned down thirty-one, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Now among the thirty-five cases, how many did the judge favor?

A The judge favored seven cases out of thirty-five.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Do you mean among the thirty-five or among the thirty-one?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Among the thirty-five, the total.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q There were seven that the judge favored. Now you granted, however, only four.

A Four.

Q So in those instances, the judge was more lenient than the Board, is that right?

A That is correct.

Q How many did the district attorney favor?

A The district attorney favored six cases out of the thirty-five.

Q Again you granted only four?

A That is correct.

Q Now how many in which you had no comment from the district attorney out of the thirty-five?

A No comment from the district attorney in fifteen cases out of thirty-five.

Q How many did you have no comment from the judge out of the thirty-five?

A There was no comment in five cases out of the thirty-five.

Q How many did the judge oppose?

A The judge opposed twenty-one cases.

Q And the district attorney opposed how many cases?

A Seventeen cases.

Q But the Board refused to grant how many?

A Thirty-one.

Q Ten more than the judge and fourteen more than the district attorney they turned down?

A That is correct.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Thank you, that is all I have.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Who were the four cases that were granted there, do you know, Mr. Furman, and if you have it?

A Charles E. Miller was granted.

Q Do you know the charge there?

A Burgulary, larceny. Vernon Richard Johnson was favored. William Francis Dagg—D-a-g-g and Alphonso

M. Fuglio—F-u-g-l-i-o—were favored.

Q How far does that go to?

A This is up to and including December 1956.

Q Now Attorney General McBride seemed to stress the fact that the Board was much more severe than the judges of Delaware County as far as favoring or not favoring—I mean you didn't grant as many as the judges favored?

A That is correct.

Q And there would be no reason for gamblers coming into the Board rather than going before the judge of Delaware County to obtain—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: They couldn't go before the judge if the sentence was more than two years.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Going back to the DeVito case, was that sentence more than two years or less than two years?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That was fifteen.

MR. KOHN: You said they couldn't go before and I am asking you about the DeVito case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have no objection to your going into the DeVito case. That is all right with me.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I am just asking if you are familiar with the DeVito case which was just recently decided by the Board. The man got twenty-five months and the Board took jurisdiction, did it not?

A I think that was granted.

MR. KOHN: All right, I will go into that later.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q. Governor, I am not trying to harass you here, but there were thirty-five cases and I think you said the district attorney favored six.

A Yes.

Q The district attorney had no comment in fifteen?

A. That is right.

Q And the district attorney opposed seventeen?

A That is right.

Q Well, sir, that is thirty-eight cases; six, fifteen and seventeen.

A Maybe my figures are wrong on one of these. I am not sure. I would have to check the cases, but sometimes the cases are two counties, like Philadelphia and Delaware County, and there will be comments from two district attorneys which could apply to that. We sometimes have that and have to check that to see.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Governor, this morning we had from the period of February 1955 to December 31, 1956, information that the Board acted favorably upon ten applications over what you termed qualified opposition. Do you remember that?

A Yes.

Q Now how many cases among these did the Board act upon over what you would term qualified opposition?

A I would have to go over this and check it.

Q You haven't made that analysis?

A No, that was on the general breakdown. We haven't made it on the Delaware County or the other one that I reported on, but we will be glad to do that.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Sir, I am adding up the judges. You stated there were thirty-five cases in which the judges favored seven, the judges had no comment on five and the judges opposed on twenty-one and that, sir, I think equals thirty-three.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: There are seventy, which is twice thirty-five. That may be the answer. Maybe it is just that one got switched.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: No, not the way I add. If you gave me the quick double-shuffle—thirty-eight and thirty-three, sir.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I thought it was thirty-seven and thirty-three.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: This is going to be admitted in evidence, sir.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: This is the analysis we promised which was made by Governor Furman, but I think he himself would be glad to go over it and certainly the Board is free to on the information contained in the document itself.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now you were going to get an analysis during the year 1954. You were going to get us the number of cases given favorable consideration over qualified opposition. Is the secretary going to get that information for us, Governor?

THE WITNESS: Right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: And the names of those cases, if you can.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, certainly we are going to get it but that is the kind of thing you have to dig and dig on.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I appreciate that, General.

MR. HEAN: We are in the process of getting it.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Governor, do you know which cases the Pardons Board has no jurisdiction over and those in which they have concurrent jurisdiction with the court?

A You had better ask one of the legal members of the Board or the Attorney General. I am not a lawyer.

SENATOR YOSKO: Two years, is that right?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will be delighted to answer it. The Governor himself has jurisdiction without the aid and assistance of the Pardons Board at all times. He has jurisdiction to grant commutations and pardons only upon recommendation of three out of the four named officers in the Constitution.

The Pardons Board may act on any kind of a case whether it is flat sentence, simple imprisonment, solitary confinement or any other kind of confinement. The court itself is limited by a sentence, whether it be indeterminate in the sense that it has a minimum and maximum providing the maximum is less than two years, so that the Board of Pardons has an all-embracing jurisdiction but it is concurrent with that of the court in any sentence, the maximum term of which is less than two years.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: So that the limitation is on the court?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: For a period of two years, but there is no limitation on the Pardons Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: None whatever.

SENATOR YOSKO: So that the Pardons Board in the DeVito case, as I understand it, did not illegally take jurisdiction of that case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: They were fully within their rights.

SENATOR YOSKO: I was led to believe—and I did not know better—from the question I was led to believe that the Pardons Board was taking jurisdiction over a case which it had no right to take jurisdiction, but from the explanation you gave us now, the Pardons Board did have a right to consider that case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I do not think that explanation will be challenged by anyone.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: As a matter of fact, General, isn't it true that the Pardons Board can consider cases after sentence, but before imprisonment, if they so desire?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, the Governor has a perfect right to pardon even before sentence. The Governor represent the sovereign as he has come down to us. Prior to 1874 and in very early constitutions, constituent assembly had the right of pardon, but the Governor of Pennsylvania has the right to pardon and to remit fines and forfeitures and to commute and pardon offenders as well before conviction as well as after and the only limitation upon his power is Article IV, Section 9, which says that he can grant commutations and pardons only upon the recommendation of three out of four of the named constitutional officers and I have for the information of the Committee, and I think that this might be a good time to say so, the constitutions of all States in the United States and a consideration of report of the Attorney General of the United States as to the ideal way in which executive clemency shall function. I shall not take any position as to it. I have no vested interest in any determination that this committee shall see fit to make, whether they shall recommend legislation one way or the other, but I suggest to you gentlemen that it is a tremendously important question which you will want to go into very carefully if you want to recommend any changes, quite apart from any suggestion of improvement on the part of this Board or any preceding Board.

If we are to amend the Constitution on this point, we must take care that we know exactly what we are doing and not fall into many of the errors that other States have fallen into and which they have lived to regret.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: General, sir, do you have sufficient copies so that—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have only one copy now. I am ready to hand it over now. It contains a statement of the various Constitutions of the National Probation and Parole Association. It's a memorandum, sent to me by Harrington Adams, the well respected Deputy in my office, which refers to certain investigations made into executive clemency. I shall be delighted to have it reproduced and have a copy for Mr. Kohn and all members of this Committee, but I have at this moment only one copy and any other of this sort of material that comes to my hand, including a report of the British Royal Commission which met in Philadelphia some years ago and which considered the whole subject of capital punishment and executive clemency, we will be glad to furnish the committee with also.

Now I can hand this up to you now or I can have it made into multiple copies so that everybody will have one.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General, would you make it into multiple copies? We will not submit it as a part of the record but the committee would like very much such information. As a matter of fact, without knowing that you had this information, the committee had already directed a communication to the Joint State Government Commission to make such a study for this committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, I think that would be a splendid thing and I most respectfully suggest when the committee comes to that aspect of its work, it should completely divorce itself from the question of the particular cases involved and the whole setup so that it will be approached on a truly high, thinking level so that we do not run the risk of destroying what we have if it is good or we do not run the risk of preserving that which we have if it is bad.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Thank you. Any further questions of Governor Furman at this time? (No response)

THE WITNESS: Will you permit me to make just a very brief statement at this time?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes sir.

THE WITNESS: I make this due to the fact that certain judicial officers and some newspapers in the State have criticized this present Board and have stated that we have opened the gates of every prison in the Commonwealth and made a general jail delivery. I want to give the facts and I am not incriminating any of the Board, but I must cite some figures of past Boards and compare them with the record of this Board.

In 1953-1954, there were 2,366 petitions and 767 commutations which is a percentage of 32.4%.

In 1955-1956, there were 2,048 petitions and 339 commutations granted, or a percentage of 16.5%.

Also since it has come up in these hearings, the matter of rehearing, I would like to cite the overall figures on those. I think I gave these broken down this morning. These are totals.

Rehearings are as old as the Board itself, and here is the comparison: 1953-1954, seventy-nine rehearings were granted; eighty-nine were refused.

In 1955-1956, thirty-eight rehearings were granted and ninety-three were refused.

In 1953 and 1954, of the 737 commutations granted, the judges involved were opposed in 1954 cases for a percentage of 20.9%.

In 1955 and 1956, of the 315 commutations granted, the judges involved opposed only 46 cases for a percentage of 14.6%.

The district attorneys involved were opposed in 23.7% of those released in 1953 and 1954 and in 14.3% of those released in 1955 and 1956.

I give you these facts as I stated not as a matter of criticism of any of the Boards but to refute the statements by some judges and some newspapers that this Board has acted in a manner that to make a general jail delivery.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Do you have any information there on the number of cases that were reconsidered? Do you have the number of rehearings?

A I have the rehearings; no reconsideration in any of those years, no.

Q As a matter of fact, Governor, didn't this whole hassle over the Pardons Board start during the last previous Board on a case known as the Peyton case? Isn't that where the basic trouble with the Pardons Board started?

A There was criticism of that case. That was a case I think that the Board had recommended and the Governor refused it.

Q I never heard much about the Pardons Board prior to the time of the Peyton case but since that time I have, and right now I am not so sure that I know too much about it now but that, of course, is pure statistics on the number of cases.

A Of all types of cases.

Q That is the quantity and not the quality of the situation.

A We—that is correct—issued a statement last year, I think I had a copy here, in which we said that we did not believe that you could base the action of the Board of Pardons on percentages, on figures, but that each case must stand on its own, on the facts of those cases, and I want to say this; that there might be a time that a Board might have hearings and they could grant everyone of them or they could refuse everyone, but you never can go on percentages on this because each case is different, different facts.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Thank you, Governor.

THE WITNESS: Yes sir.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Harner.

HENRY E. HARNER, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Your full name is what?

A Henry E. Harner—H-a-r-n-e-r.

Q And your occupation is what?

A I am an attorney.

Q And for a while, at least, did you serve as a Member of the Board of Pardons?

A During the year 1956 from January through December, I served as Secretary of the Commonwealth and as a Member of the Board of Pardons.

Q Now as such, you sat on the cases during that period?

A That is correct, General, I think I attended every session except one day of the February Session. There was one month that I missed the second day because of illness.

Q Now you have been here the entire day?

A I have.

Q Have you heard Mr. Kohn take the position that it was improper for any lawyer or anyone else to talk to a Member of the Board of Pardons regarding the merits of a pending application?

A That is my understanding of the import of what he said during the day.

Q Did Mr. Kohn ever talk to you about the merits of an application pending in which he was counsel?

A Yes, Mr. Kohn had a case last year. I believe it was in the June Session. It was a man from Blair County. I think his name was Kennedy. He was convicted originally of rape, robbery and burglary I believe. He was a lover's lane assaulter. He was I think indicted under at least six more counts.

Mr. Kohn appeared as counsel in that case and the record would so show I believe. I think it was the only case that Mr. Kohn had last year, at least that is my best recollection, and a day or two I think before and not after the hearing, Mr. Kohn called me in my office and the Secretary of the Commonwealth's office told me who was calling and said that he represented the Blair County man in his application for a commutation of sentence. I can't quote Mr. Kohn right now or attempt to quote him exactly not after all these—

Q We want you to give the substance.

A But the substance and the gist of his representation to me was that he represented this man; he felt that he had a meritorious case and he would appreciate anything that I might be able to do in order to get him a favorable hearing.

Q What was the result of his case?

A Unanimously against commutation and I looked up the record in this particular case. My recollection is that at least so far as I was concerned, I voted against it primarily because it was the unanimous recommendation of the entire prison staff that the application was premature.

Mr. Kohn in his conversation—I don't remember what I said to him—but I am sure that he asked me for no assurance that I would do anything nor did I, of course, give him any indication that I would do anything along the lines which he asked.

Q Now do you recall who had been the acting counsel in that case before Mr. Kohn?

A When I looked at the brief which Mr. Hean prepares, I remember seeing that this man—the effective date of his conviction or sentence was in February of 1947 and I noticed that he had applied for commutation in 1948, 1950, 1953 and then in May of 1955 and June of 1956.

MR. KOHN: Would you say that again?

THE WITNESS: I believe it was 1948, 1950, 1953, 1955. I believe Mr. Kohn represented him in 1955 as well.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Is that record available?

MR. KOHN: I just sent up for it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let us have that record here.

THE WITNESS: I think you will find that is what the record is.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Let the witness look at it.

THE WITNESS: Here is one card. That is Session, June 1956, the attorney, David S. Kohn—K-o-h-n. Here is one. Well this is marked May and September 1955. I do not know just exactly what that means, but Mr. Kohn was attorney at that time.

Here is the one marked—and there may have been a rehearing on 1955.

Here is the November Session 1953, Patrick E. O'Leary.

November Session 1950, William C. Chase.

I guess this is February 1949, although rather I see down here "P.B. 12/16/48." It would appear this is February Session 1949, Bowman F. Kennedy. According to my recollection of what my brief book said, that first application was 1948. This would seem to indicate that who ever typed up the brief book made an error in that case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Cross-examination.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Do you have your brief book here, Mr. Harner?
A I do not have it here.

Q Do you have your brief book yet?
A Yes I do.

Q Is there a copy of that as far as the Secretary is concerned? Is there a copy of your brief book on file with the Secretary?

A I have my brief book. It is not on file with the Secretary. I have it in my possession.

Q Would you bring that brief book in?
A I would be glad to.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL?

Q Mr.—it is Mr. Harner, isn't it?
A H-a-r-n-e-r.

Q When Mr. Kohn telephoned to discuss with you the substance of the case, did you refuse to talk with him on that subject?

A I listened to what he said. I have known Mr. Kohn for about thirty years. He and I went to college together. I was from York, Pennsylvania; he was from Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. After we finished college and law school, although I don't think he went to law school just at the same time that I did—that is my recollection. He can correct me. We both came to Harrisburg and we both practiced law here together since that time. I certainly wouldn't hang up the phone in his ear, and I listened to what he had to say.

Q When you sat as a Member of the Pardons Board, is this the only occasion that you ever talked with anyone, attorney or otherwise, concerning the substance of a case?

A This was not the only time that someone called me about a case; no, I didn't say that.

Q And you discussed the substance of it?

A Mr. Kohn didn't discuss the substance, as I recall, of this case. The gist of his conversation—he is here. He can tell you what he said. As I remember it was simply that he represented an applicant coming up the next day or a couple days later; that he felt his client had a meritorious case and he would appreciate anything that I might be able to do to give his client favorable consideration. That was the gist and substance of it.

Q I am going to come back to my question, sir. Have you ever discussed with anyone, whether attorney or otherwise, the substance of a case prior to its being heard by the Pardons Board during the period that you sat as a Member of the Pardons Board?

A I can only answer that question—your name is Bell, isn't it?

Q Yes, you can answer "yes" or "no."

A Well I will answer the question and then I will explain if I may, Mr. Bell. I think I would have to answer yes, there were several other cases.

Q Now do you recall any of these cases?

A I recall one case. I don't remember the name. The one case a Reverend Wagenseller, Episcopal Minister of this city, came to my office sometime last year saying that, as I recall, a Reverend Smith from Philadelphia had asked him to come and talk to me about a particular case.

I would like to say this, too. Of course, he was a friend of mine; we had known him for many years. We both belong to the same service club, and I did not like to be discourteous but when approached by anyone, my reaction was somewhat of resentment because I felt it was somewhat in the nature of attempting to discuss with a judge or influence a judge before he made his decision what that decision should be. I recall that that was one instance.

I recall that in the Shaeffer murder case in Perry County, that the district attorney in that county, Charles Kugler, whom I have known for several years and to whom on one occasion at least I had sent business to in that county, called me a day or two before the Shaeffer case originally came before the Session in which I was sitting and warned me against taking any action which would be favorable to the granting of clemency in that case because he said that the people of his area were against it, and he warned me that it would be the wrong thing to do.

I seem to recall that someone called me on the telephone from Bucks County about a case—I can no longer remember what case it was—and said that he was a member of the coalition down there, the Democratic coalition down there, and asked for favorable consideration in some case. I do not recall what case it was. It would be impossible for me to tell you who the man was.

Q Have you ever—

A Offhand, I can't recall any others. Oh, there was one family who came to see me. As I recall, it was a mother and father and that is why I think it would be dangerous to make the Corrupt Practices Act applicable in these cases, because parents, families, sometimes try to get to see you at least and it is a very touchy situation.

One mother and father came to see me I remember about a young man who was convicted down in, I believe in the Norristown area, and who was sent to Morganza. I think he was mentally ill and they wanted his sentence commuted so he could be sent to the V. A. hospital. At the moment I don't recall any other instances. Oh, I had a number of letters sent to me by people who either were for or against something. Sometimes if I felt that the circumstances required, I would send it to the Secretary of the Board. Other times I may have destroyed them.

Q Now have you ever refused to talk with anyone with respect to the substance of a case to be heard before the Pardons Board?

A I canot recall that I have ever refused but I certainly discouraged it or I made no comment and, as I said in the beginning, my reaction was one of resentment and dislike that they would call me and attempt to discuss the matter with me.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Thank you, sir.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did you ever say anything to any of these people that you think you should not properly discuss the matter with them?

A I do not recall whether I said any such thing to any of them, Mr. Chairman.

Q Do you think the Pardons Board Members, when they are approached like that, should advise people that members of the Pardons Board are not permitted or should not discuss the merits of a case with them?

A Well I think essentially maybe they should, but sometimes it is a little difficult situation as to just how to handle. It is easy enough for you fellows to sit there and criticize the Pardons Board for some of the nuances, some of the things they do, but to be on the Pardons Board and try to discharge your obligation to the Commonwealth and the Governor properly and faithfully, and yet be responsive to the demands and the needs of the people of this Commonwealth, sometimes puts you on the hot spot and sometimes it is not always the simplest thing to do, but if you are sitting by and looking on—

Q Mr. Harner, for your information, this committee yet has not criticized the Pardons Board. We are sitting here trying to get information to find out how the Pardons Board has been functioning.

A But I would like this committee to know that I look upon this as essentially a political inquisition; that there is not more than five cents worth of principle mixed up in this whole deliberative body, this whole investigatory body. In my opinion this thing began—maybe it began with that case in the westernn part of the State which you mentioned awhile ago, but it was the Philadelphia Inquirer so far as my recollection is and by observation that began this whole thing for whatever ulterior motives it had early in this Administration. That flame that they lighted was fanned by a Delaware County Judge, Judge Bretherick. I would not know him if he came in here; I never saw him but certainly I got the idea over the year on the Pardons Board that he was a little judicial god unto himself and when he told this committee that he felt that the present Board ought to be changed, he didn't mean that at all. I know exactly what he meant He meant that the Pardons Board should be abolished as long as it did not agree with everything he thought and believed in and stood for.

The Patriot. or rather the Patriot of this city, shortly after the Inquirer began this tirade and this attack upon the Pardons Board, in one of its editorials—I sat at my breakfast table and read it—picked it up, and in a sense repeated the essence of some of the Inquirer's attack and thought that there ought to be a Pardons Board investigation.

Nobody on the editorial staff, no member of the Patriot, ever approached me—and I was on the Board at that time—to ever ask me a question about how the Pardons Board operates, what its functions are or anything else about it. They merely picked up a sort of gossip, what the Inquirer started, and tried to fan this into a great blaze and then we came into a political campaign last fall, and Mr. Beck's fifth amendment counselor took it up and launched this as a political attack and there was a political attack in Dauphin County here where I was a candidate at the time. It then became a political football and here is an advertisement that appeared several times, at least, that I saw in the local press prior to the election last fall and this is addressed—and I will read it—to:

"Henry Harner, Democratic Candidate for State Senator

"The people have a right to know:

"1. How you would vote on the income and wage tax that your boss, Governor Leader, proposes to force down the throats of the voters, in the next Session of the Legislature?

"2. Why do you, as a lawyer and as Secretary of the Commonwealth having been sworn to uphold the law, set aside the decisions of the Pennsylvania and United States Supreme Courts by commuting the death sentence of the killer, David Darcy, thereby substituting political favor for the verdict of the citizens?

"Speak up Candidate Harner."

Signed, "The Young Republican Club of Dauphin County.

"R. W. Cleckner, Chairman"

And after the election at the next session of the Board, Mr. Cleckner had two cases scheduled and he did not show up. I saw him a short time after, down at the courthouse in Harrisburg, and I said to him, "What's the matter, no guts?" He said to me, "What do you mean?"

"Well," I said, "you did not show up at the Pardons Board today and you had two cases and you sent one of your associates."

"Well," he said, "you know my name was signed to that but I did not have anything to do with that; somebody else did that."

Q Let Mr. Cleckner come in and say that.

A That is what he told me and I am telling the board.

Q Get Mr. Cleckner to come in and say that again and furthermore—

A Let me finish if I may, sir. I would just like to call this to your attention as well. It seems to me highly significant so far as I have ever been able to ascertain or determine, that not one single former Member of a Pardons Board of Pennsylvania, except Mr. defeated candidate Duff, has ever said one word in favor of or against this political inquisition, and I would like to add to that this one single statement.

It must have been sometime around May or June last year, I do not recall the month anymore, but I was in my office one day when Bill Livengood came in to see me. I do not recall—he may have had some matter back in the Corporation Bureau, but largely it was to fan the breeze. You will recall him as a former Secretary of Internal Affairs who sat on this Board for sixteen years. His question to me was in essence, "How do you like your job sitting on the Pardons Board," and I told him then that of all the duties of Secretary of the Commonwealth, even maybe above and beyond the Cabinet of the Governor of this great State, the honor that it was sitting on it, that sitting on the Pardons Board of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was a great challenge and I felt that I wanted to discharge the duties of that office to the best of my ability but I did say that I always had the feeling, in the few cases that I appeared before prior Pardons Boards on the other side, that there was something missing here. I said the Members of the Pardons Board that sit up there on the bench, they have far more information at their hands, confidential information concerning the prisoner and here is the lawyer down there making a pitch, and in ninety-five per cent of the cases, they know half as much or less than the Pardons Board sitting up there.

Bill Livengood—if you ask him—said to me, he said "I sat on the Pardons Board for sixteen years and heard thousands of cases, and it is my opinion that the present setup is the best one that we could devise."

Now if you would like to address some questions to me, Mr. Chairman, I appreciate your permitting me to get this off my chest but I told you exactly how I feel and I wanted you to know.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well I want to make it very clear to you and to everybody else, Mr. Harner. This committee is not sitting as a political inquisition. This committee was authorized by Joint Resolution of the House and Senate of the General Assembly of this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and we were set up under a resolution to that effect and we are here to do what we consider, to the best of our ability, an honest job on an inquiry into the Pardons Board procedures and practices and if there are any abuses, they are to be included.

When you come to the question of who first injected politics into the Pardons Board, I say it was in the Peyton case back in 1954.

THE WITNES: That was a Republican Administration.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, that was a Republican Administration, and who first injected politics into the Pardons Board?

THE WITNESS: Well I would like to say this right here and now. I am not prepared to discuss some of the other cases. I came here merely at the response of the instruction of the Attorney General, to answer some questions that the Attorney General wanted to put to me, but so long as I sat on the Pardons Board—and I can only answer for the time when I sat there and the year that I sat there—no Democratic politician tried to influence my judgment in any of the cases that we have seen wide publicity about in the newspaper or any other cases as far as that is concerned.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well I thoroughly resent your accusation, Mr. Harner, that this committee is nothing but a political inquisition. I have never just felt that way in the six terms that I have been in this General Assembly and I don't propose to start now.

THE WITNESS: Mr. Chairman, I can understand your resentment but please let me call this to your attention.

I have lived in Harrisburg and I have been engaged in politics. I have been politically active as a Democrat in this county most of my adult life. I have lived in the shadow of this Capitol. I have seen them come and go, but I say this smacks of political fakery and hypocrisy such as I have never seen before. This is my personal opinion. I am sorry to offend you but that is exactly how I feel about it.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Harner, are you just trying to smoke screen things here?

A Well, that depends upon the viewpoint. I am telling you how I feel, Mr. Bell, and I am telling you very sincerely, and I would not tell you that if I didn't feel that way. Now what is the smoke screen? I came in here and I said that Mr. Kohn called me about a case and then some questions were asked and that led into this.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I want to add a little something to it. Are you through yet?

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q By your statements here tonight, Mr. Harner, aren't you trying to undermine whatever findings this board would make?

A No, I think this board could, if it would maybe contribute to the advancement of good government in Pennsylvania. Certainly the operation of the Pardons Board I believe in some aspects, at least, could be bettered. I think that this mission, this so-called mission of the committee investigating the Pardons Board, if it is not an investigating committee, could lead to some good results. Certainly you ought to call in the penologists, certainly call in the judges. For every one Bretherick, you certainly ought to have other opinions on this whole situation, and the Attorney General gave you awhile ago a report which surveys this whole situation. Oh, I think this committee could do a job but not in the way it has set out to do. All I have heard here today was just making a mountain out of a molehill. It didn't even bring forth a good sized—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Harner, why don't you wait until this committee makes its report before you pass judgment on what we are doing?

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman—

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I am not through yet, Senator.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Harner, as an attorney, are you familiar with the phrase "red herring"?

A I am familiar with the phrase "red herring" without being an attorney.

Q Aren't you now endeavoring to put a red herring across the trail of this Pardons Board Investigating Committee?

A No, I am not, Mr. Bell.

Q To confuse the people of Pennsylvania?

A No, Mr. Bell, I sat here tonight and I doubt if what I said here tonight will be reported in Joe Miller's Inquirer tomorrow.

MR. MILLER: You wouldn't like to bet, would you? Put your money up.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: My only regret, sir, is that we have absent two Members of our Pardons Board Investigating Committee, and I am not going to say anything more than this; that I view your outburst as a deliberate attempt to put a red herring across on the people of Pennsylvania and you are endeavoring by your outburst here tonight to discredit this Pardons Board Investigating Committee.

THE WITNESS: Now, Mr. Bell, let's assume but let's assume that you are right. Then it seems to me that you can prove conclusively to the people of Pennsylvania that what Harner said is not true by the way this hearing is conducted and by the people you call in and interview and the kind of a report that you read. I would be delighted if you make me a false prophet, but that is the way I feel.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Why not withhold your judgment until we file our report?

THE WITNESS: Because I haven't seen anything yet.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Didn't you hear about Judge Evans and Judge Laub being in here?

THE WITNESS: I haven't seen anything yet that would be anything but substantially a political determination; a majority and a minority report is my guess. I hope I am wrong. I hope you are right, Mr. Bell; I will be delighted.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Harner you expect a majority and a minority report on this?

A That is the way things generally happen in Pennsylvania.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Harner, I, as a member of this committee, am willing to let the people of Pennsylvania be the persons who make the judgment of this committee and what it does and that is the only group that I feel responsible to, the people of Pennsylvania.

THE WITNESS: I had the same feeling of responsibility, Mr. Bell, when I sat as a Member of this Pardons Board, and was attacked from the time I took office as Secretary of the Commonwealth until I left, and resulting in an investigation of the Pardons Board. Why didn't you investigate the last two years of the Republican Administration? Why are you confining it to the two years of the Democratic Administration?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Why don't you wait until we are done with our investigation before you make such a statement as that?

THE WITNESS: Well I don't think you are going to go into that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Oh yes, we go back to 1950 if you read the resolution, Mr. Harner. We are charged with the responsibility—

THE WITNESS: I just want to add this, gentleman. If I am wrong, after this is over I will be happy to come up here and apologize to all of you. I would be most happy to do it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We wish you would withhold such judgment until after this investigation is finished instead of dragging a red herring—

THE WITNESS: No—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I charge you with it and I will back up Mr. Bell on this statement.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I agree with you that the Board is here for the reasons that you gave. However, so far as the political tinge is concerned, Mr. Harner beat me to a statement that I was trying to make for the last five minutes, and that is we have been sitting here for five weeks and although the resolution calls for a review of cases from January 1950, not one single case has been presented to this committee or has been scheduled for hearing involving the previous Administration and I believe—and we discussed this in Executive Session—that we should have started from the beginning, from January 1954 and worked forward, but instead of that we have heard nothing but cases that involve this Administration. Now I am told that the Darcy hearing is to begin next week, and I just don't think that is fair and because of it, people generally have come to the conclusion that this is solely an investigation of the present Pardons Board and that there is no intention of going into cases of the previous Administration.

I want to say for the record—and I wouldn't have said this if this thing wouldn't have gotten started—that the staff or the counsel that we hired asked for a staff to work with and there was no objection on the part of anybody. As a matter of fact, when we were in Executive Session and Mr. Kohn complained about too much work, I was the one that voluntered on two occasions to increase the staff so that he could properly conduct this inquiry, but in spite of the fact that there are four people on the staff. not one single case involving the previous Administration has been listed or heard in the five weeks that we have been functioning. I realize that we have not been functioning the entire five weeks but I do hope that we will step up our activities and our hearings, and that we will hear some cases from the previous Administration so that we could at least make a comparison in practices and procedures and considerations by the previous Boards as compared with this Board, and I believe that one of the people on the staff—and if they want to enlarge the staff, I am for that—one person on the staff could certainly go up to the Pardons Board and read cases and do exactly what we had agreed to do in the first instance.

It was agreed that a list of all capital punishment cases was to be prepared and submitted to this Board, and we were then to sit down and list those that we thought merited hearing. I have not seen that list yet.

There was a second list to be broken down of cases other than capital punishment cases, and that was to be submitted to us and we were to select from that group, cases that we would list that merited hearing. I have not seen that one either and it seems to me, it seems to me that not the board but the staff, the Counsel for the Board, is running this investigation in so far as the selection of cases is concerned, and I would like to have submitted to this board at the earliest possible date a list of cases starting from 1950, and I propose tomorrow, since there were no cases submitted to us, I propose tomorrow to give Mr. Kohn and his staff a series of cases to list, and I think those cases either ought to be listed and heard before we get into the Darcy case because after the Darcy case is heard, the rest of the hearings will be anticlimax, shall I say, and the interest in the whole thing will fall and the first thing you know, the time will have expired for the board to function and that will be the end of it and the onus, if any at all, will be upon the present Board because only cases that involved the present Board have been heard, and I just don't think it is fair.

I did not want to make that statement, but since this thing has been throughout here, it is only fair to get our side of the story on the record too.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now Senator—Mr. Kohn, how many cases do you have there already prepared involving prior Boards?

MR. KOHN: About ten there I think.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That you have on you list to submit?

MR. KOHN: Yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: To furnish with the names of cases that he would like to have heard?

MR. KOHN: Mr. Tompkins, I do not like to fight with my boss, Mr. Yosko, but I would like to say—and he can tell you if it isn't so—that I have been after him since last Friday to come up with me. In fact, he was up there last week and I asked him to sit down and tell me the cases he wanted to give me so we could get to work on them. I think I have been around here much more than Mr. Yosko and have been working twelve to fourteen hours a day, trying to not only investigate the cases but interview the witneeses whom we have to present. Some of them are out of town, and over the week ends we have been traveling. We've been to Erie, Bucks County, Philadelphia, Eastern Penitentiary, New Jersey. We've been many, many, places.

While I sincerely appreciate Mr. Yosko's staff, certainly a staff of these people to do an investigation involving over six years, would require at least a staff of twenty-five people.

SENATOR YOSKO: Just let me say this. It isn't my function, as well as it isn't the function of the rest of the board, to go up and select the case. I have a lot of other things to do, but inasmuch as there were no cases suggested from 1950 on up, I did from time to time say that I reserved the right to submit a list of such cases and let me say, too, that the cases that Mr. Kohn has prepared, I do not know what they are because I never got a copy of them and, therefore, I do not know whether they go back to 1950 or where they go back to, but the general idea was not to conduct public hearings on those cases. The general idea was to make a brief of those cases a part of the record and this morning when that was brought up or yesterday, I said that this was agreeable with me, but I reserved the right to list those cases from the group that they might have for public hearing if I deemed it proper and fitting, and I still reserve that right, but I repeat now that I will give Mr. Kohn tomorrow in writing and I will send each member a copy of my request to list a series of cases involving previous Pardons Boards, and I would like to see those cases disposed of before we go into the Darcy case.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, Senator I want to straighten out something. Our Counsel, Mr. Kohn, has done exactly what you have here suggested. He has not had an opportunity today to present them by reason of the fact that we had told General McBride that we would permit his witnesses to be called and heard today. Now as soon as those witnesses that General McBride has are disposed of, our Counsel is prepared to proceed along the very lines that you said that the Executive Session agreed upon, and that is to present briefs of a great number of cases, going back in 1950.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman—

SENATOR YOSKO: None of these cases were presented in brief form, not even a suggestion was made that these cases be presented in brief form, and neither is the Darcy case going to be presented in brief form. I don't think it is fair to distinguish between the one case and another case. If a case has merit, it ought to be heard and every case ought to be treated in the same light, including Darcy and Peyton and everybody else. Either we are going to hold public hearings or we are not going to hold public hearings; either we are going to prepare a brief and make the brief a part of the record or you are not. It is one or the other.

MR. KOHN: You can't have procedures—two types of procedures.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That question was never raised in Executive Session before, Senator.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I don't like to get into these things, but it seems like I have been a target of Mr. Yosko ever since this investigation began, both in committee meetings, openly and in the newspapers. I don't intend to defend myself because I know that most members of this committee know what I have been doing, and I do feel that we have discussed in Executive Session a schedule which was to be adhered to and which I asked for for the purpose of being able to subpoena witnesses. Mr. Yosko seems to forget that he took part in that discussion and agreed as to the dates and times of the hearings and who should be heard.

We set out a definite schedule at our last meeting. Now he wants me to call off the witnesses who have already been invited and subpoenaed and go into other cases. If that is what you want—

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, I said at the Executive Meeting that we had that I didn't think it was fair to bring the Darcy case up at this time until we heard some other cases. I said then in the committee meeting that I agreed that any other cases you brought up after the Darcy case would be anticlimax. I said that.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Yosko—

SENATOR YOSKO: Wait a minute. Did you get permission from this board before you scheduled the Darcy case? No, you didn't. You came in and told us in Executive Meeting what was going to be scheduled.

MR. KOHN: I can't schedule anything.

SENATOR YOSKO: Isn't it true that you have been working on the Darcy case since this started, working it up? You have been working on this case since it started?

MR. KOHN: Certainly.

SENATOR YOSKO: I'm not picking on you, Mr. Kohn.

MR. KOHN: That is my personal opinion, Mr. Yosko.

SENATOR YOSKO: I have said it before and I say now, nobody is being arrested, nobody is being indicted, there is nobody being tried. Therefore, there is no prosecution here and we do not need a prosecutor. We are here to get facts, fairly and impartially. for the consideration of this board to determine two things; whether political influence has been exerted upon the Board which, in turn, might have influenced their decisions, and to determine whether or not the Board abused the authority that was granted to it and that is all we are here for. We are not here to prosecute anybody or to persecute anybody.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: You took that sort of an attitude when we first stated these cases. Mr. Chairman, we have heard a great outburst from Senator Yosko. This outburst did not occur in Executive Session. Maybe it is because we were in a closed session and maybe it is because we do not have a full board at this time and, Mr. Chairman, I suggest respectfully—

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Let me interrupt just one moment. Before Senator Fleming left, it was agreed that another member of the majority could cast a vote for him. Now if you have any question to take up at the Executive Session, it is understood that you have more votes than we do, so I don't want to hear any more about having members here.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, may I answer that? I am not talking about a vote; I am talking about two Senators of Pennsylvania being absent tonight who are not able to be here and, therefore, Mr. Chairman, in view of the confusion and wrangling, I would suggest that we adjourn until tomorrow morning.

SENATOR YOSKO: Anything that I said here tonight, I said before the board at Executive Session. I may not have said it in the same tone of voice.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: What day?

SENATOR YOSKO: But you didn't say some things in Executive Session that you said here tonight either.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: We didn't have Mr. Harner there.

SENATOR YOSKO: Every executive meeting that we have had, I have said at the executive meetings the same thing I have said here except maybe I have not said it in the same tone of voice.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: A lot of this discussion covers matters that properly belong in Executive Session, and I am going to rule out any further discussion in connection with it. We will proceed from here in connection with our inquiry.

MR. KOHN: May I ask Mr. Harner a few questions?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Certainly.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q When I called you, I told you this was the first case I ever had before the Pardons Board?

A I have no recollection. Let me put it this way. I have no recollection that you told me that and if I had to answer, I would say you did not tell me that.

Q And I told you that I felt that this boy was up before and had lost more fingers in the shop and had bad breaks, and I wanted you to look into the case very carefully.

A I wouldn't say. I said to this committee that you said you felt that your client had a meritorious case.

Q Well would you say here that my call was to influence you or for you to look into the case?

A Well let me answer that this way without saying "yes" or "no" to your question. Why would you feel it is necessary to call me aside from my official participation in this case, seated on the bench in the Supreme Court Room, unless you felt that by calling me you might influence me to do something?

Q Did I ask you to do anything?

A My recollection, as I stated, was that you asked me to give whatever favorable consideration I might be able to in this case.

Q According to the facts. You wouldn't say I did not say that?

A I felt that you were trying to get my help in this case on behalf of the case.

Q That is your opinion, but you are basing that on the fact that I made a call.

A You did not ask me for any assurance.

Q And I did not ask you what you were going to do?

A I don't think.

Q You know.

A I can't tell you, no, what you and I said.

Q You gave a great deal of testimony as to what I was alleged to have said and now you can't say, you can't remember whether I asked you for any definite decision or not.

A My recollection is that you did not ask me for any commitment. I said that originally.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Harner, I would like to go into some of the procedures followed on the Hill with respect to the Pardons Board record. The Secretary of the Commonwealth is the official custodian of the final Pardons Board commutation records?

A The Secretary of the Commonwealth, as I recall, keeps a record of the reasons, why commutations are granted and we keep up there also the transcripts of the arguments that are heard there.

My recollection—and Mr. Hean could bear me out—I think the official commutation or pardon is sent to the person himself and their office keeps a copy of that.

Q The Secretary of the Commonwealth is the place of record for the retained copy of the reasons?

A That is correct.

Q Now does the Secretary of the Commonwealth furnish to the Clerk of the House of Representatives another copy of those reasons?

A No, I think the Governor does that. At the beginning of each Session, the Governor sends to the House and to the Senate, I think to both bodies, the reasons for granting of the commutations and they are printed I think in full in the Legislative Journal. I brought that to the committee office.

Q That is why I asked you the question.

A That is right.

Q And they are official copies as far as you know that go to the House and the Senate?

A Yes.

Q And they would be correct?

A Oh, I think so. I can only tell you what I think and I would think that they were.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Harner, do you know what the final disposition of that case was Mr. Kohn called you about?

A Yes, we turned it down and I think I stated what principal motivation I had in turning it down.

Q Do you know what they did with the case where the Reverend came to see you?

A My recollection was that that was granted.

Q Do you know what they did in the case where the parents came to see you?

A My recollection is that that was refused.

Q Do you remember what was done in the Shaeffer case?

A Yes sir, in the Shaeffer case the matter was argued. I am just trying to recall now. I voted for it. I think Governor Furman opposed it. I don't recall. I think—well I can't recall how Miss Blatt and Attorney General Cohen, what their disposition was, but we finally decided that the district attorney—we listed, the Board, as I recall, the Board listed that for reargument and suggested to the district attorney of Perry County that he go down to the prison and interview this applicant who had been there about twenty-nine or thirty years. That is my recollection because the district attorney came down here and vigorously opposed this. At least my own thought was that he had done little on the thing to determine whether this man had been rehabilitated, despite the fact that he had committed murder and that the daughter—the record would seem to confirm this conclusion or opinion on my part—that the daughter of the decedent kept this thing in turmoil. Each time an application was made, she would go up there, have petitions circulated and get everybody stirred up. Judge Crytzer, it is my recollection, originally wrote a letter in which he said he took no position in the case and then later followed that up once this began, the daughter began to stir this up, followed this up with a letter reversing himself and saying that he did oppose it.

The ultimate disposition of the Shaeffer case, as I recall, was that after reargument the district attorney came back, said he had gone to the pentitentiary, said he had interviewed the man, was impressed by him except that after he had talked to him—the record will show this and it is just my recollection of six months ago—that he thought that maybe from a psychiatric standpoint he should not be released. The Board then took that fact into consideration before it finally disposed of the case. We got a report and had a psychiatric examination, which was a favorable one, and then the Board voted three to one, with Governor Furman voting against, in favor of the commutation.

Q Weren't there commutations in the file from members of the family expressing fears if this man were left out?

A There were.

Q Because of the fact this man had made threats in connection with the remaining members of the family?

A You must remember, Mr. Chairman those alleged threats were made thirty years ago at the time of this crime, not during the last thirty years. Those threats, if they were made, were made thirty years before. That is one of the things that the—one of the reasons, as the daughter said, why she opposed it and I don't say that the daughter did not believe that but it just didn't seem reasonable to me at least, as Member of the Board, that this man who had an excellent prison record over a period of thirty years would at this time in his life come back there and try to molest a member of the family. That didn't make sense to me.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Do you have a brief on the Shaeffer case?

MR. KOHN: Yes.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q I take it you are very sincere about your criticism of the Board of Pardons. I suppose that goes both ways.

A What is that?

Q Regardless of who is in the office of the Board of Pardons?

A I don't think I criticized the Board of Pardons, Mr. Kohn.

Q You are critical of anybody that investigates them or criticizes them?

A No, I am not critical of anybody who investigates them.

Q You say that the Inquirer instituted this?

A The Inquirer is entirely unjustified. That is my opinion, Mr. Kohn, as a Member of the Board for one year.

Q You have been a politics as long as—

A When did you get out of law school? I know we were college classmates but I don't think we were together in law school.

Q I was thirty-three.

A You were thirty-three; I was thirty-one.

Q Do you think it would be fair in a gubernatorial campaign, with a case like the Peyton case, for the Democrats to criticize the action of the Board of Pardons for political purposes and then having the applicant suffer thereby because of the publicity that the case gained?

A I think unless there was evidence of impropriety and improper influence, it would not be a good subject of political discussion no matter who is the party.

Q Did the Peyton case come up before you?

A No, I say no like that but I heard about a thousand cases and I don't believe it did.

Q When were you on the Board?

A January 1956 through December.

Q Now the Peyton case came up March 12, 1956, in which J. T. Simon requests rehearing because it was badly publicized by the fact that it was a political factor in the previous election and cited the fact that the original jury that tried this second degree murder case was nine to three in favor of acquittal and thought he should have a rehearing, and did you vote on that?

A I don't remember Mr. Kohn. Did that come up in 1956?

Y Yes.

A I don't have any recollection at this point. You will have to look at the record. The record will speak for it.

The Peyton case, as I recall, after hearing Governor Furman and the Chairman refer to it was out in the western part of the State and it would not be nearly as familiar to me as matters in the eastern part.

Q Would you be surprised that even in spite of all those factors that you didn't believe should be made political hay of, you opposed granting of a rehearing?

A I say I don't recall what I did, Mr. Kohn.

Q You were sitting on the Board, were you not?

A Yes sir.

Q You knew the case?

A Mr. Kohn, I don't remember.

Q You do not remember the Peyton case at all? In March of 1956, were you a Member of the Board of Pardons?

A Certainly I was.

Q And you denied a rehearing?

A I do not know.

Q Is that what it says? "A reargument was unanimously refused the following: Charles Peyton."

A If that is the same one, then we did.

Q You don't remember that. Do you think this Board, even though it is presently constituted the way it is, should refuse to grant Peyton anything that anybody else would get like Mollica?

A I don't know anything about Mollica. When was that decided, Mr. Kohn?

Q That was decided in 1955.

A I was not on the Board then.

Q Was another application filed in 1956 for Peyton?

A I do not recall that either. You see in an application for a rehearing—is that an application for a rehearing?

Q No, that is a new application.

A Was it heard in 1956?

Q Yes.

A What was the recision? I do not recall.

Q Well the action was denied, of course.

A What do you mean, "of course"?

Q All of you denied it.

A That doesn't mean "of course." We didn't always agree. I told—

Q Do you know whether you voted for the Peyton case?

A I would have no recollection.

Q You would have your minutes?

A Yes, what minutes?

Q The minutes of the Peyton case, the original sheet which you made notes of.

A I thought you said this was a matter for reargument.

Q I asked you about the reargument in March 1956. There was a new application presented which was denied September 7, 1956.

A If it was denied, I would have voted on it.

Q You would have your notes, as to the notes you made during the argument?

A I have. I have my brief page which indicates how the Board voted.

Q You do not know how you felt about the matter? You took no notes on it?

A Ordinarily I would mark my book like this: four "noes"; three "yes," one "no"; one "no," three "yes"; or two "yes," two "noes."

Q When did you mark that, after the case had been heard with all the other cases?

A No, ordinarily what I would do, after the argument was concluded I would then mark my book. Sometime I marked it "no," sometimes "yes"; sometimes "yes" with a question mark, sometimes "no" with a question mark: sometimes merely a question mark.

Q On murder cases, did you make any notes as to why you opposed it or why you were for it?

A I do not recall that I took any notes.

Q Did you take any notes on any of the murder cases?

A You mean notes of the argument?

Q Notes of the argument, what counsel brought out, what factors you considered?

A I don't recall that I have ever took notes of arguments. I might jot down a phrase or sentence occasionally. If I did, I put it right there on the brief that was prepared by the Secretary. That is the only note that I would have, just as Governor Cohen—Furman. I have been here all day and I am getting a little weary of this place. I will just retract that.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Will you bring your brief in tomorrow morning?

A Now what do you mean by "your brief"?

Q Your book.

A For which month?

Q Don't you have a book similar to what Governor Furman has had here today?

A If the Governor will show me, I will tell you.

(Witness viewed book.)

No, they would be on file in the Secretary of the Commonwealth's office. I don't have those in my possession.

MR. KOHN: That would be the same as he has.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q You have separate files in connection with these matters?

A We have separate files. Now those are mine. I do not have those in my possession. They are in the Secretary of the Commonwealth's office.

Q Will you bring in what you do have in your possession.

A For what purpose? What case do you want?

Q I do not know how many cases we want to inquire about.

A If I give it to you, then I have no way of referring to them. That is my only source of information.

Q We want them here so we can refer to them.

A I am not going to be here tomorrow. I have other duties to perform.

SENATOR YOSKO: Bring up your book of records.

THE WITNESS: I have twelve books of records, one for each month. I do not want to deliver—

SENATOR YOSKO: This is the first time we knew you had one for each month. Now how many do you want?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: September 1956.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We do not know what cases we will need.

THE WITNESS: Let me do this. I am not delivering those records to you at this point. I will be glad to bring in the brief page—and that is all I have—of the case that Mr. Kohn had last year, and let you see what it is and then I will be glad to deliver them later.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We asked you to bring those records in and, if necessary turn them over to the Attorney General so this committee can inspect them.

THE WITNESS: I will be glad to deliver them to the Attorney General.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Why not to the board?

A This is the only record I have of the action I took. I am not delivering it to the board. I will be glad to deliver it to the Attorney General and you can look at them.

Q Why?

A Because I am not. I consider this a personal record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: It still has some bearing upon your decision.

THE WITNESS: Mr. Chairman, all it will show is how the four Members of the Board voted.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well, send them up to the Attorney General so we can look at them, all twelve of them.

THE WITNESS: I don't have twelve because we did not sit in July and August. I have ten.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well whatever number there are.

General, how long will you be with this witness?

(Off the record at the instruction of Chairman Tompkins.)

(On the record at the instruction of Representative Bell.)

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I requested those letters and a search of the notes of testimony at the third session, I believe it was, will indicate such.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Let's go back and look at the minutes. I am satisfied to go back and look at the minutes.

I take the position, I do not care who presents them, whether they are presented by our Counsel or presented by the Attorney General, they are still the same facts and I don't think we have any right to limit them from the Pardons Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If one side does present evidence, the other side ought to be allowed to or else what is the use of saying this is our day?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The committee had asked for these records.

SENATOR YOSKO: All right, now they have the records so let's make them a part of the record.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: This is a letter dated March 19, 1957 to Mr. Hean, in which certain information was requested as to Erie County, the Mollica case, the McSorley case, the DeVito case and then it closes as follows:

"I also call to your attention, during your testimony you indicated there were other cases in which members of Congress or Legislators asked special consideration of cases for special listing, etc. You stated you would be glad to furnish any of these cases to Counsel. I would appreciate your doing so as soon as possible."

Now the only request that was made to Mr. Hean was as to letters that were sent to him, the Secretary of the Board of Pardons, and not as to records in the files of the Board of Pardons as to past Boards.

I made a separate investigation and we uncovered about sixteen very interesting, some of them fascinating reading, and we would like the pleasure of just showing you that the Congressman Barrett thing does not stand alone.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We appreciate that fact, General, but by the same token we had requested information for this committee which information was not furnished to us in due course that we could look at these cases and familiarize ourselves with them as well.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chiarman, that is not the request and if you say I am wrong, then perhaps we will have to take Mr. Lopresti's suggestion and read the minutes but while Mr. Hean was testifying, the question of other letters similar to the one that was written by Congressman—who was it?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Barrett.

SENATOR YOSKO: Came up and I think Mr. Bell requested that Mr. Hean present those letters to the committee. Now if the letters are here, there should be no objection on the part of any Members of the Board to make them a part of the record because if it does, it just corroborates what I said a little while ago; people are of the opinion that only cases involving the present Pardons Board are under investigation, and that there is no intention of going into cases under previous Pardons Board.

Now if the letters are here, I think we ought to accept them for what they are worth, just as we accepted every other letter and all other testimony for what it was worth.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I have no objection to the letters being brought in, but I do resent that when this committee makes a formal request for information that it is withheld, to be presented to this committee only as, if and when the Attorney General thinks he is going to do it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You can resent that. I don't think you ought to use such strong language. It doesn't really terrify anybody, but at the same time I respectfully suggest to you that the Attorney General is not defying this committee. The Attorney General is presenting this evidence because he has made an independent investigation. I became fully satisfied that the committee counsel had no intention of presenting this matter before the committee.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: If the information was—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: May I finish? He has a staff up there investigating himself. Has he done through 1950, 1951, 1952, 1953?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a minute—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We haven't presented any of the sixteen that we have gotten in the last few days.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We asked for that information which has not been turned over to us.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: This is the first opportunity we have had, and you can rule any way you want to on it. It has been suggested—you have the majority, use your power if you will, but you said this was our day.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I am not going to block your introduction, but I am stating that this committee requested that information to be turned over to us in order that we could check these records ourselves, and we have not had that information turned over to this committee and we have had to wait upon the pleasure of the Attorney General in order to be able to get it instead of having it furnished to us as we believe it should be in the due course of such an investigation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It simply isn't so.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: May I have the floor? On page 767 of the printed testimony, Mr. Attorney General, and you have said that I did not make this request:

"REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I would like to suggest that the secretary turn over to our counsel the names of the Congressmen, and names of the cases in which he has been contacted. I think that is within the scope of this investigation.

"THE WITNESS: Yes, but I can't do it in a few hours. Will you permit me to look over a year and a half to pick out letters from the Congressman? It will take a little time.

"REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: If we are going for a year and a half let's go over five years to see if there are letters from Congressmen in the files. In five years we can probably find a lot of letters."

Now, sir, I don't know whether that technically constitutes a demand like some of our technical distinctions today but to me, a plain country attorney, it does constitute a request.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am undyingly grateful Mr. Bell, because as you have read it, it says, "Mr. Chairman, I would like to suggest that the Secretary turn over to our counsel the names of the Congressmen, and names of the cases in which he has been contacted," showing clearly that what you were asking for are the cases in which Mr. Hean was contacted, and Mr. Lopresti made the point that what we ought to get is the whole thing but you didn't ask for that.

Now we went ahead and got you the information. You have the power I say. You can vote not to receive it if you want to, but Mr. Hean answered your query.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We are going into a lot of technical quibbling. It is unfortunate that when this committee requests information, that we have so much difficulty in obtaining it.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. McBride, when did Mr. Hean answer my inquiry? The answer of co-counsel for the Pardons Board is not answering my inquiry, is it, sir?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am putting this witness on not in answer to your request, but your request I thought went only to the question of what persons contacted Mr. Hean. Since this is what was known as our day, I thought that we were allowed to show what we could show in answer to the evidence up-to-date, and we wanted to show that what happened in the other five years, which you didn't request and which Mr. Lopresti took the position should be asked for.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, General, it has been my understanding—if I am wrong, I am subject to correction—that we were going to try and clean up the Erie County cases today in so far as your witnesses were concerned, and that then we were going to go into the Delaware County cases. Now I have no objection to this information being brought into the record, but if this witness is going to take two hours, we are not going to start with him tonight. It is now 10:30, and we want to convene again here tomorrow morning at 9:30, but I do wish, and I make a request now, that the names of these cases be turned over to our counsel and that our counsel be given the privilege of examining these records prior to the time of their presentation.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I object to any censorship by our counsel of anything that the department or the Pardons Board wants to submit to this committee. If everything that the Pardons Board wants to submit must first pass the censorship of our counsel, then I think we are heading for what we termed awhile ago as an inquisition.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All we want is information for the benefit of this committee. We are not trying to block it.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: We are ready to receive it now then.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Can't we read from them and then Mr. Kohn will be entitled to fully cross-examine?

MR. KOHN: I can't cross-examine on something I haven't seen.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Kohn, your people have had all these files; they have had them for years.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, we are here to get information, and it doesn't make any difference who submits the information. I don't care who it is, whether it is Mr. Kohn or the Attorney General or whether it is the Pardons Board or whether it is people from the outside, and I agree with Mr. Lopresti that it is improper for people who come here to be compelled to turn over the information to counsel and then decide whether or not it is to be made a part of the record. If this information is to be helpful, let—

MR. KOHN: Wait a minute, Mr. Yosko, let's not get things misstated. I think Mr. Tompkins stated that all of this will go in if Mr. McBride wants to present it or we want to present it. I want an opportunity to be able to examine the records which I have asked for by letter and which Mr. Bell has asked for by the testimony, so that I can intelligently serve this committee by asking the proper questions that I think are relevant in that case. I cannot anymore answer the questions than Mr. Furman could answer them if he had never seen the file, and I cannot blame him because he has handled a great many cases, and if you don't want me to see these files then and bring out any facts in the case which may be just as relevant as what the Attorney General wants to bring out—

SENATOR YOSKO: These are merely a group of letters and after the letters are introduced and become a part of the record, you can from there on scrutinize and examine the cases to which they belong and if merited and the committee so decides, we can list it for a public hearing, but I see nothing wrong in the Attorney General or anybody else supplying information to this committee for the record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I don't either but I want to know why our counsel is continually being denied information which he is requesting.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He isn't.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I want to clear up one matter. There has been the word "censorship" brought up here tonight by one of the members of the committee. There has been an implication—

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I stand by it, too.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: There has been an implication of censorship by the Attorney General, too, that those words come from the Attorney General and from one of the minority members of this committee, and from tonight's hearing it is very clear that you can't censor the minority members of this committee.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is for sure.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Now we are lacking here tonight two of our members of this committee. The reason they are not here is because they understood we were going to be on the Erie cases, and I think they have the right to hear all this testimony and I think that it is not fair to the two absent members of this committee to proceed into new matters without their knowledge and, therefore, Mr. Chairman, in view of the hour, I move that this committee adjourn until tomorrow morning.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: This is another form of censorship. If you want to apply it, we can do it.

MR. KOHN: I don't want to get into this, but it seems to me that Mr. Yosko's position is that any cases they want to present, it is all right with him without us knowing about it.

SENATOR YOSKO: Now wait a minute. These aren't cases, Mr. Kohn. Were you given these cases?

MR. KOHN: No sir.

SENATOR YOSKO: These are letters that were requested and became a part of the controversy during one of these hearings. The letters are now available. You can list those cases for hearing if you want to. The subject matter of the letters could be on the record and could be transcribed, and I can get a copy of my transcription and I can read them, and the same thing applies to every member.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Here is a letter of March 19, directed to Mr. Hean asking for this very information for the use of this committee.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, in all fairness, that is restricted, as Mr. Bell's statement was restricted, to letters sent to Mr. Hean.

MR. KOHN: That is a foolish interpretation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I thought you meant something other than you said.

MR. KOHN: That is absolutely correct.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Say what you mean and mean what you say. We took you at your word. Mr. Bell, you stated that what you wanted was copies of letters sent to Mr. Hean, people who contacted him.

MR BELL: I haven't gotten them yet.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I don't know that there are any, but independently of them these are letters sent to other Pardons Boards, very interesting ones.

SENATOR POSKO: You see, if we confine those letters to those sent to Mr. Hean, they would be applicable only to the present Pardons Board but we are interested in all letters from January 1950 up to the present time and if such letters are available, I think they ought to be made a part of the record.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We are only debating the question on this issue. This committee and its counsel have constantly run into difficulty in obtaining information and when we wind up at a point where the Attorney General, who has taken the position as counsel for the defense in these proceedings, is going to determine when and where this committee can operate, then I say the Attorney General has taken a wrong position and a position contrary to the duties which were assigned to this committee.

I am perfectly willing to let all records go in that he has. We are not trying to block anything out, but I do wish that in the future when our counsel requests information or the members of this committee request information, that it would be produced and presented to us when we ask for it or as soon as it is available instead of having to wait on the pleasure of the Attorney General to present it as, if and when he sees fit.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I say the other two members of this committee, the two Senators, have a right to be here to hear the testimony.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Those kind of imflammatory statements tend to prove exactly what Mr. Harner stated. He indicated that this was politically inspired, and now you are making a personal attack upon me. Why don't you just run this thing on a higher level instead of constantly trying to make me or someone else the target of ill temper? You would get further, certainly.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I have served on Legislative Committees before—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I never served on one like this.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: And when we asked for information, we have obtained it.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Maybe it wasn't bad like this.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Inasmuch as the Attorney General has stated that this witness will take two hours, we do not propose to run a midnight sesion. We are not going to close these meetings tonight because of the absence of the other two Senators nor for the purpose of trying to block any information because what the Attorney General has for this witness, we will hear but we are not going to hear it at this hour tonight.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: When, Mr. Chairman, will we hear it?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The Attorney General didn't tell us that he was going to bring this information at this time and we had scheduled our hearing, our program, based upon the fact that we would clean up what witnesses he had in connection with the Erie County cases today.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I just can't imagine why, all of a sudden, you would object to the admission of these letters in evidence and that they be made a part of the record. You know, I hate to say this but if these letters were on Democratic stationery or written by Democratic Congressmen, I don't believe there would be that much objection to them going into the record. I don't know who they are from.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: At this hour of the night, I would object to it, Senator.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, I have asked a question.

SENATOR YOSKO: It's only 10:00 o'clock; I missed the fight and everything anyway.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: You have been in a good fight, Senator.

Mr. Chairman, I renew my request that we now adjourn until 10:00 o'clock.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well I am going to stay here until I say this if I have to listen to myself say it.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I will yield to Mr. Lopresti.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: We have once before set a time for when the Attorney General could present his case. Then we changed that schedule. We have now allowed him to put in part and then interrupted it, and I believe that if it is the intention of this committee to resort to a fixed schedule, it will not be continued—the Attorney General's part of this inquiry—for possibly some weeks. I think that in view of the fact that we were gone the biggest part of the day on other House business which kept us away and in view of the further fact that we have had some hassles which have taken up the time of the Attorney General, I believe that we should continue on tomorrow where we left off tonight and let the rest of the gentlemen wait.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Would there be any particular harm in following through with our schedule tomorrow and scheduling then the balance of the Attorney General for next Monday morning?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is just as important to follow through with our schedule today. Usually Thursday's business follows upon Wednesday.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What other witnesses beside this one do you have?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Probably Secretary Finnegan.

SENATOR YOSKO: There is no reason to quit now. It's just the newspapermen who are saying quit.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I do not want to impose upon myself and be here at 9:30 in the morning nor am I going to impose upon the Attorney General at the present time to stay here until the wee small hours of the morning on this situation. I feel that we should terminate it tonight.

You have your Delaware County people, that they can come in on Monday?

MR. KOHN: Well, I don't know. If I can get hold of them tonight—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Will they take the whole day?

MR. KOHN: It may not.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will try to get it in.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Suppose we offered to finish tomorrow morning and you finished with the Delaware County poeple tomorrow afternoon?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: The members of the press have some kind of an engagement tomorrow afternoon or am I spilling the beans?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: They are my most dearly beloved friends, but certainly the committee can function with or without the press. I think I would be the first to say this isn't a public spectacle. We are, as you say—

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I absolutely agree with you, Mr. Attorney General. Of course, if the Governor doesn't want to have a press conference—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have no position. The press feels they ought not have any bearing upon this.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Could we take this witness the first thing tomorrow morning, because Secretary Finnegan and the other witnesses are all present here daily anyhow and do not have to come in here from distances, and defer this until Mnoday?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I don't see any reason why we can't.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We are not trying to block out you gentlemen.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Now we will start off with Mr. Wright in the morning and at any time that it looks as though it is going too far or taking too long that it will interfere with the presentation of the Delaware County cases, why we will make some other agreement that is suitable to the committee's pleasure.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Secretary Finnegan can be called at anytime.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Be sure you don't lose those letters between now and then.

SENATOR YOSKO: Do I understand then that if we quit tonight until tomorrow morning, we will start with Mr. Wright?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: At 9:30.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: And then after Mr. Wright is done, then defer the others until the Delaware County cases are in.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Any new Delaware County cases that haven't been gone over.

MR. KOHN: I am satisfied to start with Mr. Wright, but let's get it straight how many cases you have.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Sixteen, but they are—I am sure you will find that it doesn't take long with each one of them.

MR. KOHN: I am sure you will find cross-examination takes a long time. I will have to familiarize myself with each case and cross-examine as each case goes along.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Couldn't we do this? I think it would be more proper, perhaps, to take up on Monday the witnesses who are here every day because of the people coming from the outside. I want it thoroughly understood, though, that we are not trying to block anybody.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is one of the difficulties.

(At 10:15 p.m., the hearing was adjourned until 9:30 a.m., Thursday, March 28, 1957.)

I hereby certify that the proceedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing on the above cause before the Joint Legislative Committee to Conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and that this copy is a correct transcript of the same.

Stenographic report of hearing held in Senate Caucus Room, Main Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, at 9:30 a. m., Thursday,

March 28, 1957

PRESENT:

REPRESENTATIVE EDWIN W. TOMPKINS, Chairman.

REPRESENTATIVE CLARENCE D. BELL.

REPRESENTATIVE PHILIP LOPRESTI.

SENATOR WILLIAM Z. SCOTT.

SENATOR JOSEPH J. YOSKO.

Members of Committee.

APPEARANCES:

THOMAS D. McBRIDE, ESQUIRE, Attorney General Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Board of Pardons.

VICTOR H. WRIGHT, ESQUIRE, Deputy Attorney General, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Board of Pardons.

DAVID S. KOHN, ESQUIRE, 9 N. Front Street Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Committee.

JAMES WILLIAM EVANS, ESQUIRE, 5 N. Front Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Committee (Assisting Counsel).

JAMES K. ARNOLD. ESQUIRE, 2109 Market Street, Camp Hill, Pennsylvania
For—Committee (Assisting Counsel).

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Last night, when we recessed, we agreed that we would hear Mr. Wright this morning. Before we put Mr. Wright on the stand, there are a couple of matters relating to yesterday's inquiry we would like to finish up, which will take a matter of some ten or fifteen minutes to do so. Inasmuch as they relate to testimony which was presented here yesterday we would like to take it up first. What Mr. Wright has is something that has no relation to the testimony, as I understand it, that was put in here yesterday.

COMMITTEE'S EVIDENCE

FRANK R. HEAN, recalled on

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Hean, will you take the stand sir.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hean, were you present during all of the proceedings of yesterday?

A I was.

Q Did you hear Governor Furman testify as to certain commutations and pardons that were granted during 1955 and 1956?

A I listened to his testimony.

Q Were those facts prepared by you or under your supervision?

A Under my supervision and some of them personally.

Q I call your attention to a press release—I hand it to you—which apparently came from the Attorney General's Office and that was carried by AP Wire and it is dated—was it March 18?

A That is right, March 18.

Q Now, I will also hand you your figures. Would you tell the Committee whether or not those figures that are reported in that AP press release are the same for the total number of pardons and commutations granted in 1955 and 1956 as your report?

A Nineteen hundred fifty-five has 978; this report shows 978.

Q How many were granted in 1955?

A Two hundred five.

Q Both those reports coincide?

A Yes. Nineteen hundred fifty-six shows 1,067.

Q Cases heard?

A Cases heard. Applications granted, 137 which corresponds with this.

Q In your preparation of the figures—I believe you testified that you prepared or caused to be prepared those figures?

A That is right.

Q In your preparation or supervision of the preparation of those figures, did you have close enough supervision so you can testify here that they are true and correct?

A I would say that as far as it is humanly possible I made a true and accurate computation. There may be errors, but they were of the mind and not of the heart.

Q Do these figures include all the pardons and commutations granted in 1955 and 1956?

A That was my intention to so prepare that statement, sir.

Q And do these figures reflect all of the pardons and commutations granted in 1955 and 1956?

A I so believe they reflect.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: They start with February. There is no January.

THE WITNESS. He understands that.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Now, Mr. Hean, are you familiar with a file of commutations and pardons that presently is in the custody of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, submitted by the Governor, I believe?

A Yes, for the years—

Q I will just say 1955 and 1956.

A Yes. I know they are handed to the Chief Clerk of both Houses.

Q Do you know who hands that file to the Chief Clerk of both Houses?

A I have done it technically as the agent for Mr. Heagy, the executive administrator of the Governor's Office.

Q Did you hand to the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives a carbon copy of each pardon and commutation granted in 1955 and 1956?

A Not personally, but I had it caused to be done.

Q You caused it. And such a file would be a true and correct file?

A It should be. It was the action of the Board.

Q Did you prepare the file?

A I cannot recall that I did. We had photostatic copies made and they are the ones that are handed into the respective Clerks of the two Houses.

Q And would that file reflect the true and correct figures and facts with respect to pardons and commutations?

A It should so reflect it.

Q That is the report that is given to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania?

A That is correct.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: That is all, Mr. Hean.

THE WITNESS: Now, you asked me for some information the other day. I have it here in response to your—

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Sir, I do not want to go into that now.

THE WITNESS: I have it here in response to your request.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Thank you, sir.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Arnold, take the stand, please.

JAMES K. ARNOLD, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Arnold, will you give your full name to the recorder.

A James K. Arnold.

Q Mr. Arnold, are you of counsel for this Pardons Board investigating committee?

A Yes, sir.

Q Mr. Arnold, in response to my request yesterday, did you make a thorough examination of a file of pardons and commutations which is in the custody of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives of the State of Pennsylvania?

A Yes, I did.

Q Now, Mr. Arnold, did you count the number of pardons and commutations that are in this file?

A Yes, sir; that is right.

Q Mr. Arnold, for the year 1955, how many pardons and commutations are represented by carbon copies of the actual pardons and commutations that are on file in the Office of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives?

A Well, by counting the carbon copies for commutation of maximum and minimum pardons and reduction of death to life sentences, there are 310 in there, which is roughly thirty-four per cent error in the figures given yesterday.

Q I show you the Board of Pardons Exhibit 23 for the year 1955. Will you read into the record the number of pardons and commutations granted as shown by this exhibit for 1955.

A For the year 1955, total granted, 205.

Q And how many did you count?

A I counted 310.

Q Now, Mr. Arnold, at my request did you also count those commutations and pardons; that is, the carbon copies of the same, that are in the custody of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives for the period January through November of 1956?

A Yes, that is right. December has not been filed as yet.

Q How many carbon copies of pardons and commutations are there for the eleven months of 1956?

A I count 270.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Two hundred seventy?

A Two hundred seventy, General.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Now, Mr. Arnold, will you refer again to the Board of Pardons exhibit, and tell this investigating committee how many are reported therein?

A For the year 1956, and I might add this includes December which my figures do not reflect, there are 137.

Q In other words, your figures reflect a total of 580 cases for which there are actual carbon copies of the commutations or pardons for the year 1955 and for the first eleven months of the year 1956. Is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Were you present yesterday in this hearing when the Lieutenant Governor testified that during the month of December, 1956, there were ten additional commutations and pardons granted?

A I was; yes.

Q I would be correct then in stating that during the years 1955 and 1956 there were a total of 590 pardons and commutations granted, according to the records as found in the Office of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives and according to Governor Furman's testimony with respect to December, 1956?

A That is right. Five hundred eighty plus the ten in December.

Q Now you added the figures 205 and 137. Will you give the committee the total that the Board of Pardons, through its President, Governor Furman, and, apparently, through the Attorney General's Office, has released to the press? Will you give the totals that the Board of Pardons has reported?

A Well, the 205 for 1955 and the 137 for 1956, totals 342.

Q Therefore, there is a discrepancy in the Board of Pardons figures, as between those released by the press and the testimony yesterday and the actual carbon copies of the commutations and pardons submitted to the General Assembly of a difference between 342 and 590?

A That is right.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: That is all.

Mr. Chairman, I caused Mr. Arnold to make this examination yesterday because I think that the people of Pennsylvania should know that we, as an investigating committee, are not getting all of the facts.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Suppose you wait until we get all the facts before you make those statements.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q This will only take a minute. I want to ask you a few questions, my friend. I am not implying now that all of the records that were taken to the Chief Clerk's Office were not turned over to you, but whatever you counted in the Chief Clerk's Office was what was turned over to you. Is that right?

A I do not understand. Turned over to me by the Clerk?

Q Yes.

A Yes; that is right.

Q You do not know whether what was turned over to you in totals was actually what Mr. Hean turned over to the Chief Clerk, do you?

A Oh, no, sir.

SENATOR YOSKO: All right. Then what I would suggest is that if there is an extra copy of the cases that were delivered to the Chief Clerk that they be checked against the files of the Pardons Board to determine whether there is a full set on file with the Chief Clerk that was turned over to you. After that determination is made, then we can decide whether or not this discrepancy is correct or incorrect.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, sir, did your Chief Clerk tell you those were the official records submitted to the General Assembly for incorporation in the Legislative Journal?

THE WITNESS: That is right. These are kept in a safe and the custodian, a man by the name of Hottenstein, Frank Hottenstein, stated substantially that those are the carbon copies which have been turned over to them.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, I would like to have, if possible, the records brought into the committee room so that we can find out the method of computation used by Mr. Arnold and, likewise, the method of computation used by the Secretary of the Board. Now you might be counting half peanuts and the other fellow might be counting whole peanuts. I do not know, but I am going to find out.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Lopresti, the peanuts I am counting are the peanuts contained in the—

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I say, I want to find out how they are being counted, either in halves or in whole; that is all.

SENATOR YOSKO: I do not know whether what he counted was everything that was taken down to the Chief Clerk either.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Well, if it is found out there are more, it will make it even worse.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, I do not care whether it is more or less. I just want to double check on it.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: To double check, may I suggest that if you want, you can bring in the records from the Chief Clerk of the Senate.

SENATOR YOSKO: All right, and let the Secretary of the Pardons Board bring down a duplicate of what he says he took into the Chief Clerk, and if you check the one against the other you will find whether or not there are any discrepanies.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Let us find out what—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The matter remains that these are official records submitted to the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, so you certainly ought to be able to rely upon what they submit as official records.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: The question I would like to determine is how the computation is made. I am not questioning those records. I am not questioning them at all, but let us bring them in here and find out how he counted them and then how Mr. Hean counted them. There may be some explanation for the difference in figures which may be to the Board's benefit or perhaps to the Board's detriment; I do not know which.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Lopresti, I know you as a fair man, and I know Mr. Yosko is a fair man. It is a pleasure to serve with you on this committee, but to me, when figures are released saying this is a total of the pardons and commutations, and then I was blundering around myself over in the Chief Clerk's Office looking through some of these files, and it did not strike me as being a correct figure. I think that is an attempt to mislead the public.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Now wait, Mr. Bell, before you make your statement, let us check first.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I am willing to stand on a double check.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is right. The point I am making is that before you make those statements, let us find out. The statements may be to the detriment of this Board. If they are, I will be the first one to criticize the man who prepared them.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I did not know any better way to find out than to count them.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Like I say, we cannot definitely settle this, so let us find out why.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I counted them also.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, may I suggest that Mr. Hean advise us how he prepared his count.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let us check it.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is right. Let us find out why there is a discrepancy.

MR. KOHN: What's that?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Let us find out why there is this discrepancy.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: That is all I had, sir.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Before this witness goes, I have some questions I would like to ask.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q What time did you go to the Chief Clerk's Office?

A Roughly, twenty minutes to ten in the morning.

Q How long did you spend there?

A I would say approximately twenty-five minutes.

Q What did you ask for?

A I did not ask for anything. I went in with Representative Bell.

Q What did he ask for in your presence, if anything?

A The carbon copies of the commutations and favorable recommendations for commutation of pardons on file of the Pardons Board.

Q Now, did you check them and make a total for each month?

A I did for 1955. I did halfway through 1956. I could not complete it because the hearing began here.

Q Did you check them by name?

A I do not understand that, sir.

Q Did you check the warrants or charters by name to see who the people were who were commuted?

A The checking I did was on the carbon copies of the recommendations from the Board.

Q Did you make a list of the names?

A No, sir; I did not.

Q Did you make a list of the Session of the Pardons Board at which the commutation was granted?

A The Session in relation to the month?

Q Whether it was March, 1955?

A Yes, for 1955, I did; yes, sir.

Q For 1955. You checked each warrant to see if it was granted in March, or April, or May, 1955?

A No, sir. I checked by determining the Session listed on the recommendation and counting each particular warrant or recommendation. For example, March Session of 1955, and making sure it was a favorable recommendation for the maximum, minimum or what have you.

Q Were these all in a folder?

A They were; yes.

Q Were they marked 1955 and 1956?

A Not to my recollection. There was no marking in the folder at all.

Q Did you separate them out; one group for 1955 and one group for 1956?

A Do you mean by separating in piles or counting separately? I did not arrange them in any sense. I counted one by one and kept a tally record.

Q Were they in order by months?

A Yes, they were.

Q Did you go over 1954?

A No, sir.

Q Did you go over 1953?

A No, sir; I did not. The only records on file in there, at least the ones I was given, were for 1955 and 1956 up to December.

Q At Mr. Bell's request?

A That is right.

Q Mr. Bell made no request for you to get records for 1954 or 1953; did he?

A To my knowledge, no, sir.

Q Now, for the second half of 1956, there was no check by you as to names or Sessions. Is that correct?

A For the second half, sir?

Q Of 1956.

A No check by me of the names or Sessions? Well, I did it exactly the same from February, 1955, to November, 1956, as I described.

Q I thought you said you did it for 1955 and half of 1956.

A Oh, I see what you mean. That is correct. I did it for the last half of 1956 and, because of the time element, I did not count the remaining recommendations in the file.

Q Are you able to say there are no duplications where two charters may have applied to one man?

A I have not checked for that.

Q Are you able to say whether there was more than one case involved in any one charter or warrant?

A Are you referring to the recommendations whereby the Board may recommend a commutation of a maximum and a minimum in one charter?

Q No. I am referring to a case of a man who might ask for a pardon on three separate bills of indictment.

A If those were all on three separate recommendations, no, sir; I have not checked for that. A numerical count is basically what I did.

Q The numerical count of the number of papers which you call carbon copies. Are they, as a matter of fact, carbon copies or photostatic copies?

A I would not be able to say.

Q You would not?

A No, sir.

Q Didn't you handle them personally?

A Yes. and they could be either. I am not sure what they were.

Q You do know the difference between a carbon copy and a photostatic copy?

A Yes, sir.

Q Well then, which were these?

A I am not sure which they were.

Q How long did you say you made this check?

A I would estimate around twenty-five minutes; twenty to twenty-five minutes.

Q Was there anybody there with you when you checked them?

A The personnel in the office, the Clerk's Office.

Q How many?

A I do not know.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Do I understand,

Mr. Chairman, that they will be brought in for the inspection of the Committee and that they will be checked here for accuracy?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Oh yes, by all means.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I would like to ask Mr. McBride a question, if I may, sir.

When one prisoner is in front of the Pardons Board who may have been convicted on several counts, is there a separate commutation filed for each count or conviction or charge or whatever it would be?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It would more properly occur in the case of a pardon where a man, fearing deportation or some other governmental action, has two or three convictions and would ask for a pardon on two out of the three in order to place himself within the rule that he does not have two convictions. I do not know that that has any application to this situation. I would have to look at it when the papers are brought in.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Would the individual man bear two different numbers, file numbers, that are found on the form?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He might or might not.

MR. KOHN: That is the application number, is it not?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: What did you say?

MR. KOHN: It would bear the application number?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: That is what I mean; the number, the application number.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: It would be one of those; would it not?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think that the warrant would simply tell, not the application number, but the time at which favorable action was taken and the date of recommendation to the Governor and the date on which the Governor approved or disapproved it.

MR. KOHN: I do not want to interfere with the testimony, but I would like to correct my assistant so that you can understand. You were talking about warrants. He is talking about copies of the recommendations of the Board of Pardons. The warrants are not on file that I have seen in the office.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: It is the Reasons for the pardons.

MR. KOHN: The Reasons? You have been talking about warrants.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have been talking about either a charter or a pardon.

MR. KOHN: That's right.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You are talking about the recommendations to the Governor.

MR. KOHN: I am talking about the copies found in the files in each case; the recommendations of the Board signed by—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We will be able to see the whole picture when they are brought in.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: They are official records which the law requires be submitted to the General Assembly?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No doubt about it. There is a perfect check of this thing because these records up there can be checked against the books and minutes of the Board for the month of February, March, April, May and so forth, and you can have a perfect check and come out within one percentage point of error.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: They should check out.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Regardless of whose counting is right.

MR. KOHN: Can we get those right away?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The committee wants to see them when they get time to look at them.

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, yesterday there was testimony given by the former Secretary of the Commonwealth in regard to a certain telephone call I made to him, which received due publicity, which I suppose it was supposed to receive. Mr. Harner stated that I did not ask him for a commitment; he did not give me any. I intend to take the stand when I finish my duties as counsel for this committee on that matter. I will say to you now that if I had it to do all over again, I would not hesitate to do what I did. I did not ask about procedure, either.

I did talk to Mr. Harner, and I will explain the circumstances later when given an opportunity to do it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You will be given that opportunity, Mr. Kohn.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairma, I would like to consider this a matter of personal privilege and have Mr. Kohn do it now if he wishes, rather than delay it.

MR. KOHN: I wish to wait for certain reasons, General. I have to check my files to find out when certain things happened; the phone call—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He is filing his intention of doing it.

BOARD'S EVIDENCE

VICTOR WRIGHT, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Wright, your full name is what?
A Victor Wright.
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Victor?
THE WITNESS: Victor.
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: W-r-i-g-h-t?
THE WITNESS: Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q You are Deputy Attorney General?
A Yes.
Q In the office of the Attorney General?
A Department of Justice.
Q Formerly Assistant District Attorney in Philadelphia?
A Yes.
Q Mr. Wright, did you at my request, make a search of the records of the Board of Pardons to ascertain whether there were other cases in the files presenting somewhat of an analogous or similar situation as were presented in the testimony as to Congressman Barrett?
A At your direction, Mr. Attorney General, I caused that search to be made. I did not personally make it.

Q Have you the folders and have you reviewed the folders which contain the answers to the questions put to you?

A I have the folders and I have reviewed them to the extent of the request made of me. I have not thrououghly acquainted myself with the contents of the entire files. We will make the entire file available to anybody who wishes to see it.

Q Now, will you start with the first case and tell us the name of the case, the date of the Session at which it was heard, and the circumstances that make it in any way analogous to the Barrett matter?

A I do not have these cases in any chronological or any other particular order. They simply are stacked here as they happen to be stacked. I pick up first the case of Willard Hartill.

Q How do you spell it?

A H-a-r-t-i-l-l. The file number or application number is 7070, which was heard at the October Session of 1950.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What was the first name of that person?

A Willard.

Q How do you spell it?

A W-i-l-l-a-r-d.

Q Is that H-a-r-t-i-l-l-?

A That is correct.

His application was for a pardon. I am stating this merely from what I see in the folder. I have no personal knowledge of any of these cases. In the folder I find a letter dated October 14, 1950, on the stationary of one Mrs. John T. Butler, 2650 Perrysville Avenue, Pittsburgh 14.

Q How do you spell her last name?

A B-u-t-l-e-r. The letter, consisting of two pages, is signed Catherine Butler. The letter follows:

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q It is addressed to whom?

A Well, the salutation is "Dear 'Skip:' ". It has no envelope attached to it, and no other address.

"It was nice to talk to you this morning. I know how busy you are these days"—

MR. KOHN: Do we know who this is addressed to?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Sure, to Skip Wymard.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Does it say so on there?

A Later on there is an indication.

"I know how busy you are these days but the case of Willard Hartill is very important to me.

"As you know, I was born in the twenty-first ward, and lived there the early part of my life. I went to school down there and was acquainted with most of the families in the community. In those days, the twenty-first ward was so different from now. The young man about whom I spoke to you is the son of a very close friend of my family. I knew his Grandmother, who was a very fine woman, and who raised quite a large family of children. His Mother, Sara Clark Hartill, is one of that family. She was one time Republican Chairlady of that Ward. I have known the Clark family my entire life and have known Willard Hartill since he was born. They are an honorable, reputable family of great integrity. They are religious people and were very ardent church workers and God-fearing people.

"During the depression many things happened to many people. In the twenty-first ward, which is one of the lower North Side Wards, there just weren't any jobs. People who would never think of breaking the law were forced to do many things they wouldn't have done otherwise. Willard was sick and had an operation for Ulcers. This operation was costly and had to be paid for and I can only say that he was a victim of circumstances.

"Willard is employed at the Allegheny Elks No. 339, on Cedar Avenue. In this lodge there are over 2800 members and it is one of the places that I always count on to get votes. I know that in the past, they have helped us considerably at the Elks. I go there quite a lot and know most of the members. The steward there is a Republican and went to St Andrew's School with me and he is always helpful in an election. When he lived in the twenty-first ward he always carried his district, even when Roosevelt was a candidate, and I know how difficult this was. He now lives in the 27th Ward and helps us out there. He is most anxious to have Willard get this pardon and I enclosing the letter he wrote me about it. Almost all the members of Allegheny Elks are North Side people. They are scattered through the seven wards.

"I cannot impress upon you how important this pardon is to me and I know that you will do whatever you can in Willard's behalf. Willard has been working at Allegheny Elks since 1945 and his record there is very good.

"You are the one person in Harrisburg that I can depend upon and hope and pray that this pardon will be voted upon favorably Tuesday, October 17th. As I told you on the telephone, I would go down there if I could help in any way but feel that my presence is not necessary, after my conversation with you.

"I will be ever grateful to you 'Skip,' for your assistance and do not hestitate to call upon me at any time if I can reciprocate in any way.

"Best regards to Mrs. Wymard and you and my thanks for all you have done for me in the past and for what you are doing now.

"Very sincerely yors,

/s/ "Catherine Butler."

There is then a memorandum on a memorandum form of the Board addressed to Mr. Joseph Nissley, Secretary, Board of Pardons, from N. L. Wymard and initialed opposite the typed name, "N.L.W.," Secretary to the Governor.

"Attached hereto is a letter from Mrs. John T. Butler, 2650 Perrysville Avenue, Pittsburgh 14, Pennsylvania, in behalf of Willard Hartill, for the information and attention of the Board."

That memorandum is dated October 18, 1950.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q With favorable action?

A There is one more correspondence here. There is a memorandum directed to Honorable N. L. Wymard, Secretary to the Governor, from Joseph Nissley, Secretary, Board of Pardons; Subject: Willard Hartill, application for pardon. It is dated November 10, 1950, and it bears the following observation:

"P. J. Patterson: No comment.

"D. A.: No objection.

"Comment: Applicant has been in no further trouble for nearly the past ten years. Is employed by the Elks Lodge."

Q Was the application acted on favorably?

A It was.

Q At the hearing and on the date the lady suggested?

A Yes, that is correct.

Q Is there anything else in that file?

A Nothing pertinent to this.

MR. KOHN: I would like to question him on these as we go along.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think that would not follow our usual practice. We should go on and put them all in and have the one cross-examination at the same time. That is the way we did it before.

MR. KOHN: What is the expression of the committee? In my opinion, I do not think we did it that way before. In the previous cases he had proper cross-examination at the time I finished a case. Cross-examination will not take very long, if we can get it in. I know that the committee and myself forget what the original testimony was.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well when we had this kind of discussion before, Mr. Kohn took the position, and he was sustained by the Chair, that he should finish up all the cases in the particular county and so forth and then I had cross-examination. However, if it will help the committee to do it the way he wants to, I do not care.

MR. KOHN: The Committee can do it the way they want to.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. McBride, will you be harmed if we have cross-examination on the different cases? I can just visualize sixteen cases in a horrible jumble.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, I feel so good humored today after yesterday, I say I will not be harmed today.

MR. KOHN: I appreciate that, Mr. McBride. It will help me keep track while it is fresh in our minds.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Was there a woman by the name of Butler mentioned in there?

A Mrs. Butler, the writer of the letter.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a moment until we make a ruling on this. After conferring with the members of the committee, we feel we would like to hear the cross-examination at the end of each particular presentation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right I just want to ask one question before it starts.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBIDE:

Q Do you know if Mrs. Butler is the Republican State Committee Woman and Republican candidate for City Council this year?

A I have been so informed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Did you say Republican candidate this year?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: For City Council this year.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Is that in the year in which this took place or not?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No, this present year.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Oh, this present year, and this occurred in 1950?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Did Mrs. Butler have any political job in 1950?

A I have no personal knowledge whether she did or not.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q These indictments, according to the records, Mr. Wright, occurred in 1939, 1941 and 1938. Is that correct?

A I do not know. As I said, I have not—

Q Do you know whether or not there were two other applications for a pardon filed in 1944 and 1945? If you care to look at them—

(Witness was handed the file).

A Yes, there appears to be two other applications.

Q And this was finally granted in October Session 1950, with Smith, Margiotti, and Livengood approving and the Lieutenant Governor not sitting. Is that correct?

A That is right.

Q Now, have you gone over other Pardons Board cases in the Board of Pardons? Is there anything unusual about anybody writing a letter about a defendant who is requesting a pardon whether it be for the purpose of obtaining the right to stay within the United States or whether it is for a pardon for business purposes or selling of say, anything? Is there anything unusual about a person writing a letter in pardon cases?

A No, I think not.

Q Did you find many of them, in fact?

A As I said, I did not personally make this examination. I directed it and I gave instructions that only the cases which contained letters similar to that presented in the Barrett case, the so-called Barrett letter. I did not even look at the files.

Q That was a special listing and the commutation of a murderer of life sentence?

A Yes, and there are some in this stack—

Q I am asking about this. We will get to each, one at a time.

Is there anything unusual about a letter, in a case where a pardon is sought, written by a person who is either close to the family, a doctor, a physician or some political figure, describing the person's behavior during the ten year period prior to consideration by the Board? From your own knowledge is there anything unusual about that?

A I could not testify from my own knowledge.

Q You would not say it is unusual?

A I do not know.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Wright, there is a difference, however, between a letter of recommendation or a letter of good character than one similar to the one that you have which brings in the political possibilities of the pardon. Is there not?

A I should think so.

Q Isn't that why this is one of the letters you selected or read to us? That makes the difference. A letter addressed to the Pardons Board in the form of a recommendation or a character letter is a normal practice and there would be no objection?

A I might say—I do not know if it is in order at this time or not. Mr. McBride identified me as a former Assistant District Attorney from Philadelphia. While I was such, one of my duties was representing that office before the Board of Pardons. I was responsible for the principle number cases, during the time I had the assignment, for the decision of what position the District Attorney of Philadelphia would take. In connection with that work, I would say that I had certainly on an average of one visitor per week to my office to discuss cases with me. It may be counsel; it may be a minister; it may be a member of the family. I received telephone calls. I believe I received correspondence along the same line. I do say, however, that no persons ever spoke to me in terms of Democrat or Republican affiliation of the applicant.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You mean you never had any political figures in the City of Philadelphia ever talk to you about the applicant?

A No. not to me.

Q Not to you?

A No.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Did they ever talk to your boss?

A I would not know; not in my presence.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did your boss ever say anything to you along that line?

A No.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Was Dilworth the District Attorney?

A Of course.

Q For the record.

A Yes.

SENATOR YOSKO: What was the charge there? I just want to get that.

MR. KOHN: Receiving stolen goods.

THE WITNESS. Shall I continue?

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I have a question I want to ask. This was an application for pardon, as I understand?

A That is correct.

Q Was this man in jail at the time this application was filed?

A I rather doubt it.

O I get from that letter that he had been out of jail for quite some number of years.

A Well, apparently, according to the application, he was indicted in March Sessions of 1938 and—Well, here, "In what institution are you now confined?" He states, "None." In reply to another question he stated—

Q That was in 1938. When was he sentenced and for how long?

A He was sentenced, he states, on "April 7, 1938." Now, I can state that—Well, his sentence here, according to his application, states that he was given one year's probation. So, apparently, he was never confined.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q This is an application for a pardon then?

A Oh, yes.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q In other words, this is an application for a pardon some number of years after the time of the offense. Is that right?

A Well, this application would, apparently, have been heard some twelve years after the order of probation.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Take up the next case, Mr. Wright.

THE WITNESS: I now pick up the folder of Charles E. Gretz—G-r-e-t-z—Jr. Application number A-1066. It would appear that Gretz—Frankly, I do not know what it appears. There was written on the application here in ink "October 1951." That was scratched out and there is written over it in pencil, "June 1952." So, take your own estimation of when it was heard.

This was for an application for a commutation of sentence.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Of minimum?

A Well, it says, "Commute my sentence." Apparently, it would be. I do not know. As I say, I have not studied these files.

MR. KOHN: What is the question?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Just whether it is commutation of minimum or maximum sentence.

MR. KOHN: Well, you see he cannot tell. These are old forms and the old forms just say, "Commute my sentence and grant my pardon." He would not be able to tell until he gets into the testimony.

THE WITNESS: At any rate, the individual had been convicted of burglary and started serving a sentence of three to ten years in the Western Penitentiary on December 12, 1949. This is a Washington County case, apparently.

In that folder, I find this correspondence. According to the application, this man was represented by one T. C. Jones, Esquire, of 336 Sixth Avenue, McKeesport, Pennsylvania. As Mr. Kohn indicated, apparently there was a reargument in this case.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q The face of the application shows that he was arrested and the reargument was 9-7-52; does it not?

A Yes.

MR. KOHN: I am trying to assist him, if you do not mind.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Fine. Don't go Greek on me though.

MR. KOHN: You can't tell, Mr. McBride.

THE WITNESS: There is a letter in the file on the stationery of City of McKeesport, Pennsylvania. It bears what purports to be the seal of that city. Office of the Mayor; C. A. Kinkaid—K-i-n-k-a-i-d—Mayor, dated April 4, 1952, addressed to Honorable Robert E. Woodside, Attorney General, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"Dear Sir:

"Being very much interested in the case of Charles Gretz, Jr., of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, who is now serving a term in the Western Penitentiary, and as this young man has now served more than two years of his three to 10 year sentence, I would very much appreciate it if the Parole Board could see their way clear to open this case again for a re-hearing.

"This young man comes of very good parents and I am so personally interested in this case that, as your records will show, I have offered to sponsor him; therefore, kindly accept this letter as an appeal to your Board for a re-hearing of this case.

"Any favorable consideration that might be given in this case will be very much appreciated.

"Yours sincerely,

/s/ "C. A. Kinkaid, Mayor."

That letter, as I noted, was dated April 4, 1952. Under date of April 17, 1952, on the stationery of the Board of Pardons, there is one of these items, which I think has been referred to in the testimony as a "round robin," which the Secretary prepares and passes amongst the members of the Board.

"Subject: Charles E. Gretz, Jr., No. 52 January 1952 Session

"To: Honorable Lloyd H. Wood, Honorable Gene D. Smith, Honorable Robert E. Woodside, Honorable William S. Livengood, Jr.

"From: Joseph Nissley, Secretary, Board of Pardons

"The petitioner, by C. A. Kinkaid, Mayor of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, requests a reargument at the June 1952 Session of the Board of Pardons.

"The attached letter is self-explanatory.

"Kindly initial and send to other members of the Board of Pardons and please return to sender.

"Action of the Board:

"Those favoring:"—and under that column appear the initials, "R.E.W., W.S.L. Jr., L.H.W.

"Those opposed:"—there appears to be the initials of someone and I take it to be that of Gene D. Smith. That would correspond with the members of the Board.

There is a carbon copy of a letter dated May 7, 1952, addressed to T. C. Jones, Esquire, 335 Sixth Avenue, McKeesport, Pennsylvania:

"Dear Mr. Jones:

"The Board of Pardons has directed me to advise you that they have granted a reargument on the application of Charles E. Gratz, Jr., for commutation of sentence. This case will be relisted for hearing at the June Session of the Board and you will be notified as to the date of the hearing.

"Very truly yours,

"Joseph Nissley, Secretary."

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Jones was his counsel?
A That is correct.
Q Mr. Jones filed no petition for rehearing?
A There does not appear to be one in the file.
Q But the Mayor did send that letter?
A That is correct.
Q A rehearing was granted?
A That is correct.
Q And acted upon favorably?
A Yes.
Q After the rehearing was had. Now, were there any new or substantially new grounds asserted in the letter or anywhere in the folder?

A The only ones I can discern is that the Mayor of McKeesport expresses a personal interest in his application.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You may cross-examine.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q The Mayor of McKeesport, in the parole report, said he wanted to give him a home and a job, did he not?

A I think, Mr. Kohn—Oh, I did not read that report. I think if you will look at the application itself, however, it states that Mayor Charles A. Kinkaid, People's Bank Building, McKeesport, Pennsylvania, is listed as the name and address of sponsor if granted commutation. He so states in his letter. He says that he has offered to sponsor him.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q What was the other offense that this man was serving a sentence for?

A Burglary.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you know how much time he had done by the time he was granted commutation?

A Well, he states on his application that he started serving his sentence December 12, 1949.

Q What is the date of the commutation?

A It states in the carbon copy of what appear to be the reasons given by the Board of Pardons for their action that it is recommended that his sentence be reduced from the minimum term of three years to a minimum of two years, one month and fourteen days.

MR. KOHN: I have no further questions.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Take up the next case, Mr. Wright.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I have some questions, Mr. McBride.

Can you tell us what political affiliation Mayor Kinkaid is or was at that time?

A I have no personal knowledge. I was informed that he was, and if he still is alive—I do not know if the gentleman is or not—the gentleman is a Republican. I have no personal knowledge of that.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Where did you get that information?

A Well, I conferred with members of the Board of Pardons—

Q You can tell us where.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I understand he was here, oddly enough, last night. He is working for the State now.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: It seems to me I saw his name in the Pittsburgh papers.

SENATOR SCOTT: Working for who, Mr. McBride?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: For Highways, I understand.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Is he a Democrat?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No. Possibly a good and very sound Republican.

SENATOR SCOTT: Probably a competent individual.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Take up the next case.

THE WITNESS: I have before me now the case of Bendetto DeCave—D-e-C-a-v-e—Number 9526, October Session 1951. I should like to say that there appears to be an erasure of that entry; that is, October 1951. I do not know what formerly was there. This applicant states that he had been convicted for the crime of burglary. He was confined at Eastern State Penitentiary. He started serving his sentence July 17, 1947; received a sentence of ten to twenty years in Philadelphia.

This applicant was represented by Harold B. Lipsius, Esquire, 1332 Lincoln Liberty Building, Philadelphia 7.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q How do you spell his name?

A L-i-p-s-i-u-s.

If the Committee will indulge me a moment until I get these papers into the right order here.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Was this for a commutation or a pardon?

SENATOR YOSKO. Why, this is an application for a commutation.

THE WITNESS: It is merely a matter of getting them in chronological order.

There is a letter on the stationery of Harold B. Lipsius, Attorney-at-Law, 1332 Lincoln Liberty Building, Broad and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania, lated, August 30, 1951, addressed to Honorable Joseph Nissley, Secretary, Board of Pardons, Justice Department, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

"In re: Benedetto DeCave.

"Dear Sir:

"The above application was filed at this time with the hope that the Board of Pardons would reconsider same prior to January, 1952 for the reasons set forth in the petition.

"I would greatly appreciate having this grought to the attention of the Board if you consider it feasible.

"Very truly yours,

/s/ "Harold B. Lipsius."

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q He was the attorney for the applicant.

A That is correct.

There is a carbon copy of a letter on Department of Justice, Board of Pardons stationery, dated August 28, 1951, addressed to Harold B. Lipsius, Esquire, 1332 Lincoln Liberty Building, Broad and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania.

"Dear Mr. Lipsius:

"This is to acknowledge receipt of the application of Benedetto DeCave, for commutation of sentence, and your check in the sum of ten ($10.00) dollars, the filing fee.

"Our record shows that this application was filed on December 13, 1950 and refused by the Board of Pardons at its February 1951 Session, and under the rules of the Board, he is not eligible to reapply until the expiration of one year. However, since the Board did not meet during the month of January 1951, due to the change of the administration, we are holding this application until the January 1952 Session.

"Very truly yours,

"Joseph Nissley, Secretary."

I should like to call the Committee's attention to the fact that Mr. Lipsius' letter, to which this obviously is a reply, is dated August 30 and the reply is dated August 28. That is undoubtedly a typographical error.

There is a letter on the stationery of City Council, Philadelphia 7, Committee on Public Works, Cornelius S. Deegan, Jr., Chairman, 406 City Hall, dated August 23, 1951, addressed to Honorable Robert E. Woodside, Jr., Attorney General, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

"Dear General:

"I am sponsoring Benedetto DeCave in his third application for clemency, and I understand that under the rules of the Pardon Board it cannot be heard until February, 1952, unless the Board, on its own motion, orders a rehearing at an earlier time. I respectfully urge the Board to rehear the matter sooner.

"This applicant is a neighbor of mine. I know him and his family well, and believe that his release from confinement at this time will be a valuable step in his rehabilitation. He is a first offender. Your Board recently and since his last application reviewed the facts of his crime with favor toward commutation when the sentences of other men with whom he perpetrated the crime were cummutted.

"I will personally appreciate anything you can properly do in this matter to expedite his application and ultimate release.

"Sincerely yours,

/s/ "C. S. Deegan, Jr."

There is a handwritten notation at the bottom of that letter which reads as follows: "I agree to rehear. R.E.W."

There is a carbon copy of a letter dated August 25, 1951, on stationery of the Department of Justice, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, addressed to Mr. Cornelius S. Deegan, Jr., Chairman, Committee on Public Works, City Council, Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania.

"Dear Mr. Deegan:

"I have referred your letter to the Secretary of the Pardon Board for reference to the individual members to see whether they will agree to a rehearing.

"Sincerely yours,"

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q That is signed by whom, Mr. Nissley?

A This one is not signed. It does not have any typed signature. It is on the stationery of the Department of Justice.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Board of Pardons stationery or Department of Justice?

A No. The red printing of the letterhead reads as follows: "Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Justice, Harrisburg."

Q Now, was a rehearing granted?

A There are some more letters here. I still have to sort them out.

There is another letter on the stationery of City Council, Philadelphia 7, Committee on Public Works, Cornelius S. Deegan, Jr., Chairman, 406 City Hall, dated August 23, 1951, addressed to Honorable Gene D. Smith, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

"Dear Gene:

"I am sponsoring Benedetto DeCave in his third application for clemency, and I understand that under the rules of the Pardon Board it cannot be heard until February, 1952, unless the Board, on its own motion, order a rehearing at an earlier time. I respectfully urge the Board to rehear the matter sooner.

"This applicant is a neighbor of mine. I know him and his family well, and believe that his release from confinement at this time will be a valuable step in his rehabilitation. He is a first offender. Your Board recently and since his last application reviewed the facts of his crime with favor toward commutation when the sentences of other men with whom he perpetrated the crime were commutted."—commuted. Actually, it is incorrectly spelled. I am pronouncing it as it is spelled, commuted.

"I will personally appreciate anything you can properly do in this matter to expedite his application and ultimate release.

"Sincerely yours,

/s/"C. S. Deegan, Jr."

Attached to that is a carbon copy of what appear to have been a letter dated August 29, 1951, addressed to Mr. Cornelius S. Deegan, Jr., Chairman, Committee on Public Works, Room 406 City Hall, Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania.

"My dear Councilman:

"This will acknowledge your letter of August 23 relating to the reconsideration of the application for clemency of Benedetto DeCave.

"Your letter has been referred to the Secretary of the Board of Pardons with the request that a petition for rehearing be prepared and circulated among the members of the Board of Pardons.

"Sincerely yours,

"Gene D. Smith,
"Secretary of the Commonwealth."

Next there is a round robin on the stationery of the Board of Pardons, dated August 31, 1951.

"Subject: Benedetto DeCave, No. 111, February 1951 Session.

"To: Honorable Lloyd H. Wood,

"Honorable Gene D. Smith,

"Honorable Robert E. Woodside,

"Honorable William S. Livengood, Jr.

"From: Joseph Nissley, Secretary,

"Board of Pardons.

"The Petitioner, by Mr. Cornelius S. Deegan,

"The petitioner, by Mr. Cornelius S. Deegan, Jr., requests that a rehearing be granted at the October 1951 Session of the Board.

"The attached letter is self-explanatory.

"Kindly initial and send to other members of the Board of Pardons and please return to sender.

"ACTION OF THE BOARD:

"Those favoring:"—There are the initials of four persons. "Those opposed:"—No initials under that column.

There are two carbon copies of what appear to have been letters, both dated September 7, 1951, both on the letterheads of the Board of Pardons.

One is addressed to Mr. Cornelius S. Deegan, Jr., Chairman, Committee on Public Works, City Council, Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania.

"Dear Mr. Deegan:

"This is to advise you that the Board of Pardons has granted your request for a rehearing on the application of Benedetto DeCave, for commutation of sentence. This case will be relisted for hearing at the October Session of the Board and his representative will be notified as to the date of the hearing.

"Very truly yours,

"Joseph Nissley, Secretary."

The other such copy is addressed to Harold B. Lipsius, Esquire, 1332 Lincoln Liberty Building, Philadelphia 7, Pennsylvania.

"Dear Mr. Lipsius:

"This is to advise you that the Board of Pardons has granted a rehearing on the application of Benedetto DeCave, for commutation of sentence. This case will be relisted for hearing at the October Session of the Board and you will be notified as to the date of the hearing.

"Very truly yours,

"Joseph Nissley, Secretary."

There is a letter on the stationery of City Council, Philadelphia 7; Committee on Public Works, Cornelius S. Deegan, Jr., Chairman, 406 City Hall, dated October 16, 1951, addressed to Honorable Robert E. Woodside, Attorney General, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

"RE: Benedetto DeCave.

"Dear General:

"The application for the above named about which I wrote to you previously and in which I am the applicant's sponsor is on the list for hearing on Wednesday. October 17, 1951, being No. 107 on the list.

"I hope to be in Harrisburg on the day of the hearing in order that I may answer any questions that the Board may desire to ask me; however, in the event that I am unable to leave town because of the pressure of the election campaign, I would apprciate having you note my interest in this man.

"Sincerely yours,

/s/ "Cornelius S. Deegan, Jr."

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q How did it all turn out?
A He got favorable action.
Q Was there any petition filed by his counsel?
A Not that I have been able to find in the file.
Q Any new reasons not heard at the first hearing?
A None other than that he was a neighbor and a friend of Mr. Deegan.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Cross-examine.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q In other words, that was prior to the adoption of Rule VI (b) by the present Board?
A I do not know when they adopted that.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Wright, when did you say you were in the District Attorney's Office in Philadelphia; what year?
A I was there from about March of 1954 until February of 1956. Does that add up to nearly two years?
Q Yes.
A At which time I came here.
Q Is there anything in the record here to indicate the position of the Court and the District Attorney on this application?
A I have not consulted the file. I shall do so. There does not appear to be anything in this particular one; that is, on the hearing for October, 1951.

I see in the folder of the hearing for February, 1951, a report of the Board of Parole in which the parole officer states:

"Presiding Judge will write his comments to the Pardon Board at a later date.

"District Attorney will not review case until a few days prior to the hearing."

Yes, there is a letter in that folder, that is, for the February, 1951 hearing, on the stationery of the Court of Common Pleas No. 1, Philadelphia, Judicial Chambers, 242 City Hall; Joseph L. Kun, President Judge, dated January 25, 1951 to Mr. Joseph Nissley, Secretary, Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"In re: Application for Commutation Benedetto DeCave.

"Dear Mr. Nissley:

"This case was tried before the late Judge Harry S. McDevitt, and inasmuch as I have no knowledge of the facts, the Board will have to determine the matter on the basis of the record.

"Very truly yours,

/s/ "Joseph L. Kun."

Now, in the folder for the hearing, again there is an over-writing here. I do not know when it was held. There is a letter in another folder on the stationery of the Court of Common Pleas No. 1, Philadelphia; Judicial Chambers, City Hall, Harry S. McDevitt, President Judge, and it names the other Judges in the Court, dated September 11, 1948, addressed to Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"In Re: Benedetto DeCave

"Gentlemen:

"I sentenced this man to ten to twenty years for burglary in July, 1947. I think he has a colossal gall to even ask for consideration at this time.

"While his performance and discipline records at the institution are excellent, he isn't worthy of any consideration at this time.

"Very truly yours,

/s/ "Harry S. McDevitt."

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q The parole report indicates there was a favorable prison record?
A Before I reply to that, I happened to see right adjacent to this letter, a letter dated September 21, 1948, from the District Attorney then in office, John H. Maurer, which concludes:

"The Commonwealth is opposed to the granting of clemency in this matter."

Now, I will see if I can find the parole report. Well, there is both a parole report and a Commutation Summary from the Eastern State Penitentiary. I think the Penitentiary report is probably what you want.
Q Yes. What is the conclusion of the Penitentiary report.
A They have changed their form. They use to state their success singularly, but this time they did not.

"This prisoner has been assigned to Greaterford since 10-6-57. He was enrolled in school for three months and made fair progress in spelling and English courses. He worked as a grading project laborer from 10-9-47 until 9-10-48 when he was transferred to the maintenance department where he has established a very good performance record as a plumber. Supervisor reports that he seems to be interested and well motivated, is a willing worker and obedient to orders. Disciplinary record and adjustment reports are excellent. He received State military bonus and military insurance refund during his incarceration and it is reported that he has sent considerable money from his income to his wife. He also has provided funds for sending Care packages to deserving people whom he met while in the military service in Europe."

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is all.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Judge McDevitt, of course, is known to be pretty much of a radical as far as criminal cases are concerned?

A He has a reputation consistent with your observation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: As what, a radical?

THE WITNESS: As far as sentencing. I take it that Mr. Kohn means that he was rather severe.

BY MR. KOHN·

Q He would have no hesitation in handing out the maximum in any case?

A He got ten to twenty years. I do not know how many anyone else may have got.

MR. KOHN: I have no further questions.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Will you take up the next one then Mr. Wright?

A I turn now to the folder containing the application of Charlies Goldfine, Number A-327, May Session 1950. in which the applicant seeks a pardon for the crime of carrying a concealed deadly weapon, aggravated assault and battery by blackjack. He stated that he was sentenced originally to serve six months to three years in the Phiadelphia County Prison.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: May I interrupt just a minute. I wonder if the side-bar conference over here might adjourn to other quarters. It is interfering with the testimony.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR FURMAN: We were just attempting to get it straightened out. We think we have it straightened out, sir.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We think we understand what you were trying to do, but it is rather difficult to hear the witness.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What did he get? What was the sentence?

A He states in his application that he was originally sentenced on November 25, 1935 to six months to three years in the Philadelphia County Prison and reconsidered November 25, 1935 and placed on probation for one year. It would appear, therefore, that he had never been confined.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Is this an application for pardon?

A Yes. In the file I find a letter as follows:

"Member of Republican Central Campaign Committee.
"Residence: 2929 South 13th Street. Fulton 9-2424.
"Richard R. Samuel, 2035 S. Broad Street, Philadelphia 48, Pa." dated May 17, 1950:
"Honorable William S. Livengood, Jr.
"Secretary of Internal Affairs
"Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

"Dear Mr. Livengood:

"Congratulations on yesterday's splendid victory, and you may rest assured that we will put forth our best efforts in November to continue the Repblican electoral success.

"May I ask you to lend your good assistance in behalf of Charles Goldfine, whose application for a pardon will be heard by the Board of Pardons on May 18, 1950.

"Mr. Goldfine whom I have known for some years, is a prominent figure in various charitable drives in Philadelphia, and is now about to open a drive-in theatre in my Ward, which will be the largest in the country, and he bears a fine reputation both in the movie industry, in which he is engaged, and amongst everyone who knows him.

"With best regards, and thanking you for your cooperation herein, I am,

"Sincerely yours,

/s/ "Richard Samuel."

There is also a letter which has apparently no political connotations from the Crime Prevention Association of Philadelphia, signed by Nochum Winnet, Chairman. There is also one from the Democratic Judge of Common Pleas in Philadelphia, Honorable Joseph Sloane, which is of a rather innocuous nature.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q How did—

A I will be glad to read them if you care. They are simply laudatory of the applicant.

Q How did Mr. Goldfine do?

A He was given a pardon.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Cross-examine.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q That was at least fifteen years after he had been put on probation?

A That is right.

MR. KOHN: That is all.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Was Judge Sloane the sentencing Judge?

A No, I doubt if he was on the Bench then.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He has been on the Bench twenty years.

THE WITNESS: Tumolillo, Joseph G. Tumolillo was the trial Judge according to the application.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Is there anything in the record there from either the sentencing Judge or the District Attorney regarding the application?

A There is a letter on the stationery of the District Attorney of Philadelphia, John H. Maurer, District Attorney, dated May 18, 1950.

Q What is his final recommendation there without reading the whole letter?

A It does not appear to be all here. I know because I always used this same form.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Doesn't the carbon copy of the reasons for the pardon contain the District Attorney's recommendation?

A Sometimes.

In the copy of the reasons in granting this application the Board states:

"The trial judge has not seen fit to advise his reaction in this matter, but has stated to the Board of Parole that he leaves the matter up to the discretion of the Board. The District Attorney of Philadelphia County leaves the matter of pardon up to the Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Next case.

THE WITNESS: I turn now to the case of Floy—F-l-o-y—C. Jones, Jr., Number A-449. Originally written in ink is the word "September" and that is scratched out, and written in in pencil is the word "November" Session 1950. Mr. Jones was convicted of involuntary manslaughter and sentenced on April 19, 1950 to imprisonment of one to three years in the Allegheny County Workhouse. This is an Elk County case. In the case, I find a letter on the stationery of the Republican Executive Committee, Armstrong County, Kittanning, Pennsylvania; Robert Powers, Chairman; Mrs. Ruth Harris, Vice Chairman; Mrs. E. Marie Miller, Secretary; Ross B. McIlwain, Treasurer, dated September 1, 1950, addressed to Secretary of Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"Dear Sir:

"It is my understanding that Floy C. Jones has presented a petition for commutation of sentence with the Pardon Board.

"I have known Mr. Jones for at least twenty years and feel that the punishment he has received has served its purpose and that further punishment would not help him to become a more useful citizen.

"Any time that the board might see fit to shorten his sentence, if under strict parole would give him an opportunity to adjust himself earlier to gainful work and to care for and support his family.

"There is no doubt in my mind that he can be of service to his community and that his family need him.

"Sincerely,

/s/ "Robert H. Powers."

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What was the date of that letter?

A That is dated September 1, 1950.

Q When did he start serving his sentence?

A April 19, 1950.

There is a letter in the file of this case on the stationery of the Senate of Pennsylvania—let me get my Roman numerals correct now. That would be the 46th District, I believe, William J. Lane, Fredericktown, Pennsylvania. The letter is addressed to Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Justice, Mr. Joseph Nissley, Secretary; Board of Pardons, Room 425, Main Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"Re: Petition for Parole of Mr. Floy C. Jones, Jr., Kittanning, Armstrong Co., Pennsylvania

"Dear Mr. Nissley:

"I am writing this letter to the Board of Pardons on behalf of the above captioned petition for parole or commutation of his sentence.

"According to information received, the petitioner above named, was convicted of Involuntary Manslaughter and was committed to the Allegheny County Work House, to serve the sentence imposed upon him by the Court of Common Pleas.

"I am not personally acquainted with the petitioner. However, I have had the pleasure of being personally acquainted with his uncle, Mr. C. H. Jones, who resides in the City of Washington, Washington County, Pennsylvania and for the information of the Board, Mr. Jones is a person of excellent character and reputation, and I am quite confident that he has the respect and confidence of the good citizens within the City. He and his son operate a business establishment in the City, and it is one of the oldest firms in operation at this writing.

"He has informed me that Floy C. Jones is age 47 years, and that he is a member of the Bar of Armstrong County, and is married and has the responsibility of maintaining his wife and family.

"He also informs me that he has been in frequent contact with the petitioner, and that in his opinion, any continued confinement of your petitioner will work an extreme hardship upon his family, and that should he be fortunate enough to receive the commutation of his sentence, he would be in a position to go back to his home community and re-establish his practice of law, and endeavor to become a respected citizen of that area.

"Mr. Jones also informs me that in his opinion, his nephew, the petitioner has most certainly learned his lesson, and is very repentant of the wrongful acts that he has committed, and that the petitioner, if given the opportunity, will prove to your Honorable Board, that he has the character and integrity to become a substantial law abiding and respected citizen of his community.

"Very truly yours,

/s/ "William J. Lane."

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Does the record show whether or not that was involuntary manslaughter by an automobile?

A I believe it does. I believe that is the case. I did not, as I say, familiarize myself with the details of these cases.

I have another letter on the stationery of Commissioners Office, Armstrong County, Kittanning, Pennsylvania, listing the Commissioners and the other officials of the county, dated September 2, 1950, addressed to Mr. Joseph Nissley, Pennsylvania State Pardon Board, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"Re: Mr. Floy C. Jones, Jr.

"Dear Mr. Nissley:

"I understand that Floy C. Jones, Jr., who is now in the Allegheny County Work House at Blawnox, Pennsylvania, on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, has petitioned your Board for a commutation of his sentence.

"I am writing this letter to endorse his petition and recommend to you, if possible to give his petition favorable consideration. I have known Mr. Jones for many years. He comes from an excellent family and on the whole he has been a worthwhile citizen in the community. He served one term as District Attorney of Armstrong County and has the reputation of being a very good attorney. I am well aware of his weakness and I am not excusing any wrong that he has done. However, he has served several months in the work house and I am sure that he has come to a full under standing that he has done wrong. His family is suffering due to his confinement and I feel that the interests of the community will be better served by his being returned to civilian life.

"Your very truly,

/s/ "Ray DeLancey
"Armstrong County Commissioner."

There is another letter on the stationery of the Commissioners Office, Armstrong County, Kittanning, Pennsylvania, dated August 28, 1950, addressed to Mr. Joseph Nissley, Pennsylvania State Pardon Board, Harrisburg. Pennsylvania:

"Re: Floy C. Jones, Jr.

"Dear Mr. Nissley:

"I am writing you in behalf of Floy C. Jones, Jr., who is now in the Allegheny County Work House at Blawnox, Pa.

"I have known Mr. Jones for the past twenty years. He has been one of the outstanding attorneys in Armstrong County and served one term as District Attorney of the county. In 1949 he was again a candidate for the office of District Attorney, in which campaign he was successful, being elected at the November election of 1949.

"Mr. Jones comes from a very reputable and prominent family and his character has been above reproach until the last few years when he began drinking to excess. I sincerely believe that all persons breaking the laws should be punished. However, Mr. Jones has served a portion of his sentence and I think he has come to realize the wrong he has done and if paroled at this time would mend his ways. I have sponsored several parolees and have come to learn that we have a wonderful parole system in Pennsylvania. If you can possibly see your way clear to parole him I feel he will take his place in society and it would be the best for him and his family. If you grant him a parole I would ask that you include as one of the conditions of his parole that he refrain from the further use of alcoholics.

"Your very truly.

/s/ "Wm. H. Claypoole
"Chairman, Board of County Commissioners of Armstrong County."

There is a letter on the stationery of the Office of Treasurer of Armstrong County, Ross B. McIlwain, Treasurer, Kittanning, Pennsylvania, dated August 31, 1950, addressed to Mr. Joseph Nissley, Secretary, Board of Pardon, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"Dear Mr. Nissley:

"It has come to my attention that Floy C. Jones, Kittanning, Pa. who is now undergoing imprisonment in Allegheny County Workhouse on a charge of manslaughter, has filed petition for commutation of his sentence.

"In that case, I heartily support any movement to effect his release.

"I have been personally acquainted with Mr. Jones for a great number of years and consider him as one of my best friends. His integrity and reputation is unchallenged except for the one fault which caused his conviction on this charge.

"I do not question the fact that he did wrong and that his punishment so far is just. However, in light of his background and the present circumstances, I feel that he has been punished enough.

"I feel that it will be of more benefit to him, to his family, to his business and law associates and to society in general if he could now resume his place in society.

"Sincerely yours,

/s/ "Ross B. McIlwain
"Treasurer of Armstrong County."

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q How did he do?
A He was successful in his application for commutation.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q When was he commuted, Mr. Wright?
A His sentence was reduced from one year to eight months and was to expire December 19, 1950.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Who was counsel in that Jones case?
A In the Jones case?

Q Yes.
A Well, I do not know. Typed in the appropriate space is the following: "John B. McCue" and that is scratched out and written in pencil underneath is "Mr. Willis H. Heilman, Safe Deposit Bu lding, Kittanning, Pennsylvania," and opposite his name in pencil is the following: "Robert E. Ash, Market Street, Kittanning, Pennsylvania."

I do not know who it was. Apparently it was not McCue. It was either Heilman or Ash or both.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q What is your next one?

A This next one is the case of Frank Raymond Noggle—N-o-g-g-l-e—Number A-1204. Again, written in is the word "January" and scratched out and the word "March" written in before the Session of 1953. The applicant states that he was convicted in Dauphin County on June 5, 1950 of the crime of burglary and sentenced to three to six years in the Eastern State Penitentiary. Same sentence on twelve counts of burglary to run concurrently. He began serving his sentence, he states, on April 29, 1950. In this folder his application is for commutation. In this folder I find the following letter:

"Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
"January 19, 1953

"Dear Mr. Woodside:

"I am a Mother writing to you for some help, my son has been in prison almost three years, his case will be heard Friday, Jan. 23, 1953, at this time will you please help me to get my boy back home. He has a wife and two children. Mr. Woodside I wrote to Mr. Harvey Taylor in regards to this case, he said he would speak to you about it when the time came. Mr. Taylor is a very good friend of my father (Mr. Frank Ellis).

"My Son's name is Frank P. Noggle and he's in Bellefonte Prison.

"Mr. Woodside please don't let them keep my boy in prison too long. Thank you very much, good luck.

"His Mother. Mrs. Mary Williams,
"2208 N. 3rd St., City."

Q How did he do?

A His application was granted.

Q Any other letters in that folder?

A There is a letter from the sentencing Judge—

Q Well, I mean of the type we are talking?

A No; not of this type.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right. Cross-examine.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q When was his sentence commuted? I mean, after how much time, Mr. Wright?

A Reduced—I can hardly believe what I am reading here. It says here: "I have commuted the minimum sentence of imprisonment of the said Frank Raymond Noggle from 2 years to 1 day, expiring on April 30, 1953."

Actually, the minimum expiration date as shown on the application is April 28, 1953. Is that correct?

A Yes, that is what it says.

Q And this would be then, except for the inexplainable part of one day, would expire April 30, 1953 or two days after his minimum. Is that correct?

A I cannot explain it. Well, now this refers to Lancaster County.

Q This does, too.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What case is this now?

A I did not know the committee was ready to proceed.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What was the position of the Judge and the District Attorney in that Noggle case?

A The Judge, Paul G. Smith, stated in a letter to the Board dated January 8, 1953, that he would leave the entire matter to the sound judgment and discretion of the Board. I will have to take a look at the record—

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Was the commutation granted?

A The District Attorney of Dauphin County is not opposed. Now, there is something apparently—as I say, I do not know anything about the merits of any of these cases or of contents of files. Apparently, there were concurrent sentences asking for relief from more than one, and it appears he was sentenced from Lancaster County for the one that was commuted. There does not appear to be any charter or recommendation relating to Dauphin County in here.

It does state in the reasons as follows:

"This applicant is thirty years of age and he and two accomplices committted a number of burglaries in Dauphin and Lancaster Counties. He had no previous criminal record. He is imprisoned in the Rockview Branch of the Western State Penitentiary. He was not involved in any of the recent riots in that institution.

"The trial judge of Dauphin County, the Honorable Paul G. Smith, leaves the matter of commutation up to the Board. The district attorney of Dauphin County is not opposed. However, Lancaster County does object to any sort of clemency at this time. At the present time this applicant has served a longer period of time than any of his accomplices and for that reason we recommend that clemency be granted in this matter."

You know as much about it as I do.

MR. Kohn: Mr. Chairman, we had agreed yesterday that we would quit at eleven-thirty so that I could get Mr. Hughes on the stand because he has to go back.

THE WITNESS: I now turn to the case of Benny Daidone—D-a-i-d-o-n-e—Number A-914. "March" is scratch out and written over is "June" Session 1952. Sentenced for the offenses of burglary, larceny, and conspiracy from both Delaware and Philadelphia Counties. The Philadelphia sentence was seven and a half to fifteen years in the Eastern State Penitentiary. Delaware County sentence was five to ten years to run concurrently with the Philadelphia sentence. He states that he began serving his sentence on September 28, 1948.

In the folder appears a carbon copy of what appears to have been a letter written on the stationery of the Board of Pardons, addressed to John Patrick Walsh, Esquire, who represented this applicant, 1732 Commercial Trust Building, Philadelphia 2, Pennsylvania:

"Dear John Patrick:

"As I said what we would do in the Bennie Daidone application, Bill brought up the question of Bennie today and requested that a definite commitment of four years be granted by the Board. This was met by opposition by the A. G., however, the Board has directed that a reargument be granted at the June Session at which time it is the understanding of at least three members that favorable consideration will be granted.

"Very truly yours,

"Joseph Nissley, Secretary."

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Did he say favorable consideration would be given even before the hearing?

A That is the purport of the letter.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Well, sir, doesn't the letter speak for itself?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: A little emphasis does not hurt.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What is the date of that letter?

A The letter is dated March 20, 1952 and it refers to the hearing at June at which time we will grant the application and at the June Session they did grant it.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What was the name of that case again?

A Benny Daidone.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q And from whom did that letter purport to come?

A Joseph Nissley, Secretary of the Board

Q Was there anybody on the Board named Bill?

A Well, Bill would be the diminutive for William and there was a William Livengood on the Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Cross-examine.

MR. KOHN: I would like to see the file if I may.

(Mr. Kohn was handed the file).

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Go right ahead, Mr. Wright.

THE WITNESS: The next case to which I turn is that of Sigmund—S-i-g-m-u-n-d—Wolan—W-o-l-a-n, Number A-1269. "January" is scratched out and written above it in pencil "May" Session, 1952. Applicant states he was convicted of burglary, larceny, receiving stolen goods in Berks County on December 13, 1945, and was sentenced to six to twelve years in the Eastern State Penitentiary which he began serving on September 23, 1950.

In that file I find the following letter, on the letterhead of Edward Day Barker, II, Attorney-at-Law, 1518 Walnut Street, Philadelphia 2, Pennsylvania, dated March 11, 1952 to Honorable Lloyd H. Wood, Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"Dear Lloyd:

"I represent Sigmund Wolan, whose application for commutation was listed for hearing on January 15, 1952, under No. A-1269. I recently received word that his application had been refused.

"I am quite concerned about this because he is serving the second of two sentences which were given to him for burglaries that occurred on or about the same time according to my information. The first sentence had a minimum of 5 years, which has been served, and the second sentence, which has a minimum of 6 years, is the one he is now serving. This means that he is being forced to serve 11 years on a burglary charge. This seems to be a rather severe penalty under the circumstances. It is also important to note that if these sentences had been made to run concurrently he would have been eligible for parole at the time of his hearing, and there would have been no necessity of applying to your Board.

"His previous record is not particularly good, but I do feel that it is about time that this boy be given a chance. He has just passed his 30th birthday and I believe he has reached the age where he appreciates the responsibility of being a citizen.

"There may be something in his record of which I am not aware which has caused your Board to turn him down. I would greatly appreciate it, however, if you would examine his record in the light of the contents of this letter and advise me as to your reaction."—That is underscored in red; the words, "advise me as to your reaction."—"I have a strong feeling that his sentence is excessive and feel that I should do everything I can to help the boy.

"I thoroughly enjoyed my chat with you the other day and only wish that time permitted more of the same.

"Best personal regards,

/s/ "Ed"—Written in pencil on the letter are the following words or abbreviations: "Exec. Sess. Rearg. granted."

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Any petitions?

A No.

Q Any new grounds?

A None other than what appears in the letter.

Q And when he had reargument how did he make out?

A Well, he got the reargument and then, of course, the Board commuted his sentence from six years to one year, nine months.

Q From six years to one year, nine months?

A That is what the charter states.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Cross-examination.

MR. KOHN: I have no questions.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q On that letter, you stated there was an underscoring. Do you know who made that underscoring in this letter?

A No, Mr. Chairman. I should note also that the only time the name Sigmund Wolan appears in the letter, it too is underscored in red pencil as is the underscoring here.

Q Could that have been some underscoring of the recipient of the letter to turn over to the Secretary to check on it?

A It could have been anyone. Anyone could have done it who had access to the letter before it was sent or after it was received. I did not do it, that is the only thing I know.

Q What I am trying to get at—I am not accusing you of doing it.

A I am not trying to be facetious. I really do not know who did it. It would be idle speculation to say that it would be possible that so and so did it.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q The underscoring has no value?

A I am trying to present an accurate and faithful record to the Committee, that is all.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q The reason I asked was in the number of cases I have gone through I have noted the same kind of work on communications in the files, and it gave me the impression that the recipient wanted to do that to turn it over to the Secretary to check on it.

A That would be a reasonable assumption.

Q Now, on this question here as to whether or not there were any new grounds. Wasn't this application prior to the time the Board had adopted the rule in connection with rehearings or reconsideration because of new grounds?

A I do not know. I do not know of my own knowledge however, that rule was adopted sometime in the fall of 1955. I understand it was the present Board which did so and that being the case, certainly it was not a rule in 1952 when this letter was sent.

Q We have testimony before the Committee that that is a fact.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The present rules are stricter.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Would you, Mr. Wright, in this Daidone case, do the Committee the favor of getting all of the facts on that case and going into it carefully. I think there is a great deal of interest in that case and you check the minutes of the former Secretary of the Board of Pardons and see what, if anything, in any Executive Session was presented in regard to reconsideration of that case within a certain time.

A Did I?

Q Will you?

A If time permits.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: When do you want him to do it?

MR. KOHN: Oh, anytime. We will lay this back and you go back on the next case so that—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will undertake to see that it is done.

How about this Perry case, Mr. Wright?

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I do have Mr. Hughes here. I did cross-examine him, but I do not think I took up too much time with these cases. Our agreement was that he would quit at eleven-thirty and I would go from there on in.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The eleven-thirty idea was that cross-examination would take place later in the afternoon.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: We understood that the Delaware matter would be taken up after eleven-thirty sometime.

MR. KOHN: If the Committee can finish up before lunch, I have no objection. Let me get Mr. Hughes on the stand, instead of at eleven-thirty, as soon as possible.

SENATOR YOSKO: Let's hear this one more case and go for lunch and come back.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Then we can hear Mr. Hughes the first thing after lunch. He has covered about eight of these cases and you say you have sixteen actually?

THE WITNESS: I think there are seventeen.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, we will hear one more and hear Mr. Hughes when we come back.

SENATOR YOSKO: I have got ulcers and I want to eat on time.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will hear this case and recess for lunch and take Mr. Hughes immediately after lunch.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Take up the Perry case, Mr. Wright.

THE WITNESS: I now refer to the case of Paul Francis Perry—P-e-r-r-y—Number A-454, "September" is scratched out and written above it in pencil is "October" Session 1950. He was sentenced to death for the crime of murder on October 10, 1949, in Bradford County. This is an application for the commutation of the sentence of death to life imprisonment. There are a number of letters in this file, pro and con. Applications for clemency were sent from private citizens and from persons in all walks of life. There are some petitions I believe; yes, signed by quite a number of persons in favor of the application. The only two I propose to refer to are those which I now have before me. One is on the letterhead of the Register and Recorder, Bradford County, Towanda, Pennsylvania, dated September 13, 1950, to the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"In re: Paul Francis Perry convicted of murder May Term 1949.

"Gentlemen:

"I believe a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment will meet with public approval. Heavy drinking coupled with domestic troubles, in my opinion, rendered Mr. Perry irresponsible.

"From attendants in the jail and prisoners, I understand Mr. Perry has been a model prisoner since he was committed to jail.

"Thanking you, I am

"Very truly yours,

/s/ "Wayne C. Bennett."

The next one is on the letterhead of the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue, Inheritance Tax Division, Office of Inheritance Tax Investigator and Appraiser, Bradford County Court House, Towanda, Pennsylvania; M. Bernadette Finn, Investigator and Appraiser dated September 15, 1950 to The Honorable Chairman and Members of the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"In Re: Case of Paul Perry Bradford County.

"Gentlemen:

"I am writing you in behalf of Paul Perry of Towanda, Bradford County, Pennsylvania. Paul Perry was convicted of murder and given the death sentence.

"He was born and lived in Towanda all of his life, the same as I and up to the time of this tragedy I had never heard anything detrimental to his character. I and many of our townspeople feel that Paul Perry was a victim of circumstances, that he was under the influence of liquor and did not realize what he was doing.

"We all feel that the death penalty should be withdrawn and clemency shown this unfortunate young man. Anything you can see fit to do in his case will be deeply appreciated by his many advocates.

"Very respectfully,

/s/ "M. Bernadette Finn."

There are copies of what appear to have been Western Union telegrams in the folder, addressed to counsel and to private counsel for the private prosecutor as well as to the District Attorney. The first series appear to have been sent out under date of September 29, 1950. They all have the same message. They are respectively addressed to J. Roy Lilley, Esquire; C. Wayne Smyth, Esquire, District Attorney, and William O'Connor, Esquire, Towanda, Pennsylvania, each stating:

"The case of Paul Francis Perry has been refused commutation.

"Joseph Nissley, Secretary
"Board of Pardons."

Chronologically, I should have read these first. These are dated September 21, 1950, and addressed, respectively, to C. Wayne Smith, Esquire, District Attorney, and J. Roy Lilley, Esquire, Towanda, stating that the applications—both of them say the same thing—"Application of Paul Francis Perry is held under advisement by the Board."

"Joseph Nissley, Secretary, Board of Pardons."

Then follows these telegrams saying that the Board has refused.

Then follows the telegram dated October 3, 1950, addressed to C. Wayne Smith, Esquire, District Attorney of Bradford County, Towanda:

"Rehearing granted Perry case before Board of Pardons on October 17, 1950, at 9:00 A. M. Presence of yourself, Shirer and Epstein requested. You are directed to produce the murder weapon for examination by the Board.

"Joseph Nissley, Secretary."

Another dated October 3, likewise, to J. Roy Lilley, Esquire, Towanda:

"Rehearing granted Perry case before Pardon Board for October 17, 1950, 9:00 A. M. Presence of you and O'Conner requested by Board.

"Joseph Nissley, Secretary."

That's all that appears in the file with respect to the rehearing.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Is there anything that shows why the rehearing in this death case was granted?

A Yes, I have here a copy of the reasons filed by the Board for their action, and the pertinent portion of the reasons which refers to your question, General, is this:

"When the Board of Pardons first heard this case, they refused recommendation of clemency and it was after this refusal to recommend clemency, there appeared in the newspapers of Bradford County certain articles wherein it was stated that the private prosecutors were of the opinion that the Board of Pardons should have granted clemency in this matter.

"The Board of Pardons thereupon requested that a reargument be had and private prosecutors appear before the Board. This was done and at that meeting Maurice Epstein, one of the private prosecutors, stated to the Board there was sufficient doubt in this matter to be resolved in favor of the defendant, * * *."

Q Any petitions?

A No, not that I have been able to find.

Q Any new reasons or anything like that?

A The only reasons I have found, the only basis that I found in the files for the granting of the rehearing is what is stated in this statement of reasons by the Board that they read the Bradford County newspapers and decided that they should grant a new hearing, a rehearing.

Q What position did the trial Judge take?

A My recollection is he was opposed to it. Mr. Kohn has the folder.

(Witness was handed file.)

Here is a letter from Judge's Chambers, Forty-Second Judicial District, Towanda, Pennsylvania; William M. Rosenfield, President Judge. It states on here in typing that it is a copy. However, it is signed by the Judge on the printed letterhead, dated September 18, 1950 to the Pennsylvania Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania:

"Gentlemen:

"Notice of the application of Paul Francis Perry for commutation of sentence to life imprisonment has been served upon me.

"In this case a ne'er-do-well killed his wife, a respected highschool teacher, who was his social, financial, intellectual, and moral superior. The cause first assigned by him was 'If I can't have her, no one is going to have her' (66 a). She was about to leave him. Her numerous complaints against him were summarized most eloquently by her in her letter to him appearing in the record (page 524 a). He lay in wait at his home and killed her with one well aimed shot.

"Twelve highly intelligent, conscientious men promptly decreeed the death penalty. Their verdict met with general public and editorial approval. Commutation of this sentence would add another blot upon the record of decent law enforcement.

"Very truly yours,

/s/ "W. M. Rosenfield."

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Cross-examine.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Will you also read into the record the affidavit submitted by—

SENATOR YOSKO: Was the sentence commuted from death?

MR. KOHN: Oh, yes.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q What was it commuted to?

A To life imprisonment.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Will you also read into the record the affidavit submitted by the private prosecutor as of October 2nd, 1950, of Mr. Epstein to the Board of Pardons?

A I have here a piece of paper which you, Mr. Kohn, referred to as an affidavit. This does not appear to have any notary, any jurant.

Q We will withdraw the question and ask you to read the statement submitted by Mr. Epstein to the Board of Pardons as of October 2, 1950.

A I refer to a carbon copy of what Mr. Kohn characterizes as a statement. I have never seen it before.

Q It was in the record. Didn't you look at it?

A No, I did not. I stated on two or three occasions, I have not familiarized myself with the contents of these files.

Q Did you just pick out certain things without going through the whole thing?

A We picked out the—my instructions to the persons who were doing—

SENATOR YOSKO: Will you speak a little louder, please.

THE WITNESS: Yes. My instructions were, relaying them to people who did the actual work through me, from the Attorney General, were to find cases not dissimilar to that in which the Barrett letter appeared.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did you yourself go through that file?

A Cursorily.

Q Did you find any other letters which might—

A Oh, yes; a lot of letters.

Q Written to the Board from different people who wrote in?

A There are numerous letters. There are several petitions signed by dozens of people.

Q Pro and con?

A I think my recollection is pro and con.

Q Are there some in there which tell them that if they commute this sentence it would be a blot on the Republican Party for years?

A I would not know.

Q There it is. Didn't you see that letter?

A No, I did not.

Q Didn't you care to look at it?

A I'll look at any of them.

Q Read the statement first.

A "Towanda, Pennsylvania,

"October 2, 1950,

"To the Honorable, the Chairman and Members of the Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

"Gentlemen:

"Relative to the case of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania v. Paul Francis Perry in the trial of which the jury found the defendant guilty of the highest degree, and the verdict carried with it in due course the penalty of death by electrocution, I was associated with the District Attorney and William G. Schrier,"—S-c-h-r-i-e-r—"Esquire, in the prosecution and trial of the case.

"As the case was more in detail considered by the Court and finally before the Board of Pardons, I felt that this was a case that had sufficient uncertainty about it and such that personally I was anticipating that the Board of Pardons would be justified in adopting the clemency of making the penalty life imprisonment, and without assuming to criticize your Honorable Board of Pardons that was my personal feeling relating to the case and I here state I had nothing to do with communicating with the jury that tried the case in writing or otherwise with reference to what they or any of them might consider on reflecting, and I still feel that it would be the safest disposition that the penalty upon the defendant be reduced to life imprisonment.

"W. G. Schrier, Esquire, who participated in the trial of this case is now so-journeying in Canada. (I believe I could get in touch with him) but personally, I have no hesitancy in stating that Mr. Schrier and myself discussed this case as to pardon and agreed that it is one that comes within the purpose of the functions of the Board of Pardons to be lenient in a case with the numerous elements that exist under the proofs.

"Respectfully,"

I don't know if that's "W. L. Epstein.

"Associate Counsel with C. Wayne Smyth"—That is S-m-y-t-h—"District Attorney, and William G. Schrier, Esq., in the prosecution."

Q Doesn't that file indicate, Mr. Wright, that Mr Epstein and Mr. Schrier were hired by the deceased family to prosecute that case?

A I would not know. I didn't look into that enough.

Q You saw the paper there?

A Yes.

Q Now will you kindly read into the record this other letter here?

A "New Albany, Pennsylvania,

"October 9, 1950.

"Honorable Mr. Margotti:"

Q That is Margiotti.

A Well, he says Margotti here. I'm trying to be literal.

"I have read with surprise, in the Towanda Daily, that the Pardoning Board of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is reopening for review the case of Paul Perry of Towanda, who in cold blood, premediated, shot and killed his wife a year ago.

"As a minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, permit me to urge you to use your influence with the Pardoning Board to sustain this man's conviction, who was tried in the presence of twelve honorable intellectual citizens of Bradford County and found guilty of First Degree murder who recommended the death penalty in the electric chair. Perry was later refused a new trial by our distinguished Judge, Hon. William M. Rosenfield, then our distinguished

Supreme court of Pennsylvania upheld his conviction and you members of the Pardoning Board upheld it.

"If this man's sentence is to be anything less than the electric chair it will be one of the greatest miscarriages of justice ever carried out in the State of Pennsylvania.

"First, if its a political move to save him from the chair, it will be a reflection on the Republican Party that it will take a generation to live it down. I have been a member of that party all my life.

"Second, if it is a religious move, it will be a reflection on religion that will never be blotted out and religion would be made an accessor after the fact.

"Third, if it is a plea of mercy by sob-sisters just remember he had no mercy on an innocent wife after waiting two hours in the house for her to come home and then shooting her down like a wild animal. He deserves the chair. Sustain the Court's verdict and let him pay the penalty. That is Biblical justice.

"Thanking you in advance. I remain

/s/ "Oscar B. Lyon".

It is addressed to Honorable Charles J. Margotti, Attorney General of Pennsylvania, Department of Justice, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Q So there were letters on both sides?

A I so stated at the beginning of my remarks.

Q You did not read any of them on the other side?

A No.

MR. KOHN: That is all.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well. It is now twelve o'clock. We will recess for one hour.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, just before you do recess, the question was raised by Mr. Bell, and it is entirely proper, as to the correctness of our count in the testimony of the Lieutenant Governor and they attempted to get the records here and go over them to ascertain which was correct, and I am informed that the Lieutenant Governor still feels that our figures were correct, but it may turn out that there is some error. Now, I understand also that the House Parliamentarian has ruled that nobody can look at those records until Monday. I think in an important issue like this, and I hope Mr. Bell joins with me, that if our figures are wrong they will be proved wrong as soon as possible. If we are right, we ought to be proved to be right as soon as possible. Whatever margin of error there is should be straightened out. I request to you, sir, as Chairman of the Committee, to attempt to persuade the House Parliamentarian to make those records available as soon as possible so that Mr. Arnold, Mr. Hean or Governor Furman or whoever else wants to look at them to check the accuracy may do so, because I am sure Mr. Arnold, who testified, and Governor Furman, who testified, want to be right and nothing but right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General, I understand that there is no objection to a viewing of the records. I understand the objection is that the records cannot be taken out of the place where they are now deposited without permission of the Speaker of the House. There is no objection, so far as I understand, to the going over to that room fhere these records are and going over them there in the presence of the custodian.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If that is so, then—

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I think that maybe I improperly informed you about taking the evidence out. Mr. McBride, I think there is a third copy of these records and I think it is in the Secretary of the Commonwealth's Office. Am I right on that, sir?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: There is a copy in the Secretary of the Commonwealth's Office.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: There is a copy in possession of the Clerk of the Senate as well, which was submitted to this Session of the General Assembly, which is duplicates of what is in the possession of the House.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, let us see if we can reach an area of agreement so that Mr. Arnold and someone designated by us will together make account of these records and come out precisely with the right answer.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I have no objections.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I thought you were just as much interested in that as I was.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: If you recall yesterday when I had these figures in my possession, but I did not get a chance to get in the information, I, at that time, had the Lieutenant Governor testify that these records were given to him. There is no reflection on the Lieutenant Governor whatsoever. I want that on the record also.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: There is no reflection on my part of Mr. Arnold if he should turn out to be incorrect. We want to be sure that in a pure mathematical counting job, none of us be misinformed.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: The purpose yesterday of my questioning with the Lieutenant Governor was to clearly have in the record the fact that these figures were furnished to him. I think the Lieutenant Governor—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You didin't personally compile any of those records?

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR FURMAN: I think whereever Mr. Arnold got his figures from, those are the ones that should be checked. Personally, I believe you should do it at once. I think a grave error was made in his calculations. I am positive of that.

SENATOR SCOTT: Governor, if they are not available over in the House, do you think that maybe this afternoon we can get them over in the Senate from the Chief Clerk?

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR FURMAN: I think we could.

SENATOR YOSKO: Do I understand then now that those records are not available for review even in the Office of the Parliamentarian?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I don't know, sir. I couldn't tell you.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: No, they are in the hands of the Custodian of the Chief Clerk of the House and it has been my understanding heretofore, that he could not leave them go out of his custody without permission of the Speaker of the House. Now we have had no difficulties in being able to review them over there in the presence of the custodian.

MR. ARNOLD: Yes, that is true, sir. The Parliamentarian, Mr. Moore, stated that these are the records of the Speaker of the House and that the Speaker of the House has not authorized him to remove them from the room for any purpose. In addition, in order to get access to the records, the Speaker of the House would have to give his permission to get access in the room itself.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, I will check that and find out during lunch.

MR. HEAN: I was present, Mr. Chairman, and what Mr. Arnold said, he has substantially told you that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will take a recess for and hour until 1:15.

(Whereupon the hearing was recessed at 12:09 p.m., until 1:15 p.m.).

AFTERNOON SESSION

Thursday, March 28, 1957

COMMITTEE'S EVIDENCE

J. HAROLD HUGHES, recalled on

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I belive you have already been sworn, Mr. Hughes, have you not?

A Yes, I have.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hughes, I don't know where we left off last time. We didn't get very far. I would like to discuss the Michael J. Caserta case first. You have a copy of the grounds upon which the Board of Pardons granted the commutation in that case?

A Yes, I have, sir.

Q Mr. Caserta had an extensive long record; previous record of arrests and few convictions. Is that correct?

A Yes, he did have many arrests and few convictions.

SENATOR YOSKO: Who is this, sir?

MR. KOHN: Michael J. Caserta—C-a-s-e-r-t-a.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This is the case that we had previously discussed.

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did you look over the recommendations of the Board of Pardons and the reasons therefor?

A Yes, I have it in front of me.

Q In regard to the recommendations, facts upon which the recommendations were based, what do you have to say about those?

A Well, they speak here of the accomplices receiving minor sentences. That, in my opinion, is not a correct statement. The accomplices—Caserta was the number banker. The one next to him in order was the pickup man who received eleven months. There were three other sellers who received six months, four months and two months. The one receiving two months was practically a plea of guilty; he did not, but he just did not do anything and did not want to be put on the stand, so that it is not a fair statement to say they had minor sentences.

Then it goes down further and took into consideration the fact that his accomplices, who were equally guilty, received lesser sentences. I have pointed out to you there was no similarity between the accomplices and Michael Caserta who was the number banker.

I might point out, and you might want to know, the original four were arrested in Darby, all connected together and they appealed, and Michael Caserta, the number banker, welched on his agreement with Henry Hampton; refused to pay the costs of appeal and counsel fees, and it was then Michael Caserta was arrested. At that trial the others were out all except Hall at that time. Hall was the eleven month man. At that time, Michael Caserta went to the wife of the Henry Hampton who had done the squealing—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If this was presented to the Board of Pardons, I have no objection to it. If this is something that Mr. Hughes knows outside of any record made before the Board of Pardons, I object to it. So, I think he ought to tell us whether this argument was made to the Board of Pardons.

THE WITNESS: I was not the one who was there. Generally, it was pointed out at the Board of Pardons that these other men were minor ones, I think, and the big man was Michael Caserta.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am satisfied with that statement.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Caserta's sentence was commuted to what?

A Oh, he had seventeen flat or seventeen thirty-five and I think he was—

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Is that months or years?

A Months.

Q We have had some years here.

A And he was commuted to eleven months.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What effect, if any, did this have on law enforcement in your county, Mr. Hughes?

A Well, it was the general talk of the county that—Oh, everytime someone was sentenced they would say, "Well, there's another one the Board can turn loose." It, of course, had some interest on law enforcement among officers, but they did continue to make arrests just the same.

Q Is this man Caserta out of Philadelphia or is he a resident of your county?

A Philadelphia, yes; but his men worked in Delaware County, over the line.

Q As far as Caserta is concerned, his background shows that he hardly ever worked in his life and I think the Parole Board Report shows that he had been a racketeer all his life?

A Yes, he had attached to his application—

Q I think we got that in. I think Judge Bretherick presented that.

A Yes.

Q It's in the record. Is there anything else you would like to say? While we have gone over these cases I know what you would like to present and I don't want to continue.

A They say that he has served—this is the opinion of the Board—that he has served quite a substantial portion of his sentence for this type of offense. Now you might want your attention called to the fact that he got seventeen minimum, whereas he could have gotten a thirty minimum.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What was his sentence?
A His sentence was seventeen to thirty-five.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q How could he get thirty minimum?
A He could have, on conspiracy, got twenty-four flat, and on the lottery, six to twelve.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What did he actually serve?
A He served eleven.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q The same as the accomplices?
A Same as the man who was hired by him to pick up from these men who got six, four and two.
Q Did your county, during this time, announce a drive on this type of individual?
A Well, that was prior to that—
Q Prior to—
A This originally was 1952 when the four men were arrested and the trial of Michael Caserta did not commence until March 18, 1954, because the first four men had gone to the Superior Court which takes some time, and it was not until one of them was in jail that he turned evidence against him because he had not done those things I mentioned.
MR. KOHN: I ask the Attorney General, do you care to cross-examine now before I get to the McSorley case? Would you like to take them in order so that each case is separate or would you like to have me go ahead with everything?
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am perfectly willing to do it one at a time. I think I will just wait until he finishes his whole testimony.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, you were concerned, I think also, in the case known as the McSorley case, the riot case. You are familiar wth those?
A Yes, that case I tried and participated in two appeals and before the Pardons Board.
Q Now we had Mr. Thescher before us yesterday and he stated what he had said to the Board of Pardons. I think, previously to this, I asked you something about the question proposed to you by some Member of the Board of Pardons and then you started to say something and that is where we quit, as I recall. Do you recall that?
A No, I do not recall.
Q You said at one time—
A Oh, you asked me an opinion, I think, and then the Board went into a long discussion.
Q Into a long one?
A Yes.
Q Did you say something about Mr. Finnegan? I think while you were arguing the case he said something to you about the McSorley case.
A Oh, yes, I quoted Secretary Finnegan as to stating that the Board should not make their opinion where the mater was before the courts. I had said that was at the January time. Of course, it was not. It was at the September matter of the Board of Pardons on the same case.

BY CHARIMAN TOMPKINS:

Q The statement was made, as I understand it, but it was at a different term than what you had referred to?
A Yes, sir.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q In other words, the first time the case came before the Board they asked for a pardon while the cases were pending on appeal before the Superior Court. Is that right?
A Yes, they asked for a pardon both times.
Q And the argument Mr. Finnegan made was that they were not going to act as an appellate court while the cases were pending and he did not think they should listen to a petition for pardon. Is that correct?
A Oh, he said that, too. What I talked about before was that he did not think the Board of Pardons should go into the question of guilt or innocence once the jury had decided and the Upper Courts decided. He advanced that thought, too.
Q On page 136 of the testimony, when Mr. Bell was questioning—
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a trifle louder, Mr. Kohn.
MR. KOHN: Oh, certainly.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q On page 136 of the notes of testimony of February 27, 1957, I asked the question:
"Do you recall one particular question that was asked by a Member of the Pardons Board that is not recorded in here?
A "Well, there were many, but I do recall particularly the one by Mr. Finnegan where he said how can we substitute our judgment for the local Court and Superior and Supreme Court."
Is that what you said at that time?
A Yes, that is where I said that, and that refers to the September hearing and not to January.
Q There were two hearings on this; were there not?
A Yes.
Q And I think the record will show at the time that question was asked, this record was not transcribed; that it was in the hands of somebody else and had not been transcribed, but it is transcribed now.
Did you look at the reasons given by the Board of Pardons for commutation in the McSorley case?
A Yes, sir.
Q And what did you have to say about those?
A Well, particularly where they state that, "At the time of trial the feelings of the citizens of Delaware County was such that the court and jury were undoubtedly influenced by the attitude of the general public," that is not a correct statement. There was no evidence anywhere in the trials of the case as to any influence on the Court or the jury; no evidence anywhere at all in the trial of that case. It was not among the six reasons given in the application for pardon. It was not in the brief filed before the conclusion of the first hearing before the Board of Pardons, and it was only mentioned, and I think I mentioned I said it was mentioned in passing, and its was mentioned in passing at the first hearing where Mr. Trescher said that he felt there must have been some attitude or something that had something to do with the jury. I mean he made a similar statement to that which was not fact or it was not argued or it was not labored. So, I say that there were no facts before the Board either in the application or the statement concerning the influence of the Court and jury.

I further would call your attention to the second hearing, the 18th, of which I read the testimony as it is transcribed and there was no mention of influence of the Court and jury there.

Q Was that argument ever made to the Upper Courts on appeal?

A Oh, no; it wasn't at all.

Q In other words, that was something that had not been mentioned prior to the time of Mr. Trescher's address to the Pardons Board?

A No, it was never mentioned. I think I said the last time, I don't think it was ever mentioned unless it was mentioned in passing, and I do find it was.

Q There is nothing else in the record that would justify such findings of fact as you know of by the Board of Pardons?

A No, sir.

Q Except the statement of counsel; the unsubstantiated statement of counsel in passing?

A He just said that he felt it must have.

Q You received a great deal of testimony in regard to Mr. Kraft submitting a letter as to his opinion in this case. Have you obtained such letter from Judge Ervin who is now a member of the Superior Court—

A Yes.

Q —in regard to this matter?

A Yes, I directed a letter to Judge Harold L. Ervin, Superior Court, calling his attention to Mr. McBride's statements that Judge C. William Kraft had indicated to him that these men were innocent and I asked whether there was any expression that Judge Ervin had to make and he did write me a letter which I have the privilege of giving to the Board if they desire it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Will you have that marked as an exhibit?

MR. KOHN: Yes, sir.

Letter dated March 6, 1957, addressed to J. Harold Hughes, Esquire, First Assistant District Attorney, from Judge Harold L. Ervin, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 28. NPK 3-28-57

MR. KOHN: Does the Board desire me to read it in evidence?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, let us have it read.

MR. KOHN: This is on the stationery of The Superior Court of Pennsylvania, Judges' Chambers, Media, Pennsylvania, March 6, 1957; addressed to J. Harold Hughes, Esquire, First Assistant District Attorney, Court House, Media, Pennsylvania:

"Dear Mr. Hughes:

"I have your letter of March 4 reinvestigation of the Penna. Board of Pardons concerning, inter alia, Com. v. McSorley et al., Nos. 259, 160 November Sessions 1952.

"In this letter you state that Attorney General Thomas J. McBride, at a hearing on February 27, 1957, testified that he had spoken to Judge C. Wm. Kraft and that the letter authorized him to say that he believed the defendants were innocent. Judge Kraft was counsel for the defendants at the trial before me. You also state that my belief as to the innocence or guilt of these defendants is important to the matter under consideration. You further ask me to express an opinion so that it may be made available to the committee.

"I am of the opinion that these men were guilty of the conspiracy charge as well as of the charge of riot. I am also of the opinion that there was adequate evidence produced at the trial of the case to justify submission to the jury. The Superior Court was of like opinion. See Com. v. McSorley, 174 Pa. Superior Ct. 364, at page 639. In this connection I quote from my opinion of March 30, 1953 dismissing motions in arrest of judgment and for a new trial, as follows:

" 'Finally it is argued that the verdict is against the weight of the evidence. The evidence was overwhelming that a riot had occurred on the site of the old jail property on the afternoon of July 28, 1952 somewhere around 1:45 to 2:00 o'clock. It was conclusively proved by a number of witnesses that a gang of men ranging ing in number from thirty to sixty rushed onto the property of the County of Delaware within the very shadow of the Court House and ruthlessly attacked and beat up the men who were there lawfully engaged in excavating for the new addition to the Court House. They rammed crow bars through the radiators of motors, threw stones through the windshields of trucks, broke spark plugs out of motors, tore out the wiring of motors, threw dirt and gravel into the parts of the machinery and the gas tanks of the machinery and motors, shouted in loud tones of voice "Kill the bastards" and took the law into their own hands in no uncertain manner. They wrought great destruction to property and injured a number of employees by this cowardly, dastardly attack. As to these five defendants, the only question was whether they took part in this affair. It was testified to by Chief of Police Laughead that each one of these men admitted to him that they came here for the purpose of making sure no work was going on. All of them were members of the same local union of the Automotive Engineers. The entire attack required only ten to fifteen minutes. Then the mob ran to their waiting automobiles and made their escape. One car was caught about six blocks from the scene of the crime a few minutes after the commission of the crime. These five defendants, by their own admissions, were present at the scene of the crime or a few feet from it. They volunteered on the call of the business representative of the union for this service. Much of the proof of the commission of the crimes is given by the defendants themselves. Four of the five were identified by an eye witness and one of the five by two eye witnesses. They were seen in the jail premises throwing stones, cursing in loud language and, in general, taking part in the riot. If there ever was a case for the jury, this was it.'

"May I say further that these men were represented at the trial of this case by extermely able and competent lawyers, C. Wm. Kraft, Jr., now a Federal Judge, and Robert L. Trescher. On the appeal before the Superior Court they also had associated with them Sidney L. Wickenhaver, C. Brewster Rhoads and the firm of Montgomery, McCracken, Walker & Rhoads. I believe that everything possible was done by these very able lawyers to protect their clients in both the lower and appellate courts. I further believe that the defendents had a fair trial.

"You are authorized to present this letter to the investigating committee.

"Very truly yours,

/s/ "Harold L. Ervin".

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now, what commutation did these men receive that you know, Mr. Hughes?

A They served six months.

Q Out of a two year sentence?

A That is right.

Q And what effect would you say, if any, that their commutation, considering the crime in which they were involved, had on the county and citizens of Delaware?

A Well, it was the topic of conversation around all the enforcement officers. They did not like it and expressed their opinion that it was wrong. The general public talked about it likewise.

Q The matter of law enforcement in this type of case had a great deal of enmity and concern to the public.

A They were very much concerned about this group, both before and after conviction because the associates of these men had done similar jobs at other parts, but they did not strike anyone at the other places. They were in ditches or constructive buildings and were able to run. In this case they were caught like rats in a trap in the jail yard and they could not get through to get out at one end. Only one man was beat up. He was quite beaten from head to foot. He said he felt like a football. Another fellow was struck on the heel with one of the stones or rocks or something, but that was the only injury. I might call your attention, because the Board uses the same language, they call it an unruly group that did some minor damages. That is in their application; it is in the Board's opinion. Of course, the evidence was not that at all.

Q The Board did not say anything about them beating up these men?

A No, the Board's opinion takes in all of the matters in which they said they were just merely doing picket duty and they denied having anything to do with it, and they were boys of good reputation. They had character witnesses at the trial. I mean, that was nothing new; they had good character witnesses at the trial, and they followed generally the thoughts of the application.

Q Did you read somewhere that after or before the trial that these men, through the union, had two investigators working for them and one of the Commownealth's witnesses?

A This was after the trial and while an allocatur was pending to the Supreme Court in the case in chief. They had two investigators who attempted to say that one of the witnesses, an unwedded Negro, had said that he was in jail and was forced to identify, and a whole rigmarole such as that. That application for new trial for after-discovered evidence was before Judge Toal who, in his opinion, said these investigators failed in the extreme to prove that and he did not believe them, and the reputable testimony was thus and so. That went to the Superior Court with an allocatur to the Supreme which was not successful. In fact, we were at the Board of Pardons on Septmeber 15, 1955, and on October the 3rd, the Supreme Court refused the allocatur, and on the 10th the boys were in jail. On the 10th, Mr. Trescher had a brief saying that they were in jail and that there was no reason why the Board could not decide something on it then. On 11-16, we got notice it was refused. That was a month and six days after Mr. Trescher sent the data that they were in jail then.

MR. KOHN: I am finished on those case for now.

THE WITNESS: You are going to let me continue until I get away from here, are you not?

MR. KOHN: Oh, yes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have some questions.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q How long have you been in the District Attorney's Office, sir?

A I am in my sixth year.

Q In Delaware County; sixth year?

A In my sixth year.

Q During that period the operation of rackets in Delaware County has been pretty widespread, hasn't it?

A No, sir.

Q You say it hasn't? I have here a list of cases of State Police raids that were made for the period 1950 to 1956. I think it involves 286 cases, just raids by the State Police. Why don't you take a look at them? If that isn't widespread, I don't know what is.

(Witness was handed list of raids).

A You are thinking one thing and I am thinking another, sir.

Q Well, I am thinking of the operation of rackets in Delaware County. There are 286 cases there. I am not trying to defend Michael Caserta, but may I ask you whether he was a carpetbagger in Delaware County?

A He was the man who was doing the big lead in Delaware County at that time. When I say "rackets" I am speaking of a large group or a syndicate. You are speaking of single arrests on some small crime.

Q I do not know how small they are because I cannot identify them. I only know that there are names there of persons who were arrested in raids for gambling, lottery, and that is confined to that. They are not other criminal cases. From the record I see here of Michael Caserta, he is a Philadelphian. Is he not?

A Yes, sir.

Q He came over to Delaware County and he operated there?

A He operated there quite some time.

Q That would make him a carpetbagger, so far as

I am concerned; moving from one territory to another. Now, who made the raid, who made the arrest that brought Mr. Caserta before the Delaware County Court?

A The arrests were made in conjunction with the District Attorney's Office and the State Police by Corporal Urella in Media.

Q But by the State Police?

A My dear sir, I said in cooperation with the two of them together.

Q How long was Michael Caserta operating in Delaware County before the State Police made the raid?

A I understand it was quite some time. It might be a year.

Q Why didn't the District Attorney's Office stop Michael Caserta or arrest him for operating rackets before the State Police came in?

A My dear sir, the District Attorney's men and the State Police were together in citizen's clothes, watching this thing together.

Q On the raid?

A No, on the gathering of the evidence. This was what we call a trellis case. These sellers would come and put their sales up in a little bag in a trellis with a vine on it. They watched them for several days and they watched for a couple more and they were trying to get the pickup man.

Q Are you telling me now that the District Attorney's Office and the local police do not know when rackets are operating within their jurisdiction?

A I do not say that to you, sir.

Q Well, then how could they be operating for a full year before the State Police grabbed them, without the knowledge of the local police or the District Attorney's Office?

A After you make an arrest you may find out something that you just heard or did not know.

Q Did the District Attorney's Office request the State Police to come in and help to make this investigation on this raid?

A I do not think I could answer that. I think that at that time they were cooperating together, working hand-in-hand, which we do.

Q I will try to find that out from the State Police. Now, I would like you to take—I am just making a comparison of sentences. One racketeer is just as bad as another racketeer.

A Well, it cannot be that.

Q That is my opinion.

A All right.

Q These are not cases that the local police made. I do not know how many more you would add to this group, but I say rackets operating in Delaware County is widespread. I would like you to take a look at this list, and outside of the sentence of Michael Caserta, I want you to point out to me any sentence that was meted out that was comparable to the one that was meted out to Michael Caserta. I seee on here cases involving guilty pleas, people who were found guilty and sentences anywhere from just a common fine to anywhere from a month to nine or ten months in jail. I want you to show me one sentence that is comparable to the one that Caserta got. There may be one on there, I do not know.

A I would be more helpful if you would point out to me someone here who was of the same caliber as Michael Caserta. It might help.

Q I do not know. As I said before, to me a racketeer is a racketeer; a gambler is a gambler.

A Well, I have attempted to point out to you— now please do not misunderstand me, I am not trying to argue with you. I have attempted to point out that Michael Caserta was in a class by himself. I call your attention also that Judge Bretherick testified the other day to four or five more who were big and got heavy sentences. You must erase from your mind that you do not take ten men charged with lottery and the sentences are all the same; no matter if you take ten charged with larceny, they may not be all the same.

Q In order for me to make that determination I would have to have the previous records of every defendant on there. I have the record here of Michael Caserta. He was arrested seven times and from what I have here it started in 1946. He was arrested for maintaining a lottery, pled guilty before Judge McDevitt, and he was fined fifty dollars. He was arrested again on a disorderly conduct charge and illegal lottery, but was discharged by the magistrate on both charges. On March 27, 1949, he was arrested for violation of the Liquor Control Act, serving drinks to intoxicated persons. He came up before Judge McDevitt, waived trial and was found guilty and fined $300.00. May 15, 1950, was arrested for corrupt solicitation. He came before Judge Levinthal, found not guilty. He was arrested on a lottery charge, demerit to the evidence sustained. On September 28th, given six to twelve months and eleven to twenty-three months to run consecutively on the charges in Delaware County. So, just on this record here, and that is all I have before me, I have no way of telling whether he was a big operator; this would not indicate so, or whether he was a small operator or what he was and because they do not have the records of all the other defendants on here I cannot compare them. I say a racketeer is a racketeer.

I would still like for you to point out to me whether the Judges of Delaware County gave any of those racket people that were arrested in those State Police raids, sentences comparable to the one that was given to Mr. Caserta because I am assuming those factors were taken into consideration by the Pardons Board when they came up for sentence; I do not know.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, let us not assume a fact of that kind unless we can establish it.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, let me—

THE WITNESS: Unless you give me the records of those men, I cannot tell you, Senator Yosko. I cannot give it to you.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q I might suggest that Mr. Hughes, being the District Attorney of Delaware County—

A First Assistant District Attorney.

Q First Assistant District Attorney. Well, you had been District Attorney, had you not?

A No, I have been Assistant.

Q Well, being First Assistant District Attorney, you probably know more about the people on that list than any other person in this room?

A It would be out of the question.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What he wants to know is how many of those might be carpetbaggers, too.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is what I mean. You ought to know more about that than we would.

SENATOR YOSKO: You can ask questions when I am through.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Were you Assistant District Attorney during the period covered by the figures given to you by Mr. Yosko?

A I went in in 1952. This starts with 1950.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Well, you say you were in for six years and that would make it—this is 1957 and six years would make it 1951.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Let's not quibble about that.

THE WITNESS: Two, three, four, five, and six. This is my sixth year.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q There has been a summary made of that, Mr. Assistant District Attorney, and from what I have here there was thirty-one discharges, twenty nol prosses, eighteen found not guilty, ninety-nine of them were just fined and got no jail sentence at all, and 101 of them got a fine and a sentence out of the 286 cases. I would like to know why there is such a variance in the sentences that are indicated there?

A Every case must be decided upon its own facts; its own background. The sentence sufficient to deter that person, the sentence sufficient to deter a neighbor, past record, the type of man he is, and those things are taken into consideration by a Judge. I have tried to show you that Michael Caserta was of the large scale; he was also one of these kinds who went personally himself to the wife of this witness and said that he would kill that husband of hers; gave her fifty dollars to get a lawyer to go to the jail to tell him to pull off. So, you are dealing with a different man. You just cannot line them up and say they are all the same.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Was that before the Board, what you are telling us now?

A No.

RECROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q That occurred after sentence?

A Sir?

Q It occurred after sentence?

A No, before the trial. After he was arrested and before trial he went personally to Mrs. Hampton.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Would this record here that I just read indicate to you that he was the type of person that you are describing?

A Yes,—corrupt solicitation.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q What was the result?

A It does say here May 15, 1950, arrested for corrupt solicitation; not guilty before Judge Levinthal. You see, this man—before the Board of Pardons his lawyer even argued; now he said in Philadelphia the District Attorney never asked for a sentence in lottery until after the fourth offense. That, apparently, is rather silly as far as we are concerned. This man was arrested for counterfeiting; he was found guilty for counterfeiting. He was turned loose many times by the magistrates. He just did as he pleased for twenty years from the age of twenty to age forty. That is the type of man I am trying to describe to you. I do not know whether these other men are the same type.

I did have one here, John Cureton which is a name I have known for a long time, even before I was in the District Attorney's Office.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Well, why don't you tell us about him? Do you have it there?

A Sir?

A Do you have it right there?

A Yes, Cureton in 1950 tried to come out with lottery tickets; plea, guilty; $500 and eleven months, Judge Toal.

Q Now you say you have known him for a long time, even before you were in the District Attorney's Office?

A Yes, I have know of him. He is from Chester. He has always been a petty gambler of some kind, but consistent.

Q You mean all the time?

A Yes, in and out of some kind of trouble. Now here is Claude Murray who is one of the fellows—This is Claude Murray, in the fourth month, 7-51, and he is one of the fellows who was arrested at the original trellis arrest. He got two months on 4-7-51 and got $300 fine and two months. In 1952 he got four months and $400 fine.

Q Was he constant offender in your county?

A Yes. Since 1952 he got at least a year or maybe more.

Q Prior to that, how many times would you say he was arrested, prior to the date of this particular sentence we are talking about?

A I recall—

Q Had he been there quite often?

A I recall at the time of the trial, and I did try these cases in 1952, and by the way Judge Kraft was on the other side then, too, and it seems to me that he had one conviction before that which probably is this one. That is just memory.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q I would ask just one more question. I want you to look it over, and would you tell me after you look it over whether the sentence meted out to those 286 defendants were out of line with the sentence that was meted out to Mr. Caserta?

A Whether these were out of line?

Q Yes.

A My dear sir, my opinion would not be worth anything on these cases without I knew the entire facts of it and those things which I mentioned which I think the Judge considers.

Q The only thing I want you to do is see what sentences those defendants got and tell me whether they were far less than the sentence given to Mr. Caserta or whether they were not.

A They are less; those that I have come to. As to why, my opinion would not be worth a cent without knowing the cases.

Q Thy are racketeers. That is all I know. They would not have been raided and they would not have been arrested and they would not have been tried or they would not have pled guilty to the same charges that Mr. Caserta either was convicted of or pled guilty to.

A You certainly do not class Caserta with these small fries.

Q I do not know whether they are small fry.

A I have told you they were.

Q I do not know whether they are small fry.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You do not include those racketeers in those bawdy house raids, there, do you?

A In our bawdy house raids? We do not have any bawdy houses down there and haven't for years.

Q This report says they are operated by the racketeers.

SENATOR YOSKO: These are all gambling cases.

MR. KOHN: You did not look at it very closely, Senator Yosko.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hughes, do you know the maximum sentence a man can get for lottery or gambling? It may be what?

A I would say in Caserta, for lottery he could get six to twelve; for a conspiracy he could get twenty-four He could have gotten thirty months and got seventeen minimum.

MR. KOHN: Any other questions?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, I find sentences listed on this analysis here running up to twenty-three months.

SENATOR YOSKO: That is Caserta.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I do not know whether it is or not. Caserta's sentence is seventeen to thirty-five months and he could have gotten thirty.

SENATOR YOSKO: Another one from eleven to twenty-three I think is on there.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Two weeks to eighteen months, another.

SENATOR YOSKO: I think next to the last page there.

THE WITNESS: I say he got eleven to twenty-three and six to twelve, consecutively.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q It is your view that he could have gotten a flat sentence from the conspiracy?

A Yes.

Q Doesn't it provide either for a simple imprisonment and separate and solitary confinement?

A I think it does; yes.

Q Therefore, doesn't the statute make any offense which can be punished by separate solitary punishment only punishable by a minimum and maximum?

A In that it says "or." You can get solitary or simple imprisonment.

Q Hasn't the Superior Court interpreted that act as follows: That since the offense can be punished; that is, if it is punishable by separate and solitary confinement, there must be a minimum and maximum?

A That was argued in one of our cases. I do not know which one it was, but the Judge said, "I will give you what you want," and he made it minimum and maximum.

Q That was a Commonwealth's—

A I am not familiar with that.

Q I will not press the point here. To what institution was he sentenced?

A Delaware County Prison.

Q Has Delaware County been capable of receiving separate and solitary confinement cases?

A I do not think so.

Q Well, then, that part of his sentence is illegal, wasn't it?

A I don't say that.

Q You don't say that it was or wasn't?

A No.

Q In any event, it is quite true there were two counts; one, the violation of the lottery law, and the second, the conspiracy to violate the same lottery law?

A That is right?

Q So that he got punished here for the agreement to commit a crime and the actual commission of the crime?

A He did.

Q Double punishment for the same—

A That is not what the Courts hold.

Q They do hold that it was double punishment, but they do not hold it is unlawful. I am not saying that the fact he was punished for the conspiracy and the subsequent offense separately, is unlawful. I am not taking that contention. I am saying it is a fact that he agreed with somebody to commit an offense and then committed it and he got punished, first, for the agreement and, second, for the commission?

A He was here; yes. That was decided, what you are talking about, in a case by Judge Kraft in Hampton's case.

Q It is not usual, is it, to superimpose a sentence to run consecutively for the conspiracy in addition to the punishment meted out for the subsequent offense?

A Yes, it is.

Q Is it? It is a fact, isn't it, the thing that transformed Caserta's sin from a venial one into a mortal one was the fact that he was from Philadelphia?

A I would not think so.

Q You would not. Didn't he, the Judge; didn't you, yourself, make a point of the fact that he was from Philadelphia?

A I probably argued it. Yes, I suppose I did.

Q It is a fairly good argument in Delaware County?

A That is right.

Q And you used it?

A Yes, I suppose I did. I would not say I did.

Q Now, when you appeared here, Mr. Hughes, you were under oath just as you are now, and you told us that the trial Judge was Judge Toal. You were wrong about that, were you not?

A Judge Toal tried a part of the trial of the—he tried all of Caserta and part of McSorley. He did the writing of the letter in McSorely because Judge Ervin was on the Bench.

Q That is not the question I asked you. Let me ask this question:

"Do you know whether the Judge who tried the case also opposed the commutation?

Answer: "He strongly opposed it.

Question: "What was the Judge's name?

Answer: "Judge Toal."

Q You were wrong on that, were you not?

A Judge Toal was the man who wrote the letter, the Judge who wrote the letter. He is the man who tried part of it.

Q He tried the case?

A Yes.

Q Did he impose the sentence?

A The original case was tried before Judge Ervin. That is no secret.

Q Why didn't you tell us it?

A I answered the question there, sir. When they applied for a new trial, it was before Judge Toal, and Judge Toal is the one who wrote the letter to the Board of Pardons.

Q When you were here last time, you were quite sure of your position, enough to criticize the official transcript of the Board of Pardons made up by the official court reporter. You looked it over and you told this committee that it was not complete; did you not?

A I did.

Q You were wrong about that, weren't you?

A No, I was not.

Q The transcript was complete, was it?

A I say it was not complete.

Q You said it was not complete?

A That is right.

Q You were talking about the January 18th hearing?

A Yes, we were.

Q And you said it was not complete?

A That is right.

Q And you said the respect in which it was not complete was that at that hearing, you said, in answer to the following question:

"Do you recall one particular question that was asked by a member of the Pardons Board that is not recorded in here?

"A Well, there were many, but I do recall particularly the one by Mr. Finnegan, where he said how can we substitute our judgment for the local court and Superior and Supreme Court?"

And then later you said, in answer to the following question:

"Is that a complete transcription of the arguments made by both sides?

"A No. sir, I am sure it is not."

Were you telling the truth then?

A Oh, yes, sir; yes, sir.

Q Well, then how do you expain the fact that Mr. Finnegan did not even sit up on that Board in January?

A My dear man, I have already corrected that by saying that it was at a different time. I don't do Mr. Finnegan any harm. He spoke along that line and said that and it was in September. I do not find fault with him for saying it either.

Q You did not correct it on that day; did you?

A I did not know it until I found the newspaper had gotten it from somebody.

Q And called you on the telephone?

A Yes.

Q Told you all about it?

A Yes.

Q Did you write a letter to the committee and try to correct it or anything like that?

A I certainly did not, but I told Mr. Kohn about it.

Q When?

A It was probably when I talked to him on the phone, I think.

Q When?

A It may have been a couple of days or more after it happened.

Q After you learned about it from the Evening Bulletin?

A Yes.

Q Now you said as the result of the action of the Board of Pardons, there was a breakdown of law enforcement and there was another riot in the Westinghouse case.

A At that time—I think in answer to the first part of your question, I do not recall saying that; not in that purport, I do not think.

Q Let me withdraw the first part and direct you to the question:

"Have there been any riots resulting in damage to property in Delaware County since these defendents had their sentences commuted?"

The answer is "Yes.

"What were they?

"They were widely known as the Westinghouse riots."

Now, the riot of which you speak—you tried that case; did you not?

A Didn't I say they were riots—

Q Yes, I read riots.

A I recall a riot case which you and I tried—

Q Yes, and who is attacking the jury's verdict now? What did the jury say as to whether or not this was a riot?

A The jury found the men not guilty.

Q But you still say that was a riot?

A My dear man, from the time that case was even opened until the middle of the Summer, there were still riots there. The people were still in terror there.

Q In that long labor dispute?

A Yes.

Q Well then, how can you lay that to the action of the Board of Pardons?

A I did not. They asked me a question whether we had any riots after that and I gave them my opinion.

Q Now, you point out that the Board of Pardons in the Caserta case disagreed with the trial Judge, and in the McSorley case it disagreed with the trial Judge.

A I do not know whether I pointed out, but they did; yes.

Q Have you ever disagreed with trial Judges?

A Sure.

Q Have you ever made recommendations to the Board of Pardons in contradiction to that made by the trial Judge?

A No, sir.

Q Do you always follow the trial Judge's recommendations?

A No, that is not the answer. I was rarely ever before the Pardons Board.

Q Have you ever made any recommendations before the Board of Pardons?

A I have asked to have sentences lessened and commuted; yes, sir.

Q Now, doesn't your testimony amount to this, merely that the Board of Pardons disagreed with you and with the trial Judge in the case of which you spoke?

A Which case?

Q The McSorley case.

A My objection to them, to their findings, is that they found it on something that does not exist and that is it.

Q You mean it was your opinion it does not exist. That is the way you state it, isn't it?

A Well, let me state it this way. I say there was no record, no facts upon which to base any opinion that the Judge and jury were influenced by the populace there. That is my statement.

Q Was there any publicity given to Caserta?

A A lot of it; sure.

Q It was normal that it happened when the trial was going on.

A Yes.

Q I am not saying it is wrong, but haven't you found that when there is a lot of publicity and talk about a case, it is apt to find its way into the jury box?

A That can happen, but where you have a man like Judge Kraft, I would say my recollection is that he inquired of the jury whether or not they had any opinions based on the publicity.

Q After the verdict?

A Oh, no, my dear man.

Q And he asked them whether they had any fixed opinion as to their guilt?

A My recollection is that he did.

Q Do you find many juries, in such cases, where they admit they do have fixed opinions of guilt and it would be beyond their capacity to give the defendent a fair trial?

A Rarely. Rarely.

Q So that that kind of a question is not usually very helpful, is it?

A I would not agree with you that it not helpful; no.

Q If you find rarely that the jurors admit that they are so prejudiced that they cannot give a fair trial, why would you not agree that it is likely that there is some prejudice in a celebrated and well-publicized case?

A My answer to that would be this, that something happening in Media would be in the Chester paper and the Media paper. It might not be in the Upper Darby paper. There is not any one read clear through. You might have a big group of jurors from one end of the county or the other end and, as you know, the question on drawing jurors it is very surprising that they do not know anything about the case; very surprising.

Q Mr. Hughes, how did you meet the argument that Chief Laughead examined these men minutely upon arrest shortly after this occurrence as to shoes and clothing and he found no evidence of any of the debris that had been thrown around this demolished jail house?

A How did I meet it?

Q Yes.

A They ran in there and they ran out. If their feet sunk to the soles, a stamping would cover that. What Chief Laughead did, he looked at the soles of their shoes, everyone's soles. He had one of them take one of their shoes off. He looked at their hands, they held them out, both sides, and he found no evidence of dust which could have been there if they sank deeply enough into it. There was a lot of it on the side and the center was clear for trucks to go in. That did not impress me at all; it did not impress the jury; it did not impress the Court.

Q How many of them were there?

A How many what?

Q Men. Five?

A Five. There were—

Q They all did not run down some path in which there was none of the debris?

A There was from thirty to sixty all told.

Q Weren't the others arrested?

A They did not catch them.

Q None of the others were arrested?

A No, and the Board of Pardons has the funniest reasoning here, too, on that that these men are bearing the brunt—somewhere, I think here—of the other thirty or sixty, which does not appeal to me as being—

Q You do not agree with that?

A Well, it does not appeal as being a reason, when they said, "As this applicant"—and they are probably speaking of all of them,—"and his accomplices were the only persons who were arrested, they bore the burden of the resentment of the community."

Q That does not make any sense to you?

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q General, may I interrupt for just a minute.

While you have the reasoning of the Board there, did the Board specify as a reason the innocence or feeling of the innocence of these men?

A Let me put it this way. I am not begging your question either. The innocent was—well, that was put up both times.

Q Well, we had Attorney Trescher here yesterday and he told us what he told the Board about his feeling of innocence and went through the various particulars that he pointed out to the Board, which General McBride is questioning about now. But I am questioning as to whether the Board used as a reason the fact that they, too, felt that there was innocence there. I do not think they did. I think they used the turmoil in the community, and so on, as a reason. Am I correct or incorrect?

A You are incorrect. The word innocence or not guilty appears no where in the opinion.

Q Right.

A But, in fairness. I must say that they repeat all of the things on the side of these men wherein they say they came to do picket duty; they were an unruly group that damaged some property. They arrived after the riot and they denied stoutly at all proceedings that they were involved. That is not true, of course, because while they first said, "We do not know anything. We did not even stop in Media. We do not know what is going on. We did not do anything," then they later admitted, when they got them each separately, that they did come down there, that they were paid to come down, that they were part of thirty or sixty men. They did get as far as the entrance; they did run and get in their cars, and that they were going the opposite direction. They were going west instead of east to Philadelphia. So, while there is not any innocence here, they are following the argument of these boys. Does that answer your question?

SENATOR SCOTT: The reason I asked the question, you were going along the line of questioning as to how he met the argument of dust on the feet and not dirty hands and that sort of thing, and to me it was not pertinent because the Board did not decide it, as I read the reasoning, on that ground at all, as to the innocence or non-innocence of the men. They decided it upon something else, which was the atmosphere in the community.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It might be, but when a Board states its reasons and compresses them into a single page, you could hardly expect them to mention everything that is in their minds, particularly after one hour or one hour and a half argument.

SENATOR SCOTT: Well, isn't the feeling of innocence by the Board of such importance that if they did feel that way, they certainly would mention it even if it was in a sentence and not a paragraph? I would think so.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Senator, my own view is that as Mr. Justice Bell said that either a conviction that the man is innocent or a very grave doubt of guilt, particularly where the man has served a substantial part of his sentence, all elements are considered by the Board of Pardons. Now, I do not know why innocence was not mentioned, but I agree that maybe it is not particularly pertinent whether Mr. Hughes successfully met it or not.

SENATOR SCOTT: I do know that Attorney Trescher made a great point of it before the Board of the innocence of the men and so stated yesterday.

THE WITNESS: May I just say that in this same article, and Mr. Trescher quotes it, by Mr. Justice Bell, he states: " 'The word (commutation) is a term of art and means, and long has meant, the change of one punishment for another and different punishment.' Commutation and parole presuppose that the person is guilty of the crime for which he is convicted and that he should be punished." So if they are commuting, the Board is saying they are guilty and that is on Justice Bell's—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I agree, at least, that we are not passing on the question of innocence.

MR. KOHN: You are giving the legal interpretation rather than getting along with this case.

SENATOR SCOTT: I made the interruption, Mr. Kohn, because I was interested.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Let me ask you this, Mr. Hughes. Was there any corruption on the part of the Board of Pardons that occurred in either of these cases, Caserta or McSorley?

A Mr. McBride, I know of no corruption. I have not intimated—as I said before, I do not know what prompted them.

Q Do you know of anybody who discussed this in advance with the Board or any member of the Board?

A Only what I heard here by Mr. Trescher and Mr. Lavery or somebody. I know nothing about that; nothing, I make no accusation.

Q Now, you got notice of the application in both cases?

A Yes.

Q There was someone from your office present at the hearing to register your thoughts?

A I was to both in the McSorley case.

Q I mean you were definitely willing to give your objections. You were not caught short or prevented from speaking?

A Oh, no. We talked for an hour and a half, which prompts me to say that that transcript, a few pages, doesn't have all of that in there.

Q That is what you base it upon. Would you mind pointing out anything which is not in there?

A Yes, I can point—

Q This is the January transcript.

A In—January, in asking, in attempting—I will not use the word mercy, but in asking for it, Mr. Trescher was pressing that this was an outlaw group that had gotten ahold of the union and they were running high, wide and handsome or something similiar to that, and that they had now ousted Underwood, I think it was, who may be the same man who is before the Federal Court now on something,but those two things were mentioned. Everybody on the Board, I think, had something to say about it.

Q Now, you have sometimes recommended clemency to the Board of Pardons on commutation, have you not?

A The office has, yes. I am not begging your question either, but the office has.

O All right. I understand. That is all right. Now, are you familiar with the fact that in the two years that the present Board has sat, it has been more rigorous in the granting of executive clemency than either the Judges or the District Attorney of Delaware County in their recommendations?

A No, I am not, sir.

Q Do you contend that the Board in the last two years has been less rigorous; that is, that they have granted more applications for clemency than the Judges or District Attorney went along with?

A I do not know.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think that is all.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Are you familiar with the case of Louis Devito?

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Pardon me, Mr. Kohn. I would like to ask a question or two on these other cases.

Mr. Hughes, if there was no animosity and no feeling running against these men prior to the trial, what would you say would account for the fact that you contend that there was bitterness after the pardon was granted, I mean the commutation was granted?

A I do not recall. Well, I do not think I said bitterness, but we will not quibble on the word. The fact that here these men come down here as labor goons and do as they please, right in the shadow of the courthouse, and dash down there and do what they did and then move away. Even before the Board of Pardons had granted that, there was a general rumor that "You cannot put them in. You cannot put them in."

Q What I am getting at is, you have suggested that perhaps Mr. Trescher's argument of feeling in the community would not hold water or did not stand the test. When did the Court and the District Attorney's Office begin to refer to these men as "goons"? Before the trial or after the trial? Now I have heard them referred to here by the clerk, by yourself as goons and hoodlums and so forth. Now did you consider them goons before the trial or did you suddenly decide that they were goons after the Parole Board had acted?

A No, my brief on the first time it went to Superior Court calls them labor goons and gorillas. That was the word I learned after the trial and when they were first going to the Superior Court.

Q Well, don't you think that some of that feeling was prevalent in the mind of yourself and the Court and the general public even before the trial as Mr. Trescher had suggested?

A No, sir.

Q In other words, you just decided that they were goons after the trial and you did not have any opinion on that before the trial?

A I said that in my brief I named them as that. I had no feeling about them before the trial.

Q All right, then, but when did you get this feeling that they were goons? Did that suddenly come about after the trial?

A My dear sir, they were named as such. I had no feeling except that that is the term we used for these men, that is all. I felt strongly about them serving their time, yes.

Q You knew, did you not, that none of these men—at least I am taking for granted that Mr. Trescher's statement is true—had been convicted of anything before; that they had no long criminal records; none of the five?

A That was considered and that was argued at the time of sentence. Before the Board of Pardons there was nothing new received. That was considered at the time of sentence.

Q I am not questioning in that connection. I am questioning in the connection where a man who never was convicted of anything, never been at odds with the law, is not referred to as a hoodlum or goon, is he?

A You get your name by what you are particularly doing then. You may be a hoodlum for doing it once. As far as your reputation is concerned, people come in and say you are a goon and a hoodlum.

Q Do you think it is reasonable, where the men never had a record before in Delaware County, to arrive at that conclusion that they are goons, even before the trial determining that these men had done the particular crime that you describe as being so horrible? Don't you think there was some prejudice in the community?

A No, I do not think there was, sir.

Q If there was none before the trial, then when the Board of Pardons commuted their sentence, they all became indignant; people who did not care before the trial became indignant?

A They became aware of it, sure.

Q If they were not aware of it before the trial, they became aware when they were commuted from twenty-four months to six months?

A No, sir.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Do you feel that Judge Kraft is a reasonable man?

A Yes, sir.

Q Attorney and prosecutor?

A He is a very honest man and very capable attorney.

Q Is there anything in the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that would exclude the attorneys from Delaware County from asking for a change of venue if they wanted a new trial?

A They have the right to ask for a change of venue if they so desire.

Q And what Secretary Finnegan said to them was in his favor, too. Did Mr. Kraft ask for a change of venue?

A Oh, no.

Q Judge Kraft is a very good lawyer, is he not?

A Yes.

Q Then there must have been no justification for a change of venue?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I was going to ask that question.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q You made mention in your testimony that you did not use the word "goons" until after it was first used. Who brought the word into the trial?

A I do not know. I may have read it in the papers. I say I use that in the brief that I filed on the appeal. Now the public—

Q Was the word "goon" or "gorilla" used by any of the witnesses during the course of this trial?

A Oh, no.

Q The words originated after the trial was over?

A That is right. No similarity to the trial. It was a sternly tried case. When you are against Mr. Kraft, you have got to try a stern case, and if you win, you are lucky.

Q Mr. Trescher, yesterday, spoke considerable about a witness whom he called to be somewhat illiterate. The creditability of that witness was called to the attention of the jury. I think the argument was that this witness could not be relied upon.

A What that was, and I am very familiar with it, I think he was a junk man who had the liberty to pick up iron where they were tearing something down. Mr. Kraft cut him off, and cross examined him severely and Judge Ervin called his attention several times to let him finish his answer and he was giving him a line. So, finally, Judge Ervin said, "You are not giving him a chance." Well, he said, "He was mumbling." And he said, "Look this man is honestly trying to tell the truth." Well that was the Judge's opinion then and that was one of the reasons he went up for a new trial.

Now, what Mr. Trescher was talking about, afterwards in Conshohocken, in Montgomery County, this same Negro had accumulated a lot of metal at the same Gleba Brothers and the other brother would not let him take it, so he sneaked in there at night and got it. They charged him with larceny and oh, I think, he served some time, maybe three months; something. Now that may be what

Mr. Trescher was talking about. But this fellow was this kind of a witness, he had identified three at a magistrate's hearing. Then at the trial, he identified one, two and a third one that he had not identified before.

Mr. Kraft said to him, "You are not identifying the same one are you." He said, "That one's sitting back in the audience." They had secreted one of their defendants back in the audience to get this fellow mixed up.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q That was argued before the Pardons Board?

A Oh, that was argued before the Pardons Board; we had a battle on that one every time we mentioned it.

Q Now, Mr. McBride made a great point of bringing out that when the Board of Pardons heard the case, when it was argued before it, that this fellow was a Philadelphia racketeer. I think you admitted that. Now on the other hand, the attorney for the applicant also argued the fact that he got four free chances in Philadelphia before he ever was sent to jail; did he not?

A Yes, I mentioned that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I don't think you can get four free chances.

MR. KOHN: That is what the attorney argued.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: How many convictions in Philadelphia did he get?

MR. KOHN: I don't know, I am just saying—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Well, I will tell you, it is not a free chance unless you are convicted. The Judge does not have any jurisdiction to punish me if I am not guilty.

MR. KOHN: I do not know. I am just saying what he said here.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is a matter of simple arithmetic.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: When he came before the Pardons Board, they did not know what was in his mind.

MR. KOHN: I would like to finish up with Mr. Hughes on one other case, but I do not like to start it now. It is up to you gentlemen.

(Off record remarks)

MR. KOHN: Monday will suit Mr. Hughes if it will suit you gentlemen.

THE WITNESS: Tell me what time and I will be here.

MR. KOHN: Ten o'clock Monday morning.

CHARLES F. G. SMITH, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Your name is Charles F. G. Smith?

A That is right.

Q And you are a member of the Philadelphia Bar?

A That is right.

Q How long have you been a member of the Bar, Mr. Smith?

A Approximately eleven years.

Q And where is your office?

A Sixteen sixteen Walnut Street.

Q I think you are familiar with the fact that you had written a letter to Judge Bretherick which was mentioned and was read into the record here?

A Yes, sir; I am.

Q Concerning matters that you had handled before the Board of Pardons?

A That is right.

Q I think you are familiar with the fact that Mr. Finnegan introduced a letter you sent to him?

A Yes, I am.

Q Did you at one time also send Mr. Finnegan a letter signed by Joseph S. Clark, Jr., Mayor, introducing you to Mr. Finnegan?

A Yes.

MR. KOHN: I have a copy of that letter which I would like to get in as evidence.

THE WITNESS: That is a photostatic copy.

MR. KOHN: Will you mark that as an exhibit, please?

> Letter to Honorable James A. Finnegan, under date of January 27, 1955, from Joseph S. Clark, Jr., Mayor of Philadelphia, produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 29. NPK 3-28-57.

THE WITNESS: This is on the official City Hall letterhead at the time Joseph S. Clark was Mayor of Philadelphia.

I want to say first that this letter should properly be presented for the record inasmuch as my letter to Mr. Finnegan has been incorporated in the record and in such a way that such letterheads as these have indicated that a very different purport was in back of them than was intended. I refer particularly to the last sentence of the first paragraph of the letter written to Secretary Finnegan on August 11, 1955. That paragraph reads:

"To date I have been consistently refused on about thirteen applications presented to your Board. It occurred to me that if the Board had any misconceptions about my partisan sympathies, it would be well to bring Mayor Clark's letter to their attention."

That was purported by me to mean that I was seeking political influence in the decision of cases and was so indicated in this article which I think, at least, is libelous in nature.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You are talking now about a newspaper article?

A A newspaper article which appeared in the Philadelphia Bulletin on March 1st. The reason why this statement was very naturally made by Secretary Finnegan was because of this sentence which I just read to your Board. However, he neglected to point out that I had followed up this letter by a personal interview with him. He referred only to the interview to say that he had dressed me down, I believe, in that interview. It is quoted in the article. Actually, in that interview I attempted to explain to him what this letter meant. Apparently he had taken the wrong meaning also because he told me that he had never in all of his political experience received such a letter. I am quite sure that Secretary Finnegan at least was under no illusions as to my particular party identification as a Republican, because the whole purport of the letter, the whole text of the letter, if read as a whole, is a criticism of the Board of Pardons because of the fact that I had had—I just intended to offer my record and say nothing more—I had success before the Board of Pardons of approximately seventy-five per cent on all other Boards. Before this Board I had received thirteen turn downs at that time. That figure, of course, has gone up to or did go up to a greater number before I stopped taking these cases as pointed out in a former hearing.

Q This letter we started to talk about, how does this fit in with this?

A I am sorry. Oh, yes. I wanted to give that background first to explain this statement. I refer first in this letter to this, in the letter of August 11, 1955, to this letter of introduction given me by Mayor Clark on January 27, 1955, to Secretary Finnegan. I would like to read that into the record.

"The Honorable James A. Finnegan,
"Secretary of the Commonwealth,
"State Capitol,
"Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

"Dear Jim:

"This letter will introduce to you Charles F. G. Smith, Esq., who from time to time does some Pardon Board work.

"He was associated with my old law firm while he was a law student and we were in the China-Burma-India Theatre together during World War II.

"I would appreciate any courtesies you might extend to Mr. Smith.

"Sincerely yours,

"Joseph S. Clark, Jr.
"Mayor."

I would like to point out to the Board that this letter has no reference whatsoever to politics and that none was ever intended.

I feel that I should set forth here my general philosophy of presentation of cases before the Board of Pardons. This Board I believe is peculiar in nature and it is a quasi-judicial Board perhaps, but essentially it is composed of laymen and has for some years been composed primarily of laymen; the majority of whom have been laymen. It seems that their function, therefore, is not like a Court, but one which depends largely on the investigation of these cases; not only the investigation of their own parole agent who goes out and investigates the obvious records and talks to the law enforcement authorities but, certainly, also upon the lawyer who represents the applicant. The lawyer himself, if he is doing a conscientious job, must investigate this case thoroughly. Therefore, the Board must know that lawyer before they can rely upon his integrity in presenting the facts. Certainly such prominent lawyers before this Board as Herbert L. Maris have attributed their success, I am sure, to a thorough investigative job and a respect for the Board and their integrity.

This was the only motive in back of my obtaining this letter from Mayor Clark. If we had been at a personal meeting, I would have merely asked him to introduce me to Mr. Finnegan because, after all, Secretary Finnegan was our Philadelphia representative on the Board. He knew a lot of these prisoners personally. They kept mentioning his name to me and naturally they would want to know—they had known him indirectly I should say, incidentally, people connected with them or interested in them, and it was merely a pleasant gesture intended. I felt that I was, frankly, in no man's land up here after practicing law before so-called Republican Boards before, and now found a change of the Administration. I, naturally, as a Republican, felt that it would be helpful to at least have an acquaintance with someone on the Board. And, frankly, the extent of this matter was that this letter was brought up to Mr. Finnegan by me personally. I presented it to him. We shook hands and that was the last of it. I did not talk to Mr. Finnegan again until I wrote this letter.

Now my thought, therefore, was primarily a friendly thought and that is why I say in this letter of August 11, that if there is any misconception about partisan sympathies, that it would be well to mention the fact that there was, for once, a friendly recommendation of me of my integrity only, not as anyway political because, as I say, Mr. Finnegan knew I was not a Democrat and I certainly never intended to hide behind the guise of a Democrat as certainly was the pointed attempt in this article.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Let me interrupt you for a minute. Are you active in Republican politics?

A Yes, I am, and I might point out that that was my concern. I had, of course, quite a shock when I realized that I had presented thirteen cases to the Board. They were no different cases, comparatively, than those I presented before and they were just as good winners, say, before a Board. In other words, I mean by that that the facts were such that the man seemed to be entitled to consideration by the Board. He had good parole plans set up. For instance, he had served enough time or his offense perhaps had something in it which might have entitled him to clemency. In each of those cases, I tried to analyze them carefully and see if I had fell down anywhere, but I came to the conclusion that they were no different than the many cases that I presented over the years before the Board.

Q Now, may I interrupt again so that I can get my background straight. In what capacity are you active in Republican politics?

A Well I have—I was about to lead to this. I think I can answer your question, Senator, this way. I was, just before the change of Administration, endorsed by Chester County for a Deputy Attorney Generalship and was offered two of them.

Q Now, that confuses me. Do you reside in Chester County and practice in Philadelphia?

A Yes, I do. I was offered two of them; one in the Public Utilities Commission and one in the Turnpike Commission. Both of those salaries were too low for me to support my family and stay in Harrisburg full time as they wanted me to do, so I refused them, just prior to the change.

The only conclusion that I could reach was that I felt that the record of my applications—I had talked with Mr. Harrington Adams up here about it and Mr. Truscott—I felt the record of that was still around the Attorney General's Office and perhaps, for some reason or other, it had been brought to the attention of at least

Mr. Finnegan. I did not know whether it had been brought to the attention of the Board or not.

Now, working in the field of conjecture only here, I want that to be made clear.

Q Were you active in politics in Chester County or in Philadelphia County?

A In Chester County. I might say that—so if there is any doubt about it—I have lived in Philadelphia and in Delaware County and in Chester County. In all of those places I have worked with people like Judge Lord who was my committeeman in Philadelphia County, Judge Bretherick in Delaware County, and anyone along the line can be checked as to how I stand, so I want to make that very clear. Of course, Jim Hazlett wrote this letter. If the Board cares to have that presented by me, I could present it.

Q Did you have reason to feel that you were of sufficient stature that Mr. Finnegan would know without any questioning?

A It could have been brought to his attention perhaps in reference. Now I am just—As I say, I am not making any accusation; I want that to be made clear. I am not accusing anyone of using their prejudice. My letter was intended, and that is why that paragraph is confusing, it was intended to be ambiguous because I did not want to be quoted by anyone as making an accusation. As a matter of fact, Mr. Finnegan said to me in a personal interview that it had a saving clause in it and I know he was referring to the second paragraph which says:

"I do not mean to intimate that your Board can be influenced politically in matters which involve human life and liberty, but I do feel it is important to remove any misconceptions that might be an influence in borderline cases."

I am merely pointing out there that lawyers in general who practice before the Board have for years recognized the fact that some political pressure is brought to bear in some of these cases. We do not go so far as to have proof or actually to witness that money has passed, for instance, or something to that extreme. Certainly the Board is human and is subject to these various pressures, particularly since they are the high ranking political figures in the State.

I feel that that is the basic reason that I wanted to come up here today and put this before the Board. I want to make it clear that my position is also not particularly for a Board one way or the other politically, but that it should be taken completely out of politics. I think that is the only solution to the problem.

This Board historically started as a—the first thought about this Board was—I think we have a little booklet. Mr. Maris I think owns it right now. It is probably the only copy in existence right now which traces the history of the Pardons Board; a very fine book now out of print. That book indicates that in the beginning this Board should have been composed of sitting Judges who apparently sat in neighboring counties but did a rotating sitting job before the Board of Pardons. If you do not announce who is sitting a certain month, you eliminate completely the chance of approach on these cases. That is one possible solution that I should like to suggest to the Board here. But, in any case, this Board should be taken out of politics. In New Jersey you have a Pardons Board which does not even see the lawyer. The lawyer does not come personally before the Board. They may present a brief. It is composed of three laymen, at least it was when I was before it two years ago; a doctor, farmer and possibly a teacher. These people sit and they seem to have substantial justice. The interesting thing there is they bring the prisoner in there to see the Board.

That again is the thing which is so difficult for lawyers before the Board. That is why I say they must know the lawyers; they must have some confidence in their integrity because the lawyer himself really interviews the applicant in the jail or in the pentitentiary. He sees this man as he now is, maybe twenty years from the time he committed the crime if it is a murderer or at least five years or ten years after the crime was committed.

The only records that the parole agent has to look at are the original records of the crime. True, there is a recommendation from the prison but, as all you gentlemen should know, that is merely routine recommendation and they are not permitted to say much. So that it is very much up to the lawyer to present to the Board his impression of the man now, and not as he was when he committed the crime. If we are for any kind of rehabilitation in this field, certainly we have got to acknowledge that in some cases, at least, the man changes and is eligible and is able to accept a commutation and to be out on the street.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is there another letter you sent to Mr. Finnegan outside of the one you put in in evidence?

A Yes. I wanted to say that I did go back and check that paragraph after talking with Mr. Finnegan that day. Frankly, I was surprised that I had not heard an answer because in the letter, the rest of the letter was primarily devoted to mentioning certain cases which I felt the Board might have been misinforced on or I did not get across to them in giving them all the facts and I called them to his attention to see if he would look into them.

So when I went back to Philadelphia, the first thing I did was look at this letter again and I realized that that sentence that I referred to might be ambiguous so I wrote him a further letter of apology and from that point onward, Mr. Finnegan took up these cases and contacted Mr. Hean on them and they were, as a matter of fact, looked into. However, nothing was accomplished on it, but at least I knew that nothing further could be done.

I want to make clear also that the slant of the headline of this article, "McBride Tells of Attempt to Sway Board Member Over by Philadelphia Lawyer in Pardons Case." There was no attempt to sway anybody here because—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I did not say that.

THE WITNESS: That is what this Bulletin article says here.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I never made that statement.

THE WITNESS: I am not saying that you said it. I am saying that is what the article said. The thing is that these cases that I mentioned to Mr. Finnegan were all cases that had been decided. I was merely looking at them in retrospect. I think that article refers particularly to the last paragraph of my letter which reads: "The Shatuck family,"—that is the name of the party—"represents the center of the Democratic Party in Sullivan County." They said that I was attempting to use that as a means of getting them off. Actually, their commuations had been decided, both the minimum and maximum sentence, and they had been granted full pardons. There was no attempt to sway the Board. The only thing that I was looking into here was a question of fines which appeared on the charters and I was not sure on which charter these fines appeared and I was indicating to Mr. Finnegan that I thought that at least they ought to be interested enough to follow up people who had worked hard for their party in Sullivan County. The man was a Justice of the Peace. The wife was a postmistress and so forth.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q There were five altogether?

A That is right. And I must admit that when I went on to say: "I believe, therefore, that not only the interest of justice, but of the party, will be served if something is done about the return of these fines," I capitalized the word "party" and I was merely giving them a little sarcasm; referring, of course, to Mr. Finnegan's party, certainly not to mine. I felt that that should be looked into and, as a matter of fact, it was looked into. Mr. Hean and I went down in the library here and looked over the charters to see which ones of these carried fines. A perfectly legitimate request, I felt, from a lawyer to a public servant. I felt that this letter was essentially one directed to someone who had dedicated himself to do his duty not only to the Democrats but the Republicans. You couldn't have elected him if they had all been Republicans.

Q Do you personally feel, from your experience before the Board, that you got a fair deal on the cases that you tried as compared with somebody else who might have some influence or do you feel that because of your political connections you did not get a fair deal?

A Well I feel that I am only a humble, average lawyer coming before the Board of Pardons. There is nothing unusual in my presentation. If I was Herbert Maris I could have more reason to talk. But I felt, as I said, that these cases that I presented, after this Board began to sit, were no different, comparatively speaking, than the ones that I presented before. As a matter of fact, I have two or three, if the Board would have time to go into them, that I took after talking to Mr. Finnegan on his assurance that we would continue to get an equal break up here and which, incidentally, were turned down, but I took only because they looked like cases that could be worked out. On one case I spent three days out in Clearfield investigating that case laboriously. I saw every single person that time, including both the Democratic incumbent Judge and the Republican Judge who tried the case and got letters from both of them recommending his release. I got telegrams that I presented to the Board asking for release by the V.F.W. post that he robbed. The obvious reason was that the man was in a position at that point to make restitution and the citizens of the whole county or whole city, at least, or town out here wanted to have him make restitution. In such a case it would seem that the Pardons Board could get into it and recommend clemency if everything else was right. Again, I do not know why that case was refused.

Q Do you have any other proof besides your own cases which justified your own belief? Any other information you could give along those lines?

A Well, I certainly do have information on specific cases. Unfortunately, the two cases that have come to mind are ones in which the men are still on parole and I feel that my privilege communication as a lawyer and client cannot reveal the exact names to the Board. At a later time I will be glad to give that name or names that I have in mind to anyone.

Q Well, in those cases do you have some knowledge or evidence or statements that there was some political influence used?

A That is right.

MR. KOHN: I do not want to state the answer for you.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You are coming very close waiving the privilege for him.

THE WITNESS: I am merely saying that in those cases—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If you tell what they told you in substance—

MR. KOHN: You feel you would jeopardize their position?

THE WITNESS: That is right.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:—you will have to tell the whole thing.

THE WITNESS: I am merely resting on the statement that I feel that privilege should be invoked here. I would be jeopardizing their position.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: How long before you can reveal their names, about ten years from now?

The WITNESS: No, about five years from now.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The Chairman will be interested, won't you?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Did you say you got ten years for something, General?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He said he would tell the committee the names five years from now.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is there anything else you would like to say?

A No, I think that is my full statement.

MR. KOHN: Mr. McBride might want to ask some questions.

THE WITNESS: I think I can sum it up in one sentence that I feel that above politics is a question certainly of friendship. I see nothing wrong with friendship in the presentation of cases. An inter-working relationship between the Board Members and lawyers, at least to recognize their integrity, certainly would not be objectionable, but if it gets to the point where it is just a question of fighting political influence all the time, which a lot of lawyers have felt they have been doing when they come up before the Board of Pardons, several have mentioned it to me, then I think it has got to the point where some change should be made.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You don't feel then that there is anything wrong if a lawyer comes to see Mr. Finnegan to discuss his own case, have some law looked into and see that justice is done?

A If there are facts that—I think first, to answer that question, if a lawyer has done a conscientious job he can present most of the facts of the case in the presence of the whole Board. Certainly if there is something that he feels was not clearly gotten across to the Board, for insance, as in this letter,—I would like to, well I could give you cases in point to explain that—but I feel that there certainly should be nothing objectionable to an attorney writing to a Member of the Board or every Member of the Board for that matter, to point out additional facts. An attorney has that privilege, I understand, to write to the Secretary, but if it is something of local concern, for instance, and there is a local member on the Board as Secretary Finnegan is, as far as we are concerned in Philadelphia, it certainly would not seem out of line for me to write to him directly on that point.

Q Did you talk to him about Shattuck?

A Those cases were all discussed in this letter.

Q Did you talk to Mr. Harner about anything like that?

A No, I did not.

Q You were lucky.

A I never talked to any Member of the Board.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Smith, this letter which you wrote to Mr. Finnegan, was that written before or after your experience with the thirteen cases?

A Afterwards, sir.

Q Were you trying to get the door open for yourself as I understand?

A Pardon?

Q In other words, were you trying to get the door open for yourself at the Pardons Board?

A No, I was not. I was merely trying to find out what the trouble was so that I knew whether to take any more money from prisoners. I did not feel conscientiously that I should take any more if there was anything wrong in the fact that I had been too active perhaps on the other side of the fence.

Q Now did you specialize in Pardons Board work?

A I did, almost entirely.

Q Are you still specializing in Pardons Board work?

A I have had to eliminate it completely. I had to change my practice completely as a result of this.

Q How long has it been since you have done any Pardons Board Work?

A Well, the last case presented was in June of 1956, but those cases, understand, had been contracted for several months, perhaps almost a year in one or two of those cases, ahead of time and they had to be worked on.

Q Now you made some reference here to the system in New Jersey. You know, of course, that the Pardons Board in this State is a constitutional board and that the Constitution states that the hearing must be open. In your study of the history of the Pardons Board could you tell this committee what motivated the inclusion in the constitutional provision that the hearing be open? Have you ever read the Constitution convention notes to determine why that provision was put in there?

A I have, sir. I think that came from the first discussion about the idea of Judges sitting and really to get away from the idea of a Court as much as possible. They wanted to be more of a people's tribunal, similar to the idea of a jury, that is constituted of laymen, and they wanted to get away from that as far as possible.

Q Do you think that the Pardons Board hearing should be open?

A I see no objection to it being open, sir.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q I got a couple of questions. You sort of had a reputation of being a pardon getter, didn't you?

A Well, as I say, I did have a fair amount of success in the beginning there and there is a chain reaction among the prisoners and you get more and more cases as a result.

Q Well, while you were having that success, you did not complain about the Pardons Board being political, did you?

A I have never used politics in any presentation of any case that I ever represented before the Board.

Q You did not make up your mind to inject politics into it until the new Board came on and several of your cases were turned down?

A I did not make up my mind then, sir; I never did.

Q Your letter so states.

A My letter was a friendly letter. Which letter are you referring to? The letter from Mayor Clark? There is nothing in there about politics. The letter is merely a reference to a friendly letter and that was all it was intended.

Q I wish you would just take these letters here and just read paragraph after paragraph and tell us what you had on your mind when you were writing them.

A Well, the letter to Judge Bretherick, of course, is a letter that was written to him as one party member to another; my old committeeman as I mentioned to you. I probably had a certain amount of confidential matter. I never intended that the whole letter—

Q Did you say committeeman?

A He was ward leader actually, in the ward where I lived in Darby.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q While he was on the Bench?

A Oh, yes, before he was on the Bench. This letter, as I say, in content was never intended as a record before this Board. I certainly gave him permission to use excerpts from it and apparently the whole letter got in.

Q You did not intend him to make that public, you read one paragraph.

A That is right, but he later contacted me and said would I object to him mentioning anything in here and I said certainly not, after the cases that were pending had been decided. You will note—

Q You were afraid that for political reasons they may turn them down?

A I just felt a duty to my client not to influence the cases in any way, either way.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Well just take it paragraph by paragraph and tell us what you had in your mind when you wrote that letter.

A Any paragraph?

Q Start at the beginning.

A All right. Well, the first is a congratulatory statement as to his expose or attempt to expose the Board of Pardons.

Q What was that? What expose did he make of the Board of Pardons?

A He came out in the papers against the Board of Pardons shortly before this letter was written, March 13, I believe in 1956, and criticized the Board. I am not sure that I can give you the exact motive or what he exactly said there, but in any case it was prompted by a normal letter to, as I said, my old committeeman.

Q Well, Mr. Smith, let me say this to you. Judge Bretherick, if that is the way you pronounce his name, made a lot of statements here before this committee, but if you read the testimony after Mr. McBride cross-examined him or examined him you will find that ninety-nine per cent of the accusations that he made he could not substantiate. I do not care what the papers printed on what he said. But I am telling you now that if you read the testimony you will find that ninety-nine per cent of the accusations that he made did not hold water.

A Are you clear, sir, that this letter does not refer to the statements that he made at this hearing?

Q All right.

A This is March 14, 1956, a former occasion.

Q I know, but you were talking here about an expose. Now what expose was made?

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Isn't that about the time that he addressed the Grand Jury and the Grand Jury made some reference to the matter in one of their presentments?

A That is right I believe that is right, sir. As I say, this is just a matter of congratulations.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Well, what did he expose?

A I am not familiar with the facts.

Q Well, you are talking about an expose. Now what did he expose? I would like to know what he exposed.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q What did you say in your letter?

A I merely said:

"My heartiest congratulations on your efforts to expose the political decisions on the part of the Board of Pardons."

Q What were those efforts?

A And those efforts were an attempt to show that certain decisions had been influenced.

Q How did he attempt to make that showing or that effort?

A Well as I recall—

Q Did he do it by a press statement, or did he give it to the Grand Jury—

A I think he gave it to the Grand Jury. Actually that is what I was familiar with.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What did he give to the Grand Jury?

A As I say, I am not prepared on that particular phase of it. This particular letter was written a year before any of this investigation. I would be prepared to answer—

Q To the best of my knowledge for all the testimony I heard here Judge Bretherick exposed nothing.

I asked him whether he had any evidence of political influence used in the Board that caused them to either grant or disapprove a petition that was filed before the Board and his answer was no. So what did he expose?

A Of course that is a matter of opinion. At the time I wrote the letter, of course, I believed that what evidence he had was solid. Now that is all I—

Q All right, read the next paragraph.

A "It might be interesting to you to know a slightly different angle to this which I am prepared to present with my own cases as an illustration. It is a matter of record that prior to this Democratic Board I had a record of approximately 75% success over a period of almost ten years, during which I presented five or ten cases each year."

Q All right, now stop right there.

A I'll finish the paragraph.

Q All right.

A "I have presented seventeen cases to this Board and all of them have been refused."

Q And are you implying now that the Republican Board decided your cases on politics and the Democratic Board came in and knowing that you were Republican they decided against you.

A I have already made the statement that I never presented any case to the Board on the basis of politics.

Q What did you mean when you said that?

A I can explain it if I can answer it, sir.

Q All right.

A I never presented a case on the basis of politics to any former Board. I came up here and presented it straight across the board on the basis of investigation only. I was trying to emulate, frankly, Mr. Herbert L. Maris and General McBride because I felt they were successful to the Board because it had a good investigative staff. I try to do the same thing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I never won seventy-five per cent of my cases before the Pardons Board.

THE WITNESS: That is correct. I felt that that was the only way that I could do it because I did not have any large political connections and certainly would not have used them if I had, so the point was that I came up here as a typical lawyer, I thought, just presenting cases and getting fairly good results. Now that whatever was the reason and I am saying that is as far as I am going here today and I want to make that clear. Whatever was the reason, I am merely setting forth my record of showing that before a certain date I had success and after that date I had—

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Under a certain Board controlled by a certain political party?

A It just happened that way. If it happens, I don't know. The point is that I am merely resting on the record.

Q Are you now saying that it was just bad phraseology or are you implying that there was politics involved in granting your petitions and having them refused by the new Board?

A As I pointed out, this letter was written from one politician to another, and between fellow politicians you are a little freer with your accusations than you certainly would be before the investigation body here. If that is my personal opinion, it is a personal opinion, but I am saying on the strength of actual facts I am merely resting on my record. Before a certain date I had success; afterward I did not. The cases were no different; I did not prepare them any differently and so forth.

Q Was Judge Bretherick a politician?

A He certainly was before he went on the Bench.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Will you agree with me that anybody that would read that paragraph would imply that there was politics being played on the Pardons Board?

A No, sir; I don't think that gives any indication of that at all.

Q You wouldn't?

A No, sir. I am merely resting on my record there. As I say, you may be interested to know that this is my success. Now, whether it was because the Board had changed or not, that is for him to agree. He might say, "Well, I don't agree with you, Charlie. I think you are wrong. I think it was not politics at all."

Q Mr. Smith, the only reason you are here, I think I am correct in making this statement, is because this Board came to the conclusion that you either implied or directly accused one or the other Board of playing politics with the granting or refusing petitions for commutation of sentence or pardon. That is the only reason why you are here, because of those letters you wrote and the implications of them?

A I am here as I have just stated previously, because I feel that this Board is necessarily open to the temptation of politics, whether it be Republican or Democratic, and I do not confine my remarks to this Board.

Q Now, Mr. Smith, just on the basis of the statement that you have made, what evidence do you have? I think in your remarks here you said that the Pardons Board was subject to political pressures. I made a note of it. Now, what evidence do you have of any politics being used on the previous Board or this Board that would cause them, because of that political influence, to act favorably or unfavorably on an application before it?

A I have already stated that among lawyers—

Q I am not asking you about lawyers; I am asking you whether you have any evidence.

A I have the evidence as I say that among lawyers it is a generally accepted fact that that is the case.

Q I do not care what you have about lawyers. I am asking you—Now wait a minute. He said it is a common accepted practice among lawyers to believe that political pressures are applied to members of the Pardons Board. I want to know whether he has any knowledge of it.

A Well, sir, I am merely referring there to the very obvious fact that you heard the cases this morning presented on one side and then other cases presented on the other side, and I think none of us is naive to say that there is no political influence being brought to bear on the Board, and that certain cases have been decided on that basis. You come up month after month and you see recognizable politicians out in the waiting room of the Pardons Board. They are not the lawyers in the case; what are they there for? It is only the question of necessary conclusions if you are alert to the situation.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Who were those politicians?

A I can name several of them.

Q Name them.

A Surely. I will not try to be discriminate either in the naming of them. I have seen on occasion Senator Stiefel. I have seen, by the same token, "Aus" Meehan there on many occasions.

Q Senator Stiefel is a lawyer, is he not?

A Oh, is he? I am not sure of that. If he is, I am not aware of it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: As a lawyer he appears before the Board.

SENATOR YOSKO: He is a State Senator and a lawyer.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Meehan is not a lawyer, is he?

A I do not believe so.

Q Now who else was there?

A It is the general atmosphere you see out there—I am trying to think of somebody that is not a lawyer; some of the prominent people who are not lawyers.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q You have no knowledge of the business of these people?

A I have no knowledge of what it is and, as I say, this question is not directed to one party or another. I am merely stating the general statement that I feel the Board is subjec to influence regardless of how it is constituted politically.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q But you have no personal knowledge of any influence being exerted on this Pardons Board or the other Pardons Board?

A I have discussed several cases with other lawyers, as I say, and they told me how they have gone about it. That is hearsay and I realize—

Q You are not answering my question. Do you have any personal knowledge of any political influence that was used on this Board or any other Board that caused them to act on an application that was before the Board.

A Yes, I do. As I stated before—

Q What is it?

A Now wait a minute. As I said before, there are several cases where my lips are sealed and they are cases in which I have intimate, personal knowledge of because they are parolees that I have represented or am representing at the present time. I claim again the privilege of immunity on that because I think that is higher than my oath here.

Q As a member of this committee, because it is investigating here political influence on the Pardons Board, I ask you now to name those people.

A I would name them to you, sir, in private. I would not name them in public and thus prejudice their chances of obtaining a turn-down on their commutation or—

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, may I ask the Board for a ruling as to whether this witness is entitled to claim lawyer's immunity?

SENATOR YOSKO: He is making an accusation here that he cannot substantiate.

THE WITNESS: I am not stating it as an accusation. I know several people; a couple of them.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I request that you direct the witness to answer the question.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: There is a very fundamental principle in this Country that a lawyer is in that class who cannot be compelled to divulge confidential information that exists between himself and a client and if the names of these people, whom he has suggested, are clients of his or have been clients of his, I do not know that this committee has any power to compel him to make such disclosure.

SENATOR YOSKO: He did not say that they were clients of his.

THE WITNESS: I did so, sir. I made that very clear.

SENATOR YOSKO: And may I say to you, Mr. Chairman, that it is people like Mr. Smith who, with loose talk and irresponsible talk, reflect discredit upon governmental bodies and people like yourself and myself, and if he has any evidence of political influence which we are investigating, it is his duty as an American citizen to come forward and give us the evidence, but not make statements here that is going to cast a cloud on this entire investigation.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Just a minute, please. The gentleman has stated that he would be willing to give this information to us in private and then we would have to make the decision as to whether or not we violate that immunity which he has questioned between himself and his client. We do not have any power to compel this witness to disclose this confidential matter between himself and his client.

SENATOR YOSKO: I ask you now, Mr. Chairman, are you going to ask him to submit those names to you in private?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I will ask him, inasmuch as he has made the statement, that he submit those names to the Chairman of this Committee, voluntarily. We have no power or compulsion on it.

THE WITNESS: I came up here today voluntarily, I would like it to be clear, because I felt a duty to bring out as far as I could this information giving you the facts as far as I could take them. I cannot take them any further.

SENATOR YOSKO: That is all I have.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Any more questions?

SENATOR SCOTT: Yes. Will you give Mr. Smith the other letter?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He has both.

THE WITNESS: I have one here. I think this is a copy.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q This is a letter to Mr. Finnegan, I believe?

A Yes.

Q Will you read, Mr. Smith, the last sentence of that letter? But before you do, you have certainly made myself, and I presume the remainder of the committee, believe that you are a good Republican and that you are interested in the Republican Party. Now, I wonder if you would read the last sentence of the letter to Mr. Finnegan?

A The last sentence reads this way:

"The Shattuck family represents the center of the Democratic Party in Sullivan County. I believe, therefore, that not only the interest of justice, but of the party, will be served if something is done about the return of these fines."

I explained that before as saying I was giving a little sarcasm there in referring to the party with a capital "P." I would not have capitalized it if it were otherwise, indicating clearly, I thought, Mr. Finnegan's party, and I am sure that if Mr. Finnegan was asked the question directly he must admit that he had no illusions about my sympathies after our talk.

MR. FINNEGAN: I certainly did not.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q The paragraph before that reads how?

A "Does your Board have sufficient power directly or through the Governor, to compel return of these fines or do you recommend that I file a writ of mandamus against Bradford County to carry out the order of the Governor and your Board?"

Q Now you go back to one paragraph before that.

A "One matter that should definitely be looked into in the interest of justice is the case of five pardons which were granted last year to the Shattuck family of Shunk, Sullivan County. These five cases were presented by me in June 1954 and full pardon was granted in December with a definite order by your Board that the fines be remitted to those pardoned. These fines have still not been paid by Bradford County, where these people were legally convicted, even though repeated demand has been made upon them. The fines in question are as follows:

"Charles V. Shattuck	$100.00
Mrs. Ruth Rapley Duffield	100.00
Luther Shattuck	100.00
Ralph Shattuck	75.00"

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let us have the original. You have a copy of that in your file?

THE WITNESS: Yes, I have a copy of it.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Let us have that original letter. You do have a copy in the file?

A Yes; right here, sir.

Q You did read the entire last paragraph, didn't you, Mr. Smith?

A That is right.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q You contend, I take it, that your letter to Judge Bretherick had a political implication, do you not?

A Yes, I do.

Q But you deny that your letter to Secretary Finnegan did?

A In the sense that it was not intended as was presented here at the first hearing.

I can go by this newspaper write-up that the letter was read into the record by yourself, according to this article.

Q Are you under the impression that Mr. Finnegan has yet to testify about this matter?

A Well, it says—No; no, I am not under that impression. The article is quoting from the letter, I believe.

Q You say in your letter to Mr. Finnegan:

"It occurred to me that if the Board had any misconceptions about my partisan sympathies, it would be well to bring Mayor Clark's letter to their attention."

Didn't you refer there, when you used the words "partisan sympathies," your sympathies with the Democratic Party?

A Not certainly, sir. I was referring only to the fact that a partisan consideration happened to be influencing the Board because of my being in line for a Deputy Attorney Generalship prior to the change of Administration. Take a look at this friendly letter from Joe Clark to Mr. Finnegan.

Q I mean when you said partisan sympathies, you meant political sympathy; did you not?

A The word would be synonymous.

Q Yes. So, you meant to indicate to Mr. Finnegan that you were sympathetic to the same political views as Mayor Clark?

A I meant just the opposite.

Q You did?

A I tried to clarify—

Q That escapes me. I will let rest right there. You say you reiterated it that you were successful in seventy-five per cent of the cases which you argued before the Board of Pardons?

A Yes, sir.

Q Perhaps you will tell us about your seventy-five per cent of the cases which you won in 1954. It was the year preceding the present Board. Give us the names and when they were argued and whether they were granted or refused.

A In 1954, the first cases presented during June of 1954—That was an unusual year because somehow, although the cases had been given to me and contracted for by me in several different months, they all came up in June. I can explain how some of them were handled.

Q All we are interested in is statistics.

A All right. Here are the cases: Lonnie Clark, A—

Q Now just a minute. Lonnie Clark?

A Thannie Lonnie Clark. That is application A-1475.

Q Of 1954?

A June of 1954.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What is the number on that?

A A-1475.

Q June Term?

A That is right.

Q 1954?

A That is right.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What is that number?

A A-1475.

FURTHER RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Was he commuted?

A That was refused. All right, you lost that one.

Q What is the next one?

A Wilton Love.

Q He was granted, wasn't he?

A He was granted.

Q One win and one loss?

A Right.

Q Charles V. Shattuck, wasn't it?

A Charles V. Shattuck, Donald Shattuck, Luther Shattuck,—

Q These were in 1953, were they not?

A No, these were all together, sir. I have them under application for pardon; five cases, all granted.

Q Well, weren't the cases of the Shattuck family granted as of 41, 42, 43, 44, and 45 of June, 1953?

A I think you have the wrong year. It was in 1951 the commutation of minimum was granted. I believe in June of 1953, the commutation of maximum was granted. June of 1951, I believe that is the right month. I believe I have it under March of 1951 they were granted commutation of minimum.

Q Now that was regarded as one case, wasn't it?

A Well, that is a question of opinion. I have counted them as five.

Q You are counting the Shattucks as five different cases?

A May I explain that they had very different sentences and were very different problems to handle. Donald Shattuck, for instance, was serving a prior sentence when he came to Eastern State Penitentiary before he even started serving his sentence for perjury.

Q Let us concede it is five cases. Now, the next is Joseph Strada?

A That is right. It was refused.

Q It was refused. Elwood Thomas Sterling was refused?

A It was refused, but it was pending for reargument. There was an additional fact that was not brought out for reargument.

Q That was in 1954, was it not?

A I think the argument was held in 1954. I think it was, sir.

Q But it was refused?

A I think it was. I do not have the date.

Q We have it refused.

A It was reargued. I think you also have that there.

Q How about Elwood Thomas Sterling?

A That is the one we are talking about.

Q How about Harry Felton?

A Harry Felton was in September of 1954. That was refused.

Q How about Alfred L. Sallade?

A Sallade. October of 1954 and that was refused.

Q Francis A. Murphy, December, 1954?

A That case, I might point out, in 1954—I presented that case twice I think. That is one you have that I do not. That case was presented once by my former partner, Joseph Bongiovanni, and once by myself, I believe. I do not know which one that was, but I think that was by Joe. That is why I do not have it on the list here.

Q In 1954 it was refused, was it not?

A Yes, I believe so.

Q Elwood Thomas Sterling again?

A That must be the reargument.

Q Right, but it was refused on the reargument?

A Right.

Q So you had seven wins against, counting the Shatsuck case—that is a different case, each one of them—against six losses: Is that seventy-five per cent?

A Are you counting Sterling twice?

Q Yes. You argued it twice, did you not?

A Well, I have included in that 1953, Mr. McBride—that is the trouble I have here—

Q You cannot include them.

A Including 1953, my percentage of success was fifty-seven per cent for that stretch.

Q Well now, adding Lonnie Clark it makes it seven against seven for 1954, is that right?

A Adding it as a loss?

Q Yes, which the Board of Pardons refused.

A Didn't you already count that in your seven to six total?

Q No. Lonnie Clark—

A Let me count this just a moment. I will recount them here. I have only five refusals. Now, counting Sterling twice, that would be the sixth, according to my records.

Q And Lonnie Clark makes seven, does it not?

A Well, I had Lonnie in that five. Lonnie Clark, Joseph Strada, Sterling and Felton and Sallade are five, are they not?

Q And Murphy?

A Oh, as I say, I did not have that on my paper.

Q Well that is what it appears; seven against seven is fifty per cent. Now let us go to 1953. Having taken credit for the Shattuck case in 1954, you only had one case in 1953, did you not, and that was refused?

A No, I had Francis Murphy under November, 1953. I see. I think that month is confused there. I had Murphy and Sterling in 1953.

Q You lost the case anyway, did you not? You did not win any in 1953?

A Well, aren't you going to count the commutation of the maximum? That is a separate effort, as you well know.

Q It did not succeed though.

A Well, Shattuck's did, certainly.

Q Well, you counted the Shattucks before.

A For the pardon, General, not for the commutation of the maximum. I mean each time you get a—

Q And that averages seventy-five per cent by including commutation of the maximum as one and pardon as another even though it is the same man?

A Don't you get a separate fee? Don't you take care of the case completely differently? It is a completely different case.

Q Let us go to 1952. How many did you win?

A In 1952 I was in Boston the whole year and I was not here.

Q Didn't you argue one?

A No, sir. I was not here.

Q So it is no seventy-five per cent for 1952, is it?

A I say over the ten years.

Q Now, for 1951 you won four cases and lost three, did you not?

A We have, Hovey, Graves—

SENATOR YOSKO: How do you spell the first one?

THE WITNESS: Harry Hovey—H-o-v-e-y; Harry Graves. One was in February and the other was in March of 1951. James Little of June of 1951, and I have—

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Did you win that or lose it?

A Those are the three losses. I won Verdi Thomas in March of 1951, I believe this is. That was a woman's case up there, and the five Shattucks for commutation of minimum.

Q Oh, God, the Shattucks get in three times under this

A I think that is right. As I said, I felt as if—

Q Now you see it; now you don't.

A As I say, the preparation is different; the whole case is different.

Q Let us go to 1950. Thank the Lord there are no Shattucks.

A No, I cannot use them again.

Q How many were refused in 1950?

A Well, we have Robert Hatry in October of 1950.

SENATOR YOSKO: How do you spell that?

THE WITNESS: H-a-t-r-y. William Giles in September of 1950.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Did you win or lose these?

A You asked me if I were refused. Those two were refused. I have Nelson Lundy granted in December of 1950 and Clement Musial was granted in April of 1950 and he went and walked off of Rockview before he even got the news from me and, of course, that was revoked, but I count it as a win.

Q We have you losing seven and winning two.

A I must admit that it is very difficult to go back in your files this far and find every single case that you presented. I haven't got them earmarked as Pardons Board cases from other cases. I did the best job I could to dig up this record for you.

Q It is perfectly clear, therefore, after this short—

A The percentage could be off ten or twenty per cent. I will admit that. When I wrote the letter I did not go back and check my files.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Do you have that letter there that you wrote to Judge Bretherick?

(Letter was handed to Chairman Tompkins).

MR. KOHN: Thank you, Mr. Smith. Are there any other questions?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: No questions. Now, the hour of four o'clock having arrived—General, may I say that I have made proper arrangements with the Custodian of the House Reports on Commutations that Mr. Arnold, or whoever Mr. Kohn may designate, and Mr. Hean, or whoever you may designate, may go and see the files over in his office. They will not be allowed to be taken out of the office, but you can go over in his office and you are allowed to work there in his office on that.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Splendid. We think we know the reason for the discrepancy.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, if there is a reason, we should know it and bring it out.

Because of our time on things, the committee has decided we will hold hearings on Monday of next week, beginning at ten o'clock and we can only run up to one o'clock in order to get additional information in here. We will have Mr. Hughes back on Monday morning to try and finish up with them, and then the next hearing after that, according to the present schedule, unless it is changed between now and Monday, will be for next Wednesday and Thursday again.

If there is nothing further at this time, this hearing will adjourn until Monday morning, April 1st, at ten o'clock, a.m.

(Whereupon, the hearing was adjourned at 4:00 o'clock, p.m., until Monday, April 1, 1957, at 10:00 o'clock, a.m.).

I hereby certify that the proceedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing on the above cause before the Joint Legislative Committee to Conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and that this copy is a correct transcript of the same.

10:00 A.M.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: For the purpose of clearing the record on a matter, last Thursday a Mr. Charles F. G. Smith appeared before this committee and made statements. Now today I have a letter from Mr. Smith, dated March 29, 1957, which we will make a part of the record, as follows:

"The Honorable Edwin W. Tompkins,
Chairman, Senate Investigating Committee,
Senate Caucus Room,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

"My dear Mr. Tompkins:

"This is to certify that after testifying before your committee on Thursday, March 28, 1957, to the effect that I was in possession of certain information about the identity of persons who could testify to political influence on the part of the Board of Pardons, I further considered the fact that this information arose from the privileged communication between these persons as my clients and myself as attorney, which I would violate if I divulged their names even to you privately as Chairman.

I have, therefore, decided that I am not at liberty to give you these names because of this immunity which surrounds them.

(Paragraph 3 of this letter was physically expunged from this transcript.)

"I am enclosing two copies of this letter for Mr. Kohn and Attorney General McBride."

We will have that marked as an exhibit and put into the record.

Letter from Charles F. G. Smith to Chairman Edwin W. Tompkins, dated March 29, 1957—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 30. AJP 4/1/57

Now, because of the Attorney General being detained at a legislative committee meeting, which is studying the sales tax, we will have to alter our proceedings for the early part of the day until such time as the Attorney General is able to be present, because we hope that he will be available by quitting time at 1:00 o'clock. I understand that the Senate meets at that time in the Caucus Room and we will have to adjourn by then. So, in the meantime we will take up a couple of other cases we have on our list here.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, may the record show that the Deputy Attorney General is present, and perhaps you would want in the record a statement from the Deputy Attorney General, that he is here, appearing in Mr. McBride's stead.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think we should.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: Yes, Mr. Chairman, as I told you before the meeting started this morning, the Attorney General has been requested to attend a meeting of legislative leaders with relation to House Bill 337, and has asked me to substitute for him here until such time as he is free from that duty and may again return to this room.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, at this point I would like to make a request that the remarks of Mr. Smith, regarding political influence with the Pardons Board, be expunged from the record; not merely stricken, but expunged from the record, and be eliminated completely for the reason that they at this stage are very misleading and would likely be misunderstood as relating to this particular group of individuals who are now on the Pardons Board; whereas the import of the man's statement to me would indicate that it was some previous Pardons Board, since he has had no favorable reaction from the present Board. And he says the persons are out on parole, which indicates it must have been a previous Board that he is referring to.

But in order that neither the previous Board nor the present Board be under a cloud I think those remarks should be expunged from the record and not be considered by this committee in any manner whatsoever.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I also concur in that request although I do not concur in Mr. Lopresti's reasoning, because it would be very possible for Mr. Smith, the Attorney, to have talked with clients and then had another attorney represent them in front of the present Pardon Board. But I do concur with the expunging.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well, in that case it wouldn't be privileged, Mr. Chairman. And if it is not privileged, let's bring him back. It is privileged only if it is between his client and himself, and he has said that none of the cases he has presented to the present Board have been released or commuted. He further said that these men were out on parole and they might be affected if he did testify. He made that statement.

SENATOR YOSKO: He could readily have had co-counsel who superseded him and he would still be of counsel.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, whatever the reason, we will ask the stenographer not to include as a part of the transcribed testimony the remarks of Mr. Smith in connection with certain political influence which he failed to divulge by reason of privileged communication.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Now, Mr. Kohn.

MR. KOHN: We have prepared for presentation the Sheaffer murder case. I think there were some inquiries in regard to that and we will present that at this time through my associate, Mr. Evans.

SENATOR YOSKO: I didn't hear you.

MR. KOHN: I'm sorry, Senator Yosko.

We have several cases to present and the first one will be the Sheaffer murder case which has been referred to previously. It is a Perry County case, I think.

We were asked to look into that case and we would like to make a report on it, as well as on some other cases.

JAMES W. EVANS, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

THE WITNESS: I might say this. There have been some cases which have been referred to us for investigation; some by members of the committee, and some by newspapers and various individuals. I have before me a list or a resume of the files on certain cases, and I will submit this list and the resume I have typed up to the committee. I also have a copy here for the Attorney General's office. I will briefly run down this list for the committee and you may ask me what questions you please.

SENATOR YOSKO: Do I understand this is the list of cases that you have prepared briefs on?

THE WITNESS: This, Senator Yosko, is part of them. Mr. Arnold has another set. We are still continuing to bring some of those cases down. I have here, roughly, about a dozen or so cases.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Do you have the original files here on each of those cases, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: No: but I can get them very quickly.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Which case are you going to take now, the Sheaffer case?

THE WITNESS: Yes, that is the case; Paul L. Sheaffer.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Do you have the original file here?

SENATOR YOSKO: What is the number?

THE WITNESS: No. 8397.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's not take any of these cases unless the original file is present for the use of the committee.

Very well, Mr. Kohn, proceed.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Evans, you would not have copies of those briefs for each of us, would you?

A We have, as I say, a copy for the Attorney General, a copy for our file, and a copy for the committee; just three of them. Here is a copy you may use for the committee. You will find the Sheaffer case about midway through there.

SENATOR YOSKO: But this compilation here—is this all of the cases you have, or is it just the Sheaffer case?

THE WITNESS: No, these are all the cases that I have for presentation today that are grouped.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Dave, how many of these are you going into today?

MR. KOHN: Well, we will go along until the Attorney General arrives. Then we will proceed with our schedule. If he doesn't get down, we'll have to put Mr. Hughes on to start with.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You may proceed.

A These are not arranged in any particular order. We have taken the cases which have come to our attention.

The case of Paul L. Sheaffer, S-h-e-a-f-f-e-r, was heard in September 1956 session and recommended November 1956. It was a Perry County case wherein a man was sentenced to life imprisonment and served a term of twenty-nine years and eleven months when he was commuted, this commutation being effective January 7, 1957.

This case caused considerable comment here locally in Harrisburg. It concerned a double slaying of a husband and wife and the kidnapping of a minor daughter.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Why don't you just read your brief there on that?

A Well, I can give it very briefly because this is very extensive to read and may take up too much time to cover all the cases.

But in this case the file had many, many, letters opposing the commutation apparently on the grounds that Sheaffer at one time or another made the threat that he would return to Perry County.

Approximately a year before the commutation was recommended, a psychiatric report from the penitentiary dated April 26, 1955 described Sheaffer as irresponsible and emotionally unstable. However, this psychiatric report was changed just a few months before the recommendation was made in which he was now described as emotionally stable and fit for parole and release.

The trial judge in this case was dead but Judge Kreitzer from Perry County opposed the commutation as did the district attorney, Charles Kugler. The Board in this case saw fit to send out a State Policeman to investigate the feelings of the community on this case, and the report of the State Policeman, after interviewing forty or fifty County residents, found that everyone was opposed, including two stepsisters of the defendant. I will qualify that last remark of the two stepsisters; they were not opposed but had no recommendation whatsoever.

The commutation was granted by the Board on the condition that Sheaffer would never return to Perry County. As I recall it, he was taken under supervision of the Salavation Army in Philadelphia.

There is no evidence of any kind of political influence or improper influence on the Board in this case in the file.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Had Mr. Sheaffer made—excuse me, Mr. Kohn, you proceed.

MR. KOHN: Go ahead.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: No, you go ahead.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Had Mr. Sheaffer made any threats against anyone that promoted these many protests that were in the files?

A There was the daughter, I haven't her name before me, but is was the daughter of the two victims of this murder. This daughter at the time of the crime was kidnapped by the defendant and her life was threatened at that time and she feared for her life and so wrote the Board that if he be released, he may return to Perry County to do her bodily harm of some sort.

Q Can you give us roughly an idea of how long he served?

A Twenty-nine years and eleven months.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Were there statements from anybody else that they feared he would do bodily harm to them if he were released?

A The general tenor of the letters from the residents of Perry Couny all indicated that feeling, that the residents as a group feared his return.

That statement was made to the Board at the open hearing by the district attorney of Perry County,

Q I notice in your brief you refer to him as being emotionally unstable. To what period of time does that refer—at the time he committed the crime or at the time he was being released?

A The report says at the time that this report was made, which was April 26, 1955, he was then described by the prison psychiatrist as being irresponsible and emotionally unstable.

Q That was 1955?

A That was 1955. However, as I pointed out before, I see by my resume that the exact date of the later psychiatric report is not here. But in my mind it was May or June of 1956 when that psychiatric report was changed. At that time the prison authorities felt that he was a proper subject for parole.

Q He had been in there for twenty-nine years and was emotionally unstable and suddenly in a year's time he becomes emotionally stable for release?

A That is what the file shows.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Senator Fleming? Mr. Bell?

SENATOR FLEMING: No questions.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I have no questions, Mr. Chairman, but I have the file in front of me and I noticed that in 1956—and this was taken from the application for clemency—there was a fee of $1500 paid to Witkin and Eagan, attorneys of Philadelphia in 1954. In 1955 there was another application and there was no additional fee paid to the attorneys. In 1956, on two final applications the same attorneys, Witkin and Eagan, state that there had been no additional fee. I am just bringing that out for this Board's information. I do not know whether that is common practice or not.

THE WITNESS: I might state this, that if you would check the transcript on that open hearing, the last one which was in September of 1956, that Mr. Witkin stated to the Board words to the effect that he was interested in this particular client. And although I do not recall that he said he received nothing the import of his words were that he had received no fee. That was stated to the Board in open hearing, as I recall the testimony.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Evans, when you said there was a lot of publicity locally, were you talking about the time of the crime or the time of the commutation?

A I am talking about recently, within the last four or five months, when recommendation was made public in local newspapers and the prisoner was paroled as of January 7, 1957. Now, I am testifying to that of my own knowledge from reading the local newspapers and being a local attorney.

Q Did you, as an investigator for the staff, check to see what Sheaffer was doing now?

A No. I assume, according to the parole plan, he is working with the Salvation Army in Philadelphia. And the parole plan went into effect so recently I did not feel that anything would be gained by checking it at this time.

Q Did you check the parole report?

A Yes sir.

Q And is he in Philadelphia?

A I did not personally check to see that he was there, but the parole report said that he was to go to Philadelphia to the Salvation Army, as I recall it.

Q The report says that?

A Yes sir.

Q And what is his behavior as far as the report stated?

A Since his release in January of 1957? I do not know.

Q Does the parole report give any data on that?

A Well, not to my knowledge. I have not checked them. I don't know.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Do you know how often the parole investigators make a report? You say he was only released in January of this year?

A That's right, approximately three months ago—almost four months now.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Well, whatever information you gave us, you gave us from the file?

A This is gleaned from the file. I have made no check into the parole—

Q You made no investigation of your own?

A None whatsoever.

SENATOR YOSKO: All right.

MR. KOHN: May I say, Senator, as far as paroles are concerned, sometimes the parole officers check them every week, sometimes every two weeks; they check them very regularly. But the parole officers' report to the main office doesn't come in sometimes for three or four months at a time. In other words, they keep a running file. And then they give a quarterly report.

SENATOR YOSKO: In any event, the parole officer's report was not checked by you or by Mr. Evans or by anybody on your staff?

MR. KOHN: It would not be in yet.

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, did you ask for it?

MR. KOHN: No, we had no reason to. We saw nothing in this case except the publicity gained and the facts in the case, to report to the Board. We felt we should do this in many other cases that were cited for scrutiny, because of the publicity they received. If you would like to have us check it, we will be very glad to do so.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Evans, you say the psychiatric report was changed. Don't you mean rather that there was a new psychiatric report filed?

A Yes sir.

Q The old one was not changed; it remained in the file as it was?

A Oh yes sir.

Q Now, who made the second report? Was it the same doctor?

A I do not believe so, but it came from the same institution, of course.

Q It came from the same institution. Did I hear the other day when we were talking about this that the new report was at the suggestion of the Board prior to releasing him?

A I believe that is correct.

Q Did they not suggest that a new psychiatric examination be made before they released him?

A I believe so. That is correct. At the same time it is my—I am certain that this is true—they had suggested to the District Attorney of Perry County that he personally interview the applicant and at the hearing, at the open hearing, there was some discourse and some argument between District Attorney Kugler and the Members of the Board as to Mr. Kugler's findings, his own personal findings and his own personal opinion as to the applicant. And there was a fairly long and involved argument to the effect that Mr. Kugler felt after interviewing him that he was unstable. And he made a statement that he would be frightened to death for him and his family if this man were to be released and would move across the street from him, or words to that effect.

In answer to that—I cannot recall the exact Member of the Board: I believe it was Miss Blatt, but I am not certain—they then referred him to the most recent psychiatric examination, which I said was made in May or June of 1956, and I got the impression that they felt that Mr. Kugler was being unfair to the applicant. Now whether that was true or not, that was my own impression.

Q Were there any other reports, prison reports, in the file?

A Any other prison reports?

Q I mean, other than the psychiatric report?

A There was the general report, the general parole report, yes.

Q And what was the institutional record and the recommendation of the prison staff?

THE WITNESS: May I see that file, Mr. Wright?

MR. WRIGHT: Yes.

(The file was handed to the witness.)

THE WITNESS: As I recall, it was favorable.

BY MR. LOPRESTI:

Q In your analysis that you have before you, in the last paragraph, I think, you have some additional information which you have not given to us verbally?

A I do have the statement that the defendant has a good institutional record and was recommended by the prison staff.

Q He had a good institutional record and was recommended by the prison staff?

A Yes sir, that is the statement I made before.

Q The latest psychiatric report was at least not against him?

A No, I would say it was favorable.

Q Now, was this case called to your attention by any particular individual? At the outset, you said that some of these cases were called to your attention by members of the committee, others by the press and newspapers, and so forth.

A No, I cannot recall any particular individual calling this case to my attention.

Q It was just a matter of general information?

A It was a matter of general information, as I can recall, yes.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think I might clarify that to this extent, that a letter was turned over to the Chairman of this Committee by a relative of the victims in this case and it expressed their fears regarding what this man might do because of his past threats. That is what led him to look into the case.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Evans, have you talked to any of the people concerned:

A No, I have no.

Q We are talking now of the relatives of the victim. Have you talked to any of them? Perhaps they were antagonistic rather than fearful. Have you checked to find out whether it was just a natural antagonism?

A I have not done so personally, except that I believe in the file here is a very extensive report from the Pennsylvania State Police.

Q And you did study that?

A I read through it.

Q Let me ask, what is the age of the particular individual?

A He was born in 1897. He would be fifty-nine years old in October.

Q Fifty-nine years old?

A He was fifty-nine years old in October. He had served twenty-nine years and eleven months of a life sentence.

Q Approximately thirty years of his fifty-nine had been spent in prison?

A Very close to thirty years, yes sir. As I stated before, I was unable to find in this file anywhere anything that would lead me to believe there was any improper influence of any kind on this Board for this person.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This was called to the attention of the committee primarily by reason of the fears of relatives of the deceased, wondering why he should have been released, with a background such as his.

SENATOR YOSKO: That is one reason why I asked whether anybody checked to see whether he is in Philadelphia with the Salvation Army at the present time.

THE WITNESS: I might say this in our own defense—

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That was after—

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, it wasn't after, Mr. Lopresti, because the letter from the relatives of the victims came after he was released and they still say that they fear something is going to happen to them. I just wondered since he was released, what his behavior was and whether he was under the proper supervision of any agency.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Will you, Mr. Evans, get a supplemental report of this case from the Parole Board and file it with this committee?

THE WITNESS: I will, sir.

SENATOR FLEMING: Mr. Chairman, I do not know, I am asking for information. We are not here to investigate the judgment of the Pardons Board. We are not here to question their judgment. They have every right to pardon any person they see fit. The only scope of our investigation is to see whether or not there was political influence. I almost think, Senator Yosko, I am not finding fault you understand, but I think we are wasting time with going into whether the man is acting right or whether he is not. That is not any part of this investigation.

SENATOR YOSKO: It is not a part of the investigation, but the reason given for bringing it up was a letter that was received from relatives of the victims in which they stated that they had some fears of what might happen to them because of his release. And I just thought it might be advisable, since the question was raised, to check to see where he is and what he is doing.

SENATOR FLEMING: I was not finding fault with your question. I did not mean that, but I meant that if we go into this in a lot of cases, we can be here for about six months wondering as to whether this man has become a proper citizen or has rehabilitated himself. That is no concern of ours, I do not think.

SENATOR YOSKO: I understand that, Senator Fleming, but the Chairman or somebody opened the door to that kind of discussion by saying that a letter was received from relatives of the victims. What we have to do is to follow through. If you are addressing your remarks to the Chairman as well as to me, you are right.

SENATOR FLEMING: There is no question that they were addressed to the Chairman.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Wright?

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY MR. WRIGHT:

Q Mr. Evans, I notice in your brief here you state Mr. Kugler referred the Board to a penitentiary report dated April 26, 1955 where the defendant was said to be "irresponsible and emotionally unstable," and that the psychiatrist at the penitentiary said at that time he was emotionally unstable. I wonder if you would refer to that report? Is there a report in there dated May 18, 1955?

A Yes, I believe I have the original report.

Q And what is the comment under "Psychiatric report" in the report so dated? What does the entry in the paragraph "psychiatric report" say?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What report are you referring to now?

A Under date of May 18, 1955, Eastern State Penitentiary, under "Psychiatric Report," it says, "No psychiatric treatment is considered necessary."

BY MR. WRIGHT:

Q And what does the psychological report in that same report state?

A "More maturity and stability with advanced age and is able to accept responsibilities. Adequate frustration tolerance level, and religious instruction will aid in adjustment and will offer guidance."

Q What does the paragraph entitled "Summary of Progress" state?

A "This inmate was received at this institution in 1927, and during that time has maintained and established an excellent disciplinary record with consistent improvement shown in attitude and adjustment. All reports are favorable. The inmate has made many attempts toward self-improvement. Since being admitted to this institution in 1932 on a life sentence, this inmate showed some difficulty in adjustment for the first ten years; however, with the gaining of more maturity and understanding, adjustment and attitude have shown definite and continued improvement over the last ten years with subsequent increase in stability. Stability is also in evidence by the vocational assignment for the same job in nineteen and a half years, and savings."

Q Now that is dated May 18, 1955?

A That is correct.

Q Now, can you find a report in the file anywhere dated April 26, 1955?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Kugler referred the Board to a penitentiary report dated April 26, 1955.

MR. WRIGHT: Well, Mr. Chairman, that is the penitentiary report that he was just reading.

THE WITNESS: Yes sir, I have one here dated April 26, 1955.

BY MR. WRIGHT:

Q And what does the psychiatric report in that one say?

A It has none. It has a personality index in which it says he has marked irresponsibility and emotional instability.

Q But there is no psychiatric nor psychological report in that penitentiary report dated April 26, 1955?

A That is correct.

Q Now, do you see any inconsistency which you can point out to the committee between the contents of the report of May 18, 1955 and that of May 23, 1956?

A On the report of May 23, 1956, which is the one I had reference to when I said it was made in May or June, 1956, sometime shortly before the commutation hearing, there is no difference in the psychological report as against April 26, 1955, and there is no difference in the psychiatric report as against April 26, 1955.

Q Then certainly for a period of one year there has been no change in the recommendation of the psychiatric staff or the psychological staff at the institution. Is that correct?

A I am not so certain that that is a fair statement to make. I assume that the—and I may be wrong on this—that the classification summary that accompanies these reports under "Personality Index," I believe that this personality index is a compilation of both the psychiatric and psychological report, and the personality index is where it is noted that he has marked irresponsibility and emotional instability.

Q Do you know when the classification summary was made?

A That is again April 26, 1955, according to the one that is attached to the report of May 23, 1956.

Q Did you study the report of the psychiatrist Dr. Joseph B. Keefer?

A I recall having read it.

Q Dated September 17, 1956?

A I can recall having read it, but I have no definite recollection of its contents.

Q Would you refresh your recollection, and since it is a lengthy document, would you summarize the doctor's recommendation?

MR. KOHN: Mr. Chairman, I do not know what Mr. Wright is driving at, but as far as I am concerned, we allege no irregularities in this case. Now to go over this thing again and go into the different psychological institutional parole officer's reports is only going to waste time.

SENATOR YOSKO: I know, Mr. Kohn, but it appears to me from what I just heard here now that the statement that he originally made and the statement contained in this summary here are at variance as to what was just testified.

THE WITNESS: I don't believe that is the case.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I do not think so. He said the prison report, and the prison report on the personality index does not indicate—

SENATOR YOSKO: It says that he was unstable and irresponsible.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, that is the prison report.

MR. KOHN: That is the prison report and that is what he said. That is what the prison report said.

SENATOR YOSKO: The 1955 report that I have just heard—

MR. KOHN: That is what the prison report said.

THE WITNESS: When I made that statement in my resume, I took the words verbatim form the personality index from the Eastern State Penitentiary. I also stated in my resume that it was changed some thirteen months later, which we have just testified here.

MR. KOHN. Is there any quarrel, Senator Yosko, that it is in the prison report?

SENATOR YOSKO: No, I did not see the report, so I am not going to quarrel about it.

MR. KOHN: What are we trying to prove by wasting this time? When we say that is in the report, it is in the report. There has been a change in the psychiatric report. We are not even saying that the Board was not justified here after thirty-nine years. What we are trying to do is wash the case up because it has been called to our attention, that is all.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Where is that prison report? Where is that prison report?

THE WITNESS: Which prison report?

MR. KOHN: The one that you quoted.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: April 26, 1955.

SENATOR FLEMING: Mr. Chairman, our own counsel has said this was one of the cases that he wanted and they checked. They found nothing wrong with it. I do not see why we are wasting our time on it.

SENATOR SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, I quite agree. I wonder why we are also, but since the case was brought up and since the implication was made that there was some inconsistency in the attitudes of the pyschiatric personnel at the institution, there seems to be the implication that there was an about-face made by them, and the Board therefore had no justification in acting favorably on this application. I want it shown that there was no inconsistency.

MR. KOHN: There is an inconsistency between what he read and the psychiatric report, is that right?

THE WITNESS: I went over the file.

MR. WRIGHT: No.

BY MR. WRIGHT:

Q I have a question which I would like to direct to Mr. Evans, which I think may tend to clarify the situation. You were reading a moment ago from the classification, were you not?

A Yes sir.

Q And apparently the statement which the district attorney made to the Board was gleaned from the classification report, did you not so state?

A I am not certain I understand your question. What statement are you referring to from the district attorney?

Q He stated this remark with respect to irresponsibility, emotional instability, and so forth. That would have been gotten from the classification?

A From the personality index, I think.

Q Do you know, Mr. Evans, when prisoners are classified in the state institutions?

A No, to the best of my knowledge they have a screening program when they are first admitted. I would assume that there was a psychiatric examination or evaluation given periodically; but as to when it is given, I do not know.

Q That is correct. When they are admitted they are classified to determine in which institution they are going to be confined; and subsequently there are, as your files indicate, other examinations given. Is that correct?

A As far as I know, yes.

Q Would the files indicate that the examinations are given as shortly as possible before the petition for commutation is going to be heard?

A I would say so, yes.

Q And there may be no correlation between the findings made at the time of the classification and at the time of application for relief before the Board of Pardons?

A They may be entirely different.

MR. WRIGHT: That is all.

MR. KOHN: He is prepared to go ahead with the next case.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right. Do you have the file here?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

MR. KOHN: Yes, we have the entire file here.

(Discussion off the record.)

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Pending receipt of the files, we have another case here which Mr. Kohn wants to bring before the Board.

DAVID KOHN, a witness called, being duly sworn, was examined and testified as follow on

DIRECT EXAMINATION

THE WITNESS: This is a case I digested, and not Mr. Evans. It is case No. A-3127, the Commonwealth against John Derkacz.

The first application was filed on May 12, 1955. That application is for a pardon. The sentence was $200.00 fine and costs of prosecution, and two nine-month sentences to run concurrently, in the Allegheny Couty Workhouse. The defendant was charged with making a false statement on an affidavit to a nomination paper, conspiracy to violate the election laws, and perjury. He plead not guilty and he was sentenced on April 11, 1942.

The name of the lawyer who defended him was Frank Schwartz, Esquire. He appealed to the Superior Court, No. 146, Pennsylvania Superior 293.

He had a previous record in 1939 for libel, which was nol prossed; a violation of the city ordinance, for which he got five days surety of peace.

This case, I might state at the outset, was before the Board twice and was turned down twice. Of significance in the case is the fact that this man was involved in the violation of the election law with thirty other persons, having fraudulently gotten names of candidates of the Communist Party on the ballot for a general election held on November 5, 1940 by means of false swearing to affidavits and nominating papers; with having committed certain overt acts in pursuance thereof. That is his statement.

The record shows that he went around and got many people to sign these Communist nominating petitions, people who did not know what they were doing. He misrepresented the facts to them. And it is alleged in the parole report that the applicant solicited signatures on behalf of Earl Browder and others; that he took an oath before Hyman Schleisigner, a notary public, who is an attorney in Pittsburgh, whom I know personally, and who has been engaged in defending many Communist-charged persons; and falsely swore that the signatures signed on the petitions were with the signers' full knowledge of the contents.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, Mr. Kohn, there were two applications in this case. They were both for pardons, were they not?

A They were both for pardons, sir.

Q When was the first application filed?

A The first application was filed May 12, 1955, and it was listed for the June sessions of 1955. The second application was filed on February 17, 1956, and was listed A-3126, June sessions, 1956.

Now, when this man applied for a pardon, he had been living in the State of Michigan for quite some time. Numerous letters were received by the Board of Pardons. He was represented by Pearse O'Connor, 719 Plaza Building, Pittsburgh 19, Pennsylvania, before the Board of Pardons.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Kohn, does it give the fee that was paid on this application?

A I did not think that was important. I have not even looked at it, but I will, Mr. Bell.

Yes, the fee on the first application was marked at $250.00 and the fee for the second application was marked at $100.00.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What was the sentence again?

A Nine months; two nine-month sentences to run concurrently in the Allegheny Workhouse. You must remember this is a pardon, not a commutation.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He was out at the time he made the application.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q How much of the nine months did he serve?

A He was out. He had been out a long time.

SENATOR YOSKO: He served the full time?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This is for a pardon.

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes, I understand.

THE WITNESS: I don't know. His application under those questions is not applicable. It could not be because it is a pardon.

The Parole Board attempted to get the Mayor of the City in Michigan and—by the way, the Judge did not oppose this, but said it was entirely a matter for the Pardons Board.

On November 5, 1954, Patrick V. McNamara, United States Senator, wrote to Mr. Derkacz, on his stationery as Senator of the United States, as follows:

> "I would like to take this early opportunity to personally thank you for your efforts in my behalf during this campaign.
> "Our success pleased me as much for the sake of our hard-working friends as for myself.
> "Rest assured that I shall try my utmost to perform my duties in the best interests of all the people of the State of Michigan.
> "Thanks again and with best wishes, I am,
> "Sincerely yours,
>
> "/s/ Patrick V. McNamara,
> Senator-Elect."

That was found in this file, and it is addressed to Mr. Derkacz.

On February 20, 1955, under the letterhead of "Michigan's DYNAMIC 16th Congressional District, Democratic Organization," the following letter is signed by John J. Plas, Chairman, Executive Board:

> "To whom it may concern:
> "This is a letter of recommendation for Mr. John Derkacz, 15035 Telegraph Road, Wyandotte, Michigan.
> "I have known Mr. Derkacz for approximately years and in that period of time have known to be respectable, honorable and above board. He is a happily married man, the father of one daughter with a future that he can only furnish.
> "He has ben a contributor to the Party and has personally helped in our past campaigns. The reason that I am aware of his political activity and contributions is because I have been Chairman of the Dynamic 16th from 1950 to 1952 and secretary for ten years prior to that time. I am at present chairman of the Executive Board.
> "In view of the above exemplary record for the past great number of years, serious consideration should be given his humble request.
> "With the hope that you will give such consideration, I remain
> "Respectfully yours,
> "/s/ John J. Plas,
> Chairman, Executive Board."

That letter was followed by another letter.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Kohn, what was the reaction to these?

A They were all turned down, sir.

Q What?

A They were turned down.

Q Well, if they were turned down, are you reading those cases just to convey the fact that there was some Communism attached to this, and letters were written?

Definitely not. I am reading this for the same purpose that the Attorney General introduced many letters, which were also turned down.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: Mr. Chairman, I would like to interpose here that all the cases which were presented by the Board of Pardons at the last meeting of this committee were acted upon favorably by the Board.

SENATOR YOSKO: Yes.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: No case was rejected by the Board.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Whether it is turned down or whether it is not, it is an indication of pressure being used on any Board, and I think it is pertinent to this inquiry.

THE WITNESS: Shall I go ahead, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, proceed.

THE WITNESS: June 17, 1955, on the same letterhead:

"To Whom It May Concern:

"Mr. John Derkacz, 15031 S. Telegraph Wyandotte, Michigan, is a member of the 16th District Democratic Organization of the State of Michigan. Mr. Derkacz is a hard worker and regular contributor to the Party. Any asistance that you can give to him would be appreciated.

"/s/ Henry V. Herrick, Chairman
16th District Organization."

The next communication is from the Township of Taylor, Supervison, Taylor Center, Michigan:

"To whom it may concern:

"I have been an acquaintance and friend of John and Julianna Derkacz of 15031 Telegraph Road, Taylor Township, Wayne County, Michigan, for the past six (6) years.

"Mr. and Mrs. Derkacz are known in our community as an honest and trustworthy family, their fine Christian character has won for them the respect and esteem of the community.

The Parole Board attempted to get a statement from—and I think there was subsequently an additional request by the Mayor of the City of Dearborn in this case, and the Parole Board was very intent on getting for the information of the Pardons Board data as to the present—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Isn't there a letter in there on the application from the Mayor of Dearborn?

THE WITNESS: I will get it in a minute.

The last application, I think, contains a letter from the City of Dearborn, which was submitted by Mr. O'Connor to the Board on July 27 1956, attention of Mr. Hean, as follows:

"Enclosed herewith please find the promised letter from the Mayor of Dearborn."

On the City of Dearborn stationery, dated July 5, 1956, appears the following letter, signed by Orville L. Hubbard:

"To Whom It May Concern:

"This is to certify that I have personnaly known of

Mr. John Derkacz
15031 Telegraph Road,
Wyandotte, Michigan

since about 1948, during which time he has been known to me to be a citizen of excellent charater enjoying a splendid reputation in this community.

"It is my candid opinion that Mr. Derkacz will faithfully, honestly and loyally serve in any capacity in which he may be engaged, and every consideration extended to him will be genuinely appreciated."

The Parole Board, pursuant to the receipt of that letter, received from the Bureau of Pardons and Paroles of the State of Michigan a report dated May 7, 1956, in which they say:

'It is our feeling in this matter that Mr. Derkacz' sole reason for obtaining a pardon from his previous convictions is so that he will be able to obtain a Liquor License from the State of Michigan Liquor Control Commission under his own name. Since the subject is currently operating a bar and is part owner in this business, but he cannot be a licensee himself. From the information contained in our previous report and what current information we have been able to obtain, it appears that Mr. Derkacz has been respectable and a law-abiding citizen since he has been in the State of Michigan. He is at the present time a respectable and legitimate businessman as far as can be determined at the present time in the City of Wyandotte, Taylor Township.

"The following was received in a telephone conversation with Mayor Hubbard after the above information was dictated:

"In a telephone conversation with Mayor Hubbard this date 5-7-56, Mayor Hubbard stated he knows of the subject. He first became acquainted with him several years ago when the subject operated a gas station in Dearborn. He has had more recent contacts with him in subject's capacity as President of the Ukaranian-American Club in Dearborn, but these contacts have not been extensive. Mayor Hubbard further stated in all his relations with and concerning the subject, he has found the subject to be reputable and reliable."

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Any questions?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: No.

SENATOR YOSKO: No.

BY DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT:

Q Do you know how these letters reached the file?

A I would not know that, Mr. Wright. They are in the file.

Q I notice a number of them were addressed "To Whom It May Concern."

A I think you ought to ask Mr. Hean that. I would not know.

Q You do not know?

A No.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Do you have any other cases here to proceed with?

A I stated to the Board, and I will state again, these were turned down.

BY DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT:

Q The applications were denied in both instances?
A Both times, yes sir.
(Discussion off the record.)
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We want to quit at 1:00 o'clock, because the Senate Caucus meets here then.
MR. KOHN: I would like to get on to Mr. Hughes.
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: How long is it going to take you with Mr. Hughes?
MR. KOHN: I would say at least an hour, perhaps.
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, let us proceed with him, then.
REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, should not the record show that we have spent one hour and fifteen minutes on these other matters and that one of the reasons we went into them is because of a courtesy of Mr. McBride?
DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: No, Mr. Chairman, neither Mr. McBride nor I asked for any interruption of the schedule.
REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I know that.
DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: We are willing to proceed as usual. We don't want any interruption.

J. HAROLD HUGHES, recalled

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Your name is J. Harold Hughes, and you are an Asssitant District Attorney of the County of Delaware?
A Yes sir.
Q Are you familiar with the DeVito case?
A I am, sir.
Q Will you give us the charge against DeVito, the date of the sentence and the Judge involved?
A He was sentenced March 16, 1956, to twenty-three months, on two charges of setting up a gambling house; one occurring August, 1955, and one occurring March 3, 1956. He was found guilty on January 16, 1956, of setting up a gambling house, and conspiracy.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Was that a jury trial?
A Yes, a jury trial. He applied for a new trial, and while that was pending he was arrested again in Linwod, Delaware County; and on March 12, his attorney wrote and stated that inasmuch as he was arrested again, he was withdrawing his pleas, waiving presentment to the grand jury on the second charge, and asked to be sentenced the following Friday, which was March 16
On his first arrest he cursed out the arresting officer and told him that he would be in the racket as long as he wanted to be and that the officer could not stop him; and, of course, he did go out and get in the business again.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Where was he operating from; do you know?
A The first time, in August of 1955, he operated from a restaurant at Third and Welch, which is near the river. He had a phone in the restaurant and a phone under a fictitious name in the basement of his restaurant.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What time was that?
A August, 1955.
Q What town?
A Chester.
There was a break in the water system which flooded that cellar, and for two days he worked out of his home at 603 Lloyd Street, where he had a fellow by the name of—I think it was Green—paying, him $42.00 a week, to take the calls from the cellars.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Green was apprehended at this particular address, was he not?
A He was apprehended August 11, 1955.
Q How many bets did he have on him, and what amount of money?
A One hundred ninety-some bets, totalling $450.00, at 1:30 o'clock that day.
Q In addition to that, was DeVito also operating at his store?
A Not just then, because, as I told you, there was a flood in the streets and his cellar was flooded out.
Q And $448.00 was that day's take?
A Four hundred fifty dollars, something like that.
Q How, in addition to this business that DeVito was in at this time, taking bets and having this employe, was he operating any legitimate business at this place?
A Yes, there was a restaurant there.
Q In addition to that particular business, was he employed anywhere?
A He was Secretary-Treasurer of International Longshoremen's Association at Chester.
Q Was that an active association?
A Yes, it was.
Q Was he getting paid there, too?
A Well, I could only assume that they do pay them.
Q Now, at the time when he cursed the officer and said that he would stay in the business as long as he wanted, where was he apprehended?
A He was called by telephone to appear at the magistrate's office, and then in his application he said he heard they wanted him and he presented himself, but that was because they made a telephone call for him to appear. They knew him. He had been arrested during August of that same year for being in some gambling house; the same year and same month.
Q Did he have a previous record?
A That was the only record that he had, being caught in this gambling house in 1955, for which the magistrate fined him $15.00. He has this item in 1940—Gambling, $10.00. It must be as an inmate of a house.
Q Will you tell us what the sentences were, and the particular number of the term?
A Four hundred ninety-two (492), September Term 1955—Setting up a gambling house; aiding and assisting others to gamble. He was sentenced to eleven months flat in the County Prison, and fined $500.00. Under 494, September Term 1955, he was sentenced to six months at the expiration of the prior sentence on the charge of conspiracy.

Now, the next one was the June Term, 1956, remembering that he waived grand jury and plead guilty in March. That was for bookmaking. The crime was committed March 3, and he was sentenced March 16, the same date as the others, to $500.00 fine and six months flat in the County Jail, at the expiration of the two prior sentences.

Q That gives him a total flat sentence of twenty-three months, is that correct?

A That is right, sir.

Q That would put him within the jurisdiction of the courts of Delaware County for parole, if he wanted to apply there for a parole.

A Definitely it did. Under two years, the local courts may parole.

Q Did he ever apply to Delaware County for a parole?

A No sir.

Q As far as his sentence for the original charge was concerned, how did it compare with the sentence of Caserta for the minimum?

A Well, Caserta's was seventeen to thirty-five. I think Judge Bretherick recalled to you Salerno, which I tried. He was a banker, the same as this fellow whose was fifteen. Judge Bretherick called your attention to Fontaine, who got—

Q How does this man's sentence compare with those? He got eleven months on the one and six on the other. It was seventeen months, just like Caserta?

A It did compare with others of the same caliber of persons and crimes.

Q At the time this case came before the Board of Pardons, will you tell us whether or not Judge Bretherick received a request from the Board of Pardons for his opinion in this matter?

A When I received a copy of the recommendation and opinion, it stated that Judge Bretherick took no position.

Q That was according to the parole officer, is that correct?

A Well, that is what the parole officer said. I called Judge Bretherick's attention to that in a letter and he gave me a letter which he said I may present to the Board.

Q Will you read your letter to him and his letter to you, please?

A "March 20, 1957. In re—Louis DeVito.

"Honorable Arthur P. Bretherick,
Judge of the Court of Common Pleas,
Court House, Media, Pa.

"Dear Judge Bretherick:

"Attached hereto is a copy of the recommendation and opinion of the Board of Pardons in the above case.

"Your attention is particularly called to the following excerpt—

'The trial judge the Honorable Arthur P. Bretherick, gave to the Board no written report but stated to the Parole Investigator that he would take no position in this appeal. The District Attorney wrote the Board that he was opposed.'

"No doubt I will return to the Investigating Committee, and should you have any thoughts concerning this quotation, it is suggested that you write to me and I could present the same to the Committee."

And that is signed by myself.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What is the date of that letter?

THE WITNESS: That letter is dated March 20, 1957. We got notice of the commutation on March 6, 1957. The reply on the Judge's stationery addressed to me is as follows:

"I have before me your letter of March 20th with its enclosure in the matter of the action of the Board of Pardons in the Louis DeVito case.

"A Parole Investigator did call to see me and gave me the impression that he was from the Parole Board. I told him at that time that I did not see what the Parole Board had to do with the matter since they had no jurisdiction, the sentence being for less than two years. I did express my views concerning the Pardon Board, and those views have been confirmed by the action of that Board in the DeVito matter.

"I did not tell the Parole Investigator that I would take no position in this appeal. And I never received from the Pardon Board a copy of DeVito's application for commutation. Nor did I receive from that Board the customary letter requesting my recommendations in the matter.

"I understand that one of the reasons advanced by DeVito was that the sentence was severe because he had participated in some sort of a demonstration at Media. This is absolutely untrue. I never heard of and have not since heard of any demonstration that DeVito participated in. His other reasons are probably as fantastic. Does anyone with common sense believe that I would 'take no position' in an appeal in which such deliberate misstatements were made as in this case.

"Very truly yours,

"/s/ Arthur P. Bretherick."

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let that be marked as an exhibit and made a part of the record. I think perhaps a copy of your letter should also be marked as an exhibit, Mr. Hughes.

Letter dated March 21, 1957, from Judge Arthur P. Bretherick to J. Harold Hughes, Esquire—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 31.

AJP 4/1/57.

Letter dated March 20, 1957, from J. Harold Hughes, Esquire, to Judge Arthur P. Bretherick—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 32.

AJP 4/1/57.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Now, do you know to what extent the Board commuted these two sentences?

A The first one, eleven months. They commuted it to eleven months expiring February 16, 1957. The next one they commuted from six months to one month, expiring March 16, 1957, and the third one was commuted to one day, expiring March 17, 1957; so that he would have served twelve months and one day. However, he is still in jail.

Q Now, in regard to the commutation at this time by the Board of Pardons, when a sentence of this type is commuted, he is not put on probation or parole; and when he has served his time he is released; is that correct when a commutation of this type is granted?

A That is my understanding, there being no maximum sentence.

Q Had he applied for a parole before the courts of Delaware County, would he have been able to have been placed under parole and probation supervision by the Delaware County Courts?

A Yes, he would, because with the twenty-three month sentence, he would have gotten off for good behavior in four months and twenty-two days. So for those four months and twenty-two days, he would be under the parole Office of Delaware County.

Q In other words, with a lesser sentence he cannot be put on parole or probation unless it is done by the Delaware County Court?

A That's right.

Q Now, did you see the reasons given by the Board of Pardons for the commutation?

A Yes, I did, sir.

Q I call your attention to the reasons given that his accomplice was given a suspended sentence, while the applicant received a very severe sentence for this offense and I ask you what comments you have to make as to that?

A Well, Green, the $42.00 a week clerk, was working for DeVito, who was a banker. Green was receiving the bets over the phone from the cellars, and he plead guilty and was a witness against DeVito. And for that reason he suffered only $1.00 fine and costs, which is a usual proceeding anywhere.

Q Now the District Attorney opposed this commutation?

A Yes sir.

Q The Board further gives this reason for its commutation: "The applicant was secretary of the local International Longshoremen's Association at the time of his arrest. He has a minor criminal record and desired to have his name cleared so that he might return to his position as secretary and treasurer of the local Longshoremen's Association."

Do you know whether he has ever returned as the secretary-treasurer of the Longshoremen's Association?

A In September of 1955 was the election date, and he was not a candidate. He was free on bail. And Charles Teddy Scanlon was elected as secretary-treasurer and is presently there. And I call to your attention that the Board said, "They are commuting in order that he may return to that position."

There is nothing in the record before the Board of Pardons on which they could base it. And if he knew it, they knew it from some outside source. And I might call your attention to the application, under oath, where Louis DeVito says that he is the duly elected secretary and treasurer of the International Longshoremen's Association, which is not true.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q When was that statement made?

A This is dated August of 1956.

Q A year after another man was elected to that post?

A That's right.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Kohn, did you read from the reasons given for this commutation a statement that—

MR. KOHN: Well, here it is.

(Handed to Representative Bell.)

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hughes, that wouldn't be an outside source if it is stated in the application.

A It would not be an outside source.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is correct.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He is speaking of the outside source information, about the fact that he can return as secretary-treasurer.

THE WITNESS: So that he may return, yes.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: We don't know that, but in this particular application he said that he was, and the Board could presume by that that it wasn't necessary.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Were there any remarks made by his counsel to the Board to the effect that he could or would return to that post?

THE WITNESS: No sir. His counsel said that he could be reinstated and they would give him a job as a stevedore. That is definitely said in here.

MR. KOHN: I don't want to get into a hassle about it. Mr. Hughes didn't know it, but it was in the confidential file. There is something on it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well let's let our counsel proceed with this. We might upset what he has in mind.

MR. KOHN: Well, Mr. Hughes wouldn't know about that. He said he did not know where the words—

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Did I understand you to say that Mr. DeVito was still in jail?

A Yes sir.

Q You mean he never got out?

A He never paid his fine.

Q He is still in, then?

A Yes sir.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I raise a question here, and I want to read to this Board from the Board of Pardons' application of Louis DeVito, A-3889, January Session, 1957. These are the reasons for granting a commutation, and this is signed by Messrs. Furman, Finnegan and McBride, and Miss Blatt: "Our reasons for making this recommendation are as follows:"

They give the first reason, the second, and the third reason is: "The applicant was secretary of the local International Longshoremen's Association at the time of his arrest. He has a minor criminal record and desires to have his name cleared so that he may return to his position as secretary and treasurer of the local Longshoremen's Association."

And then there is a fourth reason. I would like to call that to the attention of the Board.

SENATOR YOSKO: That could be, I don't know.

MR. KOHN: I want to point out to you—

SENATOR YOSKO: That sort of argument might have been presented during the hearing; I don't know. Did any body check?

MR. KOHN: We have it here. Mr. Hughes wouldn't know anything about it.

THE WITNESS: There was nothing of that in the argument.

MR. KOHN: No.

I might state, to clear up the question, perhaps, that the Parole Board's report to the Board of Pardons indicates that they give, under "Employer," on October 1, 1956, the following, "Agent personally interviewed Mr. Charles Scanlon"—Mr. Hughes had mentioned who is presently secretary and treasurer of the International Longshoremen's Union—"at his office at the above address. Mr. Scanlon stated that immediately upon applicant's release, his job will still be held for him, where he will be employed as a longshoreman at the rate of $2.48 per hour. He will then be elected again to his former job as secretary-treasurer, which he held prior to his incarceration. Mr. Scanlon stated that the applicant had an excellent reputation and was an excellent employe. He has known him since 1934, and stated his reputation while in the employe of the International Longshoremen's Association was excellent. Therefore, they would be more than willing to accept him again in the position he left."

You did not know anything about that?

A I did not know anything about that.

Q Now, Mr. Hughes, this fine was not commuted in this case, was it?

A No, it wasn't.

Q And he has not paid his fine and costs?

A No sir.

Q And he has not, as the Board suggested been able to return to his job as secretary-treasurer?

A No, he is still in jail.

Q Now, what do you think of the Board of Pardons' reasons for allowing a racketeer to get loose so that he can be re-elected as secretary-treasurer of the Union?

A Well, I am not going to say a word about what the Union wants. I am not going to say what the Union can do, or will or should do, but it seems to me the whole matter was merely arbitrary.

Q Did he clear his name as far as his criminal record is concerned?

A No, it can't clear his name.

Q Isn't it a fact that this was originally put on the application as a request for a pardon; or don't you know?

A Yes, it was originally for a pardon, and it was not even listed.

Q That's right. Was it specially listed?

A Yes, when he got a letter dated September 25.

Q When?

A September 25, 1956.

Q What did your files show when the application was filed; on what date was it filed?

A It was the October Session of 1956, but we received a letter on September 25, saying the case will not be listed on the calendar, and that this would be our only notice.

Q And this was a special listing?

A Special.

Q For what date; for what hearing date?

A October 18.

Q Now the rules of the Board of Pardons are that it cannot be listed for two months under usual circumstances.

A I think that is the rule.

Q And this was listed specially for a prior date?

A That's right, sir.

Q Did you receive any reason for the special listing of this case?

A No reason; just the usual letter that it was going to be held, that's all; likewise, the re-hearing was special.

Q Now, do you know when the re-hearing was granted?

A We received a letter on January 3, 1957 as to the re-hearing for January 17, in which they state it, but, of course, it will not appear on the printed calendar that has been distributed.

Q Now, do you know whether or not the original hearing was argued as a pardon or a commutation?

A The application was for a pardon. I know nothing about the argument on October 18. I have neither seen the transcript of the argument, nor do I know anything about it.

Q Did you receive, on January 3, 1957, a letter advising you of the re-argument or the re-hearing, rather, in the re-argument?

A Yes. This is apparently a letter from which I quoted a part. Yes, we received that.

Q Do you know whether Judge Bretherick received any further notice of this re-hearing?

A Judge Brethedick stated in his letter from which I read, and which is part of the record, that he received no notice of it, and I suppose that is neither the hearing nor a copy of the application.

Q Did you receive any copy of the reasons set forth for a re-hearing?

A In the letter of January 3, which I have before me and of which you have a copy sent to the Board of Pardons, it decided to re-hear the matter, and no new nor substantial reasons as required by the Board's rules are stated in the letter.

Q What position, if you know, did the District Attorney take on the question of jurisdiction at the orginal hearing?

A Well, he made a statement in which he thought that apparently the Board had no authority.

Q It was a question of jurisdiction because it was only a twenty-three-month sentence instead of two years; is that correct?

A Of course, I don't agree with that. They both have jurisdiction, according to my thoughts.

Q I think so too, but his position was at that time that the Board did not have jurisdiction, and I think we will agree that they had jurisdiction.

A In my opinion, they did

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q They have concurrent jurisdiction up to two years and the Board has exclusive jurisdiction beyond two years.

A That's right, in my opinion.

Q Do you know whether or not another special listing was given to this case in January?

A Well, it was in the letter which we received dated January 3 as to a re-hearing. They stated it would not be printed on the calendar, but it had been distributed.

Q And that was put on the January 17, Thursday, list, was it not?

A Yes, that was the date it was argued, January 17, 1957.

MR. KOHN: May I have a minute or two to look over my file? If you gentlemen have any questions, would you please go ahead.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Kohn, did you review the file?

MR. KOHN: Yes.

SENATOR YOSKO: Is there any evidence of political influence in the file?

MR. KOHN: I am only bringing out the facts; I am not going to comment—

SENATOR YOSKO: I asked you a question. Just say. yes, or no. Is there?

MR. KOHN: I haven't finished the case. I would not like to comment on it at this time?

SENATOR YOSKO: Well, in keeping with Senator Fleming's statement a short while ago, he said we were here to investigate political influence; and if there was none, why let's not waste too much time on it.

MR. KOHN: I agree with that. I think it is worthwhile that you are hearing the whole case.

Another thing, Senator Yosko, if it may please you, this case received quite a lot of comment. Judge Bretherick quoted on it and made certain comments. I thought it was necessary that we bring it up.

SENATOR YOSKO: All right.

BY SENATOR FLEMING:

Q You said that the fine was not paid. Does the Pardons Board have the right to remit a fine?

A The Pardons Board does have—well, he is expecting it.

Q But they have not done that yet.

MR. KOHN: I will say this, Senator Fleming, that I think it was a very unfair statement that appeared in the newspaper, and I tried to check it down. I tried to find it. I don't know what newspaper it was, but there was a quotation that the fine had been remitted in this case, and it had not been remitted.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q When will his twenty-three months be up?

A The sentence was March 16, 1956, and he gets four months and twenty-two days. And what he does, Senator —he takes the pauper's oath under the Insolvency Act, and that takes three months in procedure, and he will be out at the end of three months from the commuted time.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Well, can he take that oath if he owns a restaurant and has a business?

A The answer would be no. He could not take a false oath.

Q So we are presuming something that may not happen, in view of the fact that he is not a pauper, from what I gather.

A Well, his restaurant is closed.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well, that still doesn't make him a pauper.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: In other words, if he paid his fine today, he would be entitled to be released?

THE WITNESS: Certainly.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q But the fact remains that he is still in the "jug."

A That's right.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q On the commutation he would have been entitled to come out on March 17, is that right?

A Yes.

Q If he intends to take the pauper's oath, then he would have to continue to serve a period of three months beyond March 17th?

A That's correct.

Q Ninety days, I guess, the statute says.

A I am not sure.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Do you know whether that was the reason why he is being kept in?

A There could not be any other reason.

Q There couldn't be any other reason?

A No sir. That's the usual procedure.

Q I have heard the statement here many times that the Board of Pardons takes him to the gates of the prison, and from there on the Parole Board takes over. Now is it possible that after the Parole Board, the prison takes over? They don't put him out; they only take him to the gates. That is my understanding.

A I don't understand that phrase of taking him to the gates.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I also understand that what they meant by that was more or less a phase. They will grant the commutation, but unless they have the proper machinery for sponsorship and for parole jurisdiction, they will still remain in the pentitentiary until that machinery is arranged.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Or if he has done something else in the meantime in the prison whereby the prison itself will hold him.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Does that apply now?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I don't know.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: Mr. Chairman, this, I think, is the confusing element in this particular case: We have been usually dealing with indigent sentences where a minimum is commuted, in which event there is a contemplated parole supervision. This is a flat sentence which is being commuted, and there would be no parole.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Yes, I was just wondering whether the prison—

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: The prison would have no warrant to hold him except for non-payment of the fine. I am not personally acquainted with the file but I agree with Mr. Hughes that that would be the only lawful basis for continuation of commitment.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Wright, as an impartial statement, if Mr. DeVito were being improperly imprisoned, he would have the right to a writ of habeas corpus.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: Certainly.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Hughes, I have a couple things on my mind: Who passes upon pauper's oath applications?

A The judge and the court does.

Q And then if he filed a pauper's oath, it would be up to the judges then to determine whether or not he was a pauper or whether he wasn't a pauper?

A Yes. I might say that follows as a matter of course. I never heard any petition in open court. It just simply follows after three months' time, and it seems to me that the three months are required, because of time needed to either advertise, or time elapsed to file; and if a man doesn't file, he is out at the end of three months as a routine matter.

Q When you say they don't pay too much attention to the determination as to whether or not the person is a pauper, then they are a little bit negligent with those petitions that are filed on the pauper's oath.

A Whether they file them or not, they are out at the end of three months' time.

Q How much was his fine?

A Fifteen hundred dollars.

Q Fifteen hundred dollars?

A Yes.

Q You say Mr. DeVito was a big operator?

A I would say he was a fair sized operator. He himself says that he was a numbers banker.

Q I just want to make the observation that he was a lousy operator and a lousy banker if he didn't have $1500.00 from all of his operations to pay his fine.

A The answer to that is that he just spent about $10,000 on fixing up this restaurant.

Q Then how could he possibly get out under the pauper's oath?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Is the resaurant in his name?

A I don't know that.

Q Should he make a pauper's oath if it turned out to be false, of course, you know he could be held for perjury.

A Yes.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Has it been proven that he spent $10,000?

A No.

Q You are just making that statement?

A I am telling you what the general impression is; that he had a well-equipped restaurant, with fine counters, fine stainless steel equipment which one would presume would cost $10,000.

Q What you are giving us now is your impression of who paid for those improvements.

A I presume he did, yes.

Q Then you are giving us your presumption?

A That's right.

Q But, as a matter of fact you don't know whether he paid for those improvements or not?

A I don't know whether he paid or if someone else did.

Q Then, I go back to what I said before. He was a lousy bookmaker and banker if he didn't have $1500 to pay a fine.

A Well, he has already paid a lawyer for a couple of cases, and he has paid to appear before the Board of Pardons. So I don't know—

Q How much did he pay the lawyer?

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q What does the record show?

A It says he paid him $250.00.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q He got off cheap. How much did he pay the lawyers in the trial?

A I don't know.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Who defended him?

A James Cochlan defended him, and Francis Lord represented him before the Board of Pardons.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hughes, under the circumstances, as you know them now, you would be willing to take back your statement that any information that the Board would have concerning his being reinstated in his position did not come from an outside source?

A I certainly will.

Q You will take that back?

A Why certainly, sir.

Q Now, isn't this case which Judge Bretherick took off on the latest grand jury down in Delaware County two or three weeks ago?

A Yes, this came out just about the time the grand jury was sitting.

Q And he made one of his famous grand jury speeches on this particular case, did he not?

A That's right.

Q Now you say that Judge Bretherick did not receive any notice of the original petition for pardon which was subsequently amended to commutation, I presume, but he did have notice of the petition being presented, did he not?

A His letter states that an Investigator of the Parole Board—and he told this Parole Board man that they had nothing to do with it—

Q Well, if it was an Investigator of the Parole Board, then, of course, he was a little bit out of line in telling the man who made that statement—

A The statement of what he thought of the Board of Pardons?

Q Yes, that they had nothing to do with it.

A The Investigator represented to him that he was from the Parole Board.

Q Yes?

A And he said the Parole Board had nothing to do with it which is correct, of course.

Q I am asking you now, was the Judge wrong in that respect?

A No, he was right.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You are referring to the Parole Board, and not to the Board of Pardons?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: He is saying Parole Board.

THE WITNESS: Yes. The Investigator of the Parole Board, I am saying.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Isn't it a fact that the Parole Board does the investigating work for the Pardons Board, and does not the Judge know that?

A So I learned from the hearings. I never knew it before. None of them ever came before the District Attorney.

Q What?

A I said I learned that from these hearings—that the Parole Board does that work for the Board of Pardons. I did not know it before that.

Q Well, in any event, as a Judge, if either the Board of Pardons or the Parole Board would inquire about a petition being presented to the Board of Pardons, or to any other body, wouldn't that put him on notice; and if the man had his proper credentials, shouldn't he have registered an objection if he had one?

A The Judge says here, "it gave me the impression that he was from the Parole Board." Now if there is a further impression that he was from that Board, but doing work for the Board of Pardons, he doesn't say so here.

Q Well, as a matter of common sense, however, whether he was from the Board of Pardons or from the Parole Board, he was there inquiring about a particular defendant and considering a request for either pardon or commutation?

A I don't know that.

Q Shouldn't the Judge have registered an objection at that time?

A If he made himself as clear as you are saying now, he certainly should have, but apparently he did not make himself clear.

Q And if the Judge felt so strongly, at least strong enough to call it to the attention of the grand jury, couldn't he likewise have called it to the attention of the Parole Board by merely writing and stating that he had not received notice, but he still wanted to register an objection?

A The Parole Board inquiry had nothing to do with the Board of Pardons, so far as Judge Bretherick states in his letter.

Q But I am getting at this point: He knew, apparently, that this was a petition pending with the Parole Board.

A There is nothing in this letter to state that.

Q Well, the Board of Pardons, then?

A Because, if you recall, when he was here two or three weeks ago, he mentioned that case, Louis DeVito case. He mentioned nothing about his being before the Board of Pardons then, and they hadn't given their decision when he was here.

Q But he knew about it at that time, did he not?

A He did not say so here, to my recalling.

Q He brought it up in connection with the Board of Pardon's hearing.

A He brought it up in connection with the severe sentences of others; that was the only time that he mentioned that particular case; not concerning the Board of Pardons having it. Now that is my opinion.

Q Well, you don't think, then, that Judge Bretherick knew that there was a petition before the Board of Pardons?

A I don't think he did.

Q You don't think he did?

A I don't think he did.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q One other question: At the time of sentencing, Mr. Hughes, was there anything presented by his attorney in connection with the fact that this man might have been engaged in political work?

A Well, I wasn't at the sentencing, and Judge Bretherick says it is the first he ever heard of it, in his letter.

Q Do you know whether the same attorney represented the applicant at the sentencing and in his application?

A No, at the sentencing he was represented by James A. Coglan, and before the Board of Pardons, he was represented by Francis Lord.

Q So anything that Mr. Lord argued, his information would have been obtained subsequent to the sentencing? Lord was not there?

A He was not the attorney. I don't know whether he was there or not.

MR. KOHN: That's all.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT:

Q Mr. Hughes, you stated that if DeVito had been given time off for good behavior—and I would like to interject here a subsidiary question to you before I finish that one—to your knowledge, has his behavior been such that he would have been given time off for good behavior, or do you have information on that?

A I don't know whether in the file there is a letter from the Warden or not.

Yes, now wait a minute. His application in the County Jail—the statement is verified by the signature of the Warden and says, "My conduct during confinement has been excellent and have made an honest effort for self-improvement."

This statement is verified by the signature of the Warden of Delaware County, and it is a signature of John C. Gable, Warden, which I presume is the Warden's signature.

Q Then, if he had had some behavior, and had continued to manifest such behavior his sentence, in fact, would have expired; that is his confinement would have expired after he had served eighteen months and eight days; is that correct, reducing his twenty-three-month sentence to four months and twenty-two days?

A Well, it would be eighteen months and three hundred twenty-four days, I think.

Q Eighteen months and three hundred twenty-four days?

A Yes.

Q That would be far in excess of his original sentence.

A The original sentence was twenty-three months.

Q Yes, twenty-three months, less four years and twenty-two days? No, it is twenty-three months, less four months and twenty-two days, isn't it?

A Yes.

Q Well, according to my arithmetic, that is eighteen months and eight days. Does that sound approximately correct to you?

A Yes.

Q Then he would have, we can assume, been released at the expiration of that time, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Assuming his behavior continued good?

A Yes, and his fine was paid.

Q Yes, of course. Well, he has not paid that now. Then his sentence was, in fact, commuted to twelve months and one day by the Board of Pardons, is that correct?

A Yes.

Q But, actually his sentence has been reduced by seven days more than seven months?

A Yes.

Q You don't know, of course, of your own personal knowledge, whether or not Judge Bretherick ever received or did not receive a notice of this hearing?

A I wouldn't know except what he said.

Q Now, what he said and what you said to him in your letter, which, in turn engendered what he said was, of course, before the Board at the time they heard this case, was it? None of that material was before the Board?

A Not according to the notes of testimony, no.

Q You just wrote the letter, I think, on the 20th of March this year?

A Yes.

Q So it could not have been before the Board, and neither could the substance of his reply?

A That's right.

Q That could not have been before the Board, because that would have been subsequent to March 20.

A That's right.

Q Now, did you object to the special listing of this case?

A Oh, no. There wasn't any reason for us to object. They had settled—

Q I know, but you did not object?

A No sir.

Q Did you have any reason to object?

A No real reason, no.

Q You had ample notice?

A Yes.

Q And you were amply prepared?

A Yes.

Q And you were not prejudiced in any way by the special listing?

A No sir.

Q Now, you stated that in the notice of the rehearing that you received there were no new reasons stated for the re-hearing.

A That's correct.

Q But you would not know whether or not any new reasons would have been presented to the Board, would you?

A No, I would have no reasons.

Q You only know what was sent to you, which was merely the notice that a re-hearing was going to be held?

A That's correct.

Q Now, I believe you told us that DeVito had no prior record, is that right?

A I mentioned two small magistrate arrests.

Q Magistrate hearings, but no prior record in the sense that we usually mean it?

A No sir.

Q Do you know whether or not Green had a prior record?

A No, I don't.

Q He received what sentence?

A One dollar and costs.

Q Did you try the case?

A No sir.

Q Now there was some comment made about the Board giving as one of its reasons for the release, for the granting of the application for commutation, that DeVito would be thereby enabled to return to his position as secretary-treasurer of the International Longshoremen's Association, Chester Division.

A Yes.

Q There was an implication that the Board was trying to foist upon the Union a man who had been in jail for some period of time, over their duly elected officers? Now, you would agree, of course—

A I did not imply that they were foisting him on anybody. And if you took that meaning, I don't think it is justified.

Now, in the interchange of ideas, of your thoughts along that line—I would say definitely that I don't imply that the Board was foisting him upon any Union.

Q Right, because, of course, you would agree that the Board has no power over whom the Union is going to choose.

A That's very true.

Q Even if the Board indicated that that was one of its reasons for releasing him?

A Yes.

Q Are you familiar with DeVito's financial circumstances or his domestic circumstances in any fashion?

A No sir.

Q Then all that you told us with respect to the diner, in fact you don't know, and you stated that you don't know that he paid for it?

A That's right.

Q I will go further and ask this: You don't know the value of the improvements, either, do you?

A No sir.

Q Are you familiar with the financial circumstances of Mrs. DeVito?

A No sir.

Q Would you be surprised to hear that she was on relief for a period of time as a consequence of this confinement?

A His counsel at the argument before the Board of Pardons said that she was working in Baldwin's.

Q In the cafeteria?

A Yes.

Q Did he state, do you recall, what the amount of her earnings was?

A He did, $25.00 a week, I think; something like that.

Q Do you recall whether or not he made any statement in connection with her being on relief prior to her position?

A I don't recall any.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: That's all, Mr. Chairman.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Hughes, I understand that Judge Bretherick complained in his charge to the grand jury about the Board of Pardons releasing DeVito and some other people?

A DeVito, I think was the only—yes, he may have mentioned others.

Q But, to the best of your knowledge, it was just DeVito?

A I think so, but it very well could be the other two whom we talked about here.

Q Did Judge Bretherick, in charging the grand jurors, at any time complain about the District Attorney's office of Delaware County recommending commutations or paroles for persons sentenced in Delaware County?

Q He never complained about the judges themselves

A I never heard of his doing that.

recommending commutations or paroles for persons sentenced in Delaware County?

A I never heard of that either.

Q I have a summary here of the cases that came before the Board of Pardons in 1955, from February 1955 to February 1956. If my count is correct of the 53 cases that came here before the Board, the district attorney's office was not opposed to 31 of them, and they involved robbery, sodomy, voluntary manslaughter, rape, burglary, arson and murder.

But the judge never complained about the district attorney's office recommending commutation or pardons in those cases?

Q I have never heard that he did, nor do I know that he should have in any of those cases without knowing each particular case.

Q But he didn't?

A Not that I know of.

Q I will show them to you if you want to see them.

A Unless I knew each particular case, I wouldn't know whether, in my opinion, it was justified or whether it was arbitrarily done.

(The document was handed to the witness.)

BY MR. KOHN:

Q You mean the judge?

A No, the Board's action, the district attorney's action.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Isn't it true, Mr. Hughes, that every case stands on its own merits?

A They sure do.

Q And if the Board of Pardons in the DeVito case thought the commutation was merited, do you think in the light of the record, that Judge Bretherick singled out just one case—

A Well, that was singled out because it was a case where the evidence presented to the Board of Pardons did not justify the action.

Q Well, there are a number of cases there where you can say the same thing because both the judge and the district attorney recommended either a commutation or a pardon and the Board of Pardons turned them down.

A Well, what is your question there?

Q The question there is that you people thought the application was merited and the Board of Pardons did not. Now in this particular case you probably thought it was not merited and the Board of Pardons thought it was merited. So it is just a matter of opinion?

A In these three cases that I am here on, it is not a matter of opinion.

Q You are here on the DeVito case?

A That's right.

In other words, if you take the opinion and reasons, they are not substantiated by the facts at all, nor by the arguments before the Board.

Q And are you contending now that the Board is wrong in commuting the sentence of DeVito?

A Certainly, sir. There was no basis for their action.

Q But would you say you were not wrong in recommending commutations in cases where the Board of Pardons turned them down?

A I would say that we could be wrong, certainly we could be wrong.

SENATOR YOSKO: All right.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Senator, you had here the other day a list of people who were connected with gambling. Do you have it now?

SENATOR YOSKO: I don't have that here. I am having it checked because I was told that some of the people engaged in gambling in Delaware County are Republican leaders of the Republican Committeemen and it reflects that they get light sentences as to others.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well, since you don't have it, and since it was presented to the committee the other day—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I don't want that type of information going into the record now. If you are having it checked, let's have that check speak for itself when we get it.

SENATOR YOSKO: All right. I reserve the right to present the report when it is made available to me.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, may we also have a report for Northampton County, showing how many Democratic politicians get light sentences? If we are going to go into this, let's get the rest of the counties in too.

SENATOR YOSKO: I will tell you what I will do. I will be glad to sponsor an amendment to this resolution to give us the right to do that very thing.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hughes, if, in the opinion of the Board of Pardons, the sentence in the DeVito case was not in keeping with sentences generally handed out in Delaware County for the same crime, especially in view of the fact that you have pointed out this morning there was no long criminal record of gambling; and if, in the opinion of the Board, that sentence was excessive, don't you think that that would be sufficient reason for the Board to grant a commutation?

A It would be if the Board had had something before it upon which it could base that it was an unfair sentence.

My position is in this case that there was nothing before the Board upon which they could make judgment and therefore their findings were arbitrary.

Q Do you think the Board does not know the policy of Delaware County?

A I think they don't, yes sir.

Q You think they don't?

A Unless it is presented to them.

Q Now then, the co-conspirator in this particular case gets a one dollar fine, right?

A That's right.

Q Don't you think the Board is properly considering what is given to a co-conspirator, a one dollar fine against a $1500 fine and 23 months, or whatever it was?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: There was no conspiracy charge.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: There was a conspiracy charge of 66 months on three different counts. And you have a $1500 fine here and 23 months.

Now, if, in the opinion of the Board that is excessive, is it not within their right to commute it?

THE WITNESS: In the argument by counsel it is said that Green plead guilty to bills of similar indictment. These cases are not similar. Green is a little $42 a week clerk, whereas DeVito is a banker.

Now, you cannot compare the two cases as to sentence; or at least, you should not.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Well, certainly the Board did not either because they have handed out a sentence here which was considerably more than one dollar.

A That's right.

Q So the Board did not put him on the same basis?

A No sir, they shouldn't.

Q And they didn't, did they?

A Well, Green was sentenced and they cut the other man down to 12 months.

Q You mean that the Board doesn't know the practices in Delaware County of the courts to sentence and leave them out at the end of two and a half months? Do you think that the Board is not familiar with that policy?

A Right.

Q You think they are not?

A Right.

Q In other words, this is information peculiarly within the knowledge of Delaware County and no one else is aware of it?

A No sir, if that happens, then it should be presented to the Board for their judgment, but they cannot pull it out of thin air.

Q In other words, any information that they have they should not use, unless it is presented in that particular case?

A I don't say that. There may be things which are common knowledge and which no one says is wrong. They can use that, but what you are saying does not exist.

Q You mean it is not common knowledge?

A Right.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well, I think that can be shown later, Mr. Hughes. That's all.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hughes, this other defendant's name was Green?

A Green.

Q Did he receive any other sentence besides one dollar and costs on any other indictment?

A No sir.

Q And did he do any time in jail, pending trial?

A Not that I know of, not that I know of.

Q And was this the only punishment he received, one dollar and costs?

A Yes, he is the one who testified against this man.

Q Was he the one who gave state's evidence?

A Yes.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did Green get caught the second time?

A Not since this time.

SENATOR YOSKO: The record in the Northampton County files since Judge Bartol has been there indicates that every person arrested who plead guilty and is convicted of gambling goes to jail.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: How about the ones who turn state's evidence?

SENATOR YOSKO: There haven't been any of that kind.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Will you give this committee Green's prior record for some future consideration?

A Yes, if there is one.

Q I don't know whether there is or not, but I would be interested in whether or not he had a prior record for gambling.

A I'd be glad to do that.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Did you try the DeVito case, Mr. Hughes?

A No, I did not.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think if my recallection serves me correctly, Mr. Kohn, in the argument before the Board—

MR. KOHN: Well, I haven't come to that yet, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Excuse me, I will let you cover that.

BY DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT:

Q Mr. Hughes, do you know whether or not Green is identified with the labor movement?

A No, I don't.

Q Have you worked closely during membership at the Bar in Delaware County with Judge Bretherick? Do you know him judicially very well?

A I know him, yes, sure.

Q You have worked with him frequently?

A I have been in his court when I was trying cases. I know him socially at Bar affairs and fraternal affairs, I know him and see him, yes.

Q Has he ever expressed to you or in your presence his general attitude toward the labor movement?

A Oh no, no.

Q Do you know an individual by the name of Fred Jack?

A Yes sir.

Q What is his position in Delaware County?

A He is the investigator for the sheriffs office.

Q Are you familiar with the visits which Fred Jack made to DeVito during his confinement in the Delaware County prison?

A Mr. Jack told me that DeVito had sent for him on several occasions, and he went out to see him.

Q What was the burden of their conversations?

A They were endeavoring to find somebody higher than Louis here.

Q In the gambling business?

A Yes.

Q Anything else?

A Thats all they told me.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: That's all.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Hughes, before you leave the stand, what is your opinion of the State Board of Pardons turning loose a man who has been convicted of gambling so he can take a position of trust in confidence in a labor organization?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: We have gone over that before.

A Well, it was implied that I had thought that and I had definitely said I did not imply such a thing. And I would say that any reason that is not right nor fair should not be a reason for turning a man loose.

I have no quarrel with their labor union. I know Scanlon very well. I know others.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q I don't follow your reasoning on this incident between Fred Jack and Devito. Do you mean that DeVito sent for him so that they could discuss an inquiry about finding somebody higher up?

A Yes.

Q Do you think a prisoner would send for somebody to make such an inquiry?

A Oh, that happens, yes.

Q Well, then, I presume if he sent for him, he must have given him some information on somebody higher up?

A Mr. Jack said he did.

Q He sent for him to give him some information on higher-ups and then did not give him anything?

A That's right.

BY DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT:

Q And that was done several times?

A Yes, he said several times.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q One more question: Do you know of any political influence that was used on the Board of Pardons that caused them to commute the sentence of Mr. DeVito?

A I know of no reason why they did it, and they did it, but I don't know what caused them to do it; whether it was political or not. So, the answer is no.

Q The answer is no?

A The answer is no. The only thing political in this was that his sponsor was listed in the application as James J. Connor, Democratic County Commissioner. That's the only thing I know. I know Mr. Connor. He is a fine fellow.

Q And by sponsor, what do you mean?

A In the application form they request the name and address of the sponsor if granted commutation, and then there appears the name of Mr. Connor as sponsor.

Q And what does a sponsor do? I just want to know what you mean by "sponsor"?

A Well, some responsible person who probably will interest himself in the man to see that he behaves and does not get into trouble again. That is the thought I get from that. Maybe the Board has other reasons, but that's the way it appears to me.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Is Mr. DeVito a politcian, by any chance?

A Apparently he is. He says he is.

Q He probably isn't a member of the same party as Judge Bretherick?

A Apparently not, no.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Do you know what his registration is?

A It's supposed to be Democratic, and I feel it is. In fact, I talked with a fellow here the other day about the very fact that he was a Democrat.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I would think he was.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Any other questions?

MR. KOHN: That's all.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT: No further questions.

(Witness excused)

MR. KOHN: I would like to recall Frank Hean.

FRANK R. HEAN, Recalled.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Hean, you are the Secretary of the Board of Pardons?

A Yes sir.

Q I think you have been sworn in previous hearings?

A Yes sir.

Q I show you the application of Louis DeVito, No. A-3885, and I ask you on what date that application was filed?

A That was received by us on the 24th day of September, 1956.

Q And is that the only application that was filed in his case?

A That is the only application I had.

Q Now that is the only application and it was filed on September 24, 1956?

A Yes.

Q Now previous to the time when a man files an application, you make up no file? A man goes to prison or is incarcerated, but at that time you have no file for him, is that correct?

A That's right.

Q So that the first time you had a file for Mr. DeVito was September of 1956?

A That's right.

Q And previous to the time you received the application, you received no money as filing fee with the application?

A The application is accompanied by a $15 fee.

Q Previous to that time, you would have no reason for opening a file?

A That's right.

Q So, the first thing that ought to be in the file on DeVito, on his case, would be the application and the filing fee or some letter of transmittal, is that right?

A Well, we have no letter indicating that $15 had been paid. To keep a book account which shows the—

Q What I am getting at is, the first thing that appears in any particular file on any particular individual is the application or a letter of transmittal, sending such application, or an inquiry concerning the person from some attorney, or the applicant himself?

A Usually they do not write in saying that they want a file. They only send in $2 to get this set of forms. And at the appropriate time they are returned to us, accompanied by a $15 sum of money, check or money order, and we received that in this case on the 24th of September, 1956.

Q And you would then have no reason for having any correspondence with any members of the Board of Pardons previous to the time the application was filed?

A I would have no such reason to my recollection.

Q And that was dated September, 1956?

I show you correspondence from yourself, as the Secretary of the Pardons Board, to all Members of the Board in regard to Louis DeVito, dated September 11, 1956. Is that the right date?

A That was received by us on the 11th of September —rather, I circulated it on the 11th.

MR. KOHN: May I read the letter to the Board?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That would be a matter of 13 days before the application was filed?

MR. KOHN: About 13 days.

Letter dated September 11, 1956, from Mr. Hean to All Members of the Pardons Board—produced, marked for identification and received in evidence as Committee Exhibit No. 33. AJP 4/1/57

MR. KOHN: I will read the letter:

"Commonwealth of Pennsylvania"
"September 11, 1956"

"Subject: Louis DeVito.

"To: ALL BOARD MEMBERS

"From: Frank R. Hean,
Secretary,
Board of Pardons.

"A request has been made to specially list the application of the above named. The applicant was sentenced by the Quarter Sessions Court of Delaware County to imprisonment for 23 months for the crime of gambling. The applicant is requesting a pardon for the offense.

"Ordinarily this application would be listed for November Session. However, as stated above, a request was made to one of the members of the Board for a special listing for the October Session. The October cases are scheduled for hearing on Thursday, October 18, 1956.

"Kindly indicate your vote and return to the Board of Pardons."

"THOSE FAVORING:	"THOSE OPPOSING:
"R.E.F."	"G.B." (9/17—Miss
"H.E.H."	"H.B.C." (Blatt changed (her vote to ("yes".)"

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Now if there wasn't any application filed or wasn't anything on the record, who asked for a special listing of a case that had as yet not been filed?

A All I recall is a man by the name of Lord. Francis R. Lord, wanted the case.

Q What is there in your record to show that?

A There is nothing in my record to show that.

Q Whom did the man speak to that you refer to in your note, that a member of the Board was spoken to by Mr. Lord.

A I have no knowledge of who did right now. I'd like to refresh my memory with some inquiries.

Q How can anyone possibly ask for a special listing of a case in which the application is not filed until 13 days later?

A Well, a man may have gotten this folder and wanted to file it and had to file it on or before a certain day in order to get in.

Q What is there in the case that entitles a man to a special listing 13 days before he is even on file?

A I am not the attorney for Mr. DeVito, but he would have his reasons.

Q What reason did they give you that they wrote that letter 13 days before the application was filed?

A The gentleman called me on the phone, as I recall, Mr. Lord.

Q Will you give me the date of that?

A I cannot give you that.

Q Did you make any notes on that call?

A No sir.

Q Is there anything in the file regarding that call? Do you know who the member of the Board was?

A No sir, I cannot presently recall who it was.

MR. KOHN: That's all.

THE WITNESS: May I just add this. There was some discussion.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Between whom?

A Before the Board that Judge Bretherick never received a copy of this application that I have before me. That is the white copy. His name is here by the trial judge as Arthur P. Bretherick. We had checked it that on the 25th day of September, 1956 there was mailed to Judge Bretherick a white copy of this application.

Now whether he actually received it or not, I do not know.

Q Let's get back to what I am inquiring about. Go back to September 17, which is again six days before this application was filed, and you tell us what happened that Miss Blatt changed her vote as noted by you thereon?

A That is beyond me. She had her good reasons and she is right here in this room.

Q Do you know any reasons?

A No sir, I would have to guess, and you don't want me to guess around here.

Q You don't know why she changed her vote six days before this application was filed?

A I don't know why she did it.

Q Then you still don't know who the member of the Board was who was talked to.

A I have no recollection of who the member of the Board was.

MR. KOHN: All right.

BY SENATOR FLEMING:

Q Is this unusual procedure to especially list cases like that?

A No, when an attorney—and we try to accommodate the members of the Bar of our state—when an attorney would say, I am sending in an application that I want heard for a particular reason, can you give it prior listing, I said I cannot do so without the consent of the Board. The Board meets in executive session. I would give him the date. And in this event, he said, that is too late; will you do me a favor. And I will try to do it, and this is the way I did it. I circulated a notice whether or not the members of the Board were agreeable to a prior listing, that's all, with nothing complicated about it.

Q In the last two years since you have been Secretary, about how many times has this been done?

A Well, Senator, you are asking me again to hazard a guess.

Q Well, approximately?

A Anyone from six to a dozen. That happens, not too frequently, because it jams up our work tremendously so far as detail goes.

Q You would have to have pretty sound reasons for granting it, the Board would?

A Well, I gave you in brief, what he wanted—to have it listed prior to the regular scheduled date, and the Board agreed to it, at least two members did.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Are you testifying under oath that this request was made to you by Mr. Lord?

A Mr. Lord telephoned me.

Q Why do you say in there that the request was made to one of the members of the Board? Are you a member of the Board?

A No, but that may have come through a member of the Board. I know I talked to Mr. Francis Lord, of Media, on the problem.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q I have a question on procedure: If a petition is filed of, say, September 27th, isn't that sufficient time to put it on the January list?

A Yes, yes. There is only a two-month interval.

Q Well, what list was this originally placed on?

A This was originally placed on the October list.

A This was originally placed on the October list. You see we only had the one-month rule then. Then we changed it because about that time it was made a two-month interval instead of one-month, and we were driving to have the two-month interval. Now Mr. Lord did not want it that way.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q How long does it take you to get your Parole Board on a case like that when it is filed on September 24 and your hearing is on the 18th?

A Well the Board on an emergency gave us pretty good service.

Q Was this pretty good service?

A I don't know.

Q You did get your report just about October 2?

A Dated the second. We got it the fifth.

Q Who makes the request to the Parole Board?

A We do.

Q And when did you make that request?

A Well, it must have been prior to the second day of October, but just what date I could not tell you.

Q And how long does it ordinarily take for you to get a report when there is no special circumstance?

A About four weeks.

Q And what was so special about the DeVito case that it had been especially listed and specially investigated and specially heard?

A Well, Mr. Lord who had requested it—and I recognized that as a fair request because I like to help the attorneys of our state.

Q You were helping the attorney in getting a special report from the Parole Board?

A Yes sir.

Q What was so special about this special report?

A I don't know. He wanted it that way.

Q Do you do everything everybody wants?

A Not everything, but everything I can do to help, yes sir.

Q How many other special reports have you gotten in the last six months for any attorney?

A That's a hard question.

Q Well, do you recall?

A Not off-hand, no.

Q Do you recall any six months prior to that?

A I have no recollection.

Q Do you recall any in the last two years?

A Not off-hand. I would have to look over the folder.

Q Well, will you do that and show us how many special reports you have gotten and how many listings were made before the applications were filed and give them to us at Wednesday's hearing?

A I can do that.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Had you ever met Mr. Lord previous to this request?

A I had met him. Well, it must have been a year ago or more that I met him.

Q Is he someone you know or is he a stranger?

A Well, he is an acquaintance, let's put it that way.

Q Did anyone beside Mr. Lord contact you with respect to this special listing?

A Mr. Lord was the only one I talked to, Francis Lord of Media. He has his offices there, I believe.

Q And did you receive any messages indirectly from other people?

A Not to my recollection, no sir.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Mr. Hean, at the time that application was filed, you had a 30 day requirement?

A Yes sir.

Q Now then, if an attorney were to walk into your office, say 25 days before the hearings were scheduled, and you'd tell him that he had to wait for two months, almost, and he said he would like to have it heard before that, would you at that point say, he would have to get a special listing and you would have to circulate it to the Board?

A Yes.

Q And if he set forth some reason why he wanted to have it heard in the next listing, then you would submit that reason to the Board?

A In a round-robin, as I would call it, request for their approval or disapproval.

Q Now do you have anything in your file to indicate that a notice was sent to Judge Bretherick?

A For the re-hearing?

Q Well, anything?

A I have this in my file. This original was mailed to him on the 25th of September, mailed to the courthouse to the attention of Judge Bretherick; whether he actually got it or not, I wouldn't know.

Q Well now, what do you have, just the notation on the original that the copy was mailed, or do you have a carbon copy of a letter?

A No, just a notation on this stamp of the processing of this application in our office.

Q Now if that white copy had not been sent, would it ordinarily remain in the file of the Board?

A It would remain there if we had not mailed it. There would have been one white extra copy in the file.

Q Was there a white extra copy in your folder?

A I cannot recollect?

Q Do you have the folder before you?

A I have the folder before me. It was taken from our files by Mr. Kohn.

Q And is there now an extra white copy in the file?

A Not in this file. And I have no recollection of seeing it around the office.

MR. KOHN: I will state there was none there.

MR. LOPRESTI: There was none there.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Then would you presume from that it had been mailed?

A I would take a very strong position that we mailed it to Judge Bretherick on the 25th of September, 1956. Now whether he got it or not, sir, that is beyond me. Mail does go astray.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: All right, Thank you.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Isn't there a copy of a letter of transmittal in your file?

A No, we put the application with what is inside of it, that we have on that date, with a transmittal form and mail it requesting the judge to express his opinion as to the merits of the application.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q You don't keep copies of the transmittal letters?

A No.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Might it not be a good idea to keep copies?

A Well, you said it. It's just another note that we would have to file and put in here. We are rather short handed, too, Senator.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did you say that Mr. Lord talked to you about this case and filed the application?

A Mr. Lord talked to me over the telephone.

Q Will you read the first paragraph of Mr. Lord's statement before the Board of Pardons on a hearing about October 18, 1956, into the testimony, please? Just read that first paragraph of Mr. Lord's statement addressed to the Board.

A "I have here a copy of the application filed by this applicant which I had no part in filing, and I notice there was crossed out, 'commute my minimum' and 'commute my maximum." That would indicate that he has made a request for a pardon."

Q So Mr. Lord now says everything contrary to everything that you said he said was not a part in filing the application?

A Well, I don't see how he can say it.

Q Well, he said it to the Board of Pardons and he did not have an investigation at that time, did he?

A He said that?

Q It is in the testimony right before the Board of Pardons.

A Yes, there is no question about it.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q You see, however, Mr. Lord's name is signed as the attorney?

A As the attorney.

Q Is that signed or typed in?

A That is typed in. It may well be what he means by preparation is that he did not do the actual typing there. However, I am just assuming that.

Q Well, the application says that Lord was the attorney?

A Yes sir.

Q And Mr. Lord showed up at the hearing as the attorney?

A He did.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q The thing I am trying to get at is, how could Mr. Lord have filed it when first you said he was going to file and then you said he did not file it? Is your memory faulty?

A Your question is a good question. He did call me on the phone. There's no question about that.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Is Mr. Lord present in the room?

MR. KOHN: He is here.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL WRIGHT:

Q Mr. Hean, do you recall what reason Mr. Lord gave you in his testimony for his desiring the special listing?

A He felt—he gave me, this as my recollection—he felt that the family of Mr. DeVito were in straitened circumstances; and that in order for them to get from under the burden that they were carrying, he felt that if we could get a prior listing and the Board would act favorably the DeVito's whole situation would change.

Q In other words, he represented to you that their financial circumstances were so bad that even one month delay would make them virtually unbearable, is that correct?

A Yes sir.

Q And he asked you for that reason primarily, to relieve the financial burden of the man's family, that the man's hearing be accelerated?

A That's right.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is $250 the usual fee in this case?

A That would be a fair fee. I have seen it up to $1500, but not for a gambling case, of course.

MR. KOHN: That's all.

THE WITNESS: The fees have all gone up, Dave, in the last year.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well now, unfortunately there is another Body who wants to use this room at one o'clock. It now being a quarter to one there is no sense in trying to take any additional witnesses today.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: If Mr. Lord is in the room and if his testimony would be brief enough, I would suggest that we hear him.

MR. KOHN: I would object on the grounds that I have a great deal of examination of Mr. Lord. It is going to take a long time and I am not saying this to delay the proceedings.

SENATOR YOSKO: Was he subpoenaed to come here?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He, no doubt, was called by the Board of Pardons.

MR. KOHN: He was called last week, and I am prepared to proceed.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: What is your schedule?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Our schedule is to recess now until 10:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, at which time we will finish this and take up again other matters. I cannot definitely state yet whether or not Darcy will come up because we will wait for an answer from several witnesses at that time. Perhaps we will have to contact them this afternoon and find out.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Well, we will continue on this particular matter on Wednesday morning?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes. And if the other witnesses cannot get here, we will them proceed further with Mr. Evans or other cases that we have.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I just want to inquire for the purpose of allowing Attorney General McBride to call witnesses on behalf of the Board on Wednesday.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: When we finish, it is my understanding that when our presentation of the DeVito case is completed on Wednesday, then they will be given their opportunity to put on their witnesses in the case.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Thank you.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: And Mr. Finnegan, whom we did not have time to put on the other day, will be available.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, we will finish with DeVito and then we will have to take up the question of the others, because depending upon our witnesses in the other case, we have to schedule ourselves on that. We are not going to deny anybody the right to be heard during the course of this hearing. I want that strictly understood. However, sometimes we just are blocked off a little bit.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: But you remember, Mr. Chairman, you were talking specifically; you and I and Senator Scott, about the fact that we allowed a day and it took much longer to present our case than we had anticipated. And I had said we were going to call Secretary Finnegan and I thought that the three of us agreed that we would follow through before going on to the Darcy case.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Unfortunately, we sometimes find ourselves in the same jam. We will try to work it out to everybody's satisfaction.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I had asked you to schedule six or seven cases for hearing. I would ask that they be scheduled before the Darcy case is heard, not that I care whether you hear the Darcy case.

Do you intend to reply to that, or shall we have a committee meeting on it?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I think we should have a committee meeting on this and further program our schedule on this, Senator. Certainly we are going to hear them. We are not going to deny you the right to have those cases heard.

We will now recess until 10:00 o'clock Wednesday morning.

(Whereupon at 12:45 p. m. the hearing recessed until 10:00 a. m., Wednesday, April 3, 1957.)

I hereby certify that the proceedings and evidence are contained fully and accurately in the notes taken by me during the hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee to Conduct an Investigation of the Board of Pardons, and this is a correct transcript of the same

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, before we begin this hearing, I just want to say that I am a little bit disturbed by a newspaper story appearing in the Philadelphia Inquirer dated Wednesday, April 3.

The headline reads, "McBride Reported Pushing Witkin for New Judgeship." It says, "Attorney General Thomas D. McBride was reported today to have obtained a commitment from Gov. George M. Leader to appoint former Republican County Commissioner Morton Witkin as a Philadelphia judge if the Legislature creates Common Pleas Court No. 8.

"The plan to appoint Witkin, former Philadelphia GOP 13th Ward leader, by the Democratic Governor on the recommendation of his chief legal officer, was said to have been approved by Representative William J. Green, Jr., chairman of the Democratic City Committee, but as yet has not been given the blessing of Councilman Wilbur H. Hamilton, Republican organization head.

"The official connection between McBride and Witkin has not been disclosed, but it was regarded as significant that both represented David Darcy, convicted Feasterville Inn killer, who was spared from the electric chair by the Governor on recommendation of the State Board of Pardons.

"McBride represented Darcy during a new trial plea before the State Supreme Court, while Witkin was co-counsel with J. Dress Pannell, personal attorney for Matthew H. McCloskey, Philadelphia contractor and Democratic politician, during the killer's successful fight before the all-Democratic Pardons Board to have his death sentence commuted to life imprisonment."

It goes on to talk about the Pardon Board and prospective witnesses. The thing that disturbed me was that we are conducting these hearings, and eventually the Darcy case will be called. As I understand it from our counsel, Mr. Witkin will be one of the witnesses. It appears to me that the general public, in reading this story, would gather the impression that there is some sort of deal in the making that would reflect upon the testimony of Mr. Witkin. I do not know what he is going to testify to, but the public might gather that it would reflect upon the testimony that Mr. Witkin might give before this Board.

It also seems to me that this story is an effort to discredit the Attorney General of Pennsylvania, and I am assuming, because he is the Attorney General and one of the officers in the Philadelphia Bar Association, and in my opinion, because of the implications in this story, insofar as they are reflecting upon the hearings that are being conducted here today, I think it only proper that we call Mr. McBride, who is here, and have him testify as to the substance of this story. I want to know whether he ever talked to Governor Leader about appointing Mr. Witkin. I want to know whether he ever talked to Mr. Green or Mr. Hamilton or anybody else about appointing Mr. Witkin as a judge in Philadelphia or in any other capacity.

Mr. Chairman, I now request to call and place under oath Attorney General McBride so that we can ask him a number of questions relating to this story.

Mr. McBride, will you take the stand, please?

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I have no objection to the Attorney General testifying with regard to the matter that you have outlined, Senator. I also feel that, if you are going to comb this particular story which you read in the paper, from what source they got this information I don't know, that should the author of that article also wish to testify as to the source of his information, he should also be given like privilege.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Perhaps he should be given an opportunity first, even before I testify.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: If he cares to disclose under his newspaper immunity, yes.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I suggest that the proper manner would be to give Mr. Miller the first opportunity.

SENATOR YOSKO: If Mr. Miller wishes to testimy, I suggest that he take the stand and we administer the oath and ask him some questions.

MR. MILLER: I am not taking the stand. The story says that Mr. McBride says he had nothing to do with it. If you read the story, why don't you read it all? I am not going to reveal my source of information.

SENATOR YOSKO: I said there is an implication in this story.

MR. MILLER: You can imply all you want to. Mr. McBride's position was defined in the story.

SENATOR YOSKO I said there was an implication that there was some sort of deal on that would reflect on the testimony that might be given by Mr. Witkin. I understand, Mr. Miller, and I am your friend, but it reflects adversely on this Committee.

MR. MILLER You are just trying to find out my source of information, and you cannot make me disclose it.

SENATOR YOSKO: If you don't want to, you don't have to; but I want to ask Mr. McBride.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He can take the Fifth Amendment if he wants to.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I do not think this immunity comes within the Fifth Amendment. He has his rights the same as an attorney or a doctor has.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:I don't think that is so. I don't think anybody has a right to lie.

MR. MILLER: Your position was defined in there.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Untruthfully.

SENATOR YOSKO: Will you take the stand?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I would be delighted to take the stand.

MR. KOHN: I don't think Mr. McBride need be sworn.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Thank you very much.

MR. KOHN: I would expect you to do the same thing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I would do the same thing, but I would prefer to be sworn.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I would rather get this matter cleared up first in the other direction generally, if I may.

Would you care to be sworn, Mr. Miller?

MR. MILLER: All right.

. . . JOSEPH H. WILLER, having been duly sworn was examined and testified as follows . . .

CHAIRMAN TOMKPINS: Let us get Mr. Miller's questions and answers here and get a proper record made on it.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q. Mr. Miller, in your story under your by-line appearing in the Philadelphia Inquirer, Wednesday morning, April 3, you state that Thomas D. McBride was reported to have obtained a commitment from Governor George M. Leader to appoint former Republican County Commissioner Morton Witkin as a Philadelphia judge if the Legislature creates Common Pleas Court No. 8. Will you give this Committee the basis for that statement?

A. I can't give you the basis for it because I won't disclose my source of information. As a newspaperman I respect the confidence placed in me. You have no right to ask me for my source of information.

Let me explain this. You regard your Committee discussions as sacred, and a newspaperman regards his source of information as sacred. You never disclose what goes on in a Committee meeting, and I have the same right as you do to protect my source of information.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: That is my understanding of the law.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is not my understanding of the law.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q. I am not questioning your right to write stories, but when they reflect upon the hearings that are being conducted here in connection with this investigation—

A. I have no intention to reflect on the hearings whatsoever.

Q. We must properly inform the public. This is either true or it is not true. If it is true, we ought to know because we can be guided accordingly when the witnesses that you named here in this story come before this Committee. I am going to ask you now, Mr. Miller, would your answer be the same in connection with any questions connected with this story?

A I am not going to reveal my source of information. So long as you proceed along that line, and you can all you want to, I will not reveal my source of information to you or anybody else, not even my publisher, and I never do.

SENATOR YOSKO: I have no further questions.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Do you have a source of information on this story, or is it conjecture?

A I certainly do have a source—you mean on that story?

Q Yes. Or is it just a matter of conjecture on your part?

A No. This is from a responsible source, a source I regard as responsible.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I wish to state that I am in accord with the opinion that Mr. Miller's information is a privileged communication, and I think the Attorney General will concur in that also.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes. I don't think that is the law of Pennsylvania and the law of the United States. It is very clear on the immunity of newspaper reporters.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, that question is not being debated. He can either answer the question or refuse to answer it. Now he refused to answer it so far as I am concerned.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: He has claimed his immunity. He hasn't refused to answer it. He has claimed his immunity. That is as far as we can probe into it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I had some specific questions I would like to ask him, and if he claims his immunity, all right. However, I would like to ask him specific questions.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: On this subject now?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Sure.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask a question on the question of immunity. Does the immunity apply only to the source of information and are we permitted to ask questions regarding the information itself or where it was obtained, whether it was in Harrisburg or some other place, and is the immunity limited specifically to the individual who gave the information? Are we permitted to inquire into other matters?

MR. MILLER: Why didn't you read the whole story where it presents Mr. McBride's position?

SENATOR YOSKO: I will let Mr. McBridge explain his position when he takes the stand.

MR. MILLER: Why didn't you read the whole story?

SENATOR YOSKO: If you want me to, Mr. Miller, I will.

MR. MILLER: Why didn't you read where Mr. McBride's position was explained in the story? Why didn't you say we presented both sides?

SENATOR YOSKO: I will read the whole story into the record and will call Mr. McBride and let him explain for the record what his position is.

MR. MILLER: I called Mr. McBride. I presented his position of it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yesterday?

MR. MILLER: I called you the other day.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: About a week ago.

MR. MILLER: I wanted to confirm the story further.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You didn't get it confirmed. You got it denied, didn't you?

MR. MILLER: From you.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

MR. MILLER: And we so said.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Now, is it a man or woman who told you?

A I am not going to tell you whether it was a man or or woman.

Q Did you talk to the Governor of Pennsylvania as to whether or not he had made such a commitment?

A He is an interested party. Is he going to be allowed to cross-examine me?

Q Why not? Do you object to that? Are you scared?

A I am not scared. You can't try your criminal courtroom tactics on me. I have a right to protect my source of information.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Lopresti, what was your question again, please?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: My question was whether the privilege to be granted the witness was to be restricted to the source of information or does it go to all matters in connection with the story. If there is to be any examination or cross-examination, we should know the limits within which it must remain.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: My understanding of the immunity of a newspaper man is the protection of his source of information and other matters relating to any articles appearing in the press. If I am wrong in that, I stand subject to correction.

SENATOR YOSKO: May I say this, Mr. Chairman? I think Mr. Miller is one of the best reporters, one of the hardest working reporters in the Capitol newsroom. However, if Mr. Miller wanted to write a story on the appointment or proposed appointment of Mr. Witkin as a judge or in any other capacity, he could have written a separate story on it without bringing in the Darcy case or any other case that is to come before this Board. It could have been a story in itself, without any reference to the activities of this Board or the Pardons Board or any cases that come before it. Since it was connected, there is a reflection upon the witnesses and upon the Board, the Attorney General of Pennsylvania, upon the Governor, and it is misleading to the public. I think the public is entitled to a clarification on it.

Since the Attorney General is a principal, he is here, and I want to get his version of it. I want to know whether he conferred with the Governor on the appointment of Mr. Witkin. I want to know whether he talked to Mr. Witkin about it, about an appointment as judge or in any other capacity. I want to get all the facts so that they can be properly reported to the people.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I want it clearly understood that Senator Yosko's views on what a newspaper can write and cannot write are not those of this member of the Committee, meaning myself, because the newspapers of Pennsylvania are going to write what they please, when they please. When we have a Committee such as this endeavoring to tell the newspapers what to write, we have a threat to the free press, and I do not concur in Senator Yosko's remarks as to what any newspaper, whether it is the Inquirer or whether it is the Daily News or any other paper, should write. They are answerable to libel suits if they print falsehoods, but as long as we have a free press, the publishers will write what they want to. I don't think that I want to be interpreted in this hearing as saying they should do otherwise.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I don't question the right of a newspaper to write stories; but I believe they should be based upon authentic, factual in formation. When they implicate someone, the persons that are implicated, especially in an investigation such as this, should be given the opportunity to present their version of it to either corroborate what was printed or to deny what was printed, because it does have some bearing on the witnesses that are to appear here and it does have some bearing on the participation of Mr. McBride in these proceedings, and I want to get the question cleared up before we proceed further.

MR. MILLER: Let me ask you a question, Mr. Yosko, if I may. May I ask you a question?

SENATOR YOSKO: If you want to make a statement, you can make a statement.

MR. MILLER: No. I want to ask you a question. You have been asking me questions. I have no counsel to ask questions for me.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This Committee does not propose to make itself an inquisitor into what newspapers publish nor does it intend to call that particular paper before this Committee every time some statement is made that does not please this Committee or some member of it and try and censor what they have done or to try to dictate to them what they can or cannot publish.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I did not call Mr. Miller this morning. Mr. Chairman, I called Mr. McBride, and it was at your suggestion that we—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You are still trying to make—

SENATOR YOSKO: It was at your suggestion that you give Mr. Miller the same opportunity to testify here as we were going to give Attorney General McBride. Mr. Miller is sitting in the chair that he is sitting in right now because of a suggestion made by you, not by me.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Still, your original inquiry was with reference to publication of a newspaper article and remarks, and what I said still stands.

SENATOR YOSKO: They can stand, but I just want to know whether Mr. McBride, who is a participant in these proceedings will be able to testify as to whether or not the facts indicated in that story are true insorfar as he is concerned.

Now, if Mr. McBride was not a participant in these proceedings, this question would not have been raised today. However, he is a participant.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, to set the record straight, I don't think that it is proper that, when a newspaperman raises his immunity as to the sources of his information, that reflection should then be cast upon him in any manner to discredit him, because where any newspaper reporter in this State Capitol or elsewhere who would feel free to reveal the sources of his information, that newspaper man would not be worthy of his salt. I want to state that I respect a newspaper reporter who will stand up and tell this Committee or any other committee or any judge that he respects the sources of his information and that he will stand on his immunity.

SENATOR YOSKO: There is no one here, as I said before, who is trying to force Mr. Miller to divulge his source of information, and I repeat what I said a moment ago. Mr. Miller is sitting in the chair that he is sitting in not at my suggestion but at the suggestion of the Chairman of this Committee.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The entire inquiry, however, with reference to a newspaper article and an inquisition into which I don't think this Committee has a right to inquire into was brought up by Senator Yosko. Mr. Miller has declared his immunity and he is excused at this point.

(witness excused)

THOMAS D. McBRIDE, Attorney General, State of Pennsylvania, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I would like to make a statement that Mr. McBride is being called by Senator Yosko, and if Mr. McBride wishes to testify voluntarily, it is all right with us.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am delighted to testify voluntarily and freely.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. McBride, did you read the story in this morning's Philadelphia Inquirer?

A I did.

Q Did you at any time discuss with Governor Leader the appointment of Morton Witkin as a judge or in any other capacity with state government or any other government?

A This story has to do with my having discussed with the Governor the appointment of Mr. Witkin as a Philadelphia judge if the Legislature creates Common Pleas Court No. 8. I had no discussion with the Governor or with anybody elso about that subject.

Q I know you just made a broad statement, but did you discuss the subject with Mr. Green, the Chairman of the Democratic City Committee?

A Never.

Q Did you discuss the situation with Mr. Hamilton, the Chairman of the Republican City Committee of Philadelphia?

A Never.

Q Did you discuss this situation with any officer of the Philadelphia Bar Association?

A Never.

Q Did you discuss the subject with Mr. Witkin?

A Never.

Q Is there anything that you would like to say about it?

A Yes. This article was written by Mr. Miller with a quite obvious attempt to discredit Mr. Witkin as a witness when and if he appears before this Committee. That is why I think that it is an important matter to be heard by this Committee. If Mr. Witkin were not going to be a witness before this Committee, it would be of little consequence if Mr. Miller told his hateful, malicious lies about me, but since Mr. Witkin is going to appear as a witness before this Committee and since it appears also that Mr. Miller is afraid he will tell the truth, he is seeking to discredit in advance by indicating that there is some unholy agreement in which Mr. Witkin is part and in which I also am a part.

There is not the slightest justification in fact or even in rumor for Mr. Miller's malicious, lying, hateful article in today's Inquirer.

It says, "Asked for comment on the reported judicial appointment for Witkin, McBride said today he had a 'high regard for Witkin as a lawyer,' but had given no consideration to recommending the former Philadelphia ward leader for the bench if a No. 8 court was created."

The only time Mr. Miller ever told me of any such rumor was approximately a week ago, when I told him that there was not the slightest foundation for it; and in the ensuing conversation I did say that I thought that Mr. Witkin was a good lawyer. But I assured him that there was nothing to it, and he said, "that is the rumor." He did not say to me that any person had told him. He did not say that any person in whom he had confidence had made any such statement.

The whole thing has been created out of Mr. Miller's mind and solely with an improper and malicious purpose of influencing the course of the proceedings before this Committee. Of that I am convinced as much as I am convinced of anything. It is an entirely improper attempt to influence this Committee's judgment and the public acceptance of what is going to happen before this Committee.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Attorney General, was Mr. Miller's inquiry of a week ago the first indicatiion that you had that there was even rumors of Mr. Witkin for judge?

A The first and only. No other human being has ever suggested to me that it was even rumored. He called me on the telephone and said, "There is a rumor around that you are plugging for Mr. Witkin for No. 8 Court." I said, "There is nothing to it." As a matter of fact, I don't even know, Mr. Bell, as of this moment, whether there is a bill pending in the Legislature to create a No. 8 court. I had no conferences with anybody. I have made no recommendations, commitments. I have not even discussed the matter with a living human being on this earth.

Q. Subsequent to Mr. Miller's inquiry, the reason my attention was taken away, Representative McCormick in the back of the room says there is such a bill in the Legislature.

A. I accept that statement. I didn't know it.

Q. Sir, after the conversation did you make any inquiry on Capitol Hill concerning whether there was discussions of Mr. Witkins for this appointment?

A. No. Frankly, I dismissed it as a malicious question of the kind that Mr. Miller has put to me since I came up on Capitol Hill.

MR. BELL: Thank you, sir.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q. The views you have expressed here this morning are entirely your own?

A. Well, I don't know whose else they would be. I hope that they are shared publicly, but they are my own.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well, thank you.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I don't want to get into any long discussion, but I would like to read into the record some remarks which appear in a news item under the name of John Cummings of the same Philadelphia Inquirer, appearing on April 2, 1957.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Lopresti, what are we to gain by this? We put those same remarks in the record yesterday in the House of Representatives. I thought the matter was fully disposed of.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: It is now a matter before this Committee, and I think it should appear. It is just one short statement. That statement is: "Unless the signs of the times are amiss, an effort will be made by Attorney General Tom McBride and minority Democratic members of the investigating committee to shout down any serious effort to get the facts in the Darcy case."

I want to state at this time publicly that this is one member of the minority committee who will not shout down any witness or any attempt to get all of the facts in the Darcy case. The only time I will shout is when any of the facts are trying to be concealed, if such a case should present itself.

SENATOR YOSKO: May I say that you express my sentiment as well.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let us proceed with the hearings.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. Chairman, I see my good friend John Cummings back there. This is what he said about me: "The loud-mouthed diversionary weapon employed by Senator Yosko and others is intended to smother the Darcy case under a blanket sound . . ." I just want to say to you that I talk loud once in a while because your colleague, Joe Miller, and some of the other reporters say, "You don't talk loud enough."

Mr. CUMMINGS: Did you see the April 1st phase of that story?

SENATOR YOSKO: I just saw this for the first time this morning.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, it is now 11:00 o'clock and we are 45 minutes late in starting this hearing.

Diversionary tactics are certainly not helping the progress of this hearing.

. . . ED FRANK HEAN, previously sworn, recalled . . .

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q. Mr. Hean, will you explain to the Committee what led to Miss Blatz's change of her vote on—

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Which case are we on, Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: Still on the DiVito case.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q. You will recall that you testified that Miss Blatz changed her vote. I think it was about 6 days after that circular had passed. Do you have anything in your recordse to show why or how or when?

A. No. I only have a hazy recollection, which I wouldn't like to express, because I may be in error.

Q. Did she call you and tell you to make that change on your records?

A. No. I went down to her.

Q. What made you go down to find out whether she had changed her—

A. Because I was informed that she was changing her opinion.

Q. Who informed you?

A. The Lieutenant Governor.

Q. Then, on January Sessions of 1957 this DiVito case again got a special listing, did it not, 55-A?

A. Yes.

Q. And pursuant to your duties as secretary to the Pardons Board, you distributed the sheets containing the information for their files, did you not? I show you a sheet which is the usual hearing sheet, which each member of the Board and yourself put in your folders. Is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Under "comments," does this not appear: "The applicant changed request from pardon to maximum on 12/11/56"?

A. No. I believe—but I believe he informed me. It does not appear on our records.

Q. I ask you does it appear here (indicating)?

A. Yes.

Q. When did he inform you prior to 12/11/56 that he was changing his request for a pardon to a commutation to the maximum?

A. I cannot give you a precise recollection.

Q. Well, it must have been before then?

A. It was before then, naturally.

Q. The sentence reads further, "The Board had voted 3-1, but had reconsidered a change in question to maximum." When was that?

A. That, I believe, was at the December—

Q. Will you refer to it, please, in your minutes? What brought about that particular vote? I mean what was before the Board at that time?

A. Why, the request for the rehearing and for the January—

Q. That must have been before 12/11?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you find that for me, please?

A. You will not find it in here.

Q. Where will I find it?

A. You will find it in the minutes for the December meeting, which have not been made available to me as yet, or to the members of the Board.

Q. What date in December would that be?

A. I would have to take a long guess, and I don't like to do that.

Q. Just take a short guess.

A. It was before then.

Q. Before December 11?

A. It was before the meeting.

Q. It was before December 11; it had to be because you considered it; is that right?

A. Yes, before December 11.

Q. Isn't it a matter of fact that you didn't get a request for a change in the factual situation, or a request from pardon to commutation until December 27, or 16 days after that?

A. I know that was some—at the meeting in October, where they were requesting a pardon, the applicant was requesting a pardon, the hesitation of the Board so indicated to the applicant's attorney that there should be a change, that the Board was certainly not going to go along with a pardon.

Q. Can you find that for me?

A. No, I can't.

Q. Wasn't testimony taken?

A. Yes, by a stenographer, which is a stenographer out of the House of Representatives.

Q. If what you say is true, it should be in there?

A. Yes, That is the impression I had.

Q. But you are not able to find it?

A. I—

Q. You are not answering my question.

A. I can't very well.

Q. I ask you why you stated in there that there was a change asked for by the attorney, Mr. Lord as of 12/11/56 from a pardon to a maximum, whereas the letter from Lord says that you didn't receive such a request until December 27, 1956, or 16 days after your records show.

A. That is correct.

Q. What was the special consideration in this case again that it had to have special action? Did Mr. Lord call you again?

A. He may have. We have had several telephone conversations.

Q. So this is twice in this case that you have done the same thing?

A. I have been in conversations.

Q. There is nothing in the records or your minutes or any place in regard to how this came about?

A. No, I don't believe there is. No. Mr. Kohn.

MR. KOHN: That is all.

CROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q. Mr. Hean, were there two votes in favor of rehearing, without that of Miss Blatz?

A. I so understand. I so recognize that there was. That is my recollection.

Q. Then, her changing her mind and voting for a rehearing did not affect the fact that a rehearing would have been granted anyway?

A. That is correct.

Mr. KOHN: It wasn't a rehearing, Mr. McBride. We are talking about the orginal hearing.

THE WITNESS: The only hearing was a special listing.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Special listing?

MR. KOHN: Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q. Well, the rule is the same on a special listing or a rehearing, isn't it?

A. That's correct.

Q. That is a special hearing or rehearing will be granted, whichever is applicable, upon the vote of two out of the four?

A. That is correct.

Q. So her vote was not controlling in that?

A. Not controlling, as I understand; but she desired to have it changed.

Q. Now, at the first hearing, it is correct to say, is it not, that doubt was expressed of the jurisdiction of the Board of Pardons to act upon a commutation on a case where the sentence was less than two years?

A. That is correct.

Q. And at that hearing, the first hearing, because of that expressed doubt on the part of the Board of Pardons, Mr. Lord requested a pardon?

A. That's right.

Q. And the Board acted upon the assumption that a pardon was within its discretion but that a commutation was not within its discretion, since a parole could have been granted by the lower court?

A. That is correct.

Q. That, however, is not the law.

A. I understand it not so to be.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q. And Mr. Cohen so advised you, or didn't that question come up?

A. Well, Mr. Cohen didn't advise me—you mean did Mr. Cohen advise me at that time?

Q. Yes. You are testifying to it. Where did you get the information?

A. It was discussed as to the jurisdiction of the Pardons Board in handling sentences, flat sentences, less than two years.

Q. What did Mr. Cohen say about it?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Here is the testimony.

MR. KOHN: I can get the testimony. Just let him answer the questions.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You don't want him to answer from his recollection if there is testimony on the point, do you?

MR. KOHN: You asked him questions. You didn't put the testimony in.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I:f you don't want to put the testimony in, all right.

A. I am now going from recollection, and Mr. Cohen is a very competent lawyer, as you know.

Q. I don't doubt that.

A. And he was giving up his thoughts on the jurisdiction of the Board in cases of that nature.

Q. And isn't it unusual that you should have two special listings of hearings without anything in the file at the time that they were considered by the Board?

A. I would agree with you, it was unusual, yet, but not irregular. The Board is independent constitutionally—

Q. The Board can do as it well pleases, can't it?

A. That's right.

Q. It can set its own rules, can't it? It does not matter whether it is a murder case or lottery case or gambling or what?

A. They can set it because it is an independent constitutional body.

Q. And the fact that it was in Delaware County had no significance in this matter?

A. None that I know of.

Q. And the fact is that Mr. Lord called you and you didn't hesitate to call the Board to have it act on the matter?

A. When any responsible attorney called me, I gave him due credit.

Q. You give me the name of one responsible attorney for whom you have complied with on such a request in the last six months?

A. I cannot give it to you.

Q. Can you do it for the last year?

A. I cannot give it to you. You are asking me questions on the basis for which I would have to go over the books.

Q. I am asking you on the basis that you would do the same thing.

A. I would do the same thing for any responsible attorney.

Q. In the last hearing I asked you to dig up such a case like that for me. Have you been able to do that for me?

A. No, I have not.

MR. KOHN: That is all.

RECROSS EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q. Now, refer not to your personal recollection, but straighten us all out on whether or not a statement was Thursday, October 18, 1956, on the question of jurisdiction of commutation?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. McBride, for the purpose of the record, will you identify the document you are pointing to?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I identify the document as the Board of Pardons, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, transcription. It doesn't say transcript, but that is what it is. It covers pages from 1 to 230 under the imprint of E. E. Moyer, P. O. Box 1126, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and it shows that it is the stenographic report of the October Sessions, Board of Pardons, taken in Supreme Court Room, main Capitol Building, Thursday, October 18, 1956, 9:00 a. m., showing who was present, and then on page 1 to 9, under the DiVito case, I will ask him to read from there.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q. Will you read from line 4 down to line 18?

A. The Chairman asked this question. Mr. Lord was standing before the Board at the podium—

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q. This question was directed to Mr. Lord?

A. Was directed to Mr. Lord. "Chairman Furman: this man, referring to DiVita, this man is still in prison; isn't that true?

"Mr. Lord: Yes, sir. The applicant is 43 years of age.

Attorney General Cohen: The maximum to which he was sentenced was 23 months. Isn't jurisdiction in the local courts?"

Then Mr. Lord replies: "I believe the Board of Pardons has jurisdiction in any case where there is a flat sentence."

Attorney General Cohen replies: "We do not have any jurisdiction here. We have not assumed jurisdiction in the event we have it, in view of the fact that jurisdiction could be exercised by the Court of Quarter Sessions."

Then Mr. Lord: "Might I address myself, then, to the question of a pardon. If the applicant in this case is 43 years of age."

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Now, the rest of the argument is on the merits, not concerning that jurisdictional question, and unless the Board wishes that it be read, I see no point in reading it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: No. Your query is with respect to the question of jurisdiction?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

MR. KOHN: And if you didn't have jurisdiction and Mr. McBride says you do; is that it?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: What do you say?

MR. KOHN: I say there is no question about it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Therefore, the first hearing went off on a wrong basis. If ever a man was entitled to a rehearing, it having been decided on that basis, it was this man.

MR. KOHN: I say they were wrong on his interpretation to the Pardons Board. If he checked the law, he would have known better.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I think, in fairness to Mr. Cohen, that wasn't testimony given here. He said if they did have jurisdiction, he didn't assume it.

MR. KOHN: He said he didn't think they had, that's all.

(witness excused)

. . . ATTORNEY GENERAL THOMAS D. McBRIDE, previously sworn, recalled:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q. Mr. McBride, you were a member of the Board of Pardons in this particular case, were you not?

A. I was a member of the Board of Pardons at the time the DiVito case was argued in January of 1957.

Q. That is the second time; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you voted for a commutation in that case?

A. I did.

Q. And before you voted for the commutation you read carefully, did you not, the reasons given for the commutation?

A. I assume that I did. I have no recollection of having read this particular one rather than others, but in accordance with the usual practice, they come to my office as they do to the other offices and I read them.

Q. During the discussions was there any particular significance attached to the fact that this man was sponsored, who his sponsor was, or that he was going to go back as secretary-treasurer of the Longshoremen's Union (handing paper to witness)?

A. I never heard directly or indirectly any discussion by anybody concerning who his sponsor was. I am not concerned about that point in any hearing before the Board of Pardons because that is a question which the Parole Board takes up on the issue of whether a parole shall be granted. The Board of Pardons hears no public discussion as to a parole plan. It hears nothing as to a sponsorship except occasionally where a person appearing before the Board wishes to state that he is the sponsor or wishes to state who his sponsor will be. There was no discussion at any time in my presence as to who it was that was sponsoring this man.

Q. You paid attention, of course, to the facts set forth by the attorney for the applicant before you as to what facts he set forth in his argument, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. And you give some credence to that argument?

A. Yes. I consider it and if it seems to have merit, I stack it against the countervailing arguments of the District Attorney, the reports from the prisons, all other relevant data which we have as members of the Pardons Board, which is usually ten times as much as either party has before him in presenting the case.

Q. Are you still Chancellor of the Philadelphia Bar?

A. Yes.

Q. How long have you been Chancellor of the Philadelphia Bar?

A. The end of this year will be my second term.

Q. And you are also the legal adviser to the Board of Pardons?

A. Yes.

Q. And in such capacity it is your duty to advise them in regard to the arguments made, the legal points in there. in the arguments?

A. Whenever a legal point arises, I do undertake to advise them as to my opinion of it.

Q. Do you have any bias of any kind or any prejudice with regard to the judges or any of the citizens of Delaware County?

A. I certainly have no bias or prejudice as to the citizens of Delaware County. If you were to ask me one year ago whether I had any feeling against the judges of Delaware County, I would have answered just as frankly no. But I must say to you that my opinion of Judge Bretherick, after the statements he made here before this Committee, statements I have heard him make in Delaware County, have resulted in my having a low opinion of him as a minister of justice.

Q. And do you think it is proper to use the argument and to have the Board listen to it, and do you think it lends to the dignity of the Board of Pardons to have attorneys appear before the Board of Pardons and charge the judges with being guilty of malfeasance in office? Do you think that is a proper argument to be listened to by the Board of Pardons without comments there by any member of the Board of Pardons or by the calling of Judge Bretherick or any other judge to answer the accusation?

A. I think any attorney that files an application before the Board of Pardons and believes in the real facts in that a judge has not done his duty and who fails to do that and advance that as an argument before the Board of Pardons is a coward and is not doing his duty to his client.

Q. Did you look into the facts of the DiVito case?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you listened to the argument by Mr. Lord, which was partly as follows "During the time intervening between the trial and his change to the plea of guilty on the third Bill of Indictment, he led the United Labor drive for the registration of voters. Possibly that had something to do with the verdict. That might have been a third offense."

Was there anything in the trial of the case or the facts of the case to indicate that there was any foundation in fact to Mr. Lord's argument in advancing that to the Board for consideration?

A. I know of nothing in the facts of the trial itself to support that, but Mr. Lord stated it to be a fact, and it was not contradicted, as I recall it, by the Assistant District Attorney who appeared.

Q. It so happened that the Assistant District Attorney didn't appear.

A. Wasn't there any District Attorney there?

Q. I don't think so.

A. Well, I recall no contradiction.

Q. Was Judge Bretherick called to find out whether there was any foundation in fact for such a statement?

A. I didn't call him. I think it would be highly unusual if the Board of Pardons would undertake to call him. He has stated his views as to the merits of the application.

Q. You think, then, it is perfectly proper to use that type of argument before the Board of Pardons and have it taken on the word of an attorney who is suing for commutation for an applicant?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever do that, Mr. McBride?

A. I do not recall that I was ever in a position to say of a judge that he held it against a man that he was active in organized labor, but had I been in that position, I hope I would have had the courage and the decency to state it as forthrightly as Mr. Lord did.

Q Would you have presented facts to prove it, Mr. McBride.

A Well, the only method of proof that I know of in proving that a man had participated in certain labor activities—

Q I am not talking about that. I am talking about holding it against him because he had participated on either side. Do you think it is a proper argument to be argued before the Board?

In fact, you argued it in the Fuglio case. You stated: "Perhaps through it all, however, his greatest sin was in implicating important political figures in the Barony of Delaware County, both of whom, despite reluctance on the part of those in authority to proceed, Patrolman Macafy, with the approval of the State Police, swore out warrants and procured convictions, and these political figures went to jail."

Did you make that statement?

A Right. I made that in the presence of a State Policeman who stood up before the Board of Pardons and, like the honest man he was, supported that statement to the hilt.

Q Will you show me where he supported that statement or where he testified to anything of that kind?

A Have you got his testimony here?

Q It is all in there.

A Here is what the policeman said, page 158: "Now, as far as the political business, he was fingering the different other people that bought the stolen items and he said, 'Why don't you pick up the politicians?' Through Judge Erwin of Delaware County Court, we got a writ and got him out of jail, and then Earl Alvin and myself and Al Fuglio went to Chester, Delaware County, and went to the taproom of Joe Doberts, and Joe Doberts was fingered by Fuglio, and he admitted selling him stuff. That was around midnight, in back of the place, and he knew it was stolen and also his partner, Davis. I came back to court along with my commanding officer and I found a man by the name of Fitzgerald and we got warrants and arrested these men, and through Fuglio we convicted them in the Delaware County courts. I think they got three months each in jail, that is, Joe Doberts and the other man, Davis," both of whom, in fact, were political figures. I believe it is not Joe Doberts. I believe it is Joe Doblitz.

Q The first time you appeared for Fuglio, he got twenty to forty, did he not?

A I don't recall.

Q So that you do have some prejudice so far as you are concerned as far as Judge Bretherick or any cases coming from that county are concerned?

A No. I would not say that I have prejudice, but I have this personal experience with Judge Bretherick in connection with a case on which I went out to Delaware County to try. It is not prejudice. It is an accurate statement of facts. Mr. Hughes testified that there was a riot case tried in Delaware County arising out of what were known as the Westinghouse strikes. I went out to try a riot case in Delaware County, and I moved for a continuance of before Judge Biggins, and he called the other judges in for a conference as to whether or not that continuance should be granted. Now, it was quite obvious that these men had been charged with riot in connection with the strike at Lester. They were all members of the Union. When Judge Brethercik appeared and I made my motion for continuance, the other judges were present, and he had his black gown on. It was in chambers. Other counsel were present, including the District Attorney. Then he addressed himself in most scathing terms, denouncing the defendants, and ended up with violent language, saying that he would not give those so-and-so's anything, and showing such bitter prejudice himself against these defendants who had not yet been tried, that when Mr. Lord later appeared before the Board of Pardons and told me, told the Board publicly that Judge Bretherick was prejudiced against anybody connected with the labor movement, I found myself perfertcly willing to believe him.

Q Without any proof thereof?

A With the statement of Mr. Lord to the effect that this man had joined a picket line—

Q Are you talking about DiVito now?

A DiVito. DiVito had joined some organized labor group—

Q Wait a minute. You said a picket line.

A And picketed.

Q Will you show me where that is in the testimony?

A I don't know whether it is in there.

Q You mean Mr. Lord talked to you alone?

A No. Mr. Lord—oh, Mr. Lord has talked to me since in preparation for this hearing. Mr. Lord has some photographs—

Q Mr. Lord said some other statement which does not appear in the record?

A Outside of the photograph which I would be delighted to show you—

Q I am not interested in that. I want to know if you knew there was a picket line involved and whether you considered that when sitting on this case.

A I did not consider that in this case because I had no private information.

Q It doesn't matter what somebody else says to you; as long as it involves Judge Bretherick and involves labor, you are apt to believe it?

A That is an unfair statement which you have no right to make. That is untrue.

Q Did you check to see whether it is true?

A Did I check on what?

Q On what Mr. Lord said to you.

A Mr. Lord said to the Board that this man had been involved in labor controversies.

Q This is after the hearing that you are talking about?

A No. I think Mr. Lord said this at one of the hearings.

Q Will you please show it to me? That is what I am talking about. What did you consider at the time that you—

A Where are the two hearings?

Q You have them both. I gave you the one this morning. I think it is over there (indicating).

A (referring to transcripts)

Q You were not sitting on that first hearing?

A No. Mr. Lord said on page 130 of the Otcober hearing, "At that time, immediately prior to his arrest, he had taken active part in the United Labor Committee, registering voters in the City of Chester and throughout Delaware County. Things were said to him about his activities in organized labor. Since his arrested he has been visited in the Delaware County Prison by special investigators appointed by the Delaware County Sheriff's office, who have instructed him they would do something for him if he would put the finger on certain people in the City of Chester who were active politically in the party. Mr. DiVito has refused to do that."

Q Now, you have read everything except what I asked you, Mr. McBride. Where do you get the picket line business that you are trying to tell us about?

A I told you that I did not recall that Mr. Lord mentioned a picket line in connection with the application, but at the hearing before us, Mr. Lord said, speaking of the factors that moved Judge Bretherick to impose such a special penalty, he said, "Yes, sir, that is right. There are no factors so far as the record will bear out indicating why so severe a penalty was imposed in this particular case. I might point up to the Board some of the factors apparent to me. One is that Mr. DiVito was a political leader of an organization not quite in keeping with Judge Bretherick's thoughts of what was proper in the field of politics. He was a leader of a United Labor movement in Delaware County, and he went to trial on the first two Bills, and after the jury came back and motion for new trial was pending, he entered a plea of guilty to a third Bill of Indictment. In between the time of trial and the change of plea, he led the United Labor Drive for registration of voters. Possibly that had something to do with the severity. That might have been a third offense."

Q Just read on.

A "He was subject to daily visits by special investigators of Delaware County Court, asking him to name certain people in the City of Chester as being bankers. Mr. DiVito stated to me he never had a banker."

Q Next paragraph.

A "At the time of his arrest, the applicant was employed as the secretary-treasurer of the International Longshoremen's Association. This, too, might have been a factor that motivated the judge to impose so severe a sentence in the case. At that time he was interested in the port development of the City of Chester."

Q What investigation did the Board of Pardons make, if any, to find out whether any of those allegations were true so that you could rely on them before you granted a commutation?

A The Board of Pardons, as far as I know made no further investigation.

Q They took that as a matter of truth?

A We accepted, or at least speaking for myself, I accepted as a matter of truth that he was employed as the secretary-treasurer of the International Longshoremen's Association. I accepted as truth that he had been engaged in the United Labor Movement in Delaware County, and I accepted as a matter of inference and, hence of truth, that if those two things were true, Judge Bretherick would be against him.

Q And you said that as did the other members of the Board, too, did they not?

A I cannot speak for them. I can speak for myself.

Q It wasn't even discussed?

A It may have been discussed.

Q That you allow for the Board of Pardons to become a factor in the commutation of sentence?

A The fact that a man received an unfair sentence?

Q Yes, that the judge, without any foundation or fact or anything to rely on except the statement of an attorney and your own personal knowledge, the Board of Pardons relies upon it as a fact on which to dispense accurate justice on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

A The Board of Pardons considered these facts. The Indictments were not only for the completed offense of lottery, but for a conspiracy to commit that offense.

The offense of lottery and the agreement which preceded it are in my thirty years' of experience rarely both punished. Usually judges feel that the agreement to commit a crime, merging into the crime itself, is not punished separately. Here the sentence, the largest sentence was upon the mere agreement to commit a lottery, and the smaller of the two sentences was upon the lottery itself. They were made consecutive, whereas normally they would have been made to run concurrently. I felt that, in the vast majority of cases, a man situated as was DiVito would not have been punished so excessively had there not been other considerations.

Q Which were not of record?

A Which were not of record. It became clear to me that the type of considerations that Mr. Lord mentioned might very well have been the type of considerations that moved Judge Bretherick in imposing that sentence. But with or without considerations I felt that on the record the sentence was excessive, and having that feeling, I feel that that is the sacred function of the Board of Pardons, that is, to cut down such excessive sentences.

Q Have you and the Attorney General checked the sentences in Dauphin County in similar cases?

A No.

Q Is there anything unusual with the law charging the man who has twice violated, the man with the two charges, with the two charges they charged him on? Did you read the case about D'Agostine?

A I am not complaining about the legality of—

Q Will you answer the question and stick to the answer?

A You asked me whether there was anythiny wrong about the sentence in effect. That is what you asked me; and I answered you by saying I am making no complaint about the legality of the sentence I say it is an unusual and an unfair sentence on a minor misdemeanor such as lottery, and on a man who did not have a big lottery, to superadd a long sentence for conspiracy arising out of the same act of lottery.

Q You think, then, it is wrong for Dauphin County, who does the same thing, to apply the law as they see fit?

A I think, if Dauphin County does generally what Judge Bretherick did here, it would not be in accord with the almost universal practice all over the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Q Isn't it a fact that, in order to get these big gamblers, because a lottery only carries with it six to twelve, they include in the Indictment conspiracy, which carries a much longer sentence, in order to secure major gamblers?

A That may be. There was no evidence in this case that DiVito was a big gambler, and there was subsequent evidence that his wife was on relief that she was the recipient of relief, that the man, according to this record, is still in jail because he had not been able to pay his fine—

Q You didn't know that at the time of the hearing, did you?

A No, of course not

Q Are you trying to justify it by that?

A I am not trying to—I am saying that the record before this Board, indicating that the assumption that he was a big-time gambler, cannot be correct.

Q Did you read the testimony that he had 148 bets which involved some $500 in one day?

A I saw no such testimony.

Q I thought you said you looked at the testimony.

A I didn't say I did at all.

Q Did you look at it?

A I looked at the official report.

Q Did you look at the parole agent's report which stated that also?

A I read everything in the case. Everything in that file I read.

Q A man that makes $500 in one day in gambling is just small potatoes?

A No. I think any man that makes $500 a day in gambling is not small potatoes.

Q You say that is not the fact in this case?

A No, I do not.

Q You say you looked at the—

A I say that if a man takes 148 plays, representing $500 in plays, that he does not necessarily win them all.

Q You only figure it when you win? You say in this case it wasn't justified even though he was caught twice within three months?

A I say that this was an unusual sentence.

Q You mean it is all right for a man to get caught twice, even though he is affiliated with—

A I don't know why you are pressing these non sequiturs upon me.

Q It makes no difference as far as the Pardons Board is concerned if a man is caught twice in three months; he should be given the minimum sentence?

A The sentence is entirely up to the judge.

Q And it is up to the Pardons Board to correct it if they don't feel it is proper?

A It is up to the Pardons Board, obviously, in unjust and excessive sentences, to grant mercy where the sentence was justified, but where subsequent events turn out to justify the granting of it.

Q Do you believe, then, that in spite of the fact that, in considering this case, he had a terrifically long record and he was not involved in any political activity, that was also wrong because in Delaware County they should not sentence him as they please?

A You have not stated my belief.

Q You think that the Pardons Board should act as a balance wheel between the discrepancy in sentencing in the different counties with regard to the problems they have there with regard to particular crimes?

A No; because that would be asking too much of it. Because I say this, one of the great causes of dissatisfaction in every penitentiary in Pennsylvania is the disparity of sentences between a man who is coming from one county and doing ten to twenty, or forty to sixty for an offense for which a similar person gets three to six in another county. Anyone experienced with penal affairs knows that that is one of the great problems that the wardens face. I do not say that the Board of Pardons can go about like a little white angel correcting all of that, but where a sentence does seem oppressive, it is the duty of someone to do something about it. Every experienced warden of Pennsylvania will tell you that that is one of the serious considerations they have in running their jails.

Q And in these particular cases in Delaware County, and in the Caserta case, although he had a long record, he only served one year, and although DiVito was caught twice he only served one year, you think that you should equalize them that way?

A Mr. Kohn, it seems to me that all you are asking me to do is to express an opinion on the Pardons Board's philosophy or on my own.

Q You are in a position to do that?

A Surely. Don't you want to find out if there was anything wrong or any improper influence exercised over me? Why don't you ask me whether I did anything wrong? Why don't you ask me whether or not any member of the Board of Pardons did anything wrong?

Q I want to ask you on what basis you gave the consideration to the pardon on the request of Mr. Lord; and you have answered that; and I have no further questions.

A All right.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q Since Mr. McBride has suggested some possible questions that might be asked, suppose we do ask.

Mr. McBride, did you do anything illegal in connection with the pardon, or Pardon Board activities, or were you approached by any person with improper suggestions? Were you giving political consideration to your decisions as a member of the Board, or do you know of any particular pressure being applied to any member of the Board, or do you know any legal considerations made by any members of the Board in connection with the Pardon Board cases since you have been on the Board?

A To each and every one of those questions I make the most emphatic no that I could possibly and sincerely make. I have never known of a single act of impropriety or dishonorable conduct on the part of any member of the Board of Pardons since I have sat upon it. I am proud and delighted to be associated with them.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Was Judge Bretherick in the Fuglio case?

A I don't recall.

Q McDade? William Toll?

A (no response)

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q General, on the DiVito case, did you read the application over entirely?

A Did I read the application, Mr. Chairman? Is that it?

Q In its entirety, yes.

A I believe that I read the application in its entirety as to the first time the matter came to my attention because when it did come to my attention it was on the question of whether or not there should be a rehearing.

It then came to my attention that at the first hearing some doubt had been expressed either as to jurisdiction to consider these flat sentences or the question of policy as to whether or not they should be reconsidered; and I think I examined it then.

Q As far as you recollect, you read the application fully?

A To my best recollection, yes.

Q To the best of your recollection, did you read the confidential report of the Parole Agent?

A At the time of the public hearing before the Board of Pardons, yes.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q On all these files, you get a complete file just as the Secretary of the Board of Pardons has, do you not?

A Yes.

Q Everything that is in your file is in their file? You get the letters and copies and answers, do you not?

A Yes, we get—with this one exception, that the Secretary produces the file now, that may not have been the way the file was at the time of the hearing.

Q What do you mean?

A At the time of the hearing any letters that are sent in in advance and any reports from the Parole Board and other agencies are made up separately for each member of the Board. The Attorney General has the original, and it is the direct copy. Now, on occasions, at hearings when the attorneys and applicants stand before the Board, the secretary hands to the Board either a dozen or two dozen letters which are incorporated into the folder, and we separately do not have copies of that.

Q But you have everything which comes in up until the time of the hearing?

A Up to the hearing I would say that each member has a copy of what every other member has.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q General, I would like you to take the application and refer to Paragraph 19-A of the application. Read what Paragraph 19-A says.

A "Name and address of sponsor, if granted, commutation, James J. Connor, Delaware County Commissioner."

Q I show you confidential report dated October 2 1956, which is marked receipted as of October 5, 1956, which I take it was in the files at the time the case came before the Board for hearings, and I ask you to read the next-to-the-last paragraph on the bottom of page 4.

A This one that I read was the application that was before the Board in October.

Q And the same one that was before the Board in January?

A There was no new one, was there?

Q No, there was no new one, General.

A Right. Now, Mr. Chairman, you want me to read—

Q The next-to-the-last paragraph.

A "On 10/2/56 agent personally interviewed Mr. James J. Connor, Delaware County Commissioner, at his office in the Media Courthouse, Media, Pennsylvania. Mr. Connor stated that he has known of applicant for several years and has known him personally for the past year and a half. He is aware that he had an excellent reputation in the community prior to his present arrest. He was a good family man and believes that favorable consideration should be given to applicant."

Q That is the same Connor that is referred to in the application?

A I can only assume so. I do not know Mr. Connor I would assume that the name, James J. Connor, Delaware County Commissioner, is the one who was interviewed by the parole agent because that is the person he would normally interview.

This application containing this man Connor's name on it was in that shape when the Board declined to act on it in October.

Q We appreciate that, General. I am only trying to find out whether all this information was before the Board not only at its original hearing but also at the time that you sat as a member of the Board, and the question of a sponsor was something that didn't arise until after the time that the Board heard the case.

A It was never discussed. I never even heard the name Connor mentioned.

Q But it is in the record?

A Yes.

Q I believe you made a statement to the effect that so far as the record was concerned, and I take it the record refers to the Pardon Board's record as well as the records of Delaware County at the time of the trial—

A I know nothing of the records of Delaware County at the time of the trial, Mr. Chairman.

Q I see. You are discussing the question of factors which may have motivated the judge in the sentence on this case. I got the impression from listening to the statements of counsel at the time of the hearing and from statements which you have made here this morning, that there was nothing in the record to indicate what influenced Judge Bretherick's sentence in this case.

A I know of no statement made by Judge Bretherick as to why he was influenced to pass out this sentence.

Q And the statement made by Attorney Lord before the Pardons Board were all assumptions and presumptions on his part with reference to the reasons, factors, or mental processes on which Judge Bretherick decided to impose the sentences.

A No. I would say they were based upon observational facts, such as the connection of his client with the Union, the activities of his client politically, on a basis other than that—

Q There is nothing in the record, however, to substantiate that, is there?

A He said so.

Q Mr. Lord said so, but there is nothing to show that Judge Bretherick made those remarks at the time of sentence?

A Oh, no. I don't mean to be understood as saying that Judge Bretherick said, "I am now going to impose upon you an excessive sentence. I do so because you are a Democrat. I do so because you are a Labor man." I never heard of any judge talking that way. I don't suggest that Judge Bretherick stated for the record what Mr. Lord stated to us was his, Mr. Lord's, conclusion partly from observational facts and partly from inference.

Q What observational facts were there upon which Mr. Lord could make such a statement?

A His client was politically active not only in behalf of the Labor Movement, but in behalf of the Democratic Party. You see, Mr. Chairman, you and I both had the benefit of hearing Judge Bretherick say that he was a million percent Republican. I had had the impression that that was about five percent too much for any judge. Judge Bretherick himself boasted about his very strong attitude respecting his own political convictions, which he has a perfect right to hold. He also said that for 8 years he was the Chairman of the County Committee in Delaware County, and anyone who is close to Delaware County knows—

Q I recall all of that statement of Judge Bretherick. But what I am getting at is are you charging here that Judge Bretherick not only imposed a sentence in this case based upon his political affiliations as well as in other cases, or whether Judge Bretherick tried to perform his duty as a judge without consideration for his political affiliations or people that appear before him.

A I am not here presenting the viewpoint that Judge Bretherick does consider cases without regard to political viewpoint. On the other hand I am making no personal charge that he does consider politics. I am saying clearly and emphatically that Mr. Lord said so. He presented the case in that light before the Board of Pardons. I thought, regardless of motive, that this sentence was, in the light of experience, excessive. I for one believed that Mr. Lord was telling us the truth when he said what motives he believed inspired Judge Bretherick to pass this excessive sentence.

Q But you didn't, in turn, call Judge Bretherick to find out whether or not those were his motives?

A No, I did not.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. McBride, are you not opening the door in the future for any criminal in Delaware County, whose lawyer says he is a Democrat and active in the Labor movement, who may have been sentenced by Judge Bretherick, are you not opening the door for those people to come up and receive a hearing before the present Pardons Board and receive a prejudiced judgment from the present Pardons Board?

A No.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: The question, Mr. Bell, is, is the lawyer a Democrat or the client a Democrat?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: They would probably both be.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The question more properly is in connection with the client.

MR. KOHN: May I ask a question?
CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q What was Mr. Lord's plea to Judge Bretherick at the time of sentence?
A I don't recall.
Q Well, Mr. Lord was going over the testimony of the trial of this case yesterday. You conferred with him this morning about it, did you not?
A I did not confer with him this morning. I did not confer with him yesterday. I saw him the day before.
Q When did Mr. Lord tell you about this fixture stock that you were talking about?
A When I asked him to come up here, I think he told me in this room, I think he showed me a picture.
Q You will admit that that never came before the Board of Pardons for consideration?
A I didn't suggest that it did.
Q You brought it in suggesting that it did, to have it influence the Board in its decision.

A I did not say that that influenced the Board in its decision. I said that you were attempting to convey the idea that this man, DiVito was a big-shot, and I said that events have demonstrated that there is nothing to that because he is still in jail, unable to pay his $1500 fine.
Q Mr. Lord didn't tell you what plea he made to Judge Bretherick or that at that time he indicated any bias or not, did he?
A I didn't ask him.
Q Isn't it a fact that you don't know what happened either at the trial or at the sentencing, of your own knowledge?
A You mean was I present? Of course I was not present.
Q You did not read the notes of testimony of the trial?
A I did not read the notes of testimony—

Q And you don't know what the judge said when he sentenced him; you don't know that?
A I know only what the records of the Board of Pardons show, which you have produced here.
Q You base your remarks exclusively upon that?
A I have no other way of knowing. I have no private source of information whatsoever.
Q In fact, Mr. Lord was not at the trial of this case, was he?
A I have not the slightest idea.
Q Will you take my word for it, that he was not at this trial? It was tried by Mr. Cochran, a Republican attorney.
A I will take your word for it.
Q Well, I show you that the application states that Mr. Lord was not even in on this case. He didn't know.
A I accept that.
Q He didn't know anything about this case until he talked to his client.
A I didn't say that.
Q So anything he stated, he would have gotten it after he talked to his client after the man was in jail?
A I didn't say that.
Q Isn't it apparent?
A It is apparent that James Cochran represented the defendant. I don't know whether Mr. Lord was present or not.
Q Didn't you ask him?
A No.

Q So you don't know the source of his information or how he got it?
A As to what?
Q How the judge sentenced him or as far as the whole case is concerned.
A What he stated is a matter of record. There is very little that he stated that anybody could possibly doubt. That is what the sentence was.

Q He stated a lot of facts that at the time of the senence there were certain facts apparent. You don't know where he got those. He was not present at the time of trial.

A He is here present in the room, and you will have a splendid opportunity to ask him.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q General, do you take the statements made by all counsel, and this is not a reflection on counsel or members of the Bar, but do you take statements of counsel made before the Pardons Board as established fact all the time without further inquiring into some of the allegations they make?

A I take the statement of a lawyer as being the truth unless it is either inherently improbable or contradicted by other facts from an equally reputable source; and my experience has led me, in over thirty years, to rely upon statements when lawyers make them upon their own responsibility. I accept the statement of a lawyer as I would have accepted the statement of a judge.

Q Well, now, General, should I make a statement that I believe that Thomas McBride, I think, I presume that General McBride made his decision in this case based upon certain things that I think you perhaps thought about in arriving at that decision, do you think that I should do a lot of assuming as to what the Pardon Board's reasons were? Or are we to be bound on what we find on the record on that.

A Mr. Chairman, you must distinguish between two things. First you asked me whether I take the word of a lawyer, and when I answered, I was talking about facts within his personal knowledge. They are questions of fact which I accept unless inherently improbable or contradicted by a reliable source. Conclusions of lawyers, inferences of lawyers, presumptions and assumptions of lawyers are entitled to no more weight than any other arguments of any other person, legal or lay, medical or lay. All opinions must be judged on the basis of their rationality and the care and attention to detail which they manifest. But questions of fact and of opinion must be clearly segregated.

Now I must distinguish between statements which Mr. Lord made, which were merely matters of opinion, and statements which he made which were matters of fact. Matters of fact have to do with the kind of sentence that was imposed, the length of the sentence that was imposed, the fact that the man was a member of a Labor Union, the fact that he was engaged in politics. His inference that Judge Bretherick held that against the man is entitled to no more degree of sanctity than that of any other person. If anyone denied that or if Judge Bretherick said it wasn't so, his denial would be accepted by me as being true, too.

Q Well, then, the statement of counsel in this respect might be classified more or less in the category of things you might say as a defense counsel before a jury for your client; you are trying to point up the instances in your argument as against the points the District Attorney would make.

A If it is in that category, then I say that both the argument of the prosecuting attorney and the argument of defense counsel must be carefully distinguished between statements of fact made by either of them. I state the statements of the prosecuting attorneys. I wouldn't think for a single minute of challenging any prosecuting attorney in Pennsylvania on a statement of fact he makes to me. I never have. I don't think I have ever done it in my life, publicly or privately. But as to the conclusions he draws from the facts, I am free to debate them with him or to agree with him. You haven't heard me dispute a single fact that Mr. Kohn made of his own knowledge and you haven't heard him debate with me any statement of fact I made of my own knowledge; but as to conclusions that either of us draw from those facts, we have much disagreement.

Q Wasn't it a conclusion in connection with the allegations of Attorney Lord that motivated Judge Bretherick to the imposition of these sentences; that wasn't the fact, was it, General?

A The ultimate conclusion was a conclusion or inference; it was not a fact.

Q It was not a fact?

A It was, however, based upon other facts and other inferences. It may or may not be correct.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is what I was trying to get at.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Sure.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. McBride, I hand you this confidential report. Does the Board in disposing of applications for commutation or pardon consider the confidential report that is made by the Parole Board?

A Yes.

Q What does the confidential report state as to the reputation of Mr. DiVito before he was sent to jail?

A I quote it exactly: "Applicant enjoyed a good reputation prior to incarceration."

Q What does the application say relative to the applicant being engaged in gainful employment before he was sentenced to jail?

A That he was employed by the International Longshoremen's Association, Front and Parker Streets, Chester, Pennsylvania; employment is guaranteed

Q What was the stand taken by the judge relative to the approval or disapproval of this application?

A This report says: "The presiding judge will take no position in this appeal."

Q What does that report say relative to the applicant, his family relationship? Was he a good family man or a bad family man?

A "Home, Mrs. Sarah R. DiVito, 603 Lloyd Street, Chester, Pennsylvania, on 10/1/56 agent called at the above address and personally interviewed applicant's wife. Mrs. DiVito, age 39, stated that she is in dire need of applicant's return home to reside with them, as he had been an excellent husband and a good provider. The home is a two-story brick dwelling, consisting of five rooms and bath. It is fairly well furnished and kept in a clean and orderly manner. It is rented for $35 per month from the Samuel Bell Real Estate office, located at 12th and Edgemont Avenue, Chester, Pennsylvania. They have been residing at this address for the past nine years. The occupants of the home consist of the following persons—"

Q Mr. McBride, aside from that, there is a conclusion arrived at in that confidential report based on the investigation that was made by the parole agent, and I think it is in one sentence. It indicates whether he was a good family man or bad family man and that is what I would like to get.

A The conclusion: "This is the only time applicant has ever served time. He is most anxious to obtain a pardon in order to return to his former community to continue with his good standing and reputation. He wants to clear his name because of his children and he wants to return to his job, where he was Secretary and Treasurer for the International Longshoremen's Association.

"Agent personally interviewed the warden at the Delaware County Prison. He stated that since applicant had been incarcerated he had been an excellent inmate and is presently employed as a fireman in the boiler room from 7:00 to 3:00, and then works part-time in the kitchen."

Q Then the confidential report indicates that his conduct was good or bad while he was in prison?

A Very good.

Q Did the applicant rent or own the home in which they lived?

A "It is fairly well furnished and kept in a clean and orderly manner. It is rented for $35 per month from the Samuel Bell Real Estate office, located at 12th and Edgemont Avenue, Chester, Pennsylvania."

Q Mr. McBride, based on the applicant's prior criminal record and taking into consideration sentences that are meted out for the same offense not only in Delaware County but around the State, would you say that sentence that was imposed on Mr. DiVito was an exorbitant sentence or a fair sentence?

A It was an excessive sentence.

Q What is the function of a Pardon Board, and does it take into consideration sentences that are imposed by the courts?

A Oh, yes. Even where a sentence is at the time that it was imposed on the basis of what Judge Laub properly characterized here as prognosis, even where such a sentence is thought to be correct at the time, nevertheless, through the passage of time, conditions may change, which may warrant correction in that sentence; and in some other instances some sentences are deemed to be excessive at the time they are imposed, and in those cases, when and if the proper time comes, where the applicant has his very best chance at rehabilitation, the proper interests of society dictate that he shall be released at such a time. Letting him out sooner may be wrong; keeping him too long may be equally too long. The real desire of society is to see that when men are released, the optimum chance of rehabilitation exists.

Q Is it a function of the Pardons Board to adjust what Pardon Boards might consider exorbitant sentences as they relate to the degree of the crime?

A Yes.

Q And is that a factor that you yourself considered when you acted favorably on this application?

A I considered it the most important single factor in this entire case.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q General, the Pardon Board only passes upon those cases which are filed with them; is that right?

A That's right; obviously.

Q You don't go out and call the roster of those in the penitentiaries to find out whether or not you think their sentences are severe or not?

A No, of course we don't; but the law agencies and the welfare agencies, who deal with penitentiaries, when they bump into cases where they feel a man has been rehabilitated or where a sentence has been excessive, they come up constantly, month after month, before the Board of Pardons without any cost whatever to the inmate and present the case fairly, both sides, the judge's point of view, the District Attorney's point of view, everybody's point of view.

Q Those are only the cases that reach the Board; I appreciate that; but the Parole Board has no method of revealing the sentences imposed throughout the State of Pennsylvania to determine whether or not their sentences in their opinion have been severe.

A The Pardons Board has no way of doing that.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q However, you will agree that each particular county has its own problem with its population, its nearness to waterfronts and narcotics, and attitudes on gambling, and therefore the sentences for prevention of those particular crimes differ to some extent.

A I would be the first to agree with that.

Q And the fact that it might be argued to you, as it was in the Caserta case that in Philadelphia they allow them four cracks before they go to jail, and the fact that in Delaware County they sentence them more severely how would that influence the Board of Pardons?

A It wouldn't influence me at all for this reason, that I think the standard that Philadelphia adopts must not necessarily govern Delaware County any more than the standard adopted by Delaware County necessarily govern Philadelphia. Each county by its very existance, having a communal spirit has the right to apply the sanctions that the people generally throughout that county apply. In some parts of the state that you gentlemen are more familiar with than I unquestionably stealing a cow might be a very important offense. Stealing a cow in Philadelphia would not be considered to be half as important as it would in other counties. But it would be wrong to apply a Philadelphia standard to those other counties.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q General, what has me puzzled in this case is this: You have a parole official's report in which it says that the man lives in a house that is rented for $35 a month Yet he didn't remit the $1500 fine.

A We weren't asked to. It is just one of those cases where, not being asked to, nobody on the Board thought about it. Had we been asked to, I just don't know what we would have done. Maybe he should be compelled to pay the fine. I express no opinion on that, even though it might be a hardship. But it may be that Delaware County will see fit to give some opportunity to pay it over a period of time. There are ways and means. The law has to settle that sort of a problem. But it was not presented to us.

BY REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI:

Q. Mr. McBride, was the name "Connor" or "O'Connor," I don't know which it is, or the position he held a motivating factor in granting this commutation insofar as you were concerned?

A. As far as I was concerned, I can say absolutely it was not. I can say with equal absoluteness that I am not conscious of that name ever being mentioned or discussed by any member of the Board of Pardones at any time.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q. You do know Mr. James Connor, do you not?

A. I don't believe I have ever seen him or met him in my life. If I have, I am unconscious of it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General, do you want to cross-examine yourself or do you have your deputy over here to do it?

MR KOHN: I don't know if I would like the General to say anything in answer to the questions with regard to this.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:; I have no statement to make. I think that this is one of the cases that was carefully considered by the Board. I am quite sure that the Board thought it did the right thing. Others may differ from its judgment. Certainly the Board differed from the judgment of Judge Brotherick; but that is inevitable in the kind of government that we have, that a Board of Pardons may differ with a judge and a Legislative Committee may differ with the Board of Pardons and the judge again may differ with the Board of Pardons, as Judge Brotherick has, and he has charged his Grand Jury on a couple of instances that he deffered with us, and almost automatically, 48 hours later, the Grand Jury comes out with presentment which surprisingly enough happens to agree with the Judge. That kind of difference of opinion, as long as it is honest, will exist as long as we are a democracy; but if there is anything wrong, crooked, or political about this or any other case, I think that this Committee will be doing a great service to the people if they unmask it.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q. General, I don't know if we will be having you back on the stand or not before we are finished, but I would like to ask you at this point whether or not you have any recommendations to make as to whether or not you think the present system is outmoded and whether or not it should be supplanted with another system?

A. Mr. Chairman, I welcome that question. I myself have at times past, during the last 30 years, wondered whether another system might be a better one, whether, for instance, pardon applications could not be heard at the particular penitentiary in an informal way instead of having applications heard monthly in Harrisburg in accordance with the present provisions of Article IV, Section 9. So, because I was interested in it, I made a study of it once and came up with the rather surprising—to me surprising—finding that among law-enforcement officials throughout the country, the Pennsylvania system is deemed to be about as good as any in the country. The constitutions of the various states, all of which I had collected, show that in some states the Governor has the absolute right of pardon without the intervention of any Board or Commission. I myself feel that that is all, that the Governer has no opportunity to cull out the cases without the intervention of some group which will help him in arriving at a proper determination.

The Attorney General of the United States more than twenty years ago caused a study to be made, and as the result of that study, it was recommended that no chief executive of a state should act without having the cases screened by a Board; that such a Board should proceed in public; that it should not be the kind of hearing that I had envisaged of going to a penitentiary and hearing the matter, because then the public could not know what was going on; that this Board should give public notice of its hearings; that they should be held at regular intervals.

As to the constitution of the Board, the suggestion was made that the Attorney General must necessarily be one member of that Board, since he was usually the chief law enforcement officer. Not only was no inconsistency found between his position and that as a member of the Board of Pardons, but it was thought highly desirable that he as a quasi-judicial officer should sit in that capacity.

Another recommendation was that the Secretary of State, here called Secretary of the Commonwealth, should also be a member of that Board. It was stated that no prison officials should be members of the Board. When you get those recommendations and you review the constitutions of the various states throughout the United States, you find that here in our Article IV, Section 9, we come as close to the ideal situation as is envisaged by any of the great minds who have made a study of executive clemency.

There are two officials, the Lieutenant Governor and the Secretary of Internal Affairs, who are members of that Board, and I think, because of the position of the Lieutenant Governor, it is a good thing to have a presiding officer of the Senate as the presiding officer of the Board of Pardons.

Now, the first thing that enters anybody's mind is the question: doesn't that make it political? Well, I suppose in a democracy there will always be the suggestion made that any public officer is political. We are all either Republicans or Democrats, and to that extent we are political. But men who are sworn to do their duty and sit upon a Board of Pardons, I think, can be relied upon whether they are Republicans or Democrats the same way as we rely upon judges, district attorneys, counsel for defendants or any one else to carry out their duties.

Now, on the administrative side, I think much can be done in connection with the Board of Pardons. I don't think they have a sufficient appropriation. I don't think that they have enough help. I think that the staff is greatly undermanned, and the suggestion made here to the effect that the Board of Pardons might well have its own investigative staff is, in my opinion, a very sound one; that the Board can accept recommendations, but in a close situation where they want to get a clear picture of the case, they ought to have a staff of their own on which they depend, who would be responsible to them and whom they would send to see a judge, to see a warden, to see the victims, to see anybody in any case where they feel that additional information is required.

So on the fundamental setup my conclusion would be, and in saying this I have no vested interest in the Board of Pardons because I am just the temporary occupant of the office of Attorney General, I won't be around here long and whether it is abolished or not—abolished means absolutely nothing to me or to any of the other members of the Board of Pardons; but I think it is terribly important that no thought be given to abolition of the Board of Pardons unless and until a thorough study has been made of the situation attending executive clemency in all other states of the United States. You may find too late that you have thrown away that which may be ultimately desired. But as to administrative changes, I would more than welcome them. I think there are things that this Committee can do to help out in the future to see that the Board of Pardons is administered more efficiently to the end that we can end the kind of criticism that has been voiced throughout the Commonwealth at times against one Board and at times against another.

I should like to say this to you, that we have introduced certain letters into evidence. I do not mean to be understood for a single moment as indicating that the Republican Board of Pardons in the past were any more amenable to political influence than I say we are. I accord them the same feeling that they were acting honestly and honorably as I insist that we are ourselves doing.

Q. General, I have asked this same question of several witnesses heretofore. I have got to agree with you that clemency is a sovereign right and it is well founded and ingrained in our common law even before we had our government. There is no thought in anybody's mind that I know of to abolish clemency procedures. What those procedures shall be, there might be some differences of opinion; but in your opinion, and I quite agree with you also that the Lieutenant Governor perhaps is the next highest ranking officer of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and should be the Chairman of the Board as the channel through which these matters get themselves into the Governor's office. The other members of the Board, however, are either elected or appointed by the administration in power. Because of the political complexion of the Board itself, would the Board not be subject inherently to some political pressures at times? I am speaking generally not of this Board, but I am speaking of the system itself.

A. I think that anyone who holds public office in a democracy is subject to political pressures. I think every one of you on this Committee are subject to political pressures, but you have to stand up against improper political pressures. I don't think there is a single one of you who hasn't been solicited at one time or other to do something not necessarily improper, but which might not have accorded with the way you thought it ought to be done, but you stood up against it.

Now, it is essential that people shall be free to attempt to influence legislation, to attempt to influence by proper means, such as appearing in open court, the course of judicial proceedings; and the people don't really understand that they are doing anything improper when they write a letter to the Board of Pardons or to judges. It so happens by an old circumstance that we received a letter asking for favorable consideration of a case from I United States Congressman from Pennsylvania within the last day or so. I think we might have gotten it yesterday. Surely that man, knowing of this, he must have been honest. He could not read the newspapers and not know that this investigation is going on and then have attempted dishonestly to influence us. We just received the letter yesterday from a United States Congressman from Pennsylvania.

Q. Well, General, do you think that might be minimized with a Board made up, that is, of a more permanent nature, that is to say, a Board which might have some continuity?

A. No, I don't think it would be. I think you must realize this, that you start off with the idea that executive clemency is precisely that. It is the prerogative of the chief executive, the Governor, and the Governor is the man who grants the clemency. That Board only at most recommends it. Even after its recommendation, he may decline to act.

So the ultimate act is the act of the Governor, and it should be his appointees. It should be persons in sympathy with his views, upon whom he is entitled to rely and in whom he will place confidence and trust those who will make this recommendation to him. Now, they should not be subject to political or any other improper influences, but if they are, that does not condemn the system just because there may be political influences. There may be political influences operating upon judges, but you cannot get rid of judges simply because there may be come political influences operating on them.

Q. Well, I don't think there is any thought in mind here of abolishing the system. It is a question as to whether or not any of these matters might be done to improve it.

Now, Judge Laub made a suggestion here, and I am going to ask you whether you are in accord with his suggestion that perhaps the Corrupt Solicitation Act should be extended to the Pardon Board?

A. You mean that anyone who corruptly solicits the Pardons Board to commit an offense should be punished by a criminal charge?

Q. Yes.

A. I am heartily in accord with it.

Q. The same as it applies to any public official?

A. Oh, certainly. I don't think there should be any exemption on persons attempting to corruptly solicit the members of the Board of Pardons. I certainly am enthusiastically in accord with that.

Q. Your tour on the Board has only been since January of this year, of course; but from your experience and with your familiarity with the Board and your knowledge of the Board prior to that time, do you think that the increased load on the Pardons Board may be the result of local officials back home trying to pass the buck in not wanting to assume their responsibilities on some of these cases?

A. I do not see how that could be, because the local official, meaning a judge, once he has passed a sentence, the maximum of which is two years, he has lost jurisdiction of it and could not do anything about it afterward even if he so desired; and therefore, I don't think it is even correct to say that the case load now is greater than it used to be. I think it is less than it used to be. I think we are getting through in a day and a half the material that used to take two full days to hear. I think that the case load was higher a few years ago.

Q. Do you think that the present officials who serve as members of the Pardons Board, with their other duties—you are reviewing better than one thousand cases a year at the present time—

A. A thousand cases in a year?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Do they have time to apply themselves to the review of that with the proper amount of attention that these cases should properly have?

A. I would say, speaking only of the Attorney General, that sitting on the Board of Pardons is one of the toughest, roughest parts of his job. In two death cases that we had, with the testimony covering hundreds of pages, I guess I have occupied all of every night for a solid week prior to each argument, reading every single word that transpired from the beginning to the end of the case. I do not need records except in capital cases. I don't believe any other member of the Board of Pardons can afford the time to read the records in every case; but in every case neither do the judges of the Appellate Courts all read those records when they are before the Appellate Courts. They cannot do it either. Someone, of course, reads the entire record, and each member of the court may be expected to read the briefs; but it is obviously impossible for each member of the Superior or Supreme Court to read all the testimony in a given case.

Now, what we do have as part of this so-called confidential report is a statement of the facts culled from the testimony and supposed to have been done accurately for us by an impartial investigator of the Parole Board in which it points out the difference between the facts as stated by the inmate on his application and the true facts of the case as shown on the records of the case. When we have that on one or two pages, we can get the general picture as to the facts of the case as shown on the records of the case. Most of these cases, it is true to say, do not present a tremendous difficulty. An awful lot of them are premature, and the members of the Board, making their own notations at the time of argument, after having read all the material that they have, may in an awful lot of cases come to the same conclusion, that the application is premature; and it takes no long, extended discussion.

In the rare cases in which there is a lively discussion, that may go on for quite some time.

Now, this Committee visited the Board of Pardons, and it is true that some of the arguments were short; but you must have noted that the Lieutenant Governor on no single case ever cut short anybody who wanted to speak. Everybody had full opportunity, and at every hearing which I attended everybody has been allowed to speak his or her piece. And if they had a family relation, they were heard. We have had victims appear and speak against the application, and they have been fully heard. Sometimes, when the victim fails to appear, the District Attorney makes a statement on behalf o the victim. All of those things are carefully considered.

Q. General, I have run across several cases here that have come before the Pardons Board which had already been before the Parole Board. Do you find any serious conflict between the Parole Board and the Pardons Board in many cases?

A No, in only a few cases. In only a few cases, where the terms, the minimum terms, have expired, have they come before the Board of Pardons and asked them for a commutation of the maximum sentence; and in every single case of that kind that I personally recall, every member of the Board was anxious to know why it was that the Parole Board turned down the applicant.

I know of no case personally wherein the Parole Board turned down the applicant where we commuted the maximum sentence, except where we had a favorable recommendation from the Parole Board.

Q The Parole Board, of course, doesn't have jurisdiction until the minimum sentence has been served; is that right?

A Or we have cut down the minimum by commutation.

BY REPRESENTATIVE FLEMING:

Q General, one of the things that has come out at these hearings and alarms me is the fact that even after a man has been found guilty by a jury and he has been sentenced by a judge, the Board of Pardons, in recommending to the Governor that his sentence be commuted has used as a reason that they felt he wasn't guilty. Isn't that imposing the thinking of four men who do not have an opportunity to observe witnesses or hear testimony under oath upon that of a jury who has sat and listened to the whole trial? I would lkie to hear your comment on that.

A My comment upon that is that that is one of the most fundamental and important functions in the whole range of work of the Board of Pardons. It has been acknowledged by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in decision after decision, a couple of them within the last couple months. wherein the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has said its duty on appeal is to consider whether or not the evidence is sufficient to sustain the verdict.

Q The Supreme Court's duty?

A Supreme Court's duty. We look at this case to find out—let us take a case of murder. We look at this case to find out whether or not the evidence is sufficient to sustain the verdict of murder in the second degree; and we find that it is sufficient. That means that, accepting the evidence of the Commonwealth to be true as the jury undoubtedly did accept it to be true, we find that that makes out a case of murder in the second degree.

In first degree murder cases, the Act of 1870 imposes a separate duty upon the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and that is to independently review the record regardless of the arguments of counsel, to find out whether the essential ingredients of murder in the first degree exist. So in every first degree murder case the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania reviews the record and says either that it does support murder in the first degree or it does not. But in all such instances they accept the evidence as being true.

Whenever counsel in such cases have argued to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania that the evidence was untrue, that a witness was not telling the truth or that the defendant was actually innocent, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has in many opinions said that it not a proper argument to address to the Supreme Court; that is a proper argument to address to the Board of Pardons.

So that by judicial decision by the Supreme Court, by the unbroken history of the Board of Pardons as it has come down to us since the Constitution put it in there, and from the the English Common Law where the appeal was to the Sovereign, there was always an appeal to the Sovereign on the question of actual innocence, not merely on the question of whether the evidence was insufficient to support the verdict.

Am I making my distinction clear?

Q I understand that. But if there is a feeling of innocence, then shouldn't the sentence not be commuted, but pardoned? I am talking about cases where the recommendation was that the sentence be commuted from 24 months to 16 months or something of that nature; and yet the reason was that there was a feeling of innocence on the part of the Board. In my estimation, if there is a feeling of innocence, then the recommendation should be a complete pardon.

A That is precisely my own feeling; but I will cite you a case in which I was a participant some years ago. There was a murder case that took place in Pottstown, which went to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and by a vote of 4 to 3 the conviction of murder in the second degree was sustained.

Later, the Chief Justice of Pennsylvania asked me if I would appear before the Board of Pardons and argue that case on the ground that the man was actually innocent. I did appear before the Board of Pardons, argued the case, and it was not decided immediately, but the argument was based upon absolutely nothing except the innocence of the defendant.

Then a reargument was ordered. I again argued it. I think each of those arguments took two solid hours, in which all the facts of the case were reviewed. That was on the plea that the defendant was absolutely innocent, because if he weren't innocent, he deserved more than he got, and I frankly said so. His sentence, nevertheless, was commuted. The Board did not grant a full pardon, such as we asked for but they granted a commutation.

Q Which isn't consistent, is it?

A It seemed to me to be inconsistent. I felt they should grant a complete pardon; but when they granted this relief which let the man loose from what the Chief Justice of Pennsylvania thought was lacking merit, and everybody accepted the commutation because there was no point in the man just remaining in jail.

The question of subsequent pardon could have been taken up later; but that was done in that case. I have no doubt that it was done in others, where the Board did not want to go the whole way of issuing a pardon directly out of jail, and instead tok the first step in issuing commutation.

I agree with you that it is inconsistent.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q General, I am a little concerned with this time factor. You testified that you have spent evenings studying these records because of other pressing duties. Looking back to the other legislative session, where we went for 16 or 17 months, which is a long session, does the Attorney General have the time to sit as a member of the Board of Pardons if he covers all his other phases?

A The Attorney General, I would say, does not have the time to do all of his duties, whatever they are. The post of Attorney General is a demanding one. I am not looking for anyone to weep along with me or anything—

Q I will weep with you on it.

A But it is a time-consuming job. Those, however, are tremendously important duties. No Attorney General can shirk them and no Attorney General can shunt them aside on the ground that he has more important work.

Q And he cannot delegate it; is that right?

A He has no power to delegate them. The administrative code specifically states that he cannot delegate those duties; and various screening processes have been thought to be desirable; that is, that a Committee other than this group of four constitutional officers might preliminarily read litigation and applications and determine those which might be meritorious, and then a public hearing could be held only on those which were determined to be the most meritorious cases. In that event, the whole thing could be done in one way. There might only be one-fourth of the hearings.

A method of that kind was suggested when Attorney General Snader was Attorney General. What they did was read the applications and then decided to grant a number of hearings. There might be as little as ten or eight cases a month. Of course, they might grant one, two, four five; or they might grant the whole ten. But they did not take any time to consider the obviously unworthy ones.

I myself lean the other way. I feel that it is an important part of the administration of justice that when men are in jail they have to have the feeling that hope is not gone, that they have to have some tribunal to which they can turn, who will listen to them. Maybe they will not agree with them, and Lord knows how often cases are turned down. There are very few that are granted. But if there comes a time when the inmates in institutions feel that there is no one in the Commonwealth to whom they may turn, hope will be lost and it will be very hard to run the institution.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. McBride, a little while ago, on the question of commutations to the members of the Pardons Board or to the Pardons Board generally, you said that a recent commutation came to the Pardons Board, a request for commutation, by a member of the United States House of Representatives. You are going to save me a lot of inquiry and perhaps other members of the Board, because they will come to us and want to know who it is. I don't know. Would you mind telling us who wrote the recent letter to the Pardons Board in connection with this case?

A I don't mind at all. I would like to preface it by saying it is about a pending case, and I do not hold it against the man who wrote it.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I just wondered whether we might not inquire into any matters presently pending before the Pardons Board so as not to affect those cases. I think we ought to stick by that. I wouldn't care to prejudice this case before the Board by having it publicly disclosed at this time.

A There is something to what the Senator says. It is from a Congressman. I do not see that there would be any harm done if I were to preface it by the statement that I certainly do not believe that this was an improper attempt to influence the Board of Pardons; but whichever way the Chairman wants to do it, I will hand it to Senator Yosko, the Chairman, or the Committee, and you can regard it as public matter or not, as you please.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q We have some very sharp newspapermen here and they have already gotten the name from the slip of paper.

A I want to be perfectly fair to this man. I don't know him. But I think that rather than keep it a secret now, I think it probably should be spread upon the record.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Why not mention the name of the Congressman, but do not identify the case.

A All right. I can read the letter and not mention the case.

Q All right. I wouldn't care to prejudice this case that is presently pending before the Pardons Board.

A All right. It is the stationery of the Congress of the United States, House of Representatives Washington, D. C. March 28, 1957.

"Board of Pardons
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir:

I respectfully refer to the application of —blank—for commutation of sentence which will be before your Board in April of this year. According to my information, Mr. —blank—is confined at Rockview Penitentiary, and it is my understanding that his record in confinement is good. If such is the case, it is my hope that favorable action may be taken on the application and that he may be permitted to return home to take care of his wife and children.

With best wishes, I am

Respectfully,

Richard M. Simpson, M.C."

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q You did say, Mr. McBride, that you do not consider that as exerting political influence?

A No, I don't.

Q And you did say, too, that Mr. Simpson wrote the letter, now that his name has been mentioned. In view of the publicity that had been given to letters written to members of the Pardons Board, he apparently didn't feel that there was undue or improper political influence in that respect.

A I am sure that, if he would have felt it, he would not have written it. I feel reasonably sure—I don't know Congressman Simpson and I have no personal knowledge as to which party he is a member of.

Q That is addressed generally to the Board of Pardons?

A Board of Pardons, Harrisburg Pennsylvania.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. McBride, during your disclosure here this morning on the setup of the Pardons Board, you did say that administratively there could be some improvement by increasing the budget of the Pardons Board and by giving it additional personnel; but for the time being, you rely on those confidential reports that you get from the parole officer. In this DiVito case, that report which you reviewed, would you say in construing that, that it was favorable or unfavorable?

A I would say that that report would indicate that we should act favorably on Mr. DiVito's application.

Q Sometime during this hearing there was some question of whether or not Mrs. DiVito was on relief. Has there been any information presented to you or anybody else to indicate whether that was true or untrue?

A Since the hearing?

Q Yes.

A Yes.

Q And what was that?

A A certificate to that effect from the officials in charge. Mr. Lord, have you got that?

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Was this received prior to the time it made its decision, General?

A No, I say it wasn't. Mr. Finnegan got it. It is a letter of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Public Assistance, dated April 1, 1957.

> "Subject: Mrs. Louis DiVito, 402 East Fourth Street, Lester, Pennsylvania
> "To the Honorable James A. Finnegan, Sectary of the Commonwealth
> "From Robert P. Ray, Deputy Secretary.
> "In reply to your telephone request this afternon I learned the following from the Executive Director of the Delaware County Board of Assistance Mrs. Louis DiVito and her three children received assistance from October 1, 1956 to December 17, 1956. At that time her husband was in Broad Meadows Prison. Assuming that the usual investigation was complete, it would have been determined that Mrs. DiVito had no means of support. However, Mrs. DiVito was able to secure part-time employment, and at the time she reported this to the County officers she said that her older daughter would also be getting employment. She asked that her case be closed."

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Because matters of importance have come up, it makes it necessary for the Attorney General to be elsewhere this afternoon; and because the Lieutenant Governor cannot be present this afternoon, these hearings will recess until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Stenographic report of hearing held in House Caucus Room, Main Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, at 10:00 a.m., Thursday, April 4, 1957.

PRESENT:

REPRESENTATIVE EDWIN W. TOMPKINS, Chairman.

REPRESENTATIVE CLARENCE D. BELL.

REPRESENTATIVE PHILIP LOPRESTI.

SENATOR ROBERT D. FLEMING.

SENATOR WILLIAM Z. SCOTT.

SENATOR JOSEPH J. YOSKO.
Members of Committee.

APPEARANCES:

THOMAS D. McBRIDE, ESQUIRE, Attorney General, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Board of Pardons.

VICTOR H. WRIGHT, ESQUIRE, Deputy Attorney General Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Board of Pardons.

DAVID S. KOHN, ESQUIRE, 9 N. Front Street Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Committee.

JAMES WILLIAM EVANS, ESQUIRE, 5 N. Front Street Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
For—Committee (Assisting Counsel).

JAMES K. ARNOLD, ESQUIRE, 2109 Market Street Camp Hill, Pennsylvania
For—Committee (Assisting Counsel).

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Are you ready to proceed Mr. Kohn?

MR. KOHN: Yes sir.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We might as well get under way.

MR. KOHN: I have nothing further to present on the DeVito case at this time. I think Mr. McBride has some witnesses.

I believe Mr. Kohn said he had finished with his DeVito presentation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes I heard that. I think you want me to wait until Senator Yosko gets here.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's proceed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: All right, if you will just indulge me a second. I thought Mr. Kohn might have something else so I will rearrange our work here and proceed immediately.

Mr. Arnold, would you be prepared to take the stand at this time on the question of the correctness or incorrectness of the number of commutations recommended by the Board during the year 1955-1956?

MR. ARNOLD: Just a minute, sir, I will go back and get that information; I haven't it with me.

ATTORNEL GENERAL McBRIDE: All right, at your convenience.

JAMES K. ARNOLD, recalled on

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Your full name Mr. Arnold is what?

A James K. Arnold.

Q Your position as Assistant Counsel for the investigating board has already been stated of record.

A Correct.

Q Of cource you are a member of the Bar?

A I am sir.

Q You did make a check to determine the correctness or incorrectness of certain figures that I had put in evidence showing the number of cases granted by the Board of Pardons during the year 1955-1956?

A Yes sir; in so far as your question refers to a count of the records in the House Clerk's office, that is so.

Q Yes. Now first af all, it is correct, is it not, Mr. Arnold, that what our report showed was that the Board granted 205 applications for the year 1955?

A Yes sir.

Q Now you made a check. Will you tell the committee what check you made, the results of that check that you stated in your former testimony, and then tell us any review of the entire matter you conducted in the interest of telling the Board precisely what the facts are, and then what your ultimate statement now to the Board is.

A Surely sir. In the Office of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, I counted the number of favorable recommendations by the Board of Pardons in the year 1955. I would like to take one year at a time; it is easier for me.

Q Sure, I would like you to.

A And the Board had issued a figure of 205 for that year. In my count of the said records, I counted 310, or a difference of 105. That was the essence of my testimony prior to this time.

Subsequent to that time, with the cooperation of Mr. Hean in the Pardons Board and Miss Justine Cohen, the Secretary to the Lieutenant-Governor, I believe, we went into this matter and came up with an explanation for the difference in the figures.

Miss Cohen recounted the recommendation which I had counted in the House Clerk's office, and contrary to my 310, she came up with a figure of 311, which was an error, of one, on my part in favor of the Board, and arose by virtue of the fact that two recommendations had been made on the same sheet of paper, one on back of the other, which I had missed.

The discrepancy arose for this reason: Although I believe we could fairly say that, technically, 310 were favorable recommendations by the Board and signed by the Members, the fact is that 108 of those were made by virtue of the fact that under certain legislation the Parole Board recommends to the Board of Pardons that, I believe, after 5 years of good behavior or some such time—I am not totally familiar with the legislation—certain prisoners be commuted as to the maximum.

We can fairly say that so long as there is no objection by a district attorney or a judge, which is seldom, if ever, the case, the Board of Pardons then automatically recommends to the Governor that these maximums be commuted; and it is a process of, shall we say, an administrative function rather than discretionary.

So that, although we have technically 311 for the year 1955, a recount would show that the number of cases heard by the Board—cases of the type with which we have been dealing in these hearings and recommended by the Board—were 203, or two less than were stated into the record originally.

Q That is, there were two types of cases considered by you in coming up with your figure of 311?

A Yes sir.

Q One case type was the type which is heard in open hearing, wherein the applicant or his representative appears, the district attorney makes a recommendation, the prison authorities, and so forth; and then as a result of that hearing the Pardons Board either recommends clemency or recommends the refusal of clemency.

A That is precisely correct.

Q That is one group?

A One group; yes sir.

Q Then there is another group of administrative recommendations by the Board of Parole, which are not heard in open hearing, and so to which the Board of Pardons simply asks the district attorney whether he has any objection to any of such cases, and upon hearing none, all of those are granted?

Q That is, as you understand it, a practice that has existed so long as the Board of Parole has existed?

A I believe so; yes sir.

Q If we were trying to consider comparable figures as to former Boards, we would have to add a similar group to the figures in years past?

A Yes sir. The net result of all this is that the study which has been made and to which we referred originally, was made on the basis of cases heard by the Board in open hearing, the type of cases we have been dealing with here. That type case was counted and referred to through the past 5 years, or whatever it was, and none of these Parole Board recommendation cases were included; so that the study itself, although technically short some number, by virtue of not including these others, is none the less valid because what technical error there may be, was uniform back through the years. Actually, the records are then substantially correct.

Q Therefore, in conclusion, as to the year 1955, the present Board of Pardons published a statement that it had granted leniency in 205 such cases?

A Yes.

Q Your study shows that they had granted leniency in 2 less, or 203 such cases?

A Yes sir; in the category of the discretionary hearing and recommendation.

Q Now as to the year 1956, the figures released by the Board showed that executive clemency had been granted in 137 cases. When you made your first check up, you reported to this Board that clemency had been granted in how many?

A I had counted, in 1956, from January to November inclusive, because December recommendations were not yet on file, and that number totaled 270. I believe from your exhibit I then added your number of 10 for December, and my figure then totaled 280 for 1956.

Q Now is the explanation of the 280 for the year 1956 the same as the explanation you gave as to 1955?

A Yes, exactly the same.

Q That is, you did include both the adversary public hearings and the administrative actions upon recommendation of the Board of Parole?

A Yes sir; exactly.

Q Now eliminating the administrative actions on recommendation of the Board of Parole, how many did you find in which executive clemency was granted by the Board in 1956?

A Well, according to the study made by Miss Cohen, in which I put full faith, the number came to 135, which is again perhaps 2 less than—

Q Two less?

A Than the records show.

Q So that the Board published a figure stating 137 cases of executive clemency and you discovered that there were, in fact, 135?

A Yes. I think what happens is this: When an applicant is recommended favorably and dies, his case is not considered by the Board in this study; whereas, for record purposes, the application remains on file.

Q Therefore, the percentage figures of executive clemency granted during the years 1955 and 1956 would, if revised, have to be revised downward?

A Downward; but there would be no material change whosoever, maybe one hundredth of a per cent.

Q So that you would state fairly that, from your investigation, that figures put out by the Board as being a correct statement of its grant of executive clemency for the year 1955-1956, were substantially correct?

A That is right sir; limiting it to the discretionary type.

Q Sure, that is the only type considered by the Boards release.

A I see.

Q That is the type that we have been considering in this hearing.

A That is exactly so; yes sir.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is all.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I have a question for General McBride. Do you have a copy of the Constitution there? You mentioned these so-called administrative commutations. Can we use that term and understand what it means?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is not a commutation.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Is it a pardon?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No it is not that. It is the release of a man from parole. It is a commutation of the maximum term, not of the minimum term.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General, doesn't this arise by reason of legislation?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Precisely, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Which gives a sentenced person so much time off each month or year of sentence for good behavior while in prison.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No, not that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: It is not that?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You are thinking, Mr. Chairman, of the Act of 1901, which in respect of flat sentences entitles a man to 2 months off for the first year, 3 months off for each succeeding year of good behavior. It is not that at all. This statute arises in respect of the administration of the Parole Act. When the Parole Act was put into effect it provided that the Board of Parole would supervise men who, having served their minimum sentence, were released on parole to serve the maximum of their sentence on parole; or, in addition, those whose minimum sentence was commuted by the Board of Pardons, and they, too, would serve the maximum sentence on parole.

It was provided that the Board of Parole itself, having supervised these men for a period of time and being of the opinion that further supervision by the Board of Parole was wasteful and unnecessary, could itself make recommendations to the Board of Pardons so that that man need no longer be supervised on parole.

Every month the Board of Parole makes recommendations to the Board of Pardons. In the list which the Board of Pardons puts out, and I have sent for some to show you precisely what I mean—

THE WITNESS: Calendar.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The calendar lists all the cases by nane and number which are to be heard by the Board. In the back of the book, there is a section—for instance, I have the Wednesday and Thursday September 12 and 13, 1956 calendar—where there is a whole group of cases headed as follows: Recommendations from the Board of Parole to the Board of Pardons for commutation of maximum sentence to parolees who had an excellent record for 5 years and upward and which will be recommended to His Excellency the Govevrnor unless objection is made.

On the very next page is a list of people from the Allegheny County Workhouse and from the Philadelphia County Prison at Holmesburg, Pennsylvania, and you will see that it is headed: Recommendations from the Board of Inspectors from county prisons for prisoners whose terms expire during the months of September, October, and November.

At each session of the Board of Pardons, the Lieutenant-Governor, as the presiding officer, states in the presence of the district attorney of Allegheny County the list of people covering Allegheny County, and says, "Unless objection is heard, these recommendations of the Board of Parole will be made for commutation of the maximum sentence." The district attorney invariably responds, "There is no objection." At the end of the Philadelphia cases the Lieutenant-Governor, as Chairman, then says the same thing, 'Unless objection is heard, this recommendation will be made." In respect of the other matters from the Board of Parole, the announcement is made in open court, and then those recommendations automatically go to the Governor.

What Mr. Arnold has been explaining is that when he made his first count, in addition to the recommendations that the Board had made after hearings, he counted these additional recommendations. They had never been considered, either in the figures that were put out for the Board of Pardons in 1956-1956 or for the Board of Pardons in 1953-1954.

That is a matter of statute, you see, Mr. Bell, it would not be in the Constitution; but there is nothing unconstitutional about it.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Aren't they commutations under Article IV, Section 9 and the hearing therefore constitutes an open hearing?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: They are a commutation, I would say, within the coverage of Article IV, Section 9, supplemented by a statute covering this precise condition. There is a public hearing in a sense that it is done in a public room such as this; the calendar is advertised, the district attorney is given the opportunity to state his objection, and when none is heard, a pro forma action is taken as many pro forma actions of other deliberative bodies are taken.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: I have no further questions, Mr. Chairman.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Is it clear to all the Members of the Board? Both sides have attempted fairly to get this question straightened out, and I must say that nobody has been fairer than Mr. Arnold about it.

SENATOR SCOTT: It is easy to understand how the question arose and the discrepancy arose, and it is just as easy to understand the explanation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is another evidence of the fact that people working together in good faith to accomplish a truthful answer will do it.

BOARD'S EVIDENCE

JAMES A. FINNEGAN, a witness having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows on

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Finnegan, your full name is what?

A James A. Finnegan.

Q Your address is what?

A Fifty-seven forty-three Springfield Avenue, Philadelphia 43.

Q Your official position is what?

A Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Q When did you become a Member of the Board of Pardons?

A In January 1955.

Q How long during the year 1955 did you continue to be a Member of the Board of Pardons?

A I heard all of the cases during the year 1955.

Q Did you hear any of the cases during the year 1956?

A No I did not.

Q Why not?

A Well I resigned from my position effective the latter part of December 1955, as Secretary of the Commonwealth, and for that reason I was not eligible to sit on the Board in 1956.

Q Did there come a time when you came back to your position as Secretary of the Commonwealth?

A Yes I came back in January of 1957.

Q Did you sit on the Board of Pardons during January 1957?

A Yes I did.

Q Have you sat during February and March?

A Yes I have.

Q There has been testimony here by a Mr. Smith that he communicated with you, had a conversation with you, sent a letter of introduction to you, and you will recall the other testimony given by Mr. Smith in connection with yourself. Mr. Finnegan, will you go on in your own way and tell the Board what you know of this matter?

A Well, normally, I would hate to dignify Mr. Smith's remarks and his testimony by going into a lengthy dissertation on whether or not he was actually telling the truth. In 1955, I think it was in the January session of 1955, Mr. Smith came to me at a Pardons Board hearing and gave me a letter of introduction—it was my first hearing—from the then Mayor of Philadelphia, Joseph Clark. In the letter it stated: Any courtesy shown to Mr. Smith would be appreciated.

Mr. Smith at the time also attempted to indicate to me that he was quite a believer and follower of Joseph Clark and of Richardson Dilworth. I gained the impression from him that he was a resident of Philadelphia, and though from my own political experience in Philadelphia I never had any knowledge of Mr. Smith's activities on one part or another, I was of the belief from what he said to me that he was definitely a very staunch Democrat and was working on behalf of the Democratic Party in that area.

Is was never more surprised in my life when Judge Bretherick read a letter from Mr. Smith, indicating that he was a very staunch Republican, and that the Board was biased against him because of this fact. I myself had no knowledge whatsoever that he was a Republican or that he was a resident of Chester County.

Subsequently to that, Mr. Smith wrote me a letter and the letter is in evidence. It was the most flagrant attempt I have yet seen of trying to exert political influence on the Board of Pardons. I was considerably irate about having received such a letter and I was going to answer him, but out of consideration for my Secretary, I felt that I could not answer him properly unless strong language was used, and I did not want to subject her to that.

He did call on me. I don't know whether it was at my request or whether he came in voluntarily. I told him then that I had every reason to report him to the Bar Association for having written such a letter and that the only thing preventing me from doing that was the one saving sentence he had in there: "Of course, I do not believe that the Board can be influenced politically." But then he goes on to state in the letter: If there was any doubt about his partisan sympathy, he would be deeply indebted to me if I would show the letter of introduction, that Mayor Clark had given him, to the other Members of the Board.

In the final paragraph of the letter he goes on to state, in reference to the now famous Shattuck cases, that not only would this be in the interest of justice—the assistance given to the Shattucks—but also it would be in the best interest of the party, I think he put it, or of the Democratic Party, I believe, since they were the center of Democratic activity in Sullivan County.

I told him in no uncertain terms just exactly what I thought of him attempting to do any such thing as that, particularly since he should have known better since he was a Member of the Bar.

I think the Smith testimony is important not because of what Mr. Smith said but because of the fact that Judge Bretherick, in his testimony, used that letter as a basis for his personal opinion that there was political influence used, that is, Smith's letter to Bretherick.

This was the reason that he had also charged the Grand Jury on two different occassions that political influence was dominant in the Board of Pardons. I, for one, would very much like to have seen Mr. Smith substantiate the accusation he made that there were several cases he knows of in which political influence was used.

He asked for immunity because of the confidential relationship that existed between lawyer and client, and in open court he said he would be very happy to give it to the members of the investigating committee in executive session.

He later changed his mind about this. Yet, a considerable number of newspapers had headlines: Lawyer accuses Pardon Board of having political influence in cases before them.

There was no correction of this, or a very limited correction.

I think any accusations such as Mr. Smith made are damaging to the reputations not only of this Board but of previous Boards. I say of previous Boards, particularly, because Mr. Smith testified that his clients were now on parole, and because he also testified that this Board had not granted any clemency in these cases. Obviously he was referring to a Board other than this one. However, I think the same consideration should be shown to other Members of previous Boards.

Here was an accusation leveled by a man whose credibility certainly is questionable.

Q Mr. Smith at no time said that he had evidence of political activity on the part of the present Board, did he?

A No he did not.

Q That is the way, however, it was reported?

A It was interpreted in that manner.

Q As if he had said that he had evidence of political pressure on the present Board?

A That is correct.

Q Mr. Finnegan, there was testimony also, which I believe you will recall, that at one time you are said to have met a Mr. Wolford, a lawyer. Do you recall that testimony?

A I do.

Q Tell the Board what the facts are in respect of it.

A Well, the district attorney or the assistant district attorney of Erie County, when he was asked by one of the Members of the Board whether he had any knowledge of political influence, stated that he had not. I think a further question was asked of him: "Were you ever suspicious that any political influence was used." He answered: Yes, he was. He was asked to explain that and he explained it in the following manner.

There was a case of a pardon being argued in front of the Board for a man who had served no time at all in jail prior to going to jail. I believe the man's name was Kauffman, from Erie. He testified that he had seen the counsel for this individual by the name of Wolford, and Wolford had said to him, even though he was the advocate of Kauffman, that he thought something was wrong because he was pleading a pardon case where the man had not served any time. Then, later on, according to McLaughlin's testimony, he saw Wolford introduced to me and I shook hands with Mr. Wolford.

There was further testimony that the disposition of the case was that the case was refused, but this, in Mr. McLaughlin's mind was sufficient indication for him to be suspicious of political influence being exerted upon the Board.

I have no recollection of ever seeing Mr. Wolford. I would not know Mr. Wolford if he walked through that door there. I have no recollection of being introduced to him. As any of you members of the investigating committee realize, or anybody in public life constantly being introduced to people, it would certainly be less than polite if you did not offer to shake hands with them.

I do not know Mr. Wolford personally. I have no recollection at all of ever having met Mr. Wolford. Perhaps I was introduced to him. Perhaps I did shake hands with him; I would not testify to the fact that I did not.

Certainly if this is an indication of political influence, when the pardon was turned down, we are stretching the evidence pretty thin.

Q Was there any influence used whatever upon you in any of those Erie County cases?

A There was absolutely no influence used on me at all in any of the Erie County cases.

Q Was there any evidence, political or otherwise, of any improper influence used upon you in connection with the Delaware County cases?

A There was absolutely none.

Q In any single case in which you sat as a Member of the Board of Pardons, have you ever been influenced politically or improperly?

A I have not.

Q Have you acted in each case only in accordance with what you thought the merits of the case required?

A I acted on what I believed were the merits of the case, and that alone was what I based my decision on.

I would like to say this. Counsel for the committee has indicated—at least by his actions and by his type of questioning—that there has been political influence and that there was little merit to the commutations granted.

If we want to get into the substance of these cases that have been investigated by this Board, if we want to get away from the trivia of "Why did you grant a two weeks lesser sentence? Why wasn't it properly recorded?" There may have been clerical errors, I don't disagree with that.

It was testified in those Erie County cases that the judge had written to us and asked that some clemency be given to Martin and that he be released for Christmas. Others were to be released at the same time, which was January 6, and the Board agreed that the commutation should be lessened a few weeks more so that they could enjoy Christmas at home. It was just as simple as that.

I would like to say this further about the Erie County cases. The Board was much more severe than the district attorney. Since Mr. Kohn consistently refers to Mayor Flatley as the Democratic Mayor of Erie and Schwartz as the Democratic State Committeeman, perhaps the investigating committee will pardon me if I say that the Republican District Attorney was asking for commutations when the Board felt they should not grant commutations.

I think you have evidence in your files now which will indicate that in all but two cases he asked that clemency be extended to the men who were involved in this gambling conspiracy and that the Board refused in a number of occasions to go along with the commutations he requested in June.

We had one case which was particularly bad, in the fact that this man had a very serious previous criminal record, a man by the name of Dominic. He was arrested for murder, he was convicted of accessory after the fact of murder, he had a burglary charge, a larceny charge and other charges. He was engaged in this gambling conspiracy. Yet Mr. McLaughlin came up here and asked that his sentence be commuted.

The Board refused to commute that sentence because of the previous record.

There was not one case that was argued in front of this Board that clemency was not requested, or at least not opposed, by the district attorney and also by the judges.

We had one judge, I forget his name at the moment, I think it was Evans—

Q Yes.

A Who testified the reason he said he had no objection, or that he would rely on the Board, was because he could not withstand the pressure back home, or words to that effect.

So if political influence was used in any of the Erie cases, then I think it would be well, perhaps, for the members of the Legislature to inquire back in Erie, as to what political influence was used on the district attorney or the judges to make recommendations such as came to the Pardons Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Cross-examination by the committee.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Finnegan, I did not quite follow that first part of your speech. Could you give it again? I mean the beginning of it.

A I will be glad to answer any question.

Q Well, to the first question you gave about a ten minute answer. Could you give that again?

A I don't think I am going to dignify that with an answer, unless you tell me specifically what you are referring to.

Q I mean, you berated Mr. Breterick and everybody else. I did not quite follow you as an answer to the question Mr. McBride asked.

A What was the question?

Q I don't think your answer was responsive.

A What was the question you are trying to get me to answer?

Q Well, will you give us that about Judge Bretherick being—

A I will be very happy.

Q Your reasoning there.

A Judge Bretherick came into this room, Judge Bretherick was asked a question, and you have the transcript of the testimony that was given here that day: "Do you know, personally, of any political influence that was ever exerted on the Board of Pardons?" His answer was: No he did not. Then he said, however, that it was his personal opinion.

The further question was asked on him: "On what do you base this personal opinion?" He said: "Well, I have a letter here, and if you will allow me to read it, I will then indicate to you on what I base my personal opinion." This is the famous letter from Charles Smith.

Q Is that it? I mean, that is on what you base the fact that Judge Bretherick came up here and testified?

A These are the notes of testimony.

Q Weren't you on the Board of Pardons when the executive minutes contained the letters and correspondence between Judge Bretherick and the Board of Pardons?

A I was.

Q Isn't it a fact that those letters were sparked off by the McSorley and Caserta cases and not by Smith's letter? Didn't Judge Bretherick, even prior to getting Smith's letter, criticize the Board of Pardons?

A Did he? I don't know.

Q Well, don't you recall that the Board had quite a discussion in its executive minutes in regard to Judge Bretherick's remarks to a Grand Jury back in March?

A In March of this year?

Q March of 1956.

A Well, I was not on the Board in 1956.

Q I understand you were not but you are ascribing Judge Bretherick's entire remarks to a letter he received from Smith. Now I am asking you whether—

A Mr. Kohn, I am referring you to what Judge Bretherick testified here in these hearings.

Q Don't you recall the testimony that he addressed the Grand Jury of Delaware County about March and June of 1956 in regard to the McSorley and Caserta cases? Don't you recall that?

A He may—do I remember the testimony?

Q What you are trying to tell—

A Just a minute, if you will let me answer the question.

Q Go ahead.

A I do remember the testimony that he addressed the Grand Jury. I don't recall what date it was.

Q I mean, you won't say, then, that this letter is the thing that sparked Judge Bretherick into criticizing the Pardons Board? The letter was not even in issue at that time.

A Again I go back to the testimony given before this Board. We are talking about political influence and undue influence used on the Board. I merely say this, that Judge Bretherick, in his own language, testified that his personal opinion, that political influence was used on the Board, was based on the Smith letter. If that is what was testified to, I am not going to try to dig into Judge Bretherick's mind as to what started him off on the tirade against the Pardon Board.

Q I am asking you, Mr. Finnegan, isn't it a fact that Judge Bretherick, even before receiving the letter, had criticized the Board of Pardons before the Grand Jury of Delaware County and alleged that there was political influence involved? Don't you know that?

A He may have done so. That wasn't his—

Q Didn't you check the executive minutes?

A Well, now, if I am going to answer your question, I wish you would have the courtesy to allow me to answer them and then ask me further questions.

A Go ahead, Mr. Finnegan.

A I merely say this: This is what Judge Bretherick said up here; this is his testimony; you have it right in front of you. This is what he based his personal opinion of political influence on (indicating letter).

Q What I am asking you about is, didn't Judge Bretherick say he addressed the Grand Jury and criticized the Board even before he got the Smith letter?

A Yes I will admit that.

Q Then how can you say the entire basis of Judge Bretherick's testimony was the receipt of a letter and that is what he said was the basis of his testimony?

A Either you are not listening very clearly or I am not articulating very well.

Q Well, let's blame it on me, but I don't understand it.

A I am answering the question of political influence and undue influence that was used on the Board.

Q You are saying—

A I will go over it again. Judge Bretherick was asked by one of the members of the investigating committee: Do you know of any political influence or any other undue influence that was brought to bear on the Board? He said: No, not personally. "Then this is just your personal opinion"—well, let me read it for you. Perhaps this will be clearer.

"A I shall have to say to you that I do not"—this is in answer to the question about political influence—"but I want to say this to you, that I am not saying to you that only this Board was governed by political consideration. I think other Boards have been also governed by political consideration."

Q What page are you reading from?

A One ninety.

"Q Do you have any evidence of that?

"A No, certainly.

"Q Well then if you do not have any evidence.

"A That is my opinion.

"Q An opinion which you could not substantiate with evidence?

"A I happen to be a member of the public for some unknown reason, and I am expressing my opinion as an individual who happens to be a member of that public.'

Question by the Attorney General: "Mr. Chairman, I submit we are not entitled to listen to gossip whether it comes from the Judge, the public or anybody else. There should be something better than mere gossip.

"THE WITNESS: Well, you will have it here if you will let me read it.

"CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: This witness has, from the record, stated that he was giving his opinion as a member of the public—you did not say the public generally—but he was merely expressing his own views in connection therewith, and we will permit that.

"ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If you are going to permit him to say that this was dominated by political influence without the scintilla of evidence, that is unfair.

"CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: We will let him speak for himself and take the letter for what it is worth.

"ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: You got a letter here from some man. That is nothing but hearsay.

"SENATOR YOSKO: We will take his statement for what it is worth.

"THE WITNESS: Well, I think you are going to find it is worth something too, after I read it if you will let me.

"BY SENATOR YOSKO:

"Q That is what I want you to do. I have asked you if you have evidence of political influence on this Pardon Board or any other Pardons Board in so far as arriving at decisions. If you have it, present it to us. That is what we are here for.

"A I told you that it was my personal opinion, and that I have something in my hand on which I based that personal opinion.

"Q That is what we want."

Q Do you think Judge Bretherick based his whole statement on that?

A All I can do is read for you what Judge Bretherick said.

Q I know, but you are interpreting it for us.

A I am not interpreting anything. It seems to me, Mr. Kohn, this is what we have done consistently throughout this hearing. The Chairman was fair enough when he opened these hearings to say that they were not here to crucify anybody, but they wanted to get the facts in the case. For five weeks we have been listening to a lot of trivia such as you are trying to inject into this at the present time.

Q You don't think that is a political statement, do you?

A I think it is very clear to me. "I told you that it was my personal opinion, and that I have something in my hand on which I based that personal opinion." That seems to me to be an adequate answer to your question.

Q Are you trying to tell this legislative committee that they should not hear trivia, or what they have heard is just trivia, as you would like to call it.

A Well, I think it has been trivia.

Q Well, that is your opinion isn't it?

A That is my opinion.

Q It may not be the opinion of the committee.

A It may not.

MR. KOHN. That is all.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I just want to clear up that point you have been laboring on. I got the impression from your testimony, Mr. Finnegan—and if I am wrong I am sorry—that Judge Bretherick had charged the grand jury in Delaware County because of the receipt of this letter from Smith.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: He did not say that at all.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The records we have indicate that Judge Bretherick charged the grand jury in Delaware County on March 5, 1956 and also on March 8, 1956 there was a presentment. The Smith letter to Judge Bretherick is dated March 14 and is in congratulation. The first sentence says: "My heartiest congratulations on your efforts to expose the political decisions on the part of the Board of Pardons." So the sequence in connection with the documentary evidence we have certainly clearly indicates that Smith had not contacted Judge Bretherick prior to the time Judge Bretherick charged the grand jury.

THE WITNESS: That is correct, but I will also say this, that since Judge Bretherick saw fit to charge the grand jury and indicate that political considerations were involved, and since he could not substantiate that here before the committee other than with the Smith letter that is the reason I brought it in.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Well I wanted to correct the wrong impression that maybe I got, that Judge Bretherick charged the grand jury because of the Smith letter. But the documentary evidence does not—

A No, I say that the charge to the grand jury of political consideration being involved was not substantiated by anything that Judge Bretherick said before this investigating committee other than by the Smith letter.

Q I believe you also made a statement to the effect that no correction had been made in connection with the charges leveled by Mr. Smith of political influence. Were you referring there to any correction by Smith or a correction by the press?

A Correction by the press.

Q If you recall, we do have a letter which we put into the record, from Mr. Smith, requesting that that be stricken from the record; and it was directed to be stricken from the record.

A That is right. While we are on that Smith case, since the investigating committee is considering ways and means of strengthening the hand of the Pardons Board and attempting to eliminate any improper procedures, I think it might be well if the investigating committee would take into consideration these men who make it a practice, and whose sole practice or a good portion of it is devoted to Pardons Board work, to find out what type of a bill of goods they are selling to the prisoners in these penitentiaries.

Here you have Mr. Smith. Eliminating the Shattuck cases, which were argued as one case, he had an average of about four cases a year, in the four years preceding this Board taking over. He suddenly went up to 15 cases in one year. I am wondering whether or not he was going into the various penitentiaries and telling them that he was a personal friend of Members of the Board; whether he was showing them, perhaps, a photostatic copy of that letter from Mayor Clark, in an effort to solicit business.

This I think is very serious. It could be construed as some type of ambulance chasing within the prison walls in order to get Pardons Board cases. I think this is a very serious matter that the legislative committee ought to take into consideration.

Q Mr. Finnegan, may I state that I wholeheartedly agree with your views in that respect. If you have any information to that effect, this committee certainly would welcome it, not only as to Mr. Smith but as to any other individual whom you suspect has practiced before the Board since you have been a Member.

A I would be very happy to do that. I think if the legislative committee would recommend in their findings that the Pardons Board be given the privilege of investigating lawyers whose work seems to be solely before the Pardons Board, it might have a salutary influence on the presentation of cases.

Q Let me ask this question. I tried to bring it out yesterday in connection with some things. Perhaps I did not make it quite as clear as I intended. In going over the transcript of the statements made by Counsel before the Pardons Board, we find quite a number of cases where they made statements with reference to the case which do not have any foundation on the record as it appears in the court where the case was tried and where the sentence was imposed, and have no foundation in connection with the reports which the Board itself received, the confidential reports. I am quite seriously concerned as to what investigations the Board may make in addition to the information furnished to it, based upon statements made to it by Counsel.

A Well, I think we take into consideration this fact: Members of the Bar are subjected to other disciplines than the normal individual. Certainly a reputable attorney appearing before the Board of Pardons would not deliberately lie to the Board, since the chances of him coming back in the future are relativelly great.

I think we take into consideration that these men are responsible citizens and that they would not knowingly lie about any circumstances or any situation, because an investigation would disclose that.

When you say that they present evidence which has been contradicted by confidential reports, I don't know to what you are referring. Certainly if we have that confidential report and a lawyer testifies to the contrary it is usually called to his attention at that particular time.

Sometimes the lawyer unknowingly will say that the prisoner has a good prison record. We, of course, have the prison record in front of us. It is an indication that perhaps the attorney had not delved into this as much as he might. But he has been given this impression by somebody—by the prisoner himself, perhaps—without a follow-up on his part.

It is called to his attention immediately that the supporting material we have up here on the case contradicts that particular item.

So I think where we have that information available to us, we can see whether or not the attorney has told the truth, whether or not he has been guilty of a misstatement.

Q I am not trying to attack members of the Bar. I do not want to give that impression. Let me ask this question, then. I understand many times there are people who appear before the Pardons Board who are not members of the Bar or anything else. Do you have the feeling that there are other people appearing before the Pardons Board who may have been out openly soliciting this business before the Pardon Board?

A I do not. I merely point out that it struck me as rather odd—this is a combination of circumstances—in view of what Mr. Smith had done; the presentation of a letter from Mayor Clark, the follow-up of a letter to me saying that he wanted to sit down and have tea with the Members of the Pardons Board because he thought this confidential relationship should exist between the Members of the Pardons Board and the attorneys so that they would have greater confidence, this sudden jump from about five cases or six a year to fifteen cases; it indicated to me that perhaps maybe everything was not as kosher as it might be, that perhaps there was solicitation by Mr. Smith.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Finnegan, in your testimony you stated that Mr. Smith, the attorney who testified here, was undoubtedly casting reflections on previous Pardons Boards. Do you recall that testimony?

A That is right.

Q That is your personal opinion?

A Which I thought were unjust, by the way.

Q Well, that is your personal opinion, is it not?

A That is my personal opinion.

Q Do you have anything on which to base that opinion other than testimony that has been received in front of this Board?

A No, I do not.

Q Is it not also as logical that because of Mr. Smith's feeling toward the present Pardons Board he could have clients who have come to him, whom he has referred to another attorney to appear in front of your Pardons Board?

A I don't think I understand that question.

Q I will repeat it. Isn't it also equally as possible to assume—since your testimony was an assumption—that Mr. Smith could have had clients who came to him after the present Board was constituted, and because of Mr. Smith's feelings toward the present Board Mr. Smith could readily have referred them to another attorney?

A I think that would be highly illogical, Mr. Bell.

Q That is a matter of personal opinion.

A It is a matter of personal opinion. I think it would be highly illogical.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. Chairman, I think in that respect the record will show that Mr. Smith claimed immunity by reason of the fact that he would disclose a confidential relationship between himself and a client. He also said that these clients were now out and were still under the supervision of the Parole Board. Since he has had no commutations by the present Board, the inescapble conclusion must be that his clients were let out by a previous Board and that the confidential relationship which he claims must have been between his own clients and himself, otherwise he would be entitled to no immunity.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I think the respective opinions in this matter speak for themselves. I think the testimony speaks for itself. In my opinion, I think it is just as logical that these people could have been turned loose since 1955, and I think it is also just as logical that Mr. Smith, as an attorney being consulted by a client or the family of a client, could have referred to another attorney the matter of appearing in front of this Board.

BY SENATOR FLEMING:

Q Mr. Finnegan, do you think that the Pardons Board is adequately staffed? I think Governor Furman testified that you had two employees. Is that correct? I am not sure.

A I think it is very inadequately staffed. I think we are very much in need of additional clerical and stenographic help on the Pardons Board to properly do the job.

Q Recognizing the fact that you do have the use of the investigators for the Parole Board, would the creation of several investigators for the Board to use by itself be advantageous?

A I find myself in disagreement with the Attorney General on this matter. I don't think it would be a good idea for the Pardons Board to have its own investigators. I say that for this reason.

The great worry of this investigating committee is whether undue influence was exerted on the Members of the Pardons Board. Now if investigators work for Members of the Pardons Board, certainly under the present Board—and past Boards with their activities as I know them—I think it would probably have worked out.

But looking ahead into the future, if there were some Members seated on a Pardons Board who were inclined to allow political consideration to influence them, if they had investigators working for them and the investigators knew that a particular Member of the Board would like a favorable report on an individual, I think it might very well lead to that investigator being subjected to additional pressures which he normally would not.

At the present time, I don't believe anybody knows who does the investigating on a particular case. The Parole Board has a great number of investigators and a great number of men who are assigned these cases. Nobody in particular knows just who exactly is doing the investigating.

If we had four, six, or eight investigators, it would be well known to the public at large that these men were investigating these particular cases.

For that reason, if it is deemed that a more complete investigation than the one they gave us should be made, I still think the investigation should be left in the hands of the Parole Board as, well, an added insurance against influence being used.

Q I think the Parole Board investigators do a very fine job. I do not mean to replace them; I mean just a couple of investigators. For instance, you yourself this morning testified about something up in Erie—I don't know what it was. Would it be advantageous if the Board had their own investigator they could send up just to take a look at that, strictly on their own, to report back to the Board.

A Well, it might be. You mean not to have the investigator investigate the background of the individual—

Q That is right. I mean to rely on the Parole Board for that.

A Yes I would agree that that might be an advantage.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Senator, to apprize you of what Mr. Finnegan has testified, yesterday while General McBride was testifying he recommended, or made as one of his recommendations, that the Pardons Board should have an investigative staff of its own. That is the reason Mr. Finnegan made this statement in opposition to the General.

SENATOR FLEMING: I am sorry. I did not hear the General yesterday.

BY SENATOR FLEMING:

Q Mr. Finnegan, because of the multiplicity of the duties of the Members of the Pardon Board, such as you have as Secretary of the Commonwealth and Miss Blatt has in her duties, and so on, do you think there should be some full time Members of the Pardons Board?

A Well I don't think you could have same full time members and some part time members. If a decision is to be arrived at, I believe the amount of time reviewing a case should be spent by all the Members of the Board. It is not only the open hearing that we consider. We get a file several days in advance which gives us all of the background material.

I asked the Secretary of the Board if he would indicate what is included in that run-down that we have. It is rather comprehensive. I don't know whether the members of the investigating committee are aware of just exactly the type of information we have some days in advance. This is together with the testimony that is presented at the open hearing.

We have the summary of investigation by an agent of the Board of Parole; they send to us an investigation report. They give us the parole plan, if any. They give us the home, the sponsor, the employment, the reputation of the applicant.

They give us the comments of the judge and district attorney, as given to the agent in an interview as to the merits of the application.

They give the facts of the crime as taken from the notes of testimony and other facts. They give the criminal record, if any.

They also note on there any parole violations, and if there are untried indictments. They give us a list of accomplices and their sentences and places of confinement, if any, or whether any of those have been commuted.

The commutation summary as prepared by the staff of the penitentiary gives us the following information. It gives us the general information as to the applicant, his age, place of birth, intelligence rating, marital status and so forth.

It gives us the current case, the term, number and indictment; the name of the trial judge, date of sentence, effective date of sentence, the sentence and time served.

It gives us the detainers, if any; gives us a list of previous arrests and convictions of probation and parole.

It gives us the institutional report. It gives us, (a) the conduct report, (b) the vocational report, his work in the institution, (c) his educational report, what schooling he had taken in there.

It gives us the medical report, the psychological report, the psychiatric report.

It gives us the savings of the applicant, money he received while confined. It gives us a summary of the progress of the applicant. It gives us the classification summary, his fingerprint code and other details.

It briefly relates the applicant's version of the crime and the official version of the crime.

It gives the applicant's family background, the story about the father and mother of the applicant, the economic and social status, names and addresses of brothers and sisters and their employment.

It gives us the personal history of the applicant, his development as a youth, the school history, serious illnesses, if he has traveled, his recreational pursuits, and everything else.

We have his mental rating, mechanical test, personality and temperament; general impression of personality makeup.

It gives us the sources of the information contained in the report. Then we have letters, of course, from the trial judge, the district attorney, and other interested persons. A picture of the applicant, and frequently a confidential report from the prison staff itself.

So we do have this material.

Q Well, now, may I ask this, Mr. Finnegan, and believe me, I am not trying to trap you; I am after information—

A I know, it is perfectly all right.

Q If you carefully went into a case before you and went over all that data furnished to you, about how long would it take you to do that? Not while you are in the hearing; I mean while you are in your office.

A You get pretty used to going through this material that is available to you. Say, for instance, you come to a case where obviously, on its face, it has no merit: you give little consideration to the material that is given to you.

If the case is such that from a relation of the facts of the crime taken from official testimony—which is very brief, about three paragraphs—if you feel from the official facts of the crime, the sentence, the applicant's version of it, that there is certainly a question of doubt as to whether he has served sufficient time or not, then you would go into this background material.

Now this usually means, I would say, maybe ten to fifteen cases a month are deemed worthy of consideration. Consequently you go into that background material at that time.

Some applications on their face are not worthy of very serious consideration. If you have these files in front of you three days in advance, you can get adequate information on practically every worthwhile application that is being submitted to you.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Finnegan, I am not trying to trip you up, but in 1955 the figures released by the Pardons Board show 205 pardons and commutations. Now this ten to fifteen a month: do you mean that is in addition to the ones granted?

A Well, say fifteen a month that would be 120 plus 60; that would be 180. So maybe it is 17 or 18; maybe it is 20.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you pick them out in advance?

A You review the cases.

Q I mean, you say about 15 a month. I think what Mr. Bell means, those are about the ones that are granted. I mean, you have to review others besides those don't you?

A That is right.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Your case load runs in the neighborhood of 90 a month, doesn't it?

A Not since I have come back on the Board. At one time it ran that high. Since I have come back on the Board it is running now between 60 and 70.

If we have 70 cases listed, the chances are that there will be 6 or 8 continuances asked for; there will be 4 or 5 cases passed. So I would say that at the present time we are averaging about 60 to 70 hearings a month at tops.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Finnegan, in 1955 your records show 178. I believe the Board does not sit for two months in the summer.

A I am talking about since I came back on the Board, as I indicated to Mr. Tompkins. Prior to that the case load was much heavier. It is much less than it had been.

Q The reason I am following up Mr. Fleming's question is that I am vitally interested as to whether the present Members of the Board can find enough time to do both their official duties; as in your case, Secretary of the Commonwealth, and undoubtedly you are a member of other boards and have other official positions. My question would be: do you have adequate time to perform all your duties or do you have to neglect certain other duties as Secretary of the Commonwealth to perform your duties as a Member of the Pardons Board.

A I don't think there is adequate time in State government to do all of the things you are supposed to do, anyway; and even if one were relieved of Pardons Board activities I am sure there would be other activities thrust upon you, so that the same neglect would occur.

Q Well, I have one other question and then I will yield to other members of the committee. Do you feel that the Pardons Board administrative staff should be kept in the Department of Justice or should it, perhaps, be turned back to the Lieutenant-Governor's office since he is the President?

A I think it should be kept in the Department of Justice because there will always be questions involving law and interpretation of rules and decisions. I think it would be much better to keep it in the Department of Justice so that at anytime there can be that close liaison that exists between the Attorney General and the Pardons Board.

Q You have no difficulty or complaints arising by reason of it being in the Department of Justice?

A No, none at all.

Q You recommend it stay there?

A The only complaint is that he does not ask for enough money in his appropriation to properly staff a Pardons Board.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Finnegan, how much larger a staff do you think you ought to have, in order to have an effective staff?

A Well, I think there should be perhaps an Assistant Secretary, another stenographer, and another clerk.

Q Would that involve something like eighteen or twenty thousand dollars a year?

A Something like that, I would say; maybe twenty-five thousand at tops.

BY SENATOR SCOTT:

Q Mr. Finnegan, this may be trivial, but I am personally interested in knowing whether you, as the recipient of the Smith letter, read into that letter anywhere, in any sentence, anything of a sarcastic nature. I ask that because you will recall that when Mr. Smith was on the stand he testified that certain wording and certain capitalization was put in to show sarcasm and nothing else.

Did you, as the recipient of that letter, read into it sarcasm?

A Senator, I don't think I am capable of interpreting that. Perhaps I am not such a student of grammar that I could read anything like that into it. I thought he was saying here merely what he intended to say. Down here where he said, "I believe, therefore, that not only the interest of justice but of the Party will be served if something is done about the return of these fines"—

Q When he capitalized the "Party" you thought he was giving it due respect and not a touch of sarcasm?

A I definitely did. I mean I thought he was referring primarily—and I think he was—to the "center of the Democratic Party in Sullivan County." Now if he wanted me to believe that he was a Rpublican, it is certainly a little difficult for me to reconcile myself that he would come up to me and say, "Well, I am a very active Republican in Chester County; I am presenting this letter from Mayor Clark in the hopes that you will take a favorable look at all cases I have up here." I just don't think that adds up, Senator, in my book.

Q Neither do I.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Finnegan, you said the Pardons Board was understaffed. Who prepares the budget request for the Pardons Board?

A The Justice Department, I would asume; and I would assume that the Justice Department asked the Pardons Board for their recommendations.

SENATOR YOSKO: Is there anybody here who did prepare the budget request for the Pardons Board?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It was prepared before I got here. I discussed it with the Committee on Appropriations. I made the point that we needed additional money. But the Department of Justice, during the last biennium, was cut dreadfully, including the Board of Pardons. The Department of Justice proper was cut. The Justice Department asks for certain appropriations but then does not get them. Present indications are that the Department of Justice requests o the Appropriations Committee will be cut. We do not know that. However we pruned it as much as we could and asked only for realistic amounts.

I must say that when we presented our budget to the Appropriations Committee they listened very carefully when I explained the need for additional money for the Board of Pardons, and it looked to me as though they might well approve such a request.

I know that Chairman Tompkins has indicated to me that if the Board of Pardons needs additional funds, perhaps this committee might be helpful in solving our problem.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr: McBride, would you mind just stating for me what the problem is or why the need for additional help?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: There are a great number of applications received. We have to take care of advertising, we have to list the cases, we have to take care of all printing and the preparation of the cases for hearing. Mr. Hean has to go through all those records. We have to have our discussions.

There is need for secretarial help, need for an Assistant Secretary to aid him in his efforts.

Administratively the statute puts the Board of Pardons into Department of Justice. The Lieutenant-Governor, of course, is the Chairman of the Board of Pardons and presides over it. For administrative purposes the people who are employed are paid out of a separate part of the budget of the Department of Justice.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I want to ask this question now. Apparently every person who has made a request for a hearing has been heard; all of the papers required to be filed have been filed. Are you indicating that perhaps they are not filed in a manner they should be or completed to the fullest extent they should be?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No. I will give you one example that is considered to be important. I received a letter from Mr. Gernert, who is Chairman of the Board of Parole, that once the Board of Pardons decided to recommend an executive clemency, there ought to elapse more time between that recommendation and the time when the Board of Parole would have to process the application for parole.

I considered that to be an important question; that is, should a man, after getting word that he is going to be released, wait two or three months before being released? So I called on all of the wardens of the various penitentiaries and penal institutions, including the Commissioner of Corrections, to advise me as to what they thought about this kind of time. They were of exactly the opposite opinion.

They thought that once a man found out he was going to be released, every hour of every day was double time and that the papers should be processed as soon as possible.

Once our decision is arrived at that executive clemency should be granted, then, in the preparation of the papers for circulation among the Members of the Board of Pardons, sending them off to the Governor's office, once they are signed and all the Reasons approved, the additional help would enable us to cut down the time from, possibly, a month to 2 weeks—possibly 1 week or 10 days—thus doing what the wardens of the penitentiaries think is a very important thing, that is, to get the men out of the jail once they know they are going to get out. That extra time is terrible time suffered in jail.

SENATOR YOSKO: Mr. McBride, are the employees of the Pardons Board considered employees of the Department of Justice?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes they are.

SENATOR YOSKO: There is no separate appropriation earmarked for the Pardons Board?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes there is.

SENATOR YOSKO: Is it incorporated in the Department of Justice appropriation?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes, in this sense, the Department of Justice sends its request for an appropriation in the following way.

The Department of Justice proper—meaning the second floor, E floor of the Capitol building, the sort of hard core of the Justice Department; then, second, the Bureau of Corrections including all the jails throughout Pennsylvania, which come under the Commissioner of Corrections; and, third, the Board of Pardons as a separate aspect of the budget; then fourth, the Commission on Uniform State Laws, which is a small appropriation.

SENATOR YOSKO: As I understand it, in the past the appropriation of the Department of Justice is given to you in a lump sum figure. Hasn't that been the practice?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It has been allocated however to those categories.

SENATOR YOSKO: Now what would prevent you, as Attorney General, having complete supervision over the Department of Justice of which the Pardons Board is a part, from adding additional employees to the Department, I mean to the Pardons Board, paying them out of your lump sum appropriation?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: One very important practical question is that in the last biennium the requested appropriation of the Department of Justice was cut so deeply that we have been running a $52,000 deficit. The Department could not open and close its doors without actually running a deficit.

There is not a penny in the Department of Justice that could be used for the purpose, Senator, that you speak of, by putting on additional employees.

SENATOR YOSKO: But you would have that power and that right, though, wouldn't you?

ATTORNEY GENERAL BcBRIDE: I would say that under the present system of line by line earmarking of funds I would hesitate to use any employees from the Departmet of Justice proper in the Board of Pardons, without authorization, at least, of the Executive Board.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Finnegan, in line with some of our discussions here this morning I want to read an editorial from the June 25, 1956 Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and then ask a couple questions about it. It is entitled:

"LAW OR POLITICS

"It may be just pure coincidence, of course, but if so, a very remarkable coincidence, that since the Democrats came into control of the State Pardons Board, Democratic politicians from Allegheny County have been going before the Board in increasing numbers to plead for the release of convicted criminals.

"Incidentally, the Board, as the Sun Telegraph previously has noted, has been quite generous in pardoning convicted Democratic politicians, notably former Mayor Flatley of Erie, and others there found guilty of accepting bribes from a big gambling racket.

"Another circumstance in the activity of Democratic politicians as pardon brokers is calculated to cause a raising of eyebrows. We refer to the big fees that some of them, lawyers by profession, are reported to have received for interceding in behalf of convicted criminals. "Councilman Frederick Weir, for example, is alleged to have received a $1000 fee, plus $100 expenses, for appearing before the Board to solicit the release of a man sentenced in 1954 to serve from 10 to 20 years for armed robbery.

"Councilmen Paul F. Jones was paid $200 to seek a pardon for a man convicted of voluntary manslaughter. Norman P. Solicitor for Sheriff William H. Davis, received $150 to intercede in behalf of a man serving a sentence of 7½ to 15 years for assault" That appears to have been a rape case.

"Even though this may be legitimate legal service, the suspicions may be raised that it is political influence rather than legal skill which their convict clients are buying.

"It is curious, too, to see public officials opposing another public official. Assistant District Attorney Louis Abramson, in his efforts to prevent the pardoning of the malefactors. Somehow or other, politicians working as pardon brokers give a bad impression."

Now, understand, Mr. Finnegan, I think there was a letter put in here during this investigation to the effect that counsel was discharged because of the fact he said he thought maybe he could do better before the Board if he hired a Democratic lawyer.

The question I want to put to you is this: Do you think an applicant should be advised that persons of a certain political affiliation have no influence on the Board and they are making a terrible mistake spending money for that purpose?

A I certainly do and I would be very much in favor if there was some method that could be devised of indicating that because a lawyer happens to be of a certain political persuasion does not mean that he has any influence on the Board. I think that idea should be dissipated.

About Counsel's reading of the letter, that he was being supplanted by another attorney, Mr. Kohn in turn supplanted the attorney who supplanted him. In other words, I believe Mr. O'Leary was the original counsel in the case and then Mr. O'Leary was asked to step aside in behalf of Mr. Kohn. Mr. Kohn was then asked to step aside in favor of Mr. O'Leary. So this is "Tinker to Evans to Chance."

Q There is one additional question I would like to ask you in connection with this editorial. It appears as though they are making remarks here in connection with the solicitor for the Sheriff having represented an applicant. I want to ask you if you think those associated with law enforcement should appear as counsel for an applicant before the Pardons Board.

A Well, unless you want to make it a matter of statute, I think we have to take counsel as they come to us.

Unless you want to make it a matter of State law—and I don't know whether this could be done constitutionally or not—that anybody who is in the employ of or an elected official of a municipality, borough, township, or the State could not appear in Pardons Board cases, I don't know what we can do about it.

Frankly, with the exception of Mr. Jones, I don't know the other persons referred to. Mr. Jones did not appear before me.

Q I think they were referring in here to the solicitor for the Sheriff. Certainly the Sheriff is involved as a law enforcement officer and it is the solicitors duty to advise him on matters of that kind.

Now I know that the Pardons Board does not have the right to say to him "because you are affiliated with law enforcement you have no right to appear before us;" but as an ethical practice, do you think it is right for a person in that capacity, in the language of the street, to try to "spring" these men?

A Let me say ethically it leaves something to be desired. At the same time I think you get down to the root of the investigation here and the root of how the Pardons Board was established.

If the people on the Pardons Board do not have the necessary character and integrity, then political influence is going to be brought to bear and undue influence is going to be brought to bear. If the people who sit on the Pardons Board are people of character and integrity, I don't think the people of this Commonwealth have anything to fear at all, regardless of who presents the case.

While we are on that, let me speak about a very revered and respected Member of the Senate who happens to be of Democratic persuation. I think he has been before the Pardons Board on many occasions. I am speaking about Senator Stiefel.

The reason I bring his name into it is because of Mr. Smith. Mr. Smith testified that he saw a lot of politicians hanging around the outer office. When he was asked to name them, he had some difficulty; so he came up with former Sheriff Aus Meehan and Senator Stiefel. It was pointed out to him that Senator Stiefel was an attorney.

For the record here, I would like to say that since I have sat on the Pardons Board I have not seen Sheriff Austin Meehan in the Capitol at all, let alone in the Pardons Board. I have seen him once in Harrisburg and that was in the lobby of the Penn-Harris. So I am quite sure that Sheriff Meehan, at least during my regime up here, has never been in or around the Pardons Board hearings.

Q Mr. Finnegan, the point I am trying to make is this. By this question I have not been trying to attack the integrity of the Pardons Board—

A I know that.

Q I am thinking of these people who are in prison, who might have a false notion that if they hire somebody of a particular political persuasion, they can do them more good than somebody else of another political persuasion, and they are taking their money for the purpose of representing them before the Pardons Board.

A I think it would be greatly to the advantage of all concerned if that could be made pointedly clear to everybody who is attempting to seek a Pardon. How you would do it, I don't know.

Q Did I interrupt your answer there?

A I just merely wanted to point out, on Senator Stiefel, that he has been before the Pardons Board on five occasions, and, as much as I admire and respect Senator Stiefel and I am sure my colleagues on the Pardons Board feel likewise, in all of his cases the pardons have been refused.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q Mr. Finnegan, would you recommend the adoption of legislation that would prohibit from practice in front of the Pardons Board any attorneys or other persons who hold political office, elective or appointive, on a State or local level?

A No I would not. I certainly believe that they have no influence on me. For instance, Members of the Legislature who are only in Session, six months, they have 18 months, if they have a client who wants them to appear before the Pardons Board, as Members of the Bar. I think they should be permitted that.

I do not think they should be permitted to bring any undue influence on us, however, and I must say this for the Members of the Legislature; I know of not one case where any Member of the Legislature who appeared before the Pardons Board has ever attempted to influence at least my decision, and I am sure that is true as to the other Members of the Board.

Q Do you have any recommendation as to legislation to be adopted to prevent bringing any undue influence to bear on the Members of the Pardons Board?

A I don't see how you coud do it, very honestly. Again I go back and say you have to depend on the honor and integrity of the Members of the Board.

There has been some testimony here that we should have a non-political Board. Well, I don't know how you would get a non-political Board. If the Governor makes the appointments, I am sure he is going to make appointments of his own political persuasion. If the Members of the Legislature make the appointments, I am sure that the Members of the Legislature would appoint people of their own political persuasion.

I just don't know how you would get a non-political Board anywhere at all, on any commission or any board. I don't think that is inherently wrong, I might add.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q In relation to this alleged $1000 fees of Councilman Weir, does the Board have any authority to investigate the fees charged by an attorney for a case?

A We do not.

Q Aren't you familiar with the Section which says that you do?

A No I am not. Let me answer that by asking a question. Do you think that is an unusual fee?

Q No, I just wondered if you did. I mean I have no quarrel about it. It depends upon the case.

A It depends on the case. it depends on the talents and ability of the lawyer.

Q I just wondered whether you felt you had any authority to inquire into those things.

A Not to the best of my knowledge.

Q Isn't it a fact that the Board of Pardons has already laid down some rules in regard to the elimination of certain persons who may appear before the Board for applicants if they have been previously connected with the case either as the district attorney or the prosecuting attorney or in any other way?

A Not that I know of.

Q Well, they have, under Sestion 2. Weren't you familiar with that?

A I was not familiar with it.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Section 2 of what?

MR. KOHN. Section 2 of the Board of Pardons Rules.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Of the rules?

MR. KOHN: Yes. What I am trying to show, in regard to some of the questions here, is that the Board of Pardons has already, to a certain extent, eliminated the appearance of certain counsel.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I just wanted it to be shown that it was the rules we are talking about. I was not criticizing. It is not the statute.

MR. KOHN: That is right, it doesn't make sense without that.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Mr. Finnegan, let me ask you one or two other questions. Did you sit on the Devito case?

A Yes I did.

Q Don't you think, in all fairness, that it does give rise to political influence if the case is specially listed when the application had not been filed, and such information gets out into the prisons? I am not condemning it—

A I would think that is true. I don't know how that occurred. That is one of the reasons why I said we needed additional clerical help.

Q I know. I will agree with you.

A On the Devito case, as far as the special listing is concerned, I think it is important for us to keep in mind one thing, because it is the basis on which the special listing was given.

We were told—at least evidence was presented—that this man's family was in dire circumstances. I think facts since then have proven that. Despite the statements that this man was a very successful gambler and a very large gambler, the fact really is that his wife was on relief, that for the last 9 years he has lived in a $35 rented home, and that she is now employed as a part time waitress in a cafeteria at Westinghouse at $25 a week.

Q Well, isn't that unfortunately true of many prisoners? The question I want to ask you is this: Don't you think this sort of thing gives rise to influence on the Board?

A No I do not. Let me answer by saying this. I don't think that you can show me on a first offense, where a small time gambler was given 23 months and fined $1500—

Q I am not arguing about the sentence. I may agree with you.

A I am talking about the facts we have to consider. Actually there was considerable merit in the DeVito case, despite all of the testimony here to the contrary. I think the Board itself would have done a grave injustice to this man had they not commuted his sentence at the time they did.

I am not questioning the exercise of your discretion. What I am asking you is: Don't you think that where such a situation exists, that case could take its turn with other cases? There are many such cases in a penitentiary.

A Special listings are granted in unusual cases. The fact that this man's family was in dire circumstances, I think, was one of the considerations that should be considered.

Q Isn't that a consideration of the case even before the application is filed and before you know the facts?

A Before what?

Q That is giving the case certain consideration even before an application is filed or even before you know what the facts are. Where did you get the facts upon which to act in a case like that?

A Well, I am talking now, of course, as of the date of giving the commutation.

Q Maybe you don't understand my question.

A I understand your point. I don't think I signed that special listing hearing, did I?

Q I don't know. I really don't know. In other words, where you take something out of context that other prisoners are not entitled to, aren't those the sort of things, whether justified or not, which give rise to a great deal of allegation of political influence?

A Mr. Kohn, let me make it clear that other prisoners are entitled to special listings.

Q Do you know of any that got special listings before they filed an application?

A Before they filed an application? No I don't.

Q Then isn't it a peculiar thing, if the allegation was that this family was in such dire need, that the investigation was made within five days when usually the investigations are made in 30 days? Who would direct that the investigation by the Parole Board be made that quickly?

A Well, I think there was a previous report by the Parole Board a few months before that.

Q No, not before the application was filed.

A This was not his first application, if I understood the case correctly. Was it?

Q Yes sir.

A His first application? Well, frankly, I imagine that the Parole Board would be requested to make an investigation immediately and it would be done in that case.

Q There was reference to some Member of the Board having been talked to and that was the reason for the circulation of the petition concerning the special listing.

A I was not a Member of the Board at that time.

Q All right, I did not understand.

If the reasons given for a special listing, that is, even before the application and the facts are in the hands of the Board, were that this woman was in such destitute circumstances that this had to be given special consideration even before the application was filed, and if it was such a metorious case, isn't it peculiar that the Board would turn it down?

A Mr. Kohn, the Members of the Board would not know that. In other words, if a case for special listing is sent out by Mr. Hean, he would say: A special listing is requested in this case. The Members of the Board would assume that an application had been filed.

Q Mr. Hean said that was because the attorney said that she was destitute and in such dire need, and yet, acting on that and giving special consideration—which is not extended to others—the Board turned the application down. It does not make sense, does it?

A Turned what application down?

Q Turned the application of Devito down on the first thing.

A I believe that is right. The only thing I can communicate on it is what I have heard here, because I did not sit on that case.

Q You were on the Board at the time the matter came up the second time and was also again specially listed even before a letter was received, and the same reasons were set forth, that she was destitute and working; and the Board acted exactly contrary to just what it did a few months before, giving as the reasons the fact that his wife was destitute.

A Well, number one, there were two new Members of the Board. Attorney General McBride and I became Members of the Board during that period. You will note that our rehearings in 1955 were about twice as many as they were in 1956. Since we were a new Board, we did grant rehearings in a number of cases that normally would not have been granted.

Q I notice that was the policy of the Board in 1955 when you went on. Now do you think as a matter of public policy that it is a good practice to encourage the filing of applications which have pust been heard maybe six months previous to that just because the makeup of the Board had changed? I am not trying to criticze. I am merely asking your opinionn. Do you think that should be a valid reason?

A There were a number of these cases that were reheard at the request of former Members of the Board. They felt that some injustice had been done the applicant.

Q Are you talking about the one where Gene Smith appeared?

A That is one of them.

Q The Cirello case?

A Yes, that is one of them.

Q In that case, of course, the Board had turned it down.

A That is right.

Q And a Board Member who had been on the previous Board and had voted, appeared before the Board?

A I don't think that is exactly true. I think the Board had commuted the sentence.

Q That is right.

A And Governor Fine refused to sign it. I think that was the set of facts in that case.

Q And the Board Member appeared—

A Well, one of the Board Members said that the action of Governor Fine was arbitrary and unjust and was working a great hardship on this prisoner.

Q Your Board turned it down also, didn't it?

A That is right. I thought we were entitled to find out who was right, whether it was the Board or whether it was the Governor.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Mr. Finnegan, I have just a couple more questions here. This question has not been asked of any Member of the Board yet, and I would like to get some expression of opinion on it. It has been disclosed here that when an application is turned down, there is nothing put in the files as to the reason why it was turned down. Do you find any difficulties in connection with picking up a case at its second or subsequent hearing, by reason of the fact that there is nothing in the file to indicate why it had been rejected the first time or any of the previous times? Do you think that the Board should, for the purpose of the record, put something in the file indicating why the refusal was made?

A Not necessarily. I would say that in 95 per cent of the cases the answer would be that the application is premature. In other words, somebody comes up, he may have a good prison record, he may have an excellent family background. We will say somebody comes up for armed robbery and—what is the sentence? Six to—

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Ten to twenty.

THE WITNESS: He gets 10 to 20, and an application for commutation is presented, we will say in a year or two years. It is obvious that he has not served sufficient time, at least in my opinion. Normally he would have served sufficient time and it would be premature, that is all.

I would say that in 95 per cent of the cases, Mr. Chairman, that is the reason they are turned down: because the application is made prematurely.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I would like to ask one more question. From time to time we see a great deal of editorial uprising in the State regarding the general public in connection with actions of the Pardons Board. What proceses would you define within the Pardons Board as being those processes which are designed to give consideration to the public in case of commutation or pardon?

A Well, the district attorney is always permitted to appear and testify that a certain feeling exists in the community. They very seldom do that. We could have 150 investigators, and you would have to go out and take a Gallup Poll.

I will take my own community, which I know better than any other community in the State, Philadelphia. If you went out without having a prepared list of questions and without being able to give the facts in the case to the person you were querying, I don't think you would get a satisfactory answer.

The average Philadelphian does not know, or knows very little about the facts of a particular case.

If you said, "This man committed murder, he has only been in prison 10 years or 11 years; do you think his sentence should be commuted?" I would say invariably the answer would be "no."

If you gave them all the facts in a case, then I think you might get a more balanced viewpoint on it. But I don't think you could do it by conducting a poll of the community as to what their feelings are, particularly in large urban centers. I just don't think this would be practical.

Q I don't know whether this was brought out or not, but do you perchance know what the percentage of repeat violations is on those who have been commuted?

A No I do not. I don't know whether the Attorney General has any knowledge of that at all.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I am sorry, I did not hear it.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The percentage of repeaters among those who have been commuted or paroled.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We will present that to the Board. I can say definitely now that the percentage of repeaters among persons commuted by the Board is lower than for all other release procedures, and the very lowest of all in the entire category of persons released are life imprisonment releases.

Men released from life imprisonment very rarely—it is almost unknown that they get into trouble. There may be 2 or 3.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Well, you have some data on that, General?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes. There may be actually 2 or 3 in the entire history of the Commonwealth who have again committed murder, after having been released from life imprisonment, but they are the lowest group of all.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: That is all I have.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q I have one additional question. In the Devito case, we have heard testimony this morning about the wife being in such dire financial straits. I am going to ask you the question I asked General McBride yesterday: Why did not the Board remit the fine of $1500?

A I will have to answer the same way he did: It was not requested by Counsel.

Q I have the original application for clemency and I am unable to ascertain from examining that what he was asking for. Could you state what counsel asked for?

A Well, he has a check mark—as you will note here, the 3 recommendations have been scratched out—but beside "commute my maximum sentence" there is a check mark. So I would assume that is what they are asking for.

Q That does not apply to the fine?

A Not necessarily, no.

Q But the Board, of its own motion, could have commuted the fine?

A I suppose we could have.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: That is all.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Isn't it a fact, Mr. Finnegan, that the original application was for a pardon?

A That is right.

Q So the question of his financial strait was not very much of essence in that case so far as the original application?

A There was some confusion in the minds of the Board Members as to whether on a flat sentence a pardon would be the effective way of having him released.

Q That is right, that problem came up. But what I am driving at is: The fact that his wife was or was not in dire financial need or his 18 year old daughter and seventeen year old daughter were not working and they were in dire financial need, did not enter into the picture as far as the original application was concerned because that was for a pardon or a wiping out of his record?

A Well he had no previous record.

Q I mean, wiping out of this record, of course.

A Well, I would hesitate to testify on that since I did not sit on that case.

Q All right. Just one other thing, then. This is a matter of asking your opinion on what you think about these things. It has nothing to do with any particular case. You have been going through some of these files up in the Board of Pardons.

Do you agree that there should be some sort of chronological list set up so that a person can look at it and find out when an application was filed, when it was heard, and what was done with it?

You have gone through the files I think as well as I have. At the present times there is only one way you can correlate anything and that is to sit down and take each piece of paper and put a date on it and try to find out what happened. Do you agree with that?

A That is why I suggest, to improve Pardons Board procedure, that we be given this additional help. As Counsel has stated here, there should be a cardex system which would give what letters were received, what newspaper articles are on file, and so forth. All of the pertinent data in that file should be on a cardex so that anybody going to a card would immediately know exactly what is in the file.

Q The way the system has worked, an application may be filed in December and listed for January, and no action taken on it. You cannot tell. I mean there is nothing marked in the file except that there is no commutation. Then the rehearing is granted and it is stamped again 3 or 4 times after that on rehearings, and you cannot tell what the Board considered at any particular time. Isn't that right?

A I would say you are absolutely right.

Q I am not criticizing—

A I would say you were absolutely right, and I think the procedure that has been used for some years has been obsolete and there ought to be a better method of having easily and readily ascertainable what is in the file.

Q A great deal of work has to be done, because Mr. Hean has to sit down after the Board meets, and write out the commutation paper itself; and then that is passed around and signed, is that correct?

A That is right.

Q Then sometimes those are corrected?

A Yes.

Q After they are corrected they are sent to the Governor and he signs them, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q That procedure has to be done all over again under the present set up, isn't that true?

A That is true.

Q And that takes a great deal of time.

A It does.

Q Each one has to be dated, and the Governor won't sign now, as I understand it, unless they are dated the particular day he is ready for them.

A That is right.

Q That means there is a great deal of time between the time the commutations are prepared, passed around, and then the Governor signs them; and then they have to start that procedure all over again. By that time you have another meeting, isn't that correct?

A That is correct.

Q That would require a great deal more help.

A That is right.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q I believe you had scheduled or the Attorney General had scheduled taking Members of the Pardons Board on visitations to various prisons. Have you made that visit yet?

A No we have not.

Q Do you think while making that visit it might be a good thing to discuss with the wardens of the institutions you visit to sort of spread word among the men that they don't benefit themselves by reason of having a person of any particular political party.

A I think that would be highly desirable.

Q We are not trying to deny them representation, but they have gotten the notion that if there is a Democratic Board and they have a Democrat represent them or if there is a Republican Board and they have a Republican represent them they would get better consideration than they would otherwise.

A I think that would be highly desirable.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q When you said this client went from O'Leary to me, you were not inferring that I would have any political influence?

A No.

Q That was facetious?

A He may have thought that you had political influence with the previous Board.

Q I never appeared before a previous Board.

MR. KOHN: We have nothing further.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: I believe that is all, Mr. Finnegan.

THE WITNESS: Would I be permitted to make one comment on the Mollica case? It has received a great deal of publicity and I think some of the general public are perhaps unaware of the reasons the Members of the Pardons Board used in commuting that sentence. If you recall, they were the 4 lads who went in to hold up a card game and during the course of it one of them returned to the room and another one shot him. They were given life sentences. The sentences of the two accomplices were commuted by the previous Board. On one of them, the Maleno boy, the previous Pardons Board said this was no more than armed robbery and that consequently he had served enough time.

The sentence of the second one was commuted and the reasoning of the previous Board was that this was no more than second-degree murder.

We took that into very serious consideration before we released Mollica. Mollica had then done about 12 years. We are using solely the decisions of the previous Board, of course he was entitled to release after serving more than the second-degree murder sentence minimum.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Do you think it is fair to us the reasoning of a previous Board?

A I think it should be taken into consideration, particularly when there are accomplices.

Q I am not arguing the merits of that. I am just asking you whether you think that.

A Yes indeed.

Q It should be taken into consideration?

A Yes indeed I do. I think it gives you a guide as to the thinking.

Q Actually the previous Board was wrong.

A Well, that is your opinion.

Q Well I mean, that is my opinion, but if you are going to base something on it, shouldn't you have heard that particular case and go into it and discover all the facts? There were two 16 and 17 year old boys.

A It had been the practice of this Pardons Board, while I sat on it, to investigate the commutation of the sentences of accomplices, and I think it is a worthwhile thing to do. I mean, after all, there is such a thing as equal justice.

Q Under the same set of facts?

A That is right.

Q And in this particular case Mollica was the one that wielded the gun.

A That is right.

Q I think he was 23 years old. Mollica had a previous record.

A So did the others.

Q No they didn't.

A Juvenile records.

Q No.

A Well, I disagree with you.

Q Under this particular case the Parole Board said he had a reputation of being a violent individual with no concept of human life.

A I disagree with you, Mr. Kohn. I don't want to say you are doing this deliberately.

Q I am not.

A This was the reputation of the applicant which is taken at the time he enters jail. The prison board reports said that he had conducted himself in a manner befitting his return to society.

Q What I am pointing out to you is that under date of 8-17-55 this same application was denied on the basis of the Parole Board Report. Now we come along just a year later—it had been turned down July 29, 1955—now we come along within a year and the Board changes—

A Well, the prison report changed too, did it not?

Q I think it did. You are right.

A Well, that was the basis. They turned it down because the man at that time, in the opinion of the prison authorities, was not ready to be released. They thought he should do more time.

When the prison report was sent to us and we were judging the merits of the case, they had changed their mind and felt that he was fit to be released to society.

Q What I am getting at is: You say that you allowed him to be released because the previous Board had commuted his accomplices. Now you give a different reason for it.

A No.

Q That is, that he is ready to go out into society.

A Well, that is right. But, I say, you take into consideration also the reasoning of the previous Board, and the reasons given by the previous Board were, in one case, that this was no more than armed robbery, and in the second degree, it was certainly no more than second degree murder.

I think we would be remiss in our duties if we did not take into consideration what happened to the accomplices of people before us for commutation of sentence.

Q Do you think it is a good practice, Mr. Finnegan, for the Pardons Board to deny an attorney, who makes an application, the right of a rehearing—I mean on the record as was denied in this case—I am talking as a practical matter—and isn't it a fact that these are the things that lend themselves to the inference that there might have been something involved, when an attorney who made the application was told that it could not be heard for a year, because a rehearing would not be granted, and then someone else comes along, without the knowledge of the attorney, and obtains the very same thing that the attorney asked for?

A I think that is wrong; but I think this—

Q Well, all right—

A Just a second. Let me explain that. If you are referring to the Mollica case, the attorney did not submit any new evidence.

Q Well, now, neither did Mr. Barrett except after Mr. Hean asked him to submit new evidence.

Did you ask Mr. DiBona to submit any new evidence? (Addressing Mr. Hean.)

He did not. You see, that is the point I am driving at.

A I don't know. When he said that the case was turned down, I think in that answer you will find that the Board will not permit rehearings unless new evidence is presented to the Board warranting those hearings. I think he said that to Mr. DiBona.

Q They told him he could not have a rehearing until a year was up. But then when Mr. Barrett brought a letter in—

A No, wait a minute, now. He said he will not be permitted a hearing for a year unless new evidence is submitted warranting a rehearing. That is the usual—

Q I won't argue the facts. What Mr. Hean said to him was that inasmuch as the application had been heard in November, it could not be heard until November of 1955, I think, and then the attorney was told he could not have a special hearing or anything else. Then Mr. Barrett writes in and Mr. Hean writes back and says—he didn't do this to Mr. DiBona—he writes back and says,

"We can't give you a rehearing on this case until you submit new evidence."

A Actually both of us are wrong. We are arguing about rehearings when it was a special listing.

Q I have not been able to distinguish—

A Well, I think a special listing is never granted within a two month period. In other words we don't grant a special listing—

Q Well, as a practical matter, aren't these things that give rise to the allegation of political influence and things like that?

A They give rise to it but I think they are without foundation when you get into the facts.

MR. KOHN: I have no other question.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: General, do you have any questions.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No I don't think I have any more.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Very well, we will take a recess for one hour for lunch.

(At 12:30 p. m., the hearing was recessed until 1:30 p. m.)

* * * * *

April 4, 1957

COMMITTEE MEMBERS present were:

Chairman Tompkins

Representative Bell

Representative Lopresti

Senator Fleming

Senator Scott

Senator Yosko

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: You may proceed.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, I think it would be of great interest to the committee and all others, if I were to read, for the edification of all of us, Volume 28 of Purdon's, Section 330, and I read it in fairness. It reads as follows:

"No person engaged on, connected with, or employed by any newspaper of general circulation, as defined by the laws of this Commonwealth, or any press association for the purpose of gathering, procuring, compiling, editing or publishing news, shall be required to disclose the source of any information procured or obtained by such person in any legal proceding, trial, or investigation, before any court, Grand Jury, traverse or petit jury, or any officer thereof, before the General Assembly or any committee thereof, before any commission, department or bureau of this Commonwealth, or before any county or municipal body, officer or committee thereof."

It was the Act of June 25, 1937, P. L. 2123, being No. 433, Section 1.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: What was that P. L. number?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: It is Purdon's Statute 28, Section 330.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The P. L. reference to the Act of 1937?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: The Act of 1937 was P. L. 2123. It would be in the second Volume of the Act of 1937.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I appreciate your reading that, but I would like to have it read a little more slowly so that the reporters themselves might understand the extent to which the immunity is granted, so that some day in the future they might not get themselves into a little bit of difficulty over that particular Act of Assembly.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: If you would like to read it—(Offering book)

SENATOR SCOTT: It is pretty far reaching the way I interpreted it.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: I mean the immunity itself, what it is immunity from.

SENATOR SCOTT: What he is immune from.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: That is right.

SENATOR SCOTT: Well, let's hear what he is immune from.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: "No person engaged on, connected with, or employed by any newspaper of general circulation, as defined by the laws of this Commonwealth, or any press association for the purpose of gathering, procuring, compiling, editing or publishing news, shall be required to disclose the source of any information procured or obtained by such person"—

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: So it is the source that he is immune from. The immunity extends only to the source of his information. You may ask him other questions concerning the story or the information he has; for example whether it was by telephone, you might ask him, or whether it was by wire or private conversation.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Or what the information is.

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Or what the information is, but not the source.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: In any event, I thought the committee in fairness would like to have that called to its attention.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Are you finished?

MR. KOHN: We finished with Secretary Finnegan this morning, unless there is any further interrogation the General has of him.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: No I have no further questions.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: All right, shall we proceed?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, I would like to make this statement to the Board. Francis Lord, who was counsel in the DeVito case, has been here on four separate occasions and was prepared to testify, but due to circumstances beyond the committee's control, and ours, he was not heard. He called me the first thing this morning and said the press of legal business in his own county prevented him from being here today.

I would simply like to say to the committee that we would like to have him heard later at such time as is convenient.

MR. KOHN: May Mr. McBride and I come up there and consult with you and Senator Yosko in regard to some other work we have, so that we know how we are going to proceed?

(Discussion off the record)

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Mr. Chairman, I would like to hand up to you copies of the memorandum I told you we had from the Department of Justice containing the copies of the various Constitutions of the States of the United States in connection with the question of executive clemency.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Yes, we are very happy to have them.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Here are six copies.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: A little background: Am I correct that many States copy their Constitutions from Pennsylvania?

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Originally they did. We started in 1776.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Our type of Constitution is pretty well spread throught the United States. I ran into that in other matters.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: But, of course, our new Constitution would not have been copied.

VICTOR H. WRIGHT, Recalled on

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Mr. Wright, will you continue with the cases that you had been reviewing before?

A I have the file of Charles Dilks, No. A-679, February Session 1951. Dilks, in his application, states that he was convicted of burglary, larceny, receiving stolen goods, operating motor vehicle without owner's consent.

In Philadelphia on July 14, 1950 he pleaded guilty, began serving his sentence June 12, 1950, a sentence of 4 to 8 years.

Incidentally, it is an application for commutation of sentence. In the file I find the following letter:

"Furey Ellis
"Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania
"Italian Division
"708 Widener Building
"Philadelphia 7, Pa.
"Rittenhouse 6-4949
"February 9, 1951."

Stamped with a mail receiving stamp "Received February 10, Charles J. Margiotti." The letter is addressed to:

"Hon. Charles J. Margiotti
"720 Grant Building
"Pittsburgh 19, Pa.

"My dear Charlie:

"I am enclosing copy of a letter which I received from my good friend Arthur M. Williams, regarding Charles Dilks, whose case comes up for a pardon on Saturday, February 10. I shall deeply appreciate anything that you can do to help this youngster.

"With warmest personal regards and good wishes, my dear Charlie, I am,

"Yours sincerely,

"Furey Ellis, Chairman."

This is the letter which he enclosed, I presume. It is a copy of it. (Indicating letter)

Q Is that the only correspondence in that file to which you wish to call attention?

A Yes. There is other correspondence from counsel, Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, which appears to have been the original private prosecutor in the case, saying it has no objection; someone offering employment in a bakery.

Q But I am talking about letters that have any possible political connotation.

A That is right; that is the only one.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Do you wish to examine on that case, Mr. Kohn? Or shall we go through some of these speedily?

REPRESENTATIVE LOPRESTI: Mr. McBride, at this point I would like to know whether or not the letter that was enclosed may be read to the committee. Does it contain anything that—

THE WITNESS: It is on the letterhead of Arthur M. Williams, 21 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia 7, Pa., February 7, 1951.

"Mr. Furey Ellis
"Furey Ellis, Inc.
"708 Widner Building
"Philadelphia 7, Pa.

"Dear Furey:

"I am interested in doing all I can to obtain a pardon for Charles Dilks who lived at 1907 S. Iseminger Street, Philadelphia.

"He is only 19 years of age and was caught robbing a coin box telephone with two other boys on June 4, 1950 and later sentenced by Judge Parry on July 14, 1950 to serve a sentence of from four to eight years in the Eastern Penitentiary.

"His employer feels that this lad got involved with bad company and has stated that he is willing and anxious to reinstate him in his former occupation.

"In view of the circumstances, I feel that his punishment has been sufficient.

"Cordially,

"A. M. Williams."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Did you read the commutation, Mr. Wright?

A No.

MR. KOHN: I would like to read part of the commutation into the record, if I may, please.

". . . the Board of Pardons is of the opinion that a person of these years is more apt to be rehabilitated if granted commutation after a mild sentence than by seeking the last ounce of punishment.

"We realize the length of time which he has presently served is not sufficient to impress upon the applicant the need of continued good conduct. We are, therefore, recommending that this applicant serve a minimum of one year, and we are recommending that his minimum sentence be commuted as of June 12, 1951."

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: That is one year out of a minimum of 4.

MR. KOHN: Two.

THE WITNESS: Four. His sentence originally was 4 to 8 years.

MR. KOHN: You are right.

THE WITNESS: I have now the file of James Joseph Nemeth, No. 9072, and originally written on the application was "January Session, 1953." It is scratched through. Above that is "April, 1953." That is scratched through. Above is "October, 1953."

This applicant was charged with armed robbery and burglary, convicted in Beaver County on May 8, 1943; began serving his sentence on April 18, 1943 a sentence of 10 to 20 years and 5 to 10 years concurrent. In this folder I find the following correspondence. There is a letter on the letterhead of Thomas P. Geer, 406 Jones Law Annex, Pittsburgh 19, Pa., House of Representatives, Harrisburg, Pa., dated May 29, 1953 and stamped received by the Board of Pardons June 1, 1953.

"Board of Pardons
"Department of Justice
"Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
"Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
"Attention Joseph Nissley, Secretary
"Re: James Joseph Nemeth
"No. 53 January Sessions

"Dear Mr. Nissley:

"I herewith make application for re-argument of the case of James Joseph Nemeth for the following reasons:

"1. Our first refusal on this petition was based on the prison riots and our case was not actually ever heard.

"2. Our subsequent hearing was a jam-packed Session with an overload of cases resulting from prison riot delays. There were Members of the Board who did not hear one word I said and none of them concentrated on my case.

"3. If there is any reason whatsoever to grant a pardon in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, then James Joseph Nemeth is entitled to a pardon.

"Please notify me whether or not my request for a re-arugment will be granted.

"Very truly yours,

"Thomas P. Geer, Attorney for James Joseph Nemeth."

His application, incidentally, states that Geer is his representative.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q. Now, Geer being a lawyer, is there any reason you know of why that letter was not written on his legal stationery?

A. I would know of none.

Q. It was written on his official stationery?

A. House of Representatives.

If it is all right with the committee, the reply to that letter by Nissley simply states that they will take it under advisement and advise him when they decide.

Q. Did they decide?

A. I will have to go through this group, first, before we can reach that.

Then there is the round robin form which was sent to the Members of the Board asking their opinions as to whether or not the reargument should be granted. There were 3 votes opposed, one vote for.

Then on June 19, Nissley wrote to Mr. Geer and told him that the reargument had been denied.

On August 19, 1953, the same stationery, that is, that of the House of Representatives, Mr. Geer addressed

"Hon. Gene D. Smith
"Capitol Building
"Harrisburg, Pennsylvania
"Re: James Joseph Nemeth

"Dear Mr. Smith:

"You will undoubtedly recall my conversation with you in regards to the above named case. This case originally came up in the aftermath of the prison riots. It was refused in January because of the prison riots and actually was not heard at all. A reargument was held in April and it was a great shock and surprise when I found the case had not been decided in favor of my client. Thereafter, I requested a reargument and was refused on June 19, 1953. In our conversation you stated that you would give me reconsideration for a reargument in the Fall Hearings. That is my request by this letter.

"Yours truly,

"Tom."

With copies to Hon. Robert E. Woodside, Hon. Lloyd Wood. Written in pencil is the word "reargument."

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q. Was Mr. Geer also counsel for the applicant?

A. Yes. He is corresponding with the Board, though, on the letterhead he uses as a Member of the House of Representatives.

The next bit of correspondence, chronologically speaking, is on the letterhead of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of State, Harrisburg, the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

"Mr. Joseph Nissley, Secretary,
"Board of Pardons,
"Harrisburg, Pa.

"Dear Sir:

"I am transmitting herewith letter of August 19th, addressed to me by Thomas P. Geer, who represents James Joseph Nemeth.

"Kindly consider this letter as a request for reargument and prepare round-robin for Board action.

"Cordially yours,

"Gene D. Smith, Secretary of the Commonwealth."

Then there is a letter which I may summarize, with the committee's permission, from Mr. Nissley to Mr. Geer, on August 25, 1953, advising him that the matter is being considered by the Board.

The same date, August 25, there is another round-robin to the committee. In the column headed "Those favoring" reargument, appear four sets of initials; under the column "Those opposing" no initials.

On September 11, 1953 Nissley advised Mr. Geer by letter that reargument has been granted and that the case will be listed for hearing at the October Session.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q. Was the case heard?

A. Yes it was.
Q. Was executive clemency granted?
A. It was.
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Cross-examination.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q. In the granting of the commutation it states "at the present time this applicant has served 10½ years of an 11 year combined minimum sentence," does it not?
A. Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q. The next case.
A. The case of Horace Murray, No. A-291, April Session 1950, petitioning for a pardon.

He was convicted of involuntary manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident, in Beaver County, on November 18, 1949; sentenced to pay costs, fine of $1.00, serve 1 year in Beaver County jail, on one bill; on the other bill, to pay costs, fine of $1.00, serve 1 year in Beaver County jail from expiration of the previous sentence.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q. What was the first sentence?
A. One year; in other words two years total is what he was given.

In this file is a letter on the stationery of the Senate of Pennsylvania, the Forty-second District, Theodore H. Doehla, 3667 Perrysville Avenue, Pittsburgh 14, Pa., dated March 11, 1950.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q. What was that last name?
A. I pronounce it Doehla. It is D-o-e-h-l-a. I think that is Forty-second; it is XLII. My Roman arithmetic is not what it used to be.

"Honorable Members
"Board of Pardons

"My attention has been called in regards to Horace Murray No. 903 of 5 Flocker Way, Pittsburgh, Pa., about his release from the Beaver County jail.

"Reverend Grover Swoyer, who is a personal friend of mine, is very much interested in this man and his family; his son Donald is a member of his church, Trinity Lutheran. From what information I can get I feel if Horace Murray could be released, he would make a good citizen. Also it is my understanding that he has employment waiting for him on his release.

"Any consideration you can give Horace Murray will be appreciated by the writer.

"Sincerely yours,

"Theodore H. Doehla."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q. Do you know what determined why this man was granted a commutation?
A. No. Was that not a pardon he was asking?
Q. I don't know. They say here "recommend commutation after six months." Isn't that correct.
A. Yes.
Q. He probably did ask for a pardon and got a commutation. He applied for a pardon and got a commutation.
A Right. A compromise verdict.
Q Pay the costs.
MR. KOHN: I have no other questions.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q The next case, Mr. Wright.
A. John Joseph McGettigan, No. 9073, December Session, 1954, application for commutation of maximum sentence, from a sentence of 10 to 20 years in Eastern State Penitentiary, for the crime of armed robbery; convicted in Philadelphia, June 9, 1941; commenced serving his sentence on May 27, 1941. In the folder I find a letter as follows:

"Southeast Republican Club
"Forty-third Ward
"1109 West Allegheny Avenue
"Philadelphia, Pa.
"November 2, 1953

"To whom it may concern:

"Mr. John McGettigan has been an acquaintance of mine for the past 3 years and during that time I have come to regard him as a hard working man who is anxious to gain for himself a position of trust and respect in the community.

"He is employed at the present time as a foreman and his employers seem to place great confidence in him in so far as the operation of their business is concerned.

"It is my opinion that he has rehabilitated himself to a degree where he may now be considered an honorable and upstanding citizen, and I am bringing the above to your attention in the hope that you may give favorable consideration to his application for a relief of his parole.

"Respectfully yours,

"Clement J. Ziegler,
"Member, Central Campaign Committee."

Q. Was he given favorable consideration?
A. Yes.
MR. KOHN: Are you finished?
ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Go ahead.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q. "Since this applicant served 10 years and has been on parole 3½ years, we feel he has been sufficiently punished and in view of his good rehabilitation, we recommend that his sentence be commuted"—is that in the commutation recommendation, Mr. Wright?
A. That is correct.

Q. So that he had been out 3½ years and been on good behavior, and what he was asking was a commutation of his maximum, is that correct?
A. Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q. The next case.
A. The case of Donald Nathan Neidig, No. A-1579, September Session 1952, an application to commute my sentence. He was sentenced to 3 to 6 years for the crime of burglary, in Northumberland County, on January 15, 1951; commenced serving sentence December 18, 1950. In the file of this case there are the following letters.

On the letterhead of the Senate of Pennsylvania the Twenty-seventh District, Samuel B. Wolfe, Lewisburg, Pa., July 30, 1952.

"State Pardon Board
"Harrisburg, Penna.

"Gentlemen:

"Mr. Donald N . Neidig, of Sunbury, now serving in the Northumberland County jail, will make application to your Board in September for a pardon.

"I am personally acquainted with the Neidig family, and know them to be an outstanding and upright family, but it seems that Donald got off on the wrong foot, and is quite repentant.

"He served in the World War and holds an honorable discharge, he is the father of two small children, I believe that he has fully paid the penalty for his offense, and for these reasons I am recommending favorable consideration of his petition when it is presented to you.

"Mr. Paul L. Dunigan, a former warden at the jail, informs me that Donald has been a model prisoner, and is sponsoring Donald for this pardon.

"I sincerely trust that you may grant a pardon to Mr. Neidig so that he can return to his family and be of service to them.

"Thanking you, and with kind regards

"Very sincerely,

"Samuel B. Wolfe."

Q. Did that turn out to his expectation?
A. Yes.

Now there are three letters also, each on the stationery of the Office of County Commissioners of Northumberland County, Sunbury, Pennsylvania—Doctor George A. Deitrick, John U. Shroyer, George F. Perles, the Commissioners and Clerks listed on the other side. The three letters are of virtually identical content, if not exactly the same, each from George F. Perles, John U. Shroyer, and Doctor George A. Deitrick.

They read as follows:

"Mr. Joseph Nissley
"Secretary of the Board of Pardons
"Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

"Gentlemen":—as a matter of fact, while I am reading this one, if you want to check the others, so that we won't have to read all three.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Let's not read them if the letters are the same. It will make too big a record here.

THE WITNESS: "Gentlemen: I am writing this letter in behalf of Donald Nathan Neidig of Sunbury, Pennsylvania, who is at present a prisoner of Northumberland County prison.

"I have had an opportunity to observe Neidig's conduct since the beginning of January 1952. He has acted as assistant janitor in the courthouse building of Northumberland County.

"He is a willing worker and cheerfully complies with orders given to him. I have found that he performs his duties in a very thorough manner.

"I believe that he sincerely regrets his misdeed and is now ready to take his place in society. I recommend that he be released as soon as it may be possible.

"Very truly yours,

"Doctor George A. Deitrick."

MR. KOHN: They are correct, the three of them from the three County Commissioners named in Northumberland County.

THE WITNESS: Right.

MR. KOHN: Very likely they were dictated by the same person.

THE WITNESS: Probably. The next case is that of John Kaminsky, No. A-1863, June Session 1954, applying for a pardon for the crime of setting up an illegal lottery. Apparently there were two bills. On one he was fined $50; on the other he received a suspended sentence. This occurred in Philadelphia.

He was sentenced on—well, I can't quite tell—apparently on one of them, November 15, 1954 and on the other one, June 20, 1951. The pardon was granted.

In the folder appears a piece of paper with this penciled note on it:

"Note, calendar, Tuesday, April 21, '53. Hold for Dave Walker. Refused in May '53, approved June 1954."

BY SENATOR FLEMING:

Q. Is that note signed, sir?
A No it is just a penciled note.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q Do you know in whose handwriting it is?
A No I don't. It was in the folder when the folder was withdrawn from the files.
Q Who was the Secretary of the Board at the time of that case?
A It would have been Mr. Nissley.

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Is it a man's handwriting or a woman's?
A I am not a handwriting analyist.
Q This was for pardon, was it not, Mr. Wright?
A Yes.

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE:

Q And who was Mr. Walker?
A I have been informed that he was Secretary of Labor and Industry at that time.

SENATOR FLEMING: Wait, Mr. Chairman—well, I guess it is all right to go in—but there is nothing there to say it is the Secretary, is there?

THE WITNESS: Here is the whole thing right here.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: We thought perhaps the committee might want to call the former Secretary to explain how it got in there.

MR. KOHN: You can call him. It is your case.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I have no objection to calling him. The Secretary of the present Board was called to explain such matters. I thought perhaps you would want to call the Secretary.

MR. KOHN: It is your case. I will have him here. You can ask him.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I will be delighted to ask him. If there is a proper explanation, all right. I would welcome bringing it out. I have no purpose of insinuating that there was anything wrong about Mr. Walker or Mr. Nissley.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: Mr. Nissley will be before this committee next week or when we reach certain cases that Senator Yosko is interested in. So, if you care to inquire of Mr. Nissley at that time—

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: In the meantime, Mr. Chairman, I don't think any of us want meanings imputed to a note like this that are not on its face. As far as Mr. Walker, there are probably a lot of Walkers in Harrisburg.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: I think I have said almost as many times as I possibly could: I am not suggesting that there was anything wrong with the Republican Board of Pardons because they have letters in their files from Republican politicians or anything like that.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: The point at issue here is that the man's name is included in a note, the note is not signed, and to imply that because the then Secretary of Labor and Industry's name happened to be Walker, that this note was referring to him, I thing is unfair.

SENATOR FLEMING: That was my point, Mr. Chairman. Where they came on letterheads, there is no question they are proper and should be in.

For instance, I know a Dave Walker back home who had a political job. This could just as easily be that Dave Walker as it could be the Dave Walker who served as the Secretary of Labor down here.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Senator, I could not possibly agree with you more, and that is why I say undoubtedly the committee will want to hear from Mr. Nissley as to which Dave Walker it was.

SENATOR FLEMING: Where it is not on a letterhead and is not signed by somebody, any note might be placed in there. I am not intimating it was placed in, I will only go this far, to say it definitely could have been another Dave Walker.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Can I join you in saying precisely that? That is why I say all of us should withhold any judgment until we find out who it was, who wrote the note. But there it is in the record.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q Mr. Wright, did you positively say that it was the David Walker who was the Secretary of Labor and Industry?

A Oh, I wouldn't know.

MR. KOHN: What would be the inference in asking him such a question?

SENATOR YOSKO: I don't know, but I am trying to find out—

MR. KOHN: He did not positively say that—

SENATOR YOSKO: —how the identification came out here. How did it come out?

THE WITNESS: I was asked who Dave Walker was.

BY SENATOR YOSKO:

Q What was your answer?

A I replied that I had been informed that there was one David Walker who at the time in question—

Q What I am saying is that you did not positively say that it was he?

A There would be no way.

Q You only told us what you were informed?

A Right.

BY CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS:

Q Who informed you?

A I don't know. Someone said to me, someone with whom I have been working, "That must have been Dave Walker, the Secretary of Labor."

BY MR. KOHN:

Q Who was that person?

A I don't remember. I can't honestly tell you.

BY REPRESENTATIVE BELL:

Q What was the year of this matter?

A The year of the application is June 1954.

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: Mr. Chairman, I happen to have a Pennsylvania Manual for '54 in my possession and listed in the index are one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve Walkers.

CHAIRMAN TOMPKINS: How many Dave Walkers?

REPRESENTATIVE BELL: The note did not refer to a Dave Walker.

ATTORNEY GENERAL McBRIDE: Yes it does.
